Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

Well, Happy New Year!
k-k
Just a moment, please, before you decide we've gone completely off our rocker. We know it isn't January 1 — even the weather convinces us of that — but it is "Happy New Year" for this publication.

k-k
You see, we rang up "Vol. 52, No. 52" last week, which means the Munday Times has completed another year of publication, making 52 in all, and this week we're starting out with a brand new year — the 53rd year of publication — which comes just ahead of the editor's own birthday, which is next Saturday, and our 53rd.

k-k
That's a long time, but in a way it doesn't seem long — not even the almost 19 years which the editor has put in getting this sheet to its readers every week. During these many years, The Times has recorded many events taking place in this county, births, deaths, happy occasions, sorrowful ones, marriages and tragedies.

k-k
A pleasant experience to us is the fact that many people look forward to this paper's visit to their homes each week. We appreciate each subscriber, and even those who do not subscribe but who come in each week for their copy. Let us be a little bit late getting to press, and these weekly callers are coming in after their paper before we have it ready.

k-k
So we enter the new year with a renewed pledge to keep on trying in our feeble way to give the people of this area the best newspaper possible — one that will be a credit to the community and will merit the patronage of our advertisers and subscribers. We just ask that you continue with the fine cooperation you've given us in the past.

k-k
We know of no better way of pointing out the importance of a small town newspaper than the words of our friend, T. B. Klepper, publisher of the Foard County News at Crowell, who said on the observance of sixty-sixth birthday of his paper:

k-k
"There never has been a time when the town and county did not need a weekly paper, and the need today is as great or greater than at any time in the past. A town without a newspaper is in a desperate situation, and most people don't realize it sometimes until it is too late. Business institutions benefit from the weekly editions of a newspaper whether they use it to advertise their merchandise or not."

k-k
"People render a great help to the printing of a 'newsy' paper by reporting news items to this office or giving them to one of the five excellent rural correspondents who send them in regularly each week."

k-k
The Travis Lees were in Wichita Falls last Sunday night to meet Jimmy when he returned from the Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge. "You should have seen the boxes of things those boys brought home, including a baby alligator," Travis said Monday morning. When asked what Jimmy brought back, he said: "Nothing alive, thank goodness!"

k-k
An interesting feature of Jimmy's trip was the fact that he took along a fine specimen of a cow's head — the skull, horns and all — to do some bartering with. After being on the scene for a while Jimmy wrote his parents the cow's head was so pretty he decided to keep it for himself, so he shipped it back home. We guess it will be the only cow's skull to make the trip to the Jamboree and back home and will ever be an interesting memento of the trip, in that Jimmy didn't find anything in the swapping arena he'd rather have.

k-k
Crickets are invading the town again, and merchants are fighting them with poison and brooms to keep them out of their stores. "They sure do eat the merchandise," one merchant said to us Wednesday amidst his sweeping activities.

Speed doesn't shorten the road . . . it shortens your life!

Cotton Farmers To Hear Discussion On Cotton's Future In Meeting Here

All farmers who are concerned about cotton markets and acreage allotment prospects in the area embraced by Knox, Haskell and Baylor Counties are urged to attend a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, August 13, in the Munday school gym at which problems of the cotton industry will be discussed. Representatives of the National Cotton Council will be present to present the cotton farmers' problems with the aid of picture slides and talks.

John W. Gregg, of the National Cotton Council, met with some 25 people at the city hall in Munday last Tuesday morning and explained briefly the purpose of this meeting in explaining a greater domestic use of cotton and an expanded program of research, marketing and development.

L. B. Patterson of Munday was elected chairman of the forthcoming meeting, and cotton ginners, county agents, bankers and others of the three-county area are to serve on the committee to urge all farmers to attend the meeting August 13.

Some 45 meetings of this type have been held throughout the cotton producing areas, with large attendance at all of them. It was pointed out that U. S. cotton markets could shrink to 8 million bales in the next few years, and this would mean a 40 to 50 per cent acreage reduction on cotton farms.

"We know, however," it was stated, "that if we can improve cotton's competitive situation, we could have an increase to a 20 million bale market in the same period of time, and this would mean a substantial increase in allotments to farmers."

All farmers of the three-county area are urged to attend this important meeting.

Cucumber Crop Being Harvested

Harvesting of cucumbers in the Munday area was reported in full swing early this week.

The processing machinery has been moved to the co-op vegetable shed, since the potato harvest is completed. The quality of cucumbers produced locally is good, according to reports, with No. 1 cucumbers bringing $7 per 100. Pickers get 40 per cent of the gross price for gathering, it was reported.

H. H. Partridge, president of the Munday Vegetable Growers Cooperative, announced Tuesday that farmers are in the process of organizing from 300 to 500 acres to be grown in cucumbers in 1958 for the Dalton Pickle Co. Farmers whose cucumbers are being harvested this week are B. E. Smith, James Smith and William Browning, who have 20 acres; Truman Winchester, Charles Reed, Lonnie Offutt and Chalmer Hobert.

"Cucumbers will likely net the farmer from $150 to $300 per acre, depending on the grower," Partridge said.

Partridge has called a meeting of farmers for 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 30, at the co-op shed for the purpose of planning the fall vegetable crop. All interested farmers are urged to attend.

Raymond Shelton of Goree lost his wrist watch while plowing in a field for E. M. McSwain in 1955, and Mr. McSwain found the watch along the first of July this year while working in the field.

Mr. Shelton has been showing the watch, which he is very proud to have in his possession again.

During the first six months of 1957, the citizens of Knox County invested $133,635 in Series E and H Savings Bonds. Of this amount $16,794 was purchased during the month of June. This report was made today by W. E. Braly, Chairman of the Knox County Savings Bonds Committee. The county has reached 43.4 per cent of its 1957 quota.

Sales in Texas during the first half of 1957 were $85,566,685 or 44.3 per cent of the 1957 goal of $193,100,000. June sales in Texas were $12,988,481.

"I would like to remind the people of Knox County that there is no safer investment in the world today. Both the principal and interest of U. S. Savings Bonds are fully guaranteed by the full faith and credit of our government. Savings Bonds now earn higher interest and mature sooner. Remember, our slogan for 1957 . . . Part of every American's savings belong in U. S. Savings Bonds" Chairman Braly concluded.

Yanks Leading In Little League

The Yanks are leading in the Little League games thus far this season, having five wins to their credit, with no losses.

The Cardinals have been handicapped because their most important pitcher, Ramon Silva, being declared ineligible because of age, and another Card player, Larry Thompson, suffered a broken toe — not in the games — but in swimming. The Cardinals have won two and lost two games.

The Red Sox, although they have not won a game, have made wonderful showings in each game, holding their opponents to not more than four runs in each game. Their big handicap for the last four games was the loss of their ace pitcher, Ricky Couch, who is on vacation. He will strengthen their team when he returns to duty next week, and the Sox will likely be contenders for the pennant by the season's (Continued on last page)

SHARP CONTRAST

It is widely believed that just about all farmers and farm organizations are enthusiastically in favor of high, fixed price-supports. However, that's no longer the case. More and more farmers and authoritative farm spokesmen recognize the urgent need for less dependency by agriculture on government.

A few months ago president Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau federation said in a speech: "Today the effects of price-fixing in the government-supported crops such as cotton, wheat, rice, and corn furnish a sharp contrast with the free livestock market. In January 1956, the average farm price on hogs was $10.90 per hundred. Farmers cut hog production 6 per cent in 1956. As a result, the farm price of hogs was up to $17.30 per hundred in January 1957, or 58.7 per cent higher than the same month a year earlier. The hog market, free of the price-fixing influence of a government program, was able to make an adjustment and clean the market."

Since Mr. Shuman spoke, livestock prices have held to levels that are favorable to the producer . . . and, at the same time, these levels make possible retail prices for meat that are attractive to consumers. In other words, prices have been fair to all. And these prices are established, not by fallible human beings, but by the natural law of supply and demand, working in a free and open market.

GREAT FALLS, MONT., LEADER: "Though they have a good deal more real income, higher living standards and are rated larger in frame and stature. Americans today consume just about the same amount of food per person per year as people did around 1900. The content of our diet, however, has changed greatly in that time . . . Today Americans eat considerably more beef, eggs, vegetables, citrus fruits and milk. This diet is . . . more suitable for body needs . . ."

A MORTGAGE ON THE FUTURE

Senator Byrd, in pointing out that the proposed federal budget is the largest in the nation's peace time history, said, ". . . it mortgages, so to speak, the future prosperity of the country . . . This budget continues entrenched spending and opens up new federal programs . . . I would be unfaithful to my own conscience . . . if I did not denounce this budget as one of the most dangerous and one of the most perilous budgets that has ever been presented to us . . ."

ARE WE ON OUR WAY?

A lot of complaisant individuals in the U. S. were set on their ears recently when a top Russian official in a TV interview said our grandchildren would enjoy the blessings of socialism.

Instead of the Russians bringing us state socialism (communism) it will come from within our own country, if it comes. We have already accepted the forerunners of the socialist state . . . government in many lines of business. Elected public officials are seeking to extend its field of activity. They attack our capitalistic system (private enterprise) and promise the people their God-given rights under non-profit government enterprise. A lot of people fall for that baloney and cast another vote for the promoters of socialism.

Our farmers would reject the idea of operating under Russian socialised farm methods, and yet they have accepted and voted for policies that put them under the dictation of government for much of their planting and revenue. Try to raise one of the "subsidized" farm crops without complying with the quota allowed you, even if you want no subsidy, and see what happens to you.

And the same applies to other lines of business where government competes . . . free enterprise is no longer free.

It is not too late to heed the Russian forecast.

FORT MILLS, S. C., TIMES: "A beloved college professor who taught Latin and Greek and who left upon the hearts of his students an impression for good that they will always cherish, said once that he had seen education pass through four distinctive states: (1) Books; (2) Books and Ball; (3) Ball and Books; (4) Ball."

LOGANSPORT, LA., INTERSTATE PRESS: "By the late 30's, practically all Louisiana's original forests were gone, and as a forest products state, Louisiana was written off the books. But the American way of life was in full play. The lumber industry, supplemented by its rapidly growing companion, the paper industry, Forestry Commission, the U. S. Forest Service, private companies started the long trail back . . . As a result of all this forestry activity . . . The forest were in 1954 growing twice as fast as they were being used!"

MODERN HOMEMAKING

Recipes . . . Household Helps

By Julia Hunter

HOME ECONOMICS DIRECTOR, LONE STAR GAS CO.

It's fun to serve your very own home-canned pickles and relishes now and then. The praise you receive will make them worth every bit of your effort.

For success in pickling, use the ingredients called for in the recipes, measure accurately, follow directions and store pickles in a cool dark place.

Use a good, clear standard vinegar, one with 4 to 6 per cent acetic acid. The label will tell you. Whole spices are best for most cooked pickles, for whole spices keep flavor longer. Tie them in a square of thin white cloth and make the cloth large enough to allow room for juices to circulate through the bag and draw out flavor. Spices packed in jars with pickles will turn them dark.

If dill pickles bubble and break jar seals, don't throw them out. Bubbling is a sign of fermentation, a necessary process for dill pickles. It may continue for several weeks. When fermentation has stopped, possibly four to five weeks after packing, wipe the jars clean and screw the lids down tightly.

To make dill pickles, wash cucumbers and pack them into jars. Add one head of fresh dill or two teaspoons dill seed to each pint. Combine ½-cup salt, 2 cups vinegar and 6 cups water. Bring this mixture to a boiling point over a full gas flame. Pour it over the cucumbers and seal at once. Makes enough brine for approximately 12 pints. Green tomatoes, carrots, green beans, cauliflower and celery may be dilled by this same recipe. If desired, add one pod of red pepper and a clove of garlic to each jar.

Pickled okra gives a nice variety to a pickle dish and is quite a conversation piece. So easy to make, too. Just pack well-scrubbed okra into pint jars. Do not cut off stem ends. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 clove of garlic to each pint. Heat vinegar to boiling over a full gas flame, then pour the boiling vinegar over the okra. Seal at once. Okra will be ready for serving in about three weeks, but store in the refrigerator for at least three days before serving. The chilling makes it crisp.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

The element of risk is an occupational hazard of farming. And there are two types — financial and physical. Vast armies of statisticians and farm economic experts have worked for years to lessen the effects of the first type. But reduction of the physical risk is largely up to the individual farmer. National Farm Safety Week is being observed between July 21 and 27th. It is resigned to focus attention on and help reduce the tragic toll of agricultural accidents. If 1957 hold true to the average, then some 15,000 U. S. farm residents will die of farm mishaps. Another 1,300,000 persons will be injured. And many of these accidents could have been avoided.

Most mishaps occur during peak work seasons when hired help is apt to be short, causing the farmer to work longer hours and become tired long before the job is done. As a result, he is tempted to take risky short cuts or postpone needed repairs on machinery and buildings. This sets the stage for crippling accidents. Farm machinery is a big killer. Careless handling of equipment causes many accidents but even a careful operator may be hurt if he is running broken or worn machines. A good maintenance program for machinery could do much to keep down farm tragedies.

Farm animals are another common cause of injuries and death. Some accidents with animals are unavoidable. Still, many result from impatience on the farmer's part or an underestimation of the animal's dangerous traits. Fires take an annual toll of about 3,500 persons — not counting the millions of dollars lost in valuable food, domestic animals, clothing, buildings and equipment. These fires occur at the rate of 300 per day and most can be traced to defective heating units, overloaded electrical wires, lack of protection from lightning, etc. Even discounting home fires, another 4,000 farm people die each year from accidents which rob families of their livelihood.

When I went to Eastland in 1921 to edit the daily paper, a popular place was the dining room of the Charlotte Hotel. The tables seated four or more and so soon the new editor became acquainted with quite a few of the regular patrons.

One of these was a young man who worked in the offices of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company. He was a lively, genial chap who had served overseas in the World War. He would work a few French words into his conversation. He did not know enough words to form a complete sentence so he would finish in English, "Passez-moi le salt" and similar utterances.

He had the delusion that he was a brilliant linguist, a delusion which harmed no one; in fact, the rest of us were amused although we took care not to let him see us smile. That is everyone was amused — except one lady. She and her husband had listened to the French phrases every noon for five or six days and then one day when he had addressed her, "Passez-moi the turnip greens, madame," she launched into a flood of French. She must have said 200 words without pausing for breath. We could tell by the tone that she had closed with a question and then she awaited his reply.

The poor fellow, at first, had looked amazed; then the torrent face became blank. Now, he sat there, dismayed, pink of countenance, his mouth opening and closing like a grasping fish, no sound coming forth.

He finished the meal in silence. He was never heard to use a French word again. In fact, he was so subdued that he did not seem to be the same man. Soon after that, he got a transfer to another town.

A Gallup poll a while back disclosed that six out of ten adults in the United States had not read a single book, except the Bible, in the previous 12 months. Almost makes you wonder if all the trouble that we go to in order to read and write is worthwhile, doesn't it?

There are some expressions that writers ought to quit using. One is "It's as plain as a pike-staff." How long has it been since any member of the audience has seen a pike-staff — even a second-hand one?

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Here's How State Divides Estates When There Is No Will: The death of an intestate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate. In the preceding column we investigated the manner of dividing the community estate upon the death of a husband or wife. Now we shall see that, where separate property is involved, a completely different set of rules applies in determining heirship and apportioning the estate among the rightful claimants.

It may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

The rule for distributing personal property — cash, stocks, bonds, furniture, or any other items not constituting real estate — is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third, and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. In this case the surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the survivor obtains full title to one-half, and the other half is divided between your mother and father, if both survive you. If only one of them survives, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive. If there are no surviving brothers and sisters and their descendants, then the one surviving parent inherits the full one-half.

Where no parents survive, but there are brothers and sisters and descendants, the full one-half is divided among these survivors.

And, if there are no parents or brothers and sisters (and their descendants) surviving, then the surviving husband or wife inherits all of the real estate.

(This column, based on Federal law and prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

It seems that several thousand North Texans failed to furnish Uncle Sam their correct address for a refund on their 1956 income taxes. Some of these folks are probably disturbed about Uncle Sam not sending them a check, but the Internal Revenue Service has these checks with bad addresses waiting for the owners to send along the correct address.

If a taxpayer hasn't heard from his 1956 income tax refund and hasn't been informed that a pre-refund audit will be made, he should write the full story giving the address used on his tax form and his present address to the Internal Revenue Service, 2101 Pacific Avenue, Dallas, Texas.

Wardens Complete Antelope Count In Panhandle Area

AUSTIN—The total count of antelope in the Panhandle area of Texas this year showed a decrease over a similar count last year, but more bucks are present, according to the Director of Law Enforcement of the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

The count was made by Pilot Warden Frank Hamer, Jr. and biologist Bob Van Cleave. They flew 57 hours in making the check, and counted 1,564 antelope. On a similar count last year Hamer checked 1,822.

This showed a decrease of 299, with 205 antelope killed on the Panhandle hunt in 1956.

"In 1956 there were 563 bucks counted in this area," Hamer said. "There were 205 taken on the hunt, leaving 358. This year there were 419 adult buck antelope counted, giving a gain of 61 bucks since October 1956."

The count showed 838 does and 307 fawns, all in good condition. Hamer believed many of the Texas antelope might have been driven across the line into New Mexico by recent aerial spraying for grasshoppers just prior to the count.

Prospects for a limited hunt this fall are promising at this time.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Hoile, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—"School days, school days, all around the state," may stray somewhat from the original song, but it means that come September, around 263,000 little Texans will be going off to school for the first time.

Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Texas State Department of Health is girding itself for the annual last minute onslaught of thousands of requests for birth certificate photostats.

It seems that each year the situation repeats itself. Most school districts require proof of birth in the form of a birth certificate or photostat for students entering school for the first time in the first grade.

Harried mothers all too often forget about this requirement until middle August. By then the Bureau of Vital Statistics is flooded with thousands of similar requests for photostat copies resulting in a delay in the receiving of the copy for two weeks or more.

In efforts to speed up the process, the bureau each year hired extra help and works overtime, in addition to using certain speed-up techniques to aid in the location of the original certificates kept on permanent file at the Department of Health.

Most of the requests will be for six-year-old children. Knowing this, vital statistics personnel arrange the record books containing the 217,470 certificates of birth for the year 1951 and part of the "stacks" for 1950 so that access will be easier and quicker.

The removal and replacement of the certificates for photostating is done at the "stacks" by the extra personnel instead of at the photostat machine by the technicians in the usual manner.

In this way a staggering pile-up of record books is avoided and the issuance of birth certificate photostats is greatly speeded.

State Registrar Don Carrol asks that requests for photostat copies be made as soon as possible to avoid the rush. Contact your local health department or send the request to the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Health Department, Austin, Texas.

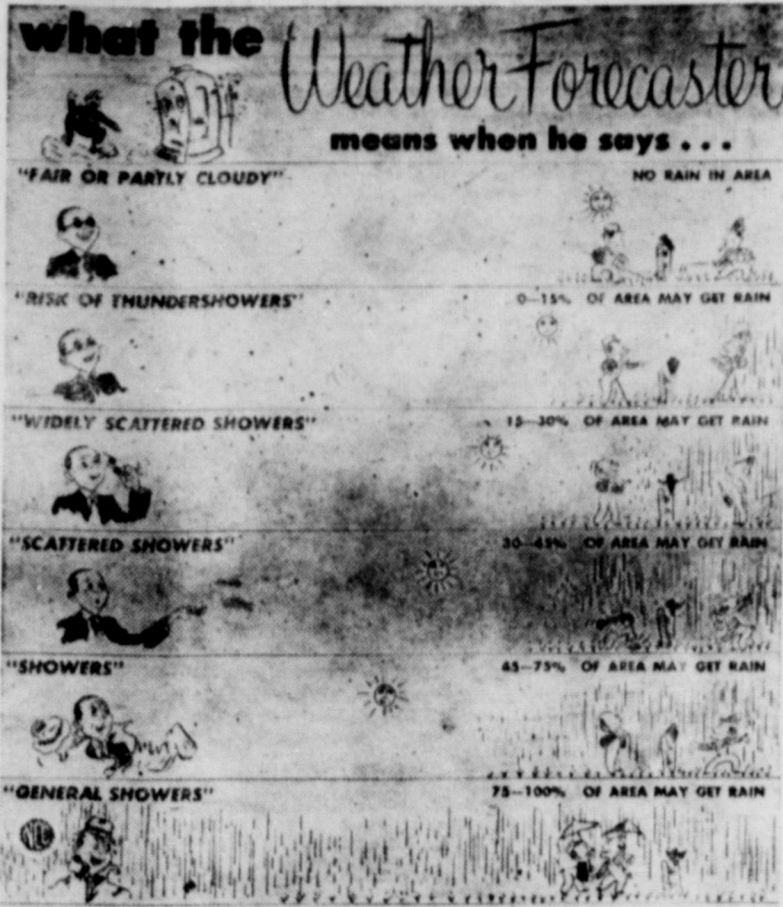

Be certain to include the child's name, name of both parents, and the date and place of birth. Enclose one dollar ($1.00) with your request. Cash is requested.

Write tonight to be sure to get your photostat on time.

News From The U. S. Congress

The "civil rights" debate continues in the Senate with no sign of an early end. The adjournment of Congress is keyed to when the "civil rights" question is disposed of. All indications are now that it will be impossible for Congress to adjourn before the 15th of August. There seems now to be a reasonably good chance that amendments will be adopted to the "civil rights" bill which strikes some of its most punitive features and to assure a trial by jury.

The so-called Federal aid-to-education bill is slated for early consideration in the House. This will institute an expensive program of Federal aid to schools. It seems to me that the schools can be financed and controlled best at the local level and that the school boards and the State Board of Education can do a better job of operating the schools than can some Federal bureau in Washington.

Recent announcements by the Administration that all departments of the Government are being directed to hold expenditures to or below the levels of last year is an encouraging announcement, for even though appropriations are reduced in Congress, it is sometimes a year or two before the economies are really felt. The only way that we can have effective and immediate economy is for the Executive to require that spending be reduced immediately. If the program instituted by the Administration is carried out as announced, it could mean the saving of an additional two or three billion dollars during this fiscal year.

This week death claimed a man who thirty-five years ago was known to practically everyone in America, James M. Cox, of Ohio, who was the Democratic Nominee for President in 1920. Mr. Cox had had a colorful and distinguished career in public service, and even though his campaign for the Presidency in 1920 did not make sufficient popular appeal to the American people to assure his election, he left his mark on American political life and will long be remembered.

It is expected that sometime this week the President's Cabinet Committee will act to provide some control of crude oil imports. This action is necessary in order for the domestic independent oil producer to stay in business.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Tries To Raise The Price Of Eggs Because The Price Of Steel Always Goes Up

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek may be a little mixed up this week, but that's his lookout, not ours.

Dear editor:
The trouble with inflation is that not enough people understand it fully enough.

I had noticed in a copy of a newspaper which a neighbor of mine brought me a mess of fish in — for your information it wasn't a copy of your paper, as this one had a fishy smell — that the price of steel had recently gone up $8 a ton, which clearly indicated the steel industry has let its newspaper subscription expire, as President Eisenhower only the day before had asked business to hold prices down voluntarily, and as a result a lot of other things were automatically going up.

For example, naturally the watch manufacturers, on hearing the price of steel had gone up, will figure they ought to go up on the price of watches, even if it doesn't weigh over an ounce. Plow points, tractors, cars, pickups, naturally will require an increase in price, to offset the rise in the price of steel, and so I decided what was good for industry was good for me. Consequently, when I took a dozen eggs into town yesterday to sell, I told the store I'd have to have five cents more.

"How come?" the store owner asked.

"Don't you read your newspaper? It's on account of the increase in the price of steel," I explained.

Now here's the rub. Instead of nodding his head in agreement and saying there didn't seem to be any way around it, he just laughed. You could see he didn't have any full understanding of inflation and the upward price spiral.

"Don't believe I'd be interested," he said.

"But my costs are going up and I've got to have more money for these eggs."

"Don't believe I'd be interested," he said, and turned around to wait on another customer.

Now I could have out-waited him, but from long experience I knew the eggs couldn't, so I sold them at his price and came on home.

It's the people who don't understand inflation that's causing this country so much trouble. I don't mind paying $8 a ton more for steel if somebody will recognize I ought to get more for eggs. There are more people than you weeks.

realize who are out of tune with me and my hens.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.
