Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

That bunch of Oklahoma fans wilted like a tender flower in the summer sun.

It was wilting weather, however, and we did our portion of it as we sat on the sunny side of the fence for a portion of the game but that wasn't exactly what caused the Okies to wither away. It was the Longhorns!

Statistics reported that a total of 75,504 persons attended the Texas-Oklahoma game in the Cotton Bowl last Saturday. That made 75,500 besides our party. Even though the game was a complete sell-out, somebody didn't show up — maybe because of the celebration the night before.

As we quickly dampened our handkerchief by mopping the perspiration away, Ida Jungman spied an empty seat under the upper deck and hid off to it. We were seated just south of this canopy and exposed to the 80, some-odd degree weather and beaming sun.

Soon, she signaled for the Mrs. to join her. Eventually we spied them holding up two fingers, and the menfolks joined the wives in the shade. We thought the best of those seats could do was to shoo us away if they showed up. They didn't.

We were right in the midst of the Oklahoma fans, but soon after the game started they were the least noisy of any bunch to be at the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns were handing them their first shutout since 1944.

The Sooner rally really started when their team drove to a first down on Texas' 3-yard line, but there came that disappointing fumble and Texas recovered. Then the fans wilted!

We couldn't help a little disappointment, too. We always enjoy a game more when the score is closer, but we weren't complaining because Texas was on the top end of the score.

We were present years ago when Oklahoma won for the first time in seven years; again when Texas won for the first time in an equal period, and they almost tore up the Cotton Bowl. This year, they announced that the steel goalposts had been erected again and they repeatedly requested that everyone stay off the field when the game was over.

The posts remained intact — plenty of policemen were there to see to that. But Oklahoma fans had no cause for celebration after that 24-0 defeat, and the Longhorn Band went on the field and played for some time, we supposed to help keep down destructive celebration.

For the first time, we saw Oklahoma short on power and reserve strength. They either didn't have much line, or Texas' line was so strong as to show them up. Coach Darrell Royal had his benches full, and he used most of them. It seemed that Texas had an almost fresh team when the game was over. Royal's first team line played 20 minutes as a unit, the second team 21, and the third 19.

We saw some more of the fair, too, but one is not about to see all of it in the 12 hours we spent on the grounds, nor in several trips to the fair.

If you're inclined to like musicals, the "Flower Drum Song" is most enjoyable. It's one New York production that we didn't sleep halfway through. It's a fast moving musical with good songs and good voices and minus a lot of that low brow comedy.

We had to step out in the "tall cotton" while there. One meal at the Cattlemen's Steak House sort of highlighted our stay in Big D, and if you want to be separated from your chips in a hurry, try the Empire Room at the Statler-Hilton, where Maxie Rosenbloom is holding his show.

Anyway, an old country boy feels sort of refreshed, and may be fleeced, after a week end jaunt to the big city. Sort of makes the simple life more enjoyable, too!

Benjamin Franklin once said, "Doing an injury puts you below your enemy; revenging one makes you even with him; forgiving one sets you above him."

Near Collision With Train and Holdup Men Create Excitement For Munday Man

It wasn't enough to almost collide with a moving freight train to get E. W. Harrell's nerves on edge last Monday night, but his experience with two hold-up men added to the list.

Returning home from a visit with his son, Gene Harrell, and family in Portales, N. M., Mr. Harrell saw a warning signal at a railway crossing at Idalou almost too late. He applied his brakes and brought his car to a stop just as the freight cars were scraping the front bumper and right front fender as they passed.

During the stop at the scene of the accident, two Negro men approached Mr. Harrell with the statement that they would stay with him and "we'll sue the railroad for plenty of money." He assured them he was at fault, and there would be no suit.

When the investigation ended, Mr. Harrell continued his homeward journey. After traveling about a mile, he noticed a car approaching from the rear with a red blinker going. Thinking it was a highway patrol car, he stopped and was accosted by the same two Negroes, who demanded money for helping him out.

One of the Negroes pasted him

a blow in the mouth, they took his billfold with what money he had and valuable papers, the key to his car and left him. Fortunately, Mr. Harrell had the extra car keys on his person, so he continued his homeward journey, happy to be alive.

The incident was reported to officers Tuesday morning, and efforts got underway toward apprehending the Negro men.

He Was After This One A Long Time!

Chan and Rita Hughes have been rewarded for their years of fishing at Lake Kemp. They caught their prize one, a catfish that weighed twelve and one-fourth pounds, during the week end.

The big one was on a trotline and had taken a very small hook. They "boated the fish" with the aid of a net, otherwise he would have gotten away.

A number of people saw the big cat, but for those who didn't Chan has pictures to verify his story. "I've been after that one for a long time," he said Monday as he showed the photos.

THE FUTURE OF "MAIN STREET"

The country over, there is concern whether or not "Main Street" can maintain its traditional commercial power.

This concern results from the development of suburban shopping centers. The problem is most acute in sizeable cities, where downtown "core" areas have been losing trade in significant amounts to the outlying districts. But it is a problem in smaller communities too, and it will grow as surely as night follows day.

An editorial in Chain Store Age has this to say about it: "Main Street can be very much alive—but it takes more than wish fulfillment to keep the blood coursing through its veins."

"The vigor of Main Street seems to depend on a fortunate combination of circumstances which includes:

"A reasonable expectation that the central business district can increase, or at least hold on to, its share of trade.

"The recognition by merchants, property owners, financing institutions and civic officials that they must work together to keep downtown on its feet.

"The further recognition that investments must be made in modernization, new building, parking facilities, roads, public transportation, and sales promotion.

"And the incentive to do what has to be done with all necessary speed."

In short Main Street can survive and prosper—but it will take thought, planning and work. Wishing won't accomplish the job.

HIRE THE RIGHT PEOPLE

With treacherous world conditions and domestic issues shaping up which could trigger fundamental changes in the traditional political and economic relationships which we have known, the next few years promise to be a critical time for America. It could be of life or death importance that the most talented people presently running for office are brought to positions of national leadership during this period.

People are going to be hired to do the job. This being election year every citizen has the opportunity and the obligation to make his beliefs felt in deciding who those people shall be by casting his vote on election day. ### TV AND THE PRINTED WORD

Competition for shares of the advertising dollar gets tougher all the time. Television has seen to that.

Television people have, on occasion, attempted to sell the idea that their media is a far more effective way of interesting the potential consumer than any other — including newspapers. So a survey made in Richmond, Virginia, is of unusual interest.

Editor & Publisher reports: "An independent research organization found that of more than 41,000 telephone calls only about one-fifth of them had the TV set turned on. Of that number 81 per cent were able to identify the program turned on but 71 per cent could not name any sponsor or product or type of product being advertised on that program. And even if the respondent said 'soap' instead of giving a brand name it was counted as sponsor identification, which seems to us like leaning over backward to be fair."

No — the printed word isn't obsolete yet!

Henry Hazlitt says, in a Newsweek article: "The most serious domestic issue today is the preservation of the integrity of the dollar. This requires an end to reckless Federal spending. It requires the tapering off or termination of some of our major spending programs. It requires not merely the passive consent of Congress to monetary discipline on the part of the Federal Reserve authorities, but positive Congressional insistence on such discipline. It requires removal of the interest-rate limitation on long-term Treasury bonds."

The Federal Reserve rediscount rate (the rate at which commercial banks borrow from the Federal Reserve banks) is now 3.5 per cent. Among 45 countries, only nine have a lower rate.

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By JAMES HALLMARK

Through the centuries men have sought to destroy Christianity at its roots by disproving the Bible. However, efforts in this direction have only strengthened man's faith in the Bible as the word of God. In recent years the spade of an archaeologist has corroborated the Biblical account time and time again. Allow me to cite but one example.

First, take your Bible and read Exodus 5:6-19. Here you find recorded Pharaoh's harsh treatment of the children of Israel while in Egyptian bondage. Note in particular the manner in which the Jews were forced to construct their bricks.

In 1833 Naville of the University of Geneva evacuated the ruins of Pithon, one of two treasure cities constructed by the enslaved Jews under the direction of Pharaoh. Dr. Melvin G. Kyle describes the discovery in his book, MOSES AND THE MONUMENTS.

"The bricks are laid in mortar, contrary to the usual Egyptian custom, and contrary to the observations of explorers in Egypt previous to the time of Naville's discovery of Pithon. The lower courses in at least some of the store chamber work and laid with brick filled with good Chocac straw; the upper courses are made of brick having in them no binding material whatever, and the middle courses are made of brick filled with stubble pulled up by the roots. The impress of the roots is as plainly marked in the brick as though cut by an engraver's tool." This is in full agreement with the Bible account. "But the word of the Lord endureth for ever . . ." (1 Peter 1:25).

Payment-In-Kind — What Kind?

In the course of a heated national campaign political catch phrases bounce hither and yon through the autumn air, and a favorite target is the vast and complex problem of American agriculture.

Payment-in-kind has been pointed out by Agriculture Commissioner John C. White as one of these catch phrases — a phrase which on first hearing carries perhaps a shrewd and solvent ring to it. It sounds somehow as if the government is going to pay for something without spending any cash.

But analyzing this payment-in-kind proposal from a Texas and a Southwest viewpoint, at the commissioner has done, seems to make it sound a good deal less attractive.

"Payment-in-kind," he says, "has been advanced as one phase of a plan to help solve the farm problem. Ostensibly this would be applied toward helping get rid of agricultural surpluses by giving certain surplus commodities to our farmers in return for a voluntary cut-back in production on their part. In other words, if a farmer voluntarily would agree to cut his production of a certain commodity by such-and-such a quantity, in return he would be given such-and-such an amount of either that or some other commodity from surplus stocks.

"Where would it lead? First, it must be remembered that the vast bulk of our farm surplus is in feedstuffs. This would mean that these surplus feedstuffs, when given to farmers, would have to be fed to cattle and other livestock as the only practical means of disposal.

"Our cattle raisers here in Texas and in the Southwest do not have to be told that the cattle population of this country is already dangerously high and that markets are showing definite signs of weakening. Start feeding out a few more head in every cowlot with surplus feedstuffs and see what would happen.

"What this proposal means is that surplus feedstuffs would be dumped back on the farm to feed more cattle, and it would lead to certain disaster as far as livestock markets are concerned. Cattle raisers in our part of the country are still in the process of recovery from a disastrous seven-year drought, and certainly should not be called on to carry this new burden in disposing of government-created surpluses.

"This is another instance of primary pitfalls in trying to deal with our complicated farm situation, which is well understood by those who have been trying to deal with it for any length of time. It would actually only add

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

Public health is basically a "grass roots" affair in Texas.

Over 75 per cent of the population in Texas is now covered with local health units according to figures compiled by the State Health Department's Division of Local Health Services.

Fifty separate and distinct local health units now cover 59 of the state's counties. Most of the areas without protection of full-time public health programs are sparsely settled.

Only one city in Texas with a population exceeding 25,000 doesn't have a State participating health unit.

The Local Services Division hopes soon to cover these presently unprotected areas, under the provisions of Senate Bill 206, a forward-looking bill passed by the last session of the Texas Legislature.

This law made it possible for several counties in the sparsely-settled areas of Texas to combine their financial resources in order to obtain the services of qualified professional public health personnel.

Financing of local health departments is largely a local matter, in keeping with the traditional Texas attitude of local control, autonomy and independence.

In many instances cities and counties share expenses of joint health units.

The size of the individual units depends on the local population and the magnitude of local health problems.

In State participating health units there must be at least one full-time public health physician, a sanitarian, and a clerk. Many areas also employ additional public health personnel such as health educators and laboratory personnel.

The basic activities of a local health unit include: vital statistics, communicable disease control, environmental sanitation, laboratory services, and health education.

In large units where more resources exist and there is a need for additional activities, additional programs such as maternal and infant hygiene, school health services, nutrition services, mental health services, hygiene of housing, and occupational health services, are carried out.

450,000 More People Will Be Able To Draw Social Security Benefits In 1961

Beginning in 1961, an additional 450,000 people will be able to draw some social security monthly benefits while they are working, Erton F. Tate, manager of the Wichita Falls district office said today.

Tate pointed out that a provision of the new social security amendments changes the rules for determining how earnings from work affect a person's right to receive monthly benefits. He explained that the following rules remain unchanged:

1. Anyone earning $1200 or less a year will still be entitled to receive his full social security check for every month of the year.

2. Anyone who has reached his 72nd birthday will still be able to receive his full social security check for every month no matter how much he works or how much he earns.

3. A person will have any deduction from his social security check for any month that his earnings as an employee are $100 or less, or if he is self-employed, for any month that he does not do substantial work in his business.

The change made by the recent amendments affects the social security beneficiary whose earnings from employment or self-employment go over $1200 a year, Tate explained. For earnings from $1200 to $1500 he will give up $1.00 of social security benefits for each $2.00 of earnings. For any earnings over $1500 he will give up $1.00 of social security benefits for every $1.00 of earnings. Under the old rule, which remains in effect until the end of 1960, a person is required to give up his entire monthly social security check for every $30 or part of $30 by which his earnings go over $1200. "The change in the new law eliminates the possibility that a person may lose considerably in social security than he gains from his work—a possibility that existed under the old law," Mr. Tate said.

Mr. Tate further stated that

THAT'S A FACT

LONG PULL
TWO AMERICANS, GEORGE HARROD AND FRANK SAMUELSON, ARE THE ONLY PEOPLE WHO EVER ACTUALLY ROWED A BOAT ACROSS THE THREE THOUSAND MILES OF THE ATLANTIC OCEAN. IT HAPPENED IN 1897.

2 million will be affected by the change in the law on the payment of social security checks to people who are working. 1.4 million of them have not applied for payments because they are making over $2080 a year, the annual earnings figure that generally prevents a person from receiving any social security checks under the old law. Tate advised that anyone who may be eligible for social security benefits but who has not yet made a claim for them because he is working should call at the social security office to inquire about the effect of the new change on his rights.

Edna Banker To Head 4-H Bankers Drive In Texas

Texas bankers will again have an opportunity to support state and national programs through a state-wide drive during October under the leadership of Arvie S. Elliott, president of the First National Bank of Edna.

Elliott's appointment was made by Bank of America's board chairman, Jesse W. Tapp, who heads the bank program for the National 4-H Sponsors Council. One hundred forty-two Texas banks, through participation in the 1959 program, supported the activities of the National 4-H Club Foundation.

This campaign enables bankers to broaden their traditionally strong local support of 4-H Club work. The National 4-H Club Foundation carries on a broad program of "Service to Youth" activities in citizenship education, leadership development and international understanding. A county home economist from Texas, Meatra Devera Harrison of Beaumont, participated in the ninth annual summer workshop in human development and human relations at the National 4-H Center this past summer. This workshop for professional extension youth workers is one of the educational activities of the National 4-H Club Foundation.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The Internal Revenue Service folks are real proud of the fact that the United States has the only major voluntary compliance system of taxation in the world. They work hard to keep it that way.

One of the Internal Revenue's best education programs is their little Teaching Taxes course given by our high school and college teachers. Last year the Dallas District with the help of some mighty fine school teachers taught 71,366 young Texans how to prepare their income tax returns.

The Internal Revenue Service folks think that this is one of their important programs. It certainly goes a long way towards helping our country's taxpayers comply with the tax laws. Internal Revenue has enrolled the CPA's help in encouraging more schools to teach this course to more students. We can all certainly hope that they are successful in doubling the number of young Texans who are given this important training.

P. T. A. To Decide On Division Of Queen Race Fund

The Munday P. T. A. will have a called meeting to give parents a chance to vote on how the money made from the queen's race will be divided or if it will be divided with the P. T. A. Up until a year ago the juniors and seniors were allowed to keep all of their money made from the queen's race and the freshmen and sophomores gave half of theirs to P. T. A. Last year it was voted for all four classes to keep all of their money in order to make the race more challenging.

The executive committee voted Tuesday night in a meeting to not make a decision themselves but for the members of the Munday

P. T. A. to make the decision. The meeting has been called for Tuesday, October 18, at 4 p. m. in the study hall of the high school building. Due to this meeting the membership drive has been extended to Friday, October 21, to give the parents a chance to pay their dues, which is 50c per parent, because you will have to be a member in order to vote on the above issue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Amerson attended the Texas Tech and T. C. U. football game in Fort Worth last Saturday night and visited her sister, Mrs. J. N. Brown, and daughter in Denton on Sunday.

Miss Jimmie Dell Peysen of Dallas spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Peysen.

Small Birth Defect Victim Is A 'Prop' As Mother Lectures

Kathy Houle, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., a pretty blue-eyed brunette "going on five," poses today with perfect self-command as her schoolteacher mother lectures on the heart-breaking topic of birth defects.

Kathy doesn't mind being one of her mother's lecture "props." Mother and daughter are dedicated to the proposition that since 250,000 infants are born yearly with significant birth defects—and 34,000 babies annually are stillborn or die within the first month because of birth defects—the more widely the subject is discussed, the healthier for the nation.

The National Foundation, which financed the development of both the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines, is now supporting research and patient care for birth defects and arthritis through the New March of Dimes.

Kathy has ample reason for her devotion to the cause embraced by her mother and herself. The child was born with the forbidding birth defects of an open spine and excess fluid on the brain. When only weeks old, Kathy underwent major surgery three times.

Doctors told the parents: "Enjoy the baby while you can. She may not be with you for long."

It was a miracle that Kathy survived. But since she did, both the child and her grateful mother, Mrs. William W. Houle, a Michigan grade school teacher, want to shed light on this often "taboo" subject.

"Tens of thousands of mothers are mistakenly ashamed of having given birth to a malformed infant," Mrs. Houle says. "Tragically, many parents hide these innocent children away from public view—in- stead of seeking medical advice and therapy.

"When Kathy and I set out

Mrs. Houle and daughter Kathy lecture to audience of children and adults.

on our lecture tours to adults, we describe in detail such birth defects as an open spine and excess fluid on the brain. These and other such major birth defects are the largest unmet childhood medical problem in the United States today.

"Then, we tell parents that they rarely need fear having a second defective child because birth defects are not always hereditary. But when Kathy and I talk to groups of small fry, we concentrate on persuading the youngsters not to shun handicapped children which with thoughtless cruelty they often do. And not to be afraid of them."

The Houle-Kathy lecture "circuit" includes parent-teacher groups, and associations of school principals. The audience for this unique mother-and-daughter team is expanding. They can't fill all the requests for bookings.

Kathy, described by her doctors as "strong and healthy today" despite a bladder involvement due to the spinal defect, gets around nimbly on her crutches and leg braces. She has all the traits of any normal child of her age and is devoted to her two collies, to her adoring brother Douglas, seven, and to her dolls, in that eccentric order.

Which Democratic Platform?

Which do you prefer: the socialistic, anti-Texas platform of Kennedy — or the Nixon Platform that more nearly conforms with Texas principles and ideals as expressed in the State Democratic platform?

The Kennedy platform is against nearly everything Texans are for—it is for nearly everything Texans are against.

What will be your choice? It is between a party label and the best interest of Texas and the Nation.

Allan Shivers says:

"I'LL TAKE TEXAS. I accept the Texas Democratic platform and will work for it. I repudiate the other—the Kennedy platform. I will join with my fellow Democrats to work and vote for men of maturity, experience, responsibility, and a fearless dedication to this country's best interests. "I will vote for Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge."

How your child can have fun learning to prevent fire...

There's fun in the Hartford Fire Marshal program, with the red helmets and badges, but the real value of the Junior Fire Marshal program is educational. Your child learns fire safety principals that may some day save a life . . . and participates in a program that helps make our community a safer place in which to live.

We are pleased to cooperate with the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. in sponsoring a Junior Fire Marshal program in the Munday School.

We have ordered an extra supply of Red Helmets and Badges, so any of you with pre-school children may secure them.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds Neighbor Who Has Quite Novel Idea For Solving Problem Of Fidel Castro

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek covers a wide range of ideas this week, his letter indicates.

Dear editor:

The way it looks to me, the United Nations is an organization of disunited leaders, but what I started out to say was I was sitting around with a bunch of people out here the other afternoon discussing politics. I tell you, after a week or so of reading how much Khrushchev and Castro love each other and hate the United States, a general discussion of American politics is as refreshing as finding out you've got more money in the bank than you thought.

At any rate, the question came up—how man can handle the world situation, Nixon or Kennedy?

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Jack Moore, Knox County Agent

Cotton Classing Meetings

The Knox County cotton sub-committee has been sponsoring meetings being held in the cotton classing office in Munday. Mr. K. E. Voekel, who is in charge of the classing office, reports that there have been good turnouts on most of the nights; however, there have been some nights where the people did not turn out for the meeting too well.

Ginners are in charge of making the arrangements for their own groups and in general have been getting the group together at the gin and then the group coming in to the classing office. The gins in the Munday classing area that are to come in are the gins in Gilliland and Rhineland on October 13 at 8 p. m.; Throckmorton gins on October 17 at 8:30 p. m. and the gins in Munday on October 18 at 8 p. m.

Lettuce Demonstration

Mr. H. H. "Herb" Partridge planted a lettuce demonstration on his farm in the Sunset area and has made the report that the demonstration will have to be conducted at a later date and replanted. He reports that the demonstration was blown out by high wind. This in an example of problems that every farmer experiences at least once every few years and frequently more often.

The demonstration consisted of nineteen varieties of lettuce and was planted on a half of an acre. Herb reports that even though the demonstration was planted in a sheltered area the demonstration plot was blown out. This is not the report that the vegetable sub-committee, Mr. Partridge and I had hoped to give on the demonstration; however, it does show some of the problems involved in farming.

Mr. Partridge and the committee plan to conduct the demonstration in the spring as it is felt that it is too late now to continue the demonstration this fall.

Fact

"Tremendous quantities of raw materials are used each year to package food — for example: glass containers, more than a half billion dollars; aluminum foil, $80 million; folding paper boxes, $360 million; corrugated boxes, $407 million; flexible packaging, $325 million; wood

Engeling Wildlife Management Area, Nov. 16-25, inclusive. Permits for a two-day hunt, for either buck or doe.

Kerr Wildlife Management area, Kerr county, Nov. 16-23, inclusive, and Nov. 26-Dec. 3, inclusive. Permits will be for a two-day hunt, for either buck or doe.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams and children of Abilene visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hill, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Franklin of Abilene visited Mr. and Mrs. Zane Franklin last Saturday.

Yearbook Staff At Goree Named

In a called meeting of the Goree Senior class on September 28, Rhogenia Beaty was elected editor of the Goree year book "The Wildcat". Other staff officers include the following: business manager, Charlie Latham; arts editors, Foster Kelley and Carolyn Brown; high school editors, Emma Jean Cooke and Fredia Lowrance; grade school editors, Tommy Howry and Billy Don Hutchens; sports editors, Andrea Struck and Robert Jackson; activity editors, Jerry D. Chamberlain, Eddie King and Joey Jetton.

Three staff members attended a yearbook workshop in Big Spring on Saturday, September 24. The workshop was sponsored by Colorpress Incorporated of Austin, the company that publishes the year book. There were approximately 20 other schools in attendance at the meeting held at Howard County Junior College.

Ideas for year books were exchanged among the various members of the staffs present and slides were shown by the Colorpress people to illustrate new and helpful information.

Wildcat staff members attending were Rhogenia Beaty, Emma Jean Cooke and Frieda Lowrance. They were accompanied by the year book sponsor, Miss Patsy Cooper.

Dollars And Sense

By Mrs. S. C. Kinsey, Knox County H. D. Agent

Spending records versus no spending records:

Where does your money go? The stock answer includes items such as food, house rent or payments, utilities, car and gasoline, clothing, medical expense, recreation and savings.

Do you know what your family spends for foods each month? Be sure to count meals eaten away from home as well as food bought at the store. To separate food items from soap, foil, and other household items, make a division as you shop, putting food items in one end of the basket and other items in the other end. Ask the checker to make two lists and this will give you your true food bill at the grocery store.

Why keep records? We are hearing reminders from the Internal Revenue Service that spending records can save you money. If you have not kept records on those items such as contributions, interest, taxes, and medical expense and drugs, we have a tabulation sheet that you might find useful in getting this information together. Write this office, box 42, Benjamin, and we will mail one to you or come by and ask for our sheet for record of itemized deductions.

Gilliland 4-H Club Has Meeting

The Gilliland 4-H Club met on October 5th with the president, Norma Jo Navratil, calling the meeting to order. The motto and pledge were given and old and new business was transacted.

After a discussion on planning breakfast meals by Miss S. C. Kinsey the meeting adjourned.
