Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

We were guests of the Thomasons (Raymond, Raymond Jr., and Monty) last week end at this phase of the formal opening of their new million dollar Sands Hotel in Abilene. And as they said on their formal invitation, all accommodations were complimentary.

k-k

We arrived at the Sands, which is located on Highway 80 out toward Sweetwater, at around 3:30 p. m. Saturday. When we had registered, a uniformed young man started leading us to our room for the stay. He hopped on one of those three-wheeled, battery powered go-cart sort of vehicles that resembled those the lazy golfer uses to get over the golf course, and on the rear was painted the words "Follow Me." He soon directed us to our "parking stall" in front of our room door.

k-k

Inside, everything was just as swanky as we expected to find it. As the curtains were drawn to the big picture window, we gazed out onto the court and it was kinda like being in a different area. There was the heated swimming pool (which we didn't use) in the middle of the square, surrounded by the different room units and mingled with the surroundings were plantings of beautiful royal palm trees. Someone remarked that the comfortable and scenic surroundings were ideal for a weekend vacation.

k-k

Returning to the lobby a while later, we soon began visiting with the Thomasons and with a number of our newspaper friends over the area embraced by the West Texas Press Association. You see, this party was for newspaper, radio and T. V. personnel, and as soon as we departed Sunday another group was to arrive to receive the same treatment we received. This was a part of a week-long formal opening of the Sands with groups from various walks of life being the guests.

k-k

We soon learned that Raymond Thomason, Sr., was a former resident of Munday and of Memphis, Texas, and we think he enjoyed visiting with us as much as we enjoyed his hospitality. We think he lived here in 1926 and again around 1930. He was a traveling salesman, and he said, "Marvin Reeves was my account in Munday."

k-k

"We used to have a little bridge club," he said, "playing auction bridge. We'd meet at one couple's home this week, another's the next time until we'd gone the rounds. We'd all bring something to eat, and the hostess couldn't pay over 50 cents for the prize. We'd really have wonderful times."

k-k

When we asked that he name some of the couples, he studied a moment and said, "Name a dentist," so we suggested Dr. E. M. Roberts — and they were the couple. He couldn't recall all of them, but among others named were Ike and Kathleen Huskinson, Jack and Agnes Mayes — and in the conversation he mentioned that he knew Posey and Roxie Williams, Uncle Happy Hathaway and Mrs. Hathaway, and others.

k-k

Different units in the hotel have special names, such as "The Palms Terrace," "The Persian Towers," "The Asian Courts," etc., and the entire atmosphere kinda gives you a fur-away-from-home feeling.

k-k

Entertainment after dinner was by Denise Darcel, actress and night club entertainer who is a native of Paris; "The Diamonds," male quartet from Toronto, Canada, and Sandy Sanlifer and his orchestra from Dallas.

k-k

Upon dining for home, we felt that it had been kinda like "Old Home Week" under our visit with our friends and with our own.

Parker Seeks Another Term As County Judge

County Judge L. A. (Louis) Parker has authorized The Munday Times to announce his candidacy for re-election to this office, subject to action of Knox County's voters in the coming Democratic Primaries.

"In asking for my second elective term in this office, I do so feeling that my past experience fully qualifies me to fill the duties of this office," Mr. Parker said, "and I am asking you for your support solely upon my past record and upon my qualifications and ability to serve you in this capacity."

"I have tried to make you a good county official, devoting my time to the office and giving my co-operation to members of the Commissioners Court and other county officials. I'm sure I have made some mistakes, and will likely make others, as no one is perfect. I assure you my efforts have always been for the betterment of the people and county I serve."

"If returned to the office for another term, I promise you my best efforts at all times, and my desire shall be to make you the type of county judge you deserve to have. I pledge my full co-operation with county and state officials in all moves which I feel will be for the advancement of our area."

"I earnestly solicit your support and influence, and will try to see as many voters as possible during the campaign; yet, I do not intend to neglect the duties which you have elected me to perform, as these will always come first. I shall appreciate your consideration of my candidacy during the campaign and your vote in the coming elections."

Inspection Of Motor Vehicles Setting Record

With the 1958 motor vehicle inspection deadline more than three months away, approximately one million vehicle owners have obtained their 1958 inspection stickers, setting a trend for early inspections.

According to John H. Grant, manager of Motor Vehicle Inspection Records, Texas Department of Public Safety, more than 300,000 vehicles above the number inspected during the comparative period last year have been inspected to date. But he cautioned that three-million vehicles are yet to be inspected before the April 15 deadline.

Regarding the early inspections Grant said, "In addition to the ever increasing awareness of automobile and truck owners of safety inspections as an essential safety measure, the increase this year is due in part to the realization that periodic inspections help maintain automobiles at higher value by lessening depreciation."

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported that vehicle inspections have reduced traffic fatalities. Garrison said that "mechanical defects were causative factors in 19 per cent of the rural fatal accidents in 1957 prior to the inauguration of the inspection program. In 1956 mechanical defects were causative factors in only 5 per cent of the fatal rural accidents. It can well be said that this is due to the motoring public's acceptance of the vehicle inspection program by keeping their automobiles in good repair."

The state police director asked for the continued good cooperation of vehicle owners in getting their trucks and cars inspected during the short period that remains in the inspection period. He asked that vehicle owners obtain their inspection stickers early to avoid long waits in lines that normally occur during the first two weeks of April.

Boy Scouts Win First Aid Contest Held In Seymour

Explorer Scouts of the Munday troop were in Seymour on Monday night of last week for a contest in first aid. The local Scouts won first place in the contest, making 586 points out of a possible 600.

They will go to Wichita Falls on February 8 for the district contest.

Scouts participating in the contest are Jimmy Lee, Willie Weaver, Allen Elland, Bill Fitzgerald and Jerry Bowden. Cecil Fitzgerald took them to Seymour and served as one of the judges.

Old Landmark Is Demolished Here

An old landmark, one of the oldest buildings standing in Munday, became a pile of old lumber and rubble the first of this week as workmen completed demolishing the old Peysen building.

Now there's only a big pile of lumber remaining on the lot, which is now owned by the First National Bank.

The old building was located just north of the Bauman building, now owned by R. D. Atkinson and occupied by Quality Implements. It was one of the town's finest structures in the early days, but in recent years it began to lean and was about to fall down.

Workshop For Homemakers To Open January 21

An invitation is extended to any homemaker who wants to upholster a piece of furniture to attend one of two workshops to be held at the County Court house next week. The first meeting will be on Tuesday, January 21 at 1:30 P. M., and the second will be Thursday at 9:30 A. M. The actual upholstering is to be started in these meetings. Those who attend will need to bring the piece to be upholstered and tools needed for removing the old cover and padding, also the equipment for retying springs.

Four additional meetings are planned to complete the upholstery work. The preworkshop meeting held last week was attended by 20 homemakers from 6 communities. Five of those attending were not members of Home Demonstration Clubs.

One of the first considerations in selecting upholstery fabric may be color. If the colors in the room cannot be changed during the life of the new upholstery fabric, your color choice to the existing colors. The texture, color, and design of the fabric chosen should be in keeping with the size and style of the article to be covered.

Serviceability in fabric selection for furniture covering is important. Firm, closely woven sunfast fabrics from tightly twisted yarns, make the most serviceable upholstery materials and they are also resistant to dust penetration. Tapestry, frieze, novelty weaves, heavy denims in wool, cotton, nylon, rayon and other man made fabrics are commonly used. Reinforced plastic is also available.

It is important to re-upholster only pieces with good framework and spring construction so that the finished piece will be worthy of the money, time, and energy expended.

Meetings will be held later for signing up local youths for the team and to explain the activities to parents. This year's activities are expected to be even more interesting than last season.

Anyone interested in the Little League is invited to attend this meeting.

Vegetable Growers Name Officers, Make Plans For Big Crop In 1958

Stockholders in the Munday Vegetable Growers Cooperative met on Tuesday night, January 7, in the office of Stamford Production Credit Association to elect officers and three directors and to plan for the 1958 potato crop.

Gene Thompson was elected president, succeeding H. H. Partidge. J. T. Offutt was named vice president and William Browning was named secretary. Three new directors elected were Browning, Thompson and Offutt.

Present for the meeting were R. D. (Bud) Bliss and R. L. (Bob) Kula of the Bliss Produce Co., Greeley, Colo., and J. W. Thompson of Acme Produce Co., Waco, who will provide seven carloads of seed potatoes, fertilizer, and technical assistance and will purchase the potatoes.

About half of the members of the association plan to plant and harvest the crop "on their own," buying their own seed and fertilizer. The other half will grow on a 2-5-3-5ths basis, the buyers furnishing the seed and fertilizer.

Approximately 375 acres were pledged Tuesday night to be planted in potatoes, about half to be of the Cherokee variety and half Kennabec. A carload of North Dakota cobbles will be grown partly on a trial basis. Cherokee and Kennabecs have been the two popular varieties in the last two years of production in the area.

The seed will cost around $3.90 laid down in Munday, Bliss said. Producers who plan to operate on their own and the number of acres each plans to plant include: B. E. Smith, 37; James Smith and William Browning, 30; Edward Smith, 18; Kenneth Whitmore, 10; John E. Nelson, 30; L. D. Offutt, 15; Doris Dickerson, 10; Alvin Reid, 11; Billy Clark, 17; Tolbie Winchester, 14; and Gene Thompson, 30.

Those planting on a 2-5-3-5ths basis include: J. T. Offutt, 15; Clyde Yost, 18; Dickerson, 35; A. L. Smith, 31; Whitmore, 10; Bobby Lawrence, 20; Keith Burnison, 20; Norvell Wright, Knox City, 15; C. E. Hobart, 20; and Jack Tidwell, 15.

The seed potatoes will be trucked to Munday and growers indicated they intended to start planting between 50 and 75 acres in onions and 75 to 100 acres of cabbage.

A meeting will be held next week to determine the amount of acreage to be planted in cucumbers.

WOMEN WORK FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY

Traffic accidents always make more news than the efforts made to prevent them. But the efforts are being made, and in terms of the lives they will save in the future, they are more important than the most widely reported accident.

It is heartening to find an unusually constructive approach to the problem coming from industry — in this case from an oil company whose interest in the motorist reaches far beyond the sale of gasoline.

It's called the Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety. It is the only national recognition offered to women for their achievements toward the preservation of lives through traffic safety programs at the community or state level.

The awards, named for the women's travel director of Shell Oil Company, are made each year to three individual women and to three women's or parents' groups that have developed and directed effective traffic safety programs. They consist of $1,000, $500 and $250 in savings bonds for first, second and third, respectively, plus sculptures or bas-reliefs symbolizing woman's protective instinct.

These awards have gone to women for promoting better vehicle inspection, programs leading to improvement of motor vehicle laws, pedestrian and bicycle safety, and driver training — especially among teenagers.

This approach appeals to women's natural desire to protect life, and it encourages women to use their opportunities — usually greater than men's — to work with young people in promoting traffic safety.

The awards are an example of a corporation accepting responsibility and encouraging public participation in a worthwhile cause.

WHERE DISCIPLINE IS NEEDED

Puppies invariably make a mess of homes—until they are sternly disciplined and taught to be clean and decent members of the family.

One wishes that a similar discipline could be imposed on the "litterbugs" who strew discarded paper, beer cans, empty bottles and all manner of other rubbish and dirt along the highways, in recreation areas, and in beauty spots throughout the nation.

The litterbugs have the crude manners of untrained puppies—without any of the puppies' excuses.

OIL WELLS DIE

Lewis W. Douglas, who has held top positions in private enterprise and also has been a Congressman, Director of the Budget, a college president, and Ambassador to Great Britain, recently told of "some sober facts" behind the search for oil.

The oil driller, Mr. Douglas pointed out, must now invest an average of $123,000 in every exploration well he drills—yet only one out of nine of the wildcat wells ever produces oil. And only one out of 44 wells finds an oil field big enough to produce the equivalent of American demand for just four hours. The odds against a find big enough to supply that demand for a week are long indeed—966 to one.

But that, Mr. Douglas went on, isn't all. The shallow sands where oil is found most easily have already been tested for the most part. So the searcher for oil must send his wells deeper and deeper. This means that drilling and exploration costs are now about 400 per cent higher than they were 25 years ago, and they continue to rise.

Then, to quote Mr. Douglas directly, ". . . unlike a factory which can produce at a constant rate for many years, an oil well dies a little each day. Finally it stops producing altogether—in other words, it becomes 'depleted.'"

There is the reason for the depletion allowance given oil producers. It simply recognizes the fact that oil wells "die a little each day" and must be replaced, at ever-higher cost. It applies to production only—not to the industry's other activities.

READING, MASS., CHRONICLE: ". . . legislation had to pass the house and the senate and be signed by the governor to enable women and children employed in Mass. industry to accept a 1 1/2 hour lunch period instead of being required to take 3 1/4 of an hour. The change was sought because where the men had a 1 1/2 hour lunch period and the women a 3 1/4 hour lunch period, the women lost opportunities to share rides with other workers in car pools. This law regulating the length of women's lunch hours is an example of the kind of paternalistic laws that clutter up the books . . ."

Prosperity note: Last year, according to the Economic Report of the President, employed people took vacations aggregating 70 million weeks, 85 per cent of them with pay. This is a new high.

MODERN HOMEMAKING

Recipes . . . Household Helps

By Julia Hunter

HOME ECONOMICS DIRECTOR, LONE STAR GAS CO.

Clinging to tradition, most people in this part of the country ate blackeye peas for good luck on New Year's Day. Some may not have had too much confidence in the luck, but the peas were good anyway.

According to folklore, for every pea you eat you can expect to earn a dollar during the coming year. Since there are considerably less than a hundred peas in a heaping tablespoonful, it would take a hearty appetite to reach the millionaire class. However, if the peas are simmered gently, seasoned with salt pork or ham and served with cornbread hot from the oven, it isn't hard to count on a thousand dollars in 1958. When this tale started, probably during the Civil War, a yearly income of a thousand dollars was far above average.

But why confine black-eyed peas to New Year's Day? They are a tasty nutritious dish for year round serving. In winter months use dried ones, canned ones or frozen ones and fresh green ones in summer months. Whatever the variety, they are always popular in the southwest.

Salt pork and ham do make the best seasoning for black-eyed peas and cornbread served with them is almost a must. Chopped onion cooked with the peas gives a nice flavor or add minced raw onion when they are served.

From the Old South comes Hopping John, a truly delicious way for serving black-eyed peas. Give it a try, then sit back and listen to the oh's and ah's. (This too, should be served with cornbread.)

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Hopping John: Cook a ham bone with bits of ham clinging to it in 2 quarts of water for 2 hours. Add 1 cup of dried black-eyed peas that have been soaked overnight in cold water. Cook until almost tender, 2 to 3 hours. Remove the ham bone and add a cup of washed white rice. Add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer until rice is tender and most of the liquid has cooked away, about 20 minutes. Serve hot with bits of ham. Makes 4 servings. For quick Hopping John, cook canned or frozen black-eyed peas according to package directions seasoning with ham. Cook rice separately. Place a mound of rice on each serving plate and top with a serving of peas.

LONE STAR Agriculture

Released by The Texas Department of Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

FARM TRENDS AND FORECASTS FOR '58

Each new year brings new expectations and speculations on things to come — both good and bad. These are some of the present prospects for Texas agriculture:

LIVESTOCK — Prices are good now on livestock, and producers are making good profits. Bumper feed crops have decreased costs while prices are way up from a year ago. However, this windfall may not last too many months. Eager hog raisers could glut markets later this year, depressing prices. Range cattle prices are up sharply, cutting profit prospects for grain feeding.

SEED — The Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Division reports good germination potential on Texas cottonseed and hybrid sorghum seed tested so far. However, germination difficulties have been reported in many neighboring states, notably to the east of Texas on cottonseed and to the north of Texas on hybrid sorghum. Several states have lowered germination standards. There is plenty of good seed left and available in Texas. Best advice is to check seed tags carefully for germination ratio.

EGGS — A more profitable year is in prospect for Texas egg producers. Prices should be higher, feed costs lower, and sales are expected to be only slightly under the record volumes of 1956 and 1957. Production is expected to be off at the start of the year but cheaper feed and fair prices will likely encourage many farmers to restock their henhouses. An added boon is antiicipated for Texas producers in the form of the new Texas Egg Law, which should raise prices and standards at the same time. Also in the offing is a Texas egg market report which the Texas Department of Agriculture hopes to get underway before spring. The proposed report would include egg prices in Houston, San Antonio and Dallas markets.

COTTON — Surpluses are down due to the weather foul-up of the 1957 crop. Although it is too early to tell, prospects right now are encouraging for 1958 cotton. Cottonseed oil prices are way up and in good demand. Exports of American cotton indicate stocks may be way down at harvest time this fall.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

As the 85th Congress starts its second session, the question of National security over shadows all other issues. Russia has made truly startling technological and scientific advances and has stepped up the tempo of the cold war. The result has been that we find ourselves on the defensive all around the world. Not in recent history has the United States been so completely outmaneuvered and so completely frustrated in our attempt to regain the initiative in world affairs. All of this calls for immediate and effective action to regain our position as the leading scientific country of the world and as the determined leader of the free peoples of the world. We must not, however, act in a way that will destroy the very foundation of our country. There is much talk these days about a reorganization of the whole defense establishment, and suggestions have been made by different study groups and prominent individuals that we create some kind of single military leader in this country who would not be subject to all of the "red tape" and disorganization that now exists in the Defense Department. There can be little question but what there needs to be a general overhauling in the defense establishment and that we need desperately unity of action, but we must not, in doing this, create any single military authority that is no subject to the control of civilians.

it was the preeminence of the military that twice led Germany into disastrous world wars. The military must remain subject to the control of the civilian government if we are to preserve our Democracy. The Constitution makes the President the Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Services. He acts through the Secretary of Defense, and this is the way the system must continue to work. We cannot afford to create any "super duper" military czar modeled after the old Prussian system. There are also those that indicate that the answer to all of our problems from a scientific and military standpoint is the appropriation of additional funds. The problem is not so easily solved. While there probably is need for additional funds in certain areas, it will take more than money for us to regain supremacy. The real answer is less "red tape" and more effective, efficient management.

The new farmer bulletin list is out. If anyone will write me, I will be glad to send a list or any bulletins that you might desire.

KEEP RECORDS THIS YEAR—SAVE TAX HEADACHES NEXT YEAR

There is no time like the present to start a procedure that will aid you with next year's tax calculations. That is to maintain a record of your income and outgo. Such a record can be simple and brief but it may save you tax dollars and many hours of work in filling out tax forms.

The average man who works for a wage or salary doesn't have to concern himself about keeping books and records—at least so he thinks. His employer keeps a reliable record of his earnings and Uncle Sam looks primarily to the employer for information on his earnings and for the withholding of various taxes out of his wages.

But whether or not you run a business of your own, you have a partner who each year is claiming a substantial interest in your personal income. And the law requires that you keep books for him in case he ever asks for an accounting.

Perhaps you own your home or are paying it out in installments. It's likely that some day you may sell that house. When you do you'll want to be able to prove whether you realized a gain or a loss on that sale. If a gain in capital resulted, it probably will add to your income tax. If a loss was suffered, it probably will reduce your income tax.

You may have made certain capital improvements on the house while you lived in it, but unless you can show what out-of-pocket expense you incurred while making them, you may not get credit for them in your cost basis so as to prove that you had no capital gain or that you had a loss.

Or perhaps you received that little summer cottage on the lake as a gift from your father. If you ever sell it, you should be able to show Uncle Sam not only the cost of improvements you made on it while you owned it, but also what its fair market value was at the time Dad gave it to you.

It may be that you are receiving an annuity on an insurance policy. If so, do you know how much that policy costs you and how much of that cost you have recovered tax-free to date?

There are many kinds of transactions you enter into that may some day affect the computation of your personal income tax. The best proof of the cost of anything you've purchased is a receipted bill or canceled check. If one of these pieces of evidence relates to any transaction that may affect your income in later years, it's a good idea to keep it. Your "partner" may some day ask to see it.

MORAL COURAGE

When you are so devoted to doing what is right that you press straight on to that and disregard what men are saying about you, there is the triumph of moral courage. — Phillips Brooks

Courage consists not in blindly overlooking danger, but in seeing and conquering it. — Jean Paul Richter

At the farm, the boys showed me around and one of the points of interest they pointed out was a pond, as we called it back in Arkansas — but they referred to it as a tank.

Next summer my father and I were traveling through the South Texas ranch country in a back for the benefit of my father's health. He was told that a good camping place for noon would be at a tank.

Around noon, he remarked "I don't see any tank in sight" and I realized that he was looking for a steel or wooden tower, so it was with pride that I pointed to a pond and said, "There it is; they call that a tank in Texas."

Should you live ten years and continue to buy your booze from your wife, she will have enough money to give you a respectable burial, educate your children, buy a car, house and lot, and marry a decent man after you die with snakes in your boots."

Book Review Given Members Of Wesleyan Guild

The Wesleyan Service Guild started the New Year off Monday evening, January 13, with a book review "The Kingdom Beyond Caste" by Mrs. Herschel Cowan. After a gracious presentation of this book a litany was read by the group.

LITANY
Leader: Look deep within our hearts, O God:
Response: Search out the injustice which thou findest there; the division, the inhumanity, the hate.

Leader: "In Christ we all are one." But we are guilty of being proud because we belong to one race, one creed, one nationality.

Response: O Lord, we are guilty.
Leader: We have forgotten that we are members of the universal Church of God to which people of all nations, creeds and races belong.

Response: O Lord, we have forgotten.
Leader: We have failed to work for equal opportunities for people of all races.

Response: O Lord, we have been engrossed in our own affairs to remember that we are all members of one human race.

Leader: We have turned away unable to face the grief in the eyes of the rejected.

Response: O Lord, we turned away. The thoughts of the rejected were too disturbing.

Leader: We have forgotten the way of life which Christ taught us in which there is no division, no inhumanity, no hate.

Response: Forgive us Lord, we have forgotten even Him—
Twenty-three members and four guests were served refreshments by hostesses Mrs. Frances Haymes and Mrs. Marie Baker.

A sound forage program for the farm or ranch that will meet all needs for grazing, hay and silage requires a great deal of planning, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. He suggests a visit with the local county agent for details and planning assistance.

C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, says it is time to total the balance sheets on the farm business for 1957 and to take a long look at what happened during the past year. Good farm and home records are a real asset to families if properly used, says the specialist.

Flu Victims Need Adequate Diet

CHICAGO—Overly-restricted diets during flu and in the recovery stage following a respiratory disease may lead to other health problems, according to a leading nutritional authority.

Flu victims may spend up to two weeks in bed with the symptoms of severe colds, respiratory and flu-like infections. During this time, these patients are often on inadequate diets.

Dr. James R. Wilson, Chicago medical nutrition consultant and former secretary of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, has this to say:

"The U.S. Public Health Service, as of the middle of October, reported the cumulative number of respiratory illnesses at 50,700,000. Many of these patients rely on self-medication. They stay for too long on an inadequate diet.

"As a generalization, the key to a good diet is eating a variety of wholesome foods which will supply the things you need for nutritional health. Such good diets should include meat, milk, enriched bread or toast, cereals, fruits and vegetables, all in the quantity the patient can eat. Plenty of water is indicated.

"All too often weakness and lassitude occur after respiratory infections—particularly when dietary standards have been lowered. The person who has eaten sensibly during illness is more likely to weather the storms of possible nutritional complications. Influenza—Asianic or otherwise—with its consequences, can result in many physical disorders that a proper diet might prevent."

A preliminary estimate from the U.S. National Health Survey indicates that almost 12 million new cases of acute respiratory diseases involving at least one day in bed occurred during one week ending October 19.

Good Seed For '58 Cotton Crop Urged By Craugh

Texas cotton farmers are offered one of the greatest opportunities in history in 1958, says the President of the Dallas Cotton Exchange.

A strong demand exists for good grades of cotton of every type grown in all areas of the state, according to Jack M. Craugh, who heads the Dallas Exchange.

The farmers who plant good seed, handle their crop properly during the season, and then harvest and gin for quality, face the prospect of selling all their cotton on the open market at a price above the 1957 loan level, Craugh believes.

There will be a shortage of high grade cotton in 1958 of all staple lengths, he said, because of the conditions created by the short crop and bad weather during harvest of the past season.

The American Cotton Industry should be able to export from 5 to 6 million bales next year with little difficulty, providing farmers produce the cotton suitable for export needs, Craugh declared.

The premium for good cotton as compared to low grade cotton should be higher next year because of the demand situation, Craugh said.

Unless Texas and American cotton farmers meet the market demands, Craugh believes that the buyers will turn to foreign cotton and synthetics to meet their needs.

G. O. Hoffman, range specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, notes that range improvement work during 1957 made outstanding progress. Improved weather conditions were a contributing factor. He said that demonstrations totaled 9,198 and involved more than 3,795,000 acres of Texas rangelands. Demonstrators and co-operators estimated that they had received benefits from their efforts in excess of $6,000,000. Improved practices including planned stocking rates, better livestock distribution, brush and weed control, reseeding and more and better water facilities are among the more important programs carried out.

Bob Cude of Tarrant State College in Stephenville spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cude.

Cotton Disease Losses Heavy In Texas Last Year

Texas cotton producers literally took it on the chin from a lot of sources in producing their 1957 crop. Floods, hail storms, insects and unfavorable weather during the normal harvest season all took their toll but, reminds Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, cotton diseases got in a lull and cut production in the state by about 10 per cent.

He says the state average, however, doesn't tell the story because in areas where diseases struck the hardest, losses ran into millions of dollars. The three diseases which caused most of the damage were listed by Smith as bacterial blight, root rot, and seedling diseases. These same diseases have been listed for the past six years as big troublemakers for cotton growers.

The specialist advises farmers to become familiar with the diseases most common in their area. This knowledge will enable them to plan a systematic control program. Detailed maps of the fields on which are shown areas known to be infected with cotton diseases are an aid in combating this production problem. These spots or areas can be left out of cotton and handled in a different way.

There isn't much that can be done about most cotton diseases after the crop is up and growing. Here are suggestions from Smith on practices which have proved their value in cotton disease control. All planting seed should be treated; whenever available disease resistant varieties should be planted; cultural practices and crop rotations are of great value in control programs and he advises against mixing high and low quality planting seed. Low quality seed may be the source of infection of many diseases. The application of a complete fertilizer with a high phosphorous content will aid in controlling seedling diseases and no planting should be done until the soil temperature is 70 degrees F. for three consecutive mornings at a depth of 3 inches. The temperature readings should be taken around 7 a. m.

The pathologist suggests a visit with the local county agent for more detailed information on a disease control program for your county.

Don Bowman of Tarrant State College in Stephenville visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bowman, over the week end.

Decisions based upon a hunch or rule-of-thumb contribute little to the solution of poultry flock management problems, says Sam Wormel, extension poultry superintendent. On the other hand, he points out the use of records provides a means for organizing needed poultry flock information into a form which can be analyzed and understood. Problems can be solved when solutions are based on such information.

Windbreaks Add To Farm Value

Every farm home needs a good windbreak planting that will afford protection from the cold winter winds, prevent snow from piling up around the buildings and lots, and generally make a more pleasant and comfortable place in which to live and work.

During the summer months nothing can add more to the beauty of the home than the background of varying shades of green afforded by a well planned windbreak. Yard beautification with shrubs, roses and annual flowers is more easily obtained and much more effective with this kind of background. Furthermore, the protection from blowing soil in the farmyard makes these beautifications possible. It also keeps a lot of dust off the window sills, furniture, and floors.

It takes work, lots of work, to successfully grow a good windbreak, but by present day methods it is more a matter of time than hard labor. For successful results ground preparation for tree plantings should start the year before planting. The heavier soils should be summer fallowed for a season to give the best results. The proper location of a windbreak sometimes requires the changing of fences and relocation of lots and field lanes. Advance planning can help to lessen the work needed and greatly increase the chances of success.

Information about obtaining the trees and planting them can be accomplished by contacting the Wichita-Brazos soil conservation district office.

Cultivation of the trees is the major item of labor involved in growing a good windbreak. Trees should be cultivated the same as any other crop if a high yield of benefits is to be reaped. Unlike the annual crops, trees cannot be "laid by" in three or four months but be worked for five or six years until their growth has produced sufficient cover to shade out weed growth.

After carefully looking at the factors involved in growing trees, it is apparent that a good windbreak is easily within reach of every farm family. Where the cost in money, labor, and land is ten times as great, a windbreak would still be sound and profitable investment and return annual dividends in comfort and beauty that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

District cooperators who have already ordered trees for a farmstead windbreak are: A. L. Resell of the Sunset community and Loyd Griffith who lives 5 miles southwest of Benjamin.

Gordon Sweatt of Kress visited relatives and attended to business here the first of this week.

Nolan Phillips and Russell Penick were business visitors in Wichita Falls one day last week.

Age or pressure dressing usually checks bleeding. If not, press firmly at the point which cuts off blood flow to the injured area. Use a tourniquet only when other methods fail.

4. Look for shock — face drained of color, cold moist skin, rapid weak pulse, fainting. Wrap the victim in blankets, make him lie down unless doing so will make other injuries worse, and try to calm him. If he can swallow, has no abdominal injury, and is not vomiting, have him drink as much "shock solution" as possible. Make the solution by stirring one teaspoon of table salt and a half teaspoon of baking soda into a quart of water.

5. In poisonings, follow antidote instructions on the poison container label if it is at hand. Other wise, give egg whites beaten in water, or plain water, to dilute poison. If the poison was not corrosive or kerosene, induce vomiting.

6. Give artificial respiration in drownings or electrical shock. Learn artificial respiration techniques now, before an emergency.

7. Handle with care. Don't move an injured person unless necessary; then use a stretcher, or make one with blankets, a board, or ladder padded with clothing.

8. Splint broken bones. The time-honored rule is to "splint 'em where they lie." Make splints from any firm object, and long enough to reach well beyond the joints above and below the suspected break.

9. Care for burns by applying a sterile gauze dressing and cover with bandages. Don't pull off clothing stuck to burned tissue. In case of chemical burns, rinse immediately with plenty of water.

10. After covering wounds with sterile dressings, bandage to guard against infection, reduce bleeding, and lessen pain.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holla, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

Every three seconds someone in the United States needs prompt first aid for an accident or illness. Often the right kind of aid makes the difference between life and death.

Being prepared to give effective first aid takes time and study — before emergencies arise. It is too late to learn and dangerous to guess afterward. You and your family can meet most emergencies by enrolling now in a first aid course, learning how to follow through on these ten aids to give first.

1. Act promptly. Examine the victim carefully from head to toe. Look for breathing obstructions, bleeding, and broken bones.

2. Send for help. First aid "holds the line" until a physician takes over. Call him at once.

3. Stop bleeding. A snug band

Knox Prairie Philosopher Wants A Sense Of Urgency For Science, But He Says It Won't Work On The Farms

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek has found out about Congress being back in session, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
Now that Congress is back in session, news has been picked up, and one of the things that has interested me is the fact that for the first time in years everybody seems sort of glad that Congress has re-assembled. Up to now, when Congress met, it was sort of like a visit from your in-laws, most people stroked their chin and took a thoughtful, concerned look, wondering what it was going to cost. But with the scientific situation what it is, with the Russians pushing ahead, most people are delighted to see Congress in session and are hoping they'll get our defenses in shape.

However, there is one aspect that has me worried. According to an article I read in a newspaper last night, Congress has been declaring that what the trouble with Washington is, it has no "sense of urgency." We've got to have a "sense of urgency" about these guided missiles and man-made moons if we're going to realize our danger and catch up.

Well, now, I agree with this,

slow down a new type of urgency will be facing him.

What this country needs is a sense of urgency, all right, but it ought to be concentrated on the military and scientific fields, as it's impractical on here on this farm, which is the most urgent spot on earth, and likely will stay that way.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
