Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

Like we said a few weeks ago, the juvenile problem is not confined to just the Munday area.

The article prepared by the Munday chief of police and printed in our paper with the knowledge and consent of most of the city council drew some favorable comment. Many people expressed approval of it.

Sometime afterwards, we saw that Glenn Shelton in his "Hired Hand" column in the Wichita Falls paper had something to say about it. Some of his remarks were in reply to the accusation that papers were printing news of only the sordid and mean things the teenagers did. Some thought it should not be printed. Some accused that the good deeds of youth never appeared in print.

We were particularly impressed by the following remarks of Mr. Shelton: "You may rest assured that if the present juvenile delinquency rampage is brought to a halt it will be done by an outraged public brought to action by reports in the press. If no murders were ever reported, the public would never pay taxes for police protection. If graft were not exposed in the newspapers, crooked politicians would have a field day — at public expense."

There are several important dates coming up in the near future. Among them are: Tuesday, April 1, not April Fool's day, but the election of city officials; Saturday, April 5, school trustee election; Tuesday, April 15, the deadline for getting your 1957 income tax returns in the mails. We casually mention these because if you're not already prepared for them, you have a little while longer to get prepared.

You should vote in both these elections because it's your duty as a citizen to have a voice in who should run our schools and city government. And by April 15, we'll all likely have those returns in the mails, whether we feel like it or not.

If we ever find it necessary to "board out", we'd like to put in our bid for a permanent eating place in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Michael.

Our sister and husband and another couple from up Wellington way came to see us and the Michaels last Sunday. We accused Sis of coming to see the preacher and wife instead of her brother. After church Sunday morning, Mrs. Michael "set up a howl" for all of us to eat at the parsonage. Our visitors brought some items of food, our wife took some over, and this put together with what the Michaels would have had anyway made one of the most sumptuous meals we've had in quite a spell.

In the afternoon, the men assembled in the living room, the ladies remained in the kitchen, and the gabfest continued at some length. We imagine a tape recording of the two sessions would prove interesting to anyone.

"Give a quarter a year to the library." That seems like a little bit of money — just a quarter — but if everyone in the area would chip in that amount, think of the funds available for adding books and building the library so it would benefit a lot more people.

That idea has been advanced and may be put into operation in the future. The contribution would be made each year during "Library Week." Meanwhile, containers are being placed in the library next week to catch your quarter if you want to encourage the idea and give voluntarily. If the people of Munday would give two-bits per family it would mean better than $150 per year to buy new books — and the library serves a much wider area than the town alone.

Knox Citizen Announces For Representative

Leroy Ressel, a native of Knox County, this week authorized the Munday Times to announce his candidacy for the office of state representative of the 83rd Legislative District, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. Mr. Ressel's statement to the voters follows:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 83rd LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT
I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Representative of this district.

My great-grandfather, James Partridge, was one of the early settlers of Knox County, and I have lived in Knox County all my life with the exception of time spent in school and in the U. S. Air Force. I am now 27 years of age and reside in the Sunset community near Munday, Texas.

I am a graduate of Knox City High School and the University of Texas and feel that my educational background fully qualifies me to represent the people of this district adequately. Also, having worked in the 55th Legislature and the 2 special called sessions which followed, I feel that I learned enough of the legislative procedure to fully represent the people. Since this area has always been my home I have the welfare of the people of this district as my main consideration in running for this office. I feel that the people are entitled to representation in the State Legislature which can only be brought to them by a young, aggressive person.

I am in favor of legislation which will benefit our schools, farmers, and businessmen and, if elected, my representation will be based fully on the opinions expressed to me by the people of the district.

It has been some time since there has been a Representative from Knox County and even though I feel that all counties in this Legislative District are entitled to equal representation, I do think that it is time for Knox County to have an elected Representative.

I feel that my youth, as well as my educational and business background, fully qualifies me to represent the people of this district in a manner best suited to their interests, and I will appreciate your vote in the Democratic Primary in July.

I will attempt to see as many of you as possible before the election to make your acquaintance and to discuss prospective legislation.

Leroy Ressel

Bank's Deposits Continue High

Deposits in the First National Bank of Munday, although showing a slight decline the first of this year, remained at a high figure, according to the bank's statement appearing in this week's issue.

Deposits at the end of 1957 were $3,512,970.33, while at the close of business on March 4, 1958, they stood at $3,259,860.64, a decline of around $253,000. This may be accounted for in part by depositors' payments of income taxes and the expense of beginning 1958 farm operations.

The statement of business is being published in response to a call made by the Comptroller of Currency in Washington, D. C.

snow of the winter season — and with spring being just around the corner.

Most of the snow fell during the night while the populace was in restful sleep and unaware of what was quietly going on outside. They awoke to find the heavy blanket of snow everywhere — covering the ground, clinging to trees and shrubbery and looking every bit like the white Christmas we didn't have.

Between six and seven inches of the pure white flakes were measured in this area, bringing additional moisture to aid with the preparation of the area's crops. Snow continued to fall intermittently during Wednesday morning. Temperatures remained fairly mild, hardly reaching the freezing point.

As people began making the way through the snow and travel was resumed on streets and highways, the pretty white scene soon became a slushy mess — which is to be expected when snow falls and melts.

"Parents' Place in The Educational Partnership"

(From an address by Dr. Floyd Ewing, Dean of Education of Midwestern University)

Members of the local P.T.A. and guests who were present at the Father's Night program on Thursday, February 20, are fortunate, indeed, to have heard the excellent address given by Dr. Floyd Ewing, Dean of the Education Department of Midwestern University. Since so much is being written and said about our American school system with regard to its organization and the effectiveness with which its program is administered, Dr. Ewing's subject, "The Parent's Place in The Educational Partnership", was timely, appropriate, and of vital personal interest to those who heard him speak. Dr. Ewing graciously acceded to a request that his notes be used to reproduce the high points of his talk, which being used as a follow-up in connection with the observance of Texas Public School Week. Therefore, the major part of Dr. Ewing's address is presented below for the benefit of patrons and friends of the Munday Public School who did not hear him in person.

Dr. Ewing began his remarks by reminding his listeners that education involves a partnership composed of the school, the child, and the parent. Also, that in our American system, the relative order of importance of the members in a partnership is a significant factor in its success or failure. Moreover, according to Dr. Ewing, the parent is the senior partner in this particular partnership, and it is the parent's responsibility to see that the partnership functions well.

Dr. Ewing continued: There are two pressing responsibilities facing parents today:

1. To fit the school to the child.
 2. To fit the child to the school.
- In other words, the parent must decide what kind of school best serves the present needs and share his part of the responsibility for seeing that this school exists. On the other hand, the best school system will not work unless parents provide children who are adjusted to the demands of the times and willing to work with the school to see that these demands are met. Neither of these responsibilities is simple and both probably will require some radical changes in attitudes on the part of many parents. Today's educational system is under attack by newspapers, Congress, Ike, Folsom, and others, while in Texas Hale, Alken Committees are laboring to appraise the school system of our state in an effort to determine its strong points, its weaknesses, and its needs.

Just what is the problem? Have we made a complete mess of education? The answer to the latter question is "No". We are accomplishing today just about what we set out to do 30 years ago. Our schools are serving all children better than they were served 30 years ago. Then just what is the problem? The answer to this question seems to be that we have been working toward the wrong goal.

Thirty years ago we decided that every child must receive the same general type of education in our public schools, and without stopping to recognize the potential consequences, we committed ourselves to average education. We failed to take into consideration the fact that all do not learn at the same rate or possess the same talents and abilities. We failed to realize that in throwing all children together, the gifted with the average and the below average, we were cutting all progress down to that attainable by the average or below average. Thus in accepting the goal of average achievement for all children, we brought on most of our troubles of today in our attempts to make this system work.

Average education is not good enough for at least three reasons. First, it does not challenge the superior child. Second, it produces discipline problems arising when we seek to avoid creating neuroses. And third, it has not produced "topnotch" scientists and has produced Johnnies who could not read.

Our next step is evident and already in progress. Since we do not like the old, we must create the new. And therein lies the parent's first responsibility. What will be the probable solution? One alternative is the dual system, but that is too costly and is not in keeping with democratic principles. Shall we add courses and stiffer standards? We must; but here again we find that all children cannot keep up under such a system. The obvious remedy seems to lie in the division and grouping of students according to abilities and aptitudes. To do this successfully will require a thorough testing program, beginning with the elementary grades and progressing on through high school. On high school level, perhaps two or three curricula would be provided, one of which would lead definitely toward college entrance. The parent would be called in to select a curriculum for his child, and would be required to give written consent to whatever choice he made. Thus parents, either by participation or default, will become responsible for the selection of the course to be pursued, and the first objective—that of fitting the school to the child—will have been accomplished.

At this point, only half of the problem will have been solved. Since our children are still geared to the old order, the next step will be to prepare them for the new school. The principal point to be understood by parents, teachers, and students is that this new education will be more demanding—demanding in time and effort; demanding in putting first things first; demanding, in other words, a well-disciplined and purposeful child. Furthermore, there is only one logical place where the training necessary to producing such a child can begin—it must begin in the home.

In describing the type of child which this new school will demand, little can be accomplished by dealing in generalities. Qualities are well-known—obedience, respect for the rights and properties of others, basic honesty, respect for the individual. How to obtain these presents the real problem, since few of us would admit that our own children are lacking in these. Therefore, let us make some necessary comparisons by enumerating and describing some types of problem children with whom our own schools must deal today. You be the judge. Is this your child?

1. The toddler who has to be constantly pulled out of drawers, closets, and knick-knack shelves when at home or on a social call with his mother. He can be trained, you know, if he is normal mentally, and that training should have been producing better results by the time he began walking.

2. The six-year-old who last September threw a screaming fit when mother sought to leave him in the school room; or the lower-grader who sulks and cries at being corrected; or his neighbor who when asked to join the reading circle says, "I don't want to." Are any of these yours?

3. The adolescent whose training, or lack of it, in meeting problems of sex leads him into the acquirement of undesirable attitudes which lead to undesirable deeds.

4. The teen-ager who maliciously destroys school property or family property or misuses the family car. In short, his immature thoughts and actions are not in keeping with his age.

5. The youngster whose parent arrives at the school hopping mad several times a year because the child was reprimanded or punished.

6. The youngster who pokes fun at A-students and firmly believes that athletics and other extra-curricular activities are far more important than scholastic achievement.

7. The youngster with little or no concept of the use or value of time or money.

8. The boy or girl who sees no fault in cheating on a test or in aiding someone else to cheat.

9. Or the youngster who comes to us at Midwestern with an I. Q. of 120, but fails at midterm because he has never learned to apply himself or to govern himself in even the simplest matters without constant adult supervision.

Parents, are these your boys and girls? These are some of the children with whom the school and community must deal from day to day. If you recognize your own in this group, you have failed to instill in them some of the necessary virtues of obedience, respect, honesty, and integrity. Their actions present unmistakable evidence of parental failure. But more often than not, the blame for these conditions is placed on the school.

In conclusion let me say this: The parent is the senior partner in the educational partnership. No one can take your place. The success or failure of the partnership depends, in the main, on you. Do not let your partnership go bankrupt!

Agriculture

The Texas Department of Agriculture

By John C. White, Commissioner

UP-DATING AGRICULTURE BY LAW

Agriculture in Texas and the nation is going through a dramatic evolution.

If the changes we are experiencing in farming and farm life were just a bit more physically violent — it could be properly called a "Revolution." No previous era in Agriculture has seen such an emphatic shift in emphasis and techniques as we have since World War II.

Old farm concepts have been outmoded by new and dynamic production and marketing. As a result, laws passed 20 and 30 years ago have, in some instances, not met the needs of this period.

This is particularly true in Texas. Some of our old laws are impractical. And even some of our legislation that is less than 2 years old already need amending.

A goal of the Texas Department of Agriculture during the next legislative session will be to emphasize changes in the following fields:

1. Revision of the nursery law.
2. A marketing enabling act.
3. A new general warehouse law.

4. Dressed poultry inspection and egg law.

5. Amending the recently enacted egg law.

6. Amendments to the weights and measures law.

A new nursery law is needed to set up some basis of standards and to control movement of inferior nursery stock into Texas.

The marketing enabling act is necessary because our selling and transportation methods have not kept up with the giant strides made in farm production. The state farm agency needs to enlarge its work to provide data to growers and handlers of volumes of commodity movement, planting, harvesting and grading services. At present, the TDA has no authority to participate in these types of programs except that which is rendered in the language of the current appropriation bill.

The present general warehouse law provides that all warehouse storage space for hire shall be bonded by the Agriculture Department. However, the penalty provision is weak and inadequate.

On poultry inspection, the federal government has made inspection compulsory for poultry moving in interstate commerce. The same type of service is needed within the state to protect Texas consumers against inferior and low quality poultry.

The new Texas egg law already needs amending because fining of the statute is insufficient. This program should and could be self-supporting without the necessity of any use of tax money.

A fee system of checking scales and enforcing the weights and measures law is also advocated. This is practiced in other states and would place financing of the act on a solid footing in Texas.

These changes in law are necessary if our state government is to keep pace of modern agriculture.

To Be "Best-Dressed": It Takes $$

So you think you're well-dressed? You may be.

But unless your budget allows at least $10,000 to $40,000 yearly for clothing, you haven't a chance of even being eyed as a candidate for the annual accolades bestowed on the best-dressed women.

This is the minimum—not including furs and jewels—you must spend to be well-enough garbed to qualify for the candidates' list, the March Ladies' Home Journal reports in an article on the fashionable few. Then to get from that list to the top ten list depends on other factors ranging from health to willingness and ability to lead a demanding, expensive life.

The women who have regularly met the qualifications are the Duchess of Windsor; Mrs. Winston Churchill, the Countess of Bismarck, the former Mrs. Harrison Williams; Mrs. Henry Ford II; and the late Mrs. Byron Bay, the former Thelma Chrysler.

Following are some of the major items in the closet of one "best-dressed" woman: 11 fur coats and fur pieces; 28 evening dresses; 19 suits; 40 nightgowns; 72 housecoats, negligees, nightgowns; 71 blouses, sweaters; 225 pairs of gloves; 89 pairs of shoes; 37 hats; 86 undergarments; 5 dozen pairs of stockings; 127 pieces of jewelry.

She is her New York wardrobe, housed in a pink room the size of an apartment living room. It would cost $100,000 to replace (not including furs, jewels). But that's not all! She has about two-thirds as much at each of her four other residences.

When adding to her wardrobe she spends $150 for a slip, $800 to $1000 for a suit, $500 to $850 for a dress—all custom-made, naturally.

Other notes on the fashionable few:

—The idea that they wear wear costly gowns twice and toss them aside is far from the truth. This winter Mrs. Paley wore a nine-year-old ball gown and Mrs. Guest took an eight-year-old suit to Europe.

—Their fashion-world success is partly ascribed to frequent appearances at charity affairs where they are observed.

—They constantly harbor a fear of gaining weight! A five-pound gain could destroy the usefulness of a fortune in closely-fitted garments.

So Olmstead appealed to the committee of the Continental Congress named to review all cases of capture at sea. It decided for Captain Olmstead. The Pennsylvania court at once denied the committee's right to upset its jury's verdict.

Meanwhile, we had given up the Articles of Confederation and adopted the Constitution which lodged admiralty powers in the federal government.

For thirty-one hard-fought years the case shuttled between state and federal courts. Everybody got into the act — the governor, the legislature, Congress, and even President Madison.

In 1809 the U. S. Supreme Court upheld a lower court which had decided that the Committee of Congress was right. This was a victory for Olmstead.

In this showdown Pennsylvania called out her troops. Rebellion spread. The U. S. Marshall swore in a 2,000 man posse to take over the prize money for Olmstead. Finally when President Madison himself said the Court had the backing of the U. S. Government, the Pennsylvania legislature gave in.

Poor Olmstead at 83 got his prize money, but he won a bigger case for the Supreme Court before the American people. As so often happens, a Supreme Court case involves justice for one man, in this case a humble fisherman. But the issue was national in scope.

walnut roll and caramel-dipped pecans. In fact, 10,000 items. In North Little Rock, this sign is in front of a pawnshop: "Need dough? See Frank or Moe."

And in Memphis: A roaming shine-boy chants, "Shoe-shine a dime; a brush, a penny."

And the proprietor of a one-chair shine parlor in the entrance way of a vacant building: "Yes, sir, shine 'em so they'll look like brand new from Julius Lewis'!" In reply to a question, "Who is Julius Lewis?" "It's so fine that a pair of carpet-slippers costs $20."

Memphis visitors once more have the opportunity to ride on an excursion steamer. The boat isn't nearly as large as the "Princess" was but it is trim and neat-looking.

A steamboat glides along, pushing three large barges and kicking up waves. From the railroad bridge, a curving ripple in the river can be seen; to the eye of a pilot, it tells a story — perhaps a sand-bar.

A station-wagon parked on Madison near Main is identified by lettering as belonging to an armored car company and also there is the information that "this car contains no money or other valuables."

And I viewed a shrine — the home of Elvis Presley. It is a new brick mansion, two stories, back from the highway. There is a high fence; also a big iron gate which is open but a guard prevents entry. Elvis' figure is shown in wrought iron on the gate.

Ten cars were parked in front of the estate and the occupants waited, on the chance that their idol might appear.

Down the walkway came a young man with sideburns but it was soon apparent that he was too bulky — perhaps one of the musicians. By the time we drove on, after several minutes, four more cars had stopped.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

SUPREME COURT HAS LAST WORD

The Tenth Amendment says that all powers not given to the United States government shall belong to the states or to the people.

In any showdown, one court — the Supreme Court of the United States — says whether the federal or the state governments (or nobody) can do certain things. Hence the case of the sturdy Captain Gideon Olmstead, the first man who tested this court power. And what a time he had!

In 1778 the British ship Active captured Captain Olmstead's fishing boat upon the open sea and took his three-man crew aboard to help sail a war cargo to New York. But Olmstead and his three men drove the British below deck. While Olmstead headed for New Jersey his men kept up a battle with the crew below. After two days the American brig Convention hove to and took over and its captain, Thomas Houston, claimed the Active as a prize since there was still fighting going on.

Olmstead protested, but the brig brought in the prize to Philadelphia.

Under the Articles of Confederation states like Pennsylvania had set up admiralty courts to decide claims arising at sea. The Philadelphia court gave Olmstead only one-fourth the prize.

WTCC Convention Slated In Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH — Dates for the 40th annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held here this year, have been changed to April 28 and 29, according to an announcement by B. E. Godfrey of Fort Worth, president of the WTCC.

Original dates for the convention of March 20 and 21 had to be changed, Godfrey said, due to several reasons.

The 40th annual meeting will mark the second time for the WTCC to meet in Ft. Worth. The 10th annual meeting of the 132 county regional chamber was held in Ft. Worth in June, 1928.

Godfrey said the convention headquarters will be at the Hotel Texas. However, he added that accommodations for delegates may also be obtained at a number of other Ft. Worth hotels.

Tate Explains Social Security For Area Farmers

Erton F. Tate, district manager of the Wichita Falls social security office points out that the purpose of social security for farmers is the same as social security for other working people and their families. Social security insurance old-age benefits are intended to replace part of the income lost because of lower earnings or loss of earnings due to retirement.

Tate stated that the farmer who has no earnings after he becomes entitled to his social security payments may receive his benefits regularly. Even though a farmer did not retire after he applied for the social security payments, he may receive the benefits for all months if his earnings for the year are not more than $1200. The farmer whose earnings are more than $1200 may still receive benefits for some months if his earnings for the year do not exceed $2080, or if his farm work has been seasonal and he did not work in some months.

Tate pointed out that all farmers who have applied for the so-

REAL LOVE FOR A CHILD?
(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

JUDGE HUGHES

Real love, so necessary in combating juvenile delinquency is not trying to "own" the child, not giving him so many material things. It is giving him a sense of his own significance in his home and among his friends.

Real love does not over-indulge him, does not provide the repeated entertainment excitement nor the continual new possessions he childishly begs for. Instead it provides understanding, emotional security, stability, as he runs up against the hard knocks life hands us all from time to time.

No Stability for Her
At the end of one day in a custody case I told a 4-year-old she would stay with her mother that week-end. "My old mother or my new one?" she asked.

Patsy, with two mothers and two fathers, had been shifted from one to the other and consequently had no sense of security, of belonging—such a necessary part of love in a child's life.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The Internal Revenue Service offices are having tax information days every Monday morning again this year in the North Texas offices between January 1 and April 15.

Every year more taxpayers are learning that the best way to figure their tax is to spend time studying the tax instructions and figuring out for themselves just what they owe. Once upon a time a few taxpayers took all their checks and a tow sack full of receipts down to the Internal Revenue Service office and the tax people spent a lot of time adding up their income and deductions for them.

The Revenue folks decided, however, that it was the taxpayer's job to do his own accounting and that the tax folks should spend their time answering questions and showing the taxpayer where to put the figures instead of doing a whole lot of simple accounting for a few taxpayers. If you have any questions or need help in getting your income on your tax return, the tax folks will be glad to have you come in. If you need help in doing your adding and subtracting, you probably need to find a good tax practitioner to help you.

MODERN HOMEMAKING

Recipes . . . Household Helps

By Julia Hunter

HOME ECONOMICS DIRECTOR, LONG STAR GAS CO.

From rice served in a great variety of dishes in the Southwest to rice served with maple syrup and cream in New England, rice is served in all these United States. Grown here since 1647, the rice we eat today is top quality American grown from Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and California.

Any day or any week is a good time for rice, but the week of March 16 is National Rice week, an especially good time for rice dishes. With no waste, no peeling, no scraping, not even any washing, thanks to modern milling methods, rice is so easy to prepare.

"1-2-1" is the magic combination for cooking fluffy white rice . . . 1 cup rice, 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt. 1 cup of uncooked rice makes about 3 cups of cooked rice and 1/4 cup cooked rice is an average serving. For cooking 1 cup rice, use a 3-quart saucepan that has a tight-fitting lid. Combine 1 cup regular white rice, 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt in the saucepan. Bring to boil, uncovered, over full gas flame, stirring once or twice as the water comes to a boil. Cover pan, reduce flame to simmer and continue cooking about 14 minutes without removing lid and without stirring. Makes about 3 cups. For drier rice, fluff the rice lightly with a fork at the end of the 14 minutes cooking, cover again and let stand 5 to 10 minutes. For extra tender rice, increase the water 1/3 cup and increase the cooking time 5 minutes.

Pre-cooked rice is the answer for those who want cooked rice in a real hurry. Follow package directions for cooking it. The very newest in a pre-cooked rice is advertised, "From package to plate in 5 minutes!" And that's all it takes. We tried it. Delicious!

It's smart planning to cook extra rice to have on hand. Stored in a covered dish in the refrigerator, cooked rice keeps perfectly and reheats easily. To reheat, place rice in a covered pan with a few tablespoons of water. Place over low gas flame for a few minutes, just long enough to heat it thoroughly.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Shrimp Creole: Heat 3 tablespoons shortening in a deep heavy skillet or Dutch Oven over low gas flame. Add and cook until tender, 1 cup sliced onions, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1 minced clove of garlic. Mix and add 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne and 1/4 cup water. Mix well. Add 1/2 cup water. Cook over medium gas flame 15 minutes, stirring enough to make smooth. Add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 bay leaf and 2 cups cooked shrimp. Cover, bring to boil over full gas flame, reduce flame to simmer and continue cooking 30 minutes. Serve on mounds of hot fluffy cooked rice. Makes 6 servings.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. H. M. D., State Health Officer

AUSTIN — How many parents have thought to themselves, "Judy seems bright enough, but just look at her report card, she should be doing much better and her teacher says she is inattentive and moody."

It is only natural for parents to be concerned about their children's behavior and achievements in school or play. Oftentimes difficulties experienced by children which may make them appear slow or uncooperative have definite physical relationships of one kind or another.

The most common and usually least suspected are those involving the eyesight and hearing. Too often a child falls behind in school or fails to enjoy himself with other children because of faulty hearing or an eye disorder.

For this reason parents and teachers alike should be alert for signs which may indicate trouble of this kind.

Parents themselves can watch for these symptoms in their children, and if one or more should occur, have the child examined by your family physician. If further examination or treatment is indicated, he can refer you to a specialist.

Hearing difficulties often attack subtly. If a child is continually turning his head to hear sounds, leaning forward to hear, asking repetition of things said or frequently inattentive, hearing loss is indicated.

Health factors to observe are: mouth breathing (tonsils and adenoids can cause trouble), draining ears, earaches, and ringing, buzzing or roaring in ears; also certain personality traits indicate hearing deficiencies such as a lack of self-confidence, extreme anti-social behavior, extreme inattention, and constantly being on the defensive.

In achievement a child may be two or three years behind his age-level in school or experience a sudden failure following a severe illness.

Eye difficulties are manifested in more obvious ways such as: frequent blinking, rubbing eyes frequently, watery eyes, eyes or crusted eyelids, inflamed eyes, squinting at close objects, crossed eyes, and attempts to brush away a blur.

Also frequent crying, holding a book far away or too close while reading, screws up face while reading, tenses body in far-vision, looks out of only one eye or experiences headaches after close work.

Don't delay if any or some of these signs appear in your child. Prompt attention now could save his sight or hearing and improve his whole outlook on life.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

This week there were a number of representatives of the oil and gas industry from Texas who appeared before the Committee on Ways and Means to testify for the need of some effective control of foreign oil imports. Sometimes we are prone to forget how important oil is to our Nation and State and to the North Texas Area. In the Thirtieth Congressional District oil is one of our really basic products. Last year there were 75,600,000 barrels of oil produced in our Congressional District which had a gross value of $236,000,000. 65 per cent of this oil was produced by independent operators, and 90 per cent of the wells drilled were drilled by independents. Our production in the 13th District of approximately 210,000 barrels per day comes from 30,000 wells with an overall average production of 7 barrels per day; however, 20,000 of these wells are classified as stripper wells with an average production of 2.75 barrels per day. 16,000 people are employed by oil firms in our area. 8500 land owners receive royalty checks, and 32,000 people are engaged in providing oil field services and supplies. This is a total of 56,500 people that are earning all or part of their living from the production of oil out of our total population of approximately 375,000. If we assume that each of these persons is making the living for families of at least three, it becomes evident that almost half of the population of North Texas depends for some part of their living on the oil industry, and, of course, many others receive the benefit of the money that these people spend for their necessities. Also, any general recession in the oil business brings very acute problems to our County Governments and School Districts in that it brings a sharp decline in one of their chief sources of tax revenue. All of this points up the necessity of some realistic control of imports so that our domestic oil industry can continue to grow and develop. The hearings dealing with the whole question of foreign trade will last probably another three weeks. At the conclusion of the hearings, the Committee will report a bill on foreign trade policy which will be in effect for at least the next two years. Under the present law the President has the right to impose mandatory controls on imports which he has not yet seen fit to do.

Visitors from home this week were Mr. George W. Anderson, Jr., Mr. Ben Lowell, and Mr. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls; Mr. John Davenport, formerly of Wichita Falls and now of Austin; and Mr. Sid Perryman of Olney.

Texas county agents reported to E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, that last year's forage production in the State was 106 percent of the needs. This compares with 35 percent produced in 1956 and 76 percent in 1955. Rain made the difference.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

The difference in price between today's prescriptions and those of 20 years ago can easily be figured.

The difference is measured in dimes — sometimes even in dollars. But how can we measure the difference in results?

Surely, no value can possibly be put on a life saved by a miracle drug that didn't exist 20 years ago!

That's why we say . . .

New Ford Diesel Tractor On Display

Gene Wood Tractor Sales, Ford tractor dealer in Munday, has received his first United States-made diesel tractor produced by Ford Motor Company. This tractor will be on display Friday, March 14, at his showroom at Seymour Highway.

Ford Motor Company has used its superior research and manufacturing know-how to do something which the farm equipment industry has been trying to do for years. It has substantially cut the price differential between gasoline and diesel tractors to make these new Ford Diesels the lowest priced diesel-powered tractors in their field," he said.

The tractor, except for its engine, is identical in features and in size with Ford's new large Powermaster gasoline and LP-gas tractors. All Ford implements can be used interchangeably throughout the entire tractor line.

The Ford four-cylinder diesel engine has the same displacement as Ford's large gasoline engine. It delivers up to 40 belt horsepower. The torque characteristics of diesel power make the new tractor capable of pulling semi-mounted four-bottom plows in many soil conditions, Mr. Wood said.

The Ford diesel engine features heavy pistons equipped

Out of the laboratory and into the field comes a new line of diesel tractors, the first made by Ford Motor Company in the United States. After years of research, Ford engineers have developed a four-cylinder diesel engine that can be produced at near-gasoline engine price, making economical diesel power available to more farmers. Shown above is one of seven models, available in row-crop, all-purpose, and utility design. All implements in the Ford line fit the new diesel tractors, as well as the gasoline and LP-gas engine models.

with five rings, forged steel crankshafts, new connecting rods and other special parts. The vital fuel injection system uses the proved-in-use Simms injectors and the famous Roosa Master injector pump. A fuel filter, with easily replaceable element, provides clean fuel to the pump.

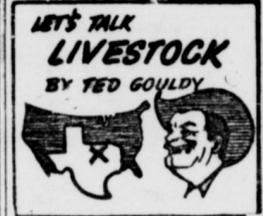

The new diesel engine is available in Ford's 801 and 901 series of tractors, in seven models of utility, row-crop and all-purpose types.

In addition, Mr. Wood said he has on display the new Workmaster 601 and 701 series of farm and industrial tractors with gasoline and LP-gas engines.

"With the new diesel, we have a complete line of new tractors in power classes and prices which will be of interest to every user. We cordially invite everyone to drop in, see and try out these new Ford tractors," he added.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sloan and daughters of Midland were week end guests of her mother, Mrs. Muriel Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Borden attended the funeral of Mrs. Borden's brother, Alf Campbell, in Dallas last Monday afternoon.

LIVESTOCK PRICE SURGE BOOSTS FARM INCOME
FORT WORTH — For the month ending February 15th, Texas farmers' income was up 1 1/2%, despite the decline of 1% in all crops during the period. What made the difference was the increase of nearly 4% in livestock prices. Recently strong markets on all kinds of livestock at Fort Worth have reflected these gains, which USDA figures at $2 per hundred on cattle, 90c on calves; 30c on sheep and 20c on lambs.

The trade at Fort Worth Monday again reflected the strong current position of livestock. Cattle and calves continued to set the pace with an active trade and strong prices. Some sales of cows and replacement cattle and calves were 25 to 50 cents higher. Clearance was effected well before noon on most all offerings.

Comparative prices: Good and choice fed steers and yearlings $24 to $28, latter figure on club steers from Spur; medium and lower grades $16 to $24. Fat cows $17 to $19, few to $20. Canners and cutters $12 to $17.50. Bulls $15 to $21. Good and choice fat calves $25 to $27.50, and lower grade killers $14 to $24. Good stocker calves $25 to $28, and steer yearlings $27.50 down. Feeder steers $25 down. A few stocker cows $15 to $20.

HOGS OPEN STEADY TO 25c HIGHER, TOP $21.50-$21.75

Choice meat hogs opened on a little strong basis at Fort Worth Monday, with sales in the $21.50-$21.75 bracket. Mixed grades and weights cashed at $18 to $21, with most of the heavyweights $1 to $1.50 under the more desirable kinds. Sows were steady at $17 to $19.

SPRING LAMBS WEAK TO 50c LOWER; FEEDERS STRONG

Farmers Advised To Plan Now For Summer Irrigation

Winter rains won't make a summer crop.

"This is no time to forget about irrigation equipment," cautions Charles M. Hohn, research agricultural engineer, Texas A. and M. College System. "If you've been considering irrigation in the past, don't abandon the ideas just because we have soil-moisture now."

"Depending on present soil-moisture to make a crop is like trying to operate through the year on a bank balance which you don't replenish from time to time."

"True, we get rains occasionally during the growing season — and they just might be enough — but experience shows that the timing usually isn't the best for crop growth and production."

Hohn cites the 1957 crop year, during which the Brazos River bottom near Texas A. and M. received 57 inches of rain (the average annual rainfall in the area is about 38 inches) but tests showed irrigation was needed for profitable farming.

Most crop plants only take significant amounts of water from the top three feet or less of the soil, Hohn says. Any water which has percolated below that level plays little part in plant growth. At the best, that top three feet of soil can hold only a comparatively few inches of water, and not all of that is available to the plant without placing it under stress.

Evapotranspiration (evaporation and plant use, or 'transpiration') takes from 15 to 40 inch of water per day from the soil during summer growing seasons. Even a six-inch rain doesn't last long under such conditions.

Lack of water at certain times during the plant's life can cost the farmer a great deal of money, even during wet years, Hohn says. This is particularly noticeable in cotton, where great numbers of blooms and potential blooms fail to follow through as fruit; at least part of this probably is due to lack of sufficient moisture during critical times.

C. M. Pearce of O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pearce, underwent surgery in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock last Monday. Mrs. Pearce reports that he is getting along fine.

How Not To Have Long, Happy 1958

Here is a set of resolutions, from the Texas Safety Association, that will be easy to make, and if you follow them you won't live long enough to break a single one.

Don't stop at "Stop Signs" — they're for the other cars.

Always ride bumper to bumper — you're insured.

Have one for the road before you start — you can't drive any worse.

Think about something else while driving — you drive by instinct anyway.

Drive faster in bad weather — you will skid better, and the fast skid will probably head you back in the right direction.

Drive with your bright-lights on — the other drivers are half asleep anyway.

Never yield the right of way to a pedestrian — they can jump sideways and your car can't.

Stay on your side of the road if there is danger of getting hit — otherwise let the other fellow look out for you.

Be courteous, blow your horn so everyone can get out of your way — and always insist on the right of way, and someday you'll get it with soft music, slow marching and flowers you won't be able to smell.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Isn't Worried Because Agricultural College Graduates Don't Farm

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek has found a new angle to the farm problem, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:
With a lot of the experts claiming there are too many farmers as it is, you wouldn't think there'd be any problem to a piece of news I read the other day in a newspaper I found blown against a fence out here which I removed in a hurry as the fence just barely can stand up now without any additional wind resistance, but there's apparently no limit to how hard some people will hunt to find something about the farm problem to worry about.

According to this news item, only 17 per cent of the nation's agricultural college graduates return to the farm when they finish one of the 50 agricultural colleges scattered throughout the United States, and some experts were worrying about this. What would happen, they asked, if only 17 per cent of medical school graduates stayed with medicine?

I guess it does seem odd to have 50 agricultural colleges teaching agriculture and have only 17 per cent of the graduates go into farming, but this is because some people don't understand the situation.

For example, I was talking to a neighbor of mine who has a boy in an agricultural college and I asked him about this.

"Is your boy going to come back and farm when he gets out of college?" I asked him.

"Are you crazy?" he asked me. "I'm sending him to college so he won't have to farm."

I hadn't thought about this, but it may make sense and if the experts are worrying because only 17 per cent of the agricultural college graduates take up farming, think what they'd have to worry about if 90 per cent of them did it. Talk about an agricultural surplus.

On the other hand, there are those who say the way to cut down on the surplus is to get more experts into farming. This group contends that the more theoretical knowledge a man has of farming, the less enthusiastic he is about going up one row and down another.

This is true in a lot of fields. Most people had rather tell a teacher how to teach their child than to teach him themselves, most people had rather tell a school board how to run the school than get on the board themselves, most people had rather tell a city council how to run the town than to tackle the job themselves, and there are more people willing to tell a preacher what to preach about than to preach themselves. I don't know, but I imagine you may run into people occasionally who can tell you how to run your newspaper.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Farmers Warned To Wage All-out Fight Against Insects

There are a number of excellent reasons why cotton growers should go all-out to control insects this year; for, it will pay big dividends to take the necessary steps to see that a full crop goes to the gin rather than down some "Bug's Belly".

First, we are assured a minimum price of at least $190.00 per bale (middling inch) for lint and seed in 1958. The Government Loan Programs insure the grower this amount. Cotton can sell higher but no lower than the present supports for lint and seed.

The sub-soil moisture is the best in years. The experts all say that sub-soil moisture is adequate to insure a better than average crop. With timely rains on non-irrigated land, a record breaking acre yield should be made.

Cotton insects can be counted on to be a limiting factor in production if they are not controlled. There has been plenty of host plants for the thrips, aphid, flea-hopper, bollworm, etc., to hibernate in or feed on this winter and spring. Even though the carryover of boll weevils and pink bollworms is moderate, the fact remains that there is plenty of moisture for cotton plants to grow and fruit during June. This is a critical month for these insects to build-up. With favorable fruiting and growing conditions for cotton, conditions will, also, be favorable for the build-up of bollworms, boll weevils, and other insects. The grower must, therefore, control insects or have them take a terrific toll from this year's crop.

Another loss that will be costly is lower grades caused by insect "spots". This often amounts to over $25.00 per bale. In many cases, the cost of insect control is more than paid for by the reduction in "spots", alone.

Our advice to cotton growers is to make up your mind, NOW, to control insects and GET READY. Study the GUIDE FOR CONTROLLING COTTON INSECTS. Select the poison to be used and have it on hand. Check and have a sprayer or duster ready to go. Then, don't "fiddle" around and make excuses while insects are stealing your crop.

Win 4-H Awards

Kay Botard, 15, of Jim Wells county, knows how to make a real home. Proof of her ability is that she won the 1957 4-H award in 4-H Girls' Home Economics. Rewarding this future Texas homemaker with a $150 scholarship is Montgomery Ward, donor of awards for the 25th consecutive year.

In 2 1/2 years as a 4-H'er, Kay compiled a long list of achievements. She sewed 250 garments and articles for her home, prepared and froze several hundred pounds of food, cooked 250 meals, completely redecorated her bedroom.

Since 1955, Kay has served as 4-H junior leader. A year ago she organized the Lucky Clover 4-H Club for girls between 9 and 11 years old.

A green thumb and a willing hand proved a winning combination for Rita Stewart, 15, of Brown county who won the state 4-H Beautification of Home Grounds award.

Kay Botard

Rita Stewart

For Rita's outstanding work with lawns, flowers and plants she received a 19-jewel wrist watch from Mrs. Charles R. Walkgreen, Chicago.

Rita led a shrub identification team which recently placed first in the district, state and youth fairs. She was a two-term president of her local 4-H club.

These 4-H award programs are conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Z. T. Armstrong, son of Mrs. Fannie Armstrong, recently stationed at Moffett Field, San Francisco, Calif., left Tuesday for San Diego, Calif., after spending his twenty day leave here with his family.

The 1957 production of broilers in the United States was approximately 1,400 million birds and the 1958 output may go higher reports Marshall Miller, associate extension poultry marketing specialist. Per capita consumption of broilers has jumped from about 4.3 pounds, ready-to-cook basis, to more than 18 pounds from 1947 to the present.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Jungman of Fort Worth, formerly of Munday, announce the arrival of a daughter, Karen Ann, who was born on March 3. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jungman and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holub, all of Munday.
