Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

Just how far have we gone at becoming civilized?

k-k
Not so very long ago, Vice President Nixon made a trip to some South American countries, and the reception he received in some places made us wonder about how civilized those people are. He was thrown at, spit upon, and received demonstrations that indicated the people wanted to do him bodily harm.

k-k
Many Americans became kinda riled up about it. It was not the kind of reception Americans liked from another country.

k-k
More recently, a high Russian diplomat — second in command in his country — paid a visit to the U. S. His reception was somewhat like that accorded Nixon; except, possibly not as violent. And we think we in America are just about the leaders in civilization! It seems we are civilized to those people and things we like — and somewhat barbarian to those in conflict with our ideas.

k-k
Munday is starting a move that we like. It's the United Fund organization, a story of which ran in last week's paper.

k-k
Under the United Fund, only one drive for funds for various organizations — local, state and national — will be made. Then directors of the fund will apporportion the funds to these organizations.

k-k
Early in the year, we usually have the March of Dimes drive, followed by various other drives, such as: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, heart fund, cancer fund, Salvation Army, and many others. Local people are called upon to help as workers in these drives, and many help in more than one. Local townspeople are contacted for each drive, and there is what sometimes seems a continuous solicitation for funds for worthy causes.

k-k
One drive for the United Fund can take care of all of these — one group of workers, one contact with the people, and it's all over for a year.

k-k
If you've been giving a total of $50 to all of these causes, wouldn't it be easier to give $50 once and be through. We understand, too, that if you want to make it semi-annual, monthly, etc., it can be arranged under the United Fund. Just sounds like it ought to work.

k-k
We went to Benjamin last Friday, and, among other things, we purchased our permit to vote this year. There may not be many elections this year, but there's almost sure to be some in which you'll want to vote. The deadline for getting your poll tax receipt is Saturday, January 31.

k-k
Highway patrolmen for this area reported property damage of $27,627.00 in 1958 because of automobile accidents. That's a right neat little figure, and the tragic part is that a lot of it could have been prevented.

k-k
Our auto received its 1959 safety sticker a few days ago, but even at that the thing isn't any safer than the guy behind the wheel wants it to be!

k-k
"Any reports today?" No telling how often that question or a similar one is asked, as folks try to "keep tab" on the condition of Chester Borden, who has been battling it out at a Wichita Falls hospital for a week. Reports since Monday have been very encouraging, and if "Old Ches" but knew how many people were concerned about him, inquiring about him, and pulling for him, that blood pressure would drop back to normal but quick. Friends and loved ones are encouraged, now. We want Ches. back with us!

Cable Vision Available For T. V. Viewers

Cable vision will soon be available for T. V. viewers in Munday, according to an announcement made Wednesday by C. H. Calrk and his son, C. G. Clark, of Knox City, who are in the process of completing the huge T. V. tower and its network of cables in Munday.

Work on this community T. V. service was started around December 10, and the Clarks stated they expect it to be ready for service around January 28.

The big 400-foot tower has been erected just outside the city limits, southwest of town, and from it goes the network of cables which are being strung along the streets and alleys, making this improved cable vision available to all who desire it.

A number of towns in West Texas that are in the "fringe area" of television stations, or outside the area, have used this service successfully for several years. The one at Knox City has been in operation for over a year. The cable service brings a constant signal, with better and brighter pictures on the receiving sets.

The service in Munday will be at a rate of $7.50 per month, the Clarks stated, plus a $7.50 installation fee, as special adapters are required for tying into the cable. Operators of the service also stated they will trade for all private towers, should the owners desire to dispose of them when tying onto the cable service.

MYSTERY MAN — Merlin

Merlin, the hypnotist, who is appearing at the school auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday, January 23, under auspices of the Munday Lions Club, will call a number of willing volunteers from the audience. While under hypnosis, they will shiver with cold, see a motion picture and other uncanny demonstrations, which Merlin achieves through the power of suggestion.

A feature of the show is to make a volunteer stiff as a board, then stretch him between two chairs — his head on the edge of one chair and his heels on the edge of the other. Then Merlin stands on the person's stomach. After it's all over, the volunteer remembers the demonstration as though it had taken place in a dream. To demonstrate the power of post hypnotic suggestion, Merlin tells the volunteers that their right foot will be fastened to the floor when they try to leave the stage. They find it impossible to leave the stage until Merlin breaks the spell.

Another feature is Erna the Princess of Magic, who has mastered the Hindu Basket trick.

Merlin is one of the few magicians who have mastered the escape from a straight jacket, which is generally considered to be the most difficult of all the magicians' accomplishments.

Instead of escaping from a thoroughly examined and padlocked box, as the Great Houdini used to, Merlin locks a young lady in the box, and then in a matter of seconds, the lady is out and Merlin is in. The box is unlocked, the lid removed, and out jumps Merlin.

Were Houdini alive and active today, undoubtedly the two magicians would be close competitors for the top position as escape experts.

WANT AN OIL WELL?

Did you ever say, "I wish I had an oil well?" Most of us have. For oil, gushing out of the ground, has become a symbol of big money.

Great fortunes, of course, have been made in oil. But the proportion of successes is a great deal smaller than most people think. For one thing, finding oil is an extremely expensive and risky business. A large majority of wells turn out dry. Huge sums of money have been sunk in the ground and will stay there forever, returning nothing.

That isn't all. Petroleum Week has carried a special report on problems now confronting oil. According to it, in the oil industry's coming fight for profits, the victors will be those with the sharpest competitive weapons—the newest and most efficient drilling rigs, refineries, pipelines and service stations.

Industry leaders surveyed by the magazine said the main need today is not for more tools—it is for better tools. This year will go on record as one the U. S. oil industry spent polishing its tools and techniques for the rough competition that is expected in the 1960's. Modernization will be the big word—in drilling gear and methods, in the refineries, in transportation by the pipelines.

That phrase "rough competition" pretty well tells the story in itself. There's nothing easy, nothing sure, nothing simple, about the oil business today.

YOU CAN'T UNRING A BELL

Several years ago the Federal government moved to force divestiture of oil company ownership of service stations on the West coast. In handing down a pre-trial decision, against the government, U. S. Judge James M. Carter declared that: ". . . If the (suppliers) were forced to dispose of the service stations and it should develop thereafter that the Court had been wrong, that economic dislocation was even greater than had existed before, you can't undo what you have done." He then made this classic comparison: "When a bell is rung, you can't unring it."

We should remember these words when we temperize with inflation or acquiesce in the schemes of those who are hell bent on exchanging progress under private enterprise for loss of personal liberty under centralized government control.

Alexander Graham Bell, it's safe to say, would find it impossible to believe what his great invention—the telephone—is on the verge of doing. Here's what President Donald C. Power of the General Telephone Company has to say:

"The broad market for telephone products and services will make it possible for the telephone subscriber of the future to control the lights and heat within his own home from any distant point merely by dialing predetermined digits. The telephone instrument of the future will consist of communication outlets located in every room in the house, and in many instances provided as built-in facilities, as contrasted with the present day instrument. In response to the doorbell signal, you will be able to establish two-way communication with the caller from any location in your home. The possibility of seeing the image of the individual with whom you are speaking, through the development of phone-a-vision, lies in the near future. . . ."

"When desired, you will obtain news summaries, weather reports and market results for all types of markets (industrial, agricultural, etc.) The future development of special services will permit the dialing of children's stories and to have them carried over a separate speaker located in the nursery. . . . These are the things that are our objectives for future telephone service."

IT HAPPENED IN FRANCE

"President William A. McDonnell of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, served as a captain in the U. S. Army in France in 1918," writes Edson B. Smith in the Boston Herald. "His pay at that time was $200 a month. When exchanged this amounted to 1000 francs. Today $200 will buy 84,000 francs.

"Mr. McDonnell points out that if an equivalent depreciation had happened to the United States dollar, viz, if it had lost 83/84th of its value, a low-priced car would now cost $250,000. A $100,000 life insurance policy would keep a widow in a second-class boarding house for 10 months. A $100 Social Security check would buy two pounds of hamburger.

"The moral of the above is that Mr. McDonnell obviously is of the opinion that the American people are too smug about inflation, a point in which we heartily concur."

In 10 years, Ira G. Yates — it was estimated — received $5,000,000 as his share of the wealth that poured from the wells in the wonder-working field that bore his name.

Yates was born in Hopkins County, Texas, Oct. 29, 1859, the youngest son in a family of four boys and two girls. His father died when Ira was six, and in those difficult times following the Civil War, the widow and her family traveled by wagon to Wilson County, in the ranching country of South Texas. When Ira was 12, his mother died.

One of his first jobs was digging peanuts at 50 cents a day. Then the boy did ranch work in the Live Oak country and soon he was handling cattle that were being driven to Rockport and Powderhorn for shipment to Cuba and elsewhere.

The only formal schooling he received was at 14 and was due to an accident. His horse fell on the youth, whose right ankle was severely injured. He rode the forty miles, without water or food and suffering greatly, to the Thompson ranch, where he was employed, and while he was recovering, the governess of the Thompson children taught him to write. His first letter was to a sister, the first word the family had received from Ira since he had left home.

From the Thompson ranch, he went to work for J. N. Upton in Karnes County and, at 17, had saved enough money to start trading in cattle, horses and mules. In 1883, when he was 23, he married a widow with one son — Ann S. Brooks, daughter of a Methodist minister. A son was born in Karnes County and not long afterward they moved a tireless old man when I say that my heart is hourly in San Angelo and the surrounding country. I love the people and the country, which has been home to me since I was a young man.

"No other place is home to me. I moved to San Antonio on the advice of my doctor on account of my nervous condition and my health is better than it has been for several years."

Yates was president of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company at San Angelo.

In 1938, Mrs. Yates died and Yates' death occurred in Seton Infirmary in Austin, on April 12, 1939, from pneumonia. The funeral was held in Ira Yates' beloved San Angelo.

Miss Ilene Bellinghausen And Louis Redder Marry In Rites At Rhineland

Marriage vows were exchanged before a Nuptial Mass held Saturday at 4 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Rhineland, uniting Miss Ilene Ann Bellinghausen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bellinghausen, and Louis Fred Redder, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Redder, all of Rhineland.

Rev. Anthony Schroeder, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony read before an altar accented by baskets of white gladioli.

Wedding music was provided by the St. Joseph's Church choir, with Mrs. Leo Fetsch, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an original gown fashioned of satin and re-embroidered alencon lace. The gown, designed with a princess silhouette, featured a yoke of alencon lace and Sabrina neckline edged in natural lace scallops extending over the shoulders to form long lace sleeves. Bias folds of satin gave an empire effect. The princess line skirt flared from the fitted waistline to form a sweeping chapel train. Her veil of nylon tulle was attached to a crown of white seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Arleda Moore of Munday, who wore a waltz length dress of red velvet featuring a Sabrina neckline and bouffant pleated skirt. She wore a headband of matching velvet featuring a flat bow. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with red satin streamers.

Bridesmaids, Miss Norma Railsback of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Julius Pennartz of Decatur, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Lambert Holub of Seymour, wore ensembles identical to that of the maid of honor.

Miss Barbie Bellinghausen, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Ricky Pavlicek, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

William Bellinghausen of Dallas, brother of the bride, attended as best man. Groomsmen were Wesley Styles of Seymour, Julius Pennartz of Decatur, and Lambert Holub of Seymour. Ushers were Herbert Bellinghausen of Munday and Charles Bellinghausen of Fort Worth, brothers of the bride.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Rhineland. The bride's table was decorated with arrangements of gladioli. Following the reception, a dance was given in honor of the bride and groom.

Mrs. Redder is an honor graduate of Rhineland High School and was employed by the City National Bank of Wichita Falls. She was a member of the Young Women's Christian Association and the American Institute of Banking.

Redder attended Rhineland High School and is engaged in farming near Rhineland.

After a short wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will establish residence in Rhineland.

Pvt. Delton D. (Hobo) Smith of the U. S. Army returned to Ft. Bliss on January 3 where he is now stationed in the U. S. Army. Mr. A. J. Kuehler and daughters and Miss Lois Mae Moore took him back and returned late Sunday evening.

Alcohol And Accidents Go Hand In Hand

By Jeanne Smith, Dodge Safety Consultant

ESPECIALLY TIMELY at the holiday season are some statistics on the relationship of alcohol and accidents released by the National Safety Council.

Urging drivers and pedestrians alike not to mix alcoholic spirits with the Christmas spirit, the Council points out that more than 25 percent of traffic fatalities are the result of drinking.

In Delaware, where special attention has been given to the problem of the drinking driver, blood tests, police reports and intoximeter tests show that 40.5 percent of all drivers involved in traffic fatalities had been drinking.

A test of 50 volunteers, reported by the Council, revealed that drinking seriously impairs both judgment and reaction time.

After the 35 men and 15 women volunteers had first been tested for driving ability, each drank an ounce of whiskey for every 30 pounds of body weight. (In other words, a 150 pound man consumed five drinks.)

Forty-five minutes later, the volunteers were retested with these results:

Nearly all suffered loss of visual sharpness. Thirty percent showed a significant drop in depth perception. More than half were unable to judge distances well and over 50 percent were affected adversely by headlight glare. When quick thinking is vital, Council officials stress, the drinking driver is severely handicapped.

Seymour at the Parkland Memorial Hospital. Mr. Warren underwent surgery last Friday and is in room 221. His condition remains about the same. Mr. Cypert, Melvin and Cathy, went after Mrs. Cypert on Sunday and visited with Mr. Warren.

OUR CHANGING AGRICULTURE

by Wayne Clift, Teacher of Vocational Agriculture Goree High School

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE PREPARES FOR RELATED FARMING OCCUPATIONS

Training received in vocational agriculture by high school students and by adults helps to prepare them for occupations in farming and in agricultural industries.

Few people realize that 40 percent of the 60 million people employed in the United States are employed in agricultural occupations. Of this 40 percent, 13 percent are required to produce the necessary farm commodities, 10 percent are engaged in supplying machinery, fertilizer, and other materials to farmers, and 17 percent are engaged in processing and distributing agricultural products.

In recent years, the number of workers required in farming has decreased but the number required in supplying materials to farmers and in processing and distributing farm commodities has increased. Therefore, the total number of people engaged in the field of agriculture has remained approximately constant.

High school programs of vocational agriculture, then, are concerned with not only providing training for those engaged in or preparing to become engaged in farming but they are concerned also with providing pre-employment training for those going into related farming occupations. These related occupations are as important to our total agricultural economy as the occupation of farming.

A student properly trained in vocational agriculture will make a better agricultural scientist, businessman, processor, chemical salesman, or supplier of agricultural fuels than he would had he not had the basic agricultural training.

The high school vocational agriculture curriculum at Goree High School has been altered to provide the needed emphasis on these related occupations. For example, the student's supervised farming program is stressed in order to provide the proper background of farming experiences. Too, the scientific aspect of plant and animal production is emphasized so students acquire an understanding of applied science. These, and other experiences, provide the needed training for one regardless of whether he goes into farming or into related occupations.

Next week Mr. Clift will discuss "Vocational Agriculture Provides Success Experiences for Students."

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The other day a well-informed lawyer asked me, "How can I keep up with this tax business? There is too much going on. I don't practice tax law, but I would like to know the answers for my own tax decisions."

After talking a little, we decided that the lawyer needed to spend 35c for "Your Federal Income Tax" and since he was operating a business, he also needed the "Tax Guide for Small Business" for 35c. The Internal Revenue Service has given the answer to all of the most common tax problems in these booklets. They both run a little over 100 pages. You don't have to be a lawyer to understand them because they give the answer just as simple as it can be given.

You can order a copy of either or both from Internal Revenue Service, 2101 Pacific Avenue, Dallas, Texas, for 35c each.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Welborn and Gaston visited friends in Altus, Okla., last Sunday.

BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

The law allows a business a wide choice of ways to set itself up, to finance and manage itself. You may have sole ownerships, partnerships, joint ventures, corporations; and within these classes you have many different forms.

To meet modern business conditions, to get full tax advantage, and to protect investors, for example, the law provides many ways for a company to finance itself. And these, in turn, influence the kind of management it can have, and the way it conducts its affairs.

We sometimes speak of "stocks and bonds," for example, as if they were one and the same.

But when you buy a share of stock in a company, you "own" and "undivided" part of everything it owns, but no particular piece of its property.

But what do you have when you buy a corporation's bond or debenture? You own nothing of the company. Instead you are lending money which it promises to pay back with interest when your bond "matures."

Unlike a stockholder, a bondholder as a rule has little to say directly about who manages and how he manages the company. Remotely a bond buyer by withholding or lending money may influence a company's ability to expand. The bondholder gets only his interest payments, which come before the stockholder's "dividends," since he takes less of a risk than the stockholder.

Thus if the corporation quits or goes bankrupt, it must pay the bondholders off before the stockholders get anything.

Where does the "preferred stock" come in? As a rule, preferred stockholders collect a fixed dividend — after the bondholders are paid but before the "common" stockholders get anything. There are many kinds of preferred stock arrangements. But in return for their first chance at the profits the preferred stockholders often give up any voting rights or ability to control the company directly.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer

You may not know it, but the State Department of Health is a first class entertainer as far as motion pictures are concerned.

The films are not intended solely for entertainment of course. They're all on educational health subjects slanted to every age group from kindergartners to oldsters.

During the last two years, over 15,000 bookings have been made of health department films, and displayed to more than one-and-a-half millions of Texans.

Film library secretaries claim that some of the more popular films, such as "The High Wall" — a mental health film dealing with human prejudices — are booked weeks in advance. It is for this reason that a second, third and fourth choice is requested when making application for film loans.

Careful records are kept of each film, containing the number of showings and total audience. Unfortunately about half of the loanees do not fill out the requested information on the card enclosed with each film. As a result the totals actually fall short of the whole number of showings and audience covered with each film.

Some films are very popular. "Preface to Life," a film about parent-child relationships for showing to adult audiences, had 26 viewings before 900 people during September.

One of the headaches of the film library is that loanees insist on rewinding films after use. Film librarians would rather rewind the films themselves in order to check for damage and to clean the film at the same time.

Often a costly film is damaged during the rewinding process when done by unskilled operators. Also, prompt return of a film is important because often films are "booked" continuously and three to four days must be allowed for delivery.

Even though some titles have as many as 10 copies, there is still a waiting list in the peak seasons. Parent-Teacher groups are high on the list of viewers outside of school children.

Any responsible person or group may borrow a Health Department film for non-profit showings. The only cost is the return postage.

A catalog, listing and explaining the nature of each film is available from the Film Library, State Health Department, Austin 1, Texas.

There are over 1,400 films to choose from and all of them will help you to live a healthier life.

What's behind the big switch to FORD?

And here's good news for the economy-minded . . .

With all these exclusives, and with the usual optional equipment, Ford prices are as much as $100 lower* than the nearest major competitor.

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices

These specific common sense features are the big reasons why Ford is the best seller:

1. Six passengers, not just four, ride in comfort. Yes, even the man in the middle. Because Ford's full-depth seats are extra thick all the way across—there's no hard spot in the center as in some cars.
2. The doors are wider for easier entry. Compared with Ford's major competitor, they open wider . . . and have two-stage front door checks.
3. Ford's styling is sensible. It's clean and simple like the Thunderbird. No useless wings that are easy to dent.
4. Ford's frame is safer. In its field, only Ford has a wide-base frame that seats all passengers within the protection of its husky side rails.
5. Ford's spacious luggage compartment is easier to load and unload. High rear trunk wall on Ford's nearest competitor makes loading difficult.
6. Ford's got the most sound and weather insulation—everywhere. No other low-priced car compares.
7. Ford is economical. You save up to a dollar a tankful with Ford's standard Six or Thunderbird V-8 engines—for they thrive on regular gas. You need change oil only after each 4000 miles. The muffler is aluminized to last twice as long as ever. And Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish never—ever—needs waxing.

Come see the world's most beautifully proportioned cars . . .

Horton Equipment Co. Has Agency for New Type Planter For This Area

The problem of having to replant their fields after heavy rains and severe winds has long plagued cotton farmers. This repeat process has regularly cut into the yields and profits in cotton-growing areas where rainfall is often of a hard, dashing nature and can place a crust of soil over seed rows which impairs emergence. Moreover, wind and blowing soil also take their toll.

In a bid to eliminate or sharply reduce this difficulty, Cline Industries, Rush Springs, Okla., is offering their plateau profile planter attachment, which creates a new type of seedbed. This planter is now being distributed locally by Horton Equipment Co. of Munday.

The attachment creates a plateau for the seed about two inches below the original ground level, with furrows on each side of the plateau which run about five inches below the original ground level, providing a trap for water which could impair the cotton's emergence if it were placed in a deep or shallow furrow, as is common. In addition, the attachment places earth several inches above the original ground level between each row to block winds from damaging the young crop.

Although basically designed for use in cotton planting, field tests have shown the attachment to work equally well with other crops planted in lister furrows, such as grain sorghum, peanuts, soybeans, corn and castor beans, according to a report in the May issue of the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman.

Tests in 1954 and 1955 at Oklahoma State's Cotton Research Station, Chickasha, Okla., indicated that the device develops a seedbed which substantially improves emergence over standard procedures, especially when rain follows shortly after planting.

On May 7, 1954, the researchers planted cotton in both the new seedbed and in conventional shallow furrows. A dashing three-inch rain came within 10 days and as a result, the ordinary furrow produced an average of one emerging plant per 10 ft. of row while the new method came up with 20 plants per 10 ft.

The following year the same experiment was tried. The planting was done May 6 and was followed by a rain of about nine inches. The shallow furrow was able to develop 10 plants per 10 ft. while the new seedbed produced 47.

Planting which were not dis-

Cline Industries' planter in cotton field of L. P. Hinds, Levelland, Tex., who took up the planter this year after having to replant four times in 1957. Diagram shows plateau seedbed, protected by gullies to trap excess rainwater and furrows to keep wind and blowing soil from damaging emerging cotton plants.

turbed by severe rains did not reveal as broad a difference in emergence, although reports generally indicated a slightly better stand. Plantings on May 21 and June 8, 1954 came up at 25-20 and 14-10 ratios in favor of the new method.

Oklahoma's extension cotton specialist, G. E. Stroup, in discussing the seedbed in his service's circular No. 619, "A New Seedbed for Cotton", pointed out that it probably works best where land is flat broken. "However," he continued, "where land has been listed the ridges may be dragged down and satisfactory results obtained with this method. . . . Some difficulty has been encountered in using this new type planter where soils are extremely tight. On such soils, the disk does not scour sufficiently and the seed-covering device are ineffective."

Cline Industries cites two operations in western Texas which have claimed considerable success in using the Plateau Profile (or "W") planter. France Baker, Lubbock, Tex., head of Baker Empire Cotton Seed farms, said that he planted 300 acres beginning April 24, 1958 and has his finest crop ever. "We are about the only farmers in Lubbock County who did not have to replant on account of excessive rains. Our cotton is about 30 days old and has been worked twice already, while no other farmers we know of in the area have their cotton up. We estimate the planter will make us many thousands of dollars as a result of our not having to replant."

Similarly, L. P. Hines, Levelland, Tex., estimates that he would have saved $4,000 or more in 1957 plantings and perhaps would have gained from $20,000 to $25,000 by using the new planter, according to a report in the Levelland Daily Sun News. Four replantings that year by Hines shortened his growing season by 40 days and resulted in lowered grades and yields.

HEAVY SUPPLIES OF LIVESTOCK MARKETED ACROSS THE COUNTRY
FORT WORTH — Heaviest supplies of livestock since before the holidays appeared at Fort Worth and around the major marketing circle across the Nation Monday. Fort Worth had 1,300 more cattle than a week ago and 1,500 more than the same day last year. Hog numbers here were 500 larger than a week ago or a year ago. The long delayed sheep move gained speed this week as 7,900 were on hand Monday, which was 4,000 above a week ago and 5,900 larger than last year.

Numbers made news all across the country as 12 major markets had 120,400 cattle and calves, 31,700 above the previous Monday but still 5,000 short of a year ago. These markets had 58,000 more hogs than last week, an abnormally small run arrived last Monday but the total was 41,000 above a year ago the same day. The 62,100 sheep and lambs were 27,200 above last week and 35,400 ahead of a year ago.

CATTLE TRADE TURNS UNEVEN, FAT STEERS 50c LOWER

Cattle trade at Fort Worth was slow. Slaughter steers and yearlings of over 600 pounds weight, were generally 50 cents lower. Lighter yearlings and slaughter calves were steady to weak, spots 25 cents off. Fat cows were again weak but canners and cutters were firm. Bulls ruled fully steady. Stocker and feeder cattle and calves were also full steady.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings sold from $25 to $28 and mature steers cashed mostly from $26 downward. Medium and lower grades cashed at $17 to $24.50.

Fat cows cashed at $18 to $20, a few higher. Canners and cutters sold from $12 to $18.50, a few big Holsteins, etc., still to $19. Bulls were reported from $18 to $24.

Good and choice slaughter calves ranged from $25 to $29, with plain and medium sorts from $18 to $25 and culls from $16 to $19.

Good and choice stocker steer calves drew $30 to $33.25 and heifer calves sold from $30 downward. Stocker steer yearlings drew $30 down and heifers sold from $28.50 down.

HOGS DIP SHARPLY AS TOP IS $17.50 AT FORT WORTH

Hogs were 50 cents to $1 lower than the close last week as choice butcher hogs topped at $17 to $17.50 at Fort Worth, the highest price being reserved for carefully sorted meat types. Medium to good butchers sold from $16 to $17. Sows ranged from $15.50 to $16.50.

LAMBS 50c LOWER, SOME HEAVYWEIGHTS, MEDIUMS MORE

Sheep and lambs were very slow at Fort Worth Monday. Slaughter lambs were around 50 cents lower, except some of the heavy weights of around 110 pounds or better and medium grades, and these were 50 cents to $1 off. Other kinds of sheep and lambs were weak to mostly 50 cents lower.

Good and choice slaughter lambs drew $16.50 to $17.50, a few to $18. Some excessive weights over the 110-pound marker sold below $16.50. Stocker and feeder lambs ranged from $16 to $18.25, the top figure on ewe lambs, with feeder wether lambs mainly from $17.50 downward.

A few yearling wethers sold around $14 and a few older wethers drew $13 and below. Slaughter ewes and goats were reported from $7.50 to $8.50.

LAMBS ON FEED JAN. 1 UP SEVEN PERCENT

According to advices received in Fort Worth this week, the USDA estimates the number of lambs on feed Jan. 1 at seven percent more than a year ago. Estimates call for 4,280,000 on feed, an advance of 270,000 over the same date a year ago.

This increase in the fed lambs available, as well as the abnormally heavy weights of them, are a factor in the weak market for these fat lambs at the current time, market observers here agree.

There were six percent more lambs on feed in the North Central States and the increase was eleven percent in the eleven western states.

Prices of lambs dropped from a peak of $23.75 in late September and October in the Western Area, to the near $18 range by late December.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says If A Russian Politician Stops By His Place; Then He Wants The Cash

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is off on a weighty topic this week.

J. A.

Dear editor:
I noticed in the papers that another Russian visitor, a man by the name of Mikoyan, second in command over there, has been touring the United States and I read in a copy of a newspaper which I borrowed out of my neighbor's mailbox in the interest of furthering the good neighbor policy and will return if he acts unreasonable about it that Mr. Mikoyan says one trouble with U.S.-Russian relations is that we don't trust Russia enough.

What puzzles me about this is why should it puzzle Mr. Mikoyan? He knows the Russians better than we do and I doubt if he can trust his home folks enough to be 100 per cent sure he'll have his own job when he gets back home.

As I understand Russian politics, over there, you don't get elected for any definite term, you just stay in office until you get to trusting your assistants too much, at which time you wake up on a train to Siberia and one of your assistants is occupying your office.

Probably what Mr. Mikoyan meant was we ought to trust him since nobody at home would. As everybody knows, whenever there's a change in office over in Russia, the number of funerals picks up. This is because the Russian politicians have found it's hard to get a man you've just kicked in the teeth to trust you to any extent you can depend on.

I guess maybe it sounds reasonable for the Russians to tell us to trust them when they say they won't build any more hydrogen bombs and wouldn't think of using the ones they've got, but I sure prefer to keep some lying around handy on our side just in case.

I don't know how I got off on this weighty subject, when actually I ought to be thinking about a new crop year for 1959. In the meantime, if Mr. Mikoyan happens by my place out here and wants to buy a dozen eggs, I'd just as soon he paid cash.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.
Mrs. Della Parnell, Mrs. Dasha Hill and Mrs. Jeff Mitchell were visitors in Wichita Falls one day last week.

Construction Of Highways Shot In Business Arm

AUSTIN — "Highway dollars spent for construction and maintenance are a real economic asset to the counties and cities of Texas. People are again recognizing the importance of the highway dollar being returned to their counties and cities."

Marshall Formby, Highway Commission Chairman, said that construction and maintenance jobs are a shot in the arm to the economy of a county and city.

"Times have been so good since World War II that people more or less forgot about the value of highway dollars," Formby said, but during the past two or three years the business leaders have recognized anew the value of the money spent with them."

Formby stated that on a typical million-dollar contract, at least $700,000 will be spent with the people in the county where the work is being done and the other $300,000 spent in the area. "People in all walks of life get some benefit out of this highway dollar," Formby said.

In breaking down the average and typical million-dollar contract, Formby points out that an average 100 to 150 different parcels of land is purchased for right of way at an average cost of $140,000. This right-of-way money is paid to property owners for their land and for moving buildings, for fences, title policies and other items. On an average, 30 local workers will be employed to move the fences and buildings at a cost of $20,000. Where title policies are required, at least $14,000 will be spent for these.

On this average million-dollar contract, about 100 local people will be employed on the construction project. Where bridges are built, about 75 per cent of the labor is locally obtained.

The local lumber yards will sell 3,500 barrels of cement for $10,000 and 5,000 board feet of lumber for $1,000. About 200 tons of structural steel will be needed at a cost of from $12,000 to $15,000. The contractor will spend thousands of dollars with local oil distributors for gasoline, motor fuel and other petroleum products. Materials such as sand and gravel, caliche, and other base materials, are always purchased locally if available and will cost about $6,000. Some 30 trucks, most of them local, will be paid $30,000 to haul these materials to the job. These trucks would in turn purchase $5,000 worth of gasoline alone for the job.

The highway dollar will find its way eventually to the laborer, timber yards, oil distributors, filling stations, garages, welding shops, apartment-house owners, hotels, motels, grocery stores, hardware stores, picture shows, utility companies, barber shops, cafes, department stores, etc. The money will find its way into the local tax coffers; some will be used to support churches, schools, and other worthwhile enterprises.

Formby says that a survey shows that this $700,000 of the typical million-dollar contract is spent directly in the county, turns over five or six times before it finally spends itself out. Thus, a million dollar job is

DRUTHERS

By Grover Carothers

(Grover Carothers of Stamford is a candidate for state agriculture commissioner who knows something about farming if not politics. Farm and ranch both. Worked two years as head of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation at College Station. The ASC handles allotments, supports, and conservation. We did most of the state's job during the drought relief also.)

Times are better.

Up at my place we have had plenty of rain, good prices, and no screw-worms. I put 104 cows and 102 calves out in March—look out the calves in September to sell—and never had to take them out of the pasture for any other reason.

That never happened under a Democrat administration.

State is going to be short of money this year because the allotment got cut on oil.

Everybody's already fussing about what kind of tax to pass. Nobody thinking: "Let's cut expenses."

You can overdo anything. Know one place where they are building farm-to-market roads to connect each other.

Government would stop trying to support everything, we could cut expenses. It's mighty hard to legislate anybody a living.

Listen, if we had ever accepted price supports on cattle, then we would have had to accept allotments. You can't have something supported without allotting it.

Then there'd been another 100 people working for the federal government up in my district—out there checking to see if you had too many cows, and telling you how many calves you could sell every year.

equivalent to about $4 million being dumped into the county.

"This money does not come from Santa Claus, however," Formby said. "It is the people's tax money being returned to them for the betterment of their highway system and for the boosting of their own economy. It is the duty of my Commissioner colleagues, Herb Petry and Charlie Hawn, myself, and of the 15,000 employees of the Highway Department to see that it is spent as wisely as possible."

Deadline For Safety Inspection Is April 1, 1959

Austin — The Texas Department of Public Safety warned motorists of the inconveniences of a last-minute rush at safety inspection stations before the deadline, April 15.

More than 3,000,000 of the 4,000,000 Texas motor vehicles have yet to receive their 1959 safety inspection sticker.

In urging motorists to "do their safety shopping early" and avoid the rush at the 4,400 inspection stations, the safety department warned that those who fail to do so will be subject to traffic summons after April 15.

The average cost of the safety inspection since the program began six years ago is $1.19 for needed repairs and $1 for the inspection fee.

The inspection stations check such items as brakes, lights, horns, mirrors and windshield wipers and have found that 39 per cent of the vehicles have needed some adjustment or repair.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the safety department, said this is an improvement over the general condition of motor vehicles six years ago when the inspection program began. At that time more than 50 per cent needed repairs.

"We hope that owners of motor vehicles will take advantage of the inspection facilities now and avoid the inconveniences of waiting in lines as the April 15 deadline approaches," Colonel Garrison said. "This safety factor is important to safe driving on our streets and highways — and that is our goal."

Mrs. Jeff Mitchell and Miss Leona Keel visited Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. Laura Swilling, in the T. J. Smart home in Fleetwood, Okla., last Sunday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kunkel of Megargel, Enroute home they visited Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mounce in Archer City.

Mrs. Earl Brewer visited her aunt, Mrs. Lula Fletcher, in Wichita Falls last Sunday.

Vigorous Action Reduces Accidents

AUSTIN — "The arrival of the New Year is the signal for Texas communities to take a good, hard look at their traffic safety picture, and make a realistic appraisal of their safety efforts."

This statement was made, today, by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association, as he discussed community responsibility in the state's overall traffic program.

"Many towns and cities are already engaged in a fulltime safety program for its citizens. And, in town after town the story is the same: Wherever vigorous action is taken, traffic accidents are reduced. "The conclusion is obvious. We can lick our state's traffic accident problems by community action," Musick said.

The safety expert said he thought Texas was headed in the "right direction" in its traffic accident program, and that when final figures are in for the twelve months of 1958, he believed the state could show at least a six percent reduction in total traffic fatalities.

This would amount to a savings of about 152 lives, since 2,539 persons were killed in traffic accidents during 1957.

Musick credited this improvement to more widespread, community interest in local accident prevention programs.
