Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

It almost had to rain a little bit. We had made too much preparation for it!

k-k

First off, we decided we needed some water storage at our little shack up on the lake. After we'd mailed the paper last Thursday, we rushed out there with the necessary equipment — tank, gutter, etc., and got installed.

k-k

Then on Friday we decided we'd do our Good Friday pea planting, in spite of the fact that the Mrs. had been weakening and saying there was no use to do anything until it rained. But if you're going to be an ardent Good Friday gardener, that sort of stuff needs to be done on Good Friday.

k-k

So we fixed our furrows and watered them down with city water before planting, toying with the idea we could get our peas up — and then it had to rain sometime. Needless to say, we felt rather pleased with ourself Saturday.

k-k

Most everyone we know was enjoying Saturday, since the slow rain started during the night and continued slowly most of the morning. Smiles were brighter and everyone seemed cheered. It could rain!

k-k

Then Monday, we heard the prize comment about the rain: "It was a little short on one end, but mighty fine on top."

k-k

And Shelton's cartoon, "Farm Foolosophy" in the Wichita Falls paper on Sunday fitted the situation. It showed the obese, pot bellied farmer with a six-shooter stuck to his temple. His wife sticking her hand out the window, exclaimed: "Don't shoot, Henry! It's beginning to rain!" So since it's had its beginning, we can be looking for more — and we'll be looking forward to it!

Newspapers are supposed to preach safety, and editors should practice it more than they do. In connection with a safety campaign carried on through the employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., a poem entitled "If Everyone" was sent out. We ran across it somewhere. Here it is:

"If everyone who drives a car
Could be a month in bed,
With broken bones and stitched-up wounds,
Or fractures of the head,
And there endure the agonies
That many people do,
They'd never need preach safety
Any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside
The bed of some close friend,
And hear the doctor say, "No hope"
Before the final end,
And see him there unconscious,
Never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic
I am sure we'd soon embrace

If everyone could meet the wife
And children left behind,
And step into the darkened room
Where once the sunlight shined,
And look upon the vacant chair
Where Daddy used to sit,
I am sure that reckless drivers
Would be forced to think a bit.

If everyone who takes the wheel
Would say a little prayer,
And keep in mind those in the car
Depending on his care,
And make a vow and pledge himself
To never take a chance,
The great crusade for safety then
Would suddenly advance!

A delegation of Jaycees from Paducah will be here next Tuesday night to try to re-organize the local Jaycees and revive interest in their activities. Such an organization can be a pulling force in any community, and it is hoped enough local young men will be interested, and take up the good work.

Trouble with a number of civic organizations in a small town is that the membership must overlap, and those who try to belong to them all soon find a financial burden in membership dues. Other towns do it, though.

FARM SURPLUS ANSWER

The widely publicized programs for dealing with the agricultural surplus problem are generally political programs. No matter how greatly they may differ in their provisions, they invariably involve the spending of billions of tax money.

A good many variants of such programs have been tried. All, it can be fairly said, have been flat failures. The surpluses and the cost of subsidizing those surpluses have reached stupefying proportions.

Yet there is a sensible, non-political way in which the American farmer can greatly help to reduce the surpluses, and a number of agricultural experts have advocated it. It lies in expanded livestock production. Homer Davison, president of the American Meat Institute, puts the case in these clear words: "An expanding animal agriculture is the best way to attack so-called basic commodity overproduction. If 10 per cent of the farm land currently producing food and fibre crops were diverted to raising meat animals or producing feed for livestock, we would reduce our surplus enough to bring production into balance with consumption."

Then Mr. Davison made an additional important point: "The perishable nature of meat makes it a commodity which defies controlled production. The free market price is probably the only practical instrument that can be used successfully to balance production with consumption and be fair to both producer and consumer."

To this can be added the fact that people like meat, are consuming more of it, and will consume still more in the future if it is available. The case for an expanding animal agriculture is an overwhelming one.

STANLEY, WISCONSIN, REPUBLICAN: "Here is how Abraham Lincoln described the free enterprise system in his first annual message to Congress, in 1861:

"The prudent, penniless beginner labors for wages awhile, saves a surplus with which to buy tools or land for himself, then labors on his own account another while and at length hires another beginner to help him.

"This is the just and generous and prosperous system which opens the way to all, gives hope to all and consequently energy and progress and improvement of conditions to all."

STANDARDS GO DOWN

For 11 years, Britain has had "free" socialized medicine—which means, of course, tax-supported medicine. And the costs to the taxpayers have far outrun early estimates.

But that isn't the worst of the matter. The current path of medical research in England is discouraging rather than encouraging young people to enter a career in basic medical science. Unless this trend is reversed, a lowering of the standards of medicine is expected.

The situation is described in an article in the American Medical Association News, based on an article appearing in The Lancet, the principal British medical journal. Under socialization, no new teaching hospitals have been developed in England since before World War II. Careers in basic medical science—the only kind of science that can conquer disease—have become unattractive in salary. Research investigators and medical professors, as well as promising young investigators, are being lured to the United States.

The Lancet says: "In this country we have no lack of talent; but without more financial encouragement, more laboratories, and more facilities for research, we shall lose our best workers, and gradually the standards of medicine even at a practical level will decline."

This may not all be the fault of socialization. But there can be no doubt that socialization has been a heavy and growing drag on scientific progress. The lesson that we can learn from this should certainly be plain to anyone.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS, JEWISH ADVOCATE: "President Eisenhower, in a noteworthy civil rights program presented to the Congress . . . called for the adoption of legislation that would increase the power of the FBI in the bombings of synagogues, churches, and schools. His proposal would make it a Federal offense to flee from one state to another to avoid detention or prosecution arising from such bombings.

"This legislation is badly needed, because as the President pointed out, though state authorities have been diligent in dealing with these crimes under local laws, Federal assistance, bringing to bear all the fine paraphernalia and expert personnel of the FBI, can be a great supplementary force for local authorities . . ."

CATTLE FEEDERS RUSH INTO MARKET FOR REPLACEMENTS AS FAT STEERS, YEARLINGS HIGHER

Fort Worth, March 30 — The closing days of March on the Fort Worth Livestock Market have been featured with renewed activity of cattle feeders as the fat cattle prices hit new peaks for the year. Monday's trade was no exception as the $40-pound feeder steers cashed at $26.50 and 750-pound yearlings hit $27. Lighter yearlings earned $30. The surge of activity by stocker and feeder buyers brought more inquiries from buyers seeking places at the ringside in the special cattle sale April 9 at the stockyards new auction arena.

At the bottom of the flurry of inquiry is the fact that fat cattle prices have hit the highest levels of the year or longer, and feeder buyers were competing with slaughter interests on shorted cattle here and at other major terminals over the country.

Farmers and stockmen, plagued by a dry winter, welcomed the return of a strong stocker and feeder trade and the first entries in the April 9 combination auction and private treaty cattle sale began to come in.

Fat cattle crossing into the $30 level in recent days at the market have focussed attention of feeders in all parts of the country on the special sale and assure a strong out-of-state representation at the April 9 special cattle feature.

All grades and all breeds and classes will be in this event and packers are lining up for ringside seats as well as stocker and feeder buyers.

MOST CATTLE SELL STEADY TO STRONG, FEEDERS HIGHER

ing 697 pounds. Some over 1,100-pound steers scored $29. Medium and lower grade yearlings and steers cashed at $18 to $25.50.

Fat cows sold from $18.50 to $20.50 and canners and cutters cashed at $13 to $18.50. Bulls scored $18 to $23.50. That's because they will look LIKE NEW . . . all their original freshness of color, pattern and texture fully restored. They FEEL like new, too, because Sanitone Dry Cleaning now retenturizes cloth as it cleans . . . maintains the original "body" and "finish" so that dresses drape and fit just as they did when new. Try it and see.

If you like for your garments to have a "more crisp feeling," we can use our famous Sanitone Satin-Set, an entirely different process to our Soft-Set.

Clean Your Winter Clothes
 Soon you'll be storing your winter clothes for the summer, and it's a good idea to let us thoroughly clean and moth-proof all winter garments before storing them. We can also store them for you, if you desire.

KING'S Drive-In Cleaners

TO THE CITIZENS OF MUNDAY

Since 1914, The Farmers Cooperative Gins have been a part of this community. We have tried to support the things that made this a better place in which to live. It is our belief that we have paid more city and school taxes than any other business in Munday at this time.

Since this community lives, almost in its entirety, from agriculture and since cotton is our most important crop, it is a "Must" that we have cotton gins.

Where gins are located, there is bound to be some smoke. We are doing our best to control this as much as possible.

During the past year, we spent several thousand dollars hauling burrs away. There was no smoke from these gins the past season, other than when cotton and trash caught fire in the process of ginning.

At the start of the last ginning season, the City Council met with our Board of Directors to discuss ways of handling burrs and trash. An agreement was reached, and work was started. We carried out our agreement, and we believe the City Council will tell you so.

It is physically impossible to keep down all smoke when cotton catches fire while being ginned. Please bear in mind that we are going to do our best to keep gin smoke from bothering anyone.

Last season, we paid $74,325.18 in salaries, $23,364.85 for fuel, oil and utilities, $3,168.75 for taxes. Our customers paid $350,873.01 for cotton picking and pulling. The 1,250 pickers we had to hire spent at least $100,000 in Munday.

When you vote on April 18, please do not vote to lower the income of our city!

If the "No Smoke" election carries, the Farmers Cooperative Gins will be forced to take the steps necessary to protect our farmers' interests. It has always been our desire to live and let live.

We believe that you will give all these things due consideration.

Very Respectfully,

THE FARMERS CO-OP GINS

Gems Of Thought

"REWARD"

The biggest reward for a thing well done is to have done it. — Ralph Waldo Emerson

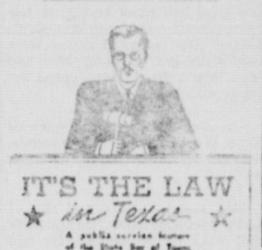

The reward of one duty is the power to fulfil another. — George Eliot

Goodness never fails to receive its reward, for goodness makes life a blessing. — Mary Baker Eddy

For blessings ever wait on virtuous deeds; And though a late, a sure reward succeeds. — William Congreve

There are no crown-wearers in heaven who were not cross-bearers here below. — C. H. Spurgeon

No man who continues to add something to the material, intellectual and moral well-being of the place in which he lives is left long without proper reward. — Booker T. Washington

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY

How could anybody ever say: "The king can do no wrong"? (When we know of kings who did do wrong.)

The idea looks simple: As absolute law maker, the king could hold himself above his own law. He was under no law and could therefore do no legal wrong.

Anyway, when King George lost the thirteen colonies, the American state took over the doctrine of Sovereign Immunity: Nobody can sue a government agency without the state's permission, when the agency is doing government work. (Of course if the agency is doing "prioritary function" like running street cars or making electricity, it may often be sued much like any other business.)

Thus, suppose for lack of due care a private bakery truck should harm your child who had done nothing to bring on the accident. Well then, most likely you could sue the bakery in the child's behalf and collect damages.

But not with government agencies unless the legislature gives you lawful permission.

Thus in the old days, if an army jeep harmed your child, you could collect only if Congress passed a special bill awarding damages.

Recently this doctrine has been attacked: Why shouldn't the government pay like any other organization?

So during the last war the federal government in response to public opinion passed a "tort liability" law. It gives the people much more power to sue than before the last war. And the courts much more often than Congress now set the damages in many kinds of cases.

In Texas, the Legislature by a proper action may permit certain general types of suits to be brought against the state, under various conditions and restrictions. Then, if a specific situation arises which is not covered by the general rules, the legislators are authorized to pass a special measure to permit suit to be brought.

Therefore, any person seeking to enforce a claim against the State of Texas through the courts must petition the Legislature for the necessary permission, unless his claim falls within some general category or type previously recognized by our lawmakers. During each session, the Legislature passes legislation allowing suits to be brought against the state in a variety of cases.

Sometimes, however, suits may be brought against individuals holding office under the State of Texas and acting as agents of the state, but where the state itself is not the principal party to the suit, without first gaining consent to sue. There are numerous situations in which an individual officer may be sued with regard to the duties and functions of his office, and in which the state is not directly or substantially a party in interest.

Suppose you do obtain legislative permission to sue the state. What happens then?

If suit brought against the State of Texas, and the action is successfully prosecuted, you will be awarded a judgment against the state. Then, it's back to the Legislature for more legislation to appropriate the necessary money with which the state may pay off the judgment. (This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in fact may change the application of the law.)

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

Congress will be in its annual Easter recess during this week. When it reconvenes, there will be much more legislative activity because of the fact that many of the Committees reported bills just before the recess.

The Berlin crisis has brought into focus the controversy over the size of the military forces. It is speculated that General Maxwell Taylor, Chief of Staff of the Army, is retiring largely on account of his views on the strength of the Army. The differences of opinion can be brought into focus by noting the differences in proposals of the Administration and some of the top military men. The Army, for instance, now has 891,000 men which number is due to be reduced to around 870,000 by the middle of the year with reserve forces to be 630,000. The Army Spokesmen say that they need 925,000 with reserves of 700,000. The Army also wants money for an anti-missile missile, extra money to modernize its weapons, and for a minimum of fifteen divisions. This controversy is, of course, yet to be resolved, and all of the evidence is not in, but it would seem that with the Berlin crisis being what it is, this is no time to scale down our forces. Historically, one of the most costly mistakes we have made has been to reduce our armed services during times of relative peace and then have to rebuild them in a crash program when a crisis occurs. It is hoped that we will not make this mistake again.

Nuts, especially peanuts and peanut butter, are capable of causing skin eruptions. Sharp cheese won't help your acne either, but cream or cottage cheeses are usually okay.

Shellfish or salt water fish, and melons can be aggravating to acne.

Woolen clothing next to bare skin might cause your neck or back to break out. If so, the solution is simple — don't wear wool except as an outer garment.

The bromides in cold pills, nerve medicines and sedatives cause skin difficulties for some people. So can leaving in cough syrups and table salt.

Following the rules of good health — getting plenty of exercise and sleep, eating nutritious meals, and drinking plenty of water — will help you get rid of unsightly acne.

Don't expect the blemishes to disappear overnight. If you follow these suggestions for three or four months and your acne hasn't improved, your family physician, or a specialist he will recommend, will probably prescribe internal and external medicines for your particular case.

So between you and your doctor, you have a much better than even chance of having a clean, clear complexion in time for the first big dance of the new school year next fall. It's well worth working for. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer

You're 16, and just when you wanted to look your best you break out with a new crop of pimples. Discouraging? Yes, but not a permanent tragedy.

In nine of ten cases acne will disappear without treatment by your mid-20's. But why wait, when you can do something about it now?

The most important thing is to wash your face with soap and warm water at least three times daily. Why? Because at your age oil glands are often over active and tend to clog pores. Result: Pimples and blackheads.

So it's just common sense to wash often to rid your skin of excess oil and dirt and to help remove the plugs. Cosmetic cleansing creams, incidentally, are not nearly as effective as soap and water. In fact, some of them make acne worse by plugging up already clogged pores.

Your trouble might be particular items of food. So unless you are sure they do not cause flare ups, your physician will probably suggest that you watch out for:

Chocolate in any form such as candy, cookies, cake, ice cream sodas, sauces, cola drinks. Instead, stick to vanilla or fruit

PROTECTION FOR THE 1959 COTTON CROP

Cash value from cotton and cottonseed in Texas for 1958 has been estimated at a whopping $756,655,000 by agricultural economists.

This means that last year Texas cotton growers received an average gross income of $140.12 for each harvested acre of cotton as compared with an average of $39.73 from all other crops.

This year, then, cotton will again be the best cash crop for farmers capable of producing high yields of good quality. But it is a challenge calling for quality production in an efficient and economical manner.

For most farmers, this goal was achieved in 1958. They harvested 4,350,000 bales from 5,400,000 acres with an average yield of 387 pounds of lint per acre. This was the highest acre yield since production records started way back in 1886. The yield was 121 pounds higher than the average of 226 pounds for the previous five years.

During this past winter however, conditions have been generally favorable for the buildup of many insects injurious to cotton. This is especially true in sections where the boll weevil and the pink bollworm are a problem. Last year, the farm cleanup and stalk destruction program were hampered by a late harvest and continued wet weather.

Complacency concerning the insect threat could easily prove disastrous to many cotton growers in 1959. No cotton producer should ever forget that when conditions are favorable for making good yields, conditions are also favorable for a buildup and damage from cotton insects.

A bulletin entitled Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects is available to all farmers from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M. It can prove valuable in pointing out proven and practical insect control methods. All good cotton cultural methods should be practiced this year to help keep down injurious insects and make a profit out of the 1959 crop. Copies of the bulletin are available on request.

Sweetest Spring Bonnet

Leading milliner, Mr. John, models his Spring bonnet, the "CandyGram Creation," on actress Greta Thyssen. Inspired by the new candy-with-telegram service, the hat designer suggests his confectionery chapeau, decorated with chocolates and other confections, as the solution for those who lose election (or other type) bets and have to eat their hats.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Forgot something? That is the question Internal Revenue Service is asking of a quarter of a million North Texans. These 250,000 taxpayers are due a refund on their 1958 taxes but have not filed their tax return. The Internal Revenue Service is anxious to start processing these refund returns.

Incidentally, there are 350,000 other North Texans who have not filed their tax return. These taxpayers owe money, Internal Revenue says, and now is a much better time to file than on April 16 when a penalty is due.

The tax folks sum up their advice to the 600,000 who haven't filed their 1958 tax return with the following: "FILE NOW".

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

It is an experience that every American should have — to visit the State Capitol of Virginia, a beautiful white building with stately columns, atop a hill surrounded by grassy slopes. The structure was based upon the design of an ancient temple in Nimes, France. The plaster model which Thomas Jefferson sent from France can be seen in the rotunda. So as not to break the classic lines of the building, the dome is beneath the roof.

In the center of the rotunda is Houdon's marble figure of Washington; and in niches are busts of the eight Virginia-born presidents. I could have named Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Wilson but did not know, or had forgotten, that William Henry Harrison, Tyler and Taylor were born in the Old Dominion.

The Old Hall of the House of Delegates was astir the day I was there for, in a little while, ceremonies honoring the 150th anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis were to be held. A statue of Robert E. Lee marks the spot where he stood as he accepted command of the forces of Virginia. There is a statue also of Henry Clay as well as full figures or busts of other great native sons, including Sam Houston, in this hall. It was here that the treason trial of Aaron Burr was held. Chief Justice John Marshall presiding.

In the old Senate Chamber, the Confederate Senate met; and here the body of Stonewall Jackson lay in state.

In one town, I bought a box of apple candy. Well, I'd never heard of apple candy, either. As I sent it to a friend in Texas, I'm unable to report what it tasted like but no doubt it was good.

Virginia is a land of beauty, the highway from Richmond to the Tennessee line offering a succession of vistas of mountains, valleys, groves, cattle grazing in meadows, a log house beside a stream — all this arched by a blue sky adorned with white clouds. No wonder Lee loved the state so much and that so many of her sons were willing to die in the defense of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Followwill and family of Tatum visited relatives and friends here over the holidays.

Ellis Spann of Denver, Colo., visited his sisters, Mrs. Nolan Phillips and Mrs. Edgar Morgan and their families over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Ford, Mike and Cheryl, of Cisco spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Ford.

Jimmy Boyles of Texas University in Austin spent the Easter holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Boyles.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Takes A Different Slant On Congressman With His Office On His Front Porch

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek takes a stand on the front porch argument, his letter this week reveals. Dear editor:

There are times when I can't understand people. For example, about a week or so ago all the newspapers carried an article about a Congressman who was using his front porch for a home office run by his wife and was collecting rent on it from the government, since, as I understand it, the government allows Congressmen $1200 a year for home office rent if there's not room in the post office or some other federal building in his home town.

And what I can't understand about people is that most of them were outraged by this set-up. They thought it was wrong to get paid for using your front porch for an office.

I'm outraged by this too, but not for the same reason. What outrages and baffles me is why anybody if the government would pay him to sit on his front porch, would turn the job over to his wife, and himself sit in an office in Washington.

I can't understand such a sense of values. You take me, whenever the weather allows, I sit on my front porch, even if the government doesn't pay me a cent to do it. There are some things a man ought to be willing to do on his own, whether he gets paid for it or not. Although I understand I wouldn't object to getting paid for it. In fact, I think it would be a more positive approach, if the government paid me to sit on my porch, instead of paying me not to sit on my tractor, although I'd be willing to tackle both jobs at the same time if the pay was doubled.

I can't say I accomplish anything by sitting on my front porch, which isn't the purpose in sitting there in the first place, and besides it's not always a proven fact that some Congressmen accomplish more by sitting elsewhere.

It might be thought by some people that I'm starting a crusade for more people to sit on their front porches, but I'm not made that way. I find it impossible to care whether my neighbor is sitting on his front porch or sitting on a tractor or riding to town in his car. All I know is that for me, sitting on the front porch suits me fine. It's easier, it's cheaper, it's safer, and you can do it in the shade. Also, you don't have to get elected to

it. Very few taxes have ever been raised by a man sitting on his front porch.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

PORTABLE LIVESTOCK SCALES GRAND PRIZE

At the special cattle auction at Fort Worth's Stockyards April 2, this Paul Portable Livestock Scale of one-ton capacity will be awarded to some livestock shipper who has been to market during the March 30-April 9 period. The Market Institute, sponsor of the special sales, is a non-profit organization and the scales are being given to get rid of surplus money made in the last sale. Sale and drawing for the scales will start at 10:00 AM, April 9. The scales are the type used in beef cattle performance testing and can be loaded in a pickup truck for movement. Manager Ted Gouidy reported, "Any profits the Market Institute makes on these sales is plowed back to the shippers in the form of prizes and services, and we felt that every livestock man would like to own a fine set of scales like these Paul Portables."

Vocational Agriculture Students Face New Era Of Agri-business In Schools

By Wayne Clift
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture, Goree High School

High school students of vocational agriculture are on the threshold of a new age in agriculture — the scientific agricultural age of Agribusiness.

In this new age of Agribusiness, agricultural products must be provided for tomorrow's expanding population that is estimated to reach 250 million in the U. S. and 400 billion in the world by 1970.

The new age of Agribusiness is even more basic than the Atomic or Space because it encompasses a world need for more scientific production of food and fiber. This production must be done by people with special talents applied in the new age. Few farm products in this era are consumed in the same form as they are produced.

What this means, then, is that in the Agribusiness Age there must be cooperation between the farmer, scientist, farm supplies distributor, processor, engineer, manufacturer and others. Today, these groups are working together so closely that all of them are actually in agriculture. It has become difficult, if not impossible, to tell who is the farmer in the traditional sense. In actual practice, the modern farmer is a little bit of each of the specialists and each of the specialists is a little bit of the farmer.

The benefits of this modern Agribusiness Age go to all — not just to the farmer.

The farmer, by applying scientific information from all these specialists, has been able to produce better crops on fewer acres. He can also market his beef cattle earlier and can do it at a saving of many pounds of feed per animal. Such is the result of modern developments in animal nutrition, antibiotics, genetics and management. These results aid not only the farmer but the consumer as well.

Other comparable achievements have been made with poultry, dairy cattle, and other animals.

Nuclear research — a product of the Atomic Age — is part of the newest age. Radiation is now being studied as a means of preserving food when being transported from farm to consumer. Already the government has an atomic farm where radiation is quickly altering varieties of plants otherwise a process that would have taken thousands of years.

Such agricultural progress as this has fused older careers into a new one — Agribusiness. Presently as products travel from the farm to consumers, all careers participate — the transportation specialist, the marketing specialist and the packaging specialist. Such participation insures the consumer of a more economical and a better qualified product.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kotulek, Jr., of Odessa visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Albus in Rhine-land, and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kotulek, Sr., in Seymour.

Mrs. T. L. Morton of Fort Worth visited her nieces, Mrs. Lee Isbell and Mrs. Alvin Reid, the first of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jarvis visited from Thursday until Monday in Pecos with their son, Howard Thompson, and family. They also visited with Virgil Williams in the Veteran's Hospital in Big Spring.
