Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

This is a busy stage for farmers, and some of them were getting anxious to be "up and at 'em" last Monday.

k-k

Two of them met at Wallace Reid's implement place Monday afternoon. Jack Tidwell had tried different ways to get in his fields and after the weeds Monday morning, but found it too wet for everything he tried.

k-k

Gene Thompson was rigging up an idea to save some of his cotton that was up, but getting rather weedy. "If this don't work," he said, "I know an old boy that will be replanting cotton." Gene also planned to get his cucumbers in the ground this week, too.

k-k

And so it is all over the area. Recent rains have placed farm lands in shape for planting and replanting, and farmers are ready to get after turning the soil and getting crops started.

k-k

Billy Mitchell, we heard, offered the opinion that a load of 1959 wheat would come into Munday this week.

k-k

A lot of the wheat is looking like ready for harvesting. From a windmill view of the fields, the stuff may look like dead ripe, but an examination of those heads will find it still pretty green and with too much moisture content. However, it won't be long until the harvest gets under way.

k-k

Combines started coming into the area some ten days, or more, ago. It seems that this area is just about the starting point for wheat harvest. Combines locate here, harvest the local crops, then move northward as the grain ripens in other areas.

k-k

Those who brought combines early spotted them either in towns or in nearby fields, then returned home to wait for the word that wheat was ready for cutting.

k-k

A lot of the combines work on up into Kansas and further northward. A news report Monday morning, however, made public the fact that some of the Kansas wheat had been harvested by hail Monday night.

k-k

This week just about closes out school activities for this Spring, and students will be seeking means of employment and activity other than the school classroom. We were listening to a program the other day in which someone said: "The most lonesome person in the world is a high school senior next day after graduation."

k-k

We can't quite remember it that way. It seems to us that next day after our graduation we began pushing four mules down the rows, they being attached to a planter, and the new graduate seated thereon. We were getting the smell of the newly turned soil - quite different from a school room - but not such a lonesome job if you apply yourself to it.

k-k

Pat Halverson of KSYD Television in Wichita Falls took members of the Lions Club through the television station at last Tuesday's luncheon. Pat showed picture slides of the various departments of the TV station and made some interesting comments regarding work in and around the station. He pointed out that the station had increased its viewing area by some 70 per cent by installing the "big tower". His talk was thoroughly enjoyed by all the Lions.

k-k

A number of people in the past have been high in their praise of the excellent work of H. P. Hill in keeping an accurate weather record in Munday throughout the years. Recognition was given this work several years ago when the C. D. A. (now Chamber of Commerce) presented Mr. Hill a suit of clothes. Just this week John Ed Jones, who was up from Stephenville, put in his piece. "Harvey Hill's work has been a great help to me," he said, "especially since I moved away from Munday."

k-k

We look forward to Mr. Hill coming in each Wednesday afternoon with his weather report. When he tried to quit one time, folks set up a howl about his report not being in the paper.

B. 122 which would have increased maximum weekly unemployment benefits from $28.00 to $35.00 a week, discuss the failure of the bill after the House was unable to secure a two-thirds vote. “DANGEROUS TOLERANCE”

People can develop a tolerance for certain drugs and medications—that is, after given amounts have been taken, the remedies in question may lose effectiveness.

A comparable kind of tolerance can be developed in the realm of ideas.

For instance, we have been barraged for years with discussions of the inflation problem. We have all suffered as inflation has degraded the dollar, reducing its purchasing power more and more. But this has been going on for so long that many of us have lost any real sense of urgency so far as dealing with the problem is concerned.

If this is so, and if that sense of urgency is not regained and translated into action, we as individuals and as a nation will drive blindly ahead down a road whose end is catastrophe.

New accounts tell of the difficulties the Treasury has had in selling government bonds, even at high interest rates. Recent issues, once on the open market, have slipped in value below the issuing price. And if anyone thinks this is a matter far removed from the concern of the average man, he'd better think again.

If the Treasury can't sell its bonds, because of lack of faith in the future value of the dollar, it will have only one recourse left—printing press money. And printing press money, issued in large enough amounts, becomes worthless money.

What is the solution? First and foremost is a balanced budget, which would do more than anything else to save what is left of the dollar's purchasing power. And this is as urgent a need as the country faces.

Unfortunately our law-makers, both state and national, seem to have developed such a tolerance for the inflation drug, that their appetite demand more rather than less of the poison—the remedy lies with the voters.

Congressional Quarterly recently polled a cross section of the nation's newspaper editors, asking for their opinion as to the strongest tickets each party could put forward in the 1960 Presidential race. On the GOP side, Vice President Nixon led, with Governor Nelson Rockefeller in second place. On the Democratic side, Adlai Stevenson was on top, followed by Senator Kennedy.

Agricultural Economist Karl D. Butler forecasts that the American people will spend about $79 billion for food this year, and that the 1965 figure may be as much as $100 billion.

“TERRITORIAL ENTERPRISE”

The spirit of the pioneer is not dead in the U. S. A. Indian trappings are still a favorite with the small fry as are imitation six-shooters, cartridge belts, chaps and cowboy boots.

The throw-back to the Old West doesn't stop with the youngsters—papa and mama like to go to the dude ranches and desert resorts and dress in the regalia of their favorite movie queen or straight-shooting hero in a “Western.” And that's nothing to be ashamed of—it's good healthy sport with none of the risk of scalping knife, arrow or bullet.

But if you want to get a little of the real spice and humor of the Old West you will have to read the 100-year-old “Territorial Enterprise,” Mark Twain's newspaper, published in the fabulous old mining town of Virginia City, Nevada, by Lucius Beebe, author, authority on old time railroads, notable gourmet and preserver of traditions of the Old West.

The Enterprise claims the largest weekly circulation in the entire American West and national circulation in 49 states. Reading it is as refreshing as a trip on the Oregon Centennial Wagon Train, now en route from Independence, Missouri, to Independence, Oregon.

Our country needs papers and publishers who keep alive traditions which caused its founding and growth and assures its future independence.

FEATHERBEDDING OPPOSED

According to a late Gallup Poll, the American people oppose “featherbedding”—the practice of making employers hire more workers than are actually needed—by a margin of two-to-one. And union member families are four-to-three against it.

The same survey found that the proposal to reduce the work week to 35 hours “gets a chilly reception from the general public and from union member families as well.”

The American Medical Association News reports that examinations of 106 traffic violators in Chicago Municipal Court's Psychiatric Institute showed only 12 to be physically or mentally fit to drive. Then had organic brain conditions, 11 suffered a mental illness, 21 were chronic alcoholics, 11 were mental defectives, 16 were emotionally unstable, 5 were senile, 7 had sociopathic personalities, and 13 had acute alcoholic episodes.

The signing of a contract of sale is an extremely important step in the purchase of a home. Once buyer and seller have signed they are bound by the provisions of the contract. Their respective legal rights in the transaction are thereby set and determined. If the contract is poorly and haphazardly drawn, a harvest of regret may be reaped at a later date.

Sales contracts are often called by other names, such as earnest money contracts, binders, receipts, etc. All of them are for the same purpose and almost without exception involve the deposit of money by the buyer. Some require the seller to put up a good faith deposit. The fact that such deposited sums are usually to be forfeited in event the depositor later fails to go through with his specified contractual obligations lends additional weight to the often stated admonition that no contract should be signed without complete understanding as to its terms.

But many home purchasers (and sellers) rush to sign a hastily prepared contract with very little knowledge of its contents. The pressure of time, the informality of the occasion, the casual appearance of the contract, and perhaps the fact that a partially printed form is used may contribute in causing the true importance of the act to be overlooked.

At any rate, many are lulled into a lapse of good business judgment.

Every significant detail of the bargain should be crystallized in unmistakable terms in the contract of sale. Land and fixtures being sold should be clearly described. A complete description of the property by lot and block, or by metes and bounds, is a must, the street number being inadequate by itself.

Articles and fixtures included in the sale but not always sold with houses generally should be specifically listed. Included in this category are such items as venetian blinds, removable floor coverings, draperies, air conditioning units and others. In purchasing property under construction, complete plans and specifications form an essential part of the agreement.

The price to be paid must, of course, be specified along with method and terms of payment. If a certain sized loan is a prerequisite to the buyer's ability to complete the purchase, this fact should be noted. Sad indeed is the prospective purchaser who loses his earnest money when a contemplated loan transaction falls through, his contract requiring payment of the entire consideration in cash.

The sales contract should also state the quality of the title to be conveyed to the buyer and the type of title evidence to be furnished.

The buyer's individual circumstances and desires may require that various matters not mentioned above be provided for in the contract. All too often people try to squeeze a sales contract to fit the type of printed form on hand, omitting or leaving to easily misconstrued or forgotten oral agreement many vital provisions. Do not fall into the “pitfall of the printed form.” Too many unfortunate entanglements have been announced by clients to lawyers with the words, “I have just signed a receipt for a house on Blank Street. Will you take over now and see that everything is O. K.?”

This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved.

Mrs. W. T. Waggoner, 100, Wife Of Pioneer Cattleman, Dies In Ft. Worth

Mrs. W. T. Waggoner, widow of the oil and cattleman who founded one of the greatest fortunes west of the Mississippi, died at 3 p. m. Sunday at her home in Fort Worth. She was 100 years of age.

Her hearing and sight had been failing and she had been bedfast since June, receiving no visitors. She observed her 100th birthday March 27.

Mrs. Waggoner, the former Ella Halsell, was born in Decatur. She was next to the youngest of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Electus Halsell, who settled in Wise County in 1950.

The Halsells, married in South Carolina, lived in Alabama several years before coming to Texas. After a time, Indian raids in Wise County drove them to more thickly settled country. They lived near Collinsville until 1854, when they returned to Wise County.

Their three youngest children, Ella and two boys, were born on the ranch about six miles south-east of Decatur. When Ella was small, her parents died within a few months of each other and she and her youngest brother, Ed, went to live with her sister, Ann, who was married to Dan Waggoner in 1859.

W. T. Waggoner was the son of Dan Waggoner by a previous marriage.

Ella attended the Decatur school and in 1875 went to Baylor University.

On Dec. 4, 1877, Ella Halsell and W. T. Waggoner were married in Denton and went to Sherman on their honeymoon. The 18-year-old bride made her wedding dress and the young couple had 12 of the bridegroom's men friends for attendants, with no bridesmaids.

Mrs. Waggoner also was fond of recalling the buggy in which they took their honeymoon trip was drawn by two bucking sorrel horses.

For the first several years after their marriage, the young Waggoners lived in a house on the Dan Waggoner ranch. There their first three children were born. They were Danny, who died at the age of 34, Electra and Guy.

The Waggoners then built their home in Decatur, and there were born Willie Tom Jr., who also died in childhood, and Paul.

In 1931 Waggoner bought and restored the large gray stone family mansion which his father had built on a hill overlooking Decatur. The house, neglected for 25 years, was restored by Waggoner as a week-end and summer home for himself and his wife.

The W. T. Waggoner family moved here in 1905.

Cattle laid the foundation for the Waggoner wealth and oil made him a millionaire many times. Even before his North Texas oil holdings were fully developed, Waggoner was said to have declined an offer of $50,000,000 for them.

Waggoner's ranch near Vernon embraced at one time more than 600,000 acres.

His famous Three D brand was used on all his enterprises and was a familiar sight on the grandstands at Arlington Downs. Waggoner spent $3,000,000 building Arlington Downs into one of the finest racing plants in the country.

Waggoner homes have been show places here for almost half a century. The first home they built was at 1200 Summit.

By 1923, when the business district began encroaching on the older residential sections, the family built a Georgian mansion set in spacious gardens in River Crest.

After Waggoner's death in 1934 his widow sold the River Crest home and moved to a hotel. In the late 1930's she built a home at 52 Westover Ter., primarily French in adaptation to harmonize with her furnishings, some of which were brought back by Mrs. Waggoner during a trip abroad before the Summit home was built.

Mrs. Waggoner purchased the Hill Crest residence in 1947 from Lewis D. Fox.

Paul Waggoner is the couple's only surviving child. Electra, who married A. B. Wharton, died in 1925. Guy Waggoner died in 1950. —Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Small grain sorghum plants in the Coastal Bend areas of the state are being attacked by true chinch bugs. Extension Entomologists say that these insects also feed on corn, small grains and grass and that the early infestations are coming from adults which overwintered near field margins. They advise farmers to check their fields for possible build ups of these insects.

Study Shows Texas Has One Nurse For Every 932 Persons

Everyone knows Texas nurses are busy people. But how busy? A study just made by a national hospital supplier today provided a partial answer:

Every one of the approximately 9,600 professional nurses in Texas is responsible, statistically speaking, for the care of 932 persons. In other words, there's one nurse for every 932 Texans.

And every one takes care of about 133 of the 1,275,000 patients admitted annually to Texas hospitals.

The figures come from an analysis made by the Dixie Cup Division of American Can Company, which supplies hundreds of hospitals throughout the country with disposable paper service.

The study also showed that more and more institutions throughout the country are adopting paper service for meals because of its inherent economies, its added protection against cross infection, and the fact it enables hospitals to save valuable employe time.

The national ratio of nurses to population is one nurse for every 640 persons. The U. S. ratio of nurses to admissions is one to 84.

"Professional nurses in U. S. hospitals and schools of nursing total about 262,000, according to the latest available statistics," reported Craig Moore, Dixie Cup vice president. "Total hospital admissions are running in excess of 22,000,000 per year or one out of every eight persons."

"Even though State and national nursing has shown tremendous strides in recent years, there are still deficiencies to be overcome as our population continues to soar; as hospital facilities grow obsolete, and as adequate patient care and protection becomes more complex and demanding of the nursing profession."

Annual Meeting Of Northwest Texas Youth Set June 6

LUBBOCK — Young people of the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference will gather Saturday, June 6, at First Methodist church here for their annual business meeting of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Most important business item this year is the proposed plan of change of the constitution to provide a new system of election of officers and administration of the youth council. The change will eliminate altogether the college youth and make the district presidents the council members.

One of the main emphasis of the meeting will be on the Methodist Youth Fund. There will be displays throughout the church representative of each of the projects to which the MY Fund money goes.

The meeting will move as one big drama and will close with the pledge service from the local churches and the installation of the new conference youth council.

Meeting will begin with registration at 9 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. Attending will be elected delegates from the local churches in the conference and their adult counselors. All youth of the conference are invited.

Joe E. Sharp To Receive Degree

DENTON — Joe Estill Sharp of Knox City is one of more than 550 seniors who have applied for bachelor's degrees at North Texas State College this semester.

June is Dairy Month and milk production is at its seasonal high. Supplies of milk and other dairy products are sufficiently large to warrant a place on the USDA's plentiful foods list for June. Other featured foods are eggs, broilers-fryers, small turkeys, spring vegetables and vegetable fats and oils.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Neill visited relatives in Merkel last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Reynolds and son of Lubbock visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Wardlaw and other relatives here over the week end.

Rhineland Family Attends Megargel Church Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fetsch and children attended the crowning of the Blessed Mother in Megargel on May 17 at 7:30 p. m. Little Janie Sykora was crown bearer and placed the crown on the Blessed Mother.

Thirteen little girls dressed in white carried baskets of flowers and threw them while the rosary was being recited and while marching on the church grounds.

A few pictures were taken on entering the church followed by benediction.

Father Edward Bastien removed the blessed sacrament from the altar and more pictures were taken.

Mrs. Angela Redder also attended and is spending a few days with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Kulhanek and children. Her son, John, took her to Megargel.

The old distinctions between farm and city are rapidly disappearing, says Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist. Rural nonfarm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more nonfarm folks will live in the rural areas in the future.

Herbicide sprays for brush and weed control should be applied when wind speed is 10 miles per hour or less.

WHO GOSSIPS? NOT US!

What do women really talk about in beauty shops? Do they, as popularly portrayed in books, plays, and movies, spend their appointment time exchanging fascinating tidbits about friends, acquaintances, and utter strangers? No, say members of the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians, who really ought to know.

Members of the Guild, who represent 20,000 beauty shops around the world, report, in defense of their patrons, "that most of the conversation heard in the styling room is of a cosmopolitan nature."

Politics, fashions, the arts, and the nation's economy are often subjects for discussion, according to a survey of the Guild members.

Accordingly, the modern hair-stylist must be able to discuss current events with the ease of a network commentator, must be able to listen to domestic problems with sympathy, and to give motherly advice to teenagers who hesitate to discuss highly personal matters at home. And, of course, the hairdresser knows the importance of respecting a confidence.

Why do women look forward to stimulating discussions at the beauty shop? Guild members feel this is because a woman's husband is often too tired or too busy to listen to her opinions on the school board problems, the Far Eastern crisis, or national politics.

Through popular demand, beauty shops now include amidst the array of movie and beauty magazines, a collection of the more serious publications, ranging from the National Geographic to the Atlantic Monthly.

When a woman leaves a beauty shop these days, she comes away not only with an attractive new coiffure, but also with the satisfaction of having expressed her own opinions and participated in a stimulating discussion.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

With the dramatic industrial growth of Texas, we sometimes overlook the important part that the livestock industry plays in the whole economy of our State. Texas ranches produce annually for the market about 2,750,000,000 pounds of beef which makes the State second only to Iowa as the largest beef cattle producing State of the Nation. Cattle account for almost a quarter of the total farm income. Texas ranchers will sell during this year nearly 3,000,000,000 pounds of live animals for about $500,000,000 in the market.

While ranching is one of the most important factors of our economy, its nature has changed considerably during recent years. The number of farms and ranches in Texas, for instance, has declined from almost one half million in 1930 to 293 thousand in 1954, and the average acreage has gone up from 252 acres to 498. This parallels the country-wide trend, but the average acreage per farm or ranch in Texas is about twice that of the National average. Texas is still the most important ranching State in the country with 83% of its farms and ranches producing cattle.

It is getting to be the time of year when the Congress finds itself very busy. Next week the House will consider two appropriation bills and the highly controversial housing bill. Almost every week from now until the end of the session the legislative calendar will be crowded. It is hoped that the Congress may be able to end its work sometime late in July; however, if there is a Summit Meeting with the Russians early in August, Congress probably will remain in session until it is concluded.

This week the President again requested that the Federal gasoline tax be increased 1/4¢ a gallon. If this is done, it would be a further invasion of the Federal Government of a other area that has been a source of substantial revenue to the States. The highway trust fund could be maintained at a satisfactory level by transferring to it other excise taxes.

Mr. Welcome Wilson of Denton was a Washington visitor this week. Mr. Lewis McDonald of Burkburnett, who is presently in the Navy stationed in Baltimore, Maryland, was also a visitor this week.

Rhineland Classes Visit New Orleans

The Rhineland Juniors and seniors accompanied by principal Maurice Hughes and Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. A. J. Kuehler and Mary Jan Albus visited in New Orleans, La., for their class trip.

The group arrived in New Orleans on May 13. On Thursday they took a tour of the city. During the tour they visited the St. Louis cathedral, St. Louis cemetery, Audubon gardens, French quarter, Pirates Alley and other points of interest. The group also went to lake Pontchartrain where they swam and enjoyed midday rides.

On Friday afternoon and night they enjoyed a steamboat ride on the Mississippi River. Saturday they drove to Shreveport and attended the Louisiana hayride. The rest of the trip was completed on Sunday. Everyone agreed that the trip to the crescent city was most enjoyable.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

Married Students Graduated With Seniors At Goree

Three students, all girls and married, graduated in the commencement exercises with ten other seniors at Goree last Monday night.

Belva Jettton Chamberlain, wife of Gaylon Chamberlain, was salutatorian of the class with an average of 93.20. She will leave with her husband May 25 for Long Beach, Calif., where he is stationed with the navy.

Jeanette Routon Coody, wife of Ronald Coody and the mother of a six-months-old baby girl, also graduated and her husband and baby attended the exercises. They will make their home in Wichita Falls.

Ann Morton Coody is the third married student in the graduating class, and also received her diploma. She and her husband are residents of Munday.

Also receiving his diploma from Goree was Jimmy Dale Beaty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewin Beaty. Jimmie finished his high school work at the end of the first semester, but could not be present for the graduating exercises.

Other graduating seniors are: Brenda Hutchens, Don Lambeth, Jack Hampton, Tommy Peek, Wayne Hargrove, Sharon Turner, Stacy Mathis, Jimmy Seale, Wayne Edwards and Glendon Hicks, who was valedictorian with an average of 95.4.

A majority of the seniors are on a trip to points in South Texas this week.

Don't get panicky if you think you have termites in your house. They aren't going to eat it down right away, says J. H. Hawkins, extension entomologist. HYBRID SORGHUMS GAINING GROUND IN TEXAS

Texas farmers, leading the nation in the fast move to sorghum grain as a cash crop, are furthering this advance through growing acceptance of improved hybrid sorghum seed recently developed.

Seed dealers of hybrid strains of sorghum report Texas sales are up from 50 to 75 percent from the same period last year, indicating that hybrids have not only taken a foothold but that they are here to stay.

Farmers have learned that proven hybrids can increase their grain sorghum production often as much as 40 percent and have given quick acceptance to the scientific seed.

Last year, our state once again tallied a big "Texas first" by producing 44.4% of the nation's sorghum grain — much of it from hybrid seed stock. Texas produced 273,066,000 bushels of the United States' 614,845,000 bushel total.

Certified hybrid sorghum seed are grown by independent Texas growers in accordance with the certified seed program of the Texas Department of Agriculture. The program involves continued inspection and observation for approval as certified seed and can yield a high return to the successful grower.

However, the certified seed program is not an easy proposition. It is, on the contrary, a highly scientific and comparatively expensive proposition which can quickly discourage the inexperienced or inefficient farmer.

The trend over the last two years has been for the smaller farmer to drop out of the certified grower program. From an initial number of about 200 in 1956, the list dropped to 161 growers of certified stock in 1958.

Planted acreage of certified seed also decreased sharply from the 1957 figure of 22,000 acres to only 13,344 acres certified by the TDA last year.

However, carryover stock accounted for the drop in 1958 certified seed production. A bumper crop in 1957 exceeded the demand for 1958 plantings. But as the popularity of hybrid sorghum continues to increase as it surely will, this trend will likely reverse itself.

Indications today show that a shortage of the popular varieties of hybrid sorghums could develop this year. But so far the supply and demand appear in good balance and another good season for Texas grain sorghums is in sight.

To finish the story of Sam Bass—

The member of the gang who betrayed it to the Rangers returned to Denton and he was so fearful of revenge at the hands of the slain outlaw's friends that sometimes he would go to the jail and ask to be allowed to spend the night there. He became troubled with his eyes and was given a medicine which was poisonous if taken internally. In some manner, he swallowed some of the medicine and died after terrible suffering.

Frank Jackson, who had fought off the pursuers and had gotten Bass out of Round Rock, had (as previously related) abandoned Sam at the insistence of his chief, who had said that he himself was done for but that Jackson could get away.

There is a story that, the night after Bass' funeral, a colored woman who lived near the cemetery saw a horseman leap the fence of the graveyard, alight at the new grave, remove his hat and stand with bowed head a little while and then, remounting, leap the fence again, and ride away. This was believed to have been Jackson, last survivor of the band, saying farewell to his chieftain.

Many years later, a writer in a Southwestern state declared that Jackson (under another name, of course) had lived a law-abiding life, had become wealthy and had won the respect of his fellow citizens. Jackson confided his identity to that author and expressed the desire to re-visit Round Rock if the murder indictment was first dismissed. (The indictment was based on the killing of an officer by Bass at the outset of the battle in Round Rock.) The prosecuting attorney, however, refused to dismiss the charge.

In this connection, while this columnist was in Round Rock some years ago, J. H. Kavanaugh, then the editor of the Leader, related:

"The next district attorney, however, did drop the case and word was sent to that effect but the message came back that Jackson had died not many months previously."

Presumably, therefore the last member of Bass' gang did not return to the scene he had left so dramatically some half a century before.

After one climbs over the rickety old turnstile at the cemetery in Round Rock, there is a path which has been beaten out by the feet of hundreds of visitors who, each year, visit the grave.

The store building in which the gun battle began is yet standing.

And people still talk, these many and long years since his death, about Sam Bass, the genial cowboy who took the wrong turn in the path of life.

Turkey Crop Is Looking Good In Texas This Year

AUSTIN — Wild turkey will be plentiful this year, according to E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission. "Last year was one of the most favorable years since the drought for increases in the wild turkey populations," said Walker, "and many young birds were raised and added to the bands now roaming the Texas brushlands."

Old roosts which appeared abandoned and forgotten, are being reactivated. During the past fall and winter, wild turkey have been observed roosting in a number of old roosts that had not been used since before the drought.

Following the winter roosting, in late February and March, wild turkeys go through what is known as a spring shuffle, according to Walker. The winter flocks break up and begin to disperse over wide areas in preparation for breeding and nesting. The usual procedure is for each old gobbler to collect a harem of females and move into a nesting area. "This location frequently is as far as 12 to 20 miles from the wintering grounds," said the director.

During the shuffle, it is not unusual for single hens to be lost for a period of time. "However," added Walker, "the calling and gobbling of the wild gobblers, which is always heard at this time of year, attracts the hens and they are usually successful in mating with a mature gobbler."

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Crockett visited relatives in Lamesa last week.

LOCALS

Guests in the home of Mrs. Cecil Honeycutt over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wingo of Muleshoe, Capt. and Mrs. Harold Honeycutt and son of Abilene and John Honeycutt who has just completed basic training at Fort Hood. John is spending his leave here with his mother and will report to Fort Gordon, Ga., on May 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Haymes attended the funeral of Mr. Haymes' cousin, Harry Gardener, in Hamlin last Thursday afternoon.

Cosmetic firms found the royal jelly of the bee a source of beauty—and now a completely new concept in bra design has been inspired by the bee's honeycomb.

Honeycomb bra created by Peter Pan Foundations, Inc., has a cup rim of Elastonet, an elastic net with an open work design having the intricate shape of the honeycomb. The net feature brings wonderful new advantages since it expands and contracts with every action. Even stretching, twisting or turning will not pull the Honeycomb bra out of position since all of the movement is in the net only.

The style illustrated above has hidden Treasure contour cups to add fullness, confidence, without pads!

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Hollie, M. D., State Health Officer

The discarded nail was hidden in tall grass. The mower blade hit it and suddenly it was buried and inch deep alongside the shinbone of the 23-year-old Williamson County secretary.

Accidents of this type will be on the increase now — this is lawn-mowing time, you know — until fall weather brings a welcome respite from the weekly chore.

The State Department of Health does not keep statistics on non-fatal accidents, so the extent of injuries from carelessly handled power mowers is unknown. But a random check of private physicians and an emergency hospital confirms the fact that the number is considerable.

Like the man who stopped his car at the curb, intending to say hello to his perspiring neighbor busily mowing the grass. Neighbor wheels up with mower to return the greeting. Man in car — elbow resting on window — finds his forearm pinned to bicep with a five-inch piece of wire flung at him by the whirling blade.

Power equipment is a tremendous boon to the man who likes to keep his yard neat with a minimum of effort. But it takes constant concentration to do the job safely. Even experience is no substitute for concentration.

A garden club member in a major Texas city used to pride himself on his safe and sane use of power tools that helped him maintain the sharpest yard in the block.

But no more. One afternoon recently, while trimming his driveway with a power trimmer, he reached down to lift a bloom-laden branch of a rose bush out of the way.

When he withdrew his hand two fingers were missing. "I wasn't alert," he wryly explained.

One of the most frequent mower accidents has this sequence:

A stick or wire or rock jams between cutting bar and blade. The operator attempts to clear the jam without going to the trouble of killing the motor. Result: Badly cut or severed fingers when the surge of power spins the freed blade.

Most power mowers come equipped with safety guards. Trouble is that guards are removed by owners for one reason or another and never replaced.

But use one carelessly and you're liable to become a candidate for a quick trip to the emergency ward of City Hospital. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Richard Whitworth, who is in the Army stationed at Carrizozo, N. M., spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Whitworth.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Don Elliott are the proud parents of a daughter who made her arrival at 9 p. m. in the Haskell Hospital, Wednesday, May 13, 1959. She weighed 8 pounds and 14 ounces and has been named Stephanie Sue. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrett of Anson and Mrs. Evelyne Malomas of Seymour.

The use of plastic as a substitute for glass in greenhouse construction has reduced the cost of such structures to the point that backyard operations may be encouraged. Clyde Singletary, extension horticulturist, says the smaller, intensive operators who grow vegetable transplants and produce tomatoes out-of-season are particularly interested in the development.

Singletary points out that a lot of greenhouse know-how is required for the successful operation of such an enterprise. Copies of a new publication, MP-341, "Plastic Greenhouse for Growing Vegetables" are available from the local county agent or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Speed doesn't shorten the road... it shortens your life!

Mrs. Ninnie L. Baird, Founder Of Baird's Bakeries, Now 90 Years Old

On Saturday, May 23rd, in Fort Worth, Texas a birthday is being celebrated — the 90th birthday of Mrs. Ninnie L. Baird, whose life proves once again that America rewards the old-fashioned virtues of courage, determination and devotion.

MRS. NINNIE L. BAIRD

Not that this unassuming woman considers herself remarkable. She is much more likely to talk about her four sons and three daughters, her 23 grandchildren, 43 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren than about the fact that the baking business she started in her home kitchen has grown to be the largest independently owned baking business in the nation.

Her neighbors had always praised the bread she baked. So in 1908 Mrs. Baird, using her own wood-burning range, started baking bread to sell. Her children helped her, the two oldest boys delivering the still-warm loaves in baskets to their customers.

More people wanted the loaf they were calling Mrs. Baird's Bread, so a larger range was bought. Later a little bakery was built in the back yard of the Baird home, and a horse-drawn wagon was bought to make deliveries. As the sons grew to manhood it became obvious that the demand for the kind of bread Mrs. Baird baked called for volume baking facilities.

First one large bakery was built, then others, until today there are five great modern bakeries turning out Mrs. Baird's Bread and cakes in key Texas cities. Every step of their operations is personally supervised by Mrs. Baird's sons and their sons, all trained in Mrs. Baird's own tradition: To bake an even better loaf tomorrow than the one baked today.

As chairman of the board of Mrs. Baird's Bakeries, Mrs. Ninnie Baird still keeps a watchful eye on the product that has made her name a household word across the broad expanse of Texas. She will take time out today to receive a scroll signed by 1,500 admiring employees to mark her 90th birthday, while Texas and the nation applaud this woman who built her baking skill and her motherly determination into a great business enterprise.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Well, it's only a few more days now until this year's school session is over. Thousands of students will rush off to play but every year there are more boys and girls who work during the summer.

It is worth noting that Dad doesn't have to knock them off his income tax exemption. In spite of the law having been changed for five years a lot of dads still give the younger generation a bad time about not making over $300. It doesn't matter they'd have to saw half an inch off the bottom of 600 doors before they'd open and close.

Now everybody is having a field day over this, but I don't see why, and would like to come to the defense of the United States Senate. There's nothing wrong with sawing off the bottom of a door to make it close. I've been doing it for years.
If the Senators will come to my Johnson grass farm out here, I can show them a door that's not only had half an inch cut off the bottom, but two inches off the top and an inch off the side, and if the house settles in a different direction, I may have to saw some more off in some other place.
What a lot of people don't understand about me and the U. S. Senate is that we've learned that you have to adapt yourself to life as you find it. I know some people would argue that instead of sawing off a door to make it fit after the house settles, it would be better to jack the house up and restore it to the same level it was when the door was first swung, but that's the trouble with the world, it's always trying to retain the status quo when all us thinkers know life consists of constant change. Me and the Senate know that when when the foundation shifts, shift with it. You ain't going to catch me and the U. S. Senate crawling under the house to jack it up as long as we've got a saw handy.
I don't suppose the Senate has any trouble with gates too, but out here, while I don't have 600 sagging gates, the one's I've got are just as hard to close as the 600 doors in the new Senate office building, but the difference is, I can't vote an appropriation to fix mine. Which reminds me, if Congress can vote funds to help cities improve unsightly slums and Senators to get their doors to swing properly and farmers to improve their land, why can't the Department of Agriculture set up a Sagging Gate Fund? It's something to think about, although it's not an emergency. I've got gates that have sagged through two world wars and probably will sag through the next.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

New Tractor

This all-new 5 1/2-hp tractor heads up the list of 33 new products for 1959 which have been added to Massey-Ferguson's line of farm and light industrial machines and equipment. Shown here in the high clearance model, the M-F 85 introduces the Ferguson system of precision implement and draft control to the heavier machines needed in today's big-acreage farm operations. Built to perform in the 60-horse class, the tractor's new transmission offers eight forward and two reverse speeds, ranging from just over one m.p.h. to approximately 20 m.p.h. Power steering is standard equipment. The familiar 3-point hitch is equipped with special features for ease in attaching heavy implements. Seat location, positioned forward of the rear axle for maximum comfort and visibility, can be adjusted to accommodate tall or short operators, and can slide back for extra leg clearance when the tractor is driven in a standing position.

seems likely to require no greater labor force than has been needed in the past, he added.

Mrs. Irene Barton and her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Starkey and children, all of Amarillo were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Moorhouse and children.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Patterson returned home last Wednesday after a weeks visit with Mrs. Patterson's sister and brother in San Antonio. They also visited relatives in Corpus Christi.

DURABLE SURFACE

The density of Masonite Tempored Preswood, a popular fix-up panel, is much greater than that of northern maple. This property makes it excellent for a workbench surface, cutting or chopping board in the kitchen and all-around-home uses where a surface is subject to heavy wear or punishment. Good examples of the latter are wainscots in a child's room or a recreation area.

There is no time like the present for culling unprofitable dairy cows. The low producing cow is usually in better condition for sale than any other cow in herd, says A. M. Meekma, extension dairy husbandman, and prices for such animals are good.

Northwest Texas Young Adults Set Annual Meeting

CETA CANYON — Plans have been completed for the Northwest Texas Methodist Young Adult Conference scheduled June 12-14, at Ceta Canyon camp. Theme for the conference will be "Our Faith — Our Mission."

The conference begins with Friday evening supper and closes at noon on Sunday.

Dr. Hubert Bratcher, Pampa district superintendent, will be the worship and inspiration speaker using the topic, "Our Methodist Beliefs."

Work and study portion of the conference will be in four major sections: "Our Task and Our Tools in Leadership," led by Rev. Charles E. Lutrick, Lubbock; "The Child and His Problems in Religious Growth," Mrs. Uel D. Crosby, Amarillo; "Achieving A Sense Of Belonging," by Rev. Charles Ellzey, Amarillo; and "Leisure With Pleasure," by Rev. and Mrs. Cecil R. Matthews, Lubbock.

Emphasis will be given to evangelism and church loyalty, effective and creative leisure and recreation time in the young adult fellowship and the family, problems in the life and growth of the child's religious development in church and home and leadership for an effective young adult class or group in the local church.

A supervised children's activity program will be under the direction of Mrs. Virgil Patterson, Merkel.

The young adult conference is for young adult members, officers and teachers of the young adult classes or groups from the entire conference.

Registrations should be sent to Mrs. Richard Upchurch, 4421 49th street, Lubbock.

More Changes In Farming And Rural Living Forecast

College Station — The old distinctions between farm and city are rapidly disappearing, said Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist. Rural nonfarm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more nonfarm people will live in rural areas.

More than a third of farm operators work off their farms 100 days or more per year. In 1957, about 40 percent of net income of farm families was from nonfarm sources, he said.

Family operated farms will increase in size since technological improvements are by no means complete. Agriculture, said Brown, appears to be only in the middle of revolutionary changes both in size and capital structure. Larger farms mean larger investments, not only for land and buildings but for all the machinery and non-agricultural supplies needed in modern farm production. Based on present trends, investment per commercial farm by 1975 may amount to over $80,000 in 1958 dollars compared to a little less than $40,000 now, he said.

Various new financial devices may be worked out to meet the need, some based upon methods now common in industry. One development already underway is the use of land-purchase contracts under which the title of the land remains with the seller until all or a specific percentage of payments have been made.

Commercial family farms will probably continue to be the dominant form of organization in American agriculture. Labor requirements have not increased with the size of farms except in some limited areas. For the bulk of farmers, efficient operation
