Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

It is our intent and purpose to close this place of business on Saturday, July 4. Not that we're such an independent cuss, but we think it will do us all good to observe our national Independence Day.

k-k

We started out some two weeks ago to kinda see that we don't have anything in our way so we won't be able to close up all day. Usually we close at noon Saturdays, anyway, so we just have to get a half-day's work done in advance.

k-k

And we think a majority of the business firms of Munday are siding with us on this closing. It appears early this week that practically everything will be closed, including dry goods and grocery stores. However, there may be some businesses that will, of necessity, remain open but they will be in the minority.

k-k

What local people will do with this holiday will likely be varied. Some will visit relatives at other points, others will have relatives visit them and some will take to the lakes and streams to match wits with the finny tribe. To others it will be just another day.

k-k

We are expecting relatives from up Borger way, who want to spend some time at our "shack on the lake." So a portion of our time will more than likely be spent up on Pony Creek of Lake Kemp.

k-k

A number of Munday's population will be found down Stamford way at the Texas Cowboy Reunion, as its the case every year. Maybe others will have already had their share of the reunion before the fourth, since the parade on Thursday afternoon kinks off the activities.

We asked two of Munday's enthusiasts last week if they were going to the Cowboy Reunion. The first one, Walter Bevers, didn't say for sure, but indicated that he would likely be there. "I haven't missed but one of them," he said.

k-k

A day later, we walked toward the post office with C. L. Mayes and asked him if he was going. "I helped organize it," he said, "and I haven't missed one yet." That was a pretty positive answer, and next week we expect Mr. Mayes can still say: "I haven't missed one, yet."

k-k

We learned this week that the fiscal year, 1959, has closed at Washington with a deficit of over 12 billion bucks, bringing the fourth deficit in six years for the "booming" Eisenhower administration. And officials are welcoming fiscal 1960 with hope that the new economic boom will swell tax revenues and permit the first budget surplus in three years.

k-k

They're hoping for this "economic boom" so we will all be chipping in with more tax money. And with a national debt now estimated at well over 250 billion dollars, we common folks who "feed the mill" at Washington can have small hope, if any, for relief in our regular contributions. The two surest things on earth, we've heard, are death and taxes.

k-k

We often refer to the donkey as the dumb animal, but after that ball game Tuesday night we're not so sure. They seemed to be smarter than the boys who tried to steer them over the playing field!

k-k

The rain Tuesday night halted potato harvest for a while, and some who have been connected with 11 members present. A new too good on the spuds remaining in the field. One good thing, though, is that most of the crop has been harvested.

k-k

Mr. Braly and folks at the bank had hoped that the bank's "gift to the community" would be ready for everybody's enjoyment this week, but there has been a delay in plans. It will likely be in operation in a few days, and they're trying to keep it as a sort of surprise for the people.

k-k

"I had hoped I could take care of that check of mine before this happened," a bystander moaned as the fire department made a rush call to a fire at a Texas bank.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

It's no news to most of us that this piece of sod in our particular part of Texas is just about the finest place there is. Few Texans, even those living in Alaska, will deny that we have many advantages not enjoyed by the rest of the world.

Most of us know that Texas is a community property state and that this means Pa owns half and ma owns half. However, a lot of us forget the community property laws when we file our income tax return, get divorced, inherit property, give property away or retire.

The community property law has a big effect on the income taxes you will owe in all of these cases. It usually helps but it can also cost you money. Check on the differences in income taxes you owe under community property law. It can save money and trouble.

Knox City Wins 3-1 In Battle Of Brutes Tuesday

It was the umpires decision. He was also manager of the donkeys, so the decision was protested by Munday's Jaycees. According to the decision, the Knox City Lions won the donkey ball game here Tuesday night by a score of 3 to 1.

The donkeys grazed contentedly on the green turf of the Pony League field and uttered nairy a word. They knew they were winning all the time!

Really it was a "battle of the brutes" - man, who reportedly sprang from a monkey, and the donkey, most stubborn of all long-eared beasts. And the man repeatedly bit the dust as he tried to manipulate the donkeys around the diamond.

Such donkeys as "Red Skelton," "Liberace," "Popeye" and other well-known personalities gave the men the most trouble. Local boys who were off more than on during the game included Harold Paden, Jim Reeves, Dwight Key, Hal Weigel, Spike Bryan, Skip Cure, Ronald Coady, Troy McKnight, Gene Kissinger, and Gene Haynie, to mention a few.

A good crowd was out to cheer something or somebody, donkey or human. And they seemed to be getting their moneys worth in entertainment.

It was all in fun, anyhow, but the main purpose was to raise some funds for the Jaycees to carry on their projects of the year, one of which is providing toys for needy children at Christmastime.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

More and more people — and with every reason — have come to believe that one trouble with this country's educational systems is that too much money is spent on unnecessary luxuries and frills, at the expense of educational necessities.

In the light of this, something that happened a short time ago at Portland State College in Portland, Oregon, has much more than local significance.

It was proposed that certain additions be made to the College Center — among them a bowling alley and a barber shop. But the students' own College Center Board voted the plan down, by a 4-to-1 majority.

In part, the Board's resolution read: ". . . facilities for student entertainment and personal services are in abundance in the Portland Metropolitan Area, thereby making it unnecessary and even wasteful for large amounts of state and student funds to be spent in these areas of the college. . . The students of Portland State are more interested in education than in services."

Community after community, the small as well as the large, have gone overboard in building almost unbelievably expensive plants. The primary educational need is to allocate as much of the available money as possible to purposes where it will honestly serve true educational ends — such as salary structures that will make teaching more attractive to competent and ambitious people.

ANAHEIM, CALIFORNIA, THE BULLETIN: "As was pointed out in 'Alice in Wonderland', things are getting curiouse and curiouse, especially in the federal bureaucracy. For example, consider the bill, now before Congress, to provide an enormously expensive program of school aid . . ."

"The noble purpose of this legislation is to take from the wealthy states, such as California, and give to those that presumably can't afford the new school financing they need. But as so often happens in socialistic legislation, the handout would go to the wrong beneficiary.

"In a recent analysis of this program, Prof. Yale Brozen of the University of Chicago pointed out that actually the greatest need for school funds is found in the very States from which the most money would be taken . . ."

LIFE OF TRADE

Early in June the first non-stop air service between New York and Anchorage, Alaska, was inaugurated by a leading airline. The flights continue on to Tokyo, and more than eight hours are cut from the previous fastest air time to Japan.

This is a welcome dividend to those who want to go to Alaska and the Far East by air. And it's interesting to speculate on what brought about so marked an improvement.

The big factor was the possibility of competition. For another leading international airline has plans for flying the Great Circle route from the East Coast and Middle West to Tokyo via Fairbanks, Alaska.

Competition is the life of trade — and that old truism is valid whether, the trade in question involves a bag of groceries or a flight abroad. This applies with particular force now to international air travel. That is booming. Yet old regulations, imposed when conditions and the available equipment were entirely different, prevent needed competition, and force air lines into long detours which no longer make sense. The situation is especially bad in the great Pacific air complex.

The major nations — Russia included — use their international air fleets as instruments of policy as well as tools of trade and travel. Obsolete rules must not prevent American international carriers from keeping up in this vital race.

BELLINGHAM, WASHINGTON, HERALD, SUN: "The Senate Rackets hearing is the converse of the old theory that if you repeat a statement often enough people will believe it. The stories of shady deals between employers and labor representatives as paraded before the committee is so commonplace that the public apparently wishes to forget it."

CARRIZO SPRINGS, TEXAS, JAVELIN: "There is no such thing as a free lunch . . . not even when the Government provides it. Every lunch has to be paid for . . . by somebody. The same is true of Government aids, benefits and services. They are not free. All of these things have to be paid for by somebody, and that somebody is we . . . the people."

Most meat packing companies, says the American Meat Institute, pay out about three quarters of each sales dollar for livestock.

By John C. White, Commissioner

Ultimate eradication of the dread livestock brucellosis disease is possible if new plans — already successful in limited trials — will succeed when available to Texas and other cattle states this summer.

The new anti-brucellosis tactic being initiated by federal-state cooperation involves tagging range cattle as they go to market and sampling blood as a routine during slaughter, thereby maintaining area status information on the costly disease of eventual elimination.

As planned, the animals to be shipped to market will be identified by tags showing state, county and herd of origin. This will provide the means for routine retesting as required for brucellosis-free recertification. When blood tests reveal reactors among the cattle, it will then be possible to trace and eliminate the infection in herds of origin.

Trials for the past three years in eight states showed that slaughter-house testing of dry and cull cows effectively discloses the brucellosis status of a range area and that the coding system is the most practical of several satisfactory ones tried.

This is how the recertification plan works: When blood testing for three years representing at least 15 percent of the breeding cows in

The First Methodist Church of Goree was the scene of a ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Jonnie Marie Hutchens and Charles Morgan Merrill Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter C. Hadley of Happy, former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Goree.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William O. (Billie) Hutchens and the late Mr. Hutchens. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Merrill of Dallas.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. Barton Carl, of Goree, organist, and Mrs. Lee Lemons of Houston who sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Larry Hutchens, wore a gown of silk organza styled with a widened Sabrina neckline appliqued with lace motifs and decorated with pearls and iridescents. The sleeves extended to petal points and the flowing godet skirt was appliqued with lace motifs matching the neckline. Her imported tulle veil was attached to a fitted headpiece of lace and organza and embroidered with pearls and iridescents. The bride's attire was designed and made by her mother.

She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds atop a white Bible with pink streamers and lily of the valley.

Miss Brenda Hutchens attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Neta Miller of Abilene and Miss Judy Reynolds of Brownfield. They were identically dressed in street-length dresses of pink embroidered crystalline fashioned with harem skirts and widened sweetheart necklines. They were accented with American Beauty satin cummerbunds. They wore picture hats of American Beauty net and carried colonial bouquets.

Ken Owens of Denver City, Texas, was best man. Groomsmen were Max Murrell of Hamlin and Alan Jones of Dallas. Ushers were Jack Nuckols of Goree and Lane Morrows of Amarillo.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Ikard

Earlier this month the House passed the largest single appropriation bill that will be made for the fiscal year 1960. The bill passed provides a total 38.8 Billion Dollars for defense which is roughly a Billion Dollars less than was appropriated last year and about one-half Billion Dollars less than the Administration requested. One point of concern to many of us in this Defense Appropriation Bill was the failure to provide for the maintenance of our Army at a proper strength. Many have long felt that the emphasis on the one-weapon, one-war concept could well lead us to military disaster, or at least prohibit us from reacting properly to a variety of international situations any one of which might present a different challenge. Present policy of our Defense Department recognizes the need for "adequate" forces as was evidenced by the Department's delay in the scheduled cutback in the Marine and the Army in the Lebanon and Quemoy crises because they thought these forces might be needed. Now, however, these cuts are going into effect. Despite the lessons learned in Lebanon, Quemoy, and other "hot spots" around the world where we have known the need of the ground forces, we are reducing the forces

Vacation Trip Will Be Safer If Safety Observed

How many times have we heard this story when a co-worker or neighbor got back from vacation? "Boy, what a two weeks I had! Drove to Denver for two days, then out to Los Angeles to visit the wife's family . . . really had to 'barrel' it to get back on time. Now I need two more weeks to rest up from the vacation."

Exaggerated? Perhaps, but it is typical of our times. We go at such a pace that we really don't take time to live. Grandma and grandpa used to take a trip 50 miles from home and would talk about it for years. Nowadays we drive a 1,000 miles over the weekend and what do we talk about? The terrible traffic we encounter except on those beautiful stretches of long white concrete.

However, it is not our purpose here to tell anyone what to do with their vacation. What each person does on his two or three weeks is strictly his own business, but we do believe that careful, sensible planning and unhurried driving will help make a vacation more restful . . . certainly a lot safer. With the help of the Texas Safety Association, here are a few suggestions we believe will make your vacation trip a safer one.

1. Begin your traffic safety thinking before you take off. That means seeing that your car is in topnotch mechanical condition. Have your service or garage man give your car a thorough check-up before starting your trip. It's no fun to spend vacation time sitting around a garage waiting for a car to be fixed.
2. Emergencies do arise, so be prepared. Take along such equipment as a first-aid kit, flashlight, flares, and don't forget to check that spare tire. Keep such equipment and tire tools stowed where they can be reached without much trouble.
3. Don't overload your car. make sure that luggage and other vacation gear doesn't obstruct your view while driving. Vision must be clear in front, sides and in the rear.
4. Plan a day by day travel schedule that will give you time to get out and relax occasionally. Prolonged driving periods tend to have a hypnotic affect on drivers and build up nerve tension—driver efficiency declines after about six hours at the wheel.
5. Make up your mind to have a pleasant relaxing trip by being patient and courteous with other drivers. Above all, pack along a healthy load of common sense—it takes a lot less time to prevent an accident than it does to report one.

What To Do In Big Cities

By Martha Johnson Dodge Safety Consultant

NEW YORK—City driving can be fun.

If you are not used to driving in congested city traffic and are contemplating a trip to New York or another big city during your summer vacation, these hints should be welcome.

Stephen P. Kennedy, police commissioner of New York, one of the most traffic-congested cities in the world with more than two million cars using its crowded streets daily, feels city driving requires greater intelligence and perception than any other type.

Commissioner Kennedy, whose traffic division is manned by 2,284 safety specialists, offers these three broad rules for city driving:

KNOW YOUR REGULATIONS. since 90 per cent of all accidents involve a breach of regulation. In New York, the speed limit is 25 miles per hour, considered ideal for car and driver control in heavy vehicle and pedestrian traffic.

- Obey all traffic laws, including the speed limit.
- Check your car for safety at regular intervals.
- Follow at a safe distance.
- Slow down and signal before turning or stopping.
- Slow down at intersections.

CHECK YOUR ATTITUDE AND BEHAVIOR and follow the three C's of safe driving—Care, Courtesy and Common Sense.

- Don't drink and drive.
- Don't "fight" for the right of way.
- Don't weave in traffic.
- Don't "jump" traffic lights.
- Don't make sudden stops.

LEARN DEFENSIVE DRIVING to develop perception and quick reaction.

Proper Storage For Cotton Seed Is Recommended

Preservation of quality is a major problem confronting organizations which produce and store cottonseed for planting purposes. To help solve this problem, studies were conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to determine the effectiveness of aeration in maintaining viability and preventing an increase in free fatty acid content of cottonseed stored in large quantities.

With permanently installed fans, an air flow rate as low as 5.4 cubic feet per minute (cfm) per ton of cottonseed was effective in preventing a loss in germination and an increase in free fatty acid content of cottonseed with a maximum moisture content of 12 percent. The time required to move a cooling zone through an entire depth of seed ranged from 110 and 120 hours of fan operation with an air flow rate of 5.4 cfm per ton, as compared with 50 to 55 hours with an air flow rate of 12.5 per ton.

All the 160 ton capacity bins were equipped with air distribution systems for aerating the stored seed. Under the weather conditions encountered in these tests, an average of 50 days was required to reduce seed temperatures from 95 to 65 degrees Fahrenheit with permanently installed fans supplying air at a rate of 5.4 cfm per ton, as compared with 60 days with a portable fan supplying air at a rate of 12.5 cfm per ton.

A chart was developed from the tests to aid in determination of air, static pressure, and horse power requirements to aerate cottonseed with the recommended air flow rate of 5.4 cfm per ton. To use the chart an operator needs to know only the floor area of a bin and the depth of seed to be stored.

The results of the tests are discussed in a publication released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station entitled "Storage of Cottonseed for Planting Purposes." Write the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, for a copy of the publication. Ask for MP-326.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer

Six years ago, more than 230,000 new Texans were born, and they will be entering school for the first time in both public and private schools in September.

The right preparation for those first school days is vital to the future satisfaction and adjustment of your child in his new environment.

If he has an older brother or sister the task will be easier, but still there are many steps of getting ready for school that should be taken before September 1.

Some effort should be made to make it clear to the child that he will be on his own — without Mom or Dad watching over him all the time — a good while before that first day of school.

Clothing should be given much thought. Check the habits of your local school and find out what is the predominant mode of dress. If all the boys wear long pants, by all means make sure your son has them too.

Make sure everything is large enough, but not baggy or his classmates will make fun of him.

Proper nutrition is very important. When school starts allow enough time in the morning for a wholesome breakfast. A good breakfast includes citrus fruit or juice, milk, whole grain cereal of bread, eggs, or bacon or both.

Lunch and dinner should be leisurely and pleasant, too. The new adventure of school is pretty fast paced, but mealtime offers an opportunity for the family to pause and enjoy being together.

Now is the time to check up on your school's requirements regarding vaccinations or other health measures and take care of them well in advance.

Also, nearly every school district in Texas requires proof-of-age for first year students in the form of a certified birth certificate.

You may obtain a copy by sending one dollar to the Registrar of Vital Statistics where your child was born or to the Division of Vital Statistics, Texas State Health Department, 410 East 5th Street, Austin, Texas.

Be certain to include the name of the child, date of birth, place of birth, father's name, and mother's name.

It would be a good idea to do this now to avoid the August rush.

The Munday Times

Miss Littlefield, Joe H. Weinberg Married In Church Rites Saturday

Miss Wanda Gayle Littlefield of Munday became the bride of Joe Herman Weinberg of Kilgore, Texas, in a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening at 6:00 p.m. in the Munday First Baptist Church.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Littlefield, Munday and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Weinberg of Kilgore.

Rev. G. N. Allison, pastor, officiated with Mrs. Allison, vocalist, accompanied by Miss Melissa Lee, organist.

Church decorations, focal point was a large fan-shaped lattice covered with lemon leaves and white carnations, flanked by candelabras holding white candles. The pews were decorated with white ribbons and white candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chapel-sweep gown of pure silk Schiffe embroidery. The princess styling was shaped to follow the empire line at the back which was emphasized by a large organza bow, and was caught to the side hem in a soft puff. Her fingertip veil was attached to a dainty Swedish crown encrusted with pearls and iridescents. She carried a colonial type arrangement consisting of several white cymfoleum orchids, atop a white Bible.

For something old the bride carried a small white Bible, which was a gift from her parents some fifteen years ago, something new was her wedding costume, something borrowed was a handkerchief belonging to one of the bridesmaids and the traditional blue garter served as something blue. She also found room for a lucky silver six-pence in her shoe.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Martha Berry, Gladewater, Tex., who wore a coral dress of pure silk organza over taffeta. The brief cap sleeved bodice was set on a harem styled skirt which puffed at the hip and tapered at the knees.

The headpiece was a Swedish crown, a slight variation of the bride's headpiece. Both shoes and headpiece were the exact color of the dress. She carried a colonial nose gay of pale yellow carnations interspersed with white.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Jones, Longview, Miss Jo Ann Doran, Odessa; and Mrs. David Robbnet, Abilene. Their costumes were the same as the maid of honor and they carried flowers in nose gays of pale yellow carnations.

Candlelighters were Eddie Littlefield, brother of the bride, and Miss Mary Nell Weinberg, sister of the groom of Kilgore, who wore a dress of pale yellow organza over taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice, puff sleeves and balloon skirt.

Flower girl was Marile McCauley whose dress was styled identically to the candlelighter, Tommy Bullington, was ring bearer.

Best man was Andy Kennedy, Kilgore, ushers and groomsmen were John Weinberg, A'an Jones, Bobby Steele, and John Henry

Knox Prairie Philosopher Doubts The Wisdom of Suing Government Men For Work They Didn't Perform

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek sounds like he's afraid somebody may try to make him work. We doubt it.
Dear Editor:

I'm not opposed to new ideas, as long as they're sound, and you and I both know by sound I mean any idea that's convenient for you and me to live with, but when a new idea hatched up by some smart-aleck that threatens the very way of our existence, it's time to strike back.

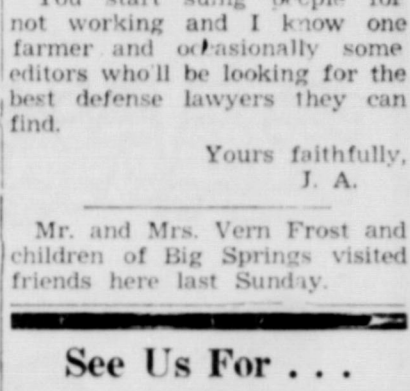

I read in a newspaper yesterday afternoon which blew off my tractor seat while I went to the house for a drink of water—the paper was left there to keep the sun off the seat while I was gone and since by then the seat was too hot to use and no chance of a cloud coming by to charge it, I took it to a shade tree and read—at any rate, to get on with this sentence, I read where the Federal government has sued an employee for $4,000 in wages he'd gotten but didn't work for. According to the trial testimony, the employee spent half his time loafing in a nearby club, and the government fired him and sued him for half his wages for the past year.

At first glance, this might seem like a sound idea. A man's loafing on the job, make him pay back part of his wages. A Legislature takes six months to pass a tax bill when it could have been done in three, sue the members for half their pay.

But there are other angles to it. For example, take a Legislature. If it takes, it six months to pass a tax bill when it could have been done in three, it's true the government loses three months of taxes, but on the other hand, you've got to remember, the tax payers gain three months. This is worth thinking about.

And just because a government worker is working is no sign the people are better off than if he was loafing. A lot of people for example object when a bunch of Congressmen go off on a trip to Europe, but I've sometimes felt it was cheaper in the long run to keep some Congressmen in Europe than Washington.

It's not how long a session of the Legislature takes that worries me it's how much it takes, when the tax bills are written.
You start suing people for not working and I know one farmer and occasionally some editors who'll be looking for the best defense lawyers they can find.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

(By BOYCE HOUSE)

Next year will mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Jennings Bryan, the only man ever nominated three times by a major political party for the presidency of the United States and the greatest orator of his generation.

No other man in American history exerted as much influence on national affairs for so long a time. Besides being the candidate himself in 1890, 1900 and 1908, Bryan was — more than any other — responsible for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson in 1912 and he played a decisive part in Wilson's re-election in 1916. At the conventions of 1920 and 1924, Bryan was still an outstanding figure.

For almost 30 years, the spotlight shone upon him and not one act ever marred his good name. He was a man of integrity, of nobility, of deep religious conviction.

Only Clay and Blaine — in all the long sweep of American politics — rival Bryan in the enthusiasm which he inspired, a devotion which successive defeats could not shake. Known first as "the Boy Orator of the Plate," he was called "the Great Commoner" and "the Peerless Leader". The mention of his name was all that was needed to set off a demonstration.

As a young reporter, I once interviewed him. He was friendly, modest human. Twice I heard him speak and he fully justified his great renown.

Bryan was born in Salem, Ill., March 19, 1856; graduated from Illinois College in Jacksonville and the Union School of Law in Chicago; began the practice of law in Jacksonville, then moved to Lincoln, Nebraska, the city with which his name is most closely associated, although he was editor (1894-96) of the Omaha World-Herald and, during last years, lived in Florida. It was in Chicago that he delivered his "Crown-of-Thorns and Cross-of-Gold" speech, which won him the first presidential nomination.

It is to be hoped that the 100th anniversary of this great American will be fittingly observed.
