We do things in a big way in Texas!

k-k
Although we've been outdone by Alaska in size, we still take the prize for doing things in a big way, including driving dangerously!

k-k
And so we Texans showed them how to do it over the Fourth of July holidays. Late reports last Monday showed that Texas led the nation in traffic deaths. And it appeared we'd also be leading in the over-all violent deaths.

k-k
The Texas Department of Public Safety proved to be "accurate Texans" too in predicting the number of traffic deaths. While its count stood at 25 late Monday, it also reported this would climb to 26 or more after final reports were in. The department had predicted that at least 26 Texans would die in highway crashes.

k-k
While we in Texas have many things to brag about, the fact that we can butcher them up on the highways is a horrible thing.

In our own little community, we are fortunate that no tragic deaths came our way to bring sorrow and sadness to the community during our celebration of Independence Day. The town appeared pretty well closed up Saturday morning as we headed toward Lake Kemp.

k-k
Those who go to the lake just to loll around and rest up need to give us their recipe. We had company from Berger to arrive at the lake Saturday morning. As we were packing the items we were taking out there, we laughingly remarked to Bridge that it looked like we'd have to borrow a trailer to get all our things out there. It was more like packing for a month's vacation.

k-k
After two days out there, boating, bathing, trolines and running them, wetting other hooks with no success, climbing the steep bank, we felt Monday morning like we needed an extra day to rest up from the four-

k-k
The Oscar Spans were at the lake, too, and while they were there we got a portion of the grass and stuff mowed between the cabins — enough so Oscar can come over borrowing without having to wade through the grass and weeds. As we commented on how nice it looked, Oscar said he wanted a plug in the paper about mowing it. We are sure glad Oscar had a rotary type mower and a son, O. H. Jr., to run it!

k-k
Work started Monday morning on the "gift to the community" which W. E. Braly and his bank bunch are giving to us, and it will be in operation within a few days. This gift is a chime clock, one of the finest that could be purchased.

k-k
The new clock not only provides the correct time for everyone within its sight, but it also chimes the quarter hours in a soft pleasing tone and strikes the hours as well. On the full hour, the chimes sound sixteen notes of the old and familiar "Westminster Chimes" and to fit these notes someone years ago wrote these words — a prayer that we all could repeat each hour with much benefit:

"Lord, through this hour
Be thou our guide
So, by thy power,
No foot shall slide."

We think that, as time goes by, we shall all be more and more grateful to the First National Bank for this wonderful gift to our community.

"I know an old farmer who is going to be in pretty bad shape if he doesn't get to work in the fields," said Roscoe Partridge last Sunday. "I've actually worked two days in the past two weeks."

MOVE TO AMARILLO

Mr. and Mrs. Lamine Blacklock and children, formerly of Sulphur Springs, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Blacklock and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hendrix, over the week end. They left Monday for Amarillo to make their home. Marty remained for a longer visit with his grandparents.

National Farm Safety Week Is Set July 19-25

National Farm Safety week has been designated for July 19-25, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, with the emphasis this year on "Safety Makes Sense." Farm families who continually include safety in their plans and work are aware that "safety that saves makes sense." Safe farming and living saves time, money, sound bodies, carefree hours and even lives, the Council says.

Farm work accidents claim about 3,500 lives each year, more than any other major industry. About 12,000 farm residents lose their lives each year in all types of accidents, and another million or more suffer accidental injuries. The accompanying disabilities, miseries and financial troubles emphasize that "Safety Makes Sense," say the Council.

Human failure, not motor vehicles, farm implements and animals, is the basic cause of accidents. In nearly every case, human failure to recognize and correct a hazard is the real cause of accidental death and injury. Human failures include: hurry, lack of common sense, improper equipment, improper care and use of equipment, procrastination, false confidence, and lack of knowledge, states the Council.

The objective of National Farm Safety Week is to establish safety in farm living. Farm safety activities aim at developing the attitudes, customs and environment for safe living for every member of the family every day in the year. In the vital contest of education vs. accidents, the score should be Safety Education 100 percent, Accidents zero, the Council states.

"Obviously most, if not all, farm accidents can be prevented. It is a fact that in states where good safety committees with well planned, active programs are in existence, accident rates have been reduced. National Farm Safety Week has been an important factor in bringing about this reduction, and each year the effectiveness of this week-long campaign becomes more and more apparent, the Council adds.

Munday Man Gets Safe Driving Award

Award recognizing one Union Oil Company employee of Munday, who drove on the streets and highways of this community throughout 1958 without a chargeable vehicle accident were made recently by James S. McNulty, Division Superintendent, Midland, Texas.

Water Caddell, Munday, Texas, was awarded a 1 year certificate. "In these days of high-speed travel and congested streets and highways, it is a real achievement to drive for one year without an accident," according to Mr. McNulty. "Many of the Company's drivers have completed several years of safe driving, thus making a valuable contribution to the safety of this community. Union's award is based on driving defensively. Defensive driving is to drive in such a manner as to anticipate and allow for hazards created by the unsafe acts of other motorists and pedestrians and adverse road and weather conditions."

DEON MARTINS ARE PARENTS OF A SON

Mr. and Mrs. Deon Martha of Abilene are announcing the arrival of a son at 10:45 p.m. in the Hendrick's Memorial Hospital in Abilene on June 30, 1959. He weighed 9 pounds and 2 1/2 ounces and has been named Deric Kriston — he'll be called Ric. His grand parents are Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Martin of Sweetwater and Mrs. Freddie Morrow of Munday.

Attending School For Cheerleaders

Misses Margaret Clowdis, Jimmie Del Peysen, Donna Parttridge, Sharon Cypert and Sandra Harper, as cheerleaders, and Nancy Cowan and Mary Ann Reneau, as alternates, are attending cheerleader's school at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls. The school started Sunday and lasts until Friday. Sending these girls to school was made possible by merchants who purchased ads on the football programs.

The Northwest Texas Council, Boy Scouts of America, are giving every eligible Scout and Explorer an opportunity to enroll for participation in the Fifth National Jamboree which will see 50,000 boys and leaders camping together at Colorado Springs, Colorado, from July 22 to July 28, 1960.

"Each unit in the Council," said Dr. Joe Steed, of Wichita Falls, chairman of the council's jamboree committee, "is being sent information about the jamboree and application forms. We are hopeful that every unit will be represented by at least one member. The national jamboree is an important part of our 50th anniversary celebration."

Each participant, Dr. Steed said, will need to satisfy the local jamboree committee that he has had adequate camping experience to assume his ability to care for himself in the open and that he has a cooperative attitude towards his fellow Scouts and leaders.

Each participant will pay his own way, but many deserving Scouts will be aided by their troop, by the troop's parent institution, and by service clubs, fraternal, business, civic, and labor organizations. Some will earn funds by spare time jobs.

Burlington's Old "Iron Horse" To Take Excursionists On Run August 15

FW&D Engine 409, an old time steam iron horse, will take fans and excursionists on an all-day trip to Childress Saturday, August 15.

Its puffs of steam and smoke, its clackety click of the rails, its shrill steam whistle and exhaust, will leave Fort Worth at 9:15 a.m.

Although modern diesels have replaced every steam engine in regular assigned runs on the FW&D, Engine 409 will always remain a favorite among engineers.

Steam engine fans, camera groups, historians, model railroads, youth groups and families will enjoy this all-day excursion across territory once inhabited only by Indians, cowboys and buffaloes.

At Childress, all those aboard will enjoy a parade, a buffalo barbecue, the high school all-star football Greenbelt Classic, and a colorful Indian war dance during game half-time.

Although the train will portray an era several decades ago, modern air conditioned coaches will be provided for the passengers.

Stops will be made for passengers at Decatur, Bowie, Henrietta, Wichita Falls, Electra, Vernon, Chillicothe and Quanah.

A movie run of the train will be made.

General Passenger Agent R. H. Kimble, Burlington Lines, Fort Worth, is arranging all of the details.

Voting Nears On 1960 Wheat Quotas For Knox County

Wheat growers of Knox County will soon be making their annual decision on marketing quotas. Chairman Raylon S. Scott of the Knox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today, on July 23, they will join with wheat farmers in 38 other States in a referendum to decide the type of marketing control program they will have for the 1960 crop of wheat. The referendum is held at this time so that farmers will know at winter wheat planting time whether marketing restrictions will be in effect at harvest time in 1960. The wheat program on which farmers will vote, Mr. Scott said, is the same as that which has been in effect for the last several years. Marketing quotas have been proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture as required by the law when supplies are excessive. They will remain in effect only if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in the referendum.

Mr. Cammack had been a resident of Motley County for 68 years.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Grace McDowell and Mrs. Jack Barton, both of Plainview; a son, Bryan Cammack of Matador, formerly of Munday, and several grandchildren.

Munday Girl Wins Scholarship In Essay Contest Sponsored By W.T.C.C.

ABILENE — A $250 college scholarship will be awarded Mrs. Brenda Elliott of Munday for winning the fifth annual essay contest of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee, E. L. Buelow of Abilene has announced. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrett of Munday. Buelow, chairman of the committee, said Brenda Elliott edged by entries from Jerry Carlton of Hamlin, which was judged in second place, and from Paul Branson of Bowie, which was judged in third place.

Runners-up were Charles Aycock of Tullia, Geraldine Henderson of Lamesa and Pat Donahue of De Leon.

Subject of the annual essay for high school seniors, which was begun by the WTCC in 1955, is "What My Town Can Do To Have More Industry."

Past winners and the college is which they enrolled are Danny Solomon of Tullia (McMurry, Abilene), David King of Post (West Texas State, Canyon), Linda Thomas of Wichita Falls (Baylor, Waco) and Dan Hartmann of Fredericksburg (Tarleton State, Stephenville.)

New Auto Paint And Body Shop Is Opened In Munday

Charles Hogsett, owner of the Hogsett Chevrolet Co., this week announces the opening of a new auto paint and body shop in Munday, which is located in the C. L. Mayes building just east of the Chevrolet agency.

The shop will be under the management of W. W. (Buck) Walsh, who has had several years of experience in this type of work. Mr. Walsh has lived in Munday a number of years and is well known to many motorists of this area.

All types of auto body work and painting will be done at the shop, and windshield and door glass will be installed. Free estimates will be gladly given on any type of job.

Both Mr. Hogsett and Mr. Walsh invite the public to visit their shop for their auto body or painting needs.

Chime Clock Is Installed By Bank In Munday

A beautiful four-faced chime clock is being installed by the First National Bank of Munday as a "gift to the community." Workmen had almost completed the installation Wednesday, and soon the chimes of this clock will be heard in Munday, and people may see the time of day from a far distance.

Installed on the northeast corner of the bank, the faces of this clock may be seen from all directions.

The clock chimes the quarter hours in a soft pleasing tone, and strikes the hours as well. On the full hour, the chimes sound sixteen notes of the old and familiar "Westminster Chimes."

"The clock was installed," stated W. E. Braly, president of the bank, "to show our appreciation of all the people of this area for all that you have done to make this bank stronger and of greater service to the community, and our sincere wish is that the passing of every minute as marked by this new clock may mean health and happiness, peace and prosperity to all of you in the years that lie ahead."

CHILDREN VISIT WITH MRS. KING IN GOREE

Mrs. John B. King of Goree has had all of her children visit her during last month. They were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnston of Longview; Mr. and Mrs. Blyce King and children of Perry, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey King and children of Longview; Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Burke of Fredericksburg, Okla.; Mrs. Nola King of the home; Mr. and Mrs. Loyd King and sons of Goree. They had a joyous occasion and a big dinner on the fourth in the home of Mrs. King.

L. B. Patterson met his daughter, Mrs. John H. Weisel, and sons, Mike and Dickey Pat, of Allentown, Pa., in Dallas last Monday for them to spend the summer months with he and Mrs. Patterson and other relatives.

EXPORTING MASS MERCHANDISING

A new-world institution has risen in the old-world setting of a Barcelona, Spain, public park. The institution is a supermarket, of the kind we're all accustomed to in this country. But it's a revolutionary innovation to the Spanish people.

The average Spaniard spends 60% of his income for food — then, on top of that, must devote three or four hours a day visiting the many different shops necessary in order to purchase all the family food needs. The supermarket, which is part of an International Trade Fair, is designed to show how the American system of merchandising, with all its convenience, variety, and low cost, can be adopted abroad. When the Fair ends, the equipment will be offered for sale, and merchandise contributed by American food processors will be donated to charities.

The Barcelona market marks the third co-operative endeavor of the U. S. food industry and the International Trade Fairs Program. The first two "Supermarket USA" exhibits took place in Rome, Italy, and in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, and were spectacular popular successes. Native peoples thronged in to marvel. And this style of food merchandising is having a notable constructive influence abroad.

What is true of food, of course, is true of all kinds of retailing. Mass merchandising has transformed American buying. Now it is being exported.

PEOPLE READ, REMEMBER, AND BUY

A recent nationwide survey shows that more than three-quarters of the nation's retailers expect their summer business to exceed last year's. Editor and Publisher reports: Only 20% anticipate no change, and a mere 2% look for a decline.

It will take a lot of good advertising to bring the expected results about. And it's significant that newspapers will continue to be the retailers' foremost advertising medium. The survey finds that 72% of the stores surveyed plan to invest 80% or more of their summer advertising spending in the papers. And 5% will allocate at least nine-tenths of their ad budgets to the papers.

All advertising media are in tough competition these days, with newspapers, magazines, TV, radio, and direct scrapping for a larger share of the ad dollar. But newspapers, despite the new media, hold their own — simply because news paper ads get results. People read, remember, and buy.

ONE THING WE CANNOT AFFORD

"If there is one thing we cannot afford any longer it is the idea that any government spending program automatically should have priority over a citizen's use of his own money," says an economic letter issued by the First National City Bank of New York. "When government feels the necessity, for example, to spend more on defense or on aid for allies, the first place to turn is not to the citizens' standard of living through tax increases but to wasteful practices and programs within Government. In other words, our ability to afford a stronger defense establishment is partly measured by wastes of public funds on a variety of programs. It is not fair to expect the citizens to tighten his belt if Government does not tighten its own."

To put this idea in another way, we need to re-learn something we seem to have forgotten—that is, the difference between what is truly necessary on the part of government and what may be merely desirable. We live in an area in which such absolute necessities as the national defense are almost unbelievably costly and, the state of the world being what it is, may become more costly still. Under these conditions, it is obvious that governmental frills, luxuries and non-essentials must be pared to the limit if the two weights of taxation and inflation are not to steadily push down our living standards.

GLEN RIDDLE, PA., THE ROCKDALE HERALD: "The politicians — the spending politicians — seem to be getting a little worried. They are not quite worried enough, of course, to quit spending. But they are a bit worried by the growing signs of revolt among the people against endless taxing, spending and inflation. Evidently a good many people are finally coming to realize that the government policies of the past two or three decades are not merely eating away at our substances and our vaunted standard of living. They are also plunging us headlong toward the leveling and mediocrity of a socialist system . . ."

WASHINGTON, IOWA, EVENING JOURNAL: "With racketeering and extortion charges hanging over the Teamsters Union, Jimmie Hoffa says present labor laws are sufficient. Sufficient, that is, to permit Hoffa and his crew to carry on their activities as usual."

By John C. White, Commissioner

Commercial weed-turning equipment now available may prove to be a great boom to Texas cotton farmers.

Extensive field tests under guidance of U. S. Department of Agricultural Research engineers indicate that careful adjustment and operation of liquefied petroleum gas burners used in flame cultivation of cotton can result in more efficient weed control. The tests showed that most of the several such burners currently available provide satisfactory results.

Flame cultivation, often used as a supplement to mechanical and chemical cultivation, consists of applying controlled fire along the sides of rows in a way that does not injure the crop but kills weeds before they become firmly established. Tractor-drawn flame equipment normally treats each side of several rows at one time.

Safe and effective use of the flame treatment depends largely on accompanying use of other equipment to carefully prevent formation of ridges, clods and depressions between cotton rows. Such irregularities — as well as high wind — can deflect the cultivating flame and possibly cause serious damage to cotton plants, particularly those shorter than 10 inches. For this reason, flaming would probably not be practical in the North Central - West Texas "wind belt" where the cultivating season is almost always accompanied by variable wind gusts.

In calmer parts of the state, however, flaming is especially effective as a supplement to other methods of cultivation when herbicides are applied first to control young weeds temporarily until the cotton grows to a height of at least 6 inches—the minimum height for safe flame cultivation.

For those interested in using flame control for their cotton field weed problems, the following five cautions are recommended:

- (1) Flaming only after cotton plants are at least 6 inches high.
- (2) Thin uniform, square-ended, 5-inch long flames that cover a 10-inch band of the row and strike the ground 2 inches from the base of the cotton plants.
- (3) Positioning of burners at an angle of 30 degrees with the ground.
- (4) Burners wide enough to provide sufficient heat to kill weeds while the unit is operated at three miles per hour.

(5) Alternate opening for each flame to prevent extinguishing if the burner mouth is buried or clogged.

Best Room!
 JUST ONE OF 7 Big Bests Chevrolet OFFERS you over any other car in its field!

Take a tip from the experts . . . in their own words . . . and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR†-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Best Engine Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: ". . . surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In Check in any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

Proper Use Of Grassland Will Pay Dividends

Proper use on grassland is achieved by keeping livestock in balance with the forage produced. Approximate half of the annual forage production of the grass should be used for the production of livestock. The other half belongs to the plant and land for plant development, plant reproduction, and erosion control.

Proper use is important to the rancher or stock farmer because maximum livestock production cannot be expected without it. The food that grass uses to maintain itself is manufactured in its green leaves. If all leaves are constantly removed the plant literally starves to death. A part of the plant food in addition to feeding man and beast is necessary to the plant to produce more leafage and vigorous roots which will enable the plant to maintain itself while feeding others. A weak plant that has lost its vigor be repeated overuse will produce less and less in the years that follow. Also a weak plant its less able to withstand drought and cannot compete with invading species of lower forage value. The desirable forage plants will maintain themselves on a pasture being properly grazed, the vegetation will improve where there has been deterioration, and there will be a turf that will protect the soil.

The degree of forage utilization is tied in very closely to animal performance. Maximum weight gains per animal are dependent largely on forage availability to the extent that cattle can obtain food easily. When livestock are forced to roam about in search of food the gains will be considerable less and generally a lower market grade.

There are problems that confront the rancher in obtaining proper use from year to year. Fluctuating weather conditions and frequent droughts are two of the most common problems. The livestock operation to help cope with the two above problems should be based upon a flexible herd. Stocking with a permanent herd should be based upon the dry years since they are more nearly normal. Extra

Why Avoid Poison Ivy?

NOW YOU CAN EASILY become immune to poison ivy and poison oak. If you're going on vacation, this is good news.

If there's anything less popular than ants at a picnic, it's poison ivy on a holiday. And like ants, poison ivy has a way of turning up at every picturesque turn of the road where the family votes to spread an informal lunch.

The itching, burning skin poisoning that affects eight out of ten people in the United States on exposure to poison ivy or poison oak, has ruined more vacations than rain.

Fortunately, this summer's holiday families can stop trying to avoid poison ivy. Aqua Ivy Tablets, taken orally in advance of the poison ivy season, offer season-long immunity.

Available in any drugstore, these easy-to-take tablets are especially suitable for children. They eliminate the need for painful injections. The safety and efficiency of these new tablets were demonstrated in extensive clinical studies. Further support was provided by successful experimental use in a boys' summer camp. Send for free booklet, "Facts You Should Know About Poison Ivy," to: Syntex Chemical Co., Inc., 10 East 40 Street, New York 16, N.Y.

forage grown during the exceptionally good years could be utilized by stocker calves. Where the stand of range grasses is thin and plants are low in vigor it might be more profitable to use stocker animals in the winter only, especially where wheat grazing is available.

Grass is the rancher's crop. Without proper use of grass we can expect crop failures. Submitted by Cecil Seitz, Range Conservationist with Wichita Zrazos Soil Conservation District stationed at Knox, Okla., Texas.

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Bard

Last week the House acted favorably upon a measure that would protect the time-honored rights of the States to exercise jurisdiction along with the Federal Government and to enact laws of their own so long as these statutes do not conflict with Federal law. We had always believed that this was an original and historic right of the States. From the very beginning of our history as a Nation, it has not been questioned until recent years when the courts began to hold with increasing consistency that where Congress had enacted legislation on a subject, the States are thereby deprived of the power to enact laws or enforce their statutes that might be in existence on the same subject even though diverse language it simply means the Federal law. This has come to be known as the doctrine of pre-emption. Translated into ordinary language, it simply means that whenever the Congress has acted in a particular field, that any action that the States take in the same area is of no effect. H. R. 3 reverses this trend of the courts and in effect states that in the absence of a clear Congressional declaration depriving the States of the initiative in a given field of law and in the absence of any conflict between State and Federal statutes, the States will be presumed to have retained their historic right to enact and enforce similar laws. Many have asked why this is important. It is important simply because our system of government is dependent upon healthy, vigorous governmental units close to home. It has been argued by some that the Federal Government cannot release responsibility to the States until the States express a willingness to accept it. If this be true, it is no less true that the States cannot develop their own initiative and make any real contribution to the many problems that face us if they are literally stifled by the growing encroachment by the Federal Government on their authority.

Mrs. Jack C. Staley and Son, Jim, were Washington visitors this week.

Mrs. Walter Lawson of Wichita Falls is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Dee Mullican and other relatives.

Mrs. H. A. Pendleton and Mrs. W. R. Moore were visitors in Wichita Falls last Monday.

Gems Of Thought

"MUSIC"

Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing.

—John Erskine

Life is like music, it must be composed by ear, feeling and instinct, not by rule.

—Samuel Butler

Whoever is honestly laboring to learn the principle of music and practice it, seldom calls on his teacher or musician to practice for him.

—Mary Baker Eddy

Music must rank as the highest of the fine arts.

—Herbert Spencer

Music is the mediator between the spiritual and the sensual life.

—Beethoven

Music is the fourth great material want of our nature,—first food, then raiment, then shelter, then music.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Kelle, M. D., State Health Officer

Nothing can live without food, suitable temperature and an appropriate amount of moisture. This applies to man, animals, fish — and plants.

It also applies to bacteria! The range of needs for bacteria is slim, but when they are present bacteria can be very prolific, multiplying themselves by the millions in mere minutes.

That is why food poisoning is so much more common in warm weather — and why you need to be especially careful now about preparing food and storing it.

The main rule to remember is that bacteria which are apt to cause food poisoning thrive best in lukewarm foods.

Thus if you make it a hard-fast habit to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold, the chances of bacteria getting a foothold are slim.

However, there are certain foods that have proven to be more susceptible to bacteria' growth and the resulting food poisoning conditions.

For instance, egg and milk mixtures, including custards and meats, either in salads or sandwiches, and potato salad — one of the popular picnic foods — are often quickly suspected when food infections occur in summer.

Making sandwiches and wrapping them in wax paper to let stand for hours before eating is just asking for trouble. So keep them well refrigerated.

Potato salad can give lots of trouble. The best way to avoid it is to chill all the ingredients before mixing, and then store the salad in SHALLOW containers in the refrigerator. Deep bowls retain the room temperature in the center portions.

Everyone loves a picnic. Enjoy them, but a portable ice box and a thermos bottle are musts if you are going to minimize the chance of summer food poisonings.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

A GIFT TO THE PEOPLE OF THIS COMMUNITY

Most of you who may use the services of this beautiful Chime Clock, have played a very important part in the successful growth of our Bank.

To show our appreciation of all that you have done to make this Bank stronger and of greater service, we are installing outside our building, one of the finest Chime Clocks we could purchase, which will be in operation in a few days.

This New Clock not only provides the correct time for everyone within its sight, but it also chimes the quarter hours in a soft pleasing tone and strikes the hours as well.

On the full hour, the chimes sound sixteen notes of the old and familiar "Westminster" Chimes, and to fit these sixteen notes, someone many years ago wrote these words—a prayer that we all could repeat each hour with much benefit:—

"LORD, THROUGH THIS HOUR,
BE THOU OUR GUIDE
SO, BY THY POWER,
NO FOOT SHALL SLIDE."

We present this new Chime Clock to each man, woman, and child, not only in the Munday area, but to those who come in to shop, visit our city for business or social reasons, or just pass through enroute to some other destination.

To each and all, our sincere wish is that the passing of every minute as marked by this new Chime Clock may mean Health and Happiness, Peace and Prosperity in the days and years that lie ahead.

Memories of my first, and only visit to New York City, in 1958:

Broadway — the most famous street in the Western Hemisphere; the intersection of Broadway and Fort Second Street is called "the crossroads of the world"; theme of many songs, such as "Give My Regards to Broadway," "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway" and "Over There" ("Good-bye, Broadway; Hello France"); synonym of fame, success, riches — and of failure too — (as the old-time melodrama phrased it, "Theres a broken heart for every light on Broadway.")

While "Broadway" stands for the "theater" — and "theater" means the stage and live people, not shadows — oddly enough, the theaters are not on Broadway but are on the cross streets. Another fact which surprises a visitor is the comparative smallness of the theaters.

In the Broadhurst, where "Auntie Mame" was the attraction, the last row is "T" and, as theaters customarily emit one letter — ("Q", I believe, to avoid confusion with "O") — that would mean 19 rows.

The Anta, where the play was "Say, Darling," is about the same size and so is the Morosco, presenting "Time Remembered" Here, I bought the last ticket — which was at the end, next to the wall of "T". For the other shows, I sat in the eighth row, center. Incidentally, persons on the front row at the Morosco could lean over and touch the stage. (I obtained my tickets at the theater box offices and not from the "scalpers" of whom I had heard so much.)

A Texan played the part of "Auntie Mame" and was superb — Mrs. Buddy Fogelson of Dallas. She is also known as Greer Garson. "Say, Darling" is a comedy about a musical and the leading lady is Vivian Blaine, known to State Fair theatergoers. The highlight is the singing of "There's Always Something Happening on the River." The most brilliant cast of the plays I saw was that of "Time Remembered," starring Helen Hayes, "first lady of the theater"; Richard Burton, hero of the first cinematic, "The Robe" and Susan Strasberg.

I must confess, however, that the gayest evening at the theater was provided by "Li'l Abner" which presented the well-known Dogpatch characters of the Al Capp's comic strip. The dances were lively and colorful; the comedy was highly amusing and the songs were tuneful, especially a satiric one, sung by Colonel Bullmoose, "The Government Is in the Very Best of Hands," and an absurd ditty about the town's military hero, General Cornpone. Stubby Kaye, ("Marrying Sam") stopped the show several times with his singing.

For spectacle, Radio City Music Hall was "tops": It seats I don't know how many thousand — there are three balconies — and all the seats were occupied; the stage is immense; there was first an organist then a symphony orchestra; Peg-leg Bates danced unbelievably; the Rockettes performed as smoothly as the New York Yankees; the Tuskegee Institute Choir sang "Battle Hymn of the Republic" most stirringly and the finale was "Old Man River" when the stage darkened and a steamer outlined in lights and its stacks belching smoke, moved toward you. To one who grew up in Memphis on the bank of the Mississippi and can remember the steamboats, it was a thrilling sight.

REASONABLE TIME

Before a contract arises some one must make an offer and another must accept it.

Without an offer, no acceptance; with no acceptance, no agreement.

But there is often a time within which you can accept the offer. And if not, the offer ends anyhow within a "reasonable time" which is determined by circumstances and the parties' intentions.

Smith had a set of books which Brown wanted. Brown wrote and offered him $300 for the set.

Smith didn't answer for six months, and meantime Brown bought a similar set. One day Brown got a letter from Smith saying "I accept your offer of $200 for the set of books."

Brown told Smith he'd bought the books elsewhere, but Smith still claimed that his belated "acceptance" had nevertheless sealed the contract with Brown.

Was there a contract? No, the offer had lapsed because it had not been accepted in the circumstances within a reasonable time.

There are many ways to end an offer. You may withdraw it, you may say that the offer expires at a given time, or you may die, or the other party may turn it down directly or by making a counter offer.

Here Smith had failed to accept Brown's offer within a reasonable time, which ended it just as though it had been withdrawn. What is a reasonable time? It varies. The offer could expire in a few minutes in the stock market or last for quite a while, depending upon what a court would think is a reasonable time. But in Smith's case six months was reasonable.

Large Crop Of Whitewing Doves Seen For This Fall

AUSTIN — The 1959 whitewinged dove breeding population has been estimated to be 38 per cent greater than in 1958, according to the Director of Wildlife Restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission. A census conducted June 11-20, in the Rio Grande Valley, indicates the breeding population for the State this year is about 338,000 birds.

Based on findings of previous years, existing breeders usually reproduce a number equal to the number of breeding birds. This means that a round 676,000 whitewings are possible for the fall hunting season.

A maximum kill of around 180,000 birds may be expected if a hunting season is ordered. This would include the usual 20 per cent loss of cripples and would leave a carry over of approximately 496,000 birds for potential breeding population for 1960.

Based on the recent census and other findings, it has been recommended to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington that there be a mid-September three half-day open season on whitewings of alternate days. It has also been suggested that the bag limit be 10 white-winged or mourning doves, or 10 white-winged and mourning doves in the aggregate, with shooting hours from 2 p.m. to sunset.

A final ruling on the date and limit of the white-winged dove hunt will be decided at the next Commission meeting scheduled for July 24.

4-H's Aim For Top Quality Crops

Scientific agriculture is widely practiced today to produce both quality and quantity crops. Under the direction of the State Extension Service, 4-H Club members are learning modern farming techniques employed in soil and water conservation, and in growing and marketing crops.

By participating in these projects, rural youth put into practice the latest methods recommended by the USDA and leading industrial agricultural researchers. Throughout the state hundreds of farms have been improved and incomes increased as a result of 4-Hers carrying out the objectives of these programs.

Incentive awards are offered by leading business firms in recognition of outstanding achievement. After demonstrating ability in their farm projects, 4-H boys and girls look forward to winning the top state award, an all-expense paid trip to the 38th National 4-H Club Congress at the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago.

Members receiving the state award then become eligible for a national 4-H college scholarship worth $400. Recipients will be announced during the Congress, Nov. 29 to Dec. 3.

Awards in the field crops program are provided by Aradigm Products Department of Allied Chemical Corporation. The soil and water conservation awards

Safety Leaders And Cities Shine
By Martha Johnson
Dodge Safety Consultant

Congratulations are in order to drivers in Detroit and Chicago.

The two cities share the title of "safest big city in which to drive so far this year," according to the National Safety Council.

And it's you, the motorist, who helped achieve this record.

Congratulations also:

- To the Catholic High School in Bennington, Vt., and Father Gerard Brennan, who sponsored a safe-driving demonstration for students. The program, designed to disprove the old notion that a car can be "stopped on a dime," was preceded by a student assembly during which students were briefed on the demonstration and heard an illustrated talk on the importance of driver attitudes.
- To J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who classified traffic violators as the nation's "Public Enemy Number One," saying "The automobile assassin is a vicious criminal."
- To Charles Goodwin, traffic and transportation authority, writing in "Highway Highlights." He says: "The most skillful driver is not necessarily the best or safest driver. In fact, a skillful driver sometimes tends to rely on his skill instead of employing courtesy, patience, respect for law, common sense and other qualities which are even more important than skill in avoiding accidents."
- To members of the Illinois Editor and Publisher Highway Traffic Safety Seminar for helping "Save More Lives in Illinois" by opposing changes in the state's motor scooter law which would "allow more young people to risk their lives and those of others on the vehicles of death."

The Cadillac motor car has long been famous for its extraordinary capacity for trouble-free operation. The credit should go to its fine engineering . . . high quality of materials . . . and skillful, painstaking craftsmanship. Naturally, these factors also result in great economy of operation and give the Cadillac a unique ability to maintain its value over an unusually long period of time. If these are things you've been seeking in a motor car, visit your Cadillac dealer soon!

Auto Industry Is Supported By Financing

Automobile manufacturing, sales and maintenance make up the nation's largest industry. Yet were it not for another related business, sales financing, the automobile might still be a luxury for the few, instead of a virtual necessity for the many.

Automobiles provide a livelihood for one person out of seven, 56 million cars travel our vast network of roads, and our living habits have undergone immense changes as our civilization has become motorized.

To understand how installment sales financing has helped bring about these things, it's necessary to look back at the days when cars first started to be more than curiosities.

Early automobiles were sold strictly for cash, and by 1911 nearly 500,000 persons had purchased them. Then, finding the cash market nearly saturated, dealers began to sell cars on time, financing buyers themselves. This worked well until the dealers' capital started to run low.

That's when the first independent sales finance companies were formed specifically to make a business of buying the dealers' time sales contracts. The cash buyer no longer was the only man who could afford a car.

As more and more persons took advantage of the new time payment method of buying out of current income, manufacturers made more and more cars to meet the demand, and the efficiencies of mass production and mass markets developed.

Today, about 65 per cent of all automobile purchases are made on the installment plan, according to the American Finance Conference, national association of independent sales finance companies.

NEW SMALL CAR?—No, this is not one of the much discussed new lighter cars being measured by a 20-foot giant. It is, however, one of the sleek entries in the 1959 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition being "sized-up" by one of the judges in Detroit. Judging of hundreds of such miniature "dream cars" is now underway to determine teen-age winners of $115,000 in cash awards and university scholarships.

The automotive industry has become one of the greatest factors in the country's economic welfare. And an underlying strength of this mighty industry is the mass purchasing power of the credit system pioneered by independent sales finance companies.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds That Agriculture Dept. Confirms His Idea On Labor - Saving Devices

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses work this week which is about like a bankrupt talking about finance.

Dear Editor: I have long contended that the trouble with labor-saving devices is they don't save labor; they increase it, and I am now happy to have this opinion confirmed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

According to an article I ran across in a newspaper yesterday afternoon I was reading to get my mind off the noise of droning tractors running on my neighbors' farms — personally I don't really mind listening to the tractors, it's the effect they have on my wife that bothers me, she hears the neighbors' tractors running and sees mine standing at the turnrow where I left it week before last and the consequent noise she makes is a nuisance — at any rate, according to this article, in spite of all the labor-saving devices which have been invented and sold to farmers, the average length of the farm work day has not shortened much. It's still better than ten and a half hours a day, the Department of Agriculture reported.

This bears out what I've been saying all along. When a man switches from a two-row tractor to a four-row tractor, you'd think he'd do the same amount of plowing in half the time, but what he does is do twice as much plowing in the same old time, ten or eleven hours a day. He finishes the day just as tired as he did when he had two-row equipment, and if you call this saving labor, you've got a different definition of the word than I have. The reason he does this, he has to plow twice as much to pay for the new equipment. Then on top of this, since he's working twice as much land as before, he produces twice as much, which brings on twice as much surplus, which lowers the price, which causes him to come out about where he was when he had two-row equipment. And the only answer most of us can find to this is to aim at six-row equipment and work three times as much land.

It's the same thing in other lines. An electric typewriter may enable a secretary to type twice as fast, so what happens. She gets twice as many letters to handle. A bookkeeper with an automatic posting machine just takes on four times as many accounts as he had when he was doing it with pen and ink.

Most labor-saving devices, as far as I can tell, are actually labor-creating devices. I guess there's some satisfaction in finishing a week of eleven-hour days and looking back and saying, well, I've plowed as much this week as I used to plow in a month, but you've got to look mighty hard to find it.

Personally, I've never had to look to a machine to save labor for me. Those things will trap you. The way to save labor is to sit down and cool off. You wait for a machine to do it for you and you'll never get it done. Yours faithfully, J. A.

Research Widens Market For Cottonseed

Cottonseed now has a market as a high protein feed for poultry and swine, says the USDA. Improved processing techniques have made this new use possible by lowering of the free gossypol content in the meal.

Prior to 1947, says the USDA, use of cottonseed meal for livestock rations was limited largely to cattle because of the gossypol, a pigment that is toxic to poultry and swine.

Although variable from year to year, the new market for cottonseed meal has been estimated by the USDA to have reached 300,000 tons annually in recent years. California, at the present time, is the largest market for the improved cottonseed meal, where in 1958 an estimated 200,000 tons went into poultry rations.

In the past, even when fed to laying hens at low, non-toxic levels gossypol in unimproved cottonseed meal caused egg yolk discoloration. The improved cottonseed meals, however, can be fed at levels up to 10 percent of the total diet of hens with no adverse effect on yolks of eggs produced for the fresh egg market.

USDA's Agricultural Research Service began early in the 1940's to improve cottonseed meal. Studies of the chemical and physical properties of cottonseed and of the pigment glands containing gossypol gave scientists of the ARS Southern Utilization Research and Development Division, New Orleans, an understanding of the role played by gossypol and laid the ground work for producing cottonseed meal with a low gossypol content.

Further work indicated that the glands containing gossypol could be ruptured during processing by several means, and a large part of the freed toxic material could then be inactivated at a much lower temperature than was previously thought possible. Also, low processing temperatures favor high protein quality in the meal. However achievements to date do not complete the research required to realize the full feeding potential of cottonseed meal, the USDA added.

NORTHWEST TEXAS WSG SETS WEEK END MEET

Joyce Hill and Mrs. C. C. Coffee will be principal resource leaders for the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference Wesleyan Service Guild week end meeting on July 25 and 26 at Ceta Canyon.

Miss Hill is a missionary to Cuba, and Mrs. Coffee of Lubbock is a member of the division of national missions of the Board of Missions who has just returned from Africa.

"The Challenge Of Our Tasks To Face" will be the theme for the meeting. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday. During the first part of the afternoon workshops for district secretaries, missionary education chairmen, Christian social relations and spiritual life chairmen will be conducted.

Queen Elizabeth II was the first British monarch who was outside of Great Britain at the time of succession to the throne. The World Book Encyclopedia reports that Elizabeth was in Kenya on a round-the-world tour when George VI died.

Mrs. Bessie Marrisette of Binger, Okla., and Sgt. and Mrs. Jessie Marrisette and baby, who have just returned from Italy, came in Tuesday for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Little.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hudson and little Miss Nonna Lee Johnson of Fort Worth visited over the week end with Mrs. Hudson's son and their families and with Mr. Hudson's sister, Mrs. Matt Verhalen, and family in Knox City.

Mrs. B. B. Gibbons and Mrs. Eva Nell Clark and children of Santa Monica, Calif., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kegley and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Brazell over the holiday.

Man of Vision

One hundred and fifty years ago, Cyrus Hall McCormick, inventor of the world's first successful reaper, was born on the family farm in Rockbridge County, Va. In observing the sesquicentennial of his birth, International Harvester Company depicts the evolution of farm machinery from its infancy up to today's high standards of mechanization. The above drawing shows McCormick, age 22, at the first public test of his reaper in July, 1831. Below is the company's newest combine—the McCormick No. 151 self-propelled Hillside harvest-thresher. As a comparison, the first reaper could harvest 10 acres a day. Today's modern combine will handle up to nine times as much.

Veterans Of Korean War Urged To Apply For G. I. Schooling

"Apply now. Don't get caught in the rush."

This is the advice that the Veterans administration gave today to all Korea veterans planning to start school in the fall under the Korean GI Bill.

By applying now, a veteran can beat the rush and can eliminate any chance of a delay at the last minute, VA said. To help veterans get started, VA issued this check list.

1. Since the law allows a veteran to change his GI course only once, he should give plenty of thought, in advance, to his goal.
2. If he is undecided about what to train for, he may ask for VA vocational counseling.
3. He should be sure that his course has been GI-approved by the state in which the school is located.
4. He should make all arrangements for gaining admission to his school before he even files his application with VA.
5. The GI training application should be completely filled out and signed. The veteran should send it, along with a photostat or certified copy of his separation paper, to the VA regional office.

6. A veteran with dependents should have the necessary proof of dependency.

7. A veteran should take a long enough money of his own to tide him over the first two months of training. It takes about that long, ordinarily for his first monthly GI check to reach him.

Marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop have been proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson and he set July 23 as the date for a growers referendum on quotas.

DETROIT — If each and every motorist would be more courteous, there would be fewer accidents over the Fourth of July week end than there were during the recent two-day Memorial Day holiday.

Martha Johnson, Dodge safety consultant, offers the following suggestions for your July Fourth motor trip:

1. Have your car safety-checked.
 2. Plan on the unexpected.
 3. Drive at a safe speed.
 4. Don't drive if drowsy.
 5. Steer clear of "tavern fog."
- If you follow these suggestions, you may prevent an accident—your own.
