Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

We reckon more emphasis is placed on safety now than ever before.

k—k

Safe driving is not only a matter of saving life and limb, now, but it can save you money in more ways than one. Insurance agents have been informed — and they're informing their customers — that the person who is involved in an accident costing more than $25 must pay a penalty on his insurance premiums.

k—k

Major R. A. Crowder, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has issued a plea to motorists to drive as carefully during the coming holidays as they did last Christmas in order to lower the anticipated traffic death toll.

k—k

"Texans showed last Christmas that they could drive safely, legally and courteously and still go everywhere they desired," he said. "Last Christmas the traffic toll was one-third less than the estimate. The Department of Public Safety expects 111 traffic deaths during the holiday between December 23 and January 3."

k—k

Christmas holiday traffic has taken toll averaging 97 persons per year for the past five years, the Major reported, with the worst years, 1954 and 1956, accounting to 108 traffic fatalities, while the last dropped to 63 in 1958. And no person will be disappointed if the estimated figure for 1959 is cut down considerably. Drive safely!

k—k

President Eisenhower seems to be doing a pretty good job of selling America to the people of all those nations he is visiting. Reporters have called it a grueling trip, and we reckon the President will be ready for a rest period when he returns home.

k—k

In viewing the news events of his trip, with Ike waving his hat at the cheering crowds, we couldn't help but wonder how that old bald head is making out. Ours would be blustered good and proper if we doffed our hat as often and repeated in the bright sunshine!

k—k

No one could ask for a better Christmas present than the fine precipitation we received the first of this week. Farmers had been wanting a rain on their wheat, of which was growing in the loosened soil made by drilling operations and could be easily pulled from the ground. They wanted moisture to kinda pack the soil and give the wheat a boost — and this should do it for a spell. Maybe not as much moisture as some wanted, but it's a start in the right direction.

k—k

We had burrs strewn on our pea patch, and it was decided the soil was too dry and hard to turn them under right now. So we spent a portion of Sunday afternoon watering the things down. The Mrs. did some of that on two afternoons, too, not knowing that the weatherman was going to help us out so soon.

k—k

It's been rather interesting to see how the little miniature forest of Christmas trees out on the city hall lawn has been diminishing. Guess most everyone has his tree all up and decorated by now, but there are a few more left just east of the city hall.

k—k

Another indication that the holiday is right upon us is the flood of Christmas cards that have been coming in. It seems that most everyone gets cards popular at this season of the year, as people from far-away places begin remembering them.

k—k

Some regard sending Christmas cards as a waste of money, but since it is the custom, we like to get them. We would feel a little depressed if we received no such remembrances at all during the holiday season.

k—k

The Munday Times will be published a day early next week, and your cooperation is asked in getting the news and stuff to us earlier. By getting into the mail on Wednesday, most of our subscribers will get their paper on Christmas eve.

k—k

Motorists are getting so concerned over the number of miles they can get per tank of gas that the auto manufacturers are going to be forced to enlarge the size of the tanks.

Benjamin Band Concert Slated For Next Sunday

The First Christian Church of Benjamin will present the Benjamin School Band in its first concert of the 1959-60 season next Sunday afternoon, December 20 at 2:30 o'clock.

Other numbers comprising the remainder of the concert are "Holy, Holy, Holy" (Dykes); "O Come All Ye Faithful" (Leonard) featuring the saxophones; "O Holy Night" (Adams); "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" (Leonard) featuring Trumpets and Clarinets; "Away in a Manger" (Leonard) featuring the Trumpets — Rick Desgrange, Ronnie Chilcoat, Tom Moohor, Ronne Ressel, and Bill Roberts; and "Joy to the World" (Leonard).

Rhineland Speech Class To Present Play December 22

The speech class at Rhineland will present the three-act comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," at 7 p.m. Tuesday, December 22, at the Rhineland school auditorium.

The play concerns a very cankerous old gentleman, Sheridan Whiteside, who is a famous radio personality and popular lecturer. He agrees to accept a dinner invitation in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, played by Gifford Wilde and Evelyn Bellingshausen, but an accident on the ice on their doorstep causes him to break a hip, and he must stay several weeks. The following diatribe to the Stanley home life and change in the observance of Christmas provide an evening of sparkling comedy.

The cast is led by David Albus, who portrays Whiteside. He is assisted by an exceptionally efficient secretary, Maggie Cutler, played by Glenda Herring. She falls in love with Bert Jefferson, a newspaper man played by Clarence Herring, Jr.

Prof. Adelaide Metz, played by Dianne Bruggeman; a mad scientist, Iorraine Sheldon, played by Marilyn Albus, a famed Hollywood starlet; Banjo, played by Dwight Albus, an incomparable Hollywood nitwit with a prodigious talent for practical jokes, comprise a few of the many guests that plague the Stanley home to see Whiteside.

Dr. Bradley, played by Edwin Wilde, almost achieves national importance because of his well known patient, The Stanley's two children, Richard (Antone Friske) and June (Velma Bellinghausen), plus the servant, Sarah the cook (Rita Davilla) and John, the butler (Marion Kuehler), just endure perhaps the most inconvenience because of Whiteside, the only exception being his nurse, Miss Peene (Sylvia Kuehler).

Mrs. McCutcheon (Carol Bruggeman) and Harriet Stanley (Sandra Kuehler) regard Whiteside's visit with unaccounted enthusiasm. Sandy, June's fiancee (Lyndon Moore) counts the stay with mixed emotion. The retinue attending Mr. Whiteside is complimented with convicts, Spanish students, an octopus and penguins.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend an evening with "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Tickets will be 50 cents and 25 cents and will be available at the performance.

Stores Will Close Two Days Christmas Program Dec. 17

As set up earlier in the year by merchants of Munday, in cooperation with the Munday Chamber of Commerce, the stores of Munday will be closed two days for Christmas. Attention was called to this fact this week, in view of several inquiries being made regarding observance of the holidays.

Stores of Munday will be closed Friday, Christmas day, and Saturday, it was stated. This will give employees a three-day period in which to make trips and other events in observance of Christmas.

The annual Christmas program, sponsored by the Munday P. T. A. will be held Thursday evening, December 17, at 7:30 o'clock in the grade school auditorium with Mrs. Delbert Montgomery, vice president and program chairman of P. T. A. as director with the committees, Jack Guyman, band director, Mrs. Bob Winchester, grade school, and Mrs. James Bardwell, junior high, being in charge.

The Monday Mogul Band will open the program with Christmas selections joining in singing will be a chorus of 88 voices of grade school children.

The junior high chorus of 40 voices will provide musical setting using traditional Christmas carols to introduce each scene portrayed on stage. Tom Bullington, president of Munday P. T. A. will be narrator.

This was the last meeting for 1959. New officers take over on the first meeting night in January.

Firemen received no calls this week, but all citizens are asked to be particular with Christmas tree lights and open candles during the holiday season — to make it a holiday also for the firemen of Munday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dean, Sr. visited their son M. H. Dean, Jr. and family in Keller over the week end.

He was rushed to the hospital for treatment and his condition was considered very serious for several days.

FREEDOM IS A WEAPON

No less an authority than Dr. Raymond B. Allen, Chancellor of the University of California and President of the World Conference on Medical Education, warns of the danger to medical freedom and progress that is inherent in government regulations and controls.

In his words, " . . . to the extent that governments impose regulations on the medical profession that interfere with personal professional service and regulate medical education in the interest of the political institutions of government, to this extent the freedom of the individual doctor and professor is impaired." He then warns that American medical men must be "constantly alert lest the independence of the practicing physician or health officer be restricted in his relationship with his patients."

The biggest loser when medical freedoms are restricted is the patient — and practically all of us are patients many times during our lives. One is based on the principle of free choice. We have the right to choose the physician we want — the one in whom we have faith and confidence. This is of enormous service to the peace of mind that is so important to our general health. But when a nation has socialized medicine, as in Britain, that freedom of choice is lost. A political bureaucracy — decides who shall treat us when we are ill, and under what circumstances.

American medicine's most effective weapon against human suffering is freedom.

CURE FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Not long ago a New York City Judge wrote to the New York Times saying that in the 17 years he had been on the bench not one Chinese teenager had been brought before him on a juvenile delinquency charge.

P. H. Chang, Chinese Consul-General in New York, was asked to comment. He said, "I have heard this story many times from many judges. I will tell you why I think this is so. Finial piety is a cardinal virtue my people have brought over from the China that was free. A Chinese child, no matter where he lives, is brought up to recognize that he cannot shame his parents. Before a Chinese child makes a move, he stops to think what the reaction of his parents will be. Will they be proud, or will they be ashamed? Above all other things, the Chinese teenager is anxious to please his parents."

The amazing record of the Chinese children and young people shows that it is in the home that the cure for juvenile delinquency will be found—and in no other place.

FINANCIAL FEATHERBEDDING

Public Law 86-127, adopted this year, authorizes the TVA to issue and sell bonds in an amount not exceeding $750 million to assist in financing its power program and to refund such bonds. Bonds issued by TVA shall be exempt as to principal and interest from all taxation imposed by any state or local taxing authority except estate, inheritance and gift taxes.

Tax exemption for a $750 million investment is just another kind of featherbedding. All taxpayers have to make up the loss of taxes not paid on such a huge investment. It is ridiculous to refer to TVA as a yardstick for electric rates when it can escape nearly one-quarter of the operating expense (taxation) of self-supporting private enterprise in the electric field.

A REAL MENACE

We hear a lot of hogwash about big business killing little business. As a matter of fact it is "big government" with its confiscatory taxes, that takes the heart out of both big business and little business.

Business have retarded or prevented investments in industry, with resulting lost employment. Government owned business projects put both big business and little business out of business and destroy savings.

Federal socialized industry is today's menace to individual opportunity, employment and representative government.

A midwestern company manufacturing nails pays its workers $2.90 an hour and sells its product at $9.80 per 100 pounds. Similar nails from a German plant, with wage costs of 90 cents an hour, can be purchased in America for about 15 per cent less. America now imports about 50 times more nails than it exports.

Every two minutes fire damages or destroys someone's home in a United States city. There were nearly 300,000 residential fires reported in the U. S. during 1958, in communities of 2,500 population and over.

The survey established that screwworms were able to live through the winter in about 70,000 square miles of Texas, 40,000 square miles in California, 34,000 square miles in Arizona, and 1,000 square miles in New Mexico, in addition to several hundred thousand square miles in adjacent Mexico. By contrast, the average overwintering area in the southeastern United States is less than 50,000 square miles.

The main reason for the decision is the lack of natural barriers against the screwworm fly in the vast infested areas of Southwestern states and their Mexican neighbors just across the Rio Grande and the international boundary. The decision was confirmed in a survey recently completed by USDA personnel working in cooperation with the Republic of Mexico.

SCREWWORM DECISION

Despite an outstanding job in eradicating screwworm infestation in Southeastern states—Florida, Georgia, Alabama and part of South Carolina—the U. S. Department of Agriculture has decided against the same type of all-out campaign in the Southwest and adjacent Mexico at this time.

The main reason for the decision is the lack of natural barriers against the screwworm fly in the vast infested areas of Southwestern states and their Mexican neighbors just across the Rio Grande and the international boundary. The decision was confirmed in a survey recently completed by USDA personnel working in cooperation with the Republic of Mexico.

The eradication method used successfully in the Southeast was based on the release of vast numbers of sexually sterile screwworm flies to mate with native females of the species to produce eggs which do not hatch. The flies were reared in a laboratory and sterilized by exposure to radioactive cobalt.

The survey established that screwworms were able to live through the winter in about 70,000 square miles of Texas, 40,000 square miles in California, 34,000 square miles in Arizona, and 1,000 square miles in New Mexico, in addition to several hundred thousand square miles in adjacent Mexico. By contrast, the average overwintering area in the southeastern United States is less than 50,000 square miles.

Efforts to protect the United States and adjacent areas of Mexico from infestation from farther south would necessitate establishing some type of permanent buffer zone. On the basis of present knowledge, it was indicated that sterile flies would have to be continually reared and released in this zone along with constant inspections and control of livestock movements.

The screwworm fly, a little larger than the house fly, attacks only the flesh of living, warm-blooded animals. The fly lays eggs in masses around the edges of wounds. The maggots or screw-worms, hatching from the eggs, bury themselves headfirst in the wound, gorging out pockets by their feeding. An untreated wound may kill an animal in 10 days.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

The recent outcry over a seasonal food item points up the necessity of keeping a sharp eye on the world's biggest enterprise—the food business.

In Texas, the champion of the consumer is the Food and Drug Division of the Texas State Department of Health. Its Federal counterpart is the Food and Drug Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The division was set up in 1925 by Texas Legislative action permitting the establishment of food standards and the authority to enforce them.

Significant improvements in some food industries show the effectiveness of the various inspection programs.

Since the enactment of the Texans Milk Grading and Labeling Law in 1937, Texas milk quality has improved until today approximately 95 per cent of all consumed milk is Grade A pasteurized. More important there has not been a food poisoning outbreak traceable to milk in the last 25 years.

In 1946-48, over 700 cases were filed on food and drug law violators, but in 1957-59 less than a hundred needed to be brought to court.

In the words of Joe Lakey, division director, "Violations are going down. However, if we didn't keep looking for violations we would have a lot more of them."

Looking for violations are 12 food and drug inspectors. Five devote full time to the milk program; the rest must keep an eye on all food production.

Besides looking for chemical or bacterial contamination of food products, inspectors watch out for economic violations or misbranding—making sure the public gets what it pays for.

Observation by a trained eye plays a key role during inspections. Products which are doubtful are submitted to Health Department laboratories for checking.

If a violation is found, the product is removed from distribution and a correction made in the establishment to prevent future contamination. In nearly all cases, the improvements or removal of products from the market are voluntary.

During the 1956-58 biennium 1,548,000 pounds of unsuitable food items were destroyed and 1,125 drug items destroyed.

Miss Jean Wilde, Mrs. Coy Tugle and Mrs. Wanda Wilde visited in Grapeland last Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Wanda Wilde remained for a longer visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Heriot.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT BREAD?

In recent years much has been said and written about bread, particularly by food faddists, and much of it is false. Here are some questions and answers to set the record straight. They present facts obtained from authoritative sources.

Does bread belong in the reducing diet? Definitely. Almost all professionally prescribed reducing diets include bread. It is a food for energy and health and supplies vitamins and minerals necessary for proper nutrition.

Is white bread low in nutrition? No. Any elements lost in milling are replaced through the enrichment process. Because of enrichment with essential vitamins, white bread is equal in nutritional value with whole wheat bread according to leading authorities.

Is bread important in a balanced diet? The United States Department of Agriculture in developing the "seven basic food groups" essential to a balanced diet gives bread a prominent place.

The contribution of enriched white bread to the nutritional health of America was well summed up by Dr. W. W. Bauer, Director of Health Education for the American Medical Association. "Recent years have seen a remarkable improvement in the nutritional health of Americans." Dr. Bauer said. "Much of this improvement has been credited to the enrichment of white bread, that tasty, beautifully textured bread on every table in America at every meal. Before this enrichment, nutritional deficiencies were widespread among our people. Today, physicians do not see them any more."

Is bread a good calcium source?

Yes. Bread is second only to milk among common foods as a source of calcium, the mineral so vital for bone strength and so valuable to general well being.

Do growing children need bread? Yes. They need it for its calcium; for its tissue-building protein; for its important vitamins and minerals. Children's frequent requests for bread are a natural expression of this need of their bodies.

Is bread a good food bargain?

Yes. At current prices, ten cents

Extra Punch For Your Beef Feed

The farmer who fails to use the best of the new beef "miracles" in his feeding program this winter will fall behind his competition. The science of wonder drugs for beef began just five years ago when stilbestrol hormones proved that they could speed up gains and cut back on feed use. Just 10 milligrams of stilbestrol, as much as you can hold on the head of a pin, adds a third of a pound of beef to a steer each day.

Since the discovery of stilbestrol, experiment stations have been frantically testing other products to see if they would increase gains or save feed. Now feeding experts are saying that a farmer can't afford to feed cattle unless he makes full use of additives.

According to a Massey-Ferguson roundup report on additive research, stilbestrol and the antibiotics Aureomycin and Terramycin are the most reliable drugs a feeder can use. Stilbestrol has the best record. It has been tested at 20 experiment stations over a period of 6 years. The average results were 18% increase in gains and 12% saving in feed.

The highest boost in gains from stilbestrol has come when it is fed with high grain rations. But most specialists also recommend stilbestrol for cattle on grass or high roughage rations.

When you are not feeding a supplement, the easiest way to supply nutrients with implants has been as good as with feeding.

Antibiotics speed gains about 9% on high roughage rations and 4 to 5% on high grain rations. The best use of antibiotics is to team them up with stilbestrol. Antibiotics add their effect over and above stilbestrol and improve the meat too.

In 20 experiments where they were compared, antibiotics alone boosted gains 6% and stilbestrol alone 12%. When the two additives were teamed up, gains shot up a big 17%.

worth of bread daily supplies about one-third of the daily needs for protein, one-fourth of an office worker's daily calorie needs, a good percentage of the daily requirements of thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron, and traces of other vitamins and minerals.

How does today's bread compare with the bread grandma made? The one big advantage of grandma's bread was that you could smell it baking. But bread baked at home did not provide as much nutrition as modern baker's bread. Today's loaf contains more milk, more vitamins, more shortening and yeast, and more calcium and iron.

Meeting Called To Make Study Of State Fish Program

There will be a meeting of fish hatchery superintendents and inland fishery biologists in Austin, January 7, it has been announced by the director of inland fisheries, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

The hatchery superintendents' meeting will be under the direction of Joe Marks. This is the annual meeting of the fishery technicians, to work out details of the program for the year.

During the current year, 18,570,670 fish were produced by the Game and Fish Commission hatcheries and released in lakes and streams of Texas.

High Death Toll Is Expected For Holiday Traffic

One-hundred and eleven persons will die violently in Texas traffic accidents during the forthcoming Christmas - New Years holiday if predictions released today by the Texas Department of Public Safety hold true.

The ominous forecast came from Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, for a 12 day period extending from 12:01 a.m. Dec. 23, through 11:59 p.m. Jan. 3.

The 111 predicted motorcides are included in an estimate made by Department Statistician N. K. Woerner, which indicates that 200 persons will die in violence during the period. The breakdown is as follows: Motorcycles 111; homicides and suicides 47; accidental deaths non-traffic 42; grand total 200.

Colonel Garrison named several reasons for the prediction that this year's holiday period will be one of the most deadly for Texas motorists in several years.

"This Christmas - New Year's holiday is expected to be one of the most dangerous for drivers that we have experienced for some time. Not only is the holiday period longer in the number of days it covers, but this has been a prosperous year for drivers and more cars are on the road.

"This year's accident rate is running considerably ahead of that of last year and we can naturally expect this trend to carry throughout the holidays. One other factor adds to our dim forecast. Both Christmas Day and New Year's day fall on Friday, making two extra long weekends within the holiday period.

"The best I can say is that I hope we are wrong. We can be wrong if Texas motorists will take common sense precautions in driving."

Safety Council Plays Games To Save Lives

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS courtesies, extended to motorists and pedestrians by the Los Angeles Safety Council, help make the holidays both happier and safer for residents of the West Coast city.

One year the safety group published a list of "amateur" driving habits. Then they announced through newspapers and radio a new game for holiday motorists called "Spot the Amateur."

Purpose of the game was to urge motorists to avoid contact with amateur drivers. Since no driver wants to be considered a novice, the game also deterred motorists from pulling "amateur driving" boners.

At another Christmas season, the Council prepared a travel time list to various holiday vacation spots for use by newspapers and radio stations. Normal driving times were first determined, and then additional time was added to allow for increased holiday traffic. To arrive safely at their destinations, drivers were urged to follow the time schedules.

Another Christmas project of the Los Angeles safety experts is to place on every restaurant table and counter a sign reading "For Holiday Safety — make that 'one for the road' coffee."

Through these special Christmas safety programs, the Los Angeles Safety Council spreads good common sense as well as good cheer.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

A lot of people find it more trouble and more difficult to watch after money than to get it. Allowances for children are discussed in all circles. One thing we know is that allowances — or any money, for that matter — should not be used as a bribe for good behavior or as a punishment for bad. Such a practice is sure to confuse the child into thinking of money as a symbol of love or approval, an idea that can cause him a lot of grief in later life.

OUR "BILL OF RIGHTS"

December 15 is observed each year as "Bill of Rights Day" throughout the United States. What does this important "document" mean to us?

The American "Bill of Rights" consisting of the first ten amendments to our federal constitution, all adopted at one time in 1791, specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, speech, and of the press. The same article protects the rights of peaceful assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, and specifies that no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation.

The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in legal jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; and a

Push Button Fish Scaling

Here's how push-button electronics has entered the nation's most popular sport, fishing, and has removed one more obstacle of discomfort — fish scaling. Even mom can't object to helping prepare the catch for the frying pan. It's that easy, according to reports.

A special guard over the scaler keeps the scales from flying. This means that fish can be scaled at the kitchen sink (no mosquitoes).

This lightweight electric fish scaler can be attached to any electric drill. The scaler is at the other end of a 30" flexible shaft. It rotates and spins off those pesky scales in about two passes per side of fish, according to tests. The drill is only the driving unit and need not be hoisted for the scaling work. Actually, it's a two-finger operation, according to the manufacturer, Dremel Manufacturing Co., Racine, Wis.

William E. Dremel, inventor and designer, is an avid fisherman himself. While testing the scaler, he found other uses for the unit. He discovered that with simple attachments he could take care of other important fishing chores such as cleaning and polishing baits, as well as sharpening hooks and knives. So he included these gadgets in the kit.

The company has developed four different versions to fit the requirements of any fisherman ... including deluxe models with attached motors.

Gone are the days of nicked knuckles, pierced fingers, and scattered scales, if this manufacturer has its way.

against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation.

He is also secured against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation and the rights to compel attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: "The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the States are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Thus that fundamental philosophy expressed in the Declaration of Independence that men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, and that "to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed," has been carried forward into the highest law of our land.

The column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

About two-thirds of all hunting accidents can be traced to three causes, according to Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist. They are: humans in the line of fire, mistaking humans for game, and careless handling of firearms, which includes hunting with the safety catch off.

People seem interested in the way writers work.

Jack London used to write 1,000 words a day. I have never been able to give myself a regular assignment like that. I once wrote 6,000 words of a book in one day. Another time, I wrote 50,000 words of a book in four weeks.

The actual time consumed in writing one of these "columns" is about 10 minutes — as you probably guessed, for no doubt, they read like that. But there is first the jotting down of notes as they happen to come to mind. These notes are accumulated and then, in the course of a day, eight or ten "columns" may be written — and then, no more for several weeks.

One Saturday Evening Post article was written on a single Sunday afternoon; and another was written some months later, also on a Sunday afternoon. "Talk from Texas," which was fortunate enough to sell 90,000 copies, was written in the space of nine days but actually about a week of working time. These nine days, however, were preceded by 24 years of listening to Texans tell stories about Texas.

The writing is done on a pad of "news print," usually with a twice folded newspaper and a knee serving as a desk, in long-hand, with a "throw-away ball-point pen (I most always have three of these), sometimes on a train, in a hotel lobby, a bus waiting-room, on the beach, in a public library, on a park bench, even in a cafe while waiting for dinner.

When Tom Campbell was governor he displeased many East Texas property owners with his "full rendition" law, so some of them encouraged the "Cumby blacksmith," Bob Williams, to announce against Campbell when he asked a second term.

Williams did not make an active campaign and made only one speech. In fact, if he had not made the speech, he might have been elected, tradition says. However, that is probably exaggerated as Campbell's margin was rather wide. . . .

Someone once introduced Pat Neff as "ex-Governor Neff," to which he quickly replied, "None 'ex' is one who was defeated; a 'former' is one who retired — former Governor, please."

As James Stephen Hogg walked out of the Capitol after his successor as governor had been inaugurated, he pulled a silver dollar from his pocket and said to a friend, "That is all I have to show for eight years of service as attorney general and governor."

Less than two-thirds of one percent was spent for the administration of the Highway Department, and the remaining six and one-third percent went for the highway patrol and miscellaneous operations.

The 80 percent expended for construction is the largest percent that has gone for this item since the few years soon after the creation of the Highway Department. Almost all of the expenditures went for construction in those early days, as the counties were responsible for highway maintenance at that time. The Department assumed maintenance of state highways in 1924.

"Over the 41 years, 70 percent of the funds have been expended for construction," Greer said.

Greer stated that during the past year, 19 percent of the revenue of the Department came from license plates, 32 percent from the gasoline tax, 43 percent from the federal government, and the remaining 6 percent from miscellaneous sources.

In the 41 years of operation, $3.3 billion dollars have been spent on the Texas Highway System. The System now consists of 60,374 miles.

Texas Far Below Nat'l. Average In Brucellosis Fight

Over half of the 3,152 counties in the United States and its possessions are now modified certified brucellosis areas. This means that tests show less than one percent of all cattle and five percent of all herds within the country are infected with brucellosis.

Of this number only three counties in Texas — Jeff Davis, Brewster, and Presidio — are certified. Officials have noted that the program's greatest gains have been made in those areas where livestock producers have cooperated by using the two main features of the program simultaneously — blood testing of animals to identify infected herds, and protection of calves through vaccination. Up to the present time, 22 entire states, plus Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, have been certified.

When the national program first began in 1934, more than 11 percent of the cattle in the U.S. were infected. However, as a result of the present program, the infection rate among all cattle tested has been reduced from 2.6 percent in 1954 to 1.3 percent at the end of February this year. This reduction in animal infection has also reduced the incidence of undulant fever, the form the disease takes in humans, from 6,321 known cases in 1947 to 802 in 1958. Contact with infected animals or animal products is the only source of human infection.

An educational Brucellosis meeting will be held for Knox County December 15 at 7:00 p.m. in the Knox County Courthouse at Ebenjamin. This program is being jointly sponsored by the Knox County Farm Bureau and Extension Livestock and Range Subcommittee Dr. William Stuart, local Veterinarian and USDA Veterinarian Dr. Wilson Boaz, County Agent.

For further information, contact Herbert Partridge, Chairman Farm Bureau Animal Health Committee, J. C. Tegor Moorhouse, Chairman Extension Livestock Subcommittee, or Troy Jones, County Agent.

Lastest reports from Mrs. W. B. Neil, who has been a patient in the Knox County Hospital the past two weeks, is that she is now doing fine and expects to be able to come home this week.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants are working with school teachers again this year on Teaching Taxes. Our Texas schools are doing a very fine job of training our young high school and college taxpayers on how to prepare their tax returns. The teachers take the material prepared by Internal Revenue Service and teach the students.

The Certified Public Accountants in many areas are volunteering to visit the school or class at the end of the income tax training to answer questions. This was a popular program last year. The accountants usually had as much fun as the students. The CPA's deserve a pat on the head for good public service to our leaders of tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Mann of Wichita Falls, Mrs. R. L. Davis of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draper of Dallas visited Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Fitzgerald and with relatives in Goree over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewie Melton were in Greenville last Sunday to attend the funeral of an uncle, Mr. Ernest Peebles. On the way home they also visited another uncle in Sherman.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Advises Rest Of The World Not To Hold Back On Account Of Himself And Mongolia

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses a deep subject this week, but not too profoundly.

Dear Editor:

One of the reporters following President Eisenhower on his tour of the world has wired back that a leader in one of the more backward, or to be more diplomatic, less forward countries pointed out to him that "as long as one spot on earth is underdeveloped, the rest of the world is held back that much."

I am convinced of that all right, but is the rest of the world?

For example, take my Johnson grass farm out here. Regardless of how you stretch the truth, you can't stretch it far enough to cover the fact this place is underdeveloped, yet I've been watching the rest of the world, from my nearby neighbors on out in all directions, and if any of them are being held back by me, I can't tell it.

I can't understand it, but some people have a tendency to ignore this basic law and forge on ahead, little aware that I can prove it to them in writing that they're being held back by me. Afghanistan, Mongolia, the African jungles, the frost-bitten North Pole, and several people whose names I won't call and you wouldn't publish if I can stop looking.

Understand, I don't blame them. I don't mind saying, if the rest of the world is looking back over its shoulder wondering when I'm going to catch up and free it to move forward, it can stop looking.

Sutton County
Ranchers Organize To Fight Fires

Sutton County ranchers have come up with a unique way to get equipment for fighting grassfires, according to G. O. Hoffman, extension range specialist. Twenty sections of rangeland in Sutton and Schleicher counties had burned by late summer and it was determined that a large part of this area could have been saved if proper equipment had been available.

Hoffman said D. C. Langford, Sutton county agricultural agent, reported that landowners joined together under the sponsorship of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce and taxed themselves $10 per section of rangeland in order to purchase proper equipment.

A four-wheel drive firetruck has been purchased and equipped to supplement a similar vehicle purchased several years ago. Two-way radios have also been purchased so that fire fighting can be supervised from the air. Many ranchers are also equipping their pick-up trucks with these radios so fires can be reported more quickly and this will better the communication system, Hoffman said.

Ranchers having power sprayers have been urged to register them with the Chamber of Commerce so they can be located quickly in case of fires. Many ranchers keep their sprayers full of water and ready during the grass fire season, the specialist noted.

Fire lanes have been constructed around and through several ranches and along roads to prevent fires. Land owners have also posted fire prevention signs furnished by the local newspaper on gates and cattle guards leading into their ranches to remind hunters and others of the fire hazard.

Sutton County has the best cover of grass it has had in the memory of many of its ranchers, and they plan to maintain that cover if possible by protecting it from fire, Hoffman added. It is hoped that other counties in the area will adequately equip their fire departments with range fighting equipment so the fire department can cooperate in controlling large range fires.
