Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

"If it's been your impression that farm children are healthier than city-bred youngsters, you're right," it says here in a release from Health Insurance Institute, New York.

k-k

Maybe there's something to growing up in the country that induces good health, like say; hunting snow birds with a B-B gun or homemade bow and arrow; slipping out into the cow lot and riding the calves; trapping skunks in winter and running the traps on a brisk fall morning while the frost is still too heavy for picking cotton; finding a hide-away and going barefoot when parental advice is that it's still too early in the spring; slipping off to the old swimming hole and taking an unauthorized swim—and "the last one in is a nigger baby; feeding horses and slopping hogs; chasing down a chicken for the noon-day meal; helping your mother on wash day, and stuff like that.

k-k

Even though it is reputed to be healthful activity, we seemed to be the unlucky one that brought home the contagious diseases, such as measles, mumps, chicken pox, scarlet fever and the like and gave them to the rest of the family.

k-k

Kids weren't reared on the farm in our time—they just sorta fell in the groove and grewed up.

Some of our other activities included chopping cotton on our seventh birthday and getting the seat of our breeches tanned for coming in for dinner an hour too early; getting a nickel for picking 100 pounds of cotton and the threat of a whipping if we didn't; taking the down-row—that one which the wagon graded—when heading maize; having our plow and team pulled from the cotton patch to plow the garden with all those short rows.

k-k

We had a talk recently with B. O. Norville about those old days—how the rumble of the old coffee mill attached to the wall would wake us when Dad was grinding that Peaberry coffee, and of the wonderful aroma that came drifting to the upstairs bedroom; how the old coal stove would get glowing red and even the stovepipe red hot halfway to the ceiling, and we wonder now why we didn't have more disastrous fires than we did.

k-k

One of the persons working for establishment of the North Texas Boys Ranch near Henrietta called on us Monday and left us a copy of the by-laws. He said a bulldozer has started digging a tank on the site of the ranch and he seems to think the ranch is pretty well assured. Some few churches of the area have yet to vote their approval. He quoted an attorney as saying: "The Boys Ranch should be a help to the churches of the area, rather than be a financial burden."

k-k

According to the by-laws, the ranch shall be a non-profit corporation under a charter to be issued by the State of Texas. The officers shall consist of a president, one or more vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer, and a board of directors of 100 members from over the area to administer the affairs of the corporation.

k-k

To our notion, those 24-hour sessions of the U. S. Senate with cots being set up in the senate chamber and all the extra-curricular activities is purely for publicity purposes. There may be problems facing the Senate and the nation that necessitates a round-the-clock sessions, but we doubt if the Civil Rights Bill is one of them. We think a tired Senator is no different from a tired worker. He can not do his best job, or his best thinking, under such conditions.

k-k

Maybe those tax assessors have been going "that extra mile" all these years in looking you up and getting your tax renditions all these years. Anyway, it has been announced that property owners will no longer be contacted for this purpose by the City of Munday and the Munday schools. The law requires that each owner of real or personal property go to the office of the assessor and render said property for taxation. If you don't, the equalization board will do it for you — so maybe it's better that you keep this in mind, and do it yourself!

Knox Countians Visit Experiment Station At Spur

Ten people of this county visited the Spur Experiment Station on Thursday, February 18, to see results of the steer feeding test which was started on September 22.

The steers at that time were placed in the feedlot for a week's preliminary feeding period. They were then divided into 8 lots with 8 head in four lots and 10 head in the other four lots. All lots were started on a basal ration of two pounds of cottonseed meal, six points of ground sorghum grain, two pounds of alfalfa hay and approximately 50 pounds of sorghum silage per head daily.

After the first four weeks in the feedlot, the grain was increased to eight points per head daily and two points of whole cottonseed was fed in place of alfalfa hay. During the third four-weeks period the amount of cottonseed meal was reduced to one pound and whole cottonseed increased to four pounds. Grain was increased to ten pounds during the fourth period a maximum of 12 pounds during the fifth period.

All lots were fed alike with the exception that some of the steers consumed more silage than others.

Those visiting the station included George Lebus, O. D. Propps, Lee Smith, Sam Clonts, Togo Moorhouse, Jack Idol, Frank McCauley, Tom Frizzell and County Agent Troy Jones.

The student will arrive in Munday around August 1.

THE SHRINKING DOLLAR

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports that the American dollar is worth less today than at any time in history.

During the current century alone, now just started on its sixtieth year, the purchasing power of that dollar has dropped from 100 cents to 29 cents—a loss of almost three quarters. And the value of savings, pensions and insurance has dropped accordingly—as great numbers of people who must live in whole or in part on fixed incomes have learned the hard way.

We can't change what has happened in the past. But we can learn from it, and make an honest effort to keep the dollar's worth from sliding still further down the hill. For instance, the Chamber calls upon Congress, in the current session, to keep the highway program on a pay-as-you-go basis; to oppose inflationary increases in the minimum wage; to remove artificial restrictions on the interest rate of government bonds; to avoid wasteful defense spending; and to eliminate unnecessary spending for public works, depressed areas, community facilities, veterans' benefits, and airport construction. This call is based on the inescapable fact that the greatest single force back of inflation is drunken-sailor federal spending. The Chamber also seeks to reduce monopolistic labor power, which is another important source of inflationary pressure.

Naturally enough, there will be wide differences of opinion over the details of such a program. But, those aside, something drastic must be done, and done soon, if the dollar's worth does not become 15 cents, 10 cents, 5 cents and, ultimately, zero.

TO BE LET ALONE

"A common fallacy about man's duty to man was repeated recently by a prominent layman at a religious conference," says The Saturday Evening Post editorially. "As an expression of our social responsibilities he suggested, 'We are our brothers' keepers'."

This point of view, the Post went on, is due to a serious misinterpretation of the Scriptural passage in question. It then said: "If all the world's people were our brothers, and we were our brothers' keepers, they would also be our keepers. We would be among the kept. In the slave societies of totalitarianism, from the Baltic Sea to the sad coasts of Siberia and China, everybody is required to be his brother's keeper — to maintain a sharp watch on him and to blow the whistle the minute he deviates from total obedience . . .

"Well-meaning people who tell us that our duty is to be our brothers' keepers . . . have failed to draw clear distinctions between proper help and perpetual meddling. We have a duty to help the sick, the incapacitated, the very weak. But what our neighbors in general need is a large amount of being let alone."

The fact is that human history has largely consisted of the endless struggle of people's seeking "a large amount of being let alone." And that often violent struggle has generally been directed at systems of government which treat the individual as a number whose duty is to do what he is told and not ask questions. The most basic of all freedoms is the privilege of being let alone.

GOVERNMENT'S FUNCTION

We live in an era in which, apparently, vast numbers of people regard the government as the proper source of almost every kind of hand-out, grant, and so-called "benefits."

So something that Henry Hazlitt has to say in Newsweek about government is important. In his words; to refrain from burdensome and inequitable taxation; to remove the punitive laws and deterrents that previous governments have imposed. Its function is to permit and preserve a sound currency. When it fails to do this, it must bear sole responsibility for the failure."

Once government breaks its historic bonds and goes beyond these functions, the result is always the same: Oppressive taxation, a degraded currency, diminished incentive, and a steady whittling away of the freedoms of all citizens.

"DE TOCQUEVILLE WAS RIGHT"

Writing editorially in The Saturday Evening Post, Oscar Ibele, professor of political science at Kent State University, said in part:

"What the Government subsidizes it can also control. As its power increases, our freedom diminishes. Many vigilant persons recognize this peril to their liberties, but in the face of the tremendous voting power of the pressure groups and other recipients of 'free' Federal money, the odds are increasingly against them."

"De Tocqueville was right. It is possible for the people to vote themselves into bondage. We shall be fortunate if this doesn't happen to us."

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By HAROLD C. PADEN

How Can I Glorify God?

Man's purpose in this world is to glorify his creator. Jesus glorified His Father and taught us how to do it too. "I have glorified thee on the earth; I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do" (John 17:4). This is the way to glorify God today — by doing the work God has given us to do. Each responsible person has a work God wants of him. If he fails he will be like the Gentiles who "knew God . . . but glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened" (Romans 1:21).

God's Family

In order to glorify God as Jesus has taught us, we "must be born again of the water and the Spirit" to get into God's family, the Kingdom of God, which is the Church of God. Those good deeds which your child does reflect honor upon your family name. Those which are mine do reflect upon my name. So, to reflect honor or to glorify God you must be in God's family, the Church which Jesus Christ established on Pentecost. The Bible teaches that all those who believe and obey the Gospel of Christ are added to the Church of God described in the New Testament (Acts 2:47). Too many people are trying to be saved and to glorify God on a basis of mortality, fraternalism or civic-mindedness, but Paul wrote to the Ephesians: "Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus through all ages, world without end" (3:21). This church is not a denomination. It is the church which belongs to Christ, the one referred to when He said: "Upon this rock I will build my church" (Matthew 16:18). Christ is its only head, and it belongs to no hierarchy or group of men. It is non-denominational in its very nature. It was in existence before any denomination existed. To designate it without misunderstanding to the reader, it can be described as the Kingdom of God.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES WEEK

The average family of four in Texas is estimated to have a financial stake of at least $100 a year in accurate weights and measures enforcement.

This is one of the vital functions of the Texas Department of Agriculture, and the week of March 1 through March 7 has been officially designated in Texas and the nation as weights and measures week.

Since practically everything purchased in connection with daily living needs is bought in terms of a fixed amount for a fixed price, carefully supervised regulation is essential to make certain that the specified amount is delivered for the specified price.

The division of weights and measures of the Texas Department of Agriculture has the responsibility of checking all such weighing and measures devices in the State, ranging from intricate pharmaceutical scales to huge commercial scales such as those used at public weighing stations and cattle auction markets. Thousands of inspections are made each year, including spot checking of gasoline pumps throughout the State.

It was 161 years ago, on March 2, 1799, that Congress passed the first Federal weights and measures law in the U. S. It was pointed out then that "weights and measures may be ranked a mong the necessities of life to every individual of human society. They enter into the economic arrangements and daily concerns of every family."

Texas businessmen, it has been pointed out, have even greater financial stakes than family consumer units in making sure that their scales and measuring devices are completely accurate. Where large volume business is transacted, it is possible to give away thousands and tens of thousands of dollars worth of goods by means of scales that are inaccurate on the side of the purchaser.

It is also emphasized that it is almost impossible to name anything the American consumer wears, uses or eats that has not been weighed or measured once or many times in its production and distribution.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

Suppose that Mrs. Housewife wants to buy a vacuum cleaner. She may not have the $100 or so required to pay for the appliance. The salesman will probably ask her to sign a negotiable promissory note, perhaps payable in a series of monthly installments. When Mrs. Housewife signs the note, the salesman will give her a cleaner. The cleaner company in turn will probably sell the note to a bank or commercial credit company.

Thus, Mrs. Housewife has the cleaner, the cleaner company has funds with which to do business, and the bank holds the promise of Mrs. Housewife to pay a sum of money. The bank, of course, will pay to the cleaner company something less than the face value of the note. The difference is the gross profit that the bank will earn on the transaction.

If the cleaner turns out to be defective, and contrary to the representation made by the salesman, an interesting problem arises.

Mrs. Housewife may feel that she is not legally obligated to pay the note, until some adjustment is made with regard to the cleaner. However, the law of negotiable instruments requires that Mrs. Housewife must pay the face value of the note plus any interest to the bank in spite of the defect in the merchandise. At least such results follow if the bank has taken the note under these circumstances.

Mrs. Housewife certainly has the right to a cleaner in the condition represented, or damages resulting from the defect. But Mrs. Housewife must pursue these remedies against the cleaner company or its salesman. The fact that the merchandise is defective does not give her a defense against the bank on the note.

Whenever Mrs. Housewife signs a promissory note or other negotiable instrument, she should pay only the person who actually holds the note. For example, if Mrs. Housewife had paid the cleaner company at the end of the 30-day period, the bank, as holder of the note, could none the less collect from her.

Checks, drafts, promissory notes, and bills of exchange, are types of negotiable instruments. They are, in effect, unconditional promises to pay a definite sum of money to the bearer or endorsee of the instrument in a fixed or determinable time. Their use dates back to about 1600 in

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

Two months from now a thin black line on a graphic chart at the State Department of Health will begin an inexorable climb upward, getting higher and higher each week as summer progresses, then turning into a slow downward curve in mid-September.

The chart is the department's way of keeping a weekly tally on polio. By referring to charts for previous years, Dr. H. E. Smith can predict when the line will begin its upward swing.

"The last week in April is when polio starts to increase in Texas," says Dr. Smith, chief of the department's preventive medicine section.

"The line reached its high point during August last year when 145 cases were charted. At the year's end 526 cases had been tallied, a high toll but still a fine testimonial for polio vaccine when contrasted to the 3984 cases during pre-vaccine 1952."

Extending the line each week is a painful chore for statisticians. Each time it advances one square on the chart they mentally hear a physician speaking to someone somewhere in Texas and making his dire diagnosis: "Polio."

That someone thus becomes a statistic, with his name and facts surrounding his illness filling blank spaces on Form No. 68-R5732, the department's cold and impersonal polio case record.

An analysis of 273 case record forms, completed with a clinical thoroughness during the polio season last year, is a dramatic study in human frailty.

It shows that nine of every ten cases had had less than the basic three vaccine shots recommended for maximum protection. It shows that three of every four cases had not received a single dose of the vaccine proved effective beyond all expectations.

More than half of last year's victims of paralytic polio were under five years of age, the analysis reveals. And among these youngsters as among other age groups, nine of ten had not received the recommended three shots.

Now they're part of a black line on a sheet of graph paper.

"It would only add hurt to injury," says Dr. Smith, "to ask their parents why, in the face of almost daily urgings, they ignored the chance of giving the youngsters an infinitely better chance to escape polio."

In a brief few weeks the thin black line will begin its seasonal climb.

"We hope it won't go as high this year," Dr. Smith says. "But we've got plenty of case record forms on hand, just in case..."

Cotton Insect Control Guide Now Available

At least six major changes have been made in the recommendations covering the control of cotton insects for 1960. C. F. Garner, associate extension entomologist, says these changes have been called to the attention of all county agricultural agents in Texas and suggests that cotton producers ask the agents about them when picking up a copy of the new guide.

The guide, L-218, is now available from the office of the local county agent or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas. Garner points out that all recommendations in the guide are based upon results of experiments conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Entomology Research Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

As has been the case for several years, the control program for 1960 includes early and late season control phases and suggestions for an early stalk destruction and farm cleanup, a very important part of the cotton insect control program.

Garner suggests that cotton growers pick up a copy of the guide at the first opportunity so plans can be made for carrying out a complete insect control program.

The entomologist has this final word of caution. All insecticides are poison and precautions given on the labels and precautions should be followed to the letter. Special care should be taken in handling parathion, methid parathion, demeton, Guthion and phorate (Thimet) to avoid prolonged contact with the skin or breathing the vapors or drift from either spray or dust.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Ben Yarbrough was able to be brought home last Friday from the Bethania Hospital in Wichita Falls after undergoing emergency surgery two weeks ago. Mr. Yarbrough stayed with her while she was in the hospital. Mrs. Yarbrough says she is feeling wonderful but is having to take it easy for awhile.

Ford Tractor Show Slated In Dallas

The Ford Tractor and Equipment Cavalcade Show, a spectacular kind of exhibit of farm and industrial equipment, will be staged in Dallas on Wednesday, April 9, according to Gene Wood, local dealer. The show will combine entertainment, education and engineering in a manner never before brought to a rural audience.

It will take place inside a huge Geodesic dome, over three stories tall, and with seating capacity for 800 spectators. Four acres of ground around the dome are being devoted to equipment displays and demonstrations, Mr. Wood said.

Two shows will be held, at 2 p.m. Because only 800 persons can be seated for the musical stage show, admission to the dome must be limited to ticket-holders, Mr. Wood stated. There is no charge for these tickets," he added, "and I am taking requests for them now. For variety of equipment to be shown, entertainment value of the program and unusualness of the futuristic Geodesic dome and horizon-wide motion pictures, I believe the Cavalcade will be an unprecedented spectacle, and I urge as many local people as possible to attend."

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says People In Town Depending On Him Should Re-Study His Farm Problem

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek views the farm problem again this week, but whether he sheds any light, is hard to say.

I read an editorial in a newspaper the other day, I've forgotten the name of the paper but it was from a big city because I remember it was heavy, which solved the farm problem.

This disturbed me because the farm problem has always been something you could rely on, like restlessness in Europe. Regardless of how many other problems were solved, you always figured the farm problem and restlessness in Europe would be around, but this paper said the farm problem will solve itself.

"When so many farmers move to town that the ones left on the farm have to hustle to raise enough to feed and clothe their town customers, the farm problem will be solved," the editorial said.

However, when I say solved, I mean only in the newspaper editorial writer's mind, not in mine.

In the first place, he implies that the main purpose of a farmer, even one that's not hustling, is to feed and clothe people in town, whereas most farmers I know have as their main concern the feeding and clothing of themselves and their immediate families, with occasionally a son-in-law thrown in.

In the second place, hustling is not the answer for the farmer. It's hustling that has brought on all the surpluses.

And in the third place, if that big city editorial writer thinks when the time comes, if it ever does, when he doesn't have enough food and clothes to buy that that fact is going to make

News From The U. S. Congress

By Congressman Frank Beard

The antics of Dictator Castro in Cuba have provoked many to suggest that as a reprisal, we not renew the Sugar Act. One of the basic misconceptions about the Sugar Act is that it is an arrangement whereby we in this country have bought sugar from the Cuban Government at above the going price. This, of course, is not the case. Even though the sugar market in the United States does give strength to the Cuban economy, actually the buying and selling of sugar all goes on between private American importers and the owners of the sugar in Cuba. The only exception to this has been during wartime. The purpose of the arrangement is to assure adequate and dependable supplies of sugar in this country at reasonable prices. Our experience under the Act so far has been that it is of benefit to us and should be continued even though there seems to be some merit to the contention that the Cuban quota should be reduced and more go to Mexico and other sugar producing countries in Latin America. During these times it will probably be wise not to have "all of our eggs in one Cuban basket."

A new approach to the farm program has been provided recently by bills that have been introduced by Congressman Bob Poage, Vice Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, from Waco, and others. It would allow the producers of each of the basic commodities to tailor-make their own programs within the limits of tax payers' expense. This might come about basically through a two-price system with parity assured only for the part of production which is actually needed for National consumption. A farmer would be free to grow as much of a basic commodity as he wishes, but for everything that he grew above domestic demand, he would be wholly on his own, and he could sell it for whatever price he could get for it. Hearings on this and other proposals will begin the 29th, and it is hoped that out of them will be developed a new and workable agricultural program.

Mr. Robert Wayne Anderson of Gainesville was a Washington visitor this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crockett and granddaughter, Sandra, and Mrs. Linda Evans of Winters were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keel and Leona.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Strothers of Wichita Falls were Sunday guests of her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dub Moon and Mark.

Leading Clothing Manufacturer Recommends SANTITONE Dry Cleaning

For the first time in dry cleaning history a major clothing manufacturer recommends a specific dry cleaning process for their garments.

All Weathered suits, tailored by Handmacher-Vogel, Inc., world's largest maker of suits, will carry string tags, recommending that the suit be Santitone Dry Cleaned "to keep the original shape, texture and freshness of the suit." Mr. Handmacher, company president, said that he decided to use the tags "only after exhaustive tests proved to my complete satisfaction that the Santitone Process did these things."

Our SANTITONE dry cleaning keeps you looking wonderful all the time

Our Santitone Soft-Set® Dry Cleaning does more than get garments thoroughly clean. It actually restores the original look and feel to the fabric. Colors glow. Patterns sparkle. And your clothes always come back as soft and fresh as the day you bought them.

We invite you to compare our Santitone Service with any other dry cleaning to prove that you can really see and feel the difference.

Release Date For '60 Cotton Acreage Nears

Cotton growers were reminded January 25 of the importance of either using or releasing their cotton allotments this year in order to prevent reduced allotments for future years.

According to Gaylon C. Scott, Chairman, Knox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, the 1961 cotton allotment for a farm will be reduced if certain conditions are not met in 1960. So a farmer who knows that he will not plant at least 75 per cent of his farm's cotton allotment in 1960 can help himself and also other cotton farmers by releasing his allotment before the deadline. This will assume him, as well as the county and State, of history acreage for future allotments.

Under a recent amendment to the law, the Chairman, explains, the 1960 allotment is required to be used at the farm's allotment base in determining the 1961 cotton allotment if at least 75 per cent of the farm's 1960 allotment is planted or "regarded as planted." Otherwise, the base for determining a future allotment will be reduced to the average of (1) the regular (Choice (A) allotment for the year, and (2) the acreage planted or "regarded as planted" in that year.

(Acreage may be "regarded as planted" if it is released to the County ASC Committee or if it is included under the Conservation Reserve or Great Plains program.)

In order fully to protect the allotment base for the farm's 1961 and future cotton allotments, therefore, the farm should (1) plant at least 75 per cent of the 1960 allotment to cotton, or (2) release at least 75 per cent of the allotment to the ASC County Committee, or (3) include at least 75 per cent of the allotment acres in the Conservation Reserve, or (4) use a total acreage equal to at least 75 per cent of the farm's 1960 cotton allotment in all of these three ways together.

Any cotton farmer in the county who now knows that his allotment will not be planted this year should visit the local ASC Office immediately to discuss how the new provisions of law will apply to his farm. The last day for releasing allotments is April 22, 1960.

Mr. Scott also points out that March 16 is another important deadline—the last day for farm operators to elect the Choice (B) allotment-price support program for their farm's 1960 upland cotton crop. The Choice (B) program provides an allotment 40 per cent larger and price support at 15 per cent of parity less than under the "regular Choice (A) program.

Dollars And Sense

By S. C. Kinsey, Knox County H. D. Agent

What do you want your money to buy for you? The secret of having something to show for your hard earned dollars is planning to make those dollars buy exactly what you need and want before they disappear in unexpected ways.

A good money management plan should be tailored to fit your living and your wishes. It cannot be based on the standard of an imaginary "average" family. The number in your family, your income, the type of work you do, your talents and tastes, the neighborhood and part of the country in which you live, all influence your desires and spending needs.

A good money management plan involves establishing your goals, for budgeting or planning, sitting up reserves for future fixed and future flexible expenses, cleaning up past due bills, meeting day to day living costs including personal allowances in your budget and achieving the goal most important to you.
