A LESSON FROM MR. LEWIS

When John L. Lewis announced his resignation as president of the United Mine Workers, he became the subject of editorials in publications throughout the country. One of the most significant observations appeared in National Review:

"In plain cash terms, Mr. Lewis' miners jumped from $2.50 to $24 a day in the period bracketed by his presidency of the union. The truly significant thing about this tremendous rise in the miner's affluence is that it has been accomplished without the featherbedding that has been so common in other unions. Lewis has always been a champion of mechanization and 'automation' in the coal fields; he has always been willing to allow marginal mines to go out of production."

Mr. Lewis, in sum, understood that material gains for the miners depended on technological advances that would reduce the costs of production, and permit the employer to sell his product in a competitive market. This understanding needs to be shared in full measure by other labor leaders—notably in the railroad brotherhood. In the railroad industry featherbedding—which is pay for work not done, and results from obsolete work rules—costs $500 million a year. It has gravely weakened the railroads' competitive position. And because of that, it has been largely responsible for heavy declines in railroad employment.

The economic health of the worker depends on the economic health of his employer—in road-building and in everything else.

VOTE—DON'T JUST TALK

Commenting editorially the Ontario, Oregon, Argus-Oregonian, said in part, "Louise Humphrey, Portland tax expert, hit the nail on the head in her speech before the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation when she blamed taxpayer apathy as one of the big reasons for ever-increasing expenditures, some necessary, some unnecessary."

"Everyone gripes, but only a small handful care enough to try to do something. Major decisions involving large expenditures of money or just policy, are passed every day without a lift of an eyebrow or comment from the average citizen."

"Too often the comment is 'What can I do? How I feel doesn't make any difference.' How wrong is this attitude. Each and every one of us has a weapon—our vote. If only we could be bothered to take the time to mark a ballot when it is presented to us, we could do something. Too often, only a few take the time to vote—expressing us not to the rule by majority, but to rule by minority . . ."

Mrs. Humphrey told the Farm Bureau convention that expenditures should be challenged as to necessity and, that elimination of some items would not necessarily "unlock jail doors and close school doors."

BUILDING AHEAD

Anyone who believes that the really big jobs of electric power development are beyond the abilities of the taxpaying utility companies, and can only be accomplished by tax-free, tax-supported socialized systems, would do well to read a report issued by a utility which serves much of California.

This area has been growing at a terrific rate, and the demand for power has been extraordinarily heavy. And how has the utility gone about satisfying that demand? Here's the story, in capsule form:

It is entering the 1960 decade with 1.3 million more customers than at the beginning of 1950. Since World War II, its construction expenditures have totaled almost $2.2 billion—and it intends to spend some $152 million for construction of new facilities during 1960. Now, as in the past, it is building ahead of the demand to serve the continuing growth. Its electric generating capacity is 2½ times as great as it was 10 years ago.

This tax-paying company—like other utility companies throughout the country—is preparing now for demands which will come in the years ahead. And the job is being done with private capital—not the taxpayers' money for tax-exempt socialized federal plants.

VEPSAILLES, KY., SUN: "In our book, the heroes of the day are those anonymous doctors out in California who succeeded in putting back the leg of a young foundry worker after it had been chewed off by a crane."

"This, we think, is progress. We would be far more proud to have had ever so slight a hand in this victory than to have controlled the lunik camera that ((they say) shot the back of the moon."

BROILER MARKET REACTION

Statements by Secretary Flemming of the U. S. Department of Health Education and Welfare against the fitness of poultry treated with the drug known as stilbestrol brought a prompt and better reaction from spokesmen for the Texas broiler industry.

These spokesmen saw their markets dangerously threatened and, in fact, all but hamstringed by the Secretary's statements. They spoke out in strong resentment, among other outlets, through Radio Station KDET and the East Texas network out of Center, one of the headquarters of the East Texas broiler industry.

The radio network charged that "there was no good whatsoever to be gained by the statement from Flemming. His own piece of propaganda confessed that manufacturers of stilbestrol had suspended the sale of the product and that the poultry industry had arranged for the immediate discontinuance of the sale of treated birds."

"The consuming public has been given the impression that all chickens are suspect because poultry is the one word repeated and reiterated in Flemming's statements. Actually, only an infinitesimal fraction of poultry received stilbestrol. No reassurance from Secretary Flemming will undo the damage from his irresponsible action."

"The Secretary's publicity effort could not have been more untimely for the broiler producer locally and nationwide. For the first time in many months live broilers had reached a peak of 19 cents per pound and there was a strong demand which would undoubtedly have put a little Christmas change in the pockets of thousands of growers. That prospect was destroyed overnight."

"The market tumbled here to 15 cents within four days, and instead of clearing out the offerings at each day's auction the Southwest Poultry Exchange is now stagnated with a daily carry-over of 150,000 to 200,000 broilers."

"It is reported that the auction at Springdale, Ark., failed to move a single bird the day after the Flemming nightmare hit the head lines. The broiler industry, as everybody knows, is in dire circumstances without having to combat adverse government publicity."

Knoxville is of course the location of the University of Tennessee and it has many beautiful homes, with spacious grounds and stately trees. This testimony is placed in the record lest last week's description of the picture-squally down-at-the heels public market might give a disproportionate idea of Knoxville to the reader. After all, I might have occasion to re-visit the city.

Knoxville is also the home of Corvaire coupes now in production

Chevrolet has added a new 2-door coupe to its Corvaire line and shipments to dealers are now under way. The new model of the rear-engine compact car has the same basic dimensions as the 4-door Corvaire sedan, but has its own distinct sporty styling motif. This is accentuated by a split front seat and a new roof design which features a large sloping rear window.

second highest yield of lint per acre, 337 pounds. The 7-Step Cotton Program, initiated 14 years ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has been a major factor in the progress made by the growers of the State's most important crop, believes Elliott.

The program brought together on the county and state basis committees representing every segment of the cotton industry and all have worked for its improvement. Since 1946, the average lint yield per harvested acre has increased from 134 pounds to the 1959 yield of 337 pounds.

Last year county agents in 205 counties assisted producers with various phases of the 7-Step Program. Emphasis was placed on the use of cotton burs for soil improvement and to reduce gin fires. Burs were spread on 8,323 farms in 138 counties. A few years ago most of the burs were burned as waste, Elliott noted.

There was a marked increase in the use of defoliant and desiccants and machine harvesting in 1959 over 1958. Harvest aid chemicals were used on 58,236 farms in 167 counties as compared to 37,585 farms in 162 counties in 1958.

In posting the $69 million plus savings in labor, producers used 29,236 stripper harvesters and 3,280 spindle pickers in 143 and 100 counties, respectively. The weed and grass control savings were made through the use of 43,378 rotary hoe equipped tractors in 166 counties, the use of spot oiling of Johnsongrass on 150,834 acres in 155 counties, and the spot spraying of Johnsongrass with water carried chemicals on 50,532 acres in 125 counties. Lateral oiling with post emergence chemicals for weed control was used in 56 counties.

Full credit, says the specialist, goes to the county 7-Step Committees and the county agents of Texas for the achievements made under the program. Their contributions, concludes Elliott, to this cooperative effort have materially strengthened the economy of Texas.

A. C. Boggs was in Dallas last Thursday and Friday attending market for Boggs Brothers Furniture Store.

Cotton Producers Cutting Costs With Machines, Chemicals

Texas cotton producers saved an estimated $55.5 million by harvesting about half of their 1959 crop with machines. Another $12.9 million was saved by using machines and chemicals for controlling grass and weeds in their fields, reports Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

While these savings were being made, they also posted the State's Or must they "occupy" these lands after discovery?

Already people have proposed that space craft be registered like sea-going vessels, and fly their country's flag, and report their purposes — scientific, commercial, or military—when they blast off.

worked in and through both zones. Zone or no zone, fighter planes, for example, could drop; or things could fall on people below.

So in World War I brave little Holland held fast for Blackstone. Nobody could fly over her land lawfully without her permission.

In 1919 the Aerial Navigation Convention joined the Dutch in saying every power has full and sole "sovereignty over the air space above its land." The 1923 Convention on International Civil Aviation still held to this view.

This had to do with air, but what about outer space? With airplanes one could say the air space ended up there when the "air" could no longer hold up a plane. Say, thirty miles up.

Then Sputnik! Each day it crisscrossed the sovereignty of land after land.

So the law of outer space comes up again: In 1956 the American Society of International Law debated whether Blackstone would hold for "air" which could not support vehicles, whether thirty or thousands of miles "up."

No, they decided, the sky was only as high as the nations had in mind in 1919 and 1928. So we have more questions than answers, some with cold war dimensions:

1. How could one state shoot a rocket aloft without invading another's sovereignty on the way up or down?

2. What if such things took pictures of military value below? What would that do to the state's sovereignty below?

3. What about the moon? Eager moon-vigilators plan, like Columbus, to land on the moon, and to stake out claims in their "sovereign's" name.

Is the moon terra incognita or terra nullis, like the lands of the new world on the old maps? Do first comers get moon lands?

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

AHOY SPACECRAFT!
Long ago the sky was sky-high, no nobody cared! But no more. In 1765 Blackstone backed up old Roman law that sovereignty went usque ad caelum, or as high as the sky.

By 1899 the First Hague Peace Conference ruled against discharging explosives from balloons, and today we have endless legal problems that reach beyond the moon.

With airplanes, armed and un-armed overhead, modern Blackstones had to ask how high is up: Could a low air zone come within state control and a high zone remain free like the seas? No, many thought, for gravity

BEWARE

'KILLERS AT LARGE'

Ten thousand killers, presently at liberty, deceptively normal in appearance and speech, will during the next 12 months take the lives of over 32,000 Americans of all ages.

Police and the FBI are powerless to cope with these slayers. Our armed forces couldn't help, even if called into action. Indeed, the assassins themselves don't know what they'll do. They don't know whom they'll kill . . . or whom . . . or where.

Who are they? Someone YOU know may be one of them. They're all motorists — and pretty good drivers too. Whom will they slay? Strangers. Friends. Even their own families. Why? Because at this moment—even if they're reading this article—they don't know that tomorrow's burst of extra speed—or next week's decision to teach that "wise guy" on the road a lesson . . . or last month's failure to have the car properly serviced . . . will result in death.

According to the National Safety Council, the great bulk of the 32,000 fatalities and 348,000 injuries on the road each year are avoidable.

What can YOU do to avoid being the one driver in 382 who'll be involved in an accident this year? For the answers the Companies checked with the National Safety Council, American Automobile Association, and safety experts at prominent tire and petroleum companies. Based on their comments and suggestions here's an eight point program to keep you out of the killer category:

1. Be sure you're physically fit to drive.
2. Be prepared mentally to drive.
3. Know your car.
4. Be sure your car is in top condition.
5. Learn the fundamentals of turn pike or freeway driving.
6. Master the fundamentals of night driving.
7. Learn to handle your car in bad weather.
8. DON'T SPEED, don't speed, don't speed, don't speed

Come in and lets talk about the NEW SAFETY DRIVING LAW.

WORTH MORE BECAUSE THEY WORK MORE

Chevy's new torsion springs and Sturdi-Bilt design are changing everybody's ideas about how much work a truck can do. Last year's schedules are out—Chevrolet trucks ride faster over the rough runs to get in more trips a day! Big repair bills are no longer a problem—Chevrolet trucks soak up punishment that means downtime to other makes! And trade-in time's put off for extra thousands of miles—'60 Chevrolet trucks stay new like never before!

New Dollar-Saving Prices

Step-Vans, 4-Wheel Drives, many light-duty models with automatic transmissions—all are lower priced. Prices have also been reduced on all optional V8's.

New Torsion-Spring Suspension

Eliminates I-beam shimmy and wheel fight! With torsion springs up front there's a brand-new, smoother, easier handling feel behind the wheel. New rear suspensions include wide-based coil springs in most light-duty models; tougher variable-rate leaf springs in medium- and heavy-duty models.

Electronically Balanced Wheels

Front wheels and tires are balanced at the factory. Helps make that new ride revolutionary!

New Cabs—Wider, Safer, More Comfortable

Many models are a whole 7 inches lower (without sacrificing road clearance), so it's easier to hop in and out of cabs. Still there's more space inside: more room for hats and hips, more foot room with suspended pedals. Cabs are safer, too; new build makes them 67% more rigid.

Plus Improvements All Through the Line

A new steering linkage system that cuts vibration, means better control. There's new V8 efficiency. Sixes long famous for saving. New key-turn starting. Higher, wider visibility. Talk to your Chevrolet dealer about the world's most advanced trucks.

Will your Christmas be a burden for months?

Get ready for next year's spending while you're getting over the pocketbook strain of too many gifts for too many people.

Make a list of gifts you gave this year and the cost of each. Don't forget to list the amount spent for wrappings, Christmas cards, stamps, and insurance for packages.

It may not be possible to cut down on the amount that is spent at Christmas, but better planning for next year may ease the strain. Begin now to plan for the arrival of Christmas, 1960.

BONUS DAYS ARE HERE!

DEAL NOW
for your 1960 machinery needs

The Earlier You Trade
The More You Save?

How Many Months Can I Collect 6%?

Your interest — 6% per annum on your down payment, the value of your trade-in or both — starts when you make your down payment — in trade or cash. Your IH dealer figures this interest until the machine's next use season, then pays it in advance ... in cash! The sooner you trade, the more you save!

What Machines Pay An Early Trader's Bonus?

Tractors, balers, windrowers, cotton strippers and cotton pickers, combines, field harvesters, hay conditioners, potato diggers — they all pay a bonus. And any other implements—like plows, disks, harrows, planters, mowers, wagons—become bonus machines when purchased with a tractor.

Can I Trade in a Combine on a Tractor?

You don't have to trade like for like. You might, for instance, trade an old combine or a baler on a new IH tractor.

How Much Must I Pay Down?

You don't need cash. Your trade-in is usually enough to swing an Early Trader's deal. Park your old machinery on your IH dealer's lot where it will earn 6% interest for you.

What If I Pay Cash?

Your IH dealer will pay you interest at the rate of 6% on any pre-payment that's part of a cash or trade-in guarantee you against a price increase, too.

Do Time Sales Pay Me a Bonus?

You can still get 6% per annum on your trade-in or cash down payment even if you buy machinery under the IH Income Purchase Plan. Under certain conditions, finance charges can be waived till you take delivery.

Heavy Agenda Is Set For New Game Officials

A full agenda awaits the organization meeting of the Game and Fish Commission, which meets in Austin 9 a.m. Friday, January 22.

There will be four new members of the Commission. The first order of business, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary, will be the selection of the chairman, Herbert Frenley of Houston, who has been chairman, has been replaced on the Commission.

The new appointments announced just before Christmas by Governor Price Daniel are: Carl L. DuPuy, Lufkin; H. A. Walsh, El Paso; J. F. Corley, Houston; W. O. Reed of Dallas. The five remaining members of the Commission are: Frank M. Wood, Wichita Falls; Ben. F. Vaughan, Jr., Corpus Christi; Hal Peterson, Kerrville; Howard Carney, Atlanta; Robert G. Carr of San Angelo.

Among the items on the agenda will be a decision as to whether or not to continue a charge of 50c per bird for distribution from the State Game Farm at Tyler, Texas. The Commission also will hear a proposal that a waterfowl sanctuary be established on Matagorda and on St. Joseph Island, owned by Toddie Lee Wynne of Dallas and Perry Bass of Fort Worth respectively. It also is proposed that a waterfowl refuge be established on a publicly owned portion of a part of the upper Laguna Madre.

The Commission also will study a proposal to operate 12,000 acres of Government owned land in Comal County under a game management license. U. S. engineers now are in process of constructing dam across Guadalupe River in this area, which carries a heavy white-tailed deer population.

United Fund To Provide Aid To Polio Victims

Since Munday has gone "The United Way," there will be no separate drive for the March of Dimes in Munday, and Mrs. John Peysen, who was named local chairman by the county campaign director, stated she would not serve in this capacity.

Last year, over $1,000 was raised through the United Drive and was offered to the polio foundation. This was rejected because the money was not raised through the March of Dimes drive.

This money, together with a portion raised in this year's drive, has been set up as a Munday Polio Fund, to be used locally as the need arises. A committee to decide on use of the fund is composed of the following:

Dr. D. C. Elland, Dr. R. L. Newson, A. L. (Pop) Smith, M. L. Wiggins and Travis Lee.

QUAIL HUNTS END

With the close of the general quail season, Saturday, Jan. 16, all game hunting for the 1959-60 season is over. Rabbits are legal game throughout the state; squirrels in a few areas, but all other game hunting will be in violation, according to the director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission. Shooting, however, will remain open on legal preserves until March 31.
