WHERE U. S. IS FAR AHEAD

Readers of reports which say or intimate that the Soviet Union is soon to overtake us in the all-important field of electric power production should reach for the salt cellar.

There's no doubt that the Russians are engaged in an all-out drive to expand their production. But, measured by our standards, they have a long, long way to go.

Financial World recently dealt with the situation clearly and briefly. Studies made during two trips to the Soviet Union by American experts revealed this, in the magazine's words: "The U. S. is far ahead in power capacity with 183 million kilowatts as against an estimated 53 million for Russia. Moreover, we should stay ahead—projections for 1965 call for 245 million kw for the U. S. compared with the Soviet goal of 110 to 112 million kw.

"Russia has built or is building five atom power plants with a total capacity of 565,000 kw. In the U. S. the electric power industry is participating in 16 projects with a total of 1.4 million kw. (In both countries, the cost of producing energy from the atom is greater than from conventional fuels.)"

Moreover, this assumes that Russia's productive goals will be met as scheduled, which remains to be seen. But even if they are, there is no reason to believe that she can come close to us in electric output, much less surpass us, in the foreseeable future.

JEFFERSON, OHIO, GAZETTE: "A survey of some nine hundred communities recently revealed that youngsters stand a better chance of living a crime-free life if they come from rural areas, or from small cities, than if they are reared in metropolitan areas . . .

"All of which goes to prove, once again, that the strength of America lies in rural areas and in small towns, where close family ties, an orderly and supervised life, and the basic, traditional values of society, are still more keenly appreciated."

In 1913, the Tax Foundation tells us, federal government tax collections came to about $35 million, which was collected at the rate of $67 a minute. In 1959 tax collections amounted to about $59 billion, collected at the rate of $111.912 a minute.

UNFAIR BURDEN

Writing in the Union Bridge, Maryland, Pilot, William Feather says: "During a wakeful hour in the night, I got an answer to why business has lost so much in public esteem in recent decades. The reason is that business has become a gigantic tax collector for the government. Business collects the employee's income tax, the social security payment, and the gasoline, tobacco, liquor, entertainment, sales and all other excise taxes. On top of this, business collects its own profits tax by a necessary levy on consumers. What it all adds up to is that business takes and Congress gives. At least so it seems to most of us.

"Is this good? It is not, but I can devise no way around it. The lawmakers have found a relatively painless method for collecting tax money. They will not alter it. Meanwhile, business (or capitalism, if you please) takes an undeserved beating. Without private enterprise, the economy would be sunk; yet enterprise is loaded with new, expensive and distasteful chores at every meeting of minds in Washington, state capitals, and city halls."

CLARISSA, MINN., INDEPENDENT: "Adlai E. Stevenson candidly declared he would rather serve under the British than the American political system. He prefers the Parliamentary system because the spokesman for the opposition is always on the floor of the House of Commons and there is more party discipline. Our political system, he avers, is based on local rather than national politics. He's right about this last, but in such a big country, regional problems must be represented to create cohesion. The president speaks for the nation as a whole"

LAWRENCEVILLE, VA., NEWS: "The Internal Revenue Service recently ruled that certain advertisements by private power companies, advertisements which discussed public power companies, could not be deducted as a business expense by the private power companies . . .

"We . . . believe that the private power companies have a perfect right to . . . decide what is legitimate advertising expense and what is not—not the Internal Revenue Service of the U. S. Government. If the Service can do this to the private power industry, it can intimidate many other major industries and curtail freedom of expression and opinion to an alarming degree."

In Topeka, on a Sunday night with rain threatening to start at any moment, I wandered along almost deserted streets not long ago — my first visit to the capital city of Kansas.

Thoughts of my study of American history came to mind; the bloody clashes between the forces that wanted Kansas to come into the Union as a free state and those who wanted it admitted as a slave state.

And you will never guess what I saw. Within sight of the Capitol was a theater called the Jayhawk and it was showing — "Uncle Tom's Cabin"! I went in. It was a silent picture but was quite good — Eliza fleeing across the ice pursued by bloodhounds; the death of little Eva — (although the scene did not show her rising to heaven as the stage show I saw in Brinkley, Ark., in a tent in boyhood, did); and Simon Legree, one of the most villainous villains ever known.

The Jayhawk was showing a double feature. And what do you suppose the other one was? ("The Lone Texan" (which I was).

the rate he was going was reasonable and proper?

They are more severe in the Tall Corn state on another matter. Signs proclaim, "$100 fine or imprisonment for a disposal of litter on highway."

Vandeville patter: Lady singer, who quite obviously is no "spring chicken"; I'm 29. Comedian: I'll be born next Thursday.

 The Postman is just one of the many people who own the Electric Company.
 We are owned by people. Thousands of people, like the Postman, who invest their money and help us to grow.
 We are not owned or run by the city. Not by the state either. Not by any kind of government agency or co-operative. We are an independent investor owned business.
 This is an important reason why you get the best possible electric service at such a low price.

Miss Stewart And J. R. Booe Marry In Odessa Recently

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Booe are at home in Apartment 5, 1105 West 27th, Odessa, following their marriage in a simple ceremony at Temple Baptist Church in Odessa with Rev. Curtis Thorpe pastor, officiating for double ring vows. Mrs. Booe is the former Miss Alice Marie Stewart of Odessa.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Stewart of Plains and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Booe of Munday. Families and close friends were present for the wedding Saturday evening, May 28, in the parlor of the church.

The bride wore a street length dress with a very full orange tulle skirt pleated over a taffeta petticoat. Bracelet sleeves and round neckline of the lace bodice were faced with satin and a satin belt circled the waist. A pearl trimmed coronet held a short circular veil to her blond hair.

She was attended by Miss Joyce Gann of Odessa whose dress of apple green was worn with a matching bolero and white accessories including a flower headpiece. Edward Smith acted as best man for his brother-in-law.

A reception after the ceremony was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Broughton, Jr., of Odessa, where the two tiered cake topped with miniature bridal couple, was served with lime float.

The refreshment table was set against a wall where gilded candle sconces formed part of the decor. A pair of bud vases, each holding a single rose, was set beneath the candles. Sisters of the couple, Mrs. Edward Smith of Munday and Mrs. Leta Stewart of Plains were at the table. Miss June Gann registered the guests.

Mrs. Booe is a graduate of Plains High School and a Lubbock business college and is presently employed in the Odessa American's circulation department. J. R. Booe is a graduate of Munday High School and served two years in the U. S. Coast Guard.

Can Hummingbirds Read?

Instinct is a powerful and wonderful thing. It has been the salvation of many living creatures, and recent experiments with hummingbirds have thrown some interesting sidelights on it.

These tiny birds pump their wings at blurring speeds and burn energy at a faster rate than other warm blooded creatures... thirty times as fast as humans.

Where do the birds get this tremendous store of energy? It comes from nectar... a mixture of sugars formed naturally in flowers.

One ornithologist, Walker Van Riper of the Denver Museum of Natural History, offered hummingbirds a choice between a sugar solution and one containing a synthetic sweetening agent.

After weeks of observations, Mr. Van Riper reported: "A bird that tried the synthetic first took one dip, backed up with a little shudder (which is characteristic for something that tastes bad) then flew to the sugar cup. After a few tries, practically all the birds flew directly to the sugar."

Mr. Van Riper ascribed the "little shudder" to the taste factors involved. The birds did not like the synthetic taste. But another aspect could be instinct... hummingbirds have no stomach for foods whose nutritional value is reckoned at zero and the shudder undoubtedly expressed their feelings.

lution from births alone of 20.2 per cent for the preceding decade between 1940-1950, the Department said.

A mental retardation research and evaluation center will shortly be opened within the Texas Medical Center in Houston, under auspices of the Texas State Department of Health, Baylor University College of Medicine, and the U. S. Children's Bureau.

Complete physical and psychological examinations will be made of all children accepted for service, sponsors said. The clinic's staff will consist of a medical director, medical social worker, psychologist, and a public health nurse.

Project sponsors said funds amounting to some $65,000 to $75,000 annually are presently on hand to operate the clinic for five years, after which its future will be contingent on the availability of additional money.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

Births outpaced deaths by a ratio of 3.5 to one in Texas last year, provisional State Department of Health figures show.

The Department's section on records and statistics counted a total of 248,700 births for 1959, as against 73,753 deaths. That's an increase of 174,947 births over deaths during the 12-month period.

The 1959 births represents an increase of 3,194 over the 245,606 births recorded during 1958. State Health Department statisticians described the 1958 birth rate as the "lowest in several years," but do not speculate as to the reason.

The 1958-1959 death rate re-

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds That Business Men Don't Keep Posted On The Very Latest Economic Trends

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek apparently doesn't have a full understanding of what the price index is. His letter this week indicates.

ple keep up with the economic trends.

For example, I read in a copy of a newspaper day before yesterday that living costs rose four-tenths of one per cent in April, as reflected by the consumers price index, a set of figures put out by the U. S. government.

As a result of this, the article explained, nearly a million workers in the auto, farm equipment and related parts industries got an automatic 2-cents-an-hour pay raise. Their contracts call for adjustments based on the government's consumers price index.

Well, now, I figured, I'm in the auto and farm equipment business, so to speak, especially the parts end of it, so naturally I concluded I was supposed to get a pay raise too, and since nobody pays me by the hour out here on this Johnson grass farm, the only way I could see how to get a pay increase was to raise the price of things I sell.

I don't know how long it takes for a hen to lay a dozen eggs, but I figured on the basis of that 2-cents-an-hour boost the others were getting, me and my hens would settle for 2-cents-a-dozen increase, which ought to be cheap enough, so I automatically marked up the price that much, and took some to town.

Like I said, the trouble with this country is not enough business people keep up with the economic trends. I couldn't find an egg dealer in this part of the state who'd ever heard of the government's consumers price index. When I said the price of my eggs is now 2 cents a dozen higher they looked at me like they thought I was crazy.

What I figure is we've got a lot of business people in this country who don't keep up with the economic trends, or else they're still using the same price index they had pasted on their office walls twenty-five years ago.

You've got a printing press somewhere there in The Times office, haven't you? How about printing up a bunch of these new price indexes and distributing them around the country?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SOUTHERN AGRICULTURE CONFERENCE IN TEXAS

One of the most important agricultural caucuses of the 1960 presidential election year, the annual meeting of the 14-state Southern Commissioners of Agriculture, will be held June 10-13 at the Hilton Hotel in San Antonio with the Texas Department of Agriculture as hosts.

The San Antonio session will mark the first time the Southern commissioners ever have met in Texas as a group, and a cooperative effort among all phases of Texas agriculture is being extended to make their visit memorable.

This 1960 meeting of the commissioners will hold special significance because it comes only a month in advance of the Democratic national convention and will, in effect, amount to a Democratic Party agricultural caucus. The Southern group can be expected to speak out in definite terms on what they feel is most needed in terms of political action by agriculture in their region.

A list of nationally prominent speakers is slated to address the meeting, and an extensive program of entertainment has been arranged.

Agriculture Commissioner S. E. (SD) Corley of Mississippi is president of the Southern commissioners, and in accordance with precedent the Texas Agriculture Commissioner, now vice president, is due to be made president at the 1960 session. Membership of the Southern Commissioners of Agriculture includes the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia, in addition to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Virtually all of these are due to be represented at the San Antonio meeting.

Decisions reached at the San Antonio session may, in effect, become the basis of what will emerge as planks in the agricultural platform of the Democratic Party nationally for the 1960 election. Each of the commissioners is regarded as a party leader in his own state, and several have expressed the hope that in this meeting a Democratic program may be developed which will reverse what they regard as some of the ruinous farm policies of the present administration.

The commissioners and their staffs will begin arriving in San Antonio on Friday, June 10; and their sessions will continue through most of the day on Monday, June 13.

Group Develops Quail Program In Panhandle

Approximately 55 landowners in Parmer County near Farwell have joined in a cooperative program for quail production this year, according to W. J. Cutbirth, Jr., assistant executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

Working with County Agent Joe W. Jones, landowners have signed agreements to plant quail from the State game farm, under the direction of the Parmer County Game Management Association. The property now is being inspected by Game Warden Pat Donnelly, as is required before quail can be released from the hatchery.

According to County Agent Jones, the association has bought 125 Game Cooperator signs which will be placed on fences of the landowners participating in the program.

Much of the land involved is in the open range country bordering the New Mexico boundary. Approximately, 400,000 acres of land is under irrigation in Parmer County, it being one of the principal grain sorghum producing areas of the State.

Programs of this kind are encouraged by the Commission, according to Mr. Cutbirth. Birds are provided at 50 cents each, which is approximately half the production cost at the Tyler Hatchery. It is expected that some 60,000 birds will be produced there this year for landowners who want to re-stock their places and can qualify with feed and cover.

Guar Is Good Summer Legume

Guar, a drought resistant dual-purpose summer legume is well adapted to the climate of Texas, said R. D. Staten, assistant agronomist of the Texas A & M College System. Staten said that three varieties of guar — Texsel, Groehler and Mesa—are all excellent summer legumes for the State.

Staten also said guar is resistant to cotton root rot, is a dependable producer of high yields of forage and seed, is a valuable livestock feed and increases yield of the crop which follows it.

Texsel and Groehler guar consistently produce high yields of seed and are used more frequently for seed production than for forage. Mesa produces large yields of vegetative matter and is valuable as a green manure crop or for silage.

Guar is adapted to a wide range of soil types, but thrives best on medium-textured and sandy types. The major area for guar seed production is west of the 35-inch rainfall line.

Miss Phyllis Booe is spending several days this week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. August Stavinoha, in Seymour.

Mrs. T. I. Phillips returned home last Saturday from Fort Worth where she had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Duane Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Fatheree.
