CAN'T MAKE 'EM BUY

People have a considerable degree of control over the amounts they pay in sales taxes and excise taxes. They can refuse to buy the commodities taxed—or buy in smaller quantity.

That has proven true with the most highly taxed of all necessities—gasoline. The gas tax, state and federal combined, now averages more than 10 cents a gallon—which is just about equal to the before-tax cost of the fuel. And a new study shows that the steady increase in gasoline taxation has done to consumption.

There have been 48 separate state gasoline tax increases in the past decade. In 37 instances, says the study, the ensuing years showed a decline in the anticipated growth rate of gasoline consumption.

The study also suggests that increases in the federal gasoline tax, which is now four cents a gallon, have also adversely affected the growth rate. For instance, in 1959, after latest one-cent federal increase, 39 states, according to preliminary estimates, showed a drop in their growth rate.

Very recently, the soaring sales of compact automobiles, foreign and domestic, indicate the trend. A primary appeal of these cars is reduced gasoline consumption. The price of gas—which is the result of exorbitant taxation—has undoubtedly sold legions of buyers on the smaller, more economical cars.

What it all adds up to is that taxes, like so many other things, can reach a point of diminishing returns. Governments can raise the rates to any level—but they can't stop the citizen from buying less and less. The gas tax is a fine example of this truism.

KEEP ONE EYE AT HOME

An ancient adage tells us that "When the cat's away the mice will play." A rough paraphrase might go thus: "When the attention of the majority of people is distracted by far-off events, minority groups have a chance for a field day."

That is certainly true at the present time. Inevitably, in this period of rising world tension, we look afar: To Cuba, to Latin America as a whole where our position is the most precarious in a century; to Laos, to Africa, to Vietnam, to Berlin. But we cannot afford to neglect the problems that lie on our own doorstep.

The advocates of the welfare state, and of the socializing processes that are a part of it, have never been more restless, eager, dedicated and confident. In a dozen diverse fields ranging from medical care to a farm program, and to the production and distribution of electric power, they have specific proposals which, one way or another, sooner or later, would give the government control, direction or ownership of the productive energies of this nation, and would subject us all to the never-tender mercies of an incredibly vast bureaucracy. The cost in treasure would be uncontrollable. The cost in lost liberty, and the undermining of individual character, would be infinite.

Each of us has two eyes. One must be kept focused at home.

BILLIONS FOR ACCOUNTING

The following editorial is reproduced from The American Press, an independent magazine for home town newspapers:

"It would be interesting to know how many billions of dollars are poured into the offices of accountants and lawyers for the purpose of figuring out income taxes.

"It would also be interesting to know what percentage of the money collected by the government is paid out for keeping tax records and making tax investigations.

"Certainly if the money spent for these purposes could somehow be steered into the U. S. Treasury, it would balance the budget for years to come.

"We don't know just how the necessary simplification could be brought about to make the paying of taxes an easy and understandable operation, but we think it is about time an effort in that direction was made. Each year we hear that the Senate and House committees on taxation are planning to re-write the tax laws, and each year nothing happens.

"If President Kennedy is looking for ways to stimulate business, here is a field which is crying for attention. We are not necessarily asking for tax cuts, but for understandable, simple, 'do it yourself' tax reports. We would all pay our taxes more cheerfully if we didn't have that extra burden of paying people to interpret the laws and fill in the reports for us."

Since the turn of the century, according to the Health Information Foundation, the number of active professional nurses in this country has increased from less than 1,000 to 504,000. It also says that in recent years the nation's supply of health workers—physicians, dentists, nurses, and others—has grown more rapidly than the population as a whole.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

AUSTIN—Texas consumers of foods, drugs and cosmetics will come out on the long end of an almost completely new state law which goes into effect late next month.

The new law, aimed at consumer protection against adulteration, mislabeling and false advertising, was passed by the 57th session of the State Legislature with strong support of a major segment of the food, drug, and cosmetics industry.

It becomes effective August 28, and represents the first major overhaul of the State's basic food and drug law in more than 50 years.

State health authorities say the law is as good as in force anywhere in the nation. It puts Texas on the side of the proponents of uniformity in state food and drug laws.

The old law made no provision for checking on the wholesomeness of cosmetics, whereas the new act requires truthful advertising, complete labeling as to ingredients, forbids the use of harmful ingredients, and requires that products be produced and held under sanitary conditions.

The law also brings therapeutic devices under control by outlawing worthless contrivances such as "cancer belts" and "arthritis rings" and similar quack appliances which take advantage of the desperation of afflicted people.

Under present Texas law the use of certain additives in food or drink is illegal. But after August 28 it will be permissible to use additives to enhance taste, color, texture or preservative qualities of certain foods. However, the burden of proving the additive is not injurious to human health will be on the manufacturer rather than on the enforcement agency as has been the case heretofore.

"Advances in food and drink technology over the past several years indicate a definite place in the food industry for chemical additives," says Joe F. Lakey, director of the State Health Department's food and drug division.

The department takes its task of consumer protection seriously, Lakey says. Division inspectors had supervised the destruction of 997,978 pounds of food as unfit for human use in the period between September 1, 1958 and August 1, 1960. He listed water, fire, rodent and insect damage as some reasons for condemnations.

"I wonder why our Electric service (bill) is higher this month?"

HERE'S GOOD NEWS!
 In homes served by WTU, the average cost of a kWh of service is 20% less than it was 10 years ago.

Beg pardon lady, but aren't you enjoying the big reason why?

OVER there in the window. Isn't that air conditioner new this summer? Naturally, every time you get some new electric servant you use more electricity. Naturally, your bill will be a little higher. But remember these two facts about the electric service you now enjoy:

First, you do use more electricity for the simple reason that it's about the most efficient and dependable servant you can get! Second, the more electricity you use, the less you pay for it per average kilowatt-hour.

Can you think of a bigger bargain?

Vigilance Against Surprise Attack

Hoegh Explains Warning Network

The surprise which an enemy achieved in the Pearl Harbor disaster cannot be repeated today, says Director Leo A. Hoegh of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

His job includes responsibility for operating the National Warning System (NAWAS), with its coast-to-coast network of 376 warning points.

A comparison of measures in effect Dec. 7, then and now, reveals preparedness progress:

THEN . . .
The air attack warning system guarding Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, consisted of five mobile radar sets. Their limit of detection, about 130 miles. Liaison with civil defense—none. Personnel—newly-trained in radar operation. Alert status at moment of attack—in midst of training exercise, officially alerted only to possible sabotage. No air attack alert in effect. Contact with public information media—none. Warning time between moment of attack and first widespread public warning—30 minutes.

NOW . . .
In Dec. 1960, the entire North American continent is guarded by thousands of miles of radar nets and continuous air patrols that extend our detection system around the earth. These detec-

OCDM, Air Force officers at work in NORAD headquarters

tion outposts are linked directly to civil defense warning units which are tied to NAWAS warning points by safe communications. An approaching attack would trigger a nationwide CONELRAD ALERT from North American Air Defense (NORAD) headquarters, activating the civil defense emergency broadcast system comprising nearly 2,000 radio stations.

Personnel—warning officers with years of experience. Alert status—24-hour vigilance against air or sea attack. Contact with mass public information media—instantaneous, through radio-TV national networks and press wire systems. Warning time—90 seconds or less to every State.

NOW'S THE TIME to save more truck dollars on the more-for-your-dollar trucks!

Your truck dollars are worth a whole lot more at your Chevrolet dealer's right now! First off, you get a head start on saving because summer's the saving season. Then, with a harder working, easier riding Chevy truck, you're set to save every mile you haul. And, finally, at trade-in time, you can expect an extra dividend because of Chevy's traditionally higher resale value. What could be better?

Summer's the season to get extra mileage from your dollars on the trucks built to give you extra miles of hauling. With Independent Front Suspension, Chevrolet trucks keep going thousands of miles longer because far less destructive jar and shake are transmitted through the truck. Chevy I.F.S. trucks work harder, too, in areas where other trucks have to be pampered. And, with Chevy's wide choice of thrifty 6 and hardy V8 power, you can tailor your truck exactly to your job. Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out Against Nationwide Zoning Law For His Johnson Grass Farm

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek probably is misconstruing the matter he's discussing this week. It's not the first time.

J. A.

Dear editor: Whenever a city gets a certain size, say big enough to have uniformed policemen and one-way streets, the next step naturally is what's called zoning, which, as I understand it, gives the city the right to decide what sort of building can be put up in any given area. This idea started out I think to keep livery stables from going up next door to ice cream parlors and saloons next to churches, and is used now to keep supermarkets from invading residential sections, junk yards away from city parks, etc.

What brought this up was an article I read in a newspaper clipping somebody sent me through the mail, reporting a government official in Washington has demanded that what this country now needs is a nationwide zoning system to prevent further losses of America's agriculturally productive lands.

According to him, about a million acres of productive land are being taken for such things as highways, airports and housing projects every year, and he thinks all the land ought to be zoned so this thing can be headed off.

At first I thought this was a good idea, anybody can figure that a million acres a year, if kept up very long, would eliminate farming and therefore eating, although you can say this for it, it certainly would solve the farm problem.

But if Washington gets the right to decide which land can be used for a housing project, which land has to stay in cultivation, it wouldn't be far to the point where it could decide not only which land has to stay in cultivation, but how it should be cultivated, or even worse, how often. This is where I draw the line.

If city people want to give their city government the right to decide whether you can open up a T. V. repair shop in your garage or a beauty shop in your spare room, that's entirely their business, but the last thing I want is Washington zoning this Johnson grass farm and telling me I can't graze cows in my front yard or that my propped up fences and sagging gates don't meet the nationwide zoning standards.

Yours faithfully
J. A.

The Munday Times

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Jack Moore, Knox County Agent

Grain Sorghum Tour

The Knox County Grain Committee has planned a tour of some of the variety tests that are located in the county. The tour will be held on Aug. 3rd starting at 1:30 p.m. Mr. Ben Spears, Extension Agronomist, will be on hand to discuss the production of sorghums and some of the latest results in tests in the state and what research is working on.

The tour will start in the Munday area and three demonstration plots will be visited. It is also planned to visit a grain sorghum fertilizer demonstration plot. A meeting and gathering place for the tour will be announced later. Varieties that are in the test plots are 7078, 610, 608, TE55, TE66, E56a, C45, NK210, NK135, NK140, Red Raider A, Ranger and several experimental Agron varieties from Northrup King that they plan to place on the market next year if they stand up under field test this year.

The crops committee is composed of Arnold Navratil as chairman and the members are Gaylon Scott, Sam Leaverton, Fuller Shannon, Billy Mitchell and Lester Hickman.

Brucellosis Law

Baylor, Brown, Concho, Cottle, King, Nolan and Taylor counties qualified for modified certification in June. This brings the list of certified counties to about 62 and there are 73 and a portion of a 74th county now under the regulated areas. Hardeeman, Mills, Hays and Travis counties will become control areas at varying times during September.

4-H Boy's Camp

Eight boys from Knox County attended the District 3 boys camp held this week at Buffalo Gap. They joined boys from the other counties in this district and concluded the camp with a tour of Dyess Airforce Base.

The boys were Charles McAnair, and Skeet McGaughey from Benjamin, Leonard Edrington and Rickie Herring from Rhineland, Chuck Roberts and Don Hicks from Goree, John Lee Nelson from the Sunset 4-H Club and Dean Partridge from the Munday club.

This camp started at 9:30 a.m. on the 25th and concluded with the tour of the air force base from 2:40 p.m. on the 26th.

1961 Cotton Defoliation Guide

The new cotton defoliation guide L145 is now available in the county agent's office. The guide gives a list of recommended material and rates of application.

Effective March 5, 1960, defoliants and desiccants came under the regulations of Public Law 518; however, Public Law 87-19, enacted April 7, 1961, further extends the effective date of enforcement of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act as it concerns selected defoliants and desiccants.

No claim is made that the list is complete and others may be added as extensions are granted under the regulations of Public Law 518 and Public Law 87-19. Use of the chemicals listed below in 1961, therefore, is not recommended unless they meet the requirements of Public Law 518 or have been granted an extension to permit their use during 1961. Availability of these chemicals may thus depend upon compliance with this law.
