Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

As most of you know, the Texas Legislature is now in special session, trying to solve the state's tax problems.

At the beginning of the regular session, we had made an off-hand prediction in talking with friends that we in Texas would wind up with some sort of sales tax or a tax on incomes in order to raise the money for state's needs.

We were not advocating either, however, but we realize that additional monies must be had from some place and that almost everything else taxable is already being taxed. Whatever is taxed, in our opinion, it's generally the consuming public that finally foots the tax bill.

Since the regular session failed to come up with a feasible tax method, the Governor has called this special session for the purpose of raising the money for Texas' needs.

The legislators realize that the "pill that will probably be dished out" is just as bitter as a pill can become. All of us feel that we're just about taxed to the hilt, but believe that more are coming.

Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe sent us a letter, or new item, this week entitled "Why Are More Taxes Necessary?" and he attempts to point out why. We thought it will that you share his views with us, so we are running them below:

Texas is not the only state which has financial troubles. Twenty-four other states have already passed new tax laws this year and twelve others probably will do so before the year's end.

Among the reasons for new taxes in Texas are the growth of state services and the falling off in oil revenue. Oil wells are only allowed to produce 8 days per month at this time. Not many years ago they could produce 30 days per month.

The record breaking increase in the state's population is the principal reason why more taxes are necessary. Each year there is students in the public school system and also a heavy increase in college enrollment.

It costs about $275 per year per pupil to operate the public schools. Thus the nearly 100,000 pupil increase per year calls for 27 million dollars more each year for the state's public school system, of which the state pays 81 per cent.

It costs about $700 per student per year to operate the colleges, of which a student provides a little over $100. These figures do not include the $810 per year salary raise for teachers which is now pending in the Legislature.

The twenty-three state hospitals and eleemosynary institutions are becoming more crowded each year. New buildings, more employees, doctors and attendants must be provided for them. The penitentiary now has more inmates than ever before,—due to population and crime increase.

The price of all supplies, food, medicine, etc. bought by the state constantly creeps upward. These figures call for more tax revenue each year. Old age assistance payments plus aid to the blind and totally disabled persons now total 47 million dollars per year from state funds. Twenty years ago this figure was approximately 18 million dollars.

Texas is now one of the few states that has neither a state income tax nor a wide-based general sales tax. Since revenue from oil and some other sources is falling off, it is obvious that new sources of revenue must be found. This is what the present session of the Legislature is trying to do. It is neither a pleasant nor an easy job. Most members would much prefer not to vote for new taxes. It is a bitter pill to have to do so. All of us would welcome practical and workable suggestions as to what should be done.

Another birthday's done slipped up on us. Last week the Munday Times kinda unconsciously completed its 56th year of publication, and the new figures, Vol. 57, No. 1, appear in the upper corners of the paper. We'll try to make it through another year, hoping, of course, it's better than the last.

Plans For Constructing A New Post Office Building Here Are Announced

Plans to build a new building for the Post Office in Munday were announced recently by Postmaster General J. Edward Day. "The new building," Mr. Day said, "will implement President Kennedy's program to stimulate the economy and at the same time carry out the Post Office Department's objective of more efficient postal service and improved working conditions for postal employees."

"The President's accelerated program," the Postmaster General pointed out, "calls for the construction and modernization of postal facilities throughout the nation, with private industry investing the capital to build new facilities for lease to the Department during this year. In addition, contingent upon the availability of funds, the Post Office Department is going ahead with the modernization of postal space in Federal buildings."

Accidents Cause $8,300 Damages; Five Injured

The Highway Patrol investigated 4 accidents on Rural Highways in Knox County during the month of June, according to Sgt. Frank Jirik Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for five persons injured, and a property damage of $8,300.00.

The Rural Traffic Accident Summary for Knox County during January through June 1961 shows a total of 20 crashes. As a result of these crashes there were 10 persons injured and no persons killed. The estimated property damage amounted to $15,935.00. This compares with the first six months of 1960's total of 23 Rural crashes injuring 5 people, killing one person and causing an estimated property damage of $17,645.00.

The Sgt. advised that the summer Slow Down and Live Campaign emphasizes the need for motorists to control their driving speed. Speed control is vital to safety, because of the overcrowded conditions of the highways caused by thousands and thousands of vacation travelers, most of whom are in a big hurry, since vacation time is usually all too short. That hurry attitude frequently steers them into speeding violations — or, worse than that, a serious accident—even death itself!

Several seniors of the First Methodist Church are attending a church camp at Camp Butnam, near Merkel, this week. Mrs. Charles Baker accompanied them to camp.

The camp, which opened at 2 p.m. Monday, is scheduled to close about 1 p.m. Friday. The theme of the camp is "Living Together as Christians."

Rev. Jarrell Sharp, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Knox City, is camp director.

Mrs. Davila, 56 Dies Thursday

Mrs. Elivere Davila, 56, a resident of Munday since 1927, passed away at 3:45 a.m. Thursday in the Knox County Hospital. She had been ill with cancer, and had been hospitalized for 11 days prior to her death.

She moved here from Pecos and was married in March, 1923, at Aspermont.

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. Friday from the Assembly of God Church in Munday. Burial was in Johnson Memorial Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home.

Survivors include her husband, Manuel Davila; four sons, Joe of the home; Alfred, Robert and Albert; seven daughters, Adeline of the home, Mrs. Minnie Ramirez, Mrs. Ester Ramoz, Mrs. Lucy Lopez, Mrs. Mary Aparaca, Mrs. Margaret Rodriguez and Mrs. Anne Maldonia; two step-children; 28 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The building in Munday will be located at the northeast corner of the intersection of "G" Street and Ninth Avenue, facing south.

The Postmaster General said the building will be constructed under the Department's commercial leasing program, which utilizes the resources and investment funds of private enterprise for the needed postal buildings.

The Department's capital investment, Mr. Day said, will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership while leased to the Federal Government, and the owner will pay local real estate taxes.

Plans and specifications for the new building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the Post Office Department will advertise for bids. The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the Department on a long term basis.

Dollars And Sense

Tips on buying meat: Get on speaking terms with the many cheaper cuts of beef, pork, veal and lamb.

Price has nothing to do with the nutritive value of meat. The lower priced cuts are usually as tasty and rich in vitamins, protein and other nutrients as the higher priced cuts. Method of preparation is important.

Look for the largest amount of lean meat for your price. Fat and bone are useful, but they can be purchased at a lower price.

Improper cooking of meat can offset gains in wise planning and shopping.

Buy roasts large enough to serve two meals. Small roasts dry out in cooking and do not carry well.

Purchase canned meat for variety. Canned meat packed with vegetables is not an economical buy.

The percentage of waste, when figuring the cost of lean meat, varies from nothing in flank steak and tenderloin to about 11 percent in porterhouse, 16 percent in sirloin, 20 percent in chuck and about 27 percent in rump with the bone left out.

Mrs. C. N. Howard and Becky visited Mrs. Howard's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cannon, in Wichita Falls over the week end. Mr. Cannon received a broken leg in an accident some five months ago. They also visited Mrs. Coy Tuggle in the General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Bridgewater and sons, Rickey and Ray Lynn, of Fort Worth visited her mother, Mrs. C. N. Smith, and other relatives over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Kincaid and children of Fresno, Calif., visited her niece, Mrs. Al Cartwright, and family last Friday.

Partridge Named To State Agency

Don Partridge, son of Mrs. Emmett Partridge of Munday, and teacher in the Corpus Christi schools since 1957, was recently named a consultant with the Texas Education Agency in Austin. He will assume his duties on August 1.

He will fill a new post opened in the TEA to help work out a statewide program for educable mentally retarded students in junior and senior high schools. He was requested for the job by Charles S. Eskridge, head of the division of special education in the TEA.

He has a bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Texas. He also attended Texas A&I College and the American College at Washington, D. C.

The new job for junior and high school consultant results because the state recognizes a greater need for working out a program for mentally retarded in these schools.

THE ISSUE IS QUALITY

A high government official recently said on a televised broadcast, that the American Medical Association has been trying to frighten the American people by describing the proposal to provide government paid medical benefits to everyone drawing social security benefits as a form of socialized medicine. The AMA has replied—and most effectively.

The official's attack, it said, amounts to a deliberate effort "to impugn the motives and integrity of America's physicians." Then, on specific grounds, it answered the official's claim that the bill "does not include doctors. The bill definitely includes physicians. It includes interns, residents . . . those physicians serving the hospital's out-patient clinics. It also specifically includes pathologists, radiologists, psychiatrists, and anesthesiologists working in the hospitals."

The official also said that the bill offers free choice of hospital and physician. This is misleading, for only hospital signing contracts with the government would be available to patients. If the only hospital in a community was not approved by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, local patients would be forced to seek hospitalization elsewhere. This hardly sustains the principle of free choice.

The AMA's position is summed up in these words: "Because physicians are concerned with the care of their patients, they will continue to warn the people of any proposal which, in their honest opinion, would endanger the quality of medical care."

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

By R. A. Lull, Industrial News Review
 There has been much criticism of the prices charged for prescription drugs. The writer of this piece, as a layman, hasn't the slightest personal knowledge as to whether these criticisms are justified or not.
 But he has just had an illuminating experience. He was struck with a sudden infection, diagnosed as an exceedingly severe case of erysipelas complicated by other disorders of a serious nature. There was severe pain, along with temperatures running to 104 degrees.

The treatment consisted primarily of heavy doses of antibiotics. Within three days infection and temperature were gone, and convalescence began.

As a matter of curiosity he asked the doctor, who is also an old friend, what would have happened in the same circumstances 50 years ago.

The doctor answered: "You don't have to go back that far. Even when I started to practice, within the last 20-years, you'd probably have been dead in 24 hours. We didn't have the weapons to fight with."

The modern antibiotics used, bought at retail in a prescription pharmacy, cost something like $6.00.

FARM SAFETY: A YEAR 'ROUND JOB

We Americans seem to need an official "week" each year to remind us of things we really should practice every week of every year.

There's nothing wrong with the idea—the official reminder usually proves helpful—but too often too many people will substitute one week's observance for a year's practice.

National Farm Safety Week, to be celebrated July 23-29 this year, is a perfect example of a "week" that should be considered a continual part of rural life. Especially is that true in this area in which agriculture plays such a leading role in our economic life. It is just plain good sense to avoid the suffering and economic losses resulting from farm accidents.

Cosponsored on the national level by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and on the state level by the Texas Farm & Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Farm Bureau and the Extension Service, the 18th annual Farm Safety Week has as its theme, "Safety Is a Family Affair." The Times is glad to be among the many newspapers helping in the campaign to draw attention to the need for the year 'round observance of safety practices on the farms and ranches.

Accidents in American farm homes take about 2,700 lives a year, according to the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, and some 3,400 persons are killed each year doing farm work. This is in addition to the 4,700 farm residents who died on the highways in nonwork accidents.

If we think of safe practices as a means of doing things, rather than as a set of do's and don'ts, accident prevention will become a way of life—a way of that will preserve the lives of farm families.

Let's make every week Farm Safety Week.

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By JAMES BALLMARK

Must one be a member of the church to be saved? This question has been the subject of much discussion and consequently much misunderstanding with many persons. I am convinced that the answer to this vital question is clearly set forth in the Word of God. I beg your consideration of the following scriptural facts in this regard.

In his letter to the church at Ephesus, the apostle Paul states that Christ is the saviour of the church. "For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church; and he is the SAVIOUR OF THE BODY." (Eph. 5:23). Paul makes it clear that the "body" referred to is the church. "And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is the body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all." (Eph. 1:22-23). Therefore, it is apparent that if we are to be saved we must be in the body, or church, for that is what Christ has promised to save. There is no promise of salvation to those outside the church. It is in the body that we are reconciled to God (Eph. 2:16). There can be no reconciliation outside the body.

You can become a member of the Lord's church in the same way that Christians of the first century did. First, you must hear the gospel. "Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." (Acts 2:37-38). "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized; and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand and souls." (Acts 2:41). "And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." (Acts 2:47b). Have you met these conditions? This is the apostolic message proclaimed by churches of Christ everywhere.

Says Today's Bread Is Better

Cleveland, O.—Grandmother's crusty bread was far behind today's enriched white bread in nutrients needed by individuals, according to Dr. Henry Borsook, nationally-known nutritionist.

Because of enrichment, "bread became far more nutritious than bread had ever been before," Dr. Borsook said. He is from the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena.

Enrichment is the addition of the B vitamins of niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and the mineral iron to white bread and flour.

Dr. Borsook spoke at a special dinner held in connection with the annual convention in Cleveland of the American Home Economics Association.

The dinner was held to serve the 20th anniversary year of the enrichment program for white bread and flour. The enrichment program began in 1941.

Dr. Borsook said that grandmother's bread rated high in nostalgia but not in nutrition. Today's enriched white bread is greatly superior in its contributions of the B vitamins, iron and calcium.

He noted that enrichment is credited with definitely helping the general level of health in the United States as well as helping to all but wipe out certain vitamin deficiency diseases.

"Before the bread enrichment program, our white bread, as a result of the milling process, was on the low side in iron and in Vitamin B1 (thiamine)," Dr. Borsook explained.

"It didn't have much Vitamin B2 (riboflavin) to start with (anyhow), and it was on the low side in niacin. Since it is immaterial what the source of an essential nutrient is, we recommended adding certain essential nutrients and now enriched white bread is a very nutritious food."

It's the Law in TEXAS

Rover's Last Romp

Rover, a Great Dane weighing 135 pounds, was owned by the people down the street. One evening Rover entered Mr. Brown's yard and savagely attacked his 35 pound Cocker Spaniel. It looked as if Rover was about to kill the smaller dog when a quick thinking neighbor frightened the larger dog away by firing a shotgun in the air.

Mr. Brown put his belly in Rover's dog in the car to rush him to the veterinarian's office. He had to let this driveway when he noticed Rover heading toward a small child. Thinking that the dog was about to attack the child, Brown drove his car into Rover, hitting him.

Rover had been an expensive dog, and his owner sued Brown for damages for what he claimed was the wrongful killing of his pet.

Did Mr. Brown have the right to kill Rover?

Yes, he did. The court held that a person can kill a dog for the purpose of defending himself or third persons against harm threatened by the animal. Rover's actions led Mr. Brown to know, or reasonably believe, that he could prevent an attack on the child only by killing the dog.

Brown also could have legally killed Rover at the time that he was attacking his dog. A landowner has no right to kill a dog which is merely trespassing, or even because it is engaged in a fight with his dog. However, if it reasonably appears that it is necessary to kill another dog to protect your dog from death or serious harm, or to protect yourself, your property or other persons from harm, then you may legally kill the dog.

The law will not permit you to kill a dog simply because you don't like its bark. Remember, a dog is still man's best friend.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Symbol of Freedom

Back in 1776 in this month of July, the original 13 colonies wrote and signed a Declaration which established them as free and independent states.

In the 185 years since then, the United States of America has grown to 50 states and has become the most powerful Nation on earth.

But of more significance today, in a world filled with turmoil, it stands as a mighty bulwark against tyranny and the threat of oppression.

We of General Telephone join with all freedom-loving Americans in expressing humble pride in our heritage and the principles of liberty for which it stands.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Claims Future Of The Family-Size Farm Is About As Secure As The World Is

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses the future of the family-size farm this week, without doing anything about his.

Dear editor:
The future of the so-called family farm has been discussed thoroughly back and forth in recent years, especially by big city newspapers and magazines trying to get their minds off the uncertain future of cities, and they all conclude that there's no point in trying to artificially prop up the family-type farm if it can't stand alone, without of course interfering with the urban renewal plans designed to prop up cities that can't stand alone.

It was therefore with a certain amount of puzzlement that I read an article by a columnist in a paper I found out here on this Johnson grass farm yesterday reporting that he had found out that the House Agricultural Committee in Washington had "voted that family farms should not be preserved."

The reason I'm puzzled is that I had no notion the future of this farm was in the hands of a committee in Washington. The power of the vote is tremendous, but I don't believe they've made the ballot yet that's strong enough to determine the future of this farm. As best I can tell, it's future is in my hands, and right now I ain't predicting which way it'll go. I'll take more than a vote by Congress to eradicate the Johnson grass out here, not to mention several other improvements staring me in the face.

Actually, I don't know what the future of the family-size farm is, but I doubt if it's any gloomier than the future of the nation-size or the world-size world. There's room for worry, any direction you want to look, and always has been.

Everybody talks about the unfair odds farmers are fighting, and it's true, and in many cases it's true that you don't make any money farming these days, still at the same time the picture isn't all black—some years you lose a lot less than you do the others.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Who Do Farm Programs Help Most?

How is it that the American farmer keeps getting it in the neck repeatedly and increasingly as being a burden on taxpayers, a depressant on the economy, a costly necessity for the nation?

It is most likely that those who malign the farmer as being a drain on the country's pocket-book don't realize that it is the public — not the farmer — who would pay most dearly if farm programs should be abolished.

What about surpluses? The fact that surpluses are produced — and that alone — holds retail prices for many foods as low as they are today. The slightest shortage would result in skyrocketing consumer prices.

This is but one instant in which farm programs work primarily for the public. Here are some others:

Water reservoirs and food control. The city dweller who lives near a river which used to wreak havoc by flooding probably doesn't realize the series of reservoirs which regulate the water in upper reaches of the river were charged to the farmer on whose land they are located. The farmer may get little or no benefit from the reservoirs—but they are charged to the farm program.

School lunches. Every citizen's child who eats at a public school cafeteria is benefitted by low-cost meals made up partially from surplus products given to the school and charged to the farm program.

Foreign aid and military assistance. Billions of dollars worth of foreign aid programs and military assistance for other countries are paid for with agricultural commodities, the cost of which is charged to farm programs.

Merchant Marine service. Fifty million dollars a year accrues to the Merchant Marine for transporting farm commodities to other countries.

The armed forces. How many people realize that part of the cost of the milk and dairy products used by our armed forces is charged against the farm program?

Forests. A billion forest trees a year are being planted on eroded and tired land. The farmer who plants those trees will not likely ever harvest any of them. The cost of all public reforestation is charged against agricultural appropriations.

Consumer services. Research on preparation and handling of food for the housewife's benefit is billed to the farm program. Inspection of meats and other food products, charged to the farm program, is primarily for the benefit of the non-farm population.

Conserving national resources. The soil and water of our land is our most vital possession. Nearly all the cost of conservation work on soil and water is charged to the farm program.

American agriculture has been called the greatest stabilizing influence in the world's economy. If we had not the assurance of abundant food in our nation, chaos would be felt throughout the world. That food supply must be sustained, for by sustaining it, we sustain ourselves and our families.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Phillips of Fort Worth spent last Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Griffith, enroute to Santa Fe, N. M., on their vacation.

Mrs. Freddie Morrow of Abilene and Mrs. Bill Henderson of Olton visited their mother, Mrs. Virginia Hutchenson, over the week end.

UNDERWATER GARDENER

AQUARENA, San Marcos, Texas — Rollie Caswell, shown here in aquatic attire, holds the extraordinary title of Underwater Gardener. His very unique occupation requires working at depths from 10 to 30 feet. The colorful and crystal clear San Marcos springs are viewed by thousands of Glass Bottom Boat sightseers each year and consequently the surrounding plant-life must be manually landscaped. In addition to a heavy rubber suit, Caswell wears a face plate for vision, swim fins for maneuverability and carries a plastic air tube for breathing in addition to a large machete for trimming. His work can also be classified as rather dangerous by certain complications and always arise when you're fifty feet down under.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Simpson of Dallas visited friends here last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hallmark were visitors in Abilene last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer Hobert visited their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Robnett, in Midland over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Melton and Mrs. Sidney Winchester visited in Houston, Freeport and Angleton over the week end.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Matthews, Sr., recently were Mrs. Dorman Followwill and daughters, and Mrs. G. C. Brockett and children of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. David Alexander and children of Lubbock, Lt. and Mrs. James Yandell and sons of Ft. Bragg, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Matthews and son, Timothy Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. H. D.
