GOVERNMENT BY CREDIT CARD

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says: "All agree it is criminal for one man to steal from another. But over-powerful government can rob the individual just as surely—only the scale is grander, the stakes are greater, and the loss far more tragic. For what is stolen by paternalistic government is the precious compound of initiative, independence and self-respect that distinguishes a man from the mob, a person from a number, a free man from a slave . . . Too much government plans off the peaks of excellence, hones down differences, dries up diversity, and leaves a bleak sameness . . . No one can stand, simultaneously, for more individualism and more centralized government . . . We are against the insulting concept of government by Big Brother . . . I believe deeply that continuing deficit spending is immoral. It forces our children to support spendthrift parents. It visits upon voteless youngsters a mountain of unpaid bills. It is government by credit card, with the bill to be paid by our children not merely in money but also in liberty."

A LIMIT TO AMBITION

One admires ambition. But there is a point where ambition—if successful—must be halted in the public interest.

This applies with full force to the Teamsters Union. As was made abundantly clear at its recent meeting in Miami, its president and undisputed boss, Jimmy Hoffa, intends to create a labor empire of unprecedented power. There is hard by an important field of enterprise which he means to leave untouched. This would mean that one union, dominated by one man, could virtually bring the economic life of the nation to a halt. If it were so decided, not a train or a truck or a ship would operate. No commodities would move on any significant scale. The national security could be imperiled to the point of disaster.

Mr. Hoffa has said that he would never call a national transportation strike. But times, circumstances, attitudes and people change. The fact that such power existed, even though latent, would be an intolerable threat.

This is a very different thing from a union versus industry fight over wages or working hours or fringe benefits or anything else. This will decide if a single organization can have what amounts to life and death power over the nation. The law must restrict privilege as well as guarantee rights. The national interest, which includes the national security, must always come first.

MILLIONAIRES ARE SCARCE

Why not let the millionaires pay most if not all of the taxes? They've got more money than anyone needs, so why not take it away from them for the benefit of the rest of us?

Well, here's why: According to the Internal Revenue Service, there are only 244 taxable incomes of a million dollars or more. And these incomes are taxed to the hilt now, with the top rate being a cool 91 per cent.

Moreover, says the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, the taxes actually paid by the millionaire group are just enough to run the government for 25½ hours—a trifle more than one day. And even if they were taxed 100 per cent, the increase in revenue would merely support the government for another 14½ hours.

There just isn't enough money in the big or even the middle income categories to operate a $90 billion a year government. So the lower income people must pay the bill.

HEADLINES DON'T MAKE JOBS

Newspapers are full of accounts of federal agencies launching costly programs to stimulate economic activity. But so far, no sensible program of tax incentives on depreciation allowances to encourage job creating industrial development has materialized.

In the words of columnist, David Lawrence: "Businessmen don't really know what to expect, and many of the plans that should long ago have been under way to construct new plants haven't been launched. All the benefits to employment that would have been derived from the heavy goods industries if a broader policy on depreciation had been formulated have, therefore, not been forthcoming."

It takes more than headline-chasing bureaus to promote real national growth.

LOUISBURG, N. C., FRANKLIN TIMES: "The average American is now aware of the fact that the United States is losing gold to foreign countries. This is true, to put it as simply as possible, because we are buying more from foreign countries than we are selling to them."

"Two things have caused the flow of gold out of the United States, to a large degree. First, we have been spending three to four billions annually on foreign aid for many years. Second, and probably more important, is the effect of inflation on the prices of U.S.-produced goods."

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

This time of year mothers begin to get slightly frantic with all the details of getting children ready for school. Especially frantic are mothers who have small children who will begin school for the first time.

There is more to be done than meets the eye. There are shots to be administered, clothes to buy, teeth to be checked, health examinations, and birth certificate copies to be arranged for.

Most school districts require proof-of-age for children beginning school. The most convenient proof for most parents is a copy of the child's birth certificate.

Such copies are available from local registrars, county clerks, or from the Texas State Department of Health's Records and Statistics Section.

Certified birth certificate copies may be obtained by sending one dollar ($1.00) to the Texas State Department of Health at 410 East Fifth Street in Austin.

Along with the dollar, the child's name, place and date of birth, and the parents' names should be included to speed the records search.

Thousands of birth certificate requests are processed each week in the Austin facility. However, during the late summer months the load increases substantially because of the many extra requests from parents with children beginning school.

The work load has been extra-heavy this summer because of the pending raise in birth certificate copy rates from $1.00 to $1.50 effective September 1, 1961. Many Texans are trying to beat the deadline.

For this reason authorities recommend that parents make their requests early enough to insure delivery in time for school. Ordinarily, about a week is required including mailing time.

So mother should take a hint, and get those certificate requests mailed off early, in addition to the million-and-one other details she must attend to before school starts.

Nearly 300,000 children will be entering Texas schools for the first time this year.

Former Pastor Gets "Last Rose" Sunday, July 30

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Munday, varied a preliminary to his Sunday morning sermon at Big Spring last Sunday to express thanks to the "known friend" who for 95 Sundays has presented him with a red rosebud.

The donor remained anonymous until Sunday, July 23, when Dr. O'Brien, nearing the end of a 48-year career in the ministry—asked him to identify himself.

He was revealed as Nat Shick, a retired Big Spring postmaster, who had been instrumental in bringing Dr. O'Brien to Big Spring from Stamford.

O'Brien expressed such pleasure at having received the first rose that Shick decided to continue the practice. In the time that followed—over 18 years—the red rose always found Dr. O'Brien, wherever he was, whether in Palestine, on the high seas or in Alaska.

Mrs. O'Brien knew the identity of the donor for 12 years but kept the information from him. He often said he preferred not to know as long as he remained on the job at Big Spring. An understanding was made with the florist that should either be near death, or Dr. O'Brien quit the pulpit, the identity would be revealed.

Sunday night's service brought to an end O'Brien's 20-year career as pastor of the First Baptist Church. After a rest he will go into independent evangelistic work. He already has a backlog of about 20 invitations to appear in revivals.

Mrs. Dave Griffith and Roddy Griffith visited Mrs. Griffith's sister and family in Shreveport, La., from Friday until Tuesday.

Miss Debbie Browning is spending this week in Wichita Falls with her sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kinman and son.

What's Gone Wrong In The Poultry Business?

There is something haywire somewhere when chicken is cheaper than dog food.

Less than ten years ago, fried chicken was an honored guest at the family dinner table, usually reserved for the Sunday feast. Today, it is an economy meat beyond expectation—beyond even desire—of the budget-conscious housewife; so cheap, in fact, as to often make the shopper turn it down in favor of something "better" for the family. And there's nothing better than chicken.

Live broiler prices recently hit an all-time low of 11 cents a pound in Texas, and ready-to-cook prices have been correspondingly cheap—as low as 19 cents per pound in some supermarkets.

Why? How can this singular poultry price depression (which extends as well to turkeys and eggs) exist in an economy where other food items have remained stable or even risen contrastingly during recent years when poultry products have been in trouble? Can anything be done about it?

When development of the commercial broiler industry proved

Except in products which are in short, limited or controlled supply, pricing is generally done from the top downward—especially on a commodity that must be marketed at a certain stage of maturity. In other words, a "buyer's market" exists. The principle buyers of food products for retail sale in America today are supermarkets.

When development of the commercial broiler industry proved that chickens can be grown efficiently, low in cost and of excellent quality, broilers became a "lead item" with the supermarkets. Chickens for years have been advertised at stores as week end specials—which gave the housewife a bargain and at the same time sustained broiler consumption.

The first trouble appeared when the broiler became treated as a step-child in the chain stores. They sold it at low or no profit, they cut prices to such an extent that the live market became gradually and progressively depressed—and they did it without demand or even expectation of the consumer.

Today, that unnecessary price depression has reached a deplorable level. Costs of production are cents above the buyer's offering price. Costs of feed for chickens being prepared for market have actually risen during this unhealthy period, but there is no lessening of the slack from the top to allow for the strain.

The question of what can be done to correct this inequitable situation must inevitably be answered parenthetically to include what will happen if it is not corrected.

The usual solution sought when a commodity is in trouble is to seek expanded outlets and encourage consumption—which is good and healthy. But in the poultry problem, this is not likely to improve prices, and that's the big problem. Poultry outlets have been expanded. A recent U. S. D. A. publication reports that exports to Western Europe, for example, have increased in five years from 28 million pounds to 175 million pounds.

What will be necessary if the poultry industry is to remain free of controls is an injection of conscience into the buying and selling of poultry. A new and healthier approach to marketing at the retail level where poultry is recognized not only as a perpetual bargain but a wonderful, wholesome commodity that people need and want and will buy at something other than distress prices.

If such an approach is not realized, then the inevitable result, unhelped for by many, is government regulation providing a statutory framework around which poultry pricing can be fair and reasonable for all concerned.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Takes A Look At Foreign Aid And Then Backs Off In Complete Confusion

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek takes a look at the world situation this week. He may need better glasses.

Dear editor:
"Well, what do you think Russia is going to do about what we're going to do about West Berlin?" a man in town who keeps up with world affairs and is no more in the dark than the average Congressman asked me yesterday when I went in to get something to keep my tractor radiator from leaking.

I told him I didn't know and then, just to be doing, asked him if he thought there was anything to the report I'd just heard on the radio that serious trouble will break out next in Kuwon.

"It's hard to say," he said. "I've been expecting it. The world is full of potential trouble spots and Kuwon very easily could be the next one. It's worth watching." I didn't say anything much.

JURY DUTY

Jury duty is an experience everybody ought to have.

In a criminal case twelve jurors have a duty to do justice as each one sees it, and yet be unanimous. In most trials both sides have much to say, and the evidence is conflicting. The 12 jurors vary in their ability, temperament, character, education, and their experience in the world, and in the question at stake.

Yet a jury made up of both sexes, with wide age and educational differences, jobs and origins must all come up with the same verdict. Upon their verdict much depends—the life or liberty of others, and the public good. So it may take them days of talking among themselves, all to agree.

Jury duty calls for insight, common sense, courage, tact, fairmindedness, patience, (especially toward the jurors who disagree with you), good humor, tolerance, balance, willingness to hear others out and change one's mind, readiness to go over and over the facts to find something to bring agreement. In short, jury duty demands a "decent respect to the opinions" of others.

More and more women share civic duties, especially as jurors. Time was in Texas when women could not serve on juries. They still cannot in four states.

A jury finds facts. It hears and weighs evidence and then comes to a verdict. It does not make the law—the legislature does; and the judge "charges" or instructs the jury concerning the law applicable to the particular case it is considering.

The judge will tell you not to find the accused guilty until he is proved so under strict rules of evidence. If you have any "reasonable doubt,"—not imaginary or far-fetched—acquitt the accused.

Civil cases do not demand a moral certainty and believable evidence.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Speed doesn't shorten the road . . . It shortens your life!

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Jack Moore, Knox County Agent

Grain Sorghum Tour

The Knox County grain committee has planned a tour of some of the variety tests that are located in the county. The tour will start at the Shamrock Cafe in Munday on August 3, at 1:30 p.m.

Mr. Ben Spears, Texas Extension Agronomist, will be on hand to discuss the production of sorghum and some of the latest results in tests in the state and what research is working on. The tour will visit Alfonso Keuhler, Clarence Herring and Bobby Partridges' demonstration plots.

It is also planned to visit a grain sorghum fertilizer plot. Varieties that are in the test plots are 7078, 610, 608, TE55, TE56, E56a, C45, NK210, NK135, Red Raider A, Ranger, and several experimental Asgrow varieties from Northrup King, that they plan to place on the market next year if they stand up under field tests this year.

The crops committee is composed of Arnold Navratil, chairman, Gaylon Scott, Sam Leverick, Fuller Shannon, Billy Mitchell and Lester Hickman.

Cotton Bacterial Blight

Bacterial blight causes more than one-fourth of the total estimated cotton disease yield loss in Texas. Losses vary from $35 to $40 million dollars per year. Two, additional losses occur in the form of lower and soft grades of the harvested fiber. Losses in 1960 were slightly less than in former years.

Small, angular, brownish or blackish spots occur on the lower leaves. Later the disease may spread to the higher leaves. Only a few spots are necessary to drop the leaves. Yield reduction results from the premature loss of leaves. Small, circular, dark-green spots occur on bolls. These spots enlarge, dry up, stain lint and prevent normal opening of the boll. Under severe conditions limbs or stems may die-back. The disease causing bacteria enter through air breathing pores, in the leaves, bolls and stems. They also may enter the plant parts through wounds.

The blight organism overwinters in the soil on old plant trash and on or in planting seed. Wind-driven splashing rains, sprinkler irrigation or whirlwinds spread the bacteria from plant to plant in the fields.

The only known practical prevention is the growing of resistant varieties. Acala 1517 BR, Acala 1517 Blightmaster, Austin, Rex and Mebane B-1 have some resistance and are available for commercial production. New resistant varieties are being developed.

The planting of known disease-free seed will give control if there is no soil carry-over. Acid delinted seed, adequately treated with a seed protectant fungicide, will reduce early season infection. This practice does not necessarily prevent later epidemics. Correct amounts of nitrogen fertilizer will help make acceptable varieties more resistant.

4-H Rally Day

There were 24 boys and 21 girls who registered for the annual Knox County 4-H Rally Day, that was held in the park in Seymour, on July 31. Officers elected for the camp were President, Lynda Navratil; Vice President, Skeet McGaughey; Secretary, Betty Herring; and Norma Jo Navratil.

The day began with general assembly and was followed by crafts which included leather work with the following 4-Hers in charge, Betty Herring, Jan Roberts, Jeanette Brazell, Frances Reneau, Diane Brugge-man, and Norma Jo and Lynda Navratil. Later the group participated in the program of 4-H Leadership which was led by the following members who had attended a District Leadership Lap in June. They are Marshall McGrady who was in charge and assisted by Janice Kuehler, Jan Roberts, and Sharon Burgess.

After lunch the group returned to a most informative program on Civil Defense which was given by Mrs. Ann Golding, who is Civil Defense Co-ordinator for Wichita County. Following was a timely discussion on Public Safety conducted by Patrolman Lynn Garrison of the Department of Public Safety.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent planning and preparing for the evening program. Mr. Joel Wilson, of West Texas Public Utilities in Abilene, was on hand for the program and party which was highlighted by crowning the King and Queen of the 4-H Rally Day, who were Douglas Kinnibrugh and Jo Carol Doud of Vera. The attractive crowns were made by Frances Reneau and Jeanette Brazell, who were also in charge of registration.

L. J. Cappleman Is New Director Of F. H. A. In Texas

Lester J. Cappleman of Ladonia, has been appointed State Director for the Farmers Home Administration in Texas. His headquarters are in Dallas. He assumed his duties July 18.

Mr. Cappleman has returned to the position he held with the agency for approximately eight years prior to April in 1954. Since that time he has been managing his farm near Ladonia producing livestock, cotton, and alfalfa.

Born in Oklahoma in 1902 when it was known as Indian territory, Mr. Cappleman attended public schools at Honey Grove, Texas and the Texas A & M College where he majored in agronomy and animal husbandry. From 1924 to 1934 he farmed in Fannin County.

From 1934 forward, including his eight years as Farmers Home Administration's State Director, Mr. Cappleman worked in the field of supervised credit and related services for family-type farmers. He joined the Resettlement Administration at Amarillo after a year with the Federal

Shelter Seen Best Defense For Fallout

Nineteen years ago this Dec. 7, the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor caused all Americans to realize "it can happen here."

Dec. 7 this year will mark the third annual National Civil Defense Day, dedicated to the conviction that vigilance must be maintained night and day because of enemy threats. Against such threats our Nation's vast warning net is designed to be so reliable that the enemy could not achieve a surprise attack, civil defense officials assert.

Most Americans could be saved by taking simple but adequate civil defense measures now. Director Leo A. Hoegh of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization points out that "fallout shelter protection is the best single non-military defense measure for the greatest number of our people."

He has called home fallout shelters "the lowest-cost family insurance obtainable." These cost from $150 for a "do-it-yourself" basement shelter to $1,500 for a custom-made shelter fixed up to serve as an extra room.

Key to the effective use of such shelters is the National Warning System geared to alert Americans from 376 warning points linked to the North American Air Defense Command.

Emergency Relief Administration at Sherman, Texas. From Amarillo, his work took him to Dallas in 1936 where he served first as loan officer in Resettlement Administration and later as Assistant Regional Director for that agency's successor, the Farm Security Administration. In 1941 he transferred to Surplus Marketing Administration as Regional Director, then was in similar positions with Agricultural Marketing, Food Distribution, and War Food Administration, all at Dallas. He became State Director for Farmers Home Administration in 1946. As State Director, he will have charge of the agency's agricultural credit and farm management program serving farmers in all areas of the State through 126 county offices.
