Odd Bits Salvaged

"Give the United Way." "Give through your United Fund."

These slogans will be uppermost in the minds of many local people when the United Fund drive gets under way locally within a few days. The drive has been set for Monday, October 23.

Already a number of people, including J. Weldon Smith, chairman of the drive, and a number of volunteer workers, are laying plans for the drive. It is their hope that Munday's quota for the drive will be realized fully and quickly.

Personally, we like the United Fund way of giving!

That way you let one check do a year-round job.

People are beginning to realize that, too. When the community first went to United Fund, there were some doubts about that. People were used to one drive following another, extending through a period of several weeks or months. We hardly got through with one drive until another was facing us, and it seemed there was virtually no end to giving.

But workers have been trying, and very successfully, to make the effort a one drive, one check (or pledge) doing the year-round job. If we failed to realize our quota in full, what we did raise was allotted to the various charities, and that was the end of it.

That's the way the 1961 drive for 1962 charities will be conducted. You'll be called on one time, for one check, or pledge—and the job is over for a full year.

That's why it's important for every individual to figure out just what to give. If you have been giving to all causes in the various drives, figure out what you can give to all causes in one drive!

Young and old—you and your neighbor—benefit through the work of the United Fund. One gift, once a year, supports the many worthwhile organizations and charities that aid and serve your community. When a United Fund volunteer calls on you—give as generously as you can.

And twelve agencies will be benefited by your contribution. They are: cancer fund, heart fund, polio fund, muscular dystrophy, Texas Medical Research Foundation, Texas Rehabilitation Center, Gonzales; American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Texas United Funders (U.S.O.) National Travelers Aid, Boy Scouts of America, and the city-county library.

The sympathy of the nation is centered in a hospital suite in Dallas, Texas.

There Sam Rayburn—the Mr. Sam and Mr. Democrat of Washington—lies gravely ill of cancer. They say there is no cure, no hope for Mr. Sam. The new drugs are designed to try to prevent the spread of the disease.

Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson has paid two visits to his old friend and colleague—the last one during the week end, so quietly that almost no one knew he was there until he departed.

During the noon hour Monday, news came over the air waves that President Kennedy was on his way to Dallas to visit Mr. Sam. Even foreign diplomats have expressed sorrow at the illness of our nation's leading Democrat of many years.

Mr. Rayburn has been in Washington a lot longer than we've been voting, and longer than many of us have lived. His influence at the nation's capitol has not only been nationwide, but world-wide. It will be difficult to think of Washington without thinking of Mr. Sam.

He has guided many a young lawmaker who has gone to Washington with nothing more than a majority of votes and ambition. He's been speaker of the House longer than any man living. His influence on "Capitol Hill" has been great.

When the inevitable end comes, be it soon or in the distant future, an entire world will bow its head in sorrow and remembrance, so great has been Mr. Sam!

Water Authority Validity Trial Is Set November 13th

L. B. Patterson, president of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, stated Monday that the court trial on the validity of the authority has been set for Monday, November 13, at Haskell.

Judge Sterling Williams of Snyder will preside at the trial. The case was originally set for October 9, but was postponed because the Attorney General's Department could not have a representative there at that time. The Attorney General has entered this case at the request of the water board, Patterson said.

This trial comes as a result of the Supreme Court's ruling, Patterson said, that "any group of taxpayers had a right to have a day in court, and that the case should be tried on its merits."

THE RIGHT KIND OF WAR

America's doctors and the federal government are joining forces to declare all-out war on medical quacks and charlatans. These unsavory characters bilk the sick and gullible of hundreds of millions of dollars a year through the sale of useless gadgets, phony nostrums, fake reducing pills and the many other gimmicks of the medicine show trade.

The campaign was launched at the First National Congress on Medical Quackery, was held in Washington, D. C., October 6-7. Joint sponsors are the American Medical Association and the U. S. Food and Drug Administration. Panels of distinguished speakers were heard. Many state and county medical societies sent representatives, and these will report at home on the plans for cooperation with enforcement agencies and a step-up of public education for an accelerated drive against the quacks.

Here's a war that everyone can wholeheartedly support. And the layman should keep his eyes open and his ears alert for the information that will be disseminated. For the quacks and charlatans, whose successes have reached alarming proportions, do more than rob us of our money. In innumerable instances, they are responsible for needless death, injury, suffering and prolonged illness.

A DUTY ABANDONED

An urgent domestic problem has to do with "backdoor" financing for federal projects of various kinds. There are a number of devices employed in this, but all of them have one thing in common—they raise and spend billions in ways which evade the Constitutional provision that the House of Representatives shall have control of the nation's purse strings. In other words, when the "backdoor" approach is used, Congress loses, practically if not literally, its power over appropriations.

This is a very important matter indeed. According to Representative Pelly of Washington, writing in Tax Review, proposed backdoor spending measures before this year's Congress added up to nearly $24 billion. And since 1932, $140 billion in backdoor borrowing has been authorized, while only $65 billion has so far been repaid. An example is the $13 billion owed the Treasury by the Commodity Credit Corporation. There is grave doubt if any large portion of this loan ever will be repaid, according to Mr. Pelly.

Congress has no greater duty than that of controlling the spending of the people's money.

and appraising and debating every budget. In the case of backdoor financing, that duty is abandoned.

DOLLAR INCOME VS. REAL INCOME

Most people have larger dollar incomes now than they had in 1946, just after World War II.

But that doesn't mean that we have higher "real incomes"—a term which covers purchasing power—for taxation and inflation have sorely worn away the dollar's worth.

The Tax Foundation tells the story. If a married couple with two children had an income of $3,000 in 1946, they need $4,756 now if they stayed even—a jump of 59 per cent. And the percentages are pretty much the same for most other income brackets.

What will the "real income" value of the thinning dollar be five, 10, or 15 years from now, at the rate the federal government is spending and going into debt?

The federal government spends $18,000 a minute. That works out to more than $1 million an hour, $26 million a day, and $3 billion every 10 days.

Last year the interest on the national debt alone was $9.5 billion. It will be higher this year, as the debt limit has been increased.

This is the result of spending money we don't have. We are simply passing the bill on to future generations, which is about as sorry a legacy as anyone can think of. And with it we have been creating a welfare state which, if the current trend keeps on going, will handcuff their freedoms even as it drains their pocketbooks. It's not a pretty picture.

WINTER HAVEN, FLA., HERALD: "Our Thought for the Week comes from that irritable old Briton, Sir Winston Churchill: 'A Communist is like a crocodile. When it opens its mouth you cannot tell whether it is trying to smile or preparing to eat you up.'"

FARMINDALE, N. J., BOOSTER: "With this country in debt to the tune of three hundred billions of dollars—with a huge defense budget in the offing—with the educators crying for federal aid—the musicians union at the Metropolitan Opera House thinks the federal government should subsidize the opera company so they can get more money. —SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE TIMES—

CHURCH OF CHRIST

MUNDAY, TEXAS

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." — John 8:32.

"There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." Prov. 14:12. This Scripture disproves the common opinion that one's feelings are sufficient to guide him religiously.

In material things we can see the unreliability of feelings and do not place our trust entirely upon our feelings. For example we know just because we feel that we have the right answer to a problem does not make it so. We can understand that just because we think we are traveling on the right road does not make it so. What about Spiritual things? The Scriptures declare that one's feelings are unreliable and often deceptive. (Gal. 6:3; Jer. 10:23; Prov. 14:12.) We have a Bible example in Saul of Tarsus who thought he was right in his religion as a Jew; yet he was an enemy of Christ. (Acts 26:19-11) It may seem right for many to be unbelievers, but the end of this thinking is death. (John 8:24; Rev. 21:8.) It may seem right for many to accept creeds or human doctrines as their guide, but the end of this thinking is death. (Matt. 15:9; Col. 2:20-22.)

Do not let your feelings be your guide in seeking salvation for the end might be the way of death. Place your confidence upon God's word because we know it is completely reliable. (2 Tim. 3:16-17.)

"If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God." — 1 Peter 4:11.

Almost 26% of all fatal home accidents occur in the bedroom, according to Mr. O. F. Gates Lone Star Gas Company manager.

Lone Star and The Munday Times are co-sponsors of the 1961 Home Safety Program in Munday.

"Fatal yard accidents are in a weak second place with 11.6 per cent," Mr. Gates said.

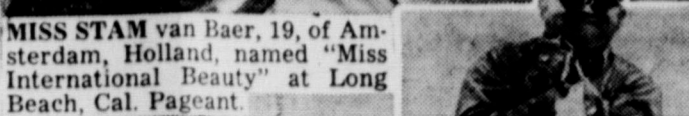

Locations of other home accidents have been recorded as follows: Kitchen, 10.3%; inside stairs, 7.4%; living room, 5.9%; outside stairs, 3.9%; bathroom, 3.5%; dining room, 3.4%; porch, 3.3%; basement, 1.7%; garage, 1.1%; and other and not stated, 12.3%.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Worried About The Twenty-Three People In Town Who Look To Him To Feed Them

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek probably is misinterpreting the facts thisweek. Certainly we're not depending on him to feed us.

J. A.

Dear editor:
I know there are a lot of people worried about the possibility of an atomic war, but they make a mistake when they worry about it too much.

I mean, with all the other things to worry about, why get in a rut?

For example, I was reading some statistics about farmers last night in a copy of a newspaper somebody threw out of his car as it passed my Johnson grass farm out here earlier in the day, and according to it, the percentage of farmers to the rest of the population in the United States continues to shrink. A hundred years ago, farmers were in the majority, then the cities and towns started gaining, picking up speed especially in the last few years. In fact, farmers lost 23 percent of their numbers from 1954 to 1961, just seven years. Today, only nine percent of the country's population can be called a farmer.

But that's not the thing to worry about, it's this. The number of people in town a farmer has to feed is increasing. As the farm population goes down and the city population up, the burden on the farmer gets heavier. A hundred years ago, one farmer produced enough for himself and four others. Today, he has produce enough for himself and twenty-three others, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

That's what I'm talking about. I don't know who the twenty-three people are in Munday I'm supposed to feed, but whoever they are, if I was them, I'd forget about the hydrogen bomb and start worrying over where my next meal is coming from.

The load is getting too big. By the time I get through feeding myself and my family and an occasional in-law that drops in invariably at meal time, there's mighty slim pickings for those twenty-three people in town waiting to be fed. I believe if I was them I'd put in a backyard garden, just to be on the safe side. I hope you're not one of the twenty-three looking to me for food. There's nothing worse for the peace and harmony of a community than an under-fed newspaperman, unless it's a hungry politician, although well-fed ones have been known to cause trouble.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

Cotton Root Rot

There has been many advances in the study of cotton root rot and many important facts have been discovered about it; however, the method of controlling root rot is still unknown.

Cotton in Knox County was hit harder than usual this year with the problem; however, this was expected when the June and July rains came and there were not dry days with little rain in August.

The Extension Service has out one publication that is good called "Root Rot Losses of Cotton Can Be Reduced"—MP 361. The Agricultural Experiment Stations are continually working to find a method of controlling root rot and one of the latest bits of information that has been released comes from the Experiment Station at McGregor, Texas. They can tell and show you how they make a cotton crop on land infested with root rot. Here is the program as outlined by Superintendent H. O. Hill and Agronomist M. J. Norris of the Station:

1. Grow non-susceptible crops in a three-year rotation with cotton.

2. Plow 6-10 inches deep ahead of cotton. This should be early.

3. Prepare a good seed bed, completed at least a month before planting.

4. Plant cotton early as weather conditions and regulations permit.

5. Use early season insect control.

This program worked this year at the McGregor Station and very likely will work for you.

Cattle Feeding

One of the latest trends in Agriculture is intensification. One of the signs that has been showing up all over Texas this last few years is the feed pens and lots.

The Griffith farm near Benjamin has been in the business for some time and the Clonts feed lot near Knox City is not old but has been in operation for several years. Both of these lots feed cattle and find this a way to market their home grown feeds to the best advantage.

This summer found two Knox County cattle men building feed lots. One of them is in an effort to be able to feed their own calves and thus be able to take advantage of the northern feeder. J. C. Moorhouse placed about 300 head of cattle in the partially completed lot near Knox City last week. The League-Davis ranch is progressing rapidly with their facilities and hope to have them completed soon.

Harvey Lee of Fort Worth visited friends here last Thursday.

Miss Linda Brown visited her sister, Miss Sandy Brown, at Texas Tech in Lubbock over the week end and attended the Texas Tech and Texas A&M football game on Saturday night.

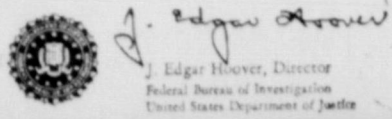

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Cude of Dallas spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cude, and other relatives and friends.

Rhineland School News

Rhineland High School Junior and Senior classes sponsored a dance Thursday, October 5th, featuring Jimmy Heap. This brought in a nice profit towards the junior-senior trip fund and was an enjoyable evening for all.

Another project taken on by both classes was selling magazines. These sales resulted in a successful profit. Edwin Wilde received a prize for selling the most magazines and other students were awarded certificates for sales over $30.

The students wish to thank everyone who bought magazines and for their cooperation in these projects.

Rhineland high school girls and boys basketball teams were legally accepted into the District 15-B basketball conference last Thursday night.

Competing schools are: Goree, Benjamin, Knox City and Megargel. The Rhineland teams, although this is their first year in competition are very hopeful under coaching of George J. Petrus.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cude were business visitors in Wichita Falls last Saturday.

Mrs. Gillie Lewis of Roby spent several days last week with her sisters, Mrs. A. M. Searcey, Mrs. Claude Hill and Mrs. Jim Proffitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Worth Gafford visited his sister and family in Dublin over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Giles and children of Floydada visited her mother, Mrs. J. R. Counts, over the week end.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Writer's Loss Is No Joke

Upon his retirement from the banquet circuit, Mr. Witty compiled a joke book entitled, "After Dinner Jokes I Have Known."

At his request, the local printer made 200 copies of the book which were quickly purchased at the local book store by the author's admirers. No notice of copyright appeared on any of the copies.

The next year Mr. Witty was surprised to discover that a nationally distributed book, "After Dinner Jokes," was actually a direct copy of his own work. He wrote the publisher demanding a fair royalty, but his request was denied. He then sued the publisher for the royalties on his book.

Can Mr. Witty force the publisher to pay him for his work?

No, said the court. Mr. Witty had neglected to place a notice of copyright on the earlier published copies. Although an author has an inherent right to his literary productions, this right can be lost easily by general publication, unless he seeks the protection of the copyright law.

The first and most important step in securing copyright protection is to place the correct notice in the proper place on every copy. Formal registration is essential, but must follow publication.

The copyright notice must include the word "copyright," the abbreviation "copr." or the symbol ©, plus the name of the owner and year of publication. Unless this notice appears on each copy, an author loses his right to keep others from copying. The notice serves to warn the public of the author's assertion of his rights.

Since 1955 use of the symbol © has been more widespread in this country, in order to confer international protection of an author's works. By treaty, other countries recognize our copyrighted works and afford them full protection if the copyright notice includes the symbol ©, the owner's name and year of publication. Since both domestic and international literary protection depend upon it, the short copyright notice should never be ignored.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

We want to thank each and every one of you for the loyal patronage you have given us and for your friendship during the years. You have been wonderful to us, and we deeply appreciate every one of you.

We hope you will give the new owner the same type of patronage and consideration you have given us through the years. We know he will be anxious to serve you.

Very sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Don Wardlaw
