THE MEDICAL CARE STORY

If something is said often enough, legions of people will come to believe it—whether there is any truth in it or not.

That seems to be the case with the cost of medical care. There is widespread belief that it has soared out of all reason.

That belief is factually refuted by the authoritative Commission on the Cost of Medical Care of the American Medical Association.

We Americans, to begin with, spend only 6 cents of every budget dollar on medical care. By way of comparison, we spend nearly as much for tobacco and liquor, an equal amount for recreation, and twice as much on transportation.

Now take the three most important items in the medical care dollar — physicians' services, drugs and hospitals. In 1940 the doctors accounted for 30 cents of the dollar, in 1950, 28 cents, and in 1960, 25 cents. So the doctor's share has substantially declined.

The drug share was 21 cents in 1940, 20 cents in 1950 and, again 20 cents in 1960. So it has shown a slight decline, even though many more drugs, and far more effective drugs, are available now than 20 years ago.

This leaves the hospitals. Their share of the dollar rose from 18 cents in 1940, to 23 cents in 1950, to 26 cents in 1960. The increase resulted from the fact that more services are demanded and given, and that labor costs, a major element in hospital administration, have steadily risen. In many instances, the increased day charges are much more than offset by sharp reduction in the time a patient must now spend hospitalized.

That, briefly, is the medical care story. It's hard to see how it can shock anyone.

THE RIGHT PRINCIPLE

President Kennedy has submitted a plan for a spectacular space communications system to Congress. Certain of his observations are of unusual interest. He states that throughout the history of this country "national communication systems have been privately owned," and that studies have convinced him that the "national objectives" can best be achieved "in the framework of a privately owned corporation, properly chartered by Congress."

It is difficult to see how anyone, save those who want the government to do everything, can quarrel with this. And it would be a great day for this nation if that attitude were extended to all other enterprise, old or new. The fact is that our country's whole economic system is based upon the work of private enterprise — which means private investment, private risk, private pioneering—under reasonable government regulation when that is necessary. But the system has been sadly watered over the years as government itself has gone deeper and deeper into commercial businesses of many kinds. This means more than a needless burden on the taxpayers. It means an erosion of economic freedoms and the undermining of political liberty.

In short, the principle the President has applied to ownership of space communications was meant to apply to every kind of project under our basic form of government.

RETAILERS FACE PROBLEMS

Chain Store Age recently reported the results of a survey made of the nation's department stores, asking them to list their principal current problems.

The first three places were taken, in order, by expense reduction, downtown revitalization (a pressing problem in many cities, because of the continuing movement to the suburbs and the development of elaborate outlying shopping centers), and rising labor costs.

The next two places were taken by the problem of competition from discount houses, and from the shopping centers.

Some authorities doubt if this will prove to be an accurate order. They think, for instance, that in the long run, discount houses may become a more important element in retailing, strongly affecting not only the operations of department stores but of retailers in many other fields. Time will tell as to that. But the list of problems mentioned, aside from whatever weight should be given to any single item, provides a pretty fair picture of retailing today.

It is characterized by intense competition—between national chains, regional and local chains, and non-chains. That, of course, is the reason for concentration on expense reduction—there is no room for waste, with its inevitable threat of failure in today's market place. Stores must now deal with a new and unprecedented problem — the changing living and buying habits of millions of consumers.

Successful retailing requires skill, foresight, dedication, and the will to meet and surmount difficulties. This country has that kind of retailing, in abundant measure.

Capital spending of U. S. oil companies will increase 6 per cent this year, according to Petroleum Management. Estimated outlays by domestic companies at home and abroad will reach $8.1 billion, as compared with $7.6 billion last year.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

GOREE, TEXAS

The Value Of The Church

The church is a divine institution. Jesus said, "I will build my church" (Matt. 16:18). He is the only one who has a right to speak of it as "my Church."

The church is valuable because of what it cost. It cost God his Son, and it cost the Son his blood. The church was made possible by the blood of Christ. We are bought with his blood. Paul told the Ephesian elders that the church was purchased with the blood of Christ (Acts 20:28). And that we are bought with a price (1 Cor. 6:20). We do value things somewhat in proportion to what they cost. Thus we look upon the church. We have not been redeemed with corruptible things, such as silver and gold, but by the precious blood of Christ (1 Pet. 1:18-19). Our souls are valuable in the sight of God.

The church is valuable because salvation is in it. There is no salvation for any of us outside of Christ. There is no salvation in any other name other than the name of Christ (Acts 4:12). The same thing that saves us makes us a member of His church. Just as fast as we are saved the Lord adds us to his church (Acts 2:46-47). (Notice, this is without the vote of consent of man). We are saved when we obey Him (Heb. 5:8; Matt. 7:21).

Often we hear people say the church never saved any one. We may grant that to be true, but all the saved are in the church (Acts 2:47). Christ is the Saviour, but he is the saviour of the body, and the body is the church. "For the husband is head of the wife, even as Christ is head of the church; and he is the saviour of the body." (Eph. 5:23; Col. 1:18).

Mrs. I. L. Belcher, Billie Sue, Wayne and Durwood and Miss Earlene Harmon visited in Fort Worth and Dallas over the week end. They also visited with T. A. Harmon, who underwent surgery for inner ear infection last Monday. He is a patient in the V. A. Hospital in Dallas.

BUILDING MEDALLION DEDICATED

This historical building medallion, symbolic of the first 100 to be erected across the state, was dedicated Sunday afternoon (March 4) in ceremonies at the 1840 Eggleston House in Gonzales. Participating in the program were Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo, acting governor, and Mrs. Mike Butler of Austin, chairman of the historical buildings committee of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee. The dedicatory ceremony climaxed a three-day Texas Independence Day weekend tour by members of the TSHSC. The organization, which administers the medallion program, expects to have mounted 1,600 of the metal plaques by the end of 1962. They will mark early Texas structures that have been reclaimed and preserved for posterity.

Letter From West Germany

Dear Munday people:
 May I take this opportunity to tell you "thank you" again for all the love and friendship you gave me during my staying in your (I feel like to say our) wonderful town.

This letter, we exchange students got from the Berlin organization, expresses exactly the situation we are in right now in Berlin.

I would be very happy when you will read it and feel closer to us and help us a lot by this.

The best to you all from a friend who'll never forget you across the ocean.

Sincerely Yours,
 Karin Einbrodt

A Letter From Berlin.

Berlin, Germany, August 13, 1961. At 3:25 a.m., UPI reports: Strong forces of the communist "People's Police" have sealed off the border between East and West Berlin during the night. This was the first news of the most recent and most severe in a series of Soviet German actions designed to crush the four-power status of Berlin and to turn all of Soviet Germany into one big concentration camp.

Throughout the following days and weeks feverish activity took place on the Eastern side of the dividing line. Streets were torn up; barbed wire fences erected; a solid concrete wall was built along and across downtown streets. Armed "People's Police," units of the "People's Army" and "Workers' Fighting Brigades," whose presence in East Berlin alone was an open violation of the four-power agreements, were posted along the sector border. Even though they faced the shocked and disturbed crowd of West-Berliners, their objective was clear: to keep any East German from crossing, before massive barriers and several lines of guards would make any attempt futile.

Berlin had been a divided city for a long time, but only now were the two parts sealed off hermetically. Under post-war agreements of the Four—then Allied—Powers, Greater Berlin, divided into four sectors, was to be separate administrative unit. 1948 saw the Berlin blockade and the separation of the Western and Eastern sectors as a Soviet attempt to drive the Western Allies out. But, still, contact between the two parts was free; thousands of Berliners crossed the border in both directions every day to get to their jobs. Free crossing from the East into the West made this the only chance of escape for the majority of refugees. Even more important to the East Germans was the opportunity to cross into the West for a few hours to meet friends and relatives, to see a Western newsreel and movie, or to read uncensored newspapers; thus, regaining the strength to hold out under the constant pressure of the totalitarian regime.

The Soviets repeated threats of signing a separate peace treaty, although such a treaty is a four-power responsibility. As the situation became more tense, the number of refugees increased daily, reaching 2,400 on August 12th. Then suddenly the stream was stopped, and only a small number was able to make their way to the West after August 13th. Their fates and experiences stand for those of many:

A 40-year old musician was employed as a soloist by the state concert agency. He had been told repeatedly to include in his program political songs attacking the Federal Republic, and "socialist fighting songs." After he kept refusing, danger to his career and his existence became obvious, and he decided to flee.

A 16-year old girl, working as a secretary, was the president of a church youthfellowship group. She was asked to perform espionage for the State Security Service; such as copying down the text of the minister's sermon. When she refused and was threatened with the loss of her job, she fled.

For the past weeks the number of refugees who made their way across has been around 30 a day. Some of their stories illustrate how desperate they were in their attempt to reach freedom:

A young couple swam through the Havel River, pushing a bathtub which carried their one-year old child.

One family sent their little boy out to play near the border and told him to wander into the West in an unwatched moment. The parents then approached the border guard and asked him to go over and get the child. When he replied that he was not allowed to cross, but suggested that they go after their child, they crossed and did not return.

Two elderly ladies knew that they had no chance of crossing the barriers. They finally asked a "People's Police" guard to help them climb over the wall. The "Volkspolizist" helped them up and over—then followed.

As the reality of the wall tends to become routine for the West, the tragic fates of the people involved continue. Every day after work and on weekends one can see numerous West-Berliners waving to their friends and relatives in the Soviet sector. Many bring ladders and binoculars to be able to see their families. The "People's Police" frequently breaks up the crowd on the Eastern side with tear gas and water cannons, but they are never quite able to drive the people away from this last chance to communicate with the West.

On the other hand, now that the escape hatch is thrown shut, the communist regime has no reason to refrain from using pressure and force. For example, under a new labor law any East German can be ordered to work anywhere for an indefinite period of time. Young men are forced to "volunteer" for the army.

A woman was sentenced to two months in jail for buying two pounds of coffee, "since such hoarding is contrary to the inter-osts of the peace-loving citizens." Another East German court regretted that it could not punish an East German for having donated blood in West-Berlin, saying "the legislators could not have foreseen such an illoyal monstrosity."

The West has been firm in asserting their rights in West-Berlin and we are confident that the freedom and safety of the West-Berliners will be preserved. But we must warn that August 13th will mean a victory for the East unless the West makes every attempt to have the "wall" torn down. It would be most dangerous to accept this situation "as a reality," because the cruelty of the illegal communist regime, with its contempt of human rights, must never be accepted, but must be fought here and everywhere in the world.

Orphan Boy In 20th Year Of Ministry

On the passing of their mother in 1930, 11 year-old Morgan Beach and his two brothers were left complete orphans. Their father, Jay R. Beach had passed away earlier.

The Beach boys lived with their uncle, Royal Vickery, in Horton, Kansas, and spent the depression years carrying newspaper routes, delivering telegrams, working at odd jobs and operating a truck garden, from which they sold vegetables to stores and townspeople.

Morgan was born January 22, 1919, on a farm near Atchison, Kansas, accepted Christ as his Savior at the age of 14, and became a member of the First Baptist Church of Horton.

"My conversion was the greatest thing that ever happened to me," Rev. Beach said.

He was graduated from Horton High School and was elected to the National Honor Society there for outstanding scholastic work. His main high school interest centered around debate, dramatics, and speech.

His First Dollar
Morgan Beach surrendered to preach the Gospel in 1937, and preached his first sermon in February of 1938. He still has the first dollar he ever made in the ministry. It seems that the pastor of the Horton church had to be out of town on a Sunday in 1938. He asked Morgan to preach at the morning service, and another boy to speak that night. They did. And on his return he gave each of them a dollar. Opening his billfold and displaying a large smile, Rev. Beach said, "Here it is," as he lifted the stained bill from the wallet. "I'll have to be flat broke before I'll spend that," he added.

Enters College At Ottawa
The young Baptist minister entered Ottawa Baptist University at Ottawa, Kan., in 1939, on an honor scholarship. He recalls many interesting experiences in connection with maintaining his scholarship and meeting living expenses. During the summer months he painted dormitories, sold shoes, and of all things, worked in a dental office. While in college at Ottawa, he majored in sociology and was elected to the sociology honor society. He also pastored the State Valley Baptist Church some 200 miles from the university. Unable to make train connections between the university and his church field, he would leave on Friday afternoon and hitchhike to State Valley. After the Sunday night services he would return to the university in the same manner. Rev. Beach recalls missing class only one time and was late only on two other occasions.

Married At Ottawa
After one year in college he married the former Lucille Marie Kneisel of Horton, a high school sweetheart. About his companion and helper, Dr. Beach said, "God has never given a man a finer companion. She is a dedicated mother and wife and serves the Lord in every conceivable way." Mrs. Beach is an efficient secretary and is active in the Woman's Missionary Society.

Sorrow In Texas
After entering Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth he pastored the church at Alford, Nolanville, School Cheek, Copas Cove, and Mullins.
David Wayne, the oldest Beach child, became stricken with leukemia in July 1952, and died December 28—108 days after entering Harris Hospital in Fort Worth. His fatal disease was diagnosed on his seventh birthday. Radio and television stations played Christmas music especially for him. Roy Rogers was coming to see him, but his visit came to late. Though in deep sorrow the Beaches said, "It was a touching experience to see the Christian love displayed by so many friends for our little boy."

Highlights Of Ministry
Dr. Beach has held revivals in cities across the nation, including those in such states as Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, North Carolina, Florida, and Texas. He especially remembers the spiritual revival he held at the First Baptist Church of Havelock, North Carolina, where 72 made public professions of Christ, 11 transferred their membership, and 12 surrendered to the call of the ministry.

Seller Of Religious Books
For many years one of the chief hobbies of the Beaches has been selling religious books. They believe that it is not only a hobby, but another phase of serving God. They have thousands of books in their book store in Fort Worth.

Jesus said to serve mankind was the greatest life. Dr. Beach who believes in being a servant

DR. MORGAN BEACH
Gillespie Evangelist

said, "I would rather preach the Gospel than do anything else in the world."

In Revival At Gillespie
Dr. Beach will be the evangelist for the revival meeting at the Gillespie Baptist Church beginning March 18. There will be evening services only. The public is invited to attend.

Wild Young Should Not Be Molested

A warning against picking up young wildlife has been made by J. B. Phillips, coordinator of law enforcement for the Game and Fish Commission.

This is the time of the year when young of the wild has a tendency at times to stray from the mother, and persons are inclined to want to make pets. This is particularly true of young deer.

Persons who capture and attempt to confine wild animals as pets are subject to arrest for violation. In addition, many of these young animals turn out to be not such good pets, and many times they revert to nature and injure their benefactors.

An additional risk in picking up these youngsters is in the rabies threat, which has been spreading, particularly among skunks. Skunks should be avoided for this, among other reasons, and domestic pets should be kept away from them at all times.

He also advised dog owners to keep them in control, so that babies of the wild will not be destroyed by roving dogs.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Milstead attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, James R. Hunt, in Marlin on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Hunt died of a heart attack on Tuesday morning.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

AUSTIN—Public school teachers throughout Texas face more teaching problems today than ever before.

High on the list of reasons for the situation are the difficulties involved in presenting instruction on whole subjects or portions of subjects which cannot properly be taught using normal classroom methods.

Many of the state's teachers—particularly counsellors and health and physical education teachers—have found the solution to this problem at the film library of the Texas State Department of Health in Austin.

The library, with its 1,600 films which are listed under 600 different titles, is said to be one of the most extensive in the Southwest. It contains films with viewing times ranging from four to 57 minutes, covering practically all phases of personal and community health.

Most of the films were produced commercially, but 20 of them were written and produced for specific Texas application.

All films are aimed at a single purpose: teaching good health practices.

In addition to providing Texas school teachers with films for classroom aids, the library makes films available to religious and fraternal organizations and to civic groups. Practically any club or organization may book films for general interest or educational viewing, but they are limited to use within the state.

If you happen to be this month's program chairman for a neighborhood ladies' club, perhaps you'd like to show clubmembers an approved, step-by-step method of making a baby's formula. There is a sequence in a film titled "Linda" to do exactly that.

During the past three months the library has furnished films for more than 6,000 showings to over three-quarters of a million people. All films are shipped parcel post, with the borrower paying return postage.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Wonders If This Paper Has Enough Zeroes To Report The Full National Debt

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek seems a little worried about us this week, but we can handle his problem.

J. A.

Dear editor: I was looking over a stack of bills which arrived on the first of the month and to get my mind off the subject I opened up a newspaper and the first article I noticed said that the cost of living stayed the same last month, it didn't go up or down.

What I'd like to know is where does the government get its figures?

The cost of living, as far as I can tell, has been going up every month for the past twenty-five years, and sometimes it doesn't even wait thirty days, it goes up right in the middle of a month.

It's my theory that the experts in Washington who read the economic index and whatever ever else they read to get these figures on the cost of living are sort of like meter readers. If a meter reader misreads your meter one month and your bill is a little lower than you figured it'd be, that doesn't mean the cost of living has dropped, it only means the error will be corrected on the next reading and the cost of living will get back up high where it's always been.

Since that article on the cost of living didn't get my mind off my bills, I turned a page and ran into an article that made me feel better.

According to it, the United States government now owes a trillion dollars, which, if The Munday Times has got enough zeroes on its typesetting machine, reads $1,000,000,000,000.00, and if you haven't got that many zeroes you'd better buy some more as the chances of the figure getting smaller are mighty slim and you've got to keep abreast of the times. Just to be on the safe side, maybe you ought to order a dozen or so more.

The reason I felt better about this is that if the Federal government can live apparently cheerfully under this load, why should a few monthly bills bother me?

By the way, if you can find anybody who can prove his cost of living is less now than it was the last time he looked, I wish you'd get hold of him and bring him into town. I'd like to talk to him, if he's able to have visitors.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stingingness is just one example. Another: a new unitized Body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park outside. Still another: tough but gentle one-piece Mono-Plate rear springs that outdo many a bigger car for quiet comfort. Any wonder Chevy II won Car Life magazine's 1962 Engineering Excellence award hands down? (The wonder would be if you settled for anything less—once you get your hands on one at your Chevrolet dealer's!)

Tri County Irrigation Clinic

There will be a tri-county irrigation clinic held in O'Brien, Texas March 29 at the school gym, starting at 9:00 a.m. The clinic is being sponsored by the B & K Electric and the Stamford Electric Co-ops. The tentative speakers for the program are Tom Cowan, S. C. S.; Bob Thurman, Portland Cement Ass'n; Billy Gunter, Extension Agronomist; James Valentine, Extension Soil Chemist; Shelby Newman, Agronomist, Texas Exp. Station; Leo Dirnberger, R.E.A. Engineer and Wayne Keese, Extension Engineer.

The clinic is being called a tri-county event because it is primarily for the people of the Baylor, Haskell and Knox counties irrigation area; however, this will be a very good program and any person that is interested regardless of their home location is invited to attend. In addition to the meeting, there will be an equipment exhibit also.
