Look To The East

Whodunnit?

This is a word often heard around a newspaper office. We guess the reason is that we are quite prone to making mistakes, and the embarrassing thing is that, nine times out of ten, when a mistake is found it is too late to make a correction.

Generally, too, but not always, the mistake is in the largest type to be found in the paper. When it is discovered is when the press run is completed, and the force is engaged in preparing "the sheet" for mailing.

When finally discovered, the error stands out like a sore toe and the sight of it causes one to smart all over as if the sore toe had been again stumped against a solid object.

This is not always the case, however. The error often occurs in "the body type." This is the smaller type that has been written and read in the editorial department, put into type in the composing room, carefully read by the proof reader, then maybe corrected by the person operating the type setting machine.

To determine "whodunnit" might require cross examining every member of the staff, with the result being somewhat embarrassing to the person making the error.

By far the best method is for everyone to share the blame. Chances are, after everything is said and done, the blame can be laid to the entire staff.

If the error originated in the editorial department, why wasn't it caught when looking over the typewritten copy? why wasn't it checked in the hard-to-read longhand copy that was turned in? Carrying the questions further, why wasn't the error caught by the typesetter? the proofreader? or by those who did the checking when the "camera ready" pages were completed?

By this time, every person on the staff has possibly handled the news story containing such error.

A number of times, we've read newspaper accounts of a reporter or an editor being sentenced to a jail term because he would not divulge the source of information in his story. Great, we think, is the man who holds a confidence so dear that he will accept a court sentence rather than divulge the confidence.

That is one of the great phrases of our beloved "freedom of the press." Why can't we follow such an example by withholding information on "whodunnit?" The person who became irred by the error wouldn't like it, but it would be a great gesture of sticking together upon the part of we who are engaged in newspapering.

We could cite many instances when someone demanded "Whodunnit?" and the person responsible caught the ire of the offended person. We can cite instances when the publisher was "dressed down to size" over an error in the paper he had not yet discovered!

The latest whodunnit occurred just last Friday. A group of persons honored the Courier editor, Bill

Junior Rodeo Furnishes Many Thrills, Spills for Spectators

Crowds began making their way to the Lake Creek Rodeo Arena last Friday afternoon, immediately following the 5 p. m. parade and filled the arena to overflowing for the annual Junior Rodeo sponsored by the Lake Creek Rodeo members.

A repetition was experienced again Saturday night to make this rodeo one of the most successful ever held in the local arena.

The Jaycee-sponsored parade, which officially opened the rodeo, formed at the Farmers Co-op Grain elevator and wended its way around several blocks of the business district and back to the starting point. Cars and people formed along the parade route to witness this enjoyable event.

The parade, led by an officer of the Knox County Sheriff's Department, the Munday fire truck, etc., featured the Munday Mogul Band, between 75 and 100 horses, including the Stamford Junior Riding Club, a colorful Girl Scout float including the girls and sponsors, decorated equipment from Horton's Equipment Co., and Quality Implements, pets, bicycles and other entries.

It was a hungry bunch of people who attended the rodeo, too. The Jaycees featured Curley Awalt barbecue sandwiches and other goodies for the crowd, and they completely sold out during each performance.

The rodeo itself featured contestants from a number of other towns and cities outside Knox County, including Haskell, Anson, Aspermont, Seymour, Olney, Lubbock, Stamford, Quanah, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Electra, Abilene, Sweetwater, and others.

The following are winners in the various rodeo events: Bareback, Shetlands: first, Shawn Cude, Goree; second, Todd Thompson, Munday.

Break-away roping: 13-year olds and under, no catches; 16 and under, Randal Redder, Munday. Tie down, 17-19: Keith Rowan, Knox City; Joey Swain, Knox City; Shorty Mellowain, Hamlin; Gary Knox, Quanah.

IT'S OFFICIAL: Hal Amerson, chairman of the Munday Housing Authority board of commissioners, makes the remodeling contract official by affixing his signature on March 30. Looking on are Winters Matthews, executive secretary; Aaron Edgar, vice chairman, and Cameron Alread, architect.

Contract Let On Housing Repairs

The initial phase of awarding a contract for remodeling and repairing some 20 dwelling units of the Munday Housing Authority was carried out on Wednesday, March 30, when Hal Amerson, chairman of the Authority's Board of Commissioners, signed all necessary papers.

The contract was awarded to D & T Construction Co. of Dallas, whose bid of $73,377 was the lowest of eight bids submitted about a month ago. Bids ranged from this low to a high of $148,935.

Cameron Alread, architect of Fort Worth, delivered the plans and specifications and all necessary papers to be signed in awarding the contract. He was accompanied to Munday by Gene R. Robertson, professional engineer of the Housing Programs and Management Branch of HUD.

By affixing his signature 24 times to complete the contracts papers, Amerson made the contract official, then complained of writer's cramps! Also present were Winters Matthews, executive secretary of the Authority, and Aaron Edgar, vice chairman of the board.

According to Mr. Alread, work on the project will start around April 11, and the construction firm head stated "we will be out of here by September 1." The contract calls for 305 days for completion and will expire February 9, 1978. Thus, completion is expected to be far ahead of the time allowed.

A representative of D & T Construction Co. was in Munday the latter part of last week to survey the project and make plans for beginning of construction.

Some of the units will be repaired and remodeled first, it was stated, then residents of other units may be moved into the new ones so work can be continued.

Bank Deposits Remain High

People generally still have money, and many local people continue to patronize the First National Bank in Munday with their deposits.

A condensed statement of the bank's condition issued at the close of business March 31, shows local deposits still above the $10-million mark. Early in January, the deposits reached an all-record high when a total of $12,800,000 was recorded.

Total deposits shown in the bank on March 31 were $10,405,821.83, which shows the Munday area still in pretty good shape!

Assets of the bank are shown at $12,002,781.25.

Jaycees With Winning Beards

From the nicest to the ugliest—that's the way the judging went in the Jaycee beard growing contest.

After several weeks of "sporting" the beards and enduring that itchy feeling and uncomplimentary remarks from friends, the Jaycees are glad it's over. Winners were announced as follows:

Best overall beard, Melton Morgan; best groomed, Frank Dutton; ugliest, Tony Shawver.

New Members Added To City, School Boards

School Board

Voters of Munday took a "new look" at things and turned out in greater numbers to elect school board members and city councilmen last Saturday. Officers believe the turnout meant renewed interest in affairs of city and school.

From a field of six candidates, two were elected to positions on the Munday Independent School Board, with the election drawing a total of 331 votes.

Robert G. Hosea, who is employed by the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, and Byron Gass, area farmer, were named to the board with 203 and 151 votes, respectively.

Among them was an anonymous gift: an empty cigarette pack, except that it contained several "dead" cigarette butts and a typewritten note. Letters To The Editor

LETTER TO EDITOR

We enjoy the Munday Courier so much I wouldn't think of purposely not renewing it, but there are people who lose cards and then suddenly wonder why the mailman didn't deliver the paper.

After the 2nd or 3rd week you suddenly realize it may be that you didn't send in your renewal and decide to correct your error as soon as possible. So, would you please start sending the Courier as soon as possible. Thank You, Mrs. James Styles, Star Route, Seymour, Tx. 76380

April 1, 1977

Dear Bill,

Enjoyed the article on Munday's most recent Eagle Scout, Till Burnett. Noticed that you failed to mention three of us in the last part of the article; Jerry Lindsey was Munday's first Eagle Scout of the "modern era" and was an inspiring leader to those who followed. I was next in 1957 and the late Allen Eiland received the Eagle award at the same time as John Massey.

It is great to have been a member of the early part of this list and I am sure it will grow in time.

Cordially, James T. Lee, Jr. M. D. Minneapolis, Minn.

Editor's Note: We have also learned that two others, Stan Key and Mike Putnam, also earned the Eagle award while members of the Munday troop.

Dear Mr. Edgar:

The people of this state elected me and pay my salary and it's my job to serve them as best I can. But you know, if I never got out and visited with groups such as yours, I wouldn't know what the people are thinking or what they need.

I genuinely appreciated the chance to speak to the Munday Chamber of Commerce last Thursday, and look forward to doing so again sometime.

I had a good time and hope everyone else did, too. If you ever need any help from my office, give us a call toll-free at 1-800-252-5555.

Sincerely, Bob Bullock, Comptroller of Pub. Accts.

... From Me To You ...

Charles G. Boren

Like Linus of the "Peanuts" cartoon strip, perhaps you think, "No problem is so big or so complicated that it cannot be run away from!" But in dealing with sin and separation, there can be no successful running away from God. This lesson can be learned by observing the experience of Jonah. All of his running failed. His hope then as well as ours today is to face the fact that we must be reconciled to God, that we must seek Him, that we must, as James states, "draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh" to us.

Many try running away from God by running to artificial happiness. Some try drugs, alcohol, or money and etc., but are never satisfied because these directions will never bring true happiness. What, then, can provide a rich fulfilling life? The apostle Paul said that God is not far from each of us if we reach out for him (Acts 17:27). Running to God is the only way that true happiness will ever be experienced.

THE BIG ONE FOR DRY COUNTRY

IT'S DEPENDABLE

Dependable yields of consistently high quality fiber even in drought years. That's what made LX 571 a long time favorite with farmers here about. And it's nice to know that you don't have to give up something else for drought resistance. Farmers appreciate the good gin turn-out of fairly long staple fiber which makes in the premium range under normal conditions.

At maturity you'll like the looks of LX 571's storm resistant bolls and at harvest you'll appreciate how well it strips one-time-over.

HELP REHAB CENTER BUY EASTER SEALS

Homer H. Scott, chairman of the West Texas Easter Seals campaign, expressed concern today regarding the response to last week's mail-out of almost 50,000 Easter Seals appeal letters to residents of the Big Country.

Scott said, "As of March 30 only $4,359.50 has been received, which is considerably behind where we were last year at this time." Scott emphasized the fact that the Easter Seals campaign in West Texas is a vital part of the funding program for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. "I hope that it's just a matter of folks getting busy and letting it slip their minds, and that they will mail in their response envelop as quickly as possible," Scott added.

The Easter Seals Society of West Texas is comprised of the following counties: Taylor, Runnels, Jones, King, Knox, Nolan, Fisher, Callahan, Shackelford, Haskell, and Stonewall.

The 1977 Easter Seals campaign in the Big Country will help provide rehabilitation and diagnostic services to almost 5,000 handicapped men, women, and children at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Farm Policy Proposals

Producers of Grain

"Carter Administration proposals to raise the loan rate for corn to $2 per bushel while holding the wheat loan rate at $2.25 would, if implemented, tend to encourage feedgrain production relative to wheat production," says Dr. Ron Knutson, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The long term-effect of the proposed changes in policy is more important than its short-run impact," contends Knutson.

The proposal to raise corn prices relative to wheat has the potential over the four-year life of the bill of realigning wheat and feedgrain prices. This realignment is based on the U. S. Department of Agriculture premise that (1) if wheat prices fall to the support level, wheat should be priced competitive with feedgrains; and (2) the U. S. is in a world market position where it can significantly influence or set the floor on feedgrain prices. These notions represent a substantial change in farm program philosophy, points out Knutson.

"The Administration also proposes to establish a 300 million-bushel wheat reserve," notes the economist. "This reserve would be held by farmers under a three-year storage contract. The producer would be prepaid storage costs in addition to the loan. In return, he would give up his right to market the grain until the market price reached $3.15 per bushel-140 per cent of the loan rate. The loan would be called when the market price reached $3.94-175 per cent of the loan rate."

Under normal crop conditions, the effect of the 300-million-bushel wheat reserve proposal would be to maintain market prices between the $2.25 support level and the $3.15 release price. Under these conditions farmers could potentially expect returns between the $2.60 target price and the $3.15 release price. However, a market price for wheat of less than $2.60 is probable this year if the weather generates favorable growing conditions, says Knutson.

"Under conditions of relatively short supply, the $3.94 per bushel required release price for wheat would tend to act as an upper price limit. However, the reserve is not large enough to withstand a major production shortfall unless similar reserves are established by other countries," contends the economist. "Such international reserve are part of the Administration's plan. Good production this year will tend to increase pressure to lift the 300-million-bushel loan limit next year."

Sorghum target prices are being proposed using the same cost of production formula as for other crops. This would give sorghum a target price of about $3.70 per hundred-weight. The loan rate for sorghum has not yet been announced.

Indication is that it will be either equal to the corn loan rate of 95 per cent of the corn rate on a bushel basis. In either case, in contrast with corn, the sorghum target price will be marginally higher than the sorghum loan rate. The corn target price, set on the basis of cost of production, is $1.75 per bushel compared with a $2 loan rate. This year feedgrain demand is considered strong enough to maintain corn prices above the loan level.

"The proposed elimination of acreage allotments would increase the uncertainty of the proportion on which deficiency payments would be made," says Knutson. "Under the proposed plan, payments would only be made on production needed for domestic use, export demand and necessary carryover. The larger the supply relative to market needs, the lower would be the proportion of current production eligible for deficiency payments. With the new price alignment, wheat and rice are the only commodities where target prices are substantially higher than support prices and thus have the potential for deficiency payments."

TEXAS TALK

By Tommie Harper

Econometricians are coming to the American farm. The rush to the farm is caused by the unusual price fluctuations farm commodities have been through during the past few years. What an econometrician tries to do is build a computer model of the world situation for a particular commodity... like wheat. He puts into the computer all data on wheat crops...how much is planted...where it is planted...what affects yield, etc. Then after hundreds of facts are in place the fun really begins with suppositions of actions and reactions. If the price drops 20 cents a bushel, how much will be stored rather than sold?...how much will be deleted from plantings?, and so on. Most major agricultural companies are already subscribing to one of the econometric forecasting services and some are now being planned for use by individual producers.

PUMPING PLANT for irrigation Tailwater Recovery System. Pump is mounted on floating device with flexible hose to pump stand.

Irrigation Water Can Be Used Very Wisely

Water is the life blood of any area. Therefore, it becomes the responsibility of each person to use the water in the best possible way.

Irrigation water running off of our cropland is not only wasteful, but it also carries sediment, chemicals, and plant foods with it. These examples can become a pollution problem farther downstream.

The irrigation water can be collected, stored, and transported for re-use with a tailwater recovery system. A tailwater recovery system not only reduces pollution by collecting the water that runs off while irrigating, but also conserves irrigation water supplies and carries plant foods back onto the cropland.

The following items are needed to have a successful tailwater recovery system:

1. Collection Facility- which carries water to a storage area without erosion taking place. Usually a waterway or field ditch at the lower end of the irrigation run.

2. Storage- A storage area large enough to provide needed storage, usually a storage pit, or pond completely enclosed by the embankment, with a pipe through the embankment as an inlet to the pit. The location of a sediment trap outside of the pit is also an essential item.

3. Return Facility- to return the irrigation water from the storage area to the irrigation system for reuse. Usually a pump at the tailwater pit and a pipeline back to the irrigation system is the simplest way of using a tailwater recovery system.

Technical assistance on tailwater recovery systems is available from your local Soil Conservation service.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill, Attorney General

AUSTIN—If the lowest price is the only thing you look for when shopping for a new car or appliance, you may be costing yourself money in the long run, our Consumer Protection Division attorneys note.

When making many consumer purchases, the lowest price tag doesn't necessarily mean the lowest overall cost. As a matter of fact, the initial price is only one thing to take into account when making a product selection and purchase.

Our Consumer Protection Division has received some complaints and inquiries from individuals who say they have been sold a "lemon" that's costing more in repairs and maintenance than they were led to believe when they made their purchase.

What often may be the case, though, is that the consumer failed to take into consideration normal maintenance costs, operating costs, and typical repairs to expect and their cost.

In order to weigh these and the many other factors consumers—whether individuals or businesses—should consider when making purchasing decisions, a buying technique called "life cycle costing" has been developed by consumer researchers. Using this technique can result in substantial savings over the life of a product, even if that product costs more in the beginning.

Life cycle costing takes into consideration the total cost of owning a product, and can be used in the purchase of anything you intend to use for an extended period. (Thus, it wouldn't help you decide between two brands of green beans, or two cans of shaving foam.)

To determine the total life cycle cost of a product, you should weigh these factors before making your purchasing decision, say our Consumer Protection attorneys: (1) the price of the product; (2) the installation cost, if there is one; (3) the operating cost of the product, which deals with the amount of energy required to run the product. With cars, this figure can be determined by multiplying the Environmental Protection Agency's average miles per gallon figures by the number of miles you expect to drive the car. For appliances, you can look for energy efficiency information, such as the EER, or energy efficiency ratio, of a room air conditioner. Where such figures are not given, you should ask the dealer and check with other purchasers to learn about what the average operating costs are.

(4) The repair costs you should anticipate. This involves considering what the product warranty will and will not cover and comparing warranties to get the most coverage for the money; (5) the number of years you expect to own the product; and (6) how much you expect to use the product.

Our attorneys note that consumers will have to make some trade-offs when using life cycle costing. For example, if you're a young person just beginning your first job, furnishing your first apartment, and shopping for your first car, all at the same time, you may have to give more weight to the purchase price of that car than to the number of years you can expect to drive it. But when it's possible to use life cycle costing, it can help you buy a product that is the most economical and efficient for your needs. This is especially important now, since present and future utility costs will be a major consumer expense, and since life cycle costing helps to determine which product will be more costly to run.

For assistance with a consumer complaint, write or drop by the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Divisions in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso, and McAllen. Or call this toll-free number: 1-800-252-9236.

Beauty's GROCERY & MARKET

We asked for it, and we got it. A 25th anniversary surprise party. After all our hula-ba-loo about wanting one, we really were surprised when on Friday morning about 9 o'clock it happened.

We are not as hard-hearted as we thought we were, because we couldn't keep the tears from flowing. Ole Boy said they made a "blubberin Bill" out of us instead of a Blabbin Bill. Oh yes, he received the "Purple Heart" for the wonderful service to Bill, the girl of his dreams and the one who helped her stay with the newspaper for twenty-five years.

The card went on to say, wear it with honor, you have earned it. This was Mary C's idea. What do you think? Really Ole Boy should be the one to give us the honor for having to live with him for what is going on 50 years, come December 31, 1978.

We thoroughly enjoyed our party, after we wiped away the tears, and oh yes, we did get some very lovely gifts to commemorate "Our Day." We don't quite know how to thank all of you who had a hand in our surprise party, but in our own ignorant way we say "Thanks."

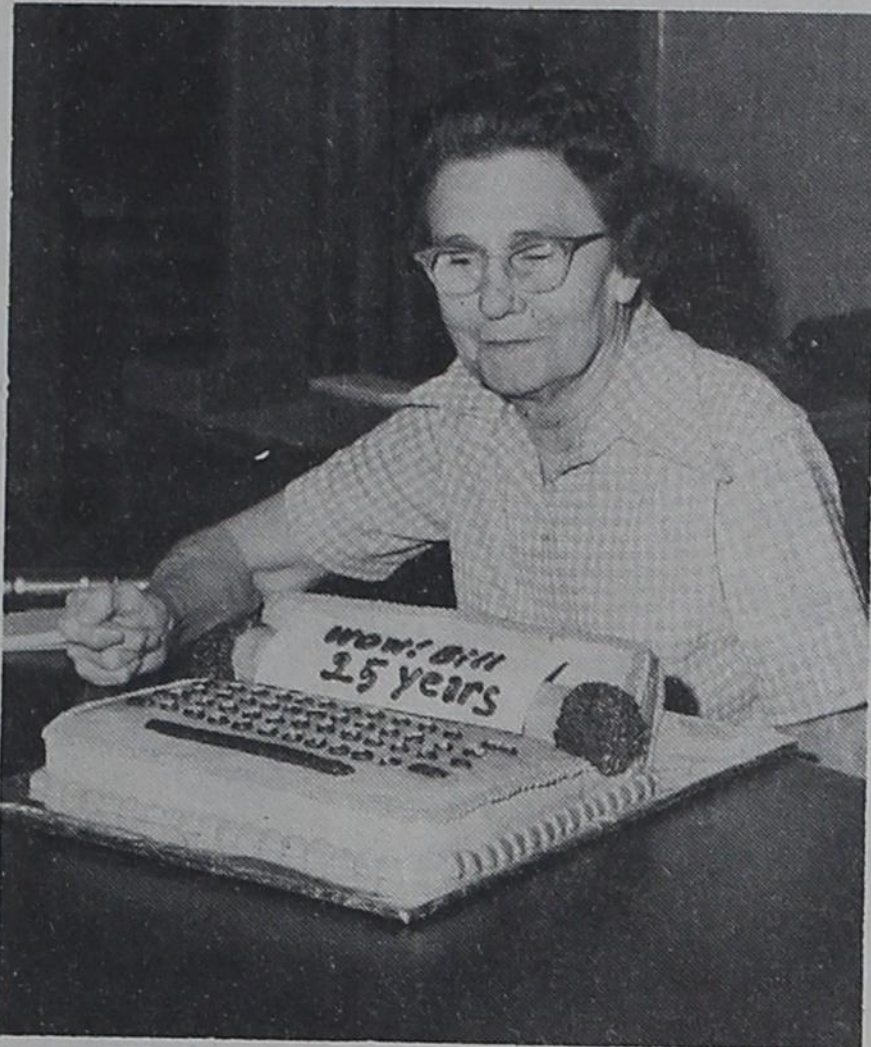

We hope Mr. Edgar learned a lesson from our Blabbin because he has a 50th anniversary in the newspaper business coming up in September and if he wants a surprise party, just let people know. Then when they do, you can't keep from being a little chagrined for fear some people might think you meant it.

In fact, one person remarked that we were giving our selves a surprise party because she read it in our blabbin. Sue Baker assured us that anyone that really knew us would know we were just popping off. We hope so, for that was what we were doing, filling up our column.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Waddell and Debbie of Brownwood visited the latter part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hawkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith visited points of interest in the Rio Grande Valley during the weekend.

'Blabbin Bill' Gets What She Asked For

START TYPING! Bill Bowley received this 25th anniversary cake at her "surprise" party last Friday, and seems undecided as to whether start typing or begin eating the pretty cake. Visitors admired it, but didn't taste it!

Then came Friday, April 1. April Fools Day was designed as a day for pulling foolish pranks on friends—and some not so friendly—but this day took on a different meaning.

Bill Bowley had been "blabbin in her blabbin" several times about wanting a surprise party in honor of having completed 25 years in the newspaper profession. She had commented, too, about how dumb she was to begin with, and how much she had improved as the days, months and years passed!

Still, she thought friends would think she was just poppin' off (so she said) and would pay no attention to the surprise party element. But, to her surprise, it happened!

Shortly after she came to work Friday, being assigned to a special job on her 'day off,' the door opened and people began coming in the Courier Office yelling "Surprise! Surprise!" The people were those who had been giving her a batch of trouble all along.

If Bill Bowley wasn't surprised, she faked it pretty good. She was speechless, too, but not tearless. Those tear ducts let loose in good fashion!

People handling the surprise deal were Cheryl Berryhill, with Buford's help and approval; Rebba Redder, with Rhiney included;

Jeanie Carden, who also included Jimmy, and Jeanene Redder, and her best man, Billy.

Bill "advertised" for no gifts, but some of them were brought in, too. Most interesting of these was a cake baked in the form of a Royal typewriter and decorated with all the keys, platen roll, and stuff. At mid-afternoon, the cake had not been cut—it was a showpiece.

Other gifts came, too—a silver "25th anniversary" tray, a bell for Sappy to ring when her breakfast was ready, a lovely plant for her home since she's going in for flowers and stuff, a book so people could register and write briefly what they thought of "the elderly lady up front," and some other gadgets and doo-dads.

A lot of people called during the day, offering their congratulations and embraces, and some hoped she would have another good 25 years in the newspaper business. Sappy didn't!

Coffee, punch and cookies were served. To this day, we don't know if anyone got to taste the anniversary cake!

The "cloud nine" on which Blabbin Bill was riding hovered over the Courier office all day—and it was sometime Monday before she completed her Friday's assignment!

It was a rewarding experience for Bill Bowley.

Girl Scouts Hold Father And Daughter Banquet Monday

Girl Scout father enjoyed a real treat Monday night, April 4, when they, along with their daughters, attended the annual Father-Daughter Banquet.

A western theme was carried out in all the decorations. Upon entering the Community Center, fathers were instructed to "hang up" their guns on the gun post. Table favors included a ceramic boot and red bandana for each father and wheel barrels filled with nuts and boot mint. Western centerpieces accented each troop's table.

Miss Tina Josselet, cadette, served as mistress of ceremonies. After a flag ceremony, Bill Thomas gave the invocation and all enjoyed a buffet supper.

The troops provided entertainment for their fathers and guests. Brownie troop 105 performed a folk dance and delighted everyone with their ability. Brownie troop 106 only had half their girls present, but sang "Wagon Wheel" with motions. Junior troop 42 performed some Cowboy and Indian skits and sang "Ragtime Cowboy Joe."

Special guests present were Mrs. Barbara Brock and Mrs. Valerie Massey of NorCent Girl Scout Council in Wichita Falls. Also honored was Daniel Ramirez of the Home Building Center for donating supplies for the troops' crafts throughout the year.

Mrs. Brock presented one-year certificates to leaders and assistant leaders, Mrs. Shirley Thomas, Mrs. Cheryl Berryhill, Mrs. Gail Bordovsky and Miss Kerri Baker. Mrs. Reba Redder, Mrs. Reba Jackson, and Mrs. Jeanene Redder received two-year patches for their service. Mrs. Brock also presented the girls their mall patches which they earned by attending the Mall Fair in February in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Valerie Massey complimented all the girls on the fine job they did selling cookies this year. She said they had set a record for the Munday area by being such super salesgirls. Each girl who had sold 50 boxes, 100 boxes, and 150 boxes was recognized and given her patch or patches.

Miss Josselet presented Mrs. Brock and Mrs. Massey a "Boot of the West" for helping coordinate activities for the Munday girls and always being there when they are needed.

Junior high and high school girls who serve as helpers for each troop were given autograph books with the girls' signatures and special messages. These were Tina Josselet, Lynn West, Rachel Martinez, Kerri Baker and DeeAnn Hertel.

As the program concluded, the entire group joined in singing "Happy Trails."

More Pork Chops... Less Milk... Fewer Cattle... Applicator School.

Texas hog producers are joining with those in the rest of the nation in planning an increase in farrowings later this year.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that Texas farmers indicate farrowings of 45,000 sows now through May. Although this is unchanged from a year ago, intentions for the June-August period project a 6 per cent increase compared to that quarter in 1976.

Nationwide, farrowing intentions in the June to August period are expected to be 5 per cent more than a year ago and 26 per cent higher than two years ago.

Hog and pig numbers in Texas totaled 850,000 head as of March 1; this is up 8 per cent from a year ago. Breeding hogs accounted for 16.1 per cent of the total and were up 7,000 head from last March 1.

Milk Production in Texas during February is down 4 per cent from a year ago and is 7 per cent below the previous month.

Milk production per cow averaged 800 pounds, which represents a reduction of 25 pounds below a year ago. Nationwide, milk production during February was virtually unchanged from a year ago, but was 7 per cent more than two years ago.

A TEXAN NOW! This 1929 Model A Ford truck was towed all the way from California and arrived in Munday last week. It was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gray and towed to Texas behind their camper pickup.

Grays Tow Model A Truck on Long Journey

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Gray returned home last week from a trip to California, bringing home a Model A Ford truck. The following is Mrs. Gray's account of the trip:

On March 26, we started on a 3,000 mile trip to Clovis, Calif., to pick up our 1929 Model A Ford dual-wheel ice truck which we had purchased in November, 1976, from my sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Caputo. The truck was once owned by Central California Ice Co., and was sold, along with others, when the company went out of business. It carries a 1953 license tag, the last time it was registered.

The Caputo family later became the owners, and it was used around their fig ranch hauling boxes of figs out of the orchard to the trucks waiting to take them to market; therefore, it wasn't necessary to register it for other uses.

We arrived there on Sunday afternoon, and early Monday morning began searching for a flat-bed U-haul trailer, but none could be found. After spending two days and covering many miles, we decided on using a towbar. By afternoon Wednesday, we were rolling toward Texas, arriving home Saturday afternoon without any trouble.

On the way there, we drove through snow in Arizona and parts of California, and snow was still on the mountains as we returned, making it very cold and disagreeable when out of the pickup.

As we neared the Texas line, the weather became more pleasant, and we began to thaw out and feel much better, especially on learning that we had received a good rain while away.

While searching for a trailer, we passed acres and acres of orange orchards. The trees were loaded with large beautiful oranges, and we wished we could pick them to our heart's content. We learned later that all were frozen on the trees and hard as rocks. We were told that only a very few in places would be picked for juice, as only half of the oranges had any juice, the remainder just pulp.

MRS. GEORGE STEWART LINK

Local's Grandson Married In Brownfield Baptist Church

The Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Brownfield was the setting for the 2:00 p. m. wedding on March 19, 1977 of Miss Vlinda Carol Alexander of Brownfield and George Stewart Link of Lubbock.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander Jr. of Brownfield and Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Jackson of Crowell. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Conrad Link of Brownfield.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Alexander Sr. of Monahans, grandfather of the bride. Vows were exchanged before a tall white Grecian urn which held a spray of gladioli in colors of sweet pink and yellow. Flanking the altar were two white cathedral candelabras entwined with greenery, each holding seven pink tapers. Satin bows of pink and yellow adorned the pews.

Dale Bowman was organist and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Boyd of Hereford, aunt and uncle of the groom, as they sang, "O, Perfect Love." Traditional wedding marches were played by the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of candlelight Peau satin, with overlay of silk organza. The gown, fashioned by the bride, featured a V neckline with pointed waistband of candlelight Venetian lace and full length sleeves of organza which ended in soft ruffles over the hands.

The empire waistline enhanced an A-Line skirt which was edged with scalloped lace, and swept into a short train. The tired veil of candlelight silk illusion was edged in matching lace and attached to a headpiece formed by a wide satin bow. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations, encircled by carnations in shades of sweet pink and rose pink, with matching satin streamers graced with love knots.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Judy Jackson of Crowell. She was attired in a floor length gown of pale pink polyester knit and designed in princess fashion, with long sleeves attached to wide cuffs at the wrist. She carried a bouquet of feathered carnations in shades of rose pink, with matching streamers.

The groom's father served his son as best man. Ushers were Erwin Jackson, Crowell, brother of the bride, Edward Link, brother of the groom, and J. C. Adams Jr., both of Lubbock.

Miss Deborah Link of Brownfield, sister of the groom, registered guests in the foyer of the chapel.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the parlor of the First Methodist Church.

Church in Brownfield. For a wedding trip in Colorado, the bride chose a pink and white two piece outfit with white accessories.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Brownfield High School and is attending Texas Tech University, where she is majoring in applied voice and music education.

The groom is a 1970 graduate of Brownfield High School and has served with the Armed Forces overseas. He is also attending Texas Tech and his major is range science management. He is the grandson of Mrs. Oscar Spann of Munday.

Following the wedding trip, the bride and groom will make their home in Lubbock, where they will continue their education.

 Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson, Stacy Joe and Heather of Denver, Colo. visited Tenenie Montandon and Imogene McCarty last week.
