Twins Have Open House At Fourth Birthday Party

"Come on in," said Amy and Sheila Morgan, as they proudly showed off their new play house to all their little friends last Wednesday, April 11. The occasion was the twin's fourth birthday party, hosted by their mother, Kathy Mor-

They held "open house" so everyone could see their recently finished "home". Coy Tuggle, friend and neighbor, built the house for them out of scrap lumber, during his spare time. He started on it last November, and in spite of all the bad weather and working some too, he still managed to finish it in time for the girls' birthday.

Mr. Tuggle built an identical play house for his granddaughters some years ago, and said the twins reminded him of them.

The play house is painted red and white trim and has flower boxes on the windows. It's paneled on the inside with linoleum floor covering. Red and white stripe curtains decorate the windows.

For the birthday, the girls received a play stove, refrigerator and sink. Their daddy, Melton Morgan, built them a toy box couch covered in red vinyl. They also have a couple of rockers to complete the furnishings. So, they are ready to set up housekeeping!

Attending the party were Michelle Wilde, Brandi Stoddard, Jamie King, Melissa and Michele Berryhill, Amy Huffman, Chris Shahan, Brandi Crawford, Brandi Brannon, and Dixie Reid. Other guests and mothers attending were Patsy Patterson, Julie Stoddard, observer of the farm scene said: "An Illinois farmer can die oftener, come to life and recuperate quicker than any other class of men I ever knew. Give him one good crop, with fair prices and he sits up and gets saucy." This observation could apply to most farmers any where in the country Farmers are in an unique group of businessmen. By the very nature of their work, they constantly meet new situations, new problems and find new solutions. A farmer's life is one of trying to meet each challenge before it gets around the corner. By meeting these challenges, farmers know the feeling of accomplishment. They know they have accomplished something worthwhile; worthwhile, not only to the farmer and his family, but also to you and me. Farmers are businessmen who provide much of the "good life" which is so important to you and me.

Check Social Security Earnings

A record of the earnings reported for every person who has worked in employment or self-employment covered by social security is maintained at social security headquarters, Mr. James H. Harper, Social Security Branch Manager in Vernon,

The accuracy of these records depends in a large part on the accuracy of the reports made by employers. Starting with 1978 wages, reports are made just once a Pole Vault - Kevin Smith, David Hunter, Lawrence Collier, Danny Hertel, 4:14, year, using Form W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement). Before 1978, wages were reported four times a year.

Employees can check their copy of the W-2 Form to make sure their employer completed the form correctly and showed all earnings covered by social security if that figure is different than their total earnings.

If the employee has any question about whether the form is properly completed he or she should check with his or her employer.

People can also check their own social security earnings record to make sure their past earnings have been properly reported. All they have to do is ask for a copy of the postcard form 7004 at any social security office, fill it in, sign it, and mail it.

In return they will receive a form showing their Mile Relay - Chris Moore, earnings for recent years, along with total earnings reported since they started working under Social Security. If the information does not correspond with their own records, they should contact social security right away. They should furnish all the information available about their earnings.

People can get a Form 7004 at the Vernon Social Security Office, located at 1701 Cumberland. The telephone number is 817-552-9346. If you live in Childress, Paducah, or Quanah, you may call toll-free by dialing the operator and asking for enterprise 6-5013.

FEEDING THE

"Providing A Service"

HELICOPTER - FIXED WING

SMALL BREEDER FLOCK A hen's nutrition is a vital element in the hatchability of her eggs, says a poultry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. When fully developed poultry embryos fail to hatch, it's usually because some essential element was missing from the hen's diet. Therefore, hens should be fed speical "breeder" rations rather than "laying" rations.
