Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

"We just have two seasons, now," Mrs. Hal Amerson said to Mrs. Edgar last Sunday as we departed from church services. "That's winter and summer."

"We sure do need another one," we opined, "and that's a rainy season." Being interested in the products of the soil, Hal agreed to this statement quite readily.

We didn't know that our wishful thinking would result in this season arriving as soon as it did. It might not have lasted as long as we—and you—and Hal—wanted it to; it might not have rained as much as we needed, but the knowledge that it can still rain gives us hope for the future.

Maybe the prediction we mentioned last week is right—the month of April will be above average in temperature, and in rainfall. Again we're doing some wishful thinking.

Herb Partridge, the "big guar man" has been getting some valuable mentions on Earl Sargeant's program over KWFT radio recently. When we confronted him with the fact the other day, he came up with this story on himself:

It seems Herb was up here for a guar meeting with farmers. As he got up before the group of some 50 assembled farmers to extoll the virtues of the lowly guar bean, he told the assembly by way of introduction: "I'm just an old farmer like you. I'm not a speaker."

When he had finished his informative dissertation, said Herb, he noticed one of those Deaf Smith County farmers sauntering up to him with a teasing grin on his face. He wrung Herb's hand vigorously, and said: "I shure hope you are a better farmer than you are speaker!"

If you are interested in cotton and its production in the future, it might be a good idea for you to attend the cotton production meeting which will be held at the Munday school gymnasium next Tuesday night. A "courtesy meal" will be served beginning at 6:30 p.m.

You'll hear from an Extension Service farm management specialist, an entomologist from a large chemical firm, a member of the steering committee of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and an agricultural director of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association.

Some vital and pertinent facts concerning the future of cotton will be given you. Be there, if you possibly can.

Within a few weeks, it will be a real treat to take a spin about the countryside in Texas—that is, when the flowering time gets in full swing. Texas has its share of beauty spots in the spring, some of which incite pilgrimages for visitors.

But for all the beauty of the Texas countryside at springtime, we saw a report recently that the state has more than its share of eyesores, too. These you'll find when approaching almost any city, town or hamlet.

A national study recently made by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads discovered that Texas has some 1,603 abandoned automobile dumpheaps near major highways. That is more than any state except California. In the nation, a total of 17,700 such junkyards were reported.

Along with the "Don't be a litterbug" program for our public highways, there's also a move to get rid of the auto graveyards—if not that, hide them behind fences of plantings of trees.

W. C. Cox of Winnsboro, superintendent of the Munday schools for some 11 years, was visiting here several days during the week end, along with his wife. Cox remarked that he had to come back to Munday to "straighten a few people out." When it was seen who he was hobnobbing around with, such as Mayor J. E. Reeves, one person remarked that he would wear a great big hole in his welcome before he straightened them out! We guess he did, though. He isn't around anymore.

Revival Opens Next Sunday At Baptist Church

Dr. William O. Beazley, director of student life and admissions at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, will be evangelist for the revival which opens next Sunday at the First Baptist Church in Munday.

BLIND SPOT—This map was prepared recently by B. W. Musgraves, chairman of the Junior College Division, Texas Education Agency, and a frequent visitor in this area since the project was launched to establish a junior college in a four-county area, comprising Haskell, Stone-wall, Throckmorton, and Knox Counties. It points up most graphically the advantageous position in which the four-county area under consideration would be, so far as substantiating a need is concerned. This immediate area is located in dead center of one of the two largest "blind spots" in the entire state where there are no junior colleges. The circles pinpoint the spots where 33 public junior colleges, such as being sought for this area, and 10 privately operated junior colleges are located in Texas. A TIME OF FAITH

This is the month of Easter. And throughout Christendom, the resurrection of Jesus Christ as the central fact of the Christian religion will be celebrated. On that first morning, a great rock stood rolled back from the doorway of an empty tomb. The Lord had risen and the Christian faith was born.

In this fast paced world, the swift passage of events often leaves us breathless and occasionally wondering how best to be ready both personally and as a nation to meet the shifting circumstances which are sure to arise with the new day's sun. At such a time, each of us needs a firm base founded on faith in divine purpose and a sense of direction and continuity in our lives.

This is a time to strengthen our faith and sense of direction. Easter signifies renewal and rebirth—appropriately the word itself was derived from the name of an ancient goddess of spring. Aside from its religious significance, the ritual that is part of the Easter observance in every church has a meaning for us of its own. It is rooted deeply in tradition, and it imparts a feeling of permanence as we realize how strongly the traditions of the past are with us today. Even my lady's Easter bonnet is after all not such a frivolous and meaningless thing. It is part of a tradition and happily enough, in most cases, an eye pleasing one. But tradition and Easter finery aside, as we inwardly renew our dedication to the Christian faith, we pass it on to future generations as the focal point of life and the continuing key building block of western civilization.

BEDFORD, IND., TIMESMAIL: "We came away from a leadership forum of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce . . . with the thought that business and industrial leaders of the nation must play a far greater role in political matters if this country is long to remain a great, free nation . . . After listening intently to speaker after speaker, we became more convinced than ever that our private enterprise system and individual initiative and incentive are headed for disaster. So we asked this question of a distinguished panel: 'Have we become a nation of sheep, easily led, as opposed to a nation of people capable of thinking and acting for themselves, and do the sheep so outnumber the thinkers that there is little hope of slowing or stopping the trend to socialistic government?'"

THE FUTURE OF NUCLEAR POWER

Speaking at the Inter-American Conference on Nuclear Power in Puerto Rico, an executive of the investor-owned electric utility which serves the New York City area contributed some extremely interesting views on this subject.

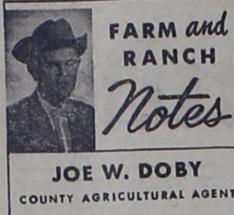

The gist of his talk is that nuclear power is here to stay and will play an increasing important role—but there are problems. One of these is that many people think that an atomic power plant is a highly dangerous installation. Legislation passed years ago requires extremely high and costly insurance. Yet, in view of present knowledge and experience, a properly designed and operated nuclear plant actually poses minimal risks. It is clear that a better public understanding of this facet is an urgent need.

The advantages of a nuclear plant vary materially from place to place. Distance from a source of conventional fuels is an important factor. And so is the type of community served. In New York, for instance, where land values are sky high, storage of hard fuel is an expensive and difficult proposition. Air pollution is another costly problem, as municipal codes become more and more stringent. In areas such as these, nuclear power offers strong and growing attractions.

What it all comes to is that nuclear power's place in our electric supply is destined to increase greatly during the years ahead and especially in regions of highly congested population. It will not supplant power production by other means. But it is adding a new element, with vast and vital potentialities.

LISBON, N. D., GAZETTE: "There is a proposal to levy a tax on advertising. Tax advertising? Well, it couldn't possibly be that simple . . . All advertising? Of course not. State government and its subdivisions would be exempt because any advertising done by governmental units would be in the nature of conveying information to the public, and therefore exempt. A sacred principle of our republic is the unrestricted freedom of speech, religion and press. In truth, legitimate advertising gives vent to all these freedoms."

People come in three classes: the few who make things happen, the many who watch things happen, and the overwhelming majority who have little or no idea what happened.

The Munday Cantaloupe Growers Association is ready for business this year. Boyd Meers, president, announced last week that a contract has been signed with Don Murphy, Carrizo Springs, to do their marketing this year. The association is planning to plant about 500 acres of cantaloupes and would like to have 500 acres of watermelons. They have about 300 acres planned so anyone wishing to grow watermelons are asked to contact Boyd or James Smith, secretary. The Association hopes that by concentrating the selling in one person, growers will be able to turn their attention to growing and harvesting.

The total acreage in cantaloupes will be about 750 acres in Knox County this year if present plans are carried out. This will mean about 15-20 semi-trailer loads each day for about 2 weeks will leave the county.

This year, the Santa Rosa Roundup will sponsor a calf scramble for 4-H and FFA boys, to be held each night of the rodeo, May 26-29. Knox County is allotted 6 4-H boys. The contest is limited to residents of Archer, Baylor, Foard, Knox, Wichita and Wilbarger counties.

Ten calves and twenty boys will be turned loose in the arena. Boys must catch, halter and lead the calf across the finish line. The first five boys across will receive a purchase certificate in the amount of $50, 45, $40, $35 and $30, depending upon the order of finish. This certificate can be used toward the purchase of any kind and breed of livestock to be used as a 4-H project.

Any Knox County 4-H boy interested contact me. If there are more than six, a drawing will be held to determine the winners.

When you buy a potato for boiling, you want it to behave like a boiling potato should—that is, keep its shape when cooked. And when you buy a potato for baking, you want it to turn out like a baked potato should—mealy and flaky. But how can you be sure? Not even all potatoes of the same variety are best for boiling or best for baking.

Marketing researchers at the Oregon State Department of Agriculture have found a way to separate the boilers from the bakers. They dump the potatoes in a brine solution of 1 cup salt to 11 cups of water. If the potato floats, it has a low solids content and is best for boiling. If it sinks, it's a baker.

This is one job your youngsters can do for you. Just get a kettle of salted water—and let them toss in the potatoes!

FORT RICHARDSON

... a long time between paydays!

Across the western face of Texas, the brooding ruins of forts . . . here and there a restored barracks or hospital bring back a bloody page in history. A history that tells of marauding redskins thundering southward from Indian Territory, killing in their wake, pushing on to the Mexican border. A history that tells too of the hard and lonely life of the U.S. Army troopers who manned these strategic forts.

Fort Richardson, near Jacksboro, was one of the more important of these outposts. Here Kiowa Chieftains Satanta and Big Tree were incarcerated before their trial for a bloody massacre. But life in all frontier posts was much the same . . . best expressed by the soldiers themselves, "a long time between paydays."

BUT IT ISN'T SO FAR BETWEEN PAYDAYS NOW
 . . . with U. S. Savings Bonds!

Today, there can also be a long time between paydays for those who have not established the thrift habit. But through the U.S. Savings Bonds program you can take care of this situation quickly and effectively.

For example, with as little as 63¢ a day you can buy an $18.75 Savings Bond every month. Keep this up for 40 months and you'll own a stack of Bonds worth $1,000, at maturity, which cost you only $750 in easy installments.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds every payday automatically through the payroll savings plan.

WIND TOPPLES TREE

The high winds Sunday night toppled a large tree in front of Mrs. G. B. Hammett's home, and she expressed the belief there might have been a small twister. The noise caused by the falling tree awakened Mrs. Hammett, who said the noise sounded as if an auto accident had occurred.

Mrs. Ed Wales of Olney and Mrs. E. C. Wales of Archer City visited Mrs. Jim Bell last Sunday afternoon.

A good rule to follow when using electrical appliances in the home is one item per outlet. The use of a double socket is not wise, for soon families will get away from small items like lamps or clocks, and begin using bigger appliances. The result may soon be a fire hazard.

PUTTING STOCK IN AMERICA'S YOUTH

New York (NAPS)—Richard K. Paynter, Jr., board chairman of the country's tenth largest company, participates in National Junior Achievement Week by buying a $1 share of stock in one of the country's smallest companies from its 17-year-old vice president, Ina Spellman. Chairman Paynter of New York Life Insurance Company invested the dollar (his own) in Lite Enterprises of Flushing, New York, which makes decorative boxes. The small company is sponsored by New York Life under the nation-wide Junior Achievement program, which teaches high-school students to organize and manage their own small-scale businesses with the guidance of adult business men.

surplus plants as soon as they begin to crowd each other, says Janne.

But for the best effect and to insure lasting enjoyment, the homeowner should realize that a well landscaped area requires planning and time to develop. Frequently the landscaping of the home must be done on a limited budget. This can be done very easily by breaking down the development into projects extending over several years, advises the horticulturist.

Priority should be given to the establishment of the trees and lawn. Once there are established, shrubs and flower beds can be added as funds and time become available.

Before making purchases of any kind, it is best to have a basic plan in mind. A publication available through your county agricultural agent's office entitled "A Planning Guide for Home Landscaping," B-980, outlines the procedure to follow to produce an effective landscape plan. Also, suggests Janne, ask him for other publications and information on growing plants.

Planting or Planning

Select plants for the outdoor living area with the same care and finesse that is used in selecting a fine piece of furniture for the interior living area.

Too often, says Everett Janne, Extension horticulturist, Texas A&M University, plant purchases are limited to impulse buying with no thought of where the plant will be used, or what its ultimate size will be. The urge to use plants that will give a quick effect will usually result in an outdoor living area filled with plants which soon outgrow their assigned space.

Over-planting is another tendency possessed by many home owners who are trying to secure a quick effect. This is fine if one has the fortitude to throw out the

Farm Cottage Features Space At Low Cost

A small frame cottage 18x26 feet in size has been designed and represents a practical minimum of both space and cost, reports W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer, Texas A&M University.

"It is intended primarily for a young couple starting out on a farm," says Allen. "Later, when the farm business is further developed, it can be used as a tenant house. Some families would find it convenient for a lake lodge."

The cottage is also adequate for a retired couple who do not wish to maintain a large house, he adds.

He points out that special space-saving features include an undercounter water heater, a pullout bed, a wall desk, a wall-type heater with a prefabricated metal or asbestos-cement chimney, and accordion-type closet doors.

The large porches and generous window areas make the cottage particularly suitable for nice views or relaxing comfort.

For a copy of this plan contact your county Extension agent and ask for cottage plan No. 7137.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert Weir of Abilene visited his parents, Rev. and Mrs. S. Frank Weir, last Tuesday and attended revival services at the Methodist Church on Tuesday night.

Here's cotton growers' first step in the Chemagro Practical Cotton Program

Give your crop an early, vigorous start by protecting against early-season pests with Di-Syston—the proven systemic insecticide

Di-Syston protection is absorbed as soon as root system forms. Entire plant is protected against aphids, mites and thrips up to 8 weeks.

Di-Syston is your first insect-control step toward a high quality cotton crop. This proven systemic insecticide prevents stunted, crooked plants caused by aphid, mite and thrips damage during the early seedling stage. Cotton sets fruit and squares early to make a good bottom crop. Di-Syston is applied at planting time and works from inside the plant where it is unaffected by weather. And, since Di-Syston is inside the plant, it will not harm beneficial insects . . . kills only the insects that suck plant juices. Start your cotton off right this season. Apply Di-Syston at planting time.

Recreation May Be New Source Of Farm Income

Texas farms and ranches hold a great potential in the field of recreational development.

Private recreational facilities have increased landowners' income from property in many states, and there is no reason why the same can't be true for Texas, says Boyd Andrews, Extension resource development specialist at Texas A&M University.

Since the use of farm and ranch land for recreational purposes is a completely new venture for most landowners, careful consideration should be given to recreation requirements prior to investing cash for recreational development.

The attitude and adaptability of the individual or family is probably the most important factor to consider. A recreational enterprise can be similar to the operation of a small business. Personal characteristics are extremely important to the public.

The availability of resources to be used for recreation is a second important factor. The landowner must decide what type of recreational enterprise would be best suited in his geographic area, utilizing the existing natural resources.

Distance from population centers is a third major factor. Research data shows that the most successful recreational enterprises are usually within two hours drive of at least one large population center.

If these three factors are satisfied, the particular farm or ranch possesses the basic characteristics for a recreational enterprise, says Andrews. However, additional information should be obtained concerning investment, planning, construction, unfavorable characteristics and management, since all can have great effect upon the success of the enterprise.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

Multiple sclerosis is one of the major disorders affecting the central nervous system. It is also one of the most mysterious.

Its cause is unknown, and there is no known cure or specific treatment. Yet there is cause for considerable hope about multiple sclerosis today. More knowledge is being gathered as investigators dig deeper into its origins and behavior.

Today, the multiple sclerosis patient lives longer than was thought possible years ago. Many people with mild or even moderately severe cases can live normal lives and work regularly for years.

Multiple sclerosis is not contagious nor is it an inherited disease. It is "multiple" both in the sense that it attacks several areas of the body at once, and that it frequently returns after a period of improvement. It is

YOU'RE THREE YEARS YOUNGER THAN YOU THINK

Next time you're asked your age, subtract three years. Life insurance statistics show that women live longer than men. General American Life has formally recognized this by reducing rates for women on all life insurance policies.

These age discounts are another way in which General American Life can help a woman build a nest-egg of her own.

"sclerotic" — it leaves scars—at the points where loss of the protective covering takes place.

The loss of the myelin sheath gives faulty insulation or protection of these nerve fibers of the spinal cord and brain. This affects the human body much as it would an electrical wire. When the insulation, or covering, becomes frayed or faulty, the electrical impulses or signals go astray.

Hence, the characteristics of multiple sclerosis may include shaking or tremor, extreme weakness, and progressive paralysis. Early warning signs are slurred speech, along with tingling sensations and numbness. Other symptoms are stumbling gait, poor coordination, shimmering movements of the eyeball and double vision. In advanced cases, there may be loss of bladder or bowel control.

A person with multiple sclerosis does not always have all these symptoms, and someone having one or more of these symptoms may not have multiple sclerosis. Moreover, many multiple sclerosis patients have "remissions," periods or months or even years during when symptoms disappear.

A physician can advise treatment in many cases—a balanced general diet, physiotherapy and rehabilitating training of major assistance to the patient. Retraining in the basic physical skills of daily living helps the handicapped person find major satisfaction and aids his mental outlook.

Scouting Plays Part In Orbit

The crew and back up crew of America's first Gemini flight, March 23 were all Scouts.

The pilot Virgil I. "Gus" Grissom, who is the second American to travel in space, was a Cub Scout and a Boy Scout in Mitchell, Indiana. He reached the rank of Star. He now has a son active in Scouting.

The Co-pilot for the two man flight was John W. Young. Young's Scouting was in Troop 21 of Orlando, Florida. He made second-class Scout.

The two back up pilots Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford were both Scouts. Schirra was a first class Scout in Troop 36, Oradell, New Jersey, and Stafford was a member of Troop 355, Weatherford, Okla.

Astronaut Grissom says: "Participating in Scouting activities teaches—it taught me, I know—to be by myself, to rely on myself and to handle all small situations early, to take care of all small problems while I was young and learning, before the big ones come along."

"Confidence comes from many things. And it's all pretty much in your Scout Oath, in your Scout laws, and in the motto, 'Be Prepared' . . . I would like to turn your motto back to you and tell all Scouts to be prepared—that America needs you."

Of the present 28 astronauts, 25 have Scouting backgrounds. Five were Eagle Scouts. All 12 astronauts scheduled as crews or back up crews for Gemini flights this year are former Scouts.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds That World Geography Has Gotten Out Of Hand; Is Gradually Getting Worse

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek reports on his geographical ignorance this week.

Dear editor:

I was talking with a man in town who keeps up with such things as geography and the impending crisis in foreign countries, listening to him explain just what the situation in Viet Nam is, what North Viet Nam has done, what South Viet Nam has done, what our foreign policy there is and what it ought to be, etc., and to tell you the truth I was getting bored to death, so I broke in on the flow.

"Say," I said, "I see that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"What're you talking about?" he asked.

"Nothing, especially. It's just good to know that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"Upper Volta? What's that?"

"I knew I had him, but I didn't press the point, and came on home and hunted up the newspaper I'd read the name in, to make sure I hadn't imagined it.

It's true. There is a country named Upper Volta, and its president, Maurice Yameogo, has just made a visit to Washington and been given the full red carpet treatment, with a 21-gun salute and a parade.

Now I haven't taken a survey, but I'll bet a subscription to The Munday Times against a subscription to the New York Times that until Mr. Yameogo showed up in Washington and got his name in the papers and on television, there weren't 100 people in the United States, including teachers, professors, editors, politicians and owners of encyclopedias, who'd ever heard of Upper Volta.

What this proves is that regardless of how well posted a man is on world affairs, he can't know it all, there has to be a good part of the world he's ignorant of. In fact I doubt if there are a dozen people in the world who can sit down right now without any preparation and name all the countries on circumstantial evidence in our everyday routine.

Suppose you see steam billowing out of your morning cup of coffee. You don't seek direct evidence of its heat by dipping your finger into it. Instead you rely on circumstantial evidence — fact plus logic—to decide that the coffee is very hot.

Nor would many readers doubt Robinson Crusoe's conclusion, from the circumstantial evidence of a strange footprint in the sand, that another human being had come to his island.

Of course, circumstantial evidence can be weak. One court gave this example: a country doctor, upon seeing a saddle under his patient's bed deduced that the patient had eaten a horse.

But circumstantial evidence, when strong, is what sends most criminals to jail. How many burglars have been caught by tell-tale fingerprints, how many hit-run drivers by dented fenders, how many embezzlers by sudden and unexplained wealth?

For crime is usually committed under the mask of darkness or the shelter of solitude. The murderer, the forger, and the thief seldom acts in the presence of an audience.

In one celebrated case, a woman seeking a divorce was trying to prove her husband guilty of adultery. She could offer no witness who had seen him commit such a sin. But she did have evidence that he and a girl friend had spent the night together in a hotel bedroom, after signing in as husband and wife.

Circumstantial? Yes, but the court found it convincing anyhow.

"What did they register in a hotel as man and wife and retire to a bedroom for?" reasoned the judge. "We have it of old that 'it is presumed he saith not a pater noster' there."

Soil Needs Care For Top Production

Good soil management practices and well-adapted cropping systems provide the basis for continued prosperity in agriculture.

However, those who depend on the soil for livelihood sometimes become careless with this valuable resource, and this can prove costly, says John Box, associate agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Crop production directly reflects a soil's physical condition and fertility status. Physical properties can be controlled by good use of residues, rotations, cover crops and manures to maintain a deep, mellow soil condition, rather than a soil which is tight and hard to work.

Organic matter plays a prime role in keeping soil in good physical condition, points out the agronomist. It insures a good population of beneficial soil bacteria, aids in water penetration, improves the soil's structure and water storage capacity, and adds nutrients and humus.

Since many Texas soils show deficiencies in nitrogen, phosphorus, potash and lime, fertilization is essential to insure maximum yields and higher production. Box advises a soil test to determine the amount and type of fertilizer needed.

Crop rotations can also aid in improving soil productivity, and high residue crops tend to boost any rotation program. Legumes supply nitrogen to the soil, while both legumes and grasses provide organic matter and grazing. Legumes, however, require adequate levels of soil fertility if they are to thrive and give top production.

Almost every farm operator follows some type of soil management or cropping plan, though sometimes unconscious of the fact. For a prosperous 1965, develop a good production plan and carry it out, says the agronomist.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds That World Geography Has Gotten Out Of Hand; Is Gradually Getting Worse

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek reports on his geographical ignorance this week.

Dear editor:

I was talking with a man in town who keeps up with such things as geography and the impending crisis in foreign countries, listening to him explain just what the situation in Viet Nam is, what North Viet Nam has done, what South Viet Nam has done, what our foreign policy there is and what it ought to be, etc., and to tell you the truth I was getting bored to death, so I broke in on the flow.

"Say," I said, "I see that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"What're you talking about?" he asked.

"Nothing, especially. It's just good to know that Upper Volta is still on our side."

"Upper Volta? What's that?" I knew I had him, but I didn't press the point, and came on home and hunted up the newspaper I'd read the name in, to make sure I hadn't imagined it.

It's true. There is a country named Upper Volta, and its president, Maurice Yameogo, has just made a visit to Washington and been given the full red carpet treatment, with a 21-gun salute and a parade.

Now I haven't taken a survey, but I'll bet a subscription to The Munday Times against a subscription to the New York Times that until Mr. Yameogo showed up in Washington and got his name in the papers and on television, there weren't 100 people in the United States, including teachers, professors, editors, politicians and owners of encyclopedias, who'd ever heard of Upper Volta.

What this proves is that regardless of how well posted a man is on world affairs, he can't know it all, there has to be a good part of the world he's ignorant of. In fact I doubt if there are a dozen people in the world who can sit down right now without any preparation and name all the countries on
