ROSS S. STERLING Democratic nominee for Governor of Texas.

Geo. B. Terrell Predicts Better Price For Cotton

URGES FARMERS TO HOLD STAPLE OFF MARKET DURING DEPRESSION

Govt. Estimate High Predicts Better Prices When Conditions Become Better

Stabilized.

George B. Terrell, for many years Commissioner of Agriculture in Texas, has issued a statement in which he places the cotton production in Texas at 4,250,000 bales, or 246,000 less than the estimate made by the government on August 1st, and Commissioner Terrell states that the continued drouth throughout the greater part of August amply justifies the reduction made in his estimate.

Mr. Terrell urges the farmer against sacrificing their cotton on a slow, inactive market, and says: "The Southern Commissioners of Agriculture met in Atlanta Ga., on the 11th of August, and strongly recommend holding a larger part of the crop off the market until business begins to revive, causing a better demand for cotton." This, he says is a good policy, as present prices are below cost of production and will not pay the debts of the country. "Cotton cannot go much lower," but will go higher whenever the present panic ceases and general business conditions improve," says Mr. Terrell.

In his report Mr. Terrell gives the general conditions over the state as follows: Eastern District—49 counties 67%; Northern District—22 counties 61%; Central District—41 counties 69%; Southwestern District—37 counties 72%; Northwestern District—58 counties 65%. Average for the state 66 per cent.

Abilene Trippers Will Visit City On September 4th

Bearing a message of good will, of good cheer and of faith in West Texas, Abilene's 1930 "Friendship Special," made up of three modern motorbuses, will visit Munday on Thursday, September 4th, and will remain here for twenty-five minutes, arriving here at 10:30 in the morning.

At least seventy-five of Abilene's leading business and professional men will be on this special, and they will be accompanied either by the famous Cowboy Band of Simmons University or the Abilene High School Band, and the Abilene trippers are very anxious to meet as many of the citizens of this community as can be here at that time.

Speaking for the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, T. N. Carswell, secretary-manager of the organization states, "Abilene this year is doing something a little different in the way of a business men's excursion. This affair will not be a trade trip. It is, as the name implies, simply a visit to see you folks. We want to see as many of the people of the Munday country as possible when we come over."

The message of the group is one of optimism, friendship, goodwill and faith in West Texas, and we trust that the people of the Munday country will be able to meet us.

J. W. Melton of Benjamin was in the city Wednesday afternoon and expressed his gratitude to friends here for their support in the recent election.

Munday Country Has Possibilities In Melon Growing

GEORGE RUSSELL PRODUCES AS FINE FRUIT AS CAN BE GROWN IN TEXAS.

Grow Less Cotton

Large Acreage Planted To Crop Would Aid Reduction In Cotton Acreage.

George Russell has demonstrated that the Munday country is excellent by none as a watermelon country. Off a patch of two acres he has already sold approximately $100.00 worth of fine melons as were ever produced in Texas or anywhere else, and is still selling them.

Mr. Russell started out by procuring some good seed from the Weatherford country, and while he has taken no extra pains in growing melons his two-acre patch has produced far beyond his expectations, and what Mr. Russell has done hundreds of farmers on the sandy soil of Knox prairie can do.

And here's an opportunity for the farmers of the Munday country to start toward the much talked of and acedated diversification movement. Melons as good or better than those of the Weatherford country, can be produced here on this fertile prairie. With paved roads to Wichita Falls and Abilene we have an excellent local outlet for this crop, and with a sufficient acreage in melons the farmers of the Munday country could produce thousands of dollars worth of melons on a commercial basis.

Let us suggest that we organize here a watermelon club and a number of farmers agree to plant a certain acreage in approved seed for the production of a uniform fruit suitable for shipment. We are informed that the buyers in the Weatherford market this year are paying $12.00 per ton for the melons, and at this price an average crop of melons on the Knox prairie will pay double that of the average crop of cotton at 20 cents per pound.

We will be glad to hear from our farmers concerning this move.

Melton, Sams and Chamberlain Are Winners In Runoff

LARGE VOTE CAST IN KNOX COUNTY; EX-SHERIFF IS NEW COUNTY JUDGE

Ferguson Wins Knox

Sams Wins Over Coffman by Small Majority and Gore Man Is Elected Clerk.

Saturday's primary election brought to a close one of the most interesting campaigns that has ever been conducted in Knox County, and the vote cast in Saturday's election even exceeded that cast in the July primaries, and reports over the state indicate that this has been the case in practically every county.

Only three county races were to be decided in the run-off primary in Knox County, and in these races J. W. Melton of Benjamin, former sheriff, defeated A. B. Reese of Knox City for County Judge by a substantial majority, Melton receiving 1577 votes to 873 for Reese. M. T. (Marvin) Chamberlain of Goree was elected County Clerk over A. E. (Buck) Propps of Knox City by a margin of 87 votes, Chamberlain receiving 1265 to Propps 1178. For Tax Assessor Earl Sams of Benjamin was re-elected for a third term over Lee Coffman of Goree by a majority of 260 votes, Sams receiving 1365 votes and Coffman 1105.

In the Benjamin-Vera commissioner's precinct W. C. Glenn was re-elected as commissioner by a substantial majority over O. L. Patterson.

Full details concerning the balloting in Knox County may be found in the tabulated report in this issue.

The attractions outlined above are only a few of those arranged by the association to make this year's event the biggest and best ever. Mr. Hawk concluded.

Chest Fund Grows

The Community Chest Fund for the aid of the needy in this community has received a liberal response from the citizenship. It is a well known fact that the people of the Munday country have been hard hit by the drouth and other unfavorable conditions, but this fact did not keep Louis Cartwright, one of our good farmers, from dropping a couple of dollars into the till the other day, and this together with other funds received during the week has brought the total up to $5.54, and the grand total collected to date to $50.30, through the following contributions:

LOUIS CARTWRIGHT $2.00
W. S. Dickerson 2.50
From Bottles 4.54
Previously reported $21.83

Munday Public Schools Will Open Sept. 8th

COMPETENT FACULTY HAS BEEN CHOSEN AND THE OUTLOOK BRIGHT.

Supt. Riley Is Here

Full Details Concerning Opening Will Be Published In Next Week's Issue.

The Munday Public Schools will open on Monday morning, September 8th. This announcement was made by Supt. H. H. Riley, who together with Mrs. Riley and little son, arrived in Munday Wednesday from Denton, where Mr. Riley has been attending the summer term of the North Texas State Teachers College.

All members of the faculty with but one exception have been selected and this vacancy will possibly be filled today at a meeting of the school board.

Supt. Riley had hoped to find time to make some announcements this week concerning the opening of school, but has been very busy since his return and has therefore had to defer the matter until next week, at which time he will have full announcements concerning the opening of the school year.

The faculty will be made up of the following teachers, a number of whom have been employed in the school before, and are well known in Munday; H. H. Riley, superintendent; L. S. Hardegree, principal; Riley B. Harrell, R. D. Rawls; Miss Irene Clifford; Miss Viola Wimberly; Miss Ella Fae Kenial; Miss Malde Watson; L. M. Palmer, principal of grammar school; Miss Mildred Kennedy; Miss Beattie Beville; Miss Evelyn Sue Williams; Miss Virginia Curry; Miss Lucille Jarrell; Mrs. L. S. Hardegree; Mrs. Riley B. Stamford, August 26—With J. B. Simpson in charge as manager and classer, the Stamford branch office of the Texas Co-operative Association was opened Monday of this week in the Stamford Chamber of Commerce office.

Service to members of the cotton co-op in the territory attached to the local office is now available and will be maintained during the cotton gathering season. Mr. Simpson says. The manager is a licensed cotton classer and stapler and has over thirty years experience in the cotton business, during which time he has been associated with several large cotton firms.

All members of the TCCA in Kent, Stonewall, King, Knox, Haskell, Throckmorton, Baylor, Shackelford and the north half of Jones county will be served from the Stamford office. Classing service for non-members of the association will also be available at a charge of 25 cents per bale.

When the samples of bales of cotton of co-op members are sent to the office and the class and grade established, ninety per cent of the market value of the cotton will be advanced on deliveries to the seasonal pool, Mr. Simpson says. He is authorized to advance 90 cents per pound on cotton grading seven-eighths of an inch staple length put in the seasonal pool, and on other grades in proportion.

During this week Mr. Simpson and E. P. Whitson, field man for the TCCA in this area, have been appointing receiving agents for the organization in various towns in the area that will be served by the Stamford office. In every town where a gin is located a receiving agent will be designated to represent the association and assist the members in shipping their cotton, drawing the advances and taking samples when a final settlement at the time of delivery is desired.

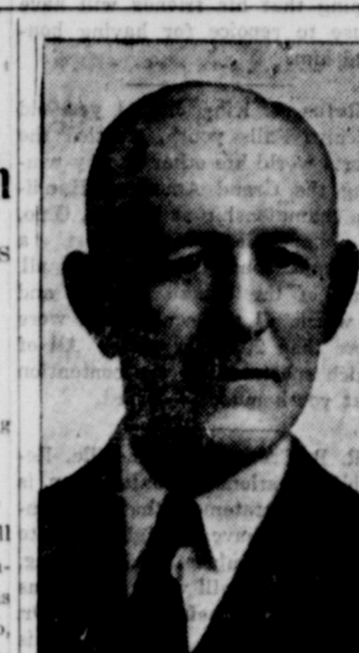

Interest in the co-op program under the direction of the Federal Farm Board is increasing all over the area surrounding Stamford and indications are that a considerable quantity of cotton will be handled by the association out of this region.

Under direction of J. C. Watson, secretary of the Stamford Chamber of Commerce, the educational campaign on the co-op program is being continued in this area, and any cotton growers or other persons desiring information on the plan and its operation will find someone in the chamber of commerce office each day prepared to explain the membership contract and answer questions concerning the association.

Whenever citizens in any community decide they would like to hold a mass meeting for a general explanation of the marketing program speakers will be provided if the Stamford office is advised of the meeting.

Ben G. Oneal Is Winner In Race For State Senator

Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls was elected State Senator from the 23rd Senatorial District in Saturday's run-off primary. His majority over Ruben Loftin of Henrietta will be approximately 2500 votes. Wichita county gave Mr. Oneal a lead of approximately 4000 over Loftin and he carried three of the other counties in the district, Young, Baylor and Wilbarger. Loftin carried Knox, Ford, Clay, Hardeman and Archer.

Mr. Oneal succeeds Hon. D. W. McFarlane of Graham, who made the race for Congress in that district, and who was eliminated in the first primary by Guinn Williams and Ben D. Sartin. Guinn Williams was re-elected in Saturday's runoff.

Mr. Oneal has never before held public office. He is a native of this section, having been born and reared in Stephens county and for the past fourteen years has practiced law in Wichita Falls.

District Attorney Clem Calhoun Resigns His Post

Amarillo, Texas, Aug. 27 (AP)—Clem Calhoun, appointed District Attorney for the Eighty-Fourth District after the slaying of John A. Holmes at Berger last September, forwarded his resignation to Gov. Dan Moody Wednesday. He will enter practice of law in Amarillo, forming a partnership with Col. E. O. Thompson, Mayor. The resignation is effective at once.

The only reason advanced for the resignation was, "Amarillo is fast recovering from business depression, and I desire to entrench myself here now while opportunity affords." Mr. Calhoun told a reporter that he had been trying to get away from the role of prosecutor for years.

THINKING OUT LOUD

BY J. A. K.

Now that the elections are over and good rains have come we can direct our thoughts to other things than politics and drouth.

Our candid opinion is that the road that the election of anyone to any office.

Washington is turning its attention to relieving the cotton farmer. Its latest move is to encourage the miniature golf courses to arrange to carry their business along through the winter months by providing large tents to shelter them. This, they claim, would materially increase the consumption of cotton.

We folks down here in the cotton country demand all wool suits, wear silk hosiery, silk dresses and lingerie, wipe our noses on linen handkerchiefs, and wonder what the heck is the matter with the cotton consumption. Why, we even wrap our cotton in hemp and sell it for 10 cents a pound less than it costs to produce it.

The nerviest fellow that has appeared to the local charitable organization in a long time was the one who appealed to them Saturday morning for funds to buy ticket to his home in order that he might vote.

If he reached home in time to cast his ballot he doesn't owe this organization any of his credit.

There is one thing about election returns and that is that they never vary materially when any considerable number of votes are accounted for by the Texas Election Bureau. In the olden days late returns often changed the results, but in this modern day the returns are gathered from the remote sections of the state as readily as from the centers of population, and the first figures are seldom changed in percentage to any extent.

Another thing one learns when the returns are coming in, and that is that most everyone had predicted that it would be just that way a week or so before.

Another thing, the folks of the Munday country should not complain about crop conditions. If you will go twenty-five miles in any direction from home you will find that you have much to be thankful for by way of compar-

LET'S HELP OUR NEIGHBORS

The Munday country has what some of the old-timers say is the best cotton crop since 1914, for which we should be grateful.

Now the farmers of the Munday country are faced with the task of gathering this crop. Naturally, they want to gather it as orderly and as economically as possible, and we believe this can be accomplished more effectively and efficiently, and at the same time help our less fortunate neighbors, by using families from the drought-stricken sections to gather the crop. Hundreds of families throughout this section—even in adjoining counties—will have to find employment during the fall, as they have no crops to gather. These are citizens of West Texas, and good citizens they are as a whole, so why not give our neighbors this labor and help them to tide over the great calamity that has befallen them?

We know the Munday Chamber of Commerce and every other civic organization in Munday will be glad to cooperate with like organizations in nearby counties in bringing a sufficient number of good citizens of West Texas here to gather the crop, and this paper will gladly give whatever help it is possible for it to render in bringing about a cooperative movement like this. Indeed, why should not these white farmers of West Texas be given preference over negro labor from East Texas? Let's help our good neighbors in this great tragedy.

THE VOTE SATURDAY

If the vote in Saturday's primary election signified anything it was that the people of Texas are through with the Ferguson regime.

Ferguson's opponent in Saturday's primary polled less votes than any one of the other several contending candidates would have polled. Clint Small would have won by a much larger majority. Barry Miller would have won by as large or a larger majority than did Mr. Sterling. Thousands of voters who did not care for the Fergusonism went to the polls and voted for them because they didn't wish to cast a ballot for one who had advocated the big road bond issue, and the fact that this issue was unpopular over the state is evidenced by the fact that Mr. Sterling was the only candidate who favored it out of the field of ten candidates and the vote of those who favored it went to Mr. Sterling and those who opposed it was scattered among the ten contending candidates in the first primary.

Indeed it will be a good day for Texas when we can elect a governor on some other issue than Fergusonism. For sixteen years Fergusonism has been an outstanding issue in Texas, and instead of choosing our governors on live issues we have been forced to choose between Fergusonism and anti-Fergusonism.

Four years ago Dan Moody threw all issues aside and made Fergusonism an issue—and won. This year Ross Sterling threw his state road bond issue aside in the runoff campaign and made Fergusonism an issue—and won. Certainly it is plain that a majority of the people of Texas do not want the Fergusonism, and if they have the best interests of the people of Texas at heart, as they pretend to have, they will refrain from making another campaign and allow the people of Texas to settle the live issues upon their merits or demerits.

Now comes Dan Moody with the suggestion that everybody buy a bale. If everybody had the price of a bale at 15¢—the price suggested by his highness—there wouldn't be any demand for anybody to buy a bale. Back in 1914 when our export trade with foreign countries was practically cut off by the war this same movement was started. Now our export trade has been cut off by a New England tariff, and we have the same condition. So long as we throw up a tariff wall to keep foreign manufactured goods out of this country just so long will foreign countries go elsewhere for their raw materials. And the burden of the whole thing falls upon the farmer. But when election time rolls 'round a smoke screen will be thrown up to cause the people to lose sight of the main issues. In the last election it was prohibition and religious prejudice. We're wondering what it will be next.

Saturday's runoff primary introduced some innovations in Texas as politics in the matter of electing business men to administer our government affairs. R. S. Sterling, the successful democratic candidate for governor has not before been a candidate for public office, and never held an appointive office until he was chosen by Gov. Dan Moody as chairman of the Texas Highway Commission three and a half years ago. In our own district Ben G. Owsal was nominated for State Senator. Mr. Owsal has never before been candidate for public office and on the platform made a poor showing as compared with his seasoned political campaigner, Rube Leflin of Henrietta, who has been in the House of Representatives for a number of years. Here's hoping that the change means more business and less politics down at Austin. The people of Texas are expecting just that.

Most all of us are proud of the success Jimmy Allred achieved in his campaign for Attorney General. He won a decisive victory at the polls with all the odds against him at the outset. Mr. Bobbitt's advantage of having the resources of the Attorney General's department behind him was not so easily overcome, and Jimmy displayed his knowledge of the political game by steering clear of the other contests. As a campaigner he has been likened to the late Joseph Weldon Bailey, and here's hoping that his friends will have cause to rejoice for having honored him.

Rufus A. King Jr., 14 year-old Wichita Falls youth, startled the sports world the other day by winning the Grand American Handicap championship at Dayton, Ohio, in competition with almost a thousand contestants from all parts of the United States, and in which all the contestants were more than 20 years older. All of which substantiates the contention that youth must be served.

R. B. Creager, Brownsville, Republican national committeeman, is out with a statement that the Democrats will have to fight hard to elect their nominee, R. S. Sterling, and his party will wage a vigorous campaign for their candidate, Dr. George C. Butte. Mr. Creager is just earning his salary as Federal patronage dispenser in Texas.

On Friday afternoon of last week the editor accompanied by Tom Haney, or rather, the editor accompanied Tom Haney, Harry Williams and Harvey Lee over to Lake Kemp on a fishing expedition. Just as we arrived at the lakeside a dark cloud hovered close overhead in the northwest, and we had hardly gotten our hooks in the water until it began raining. We beat it homeward, and after slipping, sliding and creeping over the slippery roads made it into Seymour, where we ate supper, and continued our homeward journey in a torrent of rain, only to arrive home and find that it had rained hardly enough to barely set the dust. The little shower here is said to have been preceded by one of the most severe sandstorms in this section, but no damage was reported here.

The passing of Lon Chaney has created a vacancy in moving pictures that will be hard indeed to fill. Chaney has thrilled millions by his art, through which he has become known as the "man with a thousand faces." He was a real artist.

"DON'T QUIT"

"When things go wrong as they sometimes will, When the road you're treading seems all up hill, When the funds are low and the debts are high, And when you want to smile, but you have to sigh, When care is pressing you down a bit, Rest if you must, but don't you quit.

"Life is queer with its twists and turns, As every one of us sometimes learns, And many a failure turns about, When he might have won had he stuck it out;

Don't give up though the pace seems slow— You may succeed with another blow.

"Often the goal is nearer than It seems to a faint and faltering man, Often the struggler has given up When he might have captured the victor's cup— And he learned too late, when the night slipped down, How close he was to the golden crown.

"Success is failure turned inside out— The silver tint of the clouds of doubt, And you can never tell how close you are, It may be near when it seems afar; So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit— It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit."

Exchange.

Dave Griffith was in town Thursday morning and stated that his section had received about two inches of rain, which had been of great benefit to cotton and feed crops, and in addition the rains had helped the feelings of the people as much as anything.

L. E. Loveless and Tom Haney were business visitors to Rotan on Wednesday and they state that crop conditions in the Rotan country are very poor and many of the farmers are leaving in order that they might find employment, as there will be very little cotton made in that section.

BIG IRRIGATION PLAN IN INDIA TO COST MILLIONS

British Engineers Are Building Canals and Barrage Across India River.

Karachi, India.—One of the mightiest irrigation schemes ever attempted is now progressing on the sun-scorched deserts of the Sind, where at an expense of $60,000,000 British engineers are building a series of canals and a barrage across the Indus river by which it is hoped eventually to turn 40,000,000 acres of desert land into fields of waving grain.

It is expected that the great barrage, a mile across the Indus, will be completed in 1932, but it will be several years after that before the four great canals from the left bank of the Indus and the three from the right bank will be completed, together with the network of the minor canals that will carry water to the remote sections of the desert vastnesses.

In addition to this project another reclamation scheme to be constructed in the Sutlej valley will irrigate more than 5,000,000 acres. There is also a dam and canal being made in the Madras presidency, which it is estimated will mean a yield of an additional 150,000 tons of rice annually to the food supply of the Canvey delta.

In further pursuance of the government determination to add to the agricultural yield of India engineers during the last two years have drilled more than 5,000 wells from which water is drawn for irrigation purposes.

Luck Turns for Owner of Old "Gretna Green"

London.—The luck of the blacksmith shop, "Gretna Green," in Scotland, is turning.

For years there was a popular superstition that a couple who clasped hands over the smith's anvil would live happily forever and ever.

Thousands of couples were married there. Then the shop lost its popularity. A law was passed making it necessary that a couple live in Scotland 21 days before they could be married there. Prior to that they could slip over from England and enjoy complete secrecy. Later, however, business has revived. The smithy fitted up his shop with many relics, and according to protesting clergymen, as many as 2,000 persons in one day have paid ten cents each to see the place. The minister are denouncing that Scotland "put an end to the evils of such marriages as the smithy performs."

Munday Country Gets 1.30 Inches Rainfall Sunday

The Munday country received a most welcome rain Sunday night, which, according to the rain gauge maintained by A. E. Whittemore, amounted to 1.30 inch, and will prove of untold benefit to late feed and both late and early cotton. The rain came in good time, for the extreme hot weather that we have experienced during recent weeks was beginning to have a telling effect upon the cotton and feed, and the good rain will be sufficient to increase the yield of both materially.

Not only will the rain be of great benefit to growing crops, but it will enable farmers to plant acreage to pasturage, which will save the farmers much in feed. Possibly there is not a section in all West Texas that is as fortunate as is the Munday section this year in the matter of crops. The great flood which came on June 13th put a season in the ground that has proved of untold benefit and has held the crops up exceedingly well, and that great down-pour has proven to be the salvation of the farmers of this section. In all directions crops have withered and died, but on the famous Knox prairie it is predicted that the cotton yield will average a half bale per acre.

Rev. Albertson Will Close 2nd Year in Munday

Next Sunday closes the second year of our work together as church and pastor, and is the last Sunday of this associational year. We are very desirous that all the membership of the church be present.

Marvin Chamberlain of Goree was in town Tuesday afternoon, and was still shaking hands with the citizens, but this time he was thanking them for the excellent vote he received in Saturday's primary.

Mrs. Walter Baggett and son of Electra are guests this week in the home of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Hogan.

ent. The Associational letter will be read. Make a special effort to be present.

The recent rains and this cool weather should make us all grateful. God has been good to us and extended His blessings far beyond our deserts.

The pastor will preach both morning and evening. There will be special music at both services. We are glad to note the good increase in B. Y. P. U. attendance last Sunday evening.

Come to service next Sunday and help us close the year's work in high. We appreciate your cooperation and loyal support during the past two years and are praying that the future days may bring us yet greater blessings.

You are always welcome to any or all of our services.

W. H. Albertson, Pastor.

WHEN THE CONOCO MAN ASKS "ETHYL?" say Yes! and you'll say it again . . .

THE next time you drive into a CONOCO station, the man at the pump will ask you a one-word question. "Ethyl?" will be his query.

And in justice to yourself and the car you drive, we urge you to answer, "Yes!"

For Ethyl, added to CONOCO, the gasoline we're proud of, is like seasoning added to food. As seasoning brings out taste and deliciousness, so Ethyl brings out the qualities which have made CONOCO Gasoline famous.

Ethyl stops the knock that makes the foot retreat from the accelerator when you would rather "bear down" harder. Ethyl stops the knock that forces you to shift gears on hills. Ethyl stops the knock that embarrasses you when you let in the clutch in traffic.

So when the CONOCO salesman asks, "Ethyl?" . . . Say, "Yes!" . . . and you'll say it again.

Mr. and Mrs. McStay Hosts To Old Gang for Third Year
For the third consecutive year Mr. and Mrs. S. E. McStay were hosts on Friday evening to Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bengue and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rowan of Paris, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy, and, as in previous years, eighty-four provided the entertainment for the evening. This year, as in previous years, the ladies were paired against the men, and on this occasion the men were decidedly the victors. Memory falls to reveal to us just how the games have been divided in the dim and distant past, but we have vivid memories of our complete victory on Friday evening, despite the fact that the ladies kept a very close watch on Thomas G. Bengue, about whom many rumors seem to have been afloat to the effect that he corralled certain preferred rocks to himself throughout the game. In fact, it was openly charged that he had been caught red handed in the act of cheating on a previous occasion.

Despite the fact that Messrs. Rowan and Bengue frequently became confused in the terms of the game, Tom would invariably refer to "shuffle" and "deal," and Mike would occasionally use similar terms altogether unfamiliar to good eighty-four players. These fellows are evidently proficient at some other game—and both deny any knowledge of bridge. However, in defense of the ladies let us say that the fact that all of our opponents were watching Thomas Greene very closely throughout the evening, naturally worked to the advantage of the other three gentlemen present in choosing their hands.
At a late hour delicious cake and cream was served by the hostess and we departed with the sincere hope that we may enjoy many more just such happy events as was this.

Mr. and Mrs. Avis Maples Honored at Party
Mrs. J. D. Kethley and Mrs. P. V. Williams honored Mr. and Mrs. Avis Maples Wednesday evening with a pretty party at the home

One Town or Many

Electricity is required at different times for different purposes.

This simple fact explains why a widespread electric system, serving many communities over a wide area, can operate more efficiently than small plants each serving a single community. Serving a larger number of people, with a greater variety of demands, the widespread system keeps its facilities working over more hours of the day.

There is another important advantage of the widespread transmission system over the small plant serving a single community. The transmission system can meet increased demands at once. No delay is necessary for increased facilities, as so frequently is the case with the small plant.

Community growth is thus encouraged and hastened.

The West Texas Utilities Company places at the disposal of 116 prosperous cities, towns and communities in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity", 100,000 horsepower of electrical energy—generated by three Major Generating Stations and 22 Auxiliary Plants, and distributed over a network of more than 2,500 miles of transmission lines.

Put One Over on the Old Folks

By H. IRVING KING

GEORGE said Miss Arabela Stuart, looking meditatively at George Watkins, "I am thinking of getting married."

"Are you, indeed?" replied George with languid interest; "any special person picked out, or is the field open to all comers?"

"Oh, I have picked out the man," said Arabela, and then, after a pause, "George, would you mind making love to me?"

George started. "Why, Bella?" said he, "this is so sudden—and besides there is Bertha, you know."

"Bertha Walwright? Of course. You and she have been as good as engaged for some time now, haven't you?"

"Yes, we have," answered George, looking with a puzzled air at the girl; "and then, you know, besides, your father hates me as a certain dark gentleman is said to hate holy water."

"Nevertheless and therefore notwithstanding," said Bella, "I want you for a suitor."

"I am flattered," said George, "and honored, of course, but really—go see—I in fact—"

"Nonetheless," said Bella, "I want to talk to you."

How Mickey Found Maggie

By LEETE STONE

THEY began to begin! Which? His so-called room world of choices had narrowed to one of those two for Michael Shane.

He passed and re-passed a part open window on the second-floor fire escape of a suburban apartment house.

Ah, this was never a bit like Ireland. The war past, Michael had handed his mother a packet V. C. lined her with a gay flourish, lighted her long clay pipe for her with exaggerated dignity.

Michael Shane found America difficult and different; so much so that the passing of seven years found him one of the great army of old-job casuals that ride in box cars from state to state.

So he stared and stared at this open window, up one little ladder high from the pavement.

"Why not?" Michael shrugged and smiled at his foot and a few feet up. This was my first job and I did not take anything, so they can't hold me long.

"Let's look it over," the big policeman under the long street light and peered into his face. The eyes of both men grew large and round.

"Mickey, Shane!" "Faddy Flynn!" Childhood playmates; buddies of the front line trenches—here they stood again, looking at each other as if they were strangers.

"What can Bella be thinking of?" growled Mrs. Stuart. "George Watkins has no fortune."

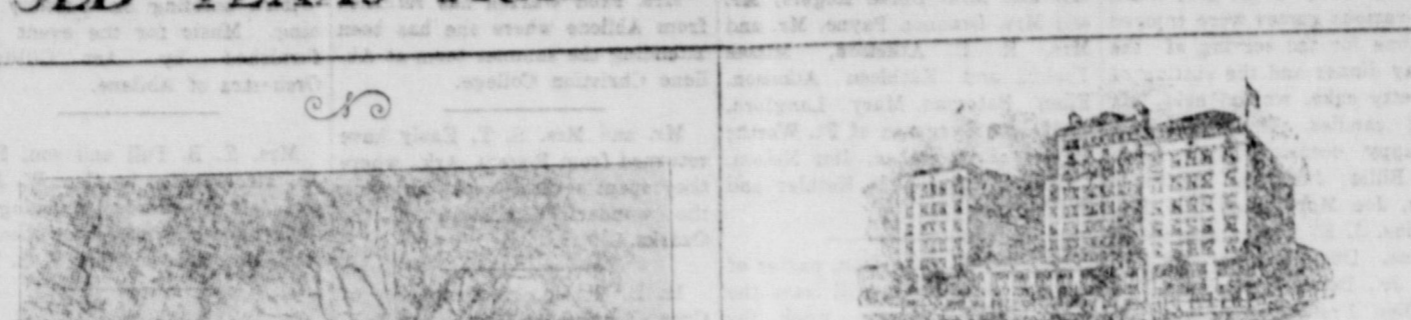

"If he had all the money that Croesus is said to have had, he should not marry my daughter," cried Papa Stuart.

"All this—and more—could not fall, of course, of reaching the ears of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart, fond parents of the fair Arabela."

"What can Bella be thinking of?" growled Mrs. Stuart. "George Watkins has no fortune."

"If he had all the money that Croesus is said to have had, he should not marry my daughter," cried Papa Stuart.
