L. E. Lovelass Is Club Champion Munday Golf Club

L. E. Lovelass is the undisputed champion of the Munday Golf Club, having won that distinction in the tournament staged the past week by defeating Sid Campbell in the final Sunday afternoon. In the final Lovelass had the better of the argument all the way through, and with two up on Sid on the fifteenth tee the aforesaid Sid placed two balls in the tank and conceded his defeat in the face of this discouraging circumstance. In the first flight consolation Jim Reeves was winner over John Spann by the narrow margin of two strokes. In the second flight Vincent Lane, one of the sensational kid golfers of the town, took a victory over E. E. Akers who had gone to the finals by defeating all contestants in that frame. The consolation frame came down to a contest between J. D. Kethley and Thomas Greene Bengie, and the latter, getting all the breaks of the game, as he has in previous contests, was winner by a wide margin. One dozen golf balls were presented to the winners and runners up in each flight, the first and second flight winners receiving 75 balls and the consolation matches were awarded 50 balls. The tournament has featured some of the warmest contests that have ever been played in the local course and everyone is happy over the outcome, and plans are now being made for another tournament to be staged in July.

Avis Maples Weds Former Munday Teacher at Denton

The following news item is taken from the Denton Record-Chronicle of June 10th, and concerns two young people who are well and favorably known in Munday, in fact the groom was born and reared in this city, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Maples, pioneer and highly respected citizens, while the bride taught for a number of years in the Munday schools and during these years endeared herself to the entire citizenship. Perchance there are some who might not recognize the groom by the initials given in the Denton paper and we will say that it's none other than Avis himself, and we join their many friends in wishing for them a long and happy married life. Here is the item: Miss Louise Waggoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Waggoner, 413 Fry Street, was married to A. L. Maples of Munday, the marriage taking place in the parlors of the First Baptist church Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. W. C. McClung, performing the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and a few friends. The parlors were decorated with nasturtiums and sweet peas. Mrs. J. C. Matthews, sister of the bride, played the "Wedding March" (Lohengrin) and "The Rosary," preceding the ceremony. The bride was gowned in orchid satin back crepe, made period style, and carried a colonial bouquet of roses and sweet peas. She was attended by Miss Gladys Campbell of McKinney, who wore rose crepe, rhinestones trimmed, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridegroom was attended by L. M. Palmer of Munday as best man. Mrs. Maples is a graduate of both the Denton High school and of Teachers College. She taught in Iowa Park the past two years. Maples is a graduate of Clarendon College, has attended Trinity University, and now is doing work in Teachers College. The couple will make their home at 427 Fulton Street during the summer months.

Munday's First Mayor Talks Of Present Mayor

Dallas, Texas, June 9, 1930. The Munday Times, Munday, Texas. Gentlemen:—My friend, Charlie Mayes of your city sent me recently a copy of the Times carrying a "Joe Puckett's Drug Store" poem. This is regular feature of our publication, there is one of them each month. If your people like these I give you permission to use any or all of them if you like. I have refused others the right to publish these poems, but Munday is my home town. It was here that I started the serious business of life, and the people there have my gratitude for loyalty and patronage years ago. You are welcome to publish any of my poems for my old friends and customers around Munday and Knox County. I shall always owe them a debt of gratitude that I will probably never be able to pay, and if they can get a smile or a thought out of my writings they are welcome. These poems of course are published first in my own publication which goes only to the drug trade of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico, if you want them after that help yourself. Charlie Mayes and the writer landed in Munday in 1901, twenty-two years ago. We did more to establish the Munday Times than anybody else. It pleased me very much to know that this little western village was to have a newspaper. I was Mayor then and I note that Charlie is Mayor now. A more graceful couple never sat on a horse than Charlie Mayes. I am enclosing herewith another Joe Puckett poem and there will be others.

George Isbell Is Now Satisfied With Appearance

George Isbell has been around this town for nigh on to forty years, and during all these years he's been boosting and building Munday, and he's still on the job one hundred per cent. George is that kind of a citizen who is never just satisfied with things as they are. In fact, it is satisfied folk who stop the progress of any town, for indeed, satisfaction means stagnation, and George is always dissatisfied with things and hence is always on the job trying to make things better. George wasn't satisfied with the appearance of the business property down on the corner known as the White Filling Station, so George ups and tears the whole front end of the outfit into smithereens and proceeds to fix it up to suit his own fancy, and now, that the job is completed this is one of the most attractive spots in the city. The spacious 50-foot frontage on Main street has been all changed about, steeked and painted up like a speckled pup, and folks its a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Of course George could have rocked along and let things stand just as they were. Indeed, it wasn't such a bad looking place before George went hog-wild and tore things up, but now since he has put some of those aggressive and progressive ideas of his into execution its a beauty spot in the city and reflects the progress of George and Munday. In fact, it's just fellows like George that keep Munday at the head of the procession and causes visitors in the city to remark about Munday being the prettiest little city in all West Texas—fellows who are never satisfied, who are always trying to better things that are already good—fellows who are progressive and progressing. That's George all over.

Mrs. Doris Wyche Brackett Dies In K. C. Hospital

Mrs. Doris Wyche Brackett died in the Knox County Hospital at Knox City on Friday morning of last week after being critically ill for about a week, however, she had been in ill health for a number of years, and despite the fact that attending physicians made a heroic effort to prolong her life their efforts proved fruitless. Mrs. Brackett, who came here some weeks ago for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wyche, was stricken ill on Saturday preceding her death and was carried to the Knox County Hospital where a number of blood transfusions were made in an effort to save her life. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church here on Saturday afternoon with the pastor, the Rev. W. J. Mayhew, and the Rev. C. L. Cartwright of Stamford conducting the services. The Rev. Cartwright was pastor here in 1908, the year in which the Methodist church was built, and was later pastor at Waxahachie, where the deceased was converted and became a member of the church, and in the course of his remarks he spoke of the beauty of the child-like faith of the deceased, who, as a little girl of seven had come to the altar and confessed her faith. The pallbearers were Aristotle Thompson, Chandler Hughes, Earl and Paul Pruitt, Rex Holder and Gilbert Myers, these young men being chosen by reason of the fact that each of them had volunteered to subject themselves to blood transfusions during the period that physicians were making an effort to save her life. Doris Wyche was born at Benjamin, Texas, December 22, 1908, and moved with her parents to Waxahachie when quite young, where she grew to young womanhood. On August 18, 1926, she was married to W. M. Brackett, who for a number of years has held a responsible position with the Waples-Platter Grocer Company, first at Waxahachie and later at Fort Worth. In addition to her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wyche of this city, one sister and one brother, Ila and James Wyche, and a large host of relatives, many of whom came to attend the funeral services. Among those who were here from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. John Wyche of Ireless; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wyche of Anson; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster of Anson; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Satchell of Waxahachie; Mr. and Mrs. Brackett of Cleburne; Mr. and Mrs. E. Newton of Robert Lee; George Beeman and daughter of Sweetwater; Mr. and Mrs. Harrington and Mrs. Houston Hill of Colorado; Mrs. Henry Heard of Big Spring. Following the services at the church the remains were laid to rest in Johnson cemetery, and the large floral offering, which covered the newly made mound in the city of the dead spoke mutely of an affection in which the deceased was held by those who knew her. To the bereaved parents and other relatives we extend our sincere sympathy and in this we are joined by the entire community.

FUNERAL HONORS WOULD HAVE ASTOUNDED AUNTIE

A dear old New England spinster, the embodiment of the timid and shrinking, passed away at a famous health resort, where she had gone in the last stages of a lingering illness. Her nearest kinsman, a nephew, ordered the body sent back to her home town to be buried—as it was her last wish—in the quiet little churchyard. His surprise can be imagined when, on opening the casket, he beheld, instead of the placid features of his Aunt Hepzibah the majestic form of an army general in full regimentals, whom he remembered had chanced to die at the same place and time as his aunt. At once he sent a telegram to the general's heirs, explaining the situation, and requesting instructions. The answer came as follows: "Give the general a quiet funeral. Aunt Hepzibah interred today with full military honors, six brass bands, speech by congressmen and governor and saluting guns."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Dick Dresser Is Candidate For District Attorney

Dick Dresser of Seymour was here Saturday and while here authorized the Times to announce his candidacy for the office of District Attorney of the 50th Judicial District, composed of Knox, King, Ford and Cottle counties. Mr. Dresser has served as county attorney of Baylor county and since his retirement from that office has practiced law in Seymour. He made the race for this office two years ago, at which time there was another aspirant for the office from Seymour, and both were defeated by the present incumbent. Mr. Dresser is an ex-service man and has always taken a keen interest in the activities of the American Legion, and in presenting his claim he asks that the voters of the district give his candidacy full consideration. He feels that he is fully competent to discharge the duties of the office, and as the present incumbent has been honored with three terms, he feels that it is but right that other young men should be given an opportunity to gain the experience that is to be gained by serving in this capacity, and he will greatly appreciate any consideration given his candidacy. Mr. Dresser states further that as county attorney of Baylor county it was his sworn duty to prosecute a number of violations of the game laws, and in these matters he always did just what he considered his duty, and as district attorney he will follow the same policy, with equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

Texas Cowboys To Meet In Stamford On June 26 to 28th

Stamford, June 11—One of the features of the Texas Cowboy Reunion to be staged in this city June 26, 27 and 28, will be a roundup and get-together of the pioneer cattlemen of the state. A permanent organization of the old-timers will be formed to hold annual meetings in Stamford. Only those who saw actual service in the saddle and on the range of the region prior to 1895 will be eligible for membership in the organization. The program of the three-day affair will include many entertainment features. On each afternoon a western cowboy rodeo will be staged and an old-fashioned ranch dance will be given each evening. All early day citizens of West Texas will be given special invitations to attend the affair and the directors of the offering say that people of all ages and classes will find a full program to interest and amuse them. The rodeo will be held in a natural amphitheatre a mile west of the business district of Stamford. Comfortable seats will be provided for several thousand and the arena and stock pens have been arranged so as to allow presentation of the contests and exhibitions in a quick and efficient manner. Much interest in the contests is being taken by cowboys on the ranches in West Texas and indications are that there will be at least 100 entrants in the events in which attractive cash prizes will be given the winners. Kingsley Davis, who has been a student in the University of Texas, is here for a visit with his father, Dr. Joe Davis.

Firemen's Minstrel Gets Applause From Audiences

The negro minstrel staged at the community auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings drew words of praise from those who attended, and it was gratifying to the members of the Fire Department, under whose auspices the minstrel was given, that a goodly attendance was out to witness their performance on both evenings. The little girls under the direction of Mrs. Joe Davis, gave some very pretty drills and dances, and with their attractive costumes formed a most enjoyable part of each of the programs. U. R. Houser and H. A. Oliver were emcee men and E. H. Bauman was interactor, and the boys kept the audience in an uproar by their constant exchange of wise-cracks. Music for the occasions was furnished by a local orchestra, composed of Miss Francis Mayes, Mrs. Adrian Macon, Jack Mayes, Joe Lynn Mayes, Grady Blake, Raymond Reeves, J. Arthur Smith, Sidney Lee and Foy Eash. A neat little sum was realized from the efforts of the boys and others who took part in the entertainment, which will be used toward paying a part of the expenses of the firemen to the state convention of firemen at San Angelo this week.

Friends Honor Mrs. D. C. Osborne On 70th Birthday

Quite a number of friends gathered at the home of Judge and Mrs. D. C. Osborne at Goree on Tuesday, June 10th, the occasion being the 70th birthday of Mrs. Osborne, and among the guests were a number of pioneer ladies of this section, and the day was thoroughly enjoyed by them in talking over old times and recalling some of the experiences through which they passed as pioneers of this section. A birthday dinner was also an enjoyable feature of the day, and in their enjoyment they did not forget another pioneer neighbor, Mrs. T. D. Isbell, who was ill at her home and could not attend, but a delicious dinner was prepared and carried to her home. Among those present were Mesdames C. E. Haynes, E. J. Shaw, E. K. Lee (Mrs. Lee, mother of Judge O. W. Lee, was the oldest woman present, being 85 years of age), W. H. Bray, all of Munday; Mesdames A. C. Camp, M. E. Coffman, N. W. Roberts, G. M. Nix, N. A. McStay of Munday, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Osborne, planned this lovely surprise for her mother, and it is needless to say that she received as much enjoyment of the occasion as the others present.

THE NOBLE LIFE

Still we build upon life's way, On the wrecks of yesterday; Make this nobler structure rise Where the old in ruin lies; In the barren fields and drear Sow the seeds of harvest fair; In the gardens, lost in gloom, See the brighter roses bloom; Knowing ever that we stand In the hollow of God's hand, So we build, upon life's way, On the wrecks of yesterday.

WHAT IS GOOD?

What is the real good? I asked in musing mood. Order, said the court; Knowledge, said the school; Truth, said the wise man; Pleasure, said the fool; Love, said the maiden; Beauty, said the page; Freedom, said the dreamer; Home, said the soldier; Fame, said the seer; Equity, said the sage; Spoke my heart full sadly The answer is not here: Softly this I heard, "Each heart holds the secret, Kindness is the word."

ELECTIVE HIGHWAY COMMISSION

We believe with Gov. Dan Moody that it is unwise to have an elective Highway Commission in Texas. We believe that this important office should be kept as far from politics as is possible...

The Advocate regrets very much to take issue with the Munday Times, for we have always respected the opinion of the editor of that good paper, but we are frank to say that we believe the Times has taken a wrong position on the question of the selection of a highway commission.

The Times says that the commission should be kept as far from politics as possible. Will anyone say that the highway commission is kept out of politics when the governor appoints the members of the commission? A careful study of the membership of the Texas Highway Commission since its creation will convince any fair minded man that the office has been used to pay political debts.

mission is absolutely free from political influences. We merely contend that an appointive commission is less involved in political strife than an elective commission would be, and hence can render more efficient service to the people of Texas.

The Advocate takes issue with us and proceeds to name as "horrible examples" of the present appointive system some of the men who have served and are now serving in this capacity. By the same line of reasoning the Advocate could name a long list of "horrible examples" among the personnel of those who have served in elective offices.

We believe that the highway department of Texas should have one aim, and that one aim should be the building of a complete system of highways over the state without consideration of county lines or any other boundary lines, and we further believe that the division of the state into a number of districts would bring about sectional feeling in the matter of highway building that would prove detrimental and expensive to the State.

We believe that a member of the commission elected from Dallas county, or by the tremendous vote polled in that county, would go into office with a view of paying a political debt by building highways for the citizens of that county to the neglect of other sections. Political debts may be paid by the Governor in the making of appointments, but, after all, the highway commission appointed by the governor is not obligated to one section against another, but all its members are appointed to serve the entire state without that feeling of sectionalism that must necessarily creep in where a division is made into various districts.

The Governor, after all, is held responsible for the appointments he makes. Mrs. Ferguson suffered largely because of the appointments by her on the highway commission. To divide the responsibility would bring about a condition that would in all probability materially retard highway building in West Texas for an indefinite time.

The Advocate asks why we believe this, and we shall try to explain our position. While West Texas has a far greater area than any other section of the state, it has a smaller population. Many thousands of dollars will be required in building a highway system over West Texas in excess of that required in other sections of the state.

own private affairs. And as for Judge Walter Ely of Abilene, we have never heard a criticism of that appointment, despite the Advocate's charge that the appointment was made through the influence of the Governor's father-in-law and other influential citizens of Abilene.

But, the Times is defending the present appointive commission as against an elective commission, and we shall confine ourselves to that task, and shall try to answer some of the questions propounded by the Advocate.

We believe that the highway department of Texas should have one aim, and that one aim should be the building of a complete system of highways over the state without consideration of county lines or any other boundary lines, and we further believe that the division of the state into a number of districts would bring about sectional feeling in the matter of highway building that would prove detrimental and expensive to the State.

MRS. CARRIE V. SEIVERT

"I've taken three bottles of Sargon now and every neuritis and rheumatic pain in my body is gone. My nerves are in perfect condition. Not only this, but I have gained ten pounds."

"I am now a well and happy woman and owe a debt of gratitude to Sargon."—Mrs. Carrie V. Seivert, W. 1926 Boone Ave., Seokane, Wash.

Sargon's fame is based on actual results, not empty promises. Millions use it, millions praise it. The Rexall Star, Monday; T. P. Frizzell, Knox City; Griffin Drug Store, Goree, Agents.

Our Texas Railroad Commission within the state is composed of men who are appointed by the President. It is the duty of this body to deal with questions which arise between the people and the railroad, and, as they serve as a jury of equity we believe that they should not be forced to render decisions in keeping altogether with popular demand rather than on a basis of justice to all concerned, and we believe the same principle applies to the Texas Railroad Commission. In fact, James Stephen Hogg, who sponsored the Texas Railroad Commission, and under whose administration it became effective, strenuously opposed an elective commission, as did John H. Reagan, who served in that capacity and later fostered the Interstate Commerce Commission in the United States Senate.

Those patriots who framed our Constitution never intended that all offices should be made elective. They left the responsibility of choosing a cabinet in the hands of the President in order that his policies might be carried out in the various branches of our Government over which they preside. They provided that the appointment of our Supreme Judges should be appointed rather than elected in order that they might be absolutely free to render their decisions on a basis of complete equity to all people. Messrs. George Isbell, J. C. Campbell and S. A. Bowden returned Wednesday from Benjamin, where they have been serving as grand jurors, the grand jury having finished the work before it at this time.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the good friends and neighbors who so willingly and sympathetically aided us in any manner during the illness and upon the death of our loved one. We shall ever hold within our hearts a feeling of gratitude toward each of you in your efforts to remove some of the pang of grief that have come into our home.

And especially do we wish to extend our thanks to Hazel Dean Eiland, Barbara Eiland, Lillian McGlothlin, Mary Cleveland, Bonny Milam, Ishmael Walling, Earl and Paul Pruitt, Chandler Hughes, Gilbert Myers, Rex Holder and Aristotle Thompson, and Lee English and Fred Warren, of Knox City, all of whom volunteered to submit to blood transfusions. Our appreciation for such friends cannot be expressed in words.

W. M. BRACKETT, MR. and MRS. E. C. WYCHE and CHILDREN.

Fred Broach and C. M. Brown were on the plains the latter part of last week, and after looking the plains country over thoroughly they came back stronger than ever in their conviction that the Munday country is by far the best in West Texas. They state that no crops are a few on the plains except in a few scattering points where sufficient rains have fallen, and that in some places there is not sufficient moisture to bring up cotton or feed crops.

The Times family has been amply supplied with fresh vegetables recently by its good friends. John Rice recently brought in a large supply of beets grown in his garden, which are far better than those shipped in from the Rio Grande valley. Then came Mrs. E. L. Covey of Goree with a large bucket of beans of the yellow wax variety, and later Mrs. R. B. Wilson remembered us with a large bucket of green beans, so we've been well supplied with vegetables the past few days and wish to express our thanks.

BEAUTY HINTS

Few women realize the importance of thoroughly cleansing the skin. If your skin is not thoroughly cleansed each day, it can not be healthy. The constant use of soap and water alone will finally result in an extremely dry skin. Dry skin quickly becomes wrinkled. Marie Trolin Cleanseur Cream is made from the very finest imported oils, compounded with a percentage of pure milk. It liquefies immediately when applied to the skin and goes into each tiny pore, dissolving the skin of dust, powder, and excretions accumulated which of ten cause enlarged pores and acne conditions.

Bernie Cummins Declares the Arts Offer Great Financial Returns

New York City. — One more proof that we are living in a practical age is the monetary returns which now comes to artists, especially musicians. The proverbial genius in the garret has entirely passed out of the picture, and artists are more highly recognized than ever before in the world's history. Music which always used to be the last to receive recognition is now the first.

THE BRADY CASE

We are not given to censuring the verdict of juries as we believe that the trial by jury is the fairest manner of deciding impartial justice yet devised by man. But the recent verdict rendered by a Dallas jury in giving Judge Brady three years in prison for an atrocious murder of which he was accused, did little credit to the jury system, says the Denison Herald.

Such verdicts as the Dallas jury brought forth are in a measure responsible for such crimes as the mob committed. There is no excuse for lawlessness, yet people have become so disgusted with the excesses on justice often committed in the name of the law that they use such excuses.

Judge Brady has been tried by a jury of his peers and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, and of course, nothing more can be said. But the rendition of this verdict comes at a most inopportune time when the rumblings of mob disorders have not entirely ceased, and the people are wonder-

High Place of Flowers in Art Decoration

We are indebted to the flowers for what happiness their beauty affords us, to many for their fragrance, and for the joy and pleasure in growing them in our gardens, but the extent of our indebtedness does not end here, according to a sincere enthusiast.

Early in the history of art the flowers lent their aid to decoration," he says. "The arabesque, which gave its leaves to create the capital of the Corinthian column, the roses conventionalized in the rich fabrics of ancient Persia, until they have been thought their inventions of the weaver, are among the best items of an indebtedness which has steadily grown in volume until today, when the designers find their inspirations in the flowers are a vast and increasing host. In a modern mansion of the best type the outer walls are enriched with the leafy beauty of the sunflower; within, the mosaic floors, the silk and paper hangings, repeat themes suggested by the vine, the wild clematis and the mayflower. The stained glass windows, from New York, where their manufacture excels that of any other city in the world, are exquisite with boldly treated lilies, poppies and columbines."

Maze of Galleries and Halls in Hill of Cuma

Three complete subterranean halls, ranging from 900 to 500 feet in diameter, have been discovered in the celebrated city of Cuma, near Naples, in which the nine sibyls of Roman history are said to have written their books. Only three of these books have survived.

The halls were discovered only after the removal of thousands of tons of earth. The excavators, working under the direction of Professor Mattioli, traced an underground gallery a mile long and found that the interior of the hill of Cuma, which is ten miles from Naples overlooking the sea, consists of a maze of galleries and subterranean halls resembling labyrinths and wonderful shrines.

A subterranean temple of Apollo was also discovered. A statue of the Greek god was erected there in the days of the Emperor Augustus. Although the statue has now disappeared, the great stone remains. —New York Times Magazine.

Painful Impression

There is no real pain when you put your finger. Professor Pieron of the College of France informed the international congress on the subject of the exchange who the president of the exchange who in charge so that in times of brisk bidding they would with difficulty make their bids or offers heard. It was not until 1885 in Boston that seats were finally abolished and not until 1928 in New York and 1929 in Boston that continuous daily sessions were inaugurated. —Boston Transcript.

A Destroyer of Furs and Fine Woolens

Like the goat, a moth has strange taste, says a local official of the Gulf Refining Company. But unlike the goat, the damage done by moths runs into millions of dollars every year.

Moths hide and breed in dark places. They are voracious eaters of your finest woolens, mohairs and carpets.

A thorough and thrifty housewife will spray the cupboards, furniture, and carpets thoroughly every month with the modern type of insect spray, developed and marketed by the large oil refining companies during the past three or four years. The better grades of these insect sprays can be easily purchased from your grocer, hardware dealer, or druggist.

They are advertised frequently in this paper. Regular spraying will save that new coat and that lovely fur—not to mention your husband's best suit.

PLANT A TREE

An exchange says the man who plants a tree confers a blessing upon many generations. He bestows a benefit upon his community that will last for years after he is gone.

THE JUDGE HANDS DOWN A DECISION.

Judge Lewis L. Fawcett, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, says:

"Permit me to say that my experience during twenty-three years on the bench, in which time over 4,000 boys under the age of twenty-one were convicted of crime before me, of whom but three were members of a Sunday school, has satisfied me on the value of Sunday schools in the community, in helping safeguard it, to the extent to which Sunday schools exist, from the growth of criminals. My experience also satisfies me of their value to the individual. In 1902 cases of suspended criminal sentences in each of which a minor priest or rabbi became interested at my request, only sixty-two of the boys were brought back for violation of the conditions of parole. I believe the reform in the remaining cases (over 1,000) was prompt and permanent. In fact, I regard our Sunday schools including those of all faiths as the only effective means to stem the rising tide of vice and crime among youth. Society carries the heavy burden of criminality chiefly because of lack of religious training of the youth. If all children could be kept under the influence of the Sunday school and the grown up were active in some church we could close our prisons and jails instead of being compelled to enlarge and increase their number. The problem of youth is the problem of humanity. There are over 17,000,000 boys and girls in this country growing up without moral training from any source, Protestant, Catholic or Jewish.—World Call.
