CROP CONTROL MEETING CALLED FOR TUESDAY

Heavy Hitting Again Wins For Munday Hopefuls

Munday again administered a decisive defeat to the Rule aggregation Sunday afternoon on their own sandlot, thereby verifying the 15-8 defeat they handed them the previous Sunday afternoon here, except in a more decisive degree, this time the count was 13-3, which should make it unanimous.

However, he it said to the credit of the Rule aggregation, that they put up a stubborn fight, and the first six frames were exhibitions of real baseball and nobody had the game sailed down, and both hurlers, Smith for Munday and McCandless for Rule, pitched air-tight baseball until the sixth inning when the Rule hurler began to show signs of weakening and the Munday lads began swatting the horsehide all over the pasture.

Jack Wilson Wins Tri-County Trophy In Seymour Meet

Jack Wilson, Knox City youngster, and member of the Munday Golf Club, emerged from the Tri-County golf tournament recently held at Seymour as winner of the first flight, having downed Byron Shoupee, Seymour youngster, on the 36th hole in a match that was anybody's until the final play was made.

Wilson went into the finals by defeating Frank Kimbrough of Haskell in a close battle to the finish, and Shoupee went into the finals by defeating Panny Farmer of Knox City in a see-saw contest that required playing the last hole.

Haskell was chosen as the place for the tournament next year, while Hollis Atkinson of Haskell was chosen as president and F. M. Robertson of Haskell was elected secretary. Directors chosen were Henry Atkinson, Munday, and T. E. Craddock of Seymour.

FIRST NEW WHEAT SOLD IN HASKELL

HASKELL, June 19.—The first load of wheat from the 1933 crop arrived in Haskell Friday afternoon, and was purchased by the Haskell Mill and Grain Company, at 60 cents per bushel. The grain crop is going to be better than estimated at the beginning of the season.

Improvements Being Made at the Economy Store By C. S. Ameen

During the absence of Sied Waheed and family, who are taking a vacation, the Economy Store is in charge of C. S. Ameen, who in the absence of the proprietor is taking things in his own hands and is doing some remodeling, including a thorough re-painting of all the store fixtures and remodeling of tables upon which merchandise is displayed. The improvements have added greatly to the appearance of the store and Mr. Waheed will hardly recognize his own place of business when he returns.

Today And Tomorrow

By Frank Parker Stockbridge

CURTIS—used talent here as just as many opportunities now as there ever were for the right man to achieve independence by the use of his own talents and not much else. Of course, he must have talents and the will to use them.

That is what I think of in thinking of my old friend, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who died the other day at 83. He started his business career with three cents, which he ran up to nine cents the first day, buying and selling newspapers in his native Portland, Maine. He died leaving an estate of many millions, owner of the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and three daily newspapers.

Mr. Curtis prospered because he had the essential qualities of success in himself. He was honest, industrious, modest, religious, quick-witted, sober, generous and cheerful. His life was a complete disproof of the notion many lazy folk have, that men only get rich by robbing the poor. He gave the people of America more, in the shape of wholesome good reading, than he ever took from them.

TEXAS—and foreign affairs. Anybody who thinks the American people are not concerned about foreign affairs had better not say that too loud in Texas. Peter Molyneux, editor of the Texas Weekly, has been making Texas understand that the prosperity of all of them depends directly upon international trade.

Few people think of Texas in connection with foreign affairs, but that big state ships more goods abroad than even New York. About 90 per cent of Texas cotton goes abroad, and a third of the population is well off or poor, depending upon the foreign price of cotton. Texas oil is another big item in foreign trade.

Peter Molyneux believes, and is (Continued to back page)

Editor Visits Interesting San Jacinto—Sugar Land Prison Farm Points Houston Vicinity

On Tuesday, June 6th, the Times editor left for Houston to attend the 53rd annual convention of the Texas Press Association. Going to Stamford by bus we boarded the Katy for Waco, where we remained overnight and on Wednesday morning at 11:30 boarded a special train operated by the Katy out of Dallas for the special benefit and convenience of the press members. Shortly after leaving Waco Frank B. Griffin, general passenger agent for the Katy, came through the train and announced that lunch would be served in the air-cooled dining car at the rear of the train as compliments of the M-K-T Lines, and a delightful lunch it was, the menu consisting of all the choicest foods that one could desire, and after lunch many of the press members together with their wives and daughters and guests remained in the cool dining car throughout the afternoon and played bridge and other games. Nothing was overlooked by the Katy in making the trip a most enjoyable event, which in reality was one of the bright spots in the trip for all who boarded the train.

One of the most enjoyable features in the varied forms of entertainment provided by Houston was a trip down the great ship channel, where we saw great ocean freighters loading and unloading their cargoes, and after witnessing this great man-made waterway and the activity that it has brought about we can readily understand why Houston has taken first rank among cities of Texas. Going by boat from the turning basin to the San Jacinto battleground we were given the privilege of viewing this historic spot—a desire we have had since, as a schoolboy, we read of the heroic charge of Gen. Sam Houston against the far greater number of Mexican soldiers under the command of Gen. Santa Anna. We saw the marble slab which marks the exact spot where Santa Anna was captured, which is some ten miles from the actual battleground, and as we walked over the sacred ground we were somehow made to feel more than ever that it is our heritage to be a native son of the Lone Star State.

From San Jacinto battleground we were conveyed in cars and busses to the beautiful resort, Sylvan Beach, which is located some thirty miles out of Houston where the waves of the bay meet the mainland. Here we were privileged to bathe in the cooling waters, dance on the immense hardwood floor of the pavilion or amuse ourselves with any of the many other amusement devices. A beautiful barbecue was served to the editors and their ladies together with most any kind of refreshment that the individual taste might desire, certain of the refreshments being served in a tent down by the water's edge, which Uncle Dick McCarty, that universally loved veteran editor of the Albany News, chose to call the "Democratic Wigwag." At a late hour we again boarded the cars and busses and were returned to the city.

On Saturday afternoon a special invitation was extended by Lee Simmons, manager of the Texas Penitentiary system, to visit the prison plant near Sugarland, some twenty-five miles from Houston. Cars were made available for this trip and after driving over the thousand-acre farm where we saw cotton in full bloom, acres and acres of tomatoes, beans, peas and numerous other vegetables growing, and after viewing these wonderful fields we could easily understand why Mr. Simmons had made such wonderful progress in making the penitentiary system self-sustaining.

After the trip over the fields we were shown over the packing and canning plants, in which thousands of tons of meats are cured and countless thousands of cans of vegetables are canned for the use of the penitentiary system and the eleemosynary institutions of the state, and these plants, operated by convict labor, are probably more efficient than like institutions operated by individuals for the reason that labor is no item here, the penitentiary being crowded to capacity, and everything was kept spotlessly clean. In fact, the prisoners themselves were spotlessly clean, and wore snow-white trousers and shirts, and in appearance we are no different from the young men we see dressed for a game of tennis, the only insignia that would distinguish them from the dozens of young men dressed in like garb and accompanying the newspaper folks, was a number worked in the trousers just above the hip pocket. At this plant practically all of the (Continued to back page)

Funeral Services Here Friday For Mrs. Sarah True

Funeral services will be held here Friday for Mrs. Sarah True who died on Wednesday at the home of her son, Charles True, in Dallas, after a prolonged illness. The remains reached here on the morning train Thursday and were conveyed to the H. P. Hill home. The hour for the services had not been announced at the time we go to press and final plans are being delayed pending the arrival of relatives.

Mrs. True was one of the pioneer citizens of this part of the state but had not resided here in a number of years. She is survived by several children, who reside in various sections of the state. Funeral arrangements are in charge of R. G. Campbell, local funeral director.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Next Sunday is regular preaching day at the Presbyterian church. All of the members are expected to come and visitors are cordially invited.

The reports of attendance at Sunday school is gratifying. It indicates that there has been some good work done by somebody. Such work also brings satisfaction to the worker, and more interest in the finer things. Come, and you will be helping others while you help yourself. Charles Tucker, Pastor.

MORGAN-FREEMAN

The marriage of Mr. Carl Morgan and Miss Annie Mae Freeman was solemnized Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the Rev. Chas. T. Whaley of Weatherford, and following a brief trip to Glen Rose and other Central Texas points the newlyweds returned to Knox City and will make their home on his farm in the Sunset community.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Freeman of Weatherford, and for the past five years has been a member of the faculty of the Knox City schools and has been elected to a place on the faculty of the Sunset schools for the coming school year. During the years she has been associated with the schools of Knox City she has endeared herself to the citizens of that community.

The groom has been a resident of Knox City for the past seven years and has been engaged in farming. He bears an enviable reputation in that community as a citizen and we join heartily with their many friends in wishing for them a full measure of happiness. (Continued to back page)

Plans For Cotton Acreage Reduction Will Be Fully Explained By County Agent Jones in Meeting On Tuesday

City Secretary Will Assist In Supplying Labor

Due to the fact that the R. F. C. Labor is being curtailed there are many unemployed in the community and City Secretary Riley B. Harrell has stated that he will gladly assist farmers and others who are in need of laborers in securing them.

METHODIST CHURCH

"Inspiration of the Bible" will be the subject discussed by the Rev. H. C. Hand at the Methodist church on Sunday morning, while the evening sermon will be of an evangelistic nature, and the public is extended a cordial invitation to attend each of these services. Other services at the usual hour.

The Rev. H. C. Hand has just returned from a summer school for ministers conducted at the Southern Methodist University and his messages will prove of spiritual benefit to all who hear him.

"Lefty" Hambricht Signed By Munday

"Lefty" Hambricht, one-handed southpaw, who has been with the Stamford club during a major portion of the season, has been released by that club and has affixed his signature to an agreement to play with the Munday club, all necessary signatures having been received to make the transfer effective, and Hambricht will likely work in Sunday's game with Hamlin on the local sandlot. It was Hambricht's pitching which contributed to one of the defeats the Munday team has suffered this season, and local fans feel that he is quite an asset to the Munday aggregation.

Thinking Out Loud

By J. A. K.

If the dry weather continues, aided by the high winds the Government may be spared the expense of plowing up any cotton in Knox County. L. W. Hobert said the wind was getting about every third row for him Tuesday afternoon.

In our meanderings about the past few weeks we've noted that many of the large cities have suffered far more from the depression than the small towns, and it seems to us that Waco has suffered more than any of the larger cities, and Houston the least.

We heard some interesting yarns of the olden days along the old Texas Central line the other day enroute to Waco when Uncle Dick McCarty, for thirty-five years publisher of the Albany News, and Conductor Hooper, who has been running on the line for forty years, recalled some of the experiences of the early days.

One of the interesting stories told by Mr. Hooper was one his many experiences in railroading. A heavy rain had washed out bridges on the south and a wrecker had gone off the track in front of his train. He and his passengers were virtually marooned for some twenty-four hours, their only source of food being that purchased by Conductor Hooper from the commissary of a work train at a cost to him of $47.00.

The passenger train was drawn up beside the work train and he and his crew, including his negro porter who was a very fine cook, began preparing food for the passengers, including frying of bacon, eggs, baking biscuit etc., and the passengers suffered not the least for want of food during the delay.

But Mr. Hooper stated that when (Continued to back page)

County Agent W. E. Jones has been advised by the Secretary of Agriculture that the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College has been designated as the agency through which the cotton reduction campaign will be carried on throughout the state, and he has therefore been designated as the official in charge of the campaign in Knox County, and in order that farmers may be made familiar with the plans of the Government in this movement a meeting has been called for Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Munday. The meeting will be held in the community auditorium, and every farmer in this section of the county, whether interested or not, is urged to be present at this meeting.

At this meeting Mr. Jones will have a number of contracts that are being sent out by the Department of Agriculture and farmers will be given the privilege of examining them, and terms and amount of rentals and contracts will be the subject of the discussion, according to Mr. Jones.

"This meeting is being held to rush information to the farmers, as immediate action will be taken in reducing cotton acreage," said Mr. Jones. "Beginning Monday, June 26 contracts will begin to be made out and signed by the farmers desiring to reduce their cotton acreage and thereby benefit by the cash rentals as paid by the Government."

"Contrary to the impression of many, there is nothing compulsory about the acreage reduction, but it will deal with the individual who of his own free will and accord wishes to take advantage of this method to increase the price of his cotton this fall. It is a better way out to better prices, and is for the farmers to use or not to use. It will be through the cooperation of the farmers that the acreage will be reduced, and better prices certainly cannot be expected with a surplus now on hand of approximately 17 million bales," said Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones stated that community meetings would be held over the country the next few days, and the meeting in Munday on Tuesday, will give the farmers the privilege of learning about the plan devised by the Secretary of Agriculture with the approval of President Roosevelt to bring relief to the cotton farmers of the South, and certainly this is a matter of grave concern to every farmer and everyone interested should attend this meeting.

Texas A. & M. Short Course To Feature Action, Says Jones

County Agent W. E. Jones was in the latter part of last week and gave us a bulletin on the A. and M. Short Course to be held at the college the week of July 23rd, and stated that the course this year would feature more action and less sitting still and listening than in any of the previous years of the course. There will be more demonstrations and fewer lectures, more initiations into the tricks of many rural trades and not so much theory.

Mr. Jones is planning for a good representation of Knox County people to go to the college for this course, which has proven to be one of the most worthwhile gatherings ever inaugurated for farm folks.

Dress Contest To Be Held In Benjamin June 24, 10 A. M.

The Knox County dress contest will be held in the Court room at Benjamin, Saturday, June 24, at 10 o'clock and it is expected that at least 50 women from the ten home demonstration clubs in the county will have dresses on exhibit they have made from their foundation patterns.

These dresses will be judged in three classes: Class one demonstrators, Class two demonstrators and all cooperators. The winners of the first two divisions will be given trips to College Station to the Farmer's Short Course which is to be held July 24 to 29th.

Every one is invited to come and see the work that the club women are doing. (Continued to back page)

This Week In Washington

WASHINGTON, June 19 (Auto-caster)—Now that Congress has gone home and the President's machinery for carrying out the program of the New Deal has not yet got into full action, this is a good time to look over the situation and see where, in a way of speaking, we are at.

One point which experienced political observers are commenting on is that Mr. Roosevelt has shown himself an astute politician by keeping the tariff issue out of the extra session of Congress with which his administration began. That isn't because he doesn't want to do something about tariffs, but because, as a student of political history, and with a very smart set of advisers close to him, he knows that nothing is more certain to wreck an Administration than a tariff squabble. And any kind of tariff discussion in Congress always gets down to a squabble between local interests.

It was a tariff law that wrecked the Taft Administration; it was another tariff law that started the Hoover Administration on the down grade. Each of those two Presidents called Congress in an extra session, but neither was able to control the situation after Congress met. And the enemies arising out of those tariff debates broke up the party in each case.

President Roosevelt wants tariff revision. He is, indeed, bound by his party's platform to bring about tariff reductions. He would have liked to have had power before the World Economic Conference began, to offer tariff reductions as an offset to European claims to relief from war debts. But he needed other domestic legislation worse than he did the tariff at this time, and he shrewdly demanded and got pretty nearly all of his program through, so that, no matter what may happen when the tariff comes up for discussion at the next session—as it will—the President will still be sitting in the seat of power.

President's Great Power
The delegation of authority by Congress to the President is unmatched

in political history. Mr. Roosevelt today has the power to close all banks and open those he pleases; to embargo gold and strike the gold clause from past, present and future contracts; to effect controlled inflation of the currency by a variety of methods; to pay a bounty to farmers in order to increase the price of their crops to coordinate and regulate industry and suspend the anti-trust laws while doing so to regulate and reorganize the nation's railway system; to create an entirely new and economical pension system; to borrow billions for public works and to dispense dole on a national scale.

No President ever had so much power in peace time. And no President has ever had so much power over Congress. That is not solely because patronage has been withheld pending the granting of powers to the President. Much of the President's strength with the able and, for the most part, patriotic and well-intentioned men in the Senate and House, is due to the knowledge, which they cannot escape, that the President has the people of the United States behind him as no other President since Washington has had them. To oppose the President is to oppose the constituents back home; as they gave him what he asked for.

A Positive Program

A certain commentary on the certainty with which the President's program has been put through is the fact that the Administration does not wait for Congress to act but goes ahead with its plans as soon as it has sent the desired bill to the Capitol. When the newspapers were bristling with headlines based on Senate opposition to the National Industry Control act, while the Senate finance committee was trying to pull all the teeth out of that measure and Senators were thrumming against it on the floor, the organization to administer the new law, under Gen. Hugh Johnson opened its headquarters! Employees were hired, regulations for the several industrialists were asked to go on the national board. There was, in short, no doubt about what Congress was going to do. In the ninety-nine days of its first session the 73rd Congress made a record for important legislation which few Congresses have equalled in their

Itinerary For the 4th Week of June As Given By Jewell Faulkner, County Home Demonstration Agent

"Berry vines should be cut off now," said Jewell Faulkner, county home demonstration agent. "As soon as the entire crop of berries is harvested, cut the plants back to the ground with a hoe or mowing machine. The berry crop next year will be borne on the new growth coming off this year's shoots. By cutting the plants off now a good growth will take place before fall and next spring there will not be a bramble of old growth to overload the plants vitality and handicap pickers."

Gilliland Home Demonstration Club Works on Bedrooms

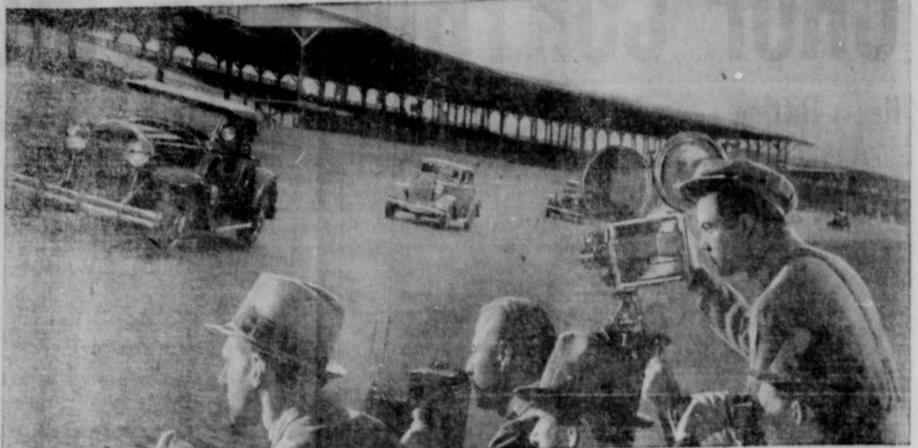

The bedroom that is being improved by Mrs. Elmer Horne, demonstrator in the Gilliland Home Demonstration Club is a south-east corner room with plenty of natural light. There are four windows and two doors in this room with a closet built back in the wall. Mrs. Horne plans to clean the room thoroughly, rearrange the furniture and improve the walls and floors. "Nothing I am most interested in is improving my storage space," stated Mrs. Horne, "and I believe I will be able to do that by putting a substantial rod in the closet for hanging clothes and by building some shelves for hats, shoes and linens." The closet is long and narrow and can be used successfully by adding shelves in both ends and using the center for hanging clothes.

BEDROOM IMPROVEMENT IN HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS

"If the sand would only stop blowing long enough, I could do so many things to my bedroom. The room is to be papered, the woodwork and floors refinished, the furniture cleaned and mended and a closet built," stated Mrs. C. M. Matlock, bedroom demonstrator in the Munday Home Demonstration Club. She plans to do all these things and possibly make many other improvements between now and September.

Mrs. Matlock is not only improving her bedroom but is active in two other demonstrations being carried by club women in Knox County. She has made a foundation pattern and is using this pattern to make a dress for the contest, June 24. Mrs. Matlock also has a nice garden and is beginning to fill her canning budget for next year.

Story of Doris McGuire, Winner of Third Place in the Bedroom Contest In Knox County

VERA 4 H CLUB

I was in my third year of club work when our Home Demonstrator asked us to choose a bedroom demonstrator; I was chosen to be this demonstrator.

As I already had a bedroom of my own I didn't have to bring up the idea of planning for a separate bedroom; although my bedroom needed a great many repairs. The worst repairs my bedroom needed was papering, painting, new curtains and shades.

In this contest there were five things that I had to do. These five things were fix a place for dressing, a place for sleeping, a storage for my clothes, a place for washing, and a place for study. With these five things in mind my mother and I began to study what to do first.

The first thing that we decided to do was to build a closet. Instead of buying new lumber, as my aim was to keep down expense, we took down a partition between the front hall and the living room to build a closet. There was a closet in the living room so I tore it down and used the door of it for my closet. Next we decided to paint all the woodwork because we were afraid we would get paint on our wall paper if we papered first. I also wanted the study table and touched up my bedroom suite which was straw and pale green color. I also painted the molding that had been around the baseboard and put it on the ceiling. I did the papering next, with the assistance of my brother and mother.

As I had plenty of natural light I did not worry about fixing any more windows. I had one single window on the east and a double window on the south. My curtains were a little too ally decided to get the material and think about getting new ones. I finished for my windows so I had to make my own curtains. After cleaning the floor with a lye solution I used an oak stain on it.

I arranged the furniture with the lines of the room so as to make it comfortable. In arranging the furniture I kept in mind such principals as having my table in such a place so the light would come over my left shoulder. On my study table I had a reading lamp and a book case.

I had a bathroom therefore I did not have to plan for washing facilities. The bathroom had to be improved however and this we did by removing the partition between the hall and bathroom and making it larger. The position of the bathroom and lavatory was changed and a closet for storage of linens was built in the room.

My expenses were as follows:

Paper	$1.50
Paint	.50
Closet	.50

The Boss is Gone . . .

—and has left the store in our charge and we are running it just as we want to. One of the things we noticed on taking charge is that the store is overstocked for this season, and while he is away we are going to make some prices that will move some of this merchandise out so let us urge that you come in now, before the boss gets back, and get some real bargains.

We almost cleaned out those shoes we advertised last week, but have a number of pair left that we are going to sell at the same prices quoted last week—$1.69 and 75c. Some of them cost Sied more money than that, but he is out of town and we are going to clean them out before he gets back.

Don't fail to visit this store Friday or Saturday, or early next week—before the boss returns—if you want some real bargains.

"I am alarmed at business men who, professing abhorrence of radical theories of government, insist upon or acquiesce in having the government do things for their own business and do things to other peoples business which do violence to sound principals of government. It is they who are largely responsible for the growth of extravagance and bureaucracy in government."—L. A. Downs, President, Illinois Central Ry.

YES, PRICES ARE GOING UP

For two successive months, according to a graph in the New York Times, the index of commodity prices has been moving upward without interruption.

The nation-wide policy of the moment is to raise prices to a more normal level and, by one means or another to keep them there.

Here are two facts that should interest every property owner, and every potential builder. They mean that present low prices are doomed; that we're going to pay more for what we buy—whether it's food and clothing or a new house.

The wise citizen who possibly can, will spend now, when it will get him the largest dollar's worth he has ever known. And he will spend largely on property improvement, where it will give him something of real and permanent value. There is hardly one of us who hasn't let his property slide a little the past few years. We have put off painting, repairing, installing labor saving machinery in kitchen and laundry, building a new garage, overhauling the heating plant, repairing or replacing the roof, walks, fences, etc. But we have now reached the point where if we put it off any longer it will mean dollars out of pocket.

And when we build and repair we are doing our bit toward stimulating employment. Our dollars will pass through the hands of workers in a hundred industries. We are increasing groundwork for future prosperity for ourselves as well. Don't forget that investment and employment are better than charity.

GET RID OF FLYING GLASS

Automobile safety is, often, a matter of "little things"—things which wouldn't occur to most of us when we think of ways to cut the accident record.

The State of New York recently recognized this in the passage of a law requiring the installation of safety glass in the windshields and windows of all new passenger automobiles constructed after January 1, 1933, and all busses built after January 1, 1934. New York is the third state to demand safety glass—Massachusetts and Michigan have preceded it.

You can pick up the paper almost any day and read of an accident in which this sentence or headline occurs—"Cut by flying glass." Surveys indicate that between thirty and forty per cent of injuries resulting from vehicle mishaps are due to this cause. Tens of thousands of men and women bear disfiguring scars because of it.

Wesley M. Gaff, of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, in discussing the new legislation said: "This is by no means a movement to give widespread propaganda or sales advantage to a certain type of glass. What we want is a way to prevent a great number of serious and painful injuries which are suffered every year as a result of flying or smashed glass. We would like to see such glass not only in automobiles and busses, but also in street cars, railroad trains, airplanes, motorboats, and in fact almost everything from a perambulator to a lighter than air craft."

There is another side to the question, aside from the humanitarian phase. The high frequency of claims arising from glass cuts is a costly burden to insurance companies. This cost must be passed along to the policy-holders—either through higher rates or by withholding rate reductions that would otherwise be possible. When every state legislates against ordinary glass in automobiles, it will mean fewer and less severe accidents—and cheaper insurance.—Industrial News Review.

NO TEXAS EXHIBIT

Texas who visit the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago will be sorely disappointed when they come to the largest space in the exhibit building assigned to the state, for there they will find the space absolutely empty, and someone with a desire to take a dig at the Lone Star State has suggested that the space be used as a "lounging room," indicative of the activity of the committee in this state assigned to the task of providing the exhibit for the allotted space.

This situation was brought before the meeting of the Texas Press Association at Houston by W. N. Blanton, vice-president and general manager of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, who has just returned from Chicago, and who in his chagrin has in no unmistakable language asked the committee to resign and turn the task over to others. The Texas Press Association passed a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of seven newspaper men to investigate the status of the fund for providing such an exhibit and to take such action as they may deem proper to insure that Texas shall be represented, and the personnel of this committee indicates that something will be done about it.

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit—which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share—everyone must get it for himself—and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive—their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

Make Perfect Coffee . . . EVERY TIME . . . with These Automatic "Electrical Servants"

Authorities agree that the only perfect coffee is real French Drip Coffee. This is because a perfect brew requires three very definite things. First, that coffee grounds and water should come in contact but once. . . . Second, that the contact should be of about 3½ minutes duration. . . . Third, that the water used in coffee-making should not be boiled, but maintained at a temperature about 16 degrees below the boiling point. When these three definite things are done, the result is a smooth, rich flavor. . . a clear, sparkling amber color. . . and an intriguing, appetite-awakening aroma.

Here are two appliances that enable you to make perfect coffee EVERY TIME! The Manning-Bowman French Drip Coffee Urn, and the Hotpoint Coffee-Maker automatically assure the perfection of all your coffee. No embarrassing failures. . . no disgusting "dishwater" coffee. . . none that would "float an egg." You'll have perfect coffee every time through the automatic perfection of these modern "Electrical Servants."

Specially priced, for a limited time only, you'll find one of these modern appliances an absolute necessity in your home. Like all electrical appliances, too, they may save money for you—for this modern way requires less coffee to produce a wonderful brew. Ask any employe for a demonstration TODAY. Convenient terms if desired!

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

(Continued from front page) getting other Texans to believe, that we've got to compromise the war debts and reduce our tariffs if we want to continue selling our goods abroad. Europe can't buy from us unless we buy from them, he says; and I think he's just about right. KING—speaks to the world
George the Fifth, the most popular king England has had for more than a century, opened the World Economic Conference in London with a speech which was heard by radio around the world. Every nation on the globe, 66 of them, was represented there. No monarch ever presided over such a truly world-wide gathering.

The conference was called by the League of Nations, supposedly the most democratic organization in the world. But the man who presided is the only authentic and powerful emperor who remains upon a throne.

One secret of George V's popularity is that he doesn't act as if he were a monarch. He knows that he is King only so long as the English people want him to be. He is said to have intimated that the heir to the throne, the Prince of Wales, stands a much better chance of becoming President of the British Republic than King.

Mrs. E. McElyea has returned to Munday after an absence of some eight months during which time she has been with her daughter at Albu, Texas, and states that she is very glad to be back with her many friends here.

Misses Elgia and Lounette Hand of Sherman, Texas, are here and will spend the summer months in the home of their parents, the Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis McClain of Plainview and Miss Marceline Wyatt of Midland are guests this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Haggins.

Mrs. Earl Owen and little son of Vernon are here guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Davy.

Mrs. Kennedy and the boys went to Seymour Wednesday evening to enjoy a plunge in the swimming pool and noted that there were some ten people in the pool from Munday, all of which would indicate that a good pool here would be well patronized. The pool is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Howard who use every effort to conduct the pool on a high plane and it has only been recently inspected by a representative of the State Board of Health and pronounced sanitary. While in the pool Jesse George lost his class ring and Mr. and Mrs. Howard gave assurance that an effort would be made to locate it when the pool is drained.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Campsey of Knox City announce the arrival of a baby daughter who made her arrival at the Knox City Hospital last Monday, June 12. The little lady has been named Marjorie Lou.

Mrs. Jimmie Frazier of Coalbidge, Texas is here visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keel. She was accompanied by Mr. Frazier's sister, Miss Faye Frazier.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lane and children have moved back to Munday from Goree. Since going to Goree they have been unable to find a suitable residence there and have been living in the rear of their store, but the hot weather has made such quarters uncomfortable and they have procured the J. (Continued from front page) he turned in his bill for $47.03 for food for the passengers an alert auditor promptly informed him that he had been given no authority to make such purchases and promptly disallowed the bill. Mr. Hooper then sent the bill to one of the higher operating officers, who likewise sent back a very brief and curt letter advising him that inasmuch as the purchase of food had been made without authority from any official of the road he would have to stand the loss himself.

However, a thoughtful passenger on this particular train was so favorably impressed with the manner in which the conductor had made the best of a bad situation that he wrote the president of the road and explained the incident to him and complimented the road upon having men in charge of their trains who were capable of transforming a long weary vigil into a veritable picnic for the passengers.

When the president of the road read the letter and made some investigation he gave orders that the conductor be reimbursed for the $47 he had spent for provisions and wrote him a highly complimentary letter stating that it was indeed satisfying to him to know that the company had men in charge of their trains who had sufficient initiative to act in an emergency, and in addition he demanded that those who had rejected the account extend their apologies to Conductor Hooper, and naturally this letter is treasured by the veteran railroader who always wears a flower on the lapel of his coat and a smile on his Irish ruddy face.

HOUSTON

(Continued from front page) prisoners seemed to be young men, a majority of them appearing to be barely out of their teens. We chatted with a number of them making the rounds of the plant and each of them stated that they were well treated and well cared for.

Dinner was served late in the afternoon in the great dining hall—the same place where the prisoners are served their meals, and Mr. Simmons stated that every item on the menu except sugar and coffee were produced by the prison system, and consisted mainly of packing house products.

Following the delightful meal we were escorted into the auditorium, or at least a wing of one of the buildings that had been converted into an auditorium by the prisoners, where one of the most delightful programs that it has ever been our privilege to hear was witnessed. This program was given by a group of about thirty prisoners who had been brought in from the walls of the Huntsville plant by Warden Walter Waid. This program consisted of a negro minstrel, dancing with a number of vocal and instrumental novelties by the white prisoners. Music was furnished throughout the program by the Huntsville prisoner's orchestra conducted by Bob Silver, noted by reason of having his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment after his head had been shaved and he was in readiness to be led to the electric chair. He was sentenced for murder committed when he and a companion attempted to hold up a theatre cashier in Fort Worth some years ago. Warden Waid stated that his services had been very valuable in organizing and conducting the orchestra and band within the walls at Huntsville.

One of the most depressing conceptions one gets upon visiting one of these units of the penitentiary is the youthfulness of the inmates, the majority of them appearing to be mere lads just out of their teens and many of them appear to be still mere boys, and we were informed that the average age of prisoners received was 22 years, and 47 per cent of them have acquired an education only to the fourth grade.

In order that these lads may be better fitted to fight the battles of life when they emerge from their imprisonment a school system has been inaugurated within the system, in which attendance is purely voluntary with the prisoners, except illiterates, who are required by law to attend school. The prison school system is in charge of J. M. Reynolds, who has inaugurated a merit system by which prisoners by complying with certain requirements are given credit on their time, and Mr. Reynolds has had prepared certificates of merit which are presented to prisoners when they comply with the set requirements, and he states that he and the officials of the system will be greatly surprised if any of the lads who receive these certificates are ever returned to the penitentiary. The prison schools were inaugurated in 1929 with an enrollment of 300 students, while at the present time the enrollment is 2529, of which only 840 are illiterates. The prison school curriculum consists of seven grades in academic work and 68 vocational courses. Ten of these vocational courses now have an enrollment of 350 men.

treatment to a greater degree than in former years is revealed in figures given us by Lee Simmons, who stated that during the past three years there had only been 584 attempts to escape as compared with 1647 the three years prior, with approximately 4000 more inmates the past three years than preceding three years.

In his efforts to make the system self-sustaining Mr. Simmons explained that he and his fellow workers had encountered many obstacles. In most any line of work that is undertaken or planned they are met with strong opposition, and have therefore been forced to rely almost exclusively on the production of cotton, and Mr. Simmons stated that for some unexplainable reason the cotton farmers of Texas were the only class that had permitted the prison system to compete with them without entering a strong protest.
