FARM AND RANCH LOANS

I wish to announce that The Munday National Farm Loan Association is now in a position to intelligently take applications for Federal Land Bank loans at 41/2" interest.

Also that I will take applications for Land Bank Commissioner's loans, which are based on 75% of the appraised normal value of the farm or ranch, and or chattel mortgages.

I have just had a conference with one who has the correct knowledge and information concerning both of the above kinds of loans, and feel now that I can take applications of the above kind with a maximum possibility of success, and the possibility of a minimum cost to the applicant.

Within a few days The Times will receive a code prescribed by our Government under which we will operate our plant, and it is generally conceded that this code, like most other codes, will call for a substantial increase in the price of all printed matter. These new prices will be uniform the country over and no printing plant will be allowed to deviate from the prices set there-

This code will call for substantial salaries for workmen and short hours. Naturally these changes will necessitate higher prices for all work, and this is to urge our patrons to place their orders before these conditions have been put into effect.

This plant is now operating under the blanket code, as are most other concerns, and we are striving to carry out all of the terms of this agreement, but the final code adopted for the printing industry will impose certain rules that will bring about an increase in the price of all printing, so we urge that you place your order for your requirements now.

Cyrano Not Imaginary

Savinien Cyrano de Bergerac, French romance writer and dramatist, was born in Paris March 6, 1619. At the age of nineteen he entered a corps of the guards, serving in the campaigns of 1630 and 1640, and began the series of exploits that were to make him a hero of romance. After ten years of this life Cyrano left the service and began to write tragedies. Cyand a ingenious mixture or science and romance furnished a model for many writers, such as Swift and Poe. He died in Paris in Septem-ber, 1655. M. Edmond Rostand's ro-mantic play, "Cyrano de Bergerae" (1897), revived interest in him.

Shepherds First Golfers?

It is now said that shepherds in Scotland originated the game of golf 500 years ago. Although it has been claimed that the game be-gan in Holland in 1732, it seems that it made its first appearance in Scotland five centuries ago. The shepherds, tending flocks, were in the habit of knocking stones with a stick at other shepherds whose flocks were beginning to intermingle with the first group.

From this means of warning another shepherd of the trespassing of his flock grew the game of golf. Gradually the practice became a sport, the objective being to hit small objects with the stone.

POULTRY LOSSES

Poor Production Usually Due to Unsanitary Methods.

Successful poultrymen realize that practically all heavy losses in poul-try are preventable, according to Charles N. Keen, assistant profes-sor in poultry at the Colorado Agri-cultural college.

Heavy losses and poor production to coultry are usually due, Mr.

in poultry are usually due, Mr. Keen says, to some of the following factors: Fallure to have clean houses, clean feed, clean water, birds free from parasites and failure to remove sick birds from the dropping boards must go with it. When you enter a poultry house during cold weather and the odor is such as to make you halt when you open the door, it is evident that the air is not sanitary.

The practice of feeding in open hoppers, dishpans and the like, allows droppings to get into the mash feed. This spreads disease and causes a great deal of waste. Stagnant water left in the house for 24 hours, to three or four days at a time, is not a sanitary condition.

Birds which are affected with lice and mites become weakened and Birds which are affected with lice and mites become weakened and subject to disease. The following dystem used at the Colorado experiment station while birds are housed during the winter has proved very satisfactory, and we have very little trouble with disease.

Dropping boards are cleaned three times a week or more and sprayed often with a spray consisting of 50 per cent destillate or keroene with one-half pint creosote disinfectant added to five gailons of the mixture. This spray is need the mixture. This spray is used depending upon the amount needed. The dropping boards are oily from this epray. This helps in cleaning them during cold weather.

A good disinfectant mixed with water is used for nests and other parts of the house several times a year. For lice the perches are painted with nicotine sulphate four or five times a year, or more often if necessary. Whenever colds ap-pear a good disinfectant is used in the water, and any birds appearing weak or showing a tendency to roup, are removed. All birds which become sick are killed. It is surprising how much the killing of a few diseased birds will save.

Caponizing Profitable Way to Market Poultry

Caponizing is one of the most profitable ways of marketing latehatch-d cockerels. in an experi-ment last year 50 June hatched cockerels were caponized. The hirds were of dual-purpose breeds and ca-ponized when they had reached a ponized when they had reached a weight of 12 ounces to 21; pounds. The birds were soid the following April and averaged six pounds each, dressed for market. They brought 35 cents a pound, or an average of $2.10 per bird. The feed cost of producing these birds was $4 cents each, and with an additional charge. each, and with an additional charge of 10 cents for dressing and picking, the net profit was $1.10 per bird.

Another poultryman caponized 191 barred Plymouth Rocks last summer. When sold their average weight was 7.7 pounds each, and they brought 43 cents per pound. The total cost of growing these ca-pons-chicks, feed and labor-was placed at $336.14. There were 176 birds at seiling time, which brought a total of $561.14, leaving a net profit of 85 cents per bird.

Healthy Chick Program

Brings Higher Returns Health sticks to clean chicks! By following four simple points in broading poultrymen can save 90 per cent of their chicks. Not only more chicks will be saved, but they will be more profitable birds to keep as layers and breeders. Grow them clean, and health and vigor will go with them through life.

The four points to the Kansas "health chick" program calls for clean houses, clean ground, and

By following these four aimple rules egg production has been increased 30 eggs per bird in farm flocks. This increase at 25 cents per dozen means an additional re-

Needs Shell Material

A hen producing 200 eggs a year must be supplied with sufficient cal-cium carbonate, so that after the loss that comes through digestion, she still will be able to deposit around the egg in the form of shell nearly three pounds of shell form-ing material. Such heavy calcium carbonate or egyphell production demands serious consideration. Even though every other require-ment is supplied, a deficiency of cal-cium carbonate will be a limiting factor in production.

Avoid Diseases Raising strong, healthy chicks to largely a problem of keeping them away from the infection and dis-

the old birds are free from the effects of disease, they harbor many
