BITS OF PHILOSOPHY

Try to be somebody but not somebody else. You will not think less of yourself when you tell the truth.

Things would have been different if they hadn't been like they were.

The sunset has more admirers than the sunrise. Sell yourself, but be sure not to sell out.

Some specific notes of interest follow:

COST OF LIVING: In April, a National Industrial Conference Board survey shows, cost of living was at 88.3, well under the 1929 high of 101.1, and also well above the depression low of 71.5.

EMPLOYMENT: In March, 1933, best estimates put the unemployed total at 15,000,000. Now it is under half that, about 7,000,000.

COMMODITY PRICES: Rose swiftly during the first part of the year, then declined. As the second half opens, the general level is about at the January figure.

AGRICULTURE: First half income for farmers was highest since 1930.

FACTS ABOUT THE BIBLE

One of our readers writes us to give some facts about the Bible that are not generally known. The editor of the Times does not know how generally known may be the following, but to him they have always been highly interesting. If your Bible is a King James version it contains 3,586,489 letters; 773,692 words; 31,173 verses; 1,1189 chapters and 66 books. The word "and" is used 1,853 times and the word "reverend" occurs but once and that in the ninth verse of 111 Psalm. The middle verse of the Bible is the eighth verse of the 118 Psalm, while the 21 verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains every letter of the alphabet except J. The 9th chapter of II Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike. The longest verse in the Bible is John 11:35. The 8th, 21st and 31st verses of 107th Psalm are all the same. There are no words and names in the Bible of more than six syllables.

IT'S NOT OUR FIGHT

The Manchester (England) Guardian gives some impressive figures that argue in support of international agreements for the outlawry of war. The World War cost the nations involved $500,000,000,000, an amount sufficient "to present every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia with a $2,500 house standing on a five-acre plot, with $1,250 worth of furniture, besides providing for each group of 200,000 families a hospital, university, and schools including the salaries of teachers, nurses, doctors and professors." And this does not take into account the heavier losses of the four years of war—11,000,000 men killed and 19,000,000 mutilated. Is it not time for the nations to speak, for the Church of Christ to declare in the name of the Prince of Peace that wars shall cease "until the end of the earth"?

EARNED SOCIAL SECURITY

During the first five months of this year, $3,170,356,000 of new life insurance protection was written in the United States, a gain of 9 per cent over the same period in 1935. All but a handful of states showed increases.

This gain is representative of past experience. Even during some of the depression period, the American public managed to increase its purchases of life insurance.

The millions of citizens who look to insurance for future protection for both their dependents and themselves aren't wrong. Insurance is the finest guardian of thrift the nation has. It makes for self reliance, for individual independence. It is "earned social security."

AUTOMOBILE PARKING HAZARDS

In a bulletin recently issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that automobile parking on streets is becoming one of the greatest menaces to effective fire service. This is particularly true in business and manufacturing districts and around apartment houses and theaters.

The hazards of parking are evident. Ladder and rescue work may be retarded because of inability of equipment to get near a burning building. Hydrants may be obstructed, and alarm boxes hidden from view. Increased traffic congestion may prevent fire apparatus from getting through without long delay. The chance of traffic accidents is increased.

The smaller towns and cities of the nation should pay attention to this problem, as well as the metropolises. Indeed, in smaller towns double-parking and disregard of hydrant zones is usually more flagrant than in well-policed large cities. Many a fire that could have been quickly controlled, had parked cars not hampered fire fighters, has developed into a major blaze.

The National Board suggests that city authorities and Chambers of Commerce consider the parking problem, study local conditions and formulate legislation. Some communities have found it necessary to completely ban parking in certain congested areas. Angle parking should never be permitted except on extremely wide streets, and double parking is a menace under any circumstance.

To prevent and control fire, a long succession of corrective steps must be taken. Proper parking control is one of the most important of these steps. An adequate, strictly enforced law may save a community great loss.

ARE YOU INDIFFERENT TO SLAUGHTER?

Automobile accidents can be reduced. Death on the highways can be stopped.

Last year, traffic fatalities reached an all-time high of 38,500. Yet 18 states and the District of Columbia showed an average reduction of 7 per cent in deaths—even though gasoline consumption, best barometer of traffic conditions, increased 10 per cent.

These states weren't "just lucky." Chance did not save the lives of their citizens. According to the National Safety Council, all but two of the states carry on aggressive programs of safety engineering, law enforcement, education, legislation, etc. The same authority reports that in half of the remaining 30 states next to nothing is done to prevent the Grim Reaper's grisly harvest.

There are two prime causes of automobile accidents. One is the reckless, incompetent and dangerous driver. He can be curbed to some extent by up-to-date traffic laws that are honestly and rigidly enforced.

The other cause is dangerous, "accident prone" locations—bad intersections, narrow highways without dividing areas, etc. Here the highway engineer must be called in to eliminate such needless hazards and thus make it virtually impossible to have an accident.

"Make Munday safe," should be a community motto. It's high time, as the New York Times says, that we "shook off our comparative national indifference to this made-made evil . . . and began safety campaigns in earnest."

LAW AGAINST PROSPERITY

From good old Iowa comes some sound advice in the shape of an editorial in the Estherville News. It says:

"The interstate commerce commission of the U. S. Senate has reported favorably on a bill which would limit the length of freight trains to seventy cars . . ."

"It is claimed that long freight trains constitute an accident threat which ought to be dealt with by law. But the Daily News is inclined to agree with the railroads that there isn't much to the argument. Anyone ought to be able to see that if the railroads are thus restricted they will be forced to spend more money to handle the same business.

"People were joking a few years ago about freight trains being so short, and wondered if ever again they would be long and prosperous looking. Truck competition and hard times combined to make rail-roading thin soup.

"Now congress wants to throw a tie on the track by telling the railroads how many cars they can hitch to a locomotive. It seems more properly a matter for science to deal with.

" . . . We are inclined to believe that fewer and longer trains constitute less accident hazard than more trains and the greater possibility of grade crossing collisions.

"Whatever is done about freight trains ought to be of a nature which would encourage cheaper and more efficient transportation."

"Fascism is a lie told by bullets."—Ernest Hemingway.

tax laws that contain the loopholes, part of which were pointed out by Congress, it seems likely that little, if any, relief may be expected from this Committee at this session of the Congress, unless the President insists upon such action. It is known that the public hearings so far have been a severe disappointment from the Government's standpoint, for Commissioner Helvering and some of the Government's so-called tax experts have practically rushed in and admitted the Government out of Court, so to speak, to the great surprise of the tax dodgers, by admitting many of legal. It is believed that some of the tax dodger's schemes were revised before being printed, will open up the largest loopholes yet discovered by the tax dodgers, on cases now pending before the Department and the Courts for determination.

Representative Fish (R) of New York, who represents the President's own district in the House, is showing his teeth and trying to have the country believe the President and his family are among the country's tax dodgers. Mr. Fish seems to be greatly worried because so far practically all of the tax dodgers disclosed by the Committee's work, are Republicans. This committee has the opportunity to render the greatest possible service to the masses of the people of any investigating committee appointed, since the Tea Pot Dome. The question is—will they measure up to their responsibilities and rewrite the administrative provisions of our tax laws and eliminate the many loopholes placed in the tax law by themselves. If this Tax Committee would give Congress such a Tax Bill, it would quickly be enacted into a law. Then, if we could get the Revenue Department to administer such a law, as it is written we would be able to double our revenue collection and within a short while, we would be able to materially lower our tax rates.

They cannot expect to get much service from Mr. Parker, Chief Counsel for the Joint Committee and other legislative draftsmen, Blanton pointed out last year, Page 7313 of the Congressional Record that Mr. L. H. Parker, received a fee of $5,500 as tax consultant for the Washington Board of Trade and he is still their tax consultant. Many of these important tax loopholes were pointed out in my speech of June 9th, on page 7276, which was some time before this tax avoidance (?) committee was appointed.

The Calendar

Last Monday was our 161st Anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Tuesday, Senator Robinson called up the President's revised Court Bill and this measure will be pending before the Senate until disposed of.

When this Court re-organization bill is finally passed, it will be the 7th declaration of court independence declared for the rights of the people. Senator Robinson made a splendid presentation and argument in opening this battle for judicial reform. It is believed the House will approve this compromise measure, if given an opportunity, by at least 100 majority.

The reactionaries of both the Senate and the house are already echoing the tom-toms of the economic royalists in demanding that Congress adjourn. They hope of course to run out from under this Court fight if at all possible and it is well known that all tricks of the game will be indulged in, in order to reach this objective.

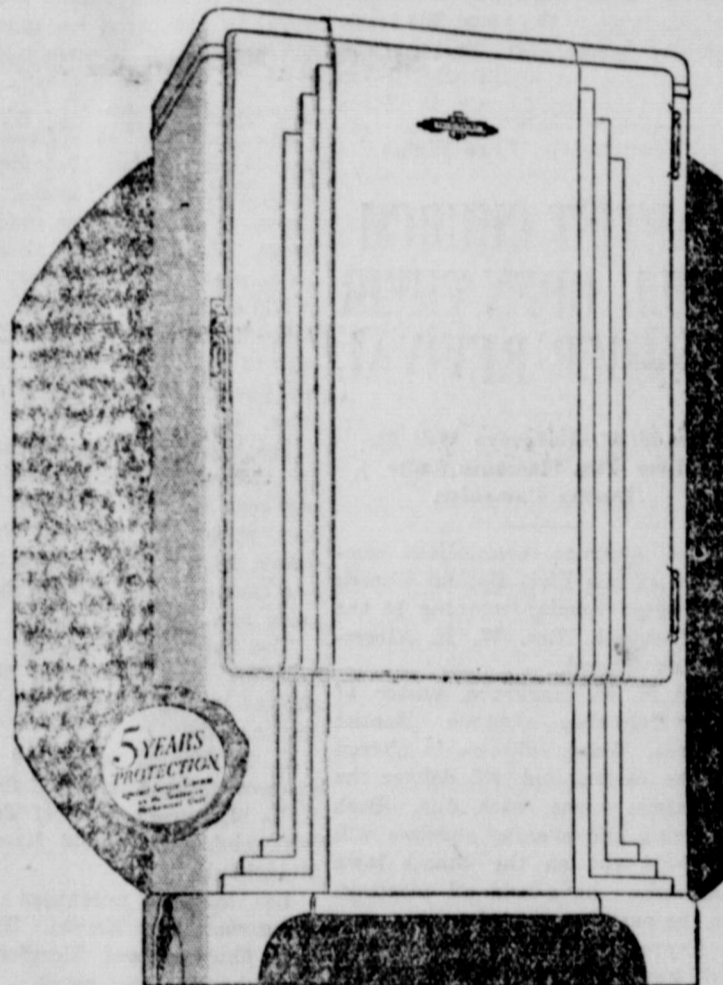

The House last week passed and sent to the Senate the Farm Tenancy Bill, and Thursday voted for repeal of Section 213, the "marriage clause." On Friday they approved the War Department Non-weck we will consider on Monday military Appropriation Bill. This district legislation, Tuesday the Omnibus Claims Bill, which ought to be defeated, and the rest of the week will be taken up disposing of Conference reports and Flood Control legislation.

Considering the way the Wagner act is working out, one wonders that Congress did not save considerable paper and ink by having it provide for international neutrality, too!—Portland Oregonian.

New Farm Bill
It appears that Congress will remain in session for some time yet, and it is now thought that a new farm bill will be passed at this session of Congress. Congressman Marvin Jones, of Texas, Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, has prepared a bill, which he says will simplify the present program; give local committees a larger share of control; permit such committees to be selected by the farmers themselves; will apply to all farm production and not confine to a limited list of commodities; an every-normal granary for major non-perishable commodities; make payments on a tilled-acre basis with a limit placed on soil-depleting crops wherever practicable; limit the program to those who comply with the farm program as a whole; and as to certain crops a marketing control provision as a further safeguard may be necessary. Mr. Jones' views are highly regarded in Congress and his program will receive first consideration. He criticized the Wallace-American Farm Bureau Federation proposal because their bill he said would only apply to wheat, cotton, corn, rice and tobacco, and one-half of the payments would go to corn.

Tax Avoidance Committee
The Tax Avoidance Joint Committee, appointed by a resolution passed by the Congress, after the President's Message to the Congress, specifically pointing out some of the many loopholes in our tax laws, seems to have suddenly decided to close their public hearings and go into executive session, for further consideration of what, if any, steps they will take, pursuant to the short public hearings held. Secretary Morgenthau, Commissioner Helvering, and a few of the so-called tax experts, according to the press, are the only ones so far, who seem to have appeared before the committee to present evidence to substantiate the President's Message on loopholes in our tax laws.

However, since the tax avoidance committee is composed of the ranking Members of the House and Senate regular tax committees, who sit on the free conference committee, they have written the

"SWING" Old Stuff in Ozarks--

HILLBILLIES HAVE BEEN DOING IT FOR 50 YEARS SAYS BURNS

By Bob Burns

America's leading hillbilly and favorite philosopher, whose comedy of life and love in the Ozarks, "Mountain Music," opens on Tuesday, July 20, at the Roxy Theatre, for a two-day run, co-starred with Martha Raye.

You know, folks, I was just sittin' here a'thinkin', and I come to the conclusion that those folks who kinda turn up their noses at Arkansas, sayin' my home state is behind the times, just don't know what they're talkin' about.

You see, I figured it all out, and I find out that the fact of the matter is that the rest of the country is just now ketchin' up to Arkansas. Yes, sir-ee!

Now, for example, take this thing called swing music, like Martha Raye and I whip out in our new picture, "Mountain Music." There's a lotta you city folks who talk about it as if it was the most modern thing out. Shucks; I've heard Benny Goodman and Jimmy Dorsey and all the others play swing music, and they're no great shakes at all.

Why, down in Arkansas we've been swingin' everything we do for more than fifty years! Of course, people say that my girl-friend, Martha Raye, is the great swing singer, sure she is. But then, she's just a kid. Now you oughta hear her uncle Sniffy Bugle swing his hog-calling. That's somethin'! If anyone laughs at that, it's just plain ignorance.

Hog-calling is just like singin' grand opera. You have to hit every note right and it's not only a disgrace, but it's dangerous, to hit a wrong note. My Uncle Hod Higgins used to be a great hog-caller, but he disgraced himself so that he never called a hog again afterwards.

Uncle Hod's farm was right outside of Van Buren and he had a great corn crop that year. He had the biggest corn crib around those parts and the neighbors had a big corn crop too, so he let them store some of their corn in his crib.

Now, I oughta explain that in hog-calling there's just one note you hit that just ain't in music. That note is "High P." You have to hit that note square in the middle to get the hogs from way back in the timber, and if you can't hit it you gotta go out in the timber and just do ordinary, run-of-the-mill hog-calling.

Well, that night Uncle Hod, who thought he was purty good, called his hogs, and when he started to hit "High P," his voice cracked, and he only got to "High E."

The next morning every jackass in Crawford county was eatin' out of the corn crib!

There's just one more thing I want to point about this swing music. And that is that you ain't heard swing until you hear 'em swing it at a Crawford County barn dance.

Yes, sir-ee, I'm tellin' you they got real swing down there.

My Uncle Cy Perkins is the champion square-dance caller in Arkansas, but he was almost barred from callin' dances until they figured out a way to save him.

When Uncle Cy got started swingin' his callin', man, you just couldn't help yourself, but you had to swing along, too.

The time they almost barred him was at the formal dance the Ladies' Civic Improvement and Cultural Association for the Uplift of Van Buren Society gave in Uncle Hod's barn.

Uncle Cy was feelin' purty good that night and he was in his best form. Along about midnight, he was goin' full blast and he sure could work the crowd up! As I said, this was a formal dance, and we all had to wear shoes.

Right at the time things were goin' the fastest, it was Grandpa Snazzy's time to swing Lizzie Smith. He wasn't used to the shoes, and the darned things slipped, and Grandpa let go of Lizzie. Well, sir, she sailed right out of the barn door, and they had to get the Van Buren Fire Department to get her down out of the pine tree.

Well, that almost wrecked Uncle Cy's career as a square-dance caller, but then they figured that if all the men wore sandpaper gloves it would be all right—and Uncle Cy never had another disgrace like that.

William Marvin Huskinson, Jr., Baptismal Held

William Marvin Huskinson, Jr., was christened at a special service Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the Methodist church.

Mrs. W. P. Farrington acted as godmother for the services, with Rev. H. A. Longino officiating at the baptismal. About 30 close friends and relatives of the family were invited and attended the service.

Judge Bryan was in Benjamin Monday transacting business at the court house.

PEEP SHOW FOR LADIES ONLY —BY— MIGNON

Papas off vacationing
 A happy old man's fling
 His operation's better
 But he needs a teething ring.

Oh, yes, we're on OUR vacation at last . . . that is, papa packed his golf sticks and was called to Oklahoma City on business before we could really begin OUR vacation. But I shouldn't have brought that up. I just read today that when you loose your temper, don't talk. That is a wise rule that would have prevented thousands of losses and troubles. What a person says during a fit of temper is usually more than he meant to say. Yeah, girls, that's why I chew my lips . . . you thought it was a nervous habit didn't you? There's a good Christian name for it "Righteous Indignation." Anyway, Papa has already shown all of his friends around here his scar and just must get away and find new faces and shall I say . . . sympathetic listeners? But Goll-ee . . . what'll I do for copy while he's away? No voice throwing on Fridays . . . I'll get the days of the week all mixed . . . which just goes to prove I just as well admit I'm a bird dog wife. I can't set nor point either without commands.

Can you beat this? George Bernard Shaw was recently paid a handsome sum for writing his own obituary to be used in a London newspaper when he dies.

A note from Lena Madelin Phillips of Pictorial Review says she's just back from Stockholm . . . Gosh, Oh Gee . . . think of that.

For a long time now our mutual friend Nina Pond, has been silent and I'll admit I've been missing her friendly little notes very much. However, a card comes at last. There's a reason for the silence. She has been compiling a beautiful book of inspirational verses, talks, essays and such. A kind of "Daan Dutton's Scrap Book." I think it is to be. Anyway girls, it will be well worth waiting for. I can tell you that right now. I hope to tell you all about it soon.

And did you see Lexie Dean Robertson's lovely poem in July Good Housekeeping? Seems like Oklahomans are going places this month.

Our Kenneth Kaufman who edits the Oklahoma Angle on Things Literary is back at his old spread now . . . Goodie. I wouldn't know what's what nor who's who more than anything if it weren't for Kenneth's page. Congratulations are going in to the Oklahoman on every mail, I'm sure, that they have a man like Kenneth for the page. We didn't like those stingy two columns that he had to take for a few weeks. No sire.

Mr. Pirate
 By A. B. Shiffran
 As a subject for romance, Mr. Reuben Pirate is a bit on the musty side, like the second-hand books he bought and sold. You could picture him curling up with a good book, but not with a bad woman. He was the sort of person who wouldn't leave safety razor blades in the bathroom shelf for fear a careless cockroach might cut itself. It never occurred to him that he might simplify his problem by calling in the exterminator. Once in his sheltered life Mr. Pirate had been married, but when his wife discovered that he cared more for literature and solitude than for her, she left him. Hardly an eligible candidate for a second romance, but he made the grade—and that's what A. B. Shiffran's story is about. A quaint and uneventful fable for those who care to browse—or drowse—through it.

Instructions In Social Security Numbers Given

Dallas, Texas, July 10.—Workers throughout the Dallas territory of the Social Security Board have been requested to use the greatest possible care in filling out applications for social security account numbers.

Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the Dallas office of the board, explained that many application forms had been returned to workers because the forms had not been properly filled out. Application forms are available at post offices and post boxes containing the address of the Social Security Board office to which the completed application forms should be sent.

"If applicants will carefully write in all the information requested to the best of their ability, they may expect to have their account number cards returned to them promptly," Tutt said.

"For instance, the age and date of birth should agree. If they do not, we have to return the application form because the true age of an individual must be established in order that the monthly income may be determined and payments started promptly upon attainment by the worker of the age of 65.

"Likewise, the applicant should give his mother's maiden name, that is, the mother's name before she was married. If that name happened to be the same as the father's, a statement to that effect should be attached to the application.

"If the applicant discovers an error in the typing of his name on his account card, the card should be returned within thirty days to the Social Security Board office which issued it.

"Request for duplicate cards should be accompanied by a new application form marked 'duplicate requested' and a supplementary statement showing the reason for the request, such as 'card lost,' and the place and approximate date the original was filed.

"Employees should make known their account numbers to all employers for whom they have worked since January 1, 1937. This will prevent the employer's having to file applications on behalf of employees whose numbers he has not recorded."

Valuable Iron Ore Specimens Are On Exhibit At Dallas

El Paso, Texas, July 14.—The Centennial Museum of the College of Mines and Metallurgy here, a branch of the University of Texas, has received five large specimens of iron ore, taken from a mine in the heart of Honduras, Central America. Paul Hale, consulting engineer with a Central American mining company and a former student of the College of Mines, presented the gift.

"The specimens are the largest, prettiest, and most striking I have even seen in a museum anywhere," Dean John W. Kidd, head of the division of mining and metallurgy at the College, said, "They are very scarce and very valuable."

Mr. Hale will return to Honduras July 21.

Dean A. H. Leidigh, of Lubbock, Texas, new member of the Texas Planning Board, has assumed the chairmanship of the Board's land use committee.

69 CASES OF PARALYSIS IN 1937 REPORTED

Dr. Geo. W. Cox Cites Types Of Symptoms and Control Of Dread Disease

Austin, Texas, July 14.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that infantile paralysis, like typhoid fever, is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any month of the year, over half the total number come in July, August, September and October. To date, 69 cases of poliomyelitis have been reported to the State Health Department in 1937.

Direct contact between persons is regarded as being the chief factor in the spread of infantile paralysis. Because of the seasonal prevalence of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been demonstrated. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this paralytic disease. Carriers are difficult to determine; this fact makes advisable the reduction to a minimum, of human contact, during an outbreak.

Early symptoms of infantile paralysis comprise headache, fever, vomiting, bowel disorder, drowsiness and irritability, followed by neck or back stiffness. Prompt medical care, early recognition and reporting of cases make possible the use of valuable preventativ and control measures.

After the acute stage of the distase has passed and walking is finally permitted the patient, under no circumstances must the affected part be fatigued. It is thus observed that the secret of successful rehabilitation lies in continuance of professional guidance and large doses of patience.

Children under five are more susceptible to the disease and all children under 12 should be watched for suspicious symptoms. There are important things to do when a child shows symptoms. Your family physician should be called at once and physicians should report all cases to the health authorities immediately. When the disease occurs all cases should be isolated for 21 days. All milk should be boiled unless it is pasteurized.

Children should not visit homes where the disease exists or there are symptoms of it. Flies should be killed and their breeding places destroyed. Promptness in diagnosis of poliomyelitis is important in preventing spread of the disease.

City Council Has Meeting

The city council held a short business meeting Monday afternoon disposing of routine business and passing on claims against the city.

They also appropriated funds to send representatives from the local fire department to the fire school at Texas A. & M. College to be held July 19 to 23, inclusive.
