The Texas Safety Association wants to help you prevent Named To Bar this needless loss of life. It is not an impossible task, that is, unless you refuse to help.

What would you do to save the life of a child? Will you join the Texas Safety Association in its fight? You can help by doing these things:

1. Educate your children in safe practices before they reach school age. This means more than just how to cross a street. Stop and think of the hazards around the home which you haven't mentioned. This is not a big job, but it cannot be accomplished in one sitting.

2. Find out if your local schools teach safety education, driver education aand first aid. Safety Education and first aid can be integrated into a child's instruction from the first grade be supported.

DIVIDING UP YOUR RETAIL DOLLAR

A large food retailing organization in Florida recently described what happened to each dollar its customers spent with it in a late year. And this actual story is a significant one for budget conscious consumers.

Here is how that dollar was divided up: 85.11 cents went to buy merchandise; 8.4 cents was was used to meet the payroll and to support various employee benefits; taxes took 1.38 cents; miscellaneous overhead expenses totaled 1.32 cents; rent and utility services cost 1.20 cents; depreciation claimed .85 cents; advertising accounted for .72 cents.

After all these costs were paid, 1.02 cents was left. And that was the retailing organization's

In every branch of retailing, the profit item is far smaller than most of us realize. In fields where problems of style and seasonal changes are involved the profit naturally must be higher than in the case of staple merchandise. Even so, (the net profit of representative stores rarely runs above four or five cents and often is much

No other people gets so much for their retail dollar as we do.

WEAPON AGAINST FAMINE

The Evening Times of Beverly, Massochusetts, recently ran a little item under the heading "Pathways To the Past." It read: "120 years ago, at the Hamilton County Agricultural Society of New York, Obed Hussey of Maryland, exhibited a strange new device called a reaping machine. It was not the first; men have experimented with reapers since the days of Pliny. But Hussey's machine worked . . . . It was he who made possible the great grain fields of the West."

No doubt the Hussey reaper, remarkable as it was for its time, would seem absurdly primitive today. So would the first examples of all the other early farm machines machines whose history goes back but little more than a long lifetime. But these machines have revolutionized agriculture as completely as the internal combustion engine revolutionized industry.

It is literally true that the modern farmer cannot afford to be without mechanical aids. The machine makes possible more production, better production, and cheaper production. It is the answer to high labor costs that make the use of human muscle prohibitively expensive. Going farther, it is the machine that not only saves and conserves but improves the land for future generations. Seen in this light, agricultural machinery is the solution to the great problem of how, with a given amount of agricultural land, we shall meet the needs of the vastly larger population we will have 50 or 100 years from now. In other words, the machine, properly used by man, can prevent famine and near-famine.

BEST SALESMAN

Retailers "can't get along" without newspaper advertising "and they'd better not try." These words didn't emminate from an advertising solicitor, but from a retailer, J. C. Penney, chairman of the board of the company that bears his name, and a man who knows how to sell merchandise.

"We can't do business without newspaper advertising," said Mr. Penney. "The newspapers are our market place where we come to cry our

In thousands of communities the local newspapers reach millions of readers regularly with a visual record of news and advertising that is not matched by any other means of communication.

PROFITS IN 1952

If you think that a large part of the money you spend winds up in the form of profits for the eases common to children reach and health authorities, these businesses you patronize, a report just published their low point, as to number of common communicable disease by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will be both informative and surprising.

Last year American corporations made record sale of goods and services—some $500,000,000. 00 worth. But net profits were substantially lower than in 1951-averaging only 3.4 cents on each sales dollar. The decline was largely due to taxes.

Taking the 1946-52 postwar years, it is found that corporate net profits rose by $3,200,000,000. In the same period, by comparison, compensation to employees increased by $73,000,0000,000—well over twenty times as much.

The moral is plain-profits are a small factor in the price we must pay for things.

GREENVILE, ILL., ADVOCATE: "The new Administration's Commissioner of Internal Revenue is plinning a simplified form of tax return for persons with incomes of $10,000 or less. This is wonderful! The man who can make income tax paying as simple and effortless as the paying of state, county and municipal taxes will be listed among the immortals."

HOW WE GOT OUR BIBLE

The claim of certain religious people that they collected the different books of the Bible and gave it to the world near the dawn of the fifth century is not in harmony with the facts of history.

The greatest and best manuscript of the Bible in existence is the Codex Sinaiticus. It was discovered on Mt. Sinai in 1844 by the German scholar Tischendorf. This manuscript was written in Greek capital letters on one hundred antelope skins. It is complete except for small portions of the Old Testament. The New Testament is complete. Scholars are certain that it is one of the fifty manuscripts ordered made by the Emperor Constantine in the third century. Certainly this does away with the claim that the books of the Bible were not gathered until the dawn of the fifth century.

Tischendorf, who discovered this manuscript, was a Protestant. It was first taken to Russia and later purchased by the British Museum and is now there in London, England, a Protestant country.

It is available to all scholars for the purpose of translation. The world does not now, nr did it ever depend upon any organization for a correct translation. The scholars who gave us the American Standard Version of the Bible had access to the three best and oldest manuscripts extant. This version is the best we have. Written in the language of our day and considered the most accurate of all.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Explains Why Some Uneducated People Can Make Money Money Than Educated People

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek is way over his head this week, he's talking about education. Dear editar:

. I read the other day where a man said there was one thing about the school system he could not understand.

Said the schools of this country are turning out a lot of graduates, but he'd noticed there were a lot of so-called educated people who never went to school much were making a lot better livin than the educated people. He wanted this explained.

I will explain it. The reason courses in them subjects in its curriculum. It's just had to get teachers who can handle them two subjects.

However, I would like to say in a hurry that in regard to hard work and there not bein any substitute for it, as far as I'm concerned I ain't lookin for a substitute for it. Most of the substitutes I've encountered are worse than the original, and as for me and hard work, I just don't want to be associated with the idea.

The schools are able to teach a man to read and spell and figure and trim his fingernails, all right, although I've seen some people who went clean through the school system and couldn't spell or read or write any better than some people who quit in the eighth grade, in fact, I've observed that is there is no substitue for hard college degrees frequently ain't work and hard thinkin, and the no reflection at all of a man's school system ain't got any education, some people can get an M. A. degree and still not know any more than they did when they had just an B. A., and some people can get a Ph. D. degree and still not show any marked improvement over what they knew when they was back in the B. A. class. In lots of cases under this Gilmer-Aiken system, the only way on earth to tell how many degrees a teacher's got is to look at his pay check. It's the only place it shows. In fact, there are some people who claim degrees are only records of how many classes you attended and stayed awake in, not how much you absorbed, which is a matter out of my field, although I guess there are some people who absorb more than others, although some of them don't know what to do with what they do pick up. Educatin some people is just like givin certain young boys a high-powered automobile. They just aint' equipped to handle it. As for as making money goes, I'm not equipped to speak on the topic, but I'd like to say that stayin ignorant may not be a bar to make money, but it ain't no help either, and a man who can get ahead without any education, there ain't no tellin where eign diplomat.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Enclose Laundry Tubs

For Farm and Home

STORAGE is a "must" in the laundry, but oftentimes it is nakeshift and unsatisfactory. Wise homemakers can readily make a combination linen chest and laundry supply cabinet which will serve also to hide unsightly stationary

As shown in the illustration, the handyman can enclose the tubs, construct a chest of drawers next to them, and create a handy clothes sorting table on top. To do the best job from the standpoints of cost, appearance and long life, he should build a framework of 2 by 2-inch lumber and cover it with smooth Masonite Tempered Presdwood, one-quarter inch thick.

Drawer construction can be simple. Just form the framework of lumber and attach a bottom of Presdwood. Wooden slides attached to the cabinet and sides of the drawers complete that part of the project. The lumber framework for the enclosures should be no farther than 16" apart. Swinging doors to enclose the tubs may be made, too, as illustrated, or sliding doors of Tempered Presdwood unframed, may be made. They will slide in grooves cut into the cabinet floor and upper framework.

Prime and paint the installation for the best appearance.

To Plane Narrow Strip

ANY craftsman knows how tricky it is to plane narrow wood strips. American Builder, a magazine which is an authority for professional craftsmen, shows how to to it in a simple, effective manner.

As illustrated, take two pieces of 2 x 4's, clamping the narrow strip between and using a C-clamp at each end to hold them together. Between the 2 x 4's, place a spacer strip of the same thickness as the piece to be planed.

Buttons, buttons, you've got the buttons-four of them perched prettily at the strap and on the vest-like vamp of this wonderful pump, It's tailored, terrific, absolute perfection with your suits. Black or grey nusuede. Only

STALK DESTRUCTION SHOULD BE A PART OF HARVESTING PROGRAM

Cotton stalks should be destroyed immediately after the cotton harvesting job is completed. In fact, says Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, the harvesting job should not be considered complete until the cotton stalks have been cut or shredded and plowed under.

Elliott says there are two big reasons for destroying the stalks early. First, it is one of the best known and cheapest practices that can be used for controlling cotton insects especially boll weevils and pink bollworms. Secondly, it is a good cultural practice. The crop residue when plowed under, explains the specialist, adds organic matter to the soil which helps to condition it and increases its water holding capacity. Then too, this early land preparation gets the soil ready for the planting of winter

It is a matter of record, says Elliott, that when an early cotton stalk destruction program is carried out on a county or area basis, the cotton insect troubles for the next season are materially reduced. The boll weevils and pink bollworms are deprived of their food supply by such a program and are forced into hibernation in a weakened condition. Thus, the number which emerge the next spring is cut.

Elliott likes the shredder type stalk cutter but says the heavy roller cutters which cut the stalks into small pieces also do a good job. The important thing is to get the stalks cut into small pieces so all the residue can be compeletely covered by plowing. Soil moisture conditions are improving in most sections of the state and Elliott believes the plowing job can be done without difficulty. He points out that

Make Posts Last Longer

TLLUSTRATED is a simple and neat technique for applying a wood preservative, such as creosote solution, to fence and porch posts before they are placed into the ground. Fill a galvanized steel pail about half full of the liquid preservative.

Place the lower end of the post in the pail, so it can absorb some of the preservative around it.

The upper portion of the post projecting above the liquid's level in the pail can be covered with a paint brush.

Then remove the wet post from the pail and place it on a thick, absorbent pad of old newspapers so that drippings will be confined to a safe area. Wood preservatives are difficult to remove from floors and can damage lawns.

Dwight L. Moody was rejected as a Sunday School teacher so he went out and gathered a group of under-privileged boys and taught them.

Young Moody went to a Sunday School convention with a friend. The expected speakers failed to show up or else ran out of ideas, so the friend spoke and then Moody spoke and he enthralled the audience, converting 60.

Such was the beginning of the career of the greatest evangelist of his generation. Moody never was ordained as a minister but he traveled over a million miles and preached to more than 100,000,000 persons.

Someone criticized his imperfect knowledge of grammar and of English. He admitted the charge and expressed regret, then said, "But I am doing all I can for God with the gifts I have. Are you?"

Moody declared, "I want a man to tell me what he believes, not what he does not believe. I like to meet a positive man."

The War between the States has been described as "brother against brother, father against son." When the forces of the great Confederate raider, Morgan, were captured, one man surrendered to his own brother.

John J. Crittendon of Kentucky was staunchly for the Union; he had a son who was a Northern general and another son who was a Southern gener-

But Dr. Robert J. Breckenridge could surpass that. Breckenridge, who presided over the 6t4h convention which nominated Lincoln and Andrew Johnson, had four sons in the war, two Union officers and two Confederate officers.

Marble Falls has a grocery store built of pink granite, the same material of which the State Capitol is constructed. It is odd to see a granite building with signs in the window, "Picnic hams, 39c lbs.' 'and "Sour Pickles, 25c qt." There is, of course, a vast amount of granite in the Marble Falls country.

O. H. Spann, Jr., of Sweetwater visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Spann, over the week end. His wife and daughter, who spent the past week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clowdis, returned home with
