County's Ground Water Store Termed Critical

Knox and Haskell counties are among 17 areas in Texas which have been designated as critical ground water areas. Delineation of these areas is the first official action of a newly created Ground Water Conservation Section of the Texas Water Commission.

A critical area is one that is experiencing or is expected to experience critical ground water problems and is characterized by ground water overdraft problems due to extensive use of underground water for drinking, irrigation or industrial use. Problems in many of these areas are complicated because other situations, such as subsidence or contamination, are also present.

The listing of the critical ground water areas is in response to House Bill 2 passed by the 1985 Legislature. The Water Commission has been gathering information on areas considered for inclusion in the list since September.

The next step for the Ground Water Conservation Section will be to hold public hearings to receive information, to discuss boundaries of the areas and to discuss the problems and potential solutions in the critical areas.

Other spots listed as critical include most of the High Plains, El Paso, Dell City and Van Horn areas, Pecos, Reeves, Ward, Loving, Winkler and Schleicher counties and the Midland-Odessa area in west Texas; the Dallas-Fort Worth and Waco areas; portions of central and south central Texas; the Kingsville areas; the rice irrigation areas in southeast Texas; and the Houston area, Orange County and the area from Tyler and Kilgore down to Lufkin in east Texas.

The Ground Water Conservation Section was created to consolidate most of the Texas water Commission's ground water activities under the agency's Water Rights and Uses division. Executive director Larry Soward said, "We think this new section will facilitate better focus on ground water issues and provide citizens a place to get information and have input into the various decision-making processes relating to ground water."

Aging Services Program Meets Citizens' Needs

Knox County's aging services programs are meeting the needs of local senior citizens, according to Elaine Allred, aging department program specialist for the West Central Texas Council of Governments in Abilene. Results of an evaluation of all aspects of the aging services program were received by Knox County Judge David N. Perdue on July 1.

The annual evaluation stated "From the data compiled, it appears that the Knox County Aging Services is meeting the needs of a large portion of the 60+ population in Knox County. The aging services staff should be commended for their efforts in providing quality services."

Ruby Cockerell is project manager for the Aging Services Center, and she, her staff, program participants and other individuals have worked diligently to make the program a success. Many quality services are provided through their efforts.

Crop Certification Deadline Is July 15

Area farmers have until July 15 to report their 1986 planted acreages to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

ASCS officials say all producers need to report their crops whether they participate in the acreage reduction programs or not. The information will be used to insure future benefits and to protect crop acreage bases.

To be certain of planted acres, farmers may request that their crops be measured. For a fee, ASCS will measure planted crops before farmers report acreages.

Before program participants can receive price support, deficiency payments and other program benefits, the entire farm must be certified correctly. Producers who have not reported are urged to do so before the July 15 deadline.

FmHA Reports Operating Loans Doubled In Texas

The Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration in Texas has made twice the number of guaranteed operating loans this year as it did at this time last year, according to FmHA Texas state director, J. Lynn Futch.

As of June 4, FmHA had guaranteed 11,024 operating loans totaling $1 billion during fiscal 1986. At the same time in fiscal 1985, FmHA had made 5,951 guaranteed loans amounting to $675 million.

"After a somewhat slow start," Futch said, "banks and other private sector lending institutions are participating to a greater extent with FmHA in providing farm operating credit to farmers who need special help."

"For the first time, direct farm operating loan funds have been exhausted in the states," he said. "Additional requests for operating credit in Texas will have to be met through guaranteed loans."

As an example of the "new spirit of cooperation", Futch noted that in just three weeks since the announcement of Operation Assist, private lenders have accepted 232 FmHA loan guarantees nationwide for $17.9 million. Under Operation Assist, FmHA county supervisors complete paperwork for farm credit applicants and take them to a private lender to try to work out an FmHA guaranteed loan. If the private lender makes the loan, FmHA agrees to reimburse the lender up to 90 percent of any loss which may occur.

Letter To The Editor

I would like to express my thanks to my volunteer helpers and their families for their help during the Vegetable Festival - and any other time day or night that I need help. There are not too many people who will get out and cook hamburgers in 100+ temperatures to help raise money for equipment and supplies so the people we serve can have the best ambulance service possible. Also, there are not too many people that will do what has to be done on ambulance runs for $2 per hour. They are dedicated to serve and help the community, and I would like to thank them for doing and helping.

I also want to thank Texas Coca-Cola for donating the drinks and dispenser, Ronnie and Delores Stewart for the use of their trailer, Floyd and Phyllis Reed for the use of their barbecue grill, R.P. and Reba Redder for the use of their gas grill, Jeanie Carden for the tables, Texas Highway Department and B-K Electric for furnishing the ice, and Beaty's Grocery, M-System and Starvin' Marvin's for getting the supplies we needed.

Last but not least, I want to thank you, the general public, for your support in buying the hamburgers and drinks. We cleared $734.30 from your support, and that money will be added to the $6,776.62 we already have in a CD to be used to replace vehicles, equipment or supplies as needed. I might add that the many, many donations and memorials made during the year are very much appreciated, and these are included in our total of $7,510.92.

The Knox County Commissioners Court has announced the resignation of Don Griffith, Justice of the Peace in Precinct 2, effective June 30. Griffith had served in the position since June, 1983, when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Pate Meinzer. He did not seek re-election.

Imagean Young of Benjamin ran unopposed for the office in the May Democratic primary election, and she was slated to take office January 1, 1987. The Commissioners Court appointed Mrs. Young to fill Griffith's unexpired term.

Mrs. Young was sworn into office Monday, July 7, by County Judge David N. Perdue. She will occupy the justice of the peace office in the courthouse and is now in the process of organizing her office and schedule to meet the needs of Precinct 2 residents.

Pointers For Bike Riders

There are close to 100 million bicycles in use today and, according to the National Safety Council, close to 1,000 people die every year as a result of car-bike accidents.

An additional 400,000 injuries occur annually, often involving young cyclists and motorists who are not entirely wise about the rules of the road.

Because bikes are undersized, they are easily overlooked, but it is important for motorists to remember that, according to the Uniform Vehicle Code, "every person riding a bicycle shall have all the rights applicable to the driver of any other vehicle."

Cyclists also have the responsibility of obeying all applicable traffic regulations, signs, signals and markings. In fact, four out of five bicycle-car accidents are caused by cyclists who disregard traffic rules.

Riding with traffic, using arm signals, keeping to the right and maintaining a safe distance between your bike and the vehicle ahead are crucial rules to obey.

Also keep in mind that it is important to:

*Watch out for drain grates, soft shoulders and other road surface hazards.

*Watch out for car doors opening and for cars pulling out of traffic.

*Protect yourself at night with the required reflectors and lights.

*Drive a safe bike. Have it inspected to ensure good mechanical condition.

*Be extremely careful at intersections, particularly when making a left turn.

*Make sure that you never carry packages that interfere with your vision or control.

Observing these rules of the road is a major part of bicycle safety and will help increase your bike riding enjoyment.

THE TRUE COST OF HOME FOOD PRESERVATION

Early summer is good to us in Texas. Garden-fresh vegetables and fruits are widely available and because of their abundance, their prices are low. Home gardens are doing nicely, too, so lots of people are starting to preserve surplus foods for later use.

But is home food preservation "worth it?" An economic analysis says, "sometimes."

First, consider the direct costs of food preservation: the cost of the produce itself, other ingredients needed to put up the food, the containers and equipment, and the gas or electrical energy for processing and freezing food.

Then there are the indirect costs, such as the time it takes to preserve food. This cost depends on the value you place on your time. Plan to spend close to three hours in the kitchen for every seven quarts of tomatoes or peaches you can.

Another indirect cost is whether the food you preserve will actually be eaten. If you can green beans, and the family won't eat them, the cost will be high.

Researchers have shown a real cost advantage in canning peaches and tomatoes, especially if you either raise the produce or get it free, and if you already own canning jars and equipment.

It might cost you as little as 5 cents a quart to can your tomatoes; in the store you may pay over a dollar a quart. Home-canned peaches can cost as little as 11 cents a quart and more than $1.50 in the supermarket. But if you have to buy both the peaches and the canning jars, the cost goes up to about 94 cents a quart.

Freezing produce gives good results, but can be costly. Energy costs may represent half the total cost of freezing green beans, for example. If your freezer isn't very energy efficient and your electrical rate is high, the cost of running it might wipe out any savings from gardening and preserving food.

But if you just enjoy preserving food, this economic analysis probably won't make much difference to you. You don't care what the cost -- you just know that come next winter you'll want to eat some garden-fresh, home-grown produce from your own pantry.

CORDLESS IRONS

A cordless iron may not be particularly helpful to home sewers. It requires more electricity than most regular steam irons and does not maintain the proper temperature for more than a minute before it requires recharging on its base.

On the positive side, an iron without an attached cord is very helpful when pressing garments on a dress form or on a large table.

Before you buy a cordless iron, take a look at your pressing habits. How often do you set the iron down? Do you return it to a stand or just set it anywhere on the ironing board? Do you always set it on its heel or do you use a teflon pad? Would the iron be convenient when using a fusible product?

SAFETY OF ALTERNATE SWEETENERS

There has been much controversy surrounding cyclamates, saccharin, and now aspartame (NutraSweet) as sweeteners. After a great deal of research, the experts agree that if you are using alternate sweeteners in moderation in a proper diet, there is little need to worry. But there is still some disagreement as to whether the sweeteners pose a risk when consumed in high amounts or whether they pose special threats to pregnant women, young children and people with certain medical conditions.

Quarter Of Country's Adults Affected By Sleep Disorders

Approximately 25 percent of adults complain about sleep, according to a sleep disorders specialist at Scott and White Memorial Hospital in Temple, and more medications are prescribed and used in connection with sleeping problems than for any other medical problem.

Sleep disorders such as insomnia or constant daytime sleepiness can ruin careers, health and personal relationships. Some sleep disorders, such as sleep apnea (pauses in breathing during sleep), can be life threatening. Narcolepsy, a disease which causes daytime sleepiness and attacks of uncontrollable sleep, can be disabling.

The medical, economic, and social toll of sleep disorders is staggering, from the thousands of tired industrial shift workers who work when the brain is tired to sleep, to the accident victim who lost his fight to remain alert at the wheel, to the elderly grandfather placed in a nursing home because of nighttime wandering, to the sleepy child who once again fails the fifth grade, to the grieving couple who lost their sleeping child to sudden infant death syndrome. Sleep disorders medicine is concerned with these and all individuals affected by any disturbance of sleep and alertness.

Although more research is needed to solve all of these problems, researchers have established these facts about sleep:

- No matter what a person's age or occupation, the right amount of sleep to get at night is the amount that keeps the daytime pressure to sleep at a relatively safe level. Each American should have a clear idea of how much nighttime sleep keeps his or her daytime pressure to sleep at a manageable level.

- Daytime sleepiness is caused by poor, inadequate or abnormal sleep. Heavy meals, boring and monotonous activities, and warm rooms encourage, but do not cause the pressure to sleep.

- Nearly all adults obtain less than optimal sleep and most have a sizeable sleep debt. The sleep loss continues to add up like an unpaid charge account and each day the pressure to be sleepy in the daytime grows greater. Drowsiness creates dangerous and vulnerable situations. A person with a big sleep debt is more easily affected by alcohol.

- The average high school senior requires about ten hours of sleep at night to maintain optimal alertness throughout the daytime. The typical high school student actually averages about seven hours of sleep.

- About 1% of the population suffer from sleep apnea. Sleep apnea sufferers, typically over-weight middle-aged men who snore heavily, awaken hundreds of times during the night as they struggle to breathe against closed breathing passages. They may not be aware of their abnormal sleep nor understand why they are overwhelmingly sleepy during the day. The condition can affect the function of many jobs and may occasionally be fatal.

- The peak time of dying from all causes occurs during the night, not the day. Researchers are interested in knowing why sleep is less safe than wakefulness and how to make it safer and more restorative.

- Insomnia affects nearly everyone at one time or another. Transient insomnia occurs from jet lag, tension, and environmental disturbances. Chronic insomnia has a variety of physical and mental causes, and most cases can be diagnosed and effectively treated.

HELP SLOW YOUR ELECTRIC METER DOWN THIS SUMMER.

Set Your Thermostat at 78° or Higher.

The recommended thermostat setting for summer cooling is 78° or higher. Portable fans or ceiling fans can help you feel comfortable at higher thermostat settings. Don't forget to turn fans off when you leave the room.

Tightly Seal Air Leaks in Your Home.

Make sure all cracks around windows, doors, pipes and wiring are tightly sealed with proper caulking and weatherstripping. Also, R-30 insulation in the ceiling, and R-16 insulation in the walls is recommended to adequately insulate your home.

Check Your Filter Regularly.

A dirty filter could keep your air conditioning system from operating as efficiently as possible. Clean permanent filters according to manufacturer's instructions, and replace non-permanent filters.

For more information on how to help slow your electric meter down this summer, call your local WTU office.

Runnels Rites Held Saturday In Dallas

Guy Runnels, the son of Mrs. Edith Runnels of Munday, died Wednesday, July 2, at his home in Garland. Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, July 5, at Restland Memorial Chapel in Dallas.

Survivors, other than his mother, include his wife, Debbie; two daughters, Candis and Brenda; one son, Terry; and one grandson.

Runnels was the grandson of the late Elizabeth (Granny) Wilson. He visited in Munday many times and will be remembered by many people in this vicinity.

PERENNIAL PHLOX GALORE fill the flower beds of Frankie Ponder at her home at 940 Cisco. This Munday Garden Club Yard of the Week also features geraniums in window baskets and bunches of zinnias. Most of the flowers are pink or red and bloom with the brightness of mid-summer, against the green of foliage, trees and grass. This color combination really makes a white house show up.

Itemized Bills Necessary To Receive Medicare Payment

Many people in the Vernon area wait longer than necessary to receive payment from Medicare medical insurance because they failed to submit itemized bills with their request for payment form, Vernon Social Security representative Frances Braden said recently.

Medical insurance is the part of Medicare that helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital bills and other items and services not covered by hospital insurance.

To receive payment under medical insurance, a person generally submits a request for payment form and the doctor or supplier provides an itemized bill to send with the form. The bill does not have to be paid before it can be submitted.

The trouble, Mrs. Braden said, is that often the bill does not provide a detailed description of the services provided and, therefore, a decision cannot be made as to whether they are covered. As a result, the patient must be contacted for more information before payment is made.

To prevent delay, the person should be sure that each bill shows:

- * A description of each service provided;
- * The date the service was provided;
- * The place the service was provided;
- * The charge for each service;

* The doctor or supplier who provided each service;

* The person's name and health insurance claim number, exactly as they appear on the Medicare card.

It is helpful if the diagnosis is also shown.

For more information, contact the Vernon Social Security office, 1701 Cumberland Street, phone 817-552-9346.

SUMMER CARE OF PECANS

Pecans need special attention in the summer. That means applying zinc sprays controlling aphids, pruning and irrigating.

Pecan growers have had to worry about sticky, sugar-covered leaves every summer due to aphid infestations. Zolone or malathion sprays can give homeowners good control.

Summertime drought is a sure bet every year, and pecans will suffer if they do not receive at least one inch of water per week from June through September. Actually, two inches is optimum. A mature pecan tree will use more than 100 gallons of water per day. If trees go more than three weeks without water, serious crop loss can occur.

Weeds and grass also use soil moisture, so keep competitive vegetation to a minimum under pecan trees. With shallow soil and vegetation under trees, a weekly irrigation will be needed.

On young pecan trees, weeds slow down growth more than anything else, so use a contact herbicide such as Roundup to keep the limb spread area weed-free.

Pecan trees less than four years of age should have only one main trunk. If two, three or four trunks develop, simply cut the weaker ones out and leave the strongest one.

Young trees also should receive zinc sprays every two weeks to insure maximum growth. Make your final nitrogen application in June, because later applications can, and probably will, result in freeze injury in December or January.

Freeze injury is showing up on some mature pecan trees. Sometimes it is a limb or two, but occasionally, it is the entire tree. Warm winters mixed with an occasional cold spell are much more serious than a long, cold winter.

Since the pecan has a short chilling requirement of only 400 hours, it can have active sap as long as weather is mild. Consequently, weak pecan trees do not go completely dormant, and when freezes do occur, freeze injury results. Homeowners should wait until mid-summer to prune out dead limbs to avoid removing limbs which may recover.
