Annual Report Shows Progress Being Made Demonstration Work

In Knox county there are 150 girls and 115 women enrolled in regular club work, according to the report of Miss Grace Nelson, county home demonstration agent, to the extension service of A. and M. College.

Special emphasis has been placed on food preservation during the past year, according to Miss Nelson's report, due to the value of this type of work, and the club members report 2,559 quarts of vegetables and fruits canned during the year, valued at $1,829.00, and 1536 quarts of meats, valued at $768.00, 895 quarts of jellies and preserves valued at $906.50, 538 quarts of pickles valued at $269.00, 22,600 pounds of meat cured valued at $4,001.25.

Special attention has also been given to clothing, especially in girl's club work, and 1042 dresses and coats have been made by the club members during the year, which are valued at $4,168.00, and 836 undergarments have been made which are valued at $1,472.00.

The home improvement program has been given enthusiastic attention by club members during the year and 192 homes have adopted improved practices relative to house furnishings, 96 bedrooms have been improved, 84 living rooms, 22 dining rooms and 12 other rooms have been improved by refinishing floors, walls, woodwork or furniture.

In addition to the work done through the clubs during the year Knox county has received special services from the extension service of the A. and M. college in three one-day short courses, which were held in various communities of the county and in each of all the club members of the county, and during March of last year 106 club women heard talks by specialists on household linens, bradied rugs, lavier living rooms, the tridary value of gardens, and as a result of these short courses six of the women's club representatives to the Farmers Short Course in July. Lola Hurd of the Vera Club and Balma Swain of the Hood Club, winners in the 4-H appropriate dress contest last year also received free trips to the Farmers Short Course at College Station.

An educational trip, which was enjoyed by forty-five Knox county women, was conducted last April. An inspection was made of the Kraft Cheese Factory at Wichita Falls, where a close study of the process of manufacture of cheese was made. Following the inspection of the factory the party visited the Wichita Glass factory where they witnessed the transformation of sand into glass in all phases of the manufacturing process. The most interesting feature of the trip was a survey of M. Johnson's poultry farm at Wichita Falls.

The report shows that Miss Nelson has had a very busy year and has covered many miles of travel in carrying the educational ideas of the extension service to all corners of Knox county, and we believe that her work has the unrestricted endorsement of all the women and girls of the county who are interested in this phase of work.

Owner of Stolen Property Forced to Buy Goods Back

(Wichita Times)

Three men were arrested and stolen goods valued at more than $300 were recovered by Knox county and city officers here Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff George W. Jackson, of Knox county, and Constable Alse Holt, of Benjamin, left here Tuesday with the prisoners and the recovered loot.

The robberies occurred Sunday night when a combined barber and tailor shop in Benjamin was burglarized. The thieves escaped with all of the barber's tools and clothes in the place. They also stole a tire from a physician's automobile and took oil and gasoline from a Benjamin filling station.

The arrests were made less than 30 minutes after the Knox county officers arrived here Monday night. They had followed a cold trail from Benjamin and called on local detectives to help locate the suspects here. One of the prisoners is from Benjamin and the other two are from Amarillo.

The owner of the barber and tailor shop paid a local pawn shop and a second-hand clothing store here for the goods in order to recover them.

Deputy Sheriff Jackson, who was a Wichita Falls detective in 1919-20, told Police Chief Frank Burns that this was the first city in Texas he had found where the owner of stolen property had to buy his own goods back from a pawn broken after they had been identified.

L. M. Palmer Receives Painful Cut On Face

L. M. Palmer is wearing a bandage on the side of his face this week and upon inquiring we found he hadn't been in an auto wreck, nor had he been participating in a pugilistic combat, but received a very painful gash across the cheek while playing a game of "shinny" so we can't tell just how it happened, but the wound was closed after a local physician had taken about four stitches and the boys at school are not playing "shinny" anymore.

Funeral Services For J. W. Jones Who Died At Merkel Held Here

The remains of J. W. Jones were brought here from Merkel, Texas, where he died on January 5th, and were conveyed to the home of his nephew, Ed Dobbs, where the funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. F. Curry, after which the services were taken in charge by the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of which he was a member, and following the impressive ceremony of this order were laid to rest in the Johnson cemetery beside his departed wife and mother.

Mr. Jones was born in the State of Mississippi, October 8, 1873, and early in life with his parents came to Texas, settling in Parker county, where he remained until a few years ago when he came to Knox county, where he was married to Miss Mamie E. He is survived also by three sisters and a brother, M. F. Jones, of Weatherford, Mrs. R. C. Dobbs of Munday, Mrs. Taylor of Dallas, and Mrs. O. M. NEW TEACHER ADDED TO RELIEVE CROWDED CONDITION

At a meeting of the school board on Tuesday evening it was definitely decided to add another teacher to the crowded condition that has existed for some time in the fourth grade, which, according to Supt. J. E. Rhodes, has an enrollment of about 64 pupils, and although Miss Hearne, teacher of the grade, is giving entire satisfaction as to her work, the board decided that it was fair to her and best for the pupils not to allow the crowded condition to exist and therefore decided to divide the grade that is taught by Miss Hearne.

Mrs. Ljose Sowell and son, Gordon, returned to their home at Tulla, Texas, on Wednesday of last week, after having spent the holidays in the home of her mother, Mrs. G. T. Hughes.

Mrs. Sallie Johnson Succumbs to Prolonged Illness on January 4th

The subject of this sketch, Mrs. Sallie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Phillips, first saw the light of day in Marion county, Arkansas on October 9, 1893, and came to Munday with her parents when quite young and was therefore practically reared in this community. She was united in marriage to Mr. Tom Johnson on July 25, 1914, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. L. Johnson, also pioneer citizens of this community, and to this union was born three children, two boys and one girl, Duan, Phil and little Tommy Jean. These little ones with their father are left to mourn her death. Besides the husband she is survived by her parents and a number of brothers and sisters who mourn her going, the brothers and sisters are: Roy, Otis and Wilbur Phillips, all of Munday; Mrs. Wilbur Morrison of Faxon, Oklahoma; Mrs. Bill Clark, of Cadis, Oklahoma; Mrs. Ross Johnson of Walters, Oklahoma.

For a number of years Sister Johnson had been almost an invalid, but bearing it patiently and heroically, though at times praying that she might go to sleep and never wake up to the tortures and pains through which she had to go, until at last the dark winged messenger of death came and kissed those eyelids down to sleep, bringing rest to the tired body and freedom of pain and sorrow incident to this life. So on the morning of January 4th, after loving hearts and tender hands had done all they could to alleviate the pains and stay the hand of death, Sister Johnson slipped away from us, only to be escorted by Him unto whose keeping she had entrusted her soul into that land where no sorrow or sadness nor pain ever come, and where she shall not feel the winter's chilly blast nor the summer's scorching heat.

To the bereaved ones, I would say, weep not as those who have no hope, but through your tears of sorrow and an eye of faith may you catch a vision of that wonderful home that the Lord said He was preparing for those that love, honor and obey Him. May her life inspire us all to greater effort to prepare ourselves for life that is life indeed.

Postal Receipts of Munday Office Show Consistent Increase

Postal receipts are admitted to be the best barometer to a city's growth and development, and from this standpoint it can truthfully be said that Munday has shown a constant growth for the past eight years, and this growth is revealed in the increase of postal receipts about in the same proportion that the city has grown in population.

The 1920 census gives Munday 998 population. We have no figures showing the postal receipts for that year, but assume that they were somewhat under that of 1921, which we give herewith, and the years following and up to 1928, and Postmaster Reneau states that the figures for the year 1928 will be approximately the same as those of 1927.

The receipts for the eight years are as follows:

1921	$5,844.51
1922	5,982.38
1923	7,530.23
1924	8,627.00
1925	9,155.53
1926	9,147.56
1927	9,068.04

Father Boniface Lands in Ditch; Head Is Cut

The Rev. Father Boniface, O. S. B., met with a very painful accident Thursday of last week when he lost control of his car and landed in the ditch. Father Boniface was on his way home and had some packages on the seat beside him, and when he attempted to place them in the bottom of his car he lost control of the car, which went into the ditch, throwing him against the windshield with sufficient force to break the glass, which cut a gash on his head something like six inches, and otherwise bruised him up. A passing motorist picked him up and brought him to the office of a local physician, who dressed his wounds and in a short time he was able to return to his home at Elnelara.

FARM HOME OF HERSHEL COWAN BURNS

On Wednesday of last week the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Cowan of the Grasshopper community was destroyed by fire of unknown origin. Mrs. Cowan was at home alone at the time the blaze was discovered breaking through the floor and her screams brought Mr. Cowan who was some distance away and they succeeded in saving much of the household effects. Among the many other losses sustained by the Cowans was that of three fine meal hops that had been killed and salted down and which were burned. No insurance was carried on either the house or contents.

Mrs. G. T. Hughes who called to Chatfield, Texas, on Friday of last week by a message, advising her of the critical illness of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Death Comes to W. J. Keel at Home of His Daughter on Sunday

W. J. Keel, 78 years of age, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. J. Morgan, of this city on Sunday morning, January 6th at 8:20 o'clock. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the Baptist church with the Rev. W. H. Albertson officiating, after which interment was made in Johnson cemetery.

Mr. Keel was born in Washington county, Texas, July 3, 1850. On October 11, 1871 he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Tillery Wells in Milam county, who preceded him in death in 1916. Mr. Keel was converted in young manhood and joined the Baptist church and had lived a faithful christian life throughout all the years following his conversion. He came to Munday some nine years ago and soon thereafter suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left him in a semi-invalid condition. For some two years when the weather would permit, he sat near the gate and interested himself in the people who passed that way and took great pleasure in talking with those who would pause for a brief visit, but for the past two years he has been confined to his bed and in a helpless condition.

Deceased is survived by three children, Mrs. A. J. Morgan, J. J. Keel, of this city, and G. W. Keel of Luther, Texas, and there are a number of grandchildren and a large host of friends who mourn his death.

During the years of his affliction he was given the very tenderest of loving care by his loving daughter and husband, "Uncle Bud" and "Aunt Carrie" Morgan, as well as other relatives, and his patient and submissive life has proven an inspiration to them, and we join with the many friends in extending our heartfelt sympathy to the loved ones who are made to sorrow at his going.

TEXAS SENATORS IN THE U. S. CONGRESS 1846-1930

Copyright 1928 by Alva O. Hearne

Beginning in this issue with the biographical sketch on General Sam Houston, the first Senator elected to the United States Congress from the State of Texas, there will appear each week, for approximately eighteen weeks, a sketch on the life of each Senator from this State, in the order of his service.

Students and others interested should follow the series from week to week. If clipped and placed in a scrap book these sketches will furnish valuable references on the political developments of the State.

All Texans are interested in the character and political records of their past and present law-makers in the United States Senate. Beginning with the admission of Texas to the Union in 1845, the following have in turn served in the upper house of the United States Congress, and each of them will be covered by these weekly biographical sketches in the order named:

Sam Houston, Thomas J. Rusk, J. Pinckney Henderson, Matthias Ward, Lusk T. Wigfall, John Hemphill, James W. Flanagan, Morgan C. Hamilton, Samuel B. Maxey, Richard Coke, John H. Reagan, Horace Chilton, Roger Q. Mills, Charles A. Culberson, Joseph W. Bailey, Morris Sheppard, Earle B. Mayfield, and Tom Connally (Senator-elect).

Sam Houston
(1846-1859)

Served as a Representative from Tennessee and as the first Senator from Texas. Sam Houston was born on March 2, 1793 near a spot known as "Timber Ridge Church," about 7 miles east of the old town of Lexington, in Rockbridge County, Virginia. Upon the death of his father in 1806, and when 13 years old, Houston moved with his widowed mother from Virginia to Tennessee. Soon thereafter, he ran away and was adopted by the Cherokee Tribe of Indians. In 1811 he enlisted in the United States Army and served under Andrew Jackson against the Creek Indians; was wounded in battle at Horseshoe Bend. Upon extracting the notice of General Jackson, Houston was promoted to the rank of Third Lieutenant. When, in 1814, the Army was reduced, he was retained in the service. Two years later he was detailed as an agent to the Cherokee Indians and headed a delegation to the national capital at Washington. Houston resigned from the Army in the year 1818, shortly after receiving his commission as First Lieutenant, began the study of law in Nashville, and within six months was admitted to the bar and opened a law office at Lebanon, Tennessee. In 1819 he was elected District Attorney and returned to Nashville. Two years later he was appointed Adjutant General of Tennessee with the rank of Colonel, and within another twelve months was elected Major General of State troops.

Houston was first elected to the United States Congress as a Representative from Tennessee, in 1825, and was reelected in 1825. A controversy between Sam Houston and General William White at Nashville in 1826 on account of Houston's severe criticism of Mr. Erwin, an Adams-Clay appointee as postmaster at Nashville, resulted in a duel in which General White fell with a wound in his thigh from the first shot Houston fired.

Houston was elected Governor of Tennessee in 1827 and was a candidate for a second term. While a candidate for reelection he married Miss Eliza Allen. Because of family troubles, Houston unexpectedly resigned the governorship before the expiration of his term and joined the Cherokee Indians in Arkansas. In 1833 he went to Texas on a mission from President Jackson to the Comanche Indians at San Antonio. The citizens of Nacogdoches invited Houston to remain in Texas. He was elected to the constitutional convention and made chairman of the committee to draft the Texas constitution. The Mexican Revolution in 1833 left Texas without a government. Houston joined a war party at Nacogdoches and was made Commander in Chief in East Texas. He later joined Austin at San Antonio; was elected Commander in Chief and moved his headquarters to Washington on the Brazos river. In 1836 he went to Goliad; sent Bowie to Texas; went to Refugio. When superseded by a council Houston reported to the Governor. Upon the meeting of a convention he was re-appointed Commander in Chief; went to Gonzales; retreated to the Colorado river; crossed Buffalo Bayou at Harrisburg. On April 21, 1836 Houston led the Texans against Santa Anna and his Mexican forces and completely routed them in the memorial Battle of San Jacinto; was wounded in that battle and went to New Orleans for treatment. He soon returned and was elected President of the Texas republic. In 1837 Houston announced to Congress an acknowledgment of Texas independence, but the United States Government declined annexation. Houston retired in 1838 and was succeeded by Lamar as President of the new republic. He was elected as a member of the Texas House of Representatives in 1839, and the following year he married Miss Margaret Moffett Lea of Alabama; was re-elected President, for the second term, in 1841, and renewed his proposal to Congress for the annexation of Texas. The Mexicans plundered San Antonio, and in 1843 annexation was again declined. Houston withdrew the Texas minister, but later returned him to the United States; his term as President ended in 1844, with Texas solvent. Upon annexation of Texas in 1845, Houston was elected as Senator to the United States and took his seat on March 30, 1846. He became a member of the Christian Church in 1854; in 1856 he was spoken of for President. The year following he was defeated for Governor of Texas. Houston delivered his last speech in the United States Senate on February 26, 1859, was elected Governor

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH— CHAPPED HANDS

The "little things" do count, don't they? Of course they do; uncomfortable, unsightly—everybody dislikes to have a pair of hands dry, cracked, maybe bleeding. The sense of touch becomes impaired; putting chapped hands into the pocket, or rubbing them against the bed-clothes; even drawing on gloves—produces a nasty, creepy feeling all over—but you know the symptoms, so why commiserate them?

Chapped hands may be prevented. First, by not exposing them to quick and extreme changes of temperature, dry or wet. If you are accustomed to indoor warmth, do not go out for a long jaunt in winter bare-handed. Do not, after having the hands immersed in warm water, suddenly plunge them into very cold water, especially after having used strong soaps. In fact, no sensitive skin should be punished with some of the dirt eradicators advertised so extensively; if your skin is naturally sensitive, never permit an irritant to be applied.

If you "feed your furnace" wear gloves while shoveling the coal—some cases are very irritating. If you acquire a case of chapped hands, set about to cure them. Your skin is of animal substance; animal substances are acceptable to it. Avoid vaseline, except as a possible protective. A simple soothing antiseptic rubbed into the hands need to be filled with a soothing "cream" or "jelly." No soap, or a very mild one, and even that not too often. A few drops of almond oil, a few drops of carbollic acid, in an ounce of rose-water ointment, is good for the most delicate skin. And keep your general health good.

CARD OF THANKS

of Texas and inaugurated on December 21, 1859, but was deposed on March 18, 1861 upon his refusal to take the oath of allegiance to the Confederate States; he entered a vigorous protest and retired with his family to Independence, Texas. Died July 25, 1863 in Huntsville, Texas.

'Tis not a lip or eye we beauty call,
But the full face and joint effect of all.

How many women, I wonder, really know how to cast up a good-looking inventory? You know, it is a most extraordinary thing to me, this peculiar beauty blindness which seems to possess so many of your country-American, seems to mean such really meaningless and unimportant things as matched features and curly hair, extreme youth and perfect thirty-fours.

I simply cannot argue the matter with you if you are so unfortunate as to possess this "beauty-contest" complex. Nevertheless, let me call to your attention the fact that the Cleopatras and the Helens and the Sapphos of this world were not always young, and probably possessed none of the specifications of either the modern movie stars or the modern Venus. They did, however, possess charm—appeal—and a full measure of individuality.

In getting together the facts for the Beauty Inventory, then, let us not fail to include charm as a most important factor. Next in consideration comes the condition of your skin. Then comes the hair. Next the hands. Next the figure. Lastly, those important yet intangible things—Tact and Gracefulness.

These are all the attributes of a lovely woman. For loveliness is not dependent upon the color of your eyes or the length of the lashes. It is, instead, an ensemble of perfections—with now and then little imperfections thrown in to make the whole more fascinating.

I know this—that in all the years of experience, I have never improved upon the principle upon which I built my success, and that was—and is—that in every woman lies a certain degree of loveliness. When she develops that to its fullest degree, she is beautiful, and the world and her mirror will emphatically testify to the fact!

As we work together, improving each beauty-point in its turn, so do we add to the sum total of our good looks and bring it nearer to the perfect whole. If this feature or that is not to our entire liking—what matter? With a soft, velvety skin, a clear, vivacious eye, lustrous hair—and ways that are gracious—we shall still be able to say with a poet, 'Tis not a lip or eye we beauty call, but the full force and point effect of all.'

—HELENA RUBINSTEIN.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation as a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup of Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, indigestion, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headache, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health. Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. 55, Mountville, Illinois.

Small wonder that a car so wonderfully constructed . . . so brilliantly styled . . . should be winning America's acclaim.

Jersey Breeders Will Tattoo In Future

To establish a uniform method of identification for Jersey cattle, the members of the American Jersey Cattle Club this year adopted a By-Law which requires that all animals to be registered after January 1, 1929, must be tattooed. The Article covering this reads as follows:

"Eligibility—1. No animal shall be registered until both its sire and dam are registered; and, to preserve the identity of registered animals, all animals offered for registration must be plainly tattooed in the ear in indelible ink with such letters and numbers as the owner may select, no two animals (in the same herd) to have the same number. Both ears may be used, and the marks and numbers in the ears must be stated on applications for registration.

"The above requirement as to tattooing shall go into effect on January 1, 1929."

Many dairy animals are solid color and in many herds only the owner can identify all such animals. With the tattoo mark recorded in the owner's records and on the Certificates of Registration of purchased animals anyone can identify every animal in the herd. In the event of the owner's death or absence, this information is of the greatest value.

It takes but a few moments to tattoo an animal and the identifying mark is permanently fixed in the ear. Needle points form the design of letters or numbers and these points are held in position in the head of the marker which is like a large pair of pliers. The needle points are covered with indelible ink or paste. The instrument is then set in position and the needles penetrate the ear on the inside carrying the ink well under the surface of the skin. Ink is immediately rubbed into the slight wound made by the needle points and the job is done. There is practically no bleeding, and the operation is scarcely noticed by the animal. It is recommended that the ear to be tattooed be cleaned with alcohol before it is punched. This will remove the wax and other foreign matter and insure a clean surface on which to work.

The new ruling on tattooing has been very favorably received by breeders and agricultural leaders. The subject of tattooing will be of interest for some time to come as there are eleven million Jerseys in the United States and of this number over three hundred thousand are registered purebreds.

IT'S THE FLU!

If this rag's a little late
It's the Flu!
If the news is not first-rate,
It's the Flu!
If some news we have forgotten
Just remember, we feel rotten!
It's the Flu!

If this paper's on the blink
It's the Flu!
It exerts us so to think
It's the Flu!
So next week we'll feel lots better
And get out a real go-getter
You do too!

Now if this blame stuff don't rhyme,
It's the Flu!
If it sounds just like a crime,
It's the Flu!
For we know we'll be forgiven
And from home we'll not be driven,
It's the Flu!

Ordinarily we're quite bright;
It's the Flu!
Poetry we seldom write,
It's the Flu!
But we're hoping for relief
So this skit will be quite brief;
It's the Flu!

ARNOLD JOHNSON
"GEE! I'D BE GLAD WHEN I CAN PLAY THOSE 'TOYLAND' PIANO LIKE TEACHER."
"THE LITTLE BEAR PRACTICES ALL THE TIME."

Astounding Change Due to Modern Music, Says Leader

New York City.—It is no job these days to get Jack in off his roller skates to practice his piano lessons. "The whole attitude of children toward music has changed," declares Arnold Johnson, famous orchestra director. "In the old days music lessons and practice were something unreasonable the grown-ups insisted upon just as they demanded washing behind the ears. The child slowly came to understand music—it was an unhappy interruption of his precious hours of play. "Modern music has changed all this. It is so much a part of our every day life that the child understands it. It speaks in a language he knows. The modern rhythm is real. United States, the French and the German and the Italian themes of old days were as hard for the childish mind to grasp as were the languages of those countries.

Music Joyous

"Then, too, most of our music is joyous and children are closer to happiness than they are to gloom. Melody appeals to all children, and there is no such thing as a modern American song without a modern American song without a modern melody. I know that if there had been a piece of the type of 'Down Where the Sun Goes Down,' when I was learning music, I would have been saved many spellings. Technically, it is beautifully written. The harmonies are as fine as any 'old timer,' yet it has the fox-trot rhythm that gets you. "I have observed a small relative of mine learning this. I have also seen him working over a generation-ago sonata. One is work and one is pleasure. That is the child's attitude, and apparently the attitude of all America, because where ten musicians grow up, we now have one thousand."

PUBLISHED WEEKLY EVERY THURSDAY

COUNTY AGENTS

Knox county's new Commissioner's Court has started out upon a program of rigid economy. With two new members, Commissioner W. M. Griffith of Knox City, and Commissioner W. C. Glenn of Benjamin, the court, immediately upon taking over their new duties, voted to dispense with the county agricultural agent and the county home demonstration agent. Both the newly elected commissioners and Commissioner J. W. Chowning voting for the discontinuation, with Commissioner D. C. Osborne absent.

We are told that in taking this drastic step that the commissioners faced the necessity of either dispensing with the services of these offices or raising the valuations of the county, as there was not a sufficient amount of funds coming into the General Fund, from which these and all other salaries are paid, to take care of the expense, and since these were the only appointive offices, no other expense could be curtailed.

Certainly the spirit and determination to follow a course of economy is to be commended, and there must be a starting point.

But, merely to discontinue the paying out of certain funds is not necessarily economy. In fact, to conserve funds can in reality be the rankest extravagance. But few people seem to realize that the Commissioner's Court is really the most powerful governing body within a county. The citizens pay their taxes into the hands of the tax collector, who in turn delivers it over to the County Treasurer, and every dime that is paid out must pass the gauntlet of the Commissioner's Court, hence the commissioners are merely the people's representatives or agents chosen to spend the people's money.

And, as representatives of the people, we believe the members of the court in Knox county want to follow the wishes of the people, and we further believe that they have taken this action believing that the people prefer that these offices be discontinued rather than have an increase in taxes sufficient to care for the salaries.

On this point we would take issue with the gentlemen.

Knox county is one hundred per cent dependent upon agriculture and stock raising. Not one penny comes to Knox county from any other source other than the cotton and grains that are grown in her fields and the livestock that graze over her wide pastures, and the cooperation and helpful aid that is given by the two agents that have been dispensed with are the only remuneration that comes back to the farmer and the stockman for his tax dollars, and we are inclined to believe that he would prefer to pay just a little more and receive this helpful service than to pay what he is now compelled to pay and receive no help or aid in his problems.

True, some people, even farmers, will tell you that there is no need for this work. And at first thought our opinion was that it was a problem concerning the farmers and should be dealt with only by the farmer, but after further thought we concluded that it was a problem for every tax paying citizen, as they are merely the representatives of the tax-paying citizenry, and this matter of retaining or dispensing with these offices is in reality as much the business of the tax-paying business man, the tax-paying banker, the tax-paying editor as it is the tax-paying farmer or stockman.

We could not begin to enumerate in this article the many accomplishments that have been wrought in Knox county through the efforts of these two offices. We believe that it would not be necessary, for in every community there are wide-awake farmers, who have been given valuable aid and information by the county agent. In every community there are farm women who have improved living conditions in the home by following the suggestions of the home demonstration agent. And likewise, in every community in Knox county there are club boys and girls who will shed a tear when they realize that with all the hard-earned dollars that their dad pays into the county exchequer each year they are to be denied even the opportunity of improving themselves in the wide fields that lie dormant before them. They are eager to learn but have no teacher.

And, if the cost of maintaining these offices were prohibitive we would view the situation differently, but since a major portion of the salaries of these two officials are borne by the State and Federal Governments, the total cost to the county for both, according to our information, is about $2,000 per year, and there are at this time dozens of counties over Texas that are awaiting their turn to put on the work, as the State and Federal appropriations are limited to a certain number of counties, and when once discontinued it would require an indefinite number of years to restore the work. The tax-payers of Knox county will continue to pay toward maintaining this work through the State and Federal Governments even if the work is discontinued.

In no county in Texas is there a greater field for this work than here in Knox county. In no county in Texas is there a greater need for a diversified program of farming. In no county in Texas is there a greater need for conservation of soil and of foods. Thousands of fertile acres of land within the county will become worthless waste within a very few years unless scientific terracing is applied. The few good orchards of the county will likely become history, and the rural clubs—the home demonstration clubs—the girls 4-H clubs, the baby beef clubs, the pig clubs—all of which have as their prime motive the improvement of agricultural life and conditions, will perish and be no more.

We want to say in conclusion that we have no criticism to offer for the action taken by the Commissioners. If we should direct any criticism at their action it would be due to their haste in taking such action, for we believe had they placed the matter up to the people of the county they would have found that the vast majority of them would have preferred the slight increase in taxes to the discontinuation of the work, and we know the members of this court well enough to believe that they will gladly follow out the wishes of the people when they know what their wishes are, and believing this, we are hopeful that the citizenship of Knox county will exert itself and retain this valuable work.

DEEP SEA FISH AND MEN BE WISE—KEEP PREPARED THE SOCIALIST VOTE AMERICA'S FIVE BIG MEN

Scientists study fishes that live a mile below the ocean surface. Bring them to the top, removing the water pressure, they burst and die.

Human beings live at the bottom of an atmospheric ocean, 20 miles deep. If you took us to the top we probably should burst, and we should die surely. Man cannot live even ten miles up, to say nothing of 500 miles.

We pity the poor, submerged deep sea fish, leading such dull lives. They would pity the submerged poor among human beings.

Science says all of earth's life was once in the ocean. Some animals clung on the land, developed lungs in place of the fish's bladder, ears in place of gills. Men were included in that migration to land. Other animals, even more ambitious, learned to fly—the birds.

Among human beings a few, Aristotle, fly above the level of necessity to the realms of wealth. Once they get there, they like the birds, they don't do much thinking. They don't have to think.

Mr. Brown, known the world over as the recalcitrant stormy petrel of thought, quarrels with President Coolidge because the President speaks of good will between nations, then asks for fifteen cruisers.

That's not inconsistent. The other nations know that we can get the fifteen cruisers, and fifty if we want them. And that creates the "good will."

Brown asks, "Is a man who goes out into the world armed only with faith more timid than he who carries weapons?" Of course he is. Look at the rabbit. He carries no weapon, and is more timid than the lion or wolf, that has a mouthful of weapons.

You can't be truly courageous unless you are wise. And if you are wise, you keep prepared.

Socialists of the country discover with grief and surprise that their Presidential candidate, Norman Thomas, polled only 300,000 votes, against more than 15,000,000 for Governor Smith and 22,000,000 for Herbert Hoover. Debs, in 1912, got nearly 900,000 votes.

However, Socialists need not be downcast. Their candidate had a hard year, running against prosperity, 7,000,000 Coolidge plurality, the "wet-dry" question, etc. When people are as busy as that, they haven't time to think about Socialism.

Will Rogers selects an "All-American Team" of ability, as follows:

Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Lindbergh.

He probably leaves out the ablest man in our country as yet unknown. That's fortunate, for it means we still reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Tex Cooper of New York. He is over 6 feet high, while the "little weaver" measures just 37 inches.

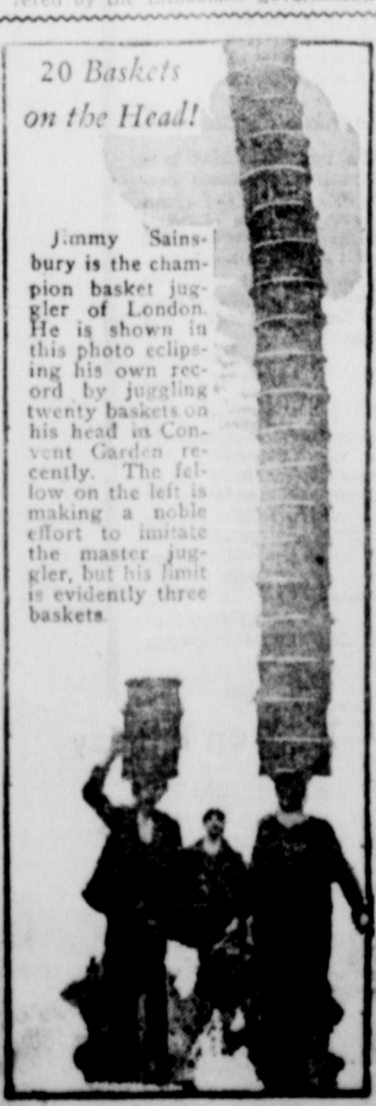

Fridtjof Nansen, famous Scandinavian explorer, will command an expedition in 1930 in which the Graf Zeppelin will be used for North Polar explorations. This was decided at Berlin recently.

Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," is back in America. Track experts are wondering whether he will turn professional.

Nathan and Zedekiah, recently in New York and now walking toward Mexico, are making a round-the-world hike for a $15,000 prize offered by the United States government.

Jimmy Sainsbury is the champion basket juggler of London. He is shown in this photo eclipsing his own record by juggling twenty baskets on his head in Covent Garden recently. The fellow on the left is making a noble effort to imitate the master juggler, but his feat is evidently three baskets.

The Fur Coat—will it be flat fur or curly—that's the question. For both are extremely popular just now. Anne Glass, starring in "Angela," shows us a smart little model developed in black fur with a standing collar and cuffs of Kolinsky—just to illustrate that there are curls and curls, and one needn't choose the tight twists of Krimmer and Astrakan if loose, wavy curls seem more desirable.

Among the flat furs broadtail still holds first place and is often combined in novel ways with contrasting long-haired furs. When there is a compromise between flat fur and fluffy fur, it is most aristocratically expressed by Beaver.

Costume Gift Suggestions
Pull-on gloves that reach almost to the elbow are required for the latest three-quarter length and open sleeves. A pair in this new length would make a most acceptable gift, and should be chosen preferably to harmonize with the coat.

Smart Costume Jewelry
Among the sterling and gilt and semi-precious stone novelties in costume jewelry are many charming collar and bracelet sets that can be had at the reasonable prices one hopes to adhere to when on a shopping spree. Carved crystal, carnelian, lapis and chrysoprase are fashionable stones used in these sets.

If She Is Ultra-Modern
A cigarette case in black, red, deep blue or green enamel with a futuristic design in silver and gold would please almost any girl.

Her Choice of Perfume
If you contemplate the gift of perfume, it is best to know one's preference before selecting a scent which may or may not be pleasing, according to the individual taste. There is a marked tendency just now to suit the perfume to the personality—so choose that which best fits the type of the one who is to receive it.

Haskell County Pool Is More Promising With Second Well

Superior's No. 2 Reynolds Flows Over Top of Derrick After Finding Rich Pay at 1742 Feet

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 1.—Further evidence that an oil pool is due to be developed in Southeastern Haskell county was given early Tuesday morning when Superior Oil company's No. 2 Reynolds encountered pay in sand at 1,742 feet and flowed over the rig.

The operation was drilled through 11 feet of oil bearing sand Tuesday and is now bottomed at 1,753 feet, with some shale showing.

The No. 2 Reynolds is estimated to be good for 125 barrels a day production. It has some gas and the crude tests 26.9 gravity. This well is 400 feet west of the same owners' No. 1 Reynolds, the discovery well in that district, completed several months ago and now pumping at the rate of 50 barrels a day.

Additional testing of the pay strata in that area is due soon from Shaheen No. 1 Reynolds in the southeast quarter of section 3 E. T. R. R. survey, now at 1,796 feet with a fishing job. This test is due to reach the expected pay around 1,810 feet. The Superior's No. 2 Reynolds is located in the northeast corner of the Antonio Rodeguis survey.

DR. FRANK CRANE SAYS—

The Time Binder
Some professor, I noticed the other day in the public prints, referred to man as the time binder.

I take it that what he meant is this—though, of course, being a professor, he probably meant something else, something you and I cannot understand. It is never quite safe to say you comprehend just what a professor means; he rather resents it, but, as I was saying, what he meant, or might, could, would, or should have meant, is this:

Stones, sticks and all lifeless things are fixed, helpless and cannot move of themselves. They are the bound.

So are the plants and all vegetable forms of life.

Animals are space binders; that is, they can move from place to place, and by their power of motion can bind together things remote.

Man is also a space binder, because of his power of locomotion; but he is more. He can remember things in the past, and can look forward to events in the future.

Hence he is a time binder. Man differs from the lower animals because he preserves his past experience. He lives not only now, but all about him now flutters flocks of yesterday; from his nose mountain he can see long tomorrow vistas.

He is eternally planning. In proportion as he binds the future to him he becomes more of a man in every way. Many a silly word would be restrained, and many a rash action would be prevented by a consideration of the future.

Every deed is to be judged not only by its present advisability, but by how it bears on our whole career.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends who ministered to our loved one during her illness, and for the many kind deeds that were done and consoling words that were spoken, we shall ever feel grateful in our hearts.

"Are you going to make any New Year's Resolutions?" asked Br'er Rabbit of his good wife one evening.

"You mean 'resolutions', my dear," replied Mother Rabbit.

"Yes, Yes! I was thinking of the Resolution of 1876," said Br'er Rabbit.

"I don't know what the matter is with you tonight. You mean the 'Resolution' of 1776! don't you?"

Br'er Rabbit pushed his glasses on the top of his head and remarked: "I guess you're right. I always remember the last two figures, because seven and six are thirteen and there were thirteen original states in the Union. But how about your resolutions? I guess that is right now."

"I really hadn't thought about any, but that doesn't keep you from making some,—you usually break them," answered Mother Rabbit, as she took up her knitting.

"You talk like resolutions were dishes, but they are not," ventured Br'er Rabbit.

"Are you trying to start an argument?" asked his good wife.

"That's it! Why don't YOU make a resolution not to have any arguments in our family?"

"It takes two to make an argument, so why don't YOU make the same resolution?"

Br'er Rabbit was thoughtful for a moment and then he said: "I have already made mine and if you think I break them, then I better just have one resolution and let it go at that."

"Well, what is your resolution for New Year's?"

"When I dig a hole in the ground, I'm not going to leave any dirt on top of the hole."

This remark started Mrs. Rabbit to laughing and she had to take off her glasses and wipe them. "That's the funniest thing I ever heard of," she gasped between laughs.

"No, it isn't," replied Br'er Rabbit, appearing relieved.

"Then, how are you going to dig a hole and not leave any dirt on the top of the ground?"

"I'm going to start at the bottom!" said the old fellow, proudly.

Just at that moment there were two voices heard upstairs.

"You two better get into bed!" shouted Mother Rabbit to her bunnies.

"We ARE in bed—that's one of our New Year's Resolutions, to get into bed on time," shouted Billie and Bobbie Bunny.

"I guess I'll never hear the end of that 'revolution' business," sighed Br'er Rabbit, as he began to look for his glasses which were on the top of his head all the time!

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Back Duane, quick on the draw, kills Cal Blain in self-defense and becomes an outlaw. After adventures on the road he goes to Bland's camp. There he wounds a man named Bosmer and becomes a bosom friend of another named Euchre. He meets Mrs. Bland and also a girl Jennie, held prisoner by Bland, whom he rescues after a series of intrigues in which he is forced to deceive Mrs. Bland.

This leads to Duane's killing of Bland, the outlaw leader, and rushing off with Jennie, who is lost later. Duane roams the roads for years as an outlaw, finally going to meet Captain MacNelly of the Rangers, who had asked to see him. MacNelly is kind to him, and offers him a pardon if he will accept an offer to become a Ranger and go after Cheseldine's gang. MacNelly had become interested in Duane after a Miss Lee had spoken in his behalf. Duane promises MacNelly to do him any service. Meanwhile MacNelly gives Duane much welcome news.

Now Go On With The Story
"The Governor got mad and flayed us alive. Most rangers were lazy, useless gun-fighting shysters! Reed lost his temper. He's hot for the service. But I kept cool, and told the Governor straight out that if he'd pardon you I'd break up Cheseldine's gang on the river. That sort of floored the Governor. He got interested.

"I talked to him for an hour, explained how there were only two ways to exterminate Cheseldine and he like, either with an army or with the ranger service, employing such a scout as you. The army idea wasn't possible. But he was impressed by the other. He said: 'Set an outlaw to catch an outlaw, eh?'"

"Then he pondered a while and at last rang for his secretary. 'My political enemies say I'm not liberal-minded,' he went on. 'Now, I'm going to make this a test case of the ranger service. I'll pardon this gun-sharp Duane on condition you make him a ranger. That is, he'll not be pardoned until he is a ranger. Then we'll see how the scheme works out.'"

"MacNelly, I want to see this Miss Lee," said Duane.

"I was thinking of that. It's a good chance. Maybe there'll never be another one." He paused a moment, chewing his cigar "All right; I see no reason against your meeting her," he went on. "But let me arrange the matter as suits me. Tomorrow I'll send a ranger over to Shirley. There's a train and a stage, too. Now, let's turn in, Duane. We've talked a deal. And I was tired before we began. Make yourself a bed there. Good night."

Duane stepped upon the porch and rang the bell. After what appeared to be a long time a negro maid opened the door.

"A—caller to see Miss Lee," said Duane.

The maid asked him in and led him to a parlor. It was a large room, light enough, yet full of unfamiliar shapes. He stood there uncertain, waiting. The maid returned to say that Miss Lee would be right in.

Whoever Miss Lee was, she must have connections with wealthy people. Duane felt long-absent associations become vivid in his mind.

Slowly he turned. A slender woman in white stood in the door, one hand clinging to the curtains, the other at her breast. She was whiter than her dress—as white as a flower. Her eyes were dark, strained, staring, beautiful. The look of them Duane had seen before.

Duane's lips uttered her name, yet he had a vague sense of not hearing his own voice. The movement of his lips, his hand, seemed to animate her. She had been as still as a statue, and now she was as if shot through and through with life. That supporting hand upon the curtain appeared to uphold her quivering form.

"Oh, Duane, don't you—know me?" and the wonder of her eyes dimmed in a flood of tears. She stepped blindly. Duane's abnormal keenness of stunted faculties leaping back to power, caught a slight but unmistakable limp in her step.

In a flash all that had been strange about her vanished. He knew that faltering step. He was back in another world—one he had scared over in his heart and closed forever.

"My God! Who are you?" he cried hoarsely.

Then she met him, arms outstretched.

"Jennie! Jennie! Jennie!" she sobbed.

quinte life of that moment. He felt her and the might of it was stronger than all the demons of his unhappy years. Jennie was not dead. She was alive—alive—alive! And he held her as if she had been his soul—his strength on earth—his hope of heaven—against his lips.

The strife of doubt all past, the encroaching of old dark moods fell short and faded. He found his sight again. And there rushed over him a tide of emotion unutterably sweet and full, strong, like an intoxicating wine, deep as his nature, something glorious and terrible as the blaze of the sun to one long in darkness.

He had become an outcast, a wanderer, a gunman, a victim of circumstances—he had loved and lost and suffered worse than death in that loss—he had gone down the endless bloody trail, a killer of men, a fugitive whose mind slowly and inevitably closed to all except the instinct to survive and a black despair.

And now, with this woman in his arms, her swelling breast against his, in this moment, almost of resurrection, he bent under a storm of passion and joy possible only to him who had endured so much.

"Jennie! Jennie!" he whispered unsteadily. "No dream—no ghost—but you! I didn't know you."

"Yes, Jennie. And you never knew me!" She stirred and lifted her face from his breast. Her hands unclasped from his neck, fell to his shoulders, and caught there. A stain of red came into her white face. "Have I changed—so much—from that time over the Rim-Rock?"

"Changed! You're not the same girl! You've only that old look in your eyes. I saw you limp—that told me."

"I'm still a little lame." "It was that. How everything rushed back! I saw you as on that first day in the cabin. It's all clearer than the thousand times I've dreamed it. Euchre and Bland and that fierce woman, his wife, and Alloway! The little shack where you hid and nursed me, Jennie. I went back there—lived there a whole year with dreams and ghosts."

He shuddered and looked out of the window, far beyond, in cold and sick fancy, to the wilds of desert gorge. Jennie lifted a hand and touched his cheeks with ineffable tenderness. "I lived there alone—alone like a crippled wolf. Oh, the lonely nights—the back nights with their faces. But, Jennie, I found one thing—my salvation then."

He bent over her, looking deep into her dark, wet eyes.

"What?" she whispered.

"I found I loved you, and one of my bitterest regrets was that you never knew it. Hear it now! I love you! I've always loved you! I learned to love you there at Bland's cabin when we planned to save you. But it never came t ome till I'd lost you."

Then the memory was all that kept him from going. Your eyes used to haunt me, Jennie. I could see them dark and sad and watchful as you peered through the window at me with that woman, Kate Bland. It all comes back.

"Jennie, you must have much to tell me; and I have much to tell you. Can you tell me—you care for me? When I think of what you must have done! Jennie, haven't you loved me—a little?"

She uttered a low laugh that was half sob and her arms slipped up to his neck again.

"A little! I nearly died of love for you," she whispered. "I've never lived a wakeful hour without loving you, longing for you, praying for you. Oh, Duane, Duane, I love you!"

Their lips met in their first kiss. The sweetness, the fire, of her mouth seemed so new, so strange, so irresistible to Duane. His sore and hungry heart throbbed with thick and heavy beats. He felt theoutcast's need of love and he gave up to the enthralling moment.

She met his half-way, returned kiss for kiss, clasp for clasp, her face scarlet, her eyes closed, till her passion and strength spent, she fell back upon his shoulder.

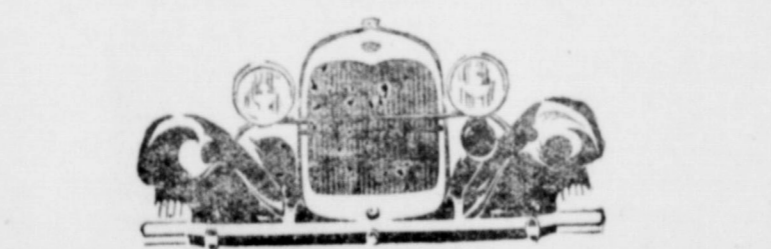

Duane suddenly thought she was going to faint. He divined then that she had understood him, would have denied him nothing, not even her life, in that moment. But she was overcome, and he suffered a pang of regret at his unrestraint.

"Jennie—don't mind it—I'm rough—I was carried away," he said. "I never knew life could be so sweet."

"I don't mind—I'm glad," she replied, slipping out of his arms. "But my breath went—and—and—Come, let's sit down here by the window."

She led him to a sofa and they sat down. It seemed then that each looked at the other with different eyes, hers dark and sad troubled, his glowing

Simplicity of cooling system is a feature of the new Ford

A COMPLETE water plant is a part of every automobile as it is a part of every modern city.

The purpose of this water plant is to keep the engine cooled to a temperature that will make it efficient in operation. If it were not for this, the cylinder walls would become overheated and the pistons refuse to operate.

The cooling system of the new Ford is particularly interesting because it is so simple and reliable.

When the radiator is full of water, the engine of the new Ford will not overheat under the hardest driving. Yet the water is so regulated that it will not impair engine operation by running too cold in winter.

The cooling surface of the Ford radiator is large, with four rows of tubes set in staggered position so that each receives the full benefit of the incoming air. The fan is of the airplane propeller type and draws air through the radiator at the rapid rate of 850 cubic feet per minute at 1000 revolutions per minute of the motor.

The hot water around the cylinder head is drawn to the radiator to be cooled by a centrifugal water pump of new design.

The entire cooling system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little attention.

The radiator should be kept full, of course, and drained once each month so that sediment will not collect and retard the free passage of water. In cold weather, a reliable anti-freeze solution should be added.

and soft, full of wonder.

Jennie slipped to her knees and her trembling hands reached up to Duane.

"Don't tell me MacNelly has made you a ranger?" she implored.

"That's it," replied Duane and brought himself to face her. He feared a breakdown or at least a storm of weeping. But apparently she grew calmer now that the truth was out.

"He didn't make you a ranger just for an excuse for the pardon?"

"No. It's secret special service."

"Ah! What is it, Duane?"

"I'm to make my way west, find where Cheseldine hides out with his picked men, get in with them, and when they're ready to ride out on another raid or bank robbery I'm to plan a trap so MacNelly can kill them or capture them."

"Oh, Heaven! Duane, was it for that MacNelly got your pardon? He might as well have killed you. To send you on a mission like that! Duane, it's impossible. With your reputation, your known hatred of border criminals—with the death of Bland, Alloway, Hardin, all those outlaws against you, why, it would be utterly hopeless—impossible."

"I mean you'd never succeed—and done by good management and luck."

"No, Jennie, not that. It could be then come back," said Jennie. "You might do the same out there as you did in Bland camp. But the risk's greater. I remember all about Cheseldine. I've never heard his name since we got away from Bland; but now it all comes back—Bland and Alloway, Hardin, too, in their talks.

"Dane, let me go back to MacNelly and go back to the Nueces. Be an outlaw again. I'll go with you."

NOTICE TO MY FRIENDS AND GOOD NEIGHBORS

To the Munday Times and my many friends in and around Munday and Rhineland:

This is the first time in my 59 years I ever attempted to write a letter of congratulations to my friends and neighbors in these localities.

It wouldn't be worth while for me to try to express my appreciation for the courtesies you have shown me and the accommodations you have extended me.

I am leaving my friends and neighbors for one year. I believe it will be beneficial to me to get off the farm for one year. It has been my life's work. I have never before retired from the farm. I will ask the wishes of my friends for my success as well as theirs. I am leaving to come back another year and when I come back I want to meet you with a heart full of love and good cheer.

With best wishes,
W. F. MURPHY.

WITH THE NEW 'FINGER-TIP CONTROL'

GREATER BEAUTY—LARGER BODIES

When the new Superior Whippet was presented to the American public last month, it won the enthusiastic praise of millions who thronged the 6,000 show-rooms of Willys-Overland dealers. The style creation of master designers, the new Superior Whippet introduces beauty of line and color never before associated with Fours and Light Sixes. Longer bodies, higher radiator and hood, sweeping one-piece full crows fenders, all contribute to the trim, smart appearance that arouses the admiration of millions throughout the country.

In roominess and comfort, the new Superior Whippet sets its own advanced standards. The more spacious interiors are scientifically designed for maximum head room, leg room and elbow room. Riding comfort is further enhanced by wider seats with form-fitting backs, oversize balloon tires, snubbers, and longer springs both front and rear.

Mechanically, the new Superior Whippet improves upon even its own predecessor. A higher compression engine gives considerably more speed, power, pick-up.

See the new Superior Whippet today. An immediate order will aid in early delivery.

Good! But it sure is good to be back in school again and be with your pals and the school teachers. It feels good to get scolded once again. From the looks of everyone in school they must have had a real Christmas.

During the holidays the "Flu" had to visit several of the students and when school began once again after the holidays, there was about 45 percent of the high school students absent. However, many of the victims have returned.

A disinfectant has been placed in all rooms so as to prevent the disease that is prevalent now about our town. We are doing our best to keep down the "Flu" and we are making a success of it.

Mrs. Rhodes had to take the "Flu" during the holidays and she has not been able to stand at her post of duty regularly since. We are sure that she will be back in school in a few days healthier than ever.

Yes, everyone had a very good Christmas. We feel lucky that we did not lose a student or teacher via the matrimonial route. Everyone of them is back without the extra "better-half."

SENIORS

The Seniors decided to follow Mother Eve's example and turn over a new leaf, but as is always the case, we broke all our resolutions the next day. Oh, well, they are made for that purpose.

Santa Claus was especially nice to the Seniors this year. We suppose that is just a result of our being such nice (?) little boys and girls. The faculty gave a hearty "amen" to this statement. Ain't it so?

It won't be long now! We are living in dread of those horrible, terrible, awful (slow down, our vocabulary's running low) anyway you get what we mean—mid-term examinations. We need your prayers and loyal support 's terrible.

The Seniors have resolved (we won't break this one) to start something in the way of entertainment. We haven't given our allotted number of parties and picnics, and we're going to make up for lost time. Watch us!

MOGULS LOSE EXCITING GAME WITH HASKELL

Last Friday night the Haskell High basketball team came over and carried away the big end of the score in a fast and hard fought tilt.

The Moguls played them to a close score all through the game, but at the sound of the last whistle the "Haskell Indians" were in the lead by a 16 to 12 score.

It seemed that Haskell was trying to play another football game, similar to one we played last fall, as unusually rough playing characterized the game throughout.

Paul Pruitt was taken out of the game in the fourth quarter due to a re-burnt of old injuries received in the Haskell football game last fall.

The Moguls will try to get "sweet revenge" next Thursday night, when they go to Haskell to return the game.

HARDING COLLEGE WINS BIG GAME FROM INDEPENDENTS

New Year's night the Harding College team from Morrilton, Arkansas, played the Munday Independents a "jam-up" good basket ball game. Although the "Hoosier-staters" carried off the big end of the count, the Independents played as good basket ball as did their opponents.

Two of Arkansas' men, Eubanks and Myers, played on Truscott's team last year. The score was 33 to 21 in Harding's favor.

JUNIOR FLASHES

We have enjoyed the holidays, but now we feel like real work and we are going to do our best in every undertaking. We have to make some New Year resolutions, and start new ideas and have more determination to do better for the mid-term exams are just around the corner, and waiting patiently.

The class is proud of a new Junior, Orville Roden, from Arlington, Hurry for the Juniors!—Yet, we could stand more boys??? We surely hope that you find our class an enjoyable and happy one, for we are truly glad to have you, Orville.

A number of classmates have been absent from school, on account of the flu; however, we are happy to relate that this Monday morning finds a number of them back with us again.

The Junior class is joined by the entire student body and the faculty in extending our deepest sympathy to our classmate, Vela Phillips, in this hour of sorrow.

Every one is supposed to "Turn over a new leaf" and start the New Year with a "bang!" But I am afraid that this could not justly be applied here, concerning the Flashes. I mean—but you know there is a reason for everything. I have hopes of doing better someday—somewhere, and that's my only consolation.

CHAN'S CHATTER

It seems that both the Moguls and the Independents had too much Christmas and were not in very good shape to play ball last week, but with hard training after the holidays, they will soon be in the best of shape to defeat teams "coming and going."

Here's to "sweet revenge" when the Moguls go to Haskell next Thursday night for their return game.

The Mogul-Meagrel game was called off last Saturday night due to the fact that the weather was so cold Meagrel could not come. The game had been rescheduled for Saturday night of this week.

Harding College played Westford College the next night after they had played here, and were defeated by a 34-28 score.

THE FRESHMEN NEWS

We certainly are glad to have most of the pupils that were absent last week in school this morning.

Mid-term examinations will be given in about two weeks. We certainly are studying hard for them to make good grades.

RULES TO SUCCESS

Marshall Field says that there are twelve things every person should know in order to make a success. The twelve are:

1. The value of time.
2. The success of perseverance.
3. The pleasure of working.
4. The worth of character.
5. The dignity of simplicity.
6. The power of kindness.
7. The influence of example.
8. The obligation of duty.
9. The wisdom of economy.
10. The virtue of patience.
11. The improvement of talent.
12. The joy of originating.

This little poem was handed to the reporter of the Freshmen class. (The author is unknown.)

Hiawatha

By the shores of Cuticura,
 Lived the Prophylactic child,
 Dandierine Fair Chevrolet's daughter,
 She was loved by Instant Postum,
 Son of Sunlight and Vaseline,
 Hair apparent to the Masdis
 Of the tribe of Coco Cola,
 Thru the Tanlac strolled the lovers,
 Thru the Shredded Wheat they wandered.
 "Lovely little Wrigley Child,"
 Were the words of Postum.
 "No Fry Fyter can quench the fire,
 Nor any Aspirin still the heartache.
 Oh, my Prealtolite desire,
 Let us marry little Djer Kiss!"

CLASS REPORT 7 B

It won't be long until mid-term examinations and the famous night before when all good leaves are supposed to turn. Those who don't turn them will probably fail, for it seems the teachers' watchword is "They shall not pass."

Many have been out with the flu. Lowry Rigby and Marie Parks were among the number. We hope they will be with us soon.

We picked up this little sketch from somewhere and though it might cause a smile or two:
 I eat my peas with honey;
 I've done it all my life;
 They do taste kind of funny,
 But it keeps them on the knife.

OBITUARY

In loving memory of Mrs. Cora (Weaver) Edwards. She was born May 2nd, 1899, and died December 25th, 1928, at 9:10 a. m. She lingered between life and death for nine long weeks. Loving hands did all they could to save her but their efforts were in vain. For none but her Heavenly Father could ease her pain, so on Christmas eve morning her Master called her to Him and her spirit took its flight. To know her was to love her, she was so kind and true, never thinking of her own sorrow and pain, but always trying to comfort and cheer those around her. "We had a precious treasure, she was our joy and pride, we loved her, Oh, perhaps, too well, for soon she slept and died. All is dark within our dwelling, lonely our hearts, for the one we loved so dearly has forever passed away."
 "Weep not, father, mother, brothers, sisters, for your loved one is at rest. Where no cruel words can ever more.

The New Dodge Brothers Six

---By George Isbell---

While we have read the specifications and even viewed the photographs of the new Dodge Brothers Six it was not until we had actually seen the car and examined it thoroughly that we fully realized that this new car was the greatest value and the finest achievement of Dodge Brothers history. It is marked by a new beauty, a new performance and a new dependability even for Dodge Brothers cars.

One of the outstanding features of this new car is the new Mono-piece Body. It is a body inflexibly built directly into the chassis frame. It is rigid, permanently balanced, with no joints to squeak, and is something the buyer of motor cars has longed for always.

It has: A big, powerful, 7-bearing crankshaft engine. Wider-face transmission gears, Roller bearing steering gear. Front end exhaust manifold that carries the heat away from the driver's compartment. Finger-thin steering wheel. Steering wheel headlight control. Chrysler 4-wheel hydraulic weather-proof brakes. Lovejoy shock absorbers all round. Oversize tires (5.50) add still further to riding ease and tire life. It has wide doors, deep, beautifully textured and tailored upholstery, and complete appointments and fittings down to such custom details as robe rail, foot rest, vanity case, smoking set, and handsome new instrument panel. It is a big, roomy, complete fine car.

Whatever you want in flexible range of power, in acceleration, speed, safety, convenience and comfort, or any combination of them, you have it here in a style and quality and quantity that leaves this new Dodge Brothers Six without a peer or a rival in its field.

In the many years that I have been selling Dodge Brothers cars I know that I have never been able to offer a car that anything equals the value that is possessed in this New Dodge Brothers Six. I was really amazed and electrified when I stepped into it and drove it. It has the smoothest running engine and performs easier and prettier than any car I have ever driven, and I am anxious to demonstrate these things to you.

And the new Dodge Brothers Six is available in any body design that might be desired, and the prices are not prohibitive. Here are the various models and designs offered in this new line, together with the delivered prices, fully equipped:
