Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

It was a short, but impressive and inspiring service Sunday.

It was impressive in view of the astounding facts cited by a state official on Friday night, then to witness this service just about 36 hours later.

Speaking to a group at Knox City, Attorney General Waggoner Carr made these astounding remarks: "... Two thirds of boys of scouting age in the United States are not regular attenders of church. One-fourth have never read nor heard of the Ten Commandments. One-third have never been inside a church."

Then Sunday, we witnessed the impressive ceremony of five Munday boys, all Boy Scouts, receiving their God and Country Award. One of the requirements for receiving this award, we understand, is that the boy attend all services of his church for one year.

One of the youth led the church group in the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the Christian Church. He recited it from memory. Most of us had to read it from the bulletin!

Could you recite it? Hete it is: "I pledge allegiance to the Christian Flag and to the Saviour for whose Kingdom it stands, one brotherhood, uniting all mankind in service and love."

Another Scout then led us in the pledge of allegiance to the U. S. flag, which we all knew.

W. R. Moore, Jr., gave a summary of "God and Country" requirements, which included a full year of study, church attendance, activities in the church, leading in the services, visiting the shut-ins, etc. He remarked that the lives of these boys had been definitely changed through these experiences — that they had a greater insight of religion and the meaning of the church.

The pastor, Rev. Rex L. Mauldin, who led the group during the year, made the God and Country Award to the five boys. This is the greatest number ever to receive the award at one time.

The boys are: Max Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Anderson; Stan and David Key, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Key, and Bobby and Bill Baker, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker.

We think Mr. Carr was quoting from J. Edgar Hoover in his report on the increase of juvenile crime in the United States. We were convinced that Mr. Hoover's statistics came from places other than small communities like Munday.

We're not entirely free of juvenile problems, but in the smaller communities the church often forms the nucleus for youth activities and its influence is far-reaching. Is there a boy of scouting age in Munday who has never seen inside a church? We doubt it.

Carr digressed briefly in his speech to compliment a Munday boy, Wayne Rodgers, who recently joined the attorney general's staff at Austin. "He's a fine man, a good lawyer and a hard worker," Carr said, and indicated that he has the ability, the aggressiveness and the determination to go places in the legal profession.

The person who reportedly said the town of Munday wasn't going to be here much longer should drive around and take a gander at the town's small-scale building boom. In addition to several new houses built recently, four are now under construction to our knowledge.

The Dwight Keys and Clint Normans have two large homes in the southwest part of town which will be ready to occupy soon. Two other nice residences are being constructed by the Jeff Andersons and Wallace Moorhouses. These people, at least believe the town will be here for a while.

When completed, this will add some 1,000 feet of floor space to the store.

City Hall Receives New Coat Of Paint

Workmen have been busy for the past week giving the city hall a new "dress up" job for the vegetable festival and for local people and visitors to the town.

Work was started last week on giving the outside of the building a complete new paint job. Several workmen have been on the job and expect to have the job completed with the next few days.

Practically the same color scheme was carried out, but the work will give the building a fresh, clean appearance. This is the first major work done on the city hall in several years.

Miss Becky Howard spent the week end with her cousins, Mrs. Mary Johnson and Mrs. Gloria Brannon, and their families in Wichita Falls.

Carr Is Speaker At Knox City's Ladies' Night

"We are losing the battle . . . but it's not too late to turn back the tide of history," Attorney General Waggoner Carr told Lions and their ladies at Knox City last Friday night.

Carr was referring to the decay within our society. He quoted the historian Toynbee's theory that all nations since the dawn of history have gone through six periods on the road to oblivion.

He mentioned these periods as freedom, glory, power, vice, corruption and barbarism. He challenged the audience to pick the period the United States now is going through.

Khrushchev's well-known statement that our great-grandchildren will be Communists was referred to by the speaker. He asked the group to consider that, "Mr. Khrushchev is a student of history; he knows the laws of history and the laws of chance favor him."

Carr said without exception all great powers have exhibited signs of decay near their 150th birthday. He reminded the Lions that the United States passed this birthday some three decades ago.

"You can bake your own cake," he said. "I will furnish two ingredients." He then named the FBI report on vice which mentioned an epidemic of crime as stated by J. Edgar Hoover. The second ingredient was that two-thirds of boys of scouting age in the United States are not regular attenders of church. One-fourth have never read nor heard of the Ten Commandments. One-third have never been inside a church. "We — our generation — don't want to preside over the decline of our country."

The speaker was introduced by Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah. Master of ceremonies was Lion David Counts.

Officers for the new year were installed as follows: Henry White, president; Jim Ross, first vice president; David Counts, second vice president; Zeb Smith, third vice president; Tom Van Winkle, secretary-treasurer; Kenneth Lawson, lion tamer, and Kenneth Crownover, tall twister.

Directors include Monty Penman, Tommy Kent, E. Hob Smith, George Davis and Bill Sams, immediate past president.

Attending the event from Munday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Edgar, Jesse G. Smith and Gene R. Haynie.

Bloodmobile To Be Here June 27

The third visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile is to be held in Munday on Thursday, June 27, at the First Baptist Church. Preparations are well under way to make this visit one of the best. Dr. Charles Markward is county chairman and Mrs. E. B. Littlefield and Mrs. Tom Bullington are co-chairmen.

They expressed their thanks for the cooperation of the people in the past visits of the Bloodmobile, and are hoping that they will be better this year.

George Clevenger, administrator of the Red River Regional Blood Center, will be here that day. He showed his films at the Lions club luncheon last Tuesday, giving the several ways in which blood donated through the blood bank saves human lives.

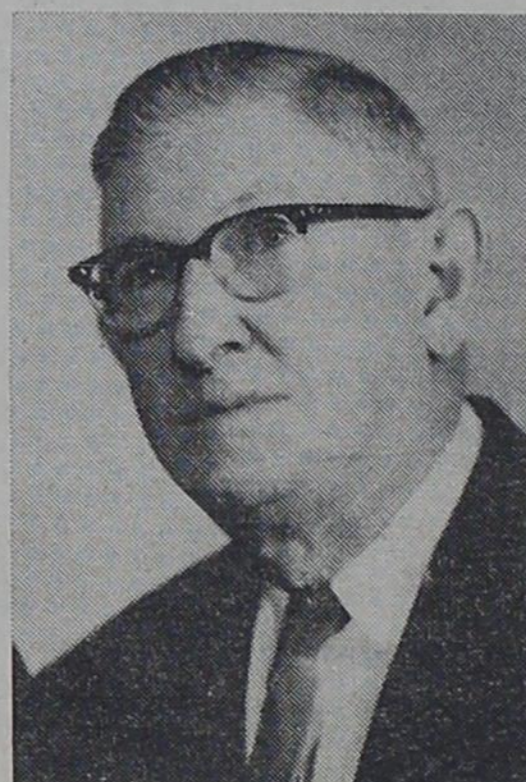

Mr. Clevenger complimented the Munday and Rhineland communities for their wonderful records upon previous visits of the Bloodmobile. "This is no time to let down," he said, "as blood is always needed in saving lives."

Mr. and Mrs. Laval Bilibrey and Rodney of Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bilibrey of Fort Worth visited Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Barnard, and with relatives in Goree over the week end.

Traffic Accident Situation Critical

AUSTIN — The Texas Safety Association today labeled the traffic accident situation in Texas "critical" and called on the citizens of the state to help stop the increasing trend in traffic accidents and fatalities.

"The traffic accident situation in Texas has reached a critical period," J. O. Musick, General Manager of TSA, said. "During the first three and one-half months of this year, traffic fatalities increased about 17 per cent over the same period last year. Traffic accidents increased approximately 12 per cent."

The safety director said it was going to take "an all-out effort on the part of every driver to stop the needless waste of lives, the human suffering and the economic loss caused by accidents." He also pointed out the urgency of checking the increasing accident trend.

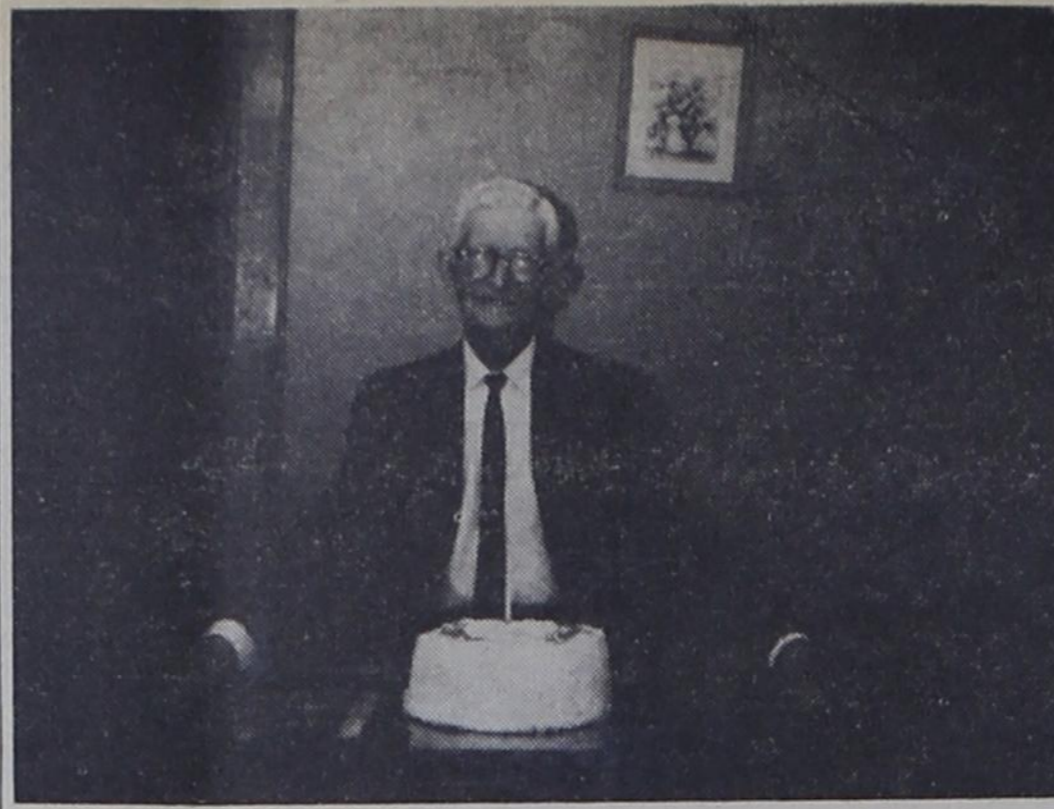

"Vacation time is 'just around the corner,' and if something isn't done to stop the traffic accident trend, it won't be safe for anyone to get out on our streets and highways," Musick said.

He urged individual drivers to increase or work toward developing skills and attitudes to meet every driving situation and appealed to all civic clubs and other organizations to encourage safe driving.

"Each driver can help himself and other drivers by driving carefully and courteously. Civic clubs and other organizations can aid the cause of traffic safety by initiating and supporting safety campaigns.

"So, let's all drive safely and talk safety," Musick concluded. "The life you save may be your own."

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

If you're like most Americans, you probably intend to use your Savings Bonds as a down payment on a house, to help send a child to college or otherwise upgrade your standard of living. You don't need to feel one whit less patriotic because of this.

The fact that you and tens of millions of other Americans buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds helps Uncle Sam manage his financial affairs better and puts him in a position to be a stronger voice and a stronger power in the free world.

And the fact that you and these other millions of Americans have accumulated the savings you have—46 billions in E and H Savings Bonds alone—is one of the reasons why Americans are financially strong and reliant. And their individual strength is the strength of the nation.

When the communists make one of their favorite statements—that they're going to "bury us" economically—your savings and your support of your country are mighty powerful answers. Keep building both with U.S. Savings Bonds.

Miss Carolyn Lane Smith And Robert L. Bowden Marry in Church Rites at Snyder

SNYDER — After a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park and cities in Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn Bowden will reside in Fort Collins, Colo., for the remainder of the summer.

They were married at half past six o'clock Saturday evening in Colonial Hill Baptist Church with Dr. Jimmie Nelson reading double ring rites.

The bride is the former Carolyn Lane Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lane Smith. Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Bowden of Andrews are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mr. Smith gave his daughter in marriage. Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Lynn Bethel, organist, and Mrs. Jean Tyrone, soloist.

Alva Burdick of Loving was maid of honor, and Waymon Smith of Munday was best man. Pat Stafford of Roscoe and Marilyn Mitchell of Winters served as bridesmaids, and Don Bowman of Munday and Bob Cude of Lubbock were groomsmen. Ushering were Frank Miller of Snyder and David Ramsey of Dallas.

The bride wore a sheath gown of white bridal satin designed with a bolero with portrait neckline. The bolero, skirt and detachable chapel train were highlighted with alençon lace reembordered with seed pearls.

Her three-tiered veil of illusion was attached to a pillow of bridal satin accented by lace and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis with accents of lace and satin loops.

Bridal attendants' dresses of turquoise deluster satin had fitted bodices, scoop necklines, elbow length sleeves and full skirts; headdresses were cabbage roses with brief veils. They carried white baskets with white daisies.

Mrs. Peggy Smith of Fort Worth registered guests at the reception held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Serving were Donna Neal and Treva Hayes of Lorraine.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a yellow silk suit with white patent accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Snyder High School, received her BS degree from Hardin-Simmons University where she was vice president of Kappa Pi art fraternity and twice received the Gayle Featherston Kappa Pi Award.

Bowden received his BS degree from Sul Ross State College and an MA degree from Colorado State University. He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa and served as vice president of the Iota Lambda Sigma fraternity.

The couple will return to Snyder in August where both are employed by Snyder Public Schools.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner at Town House.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Gunter and children of Denver City visited her mother, Mrs. Lila Masters, and grandmother, Mrs. W. O. Mays from Friday until Tuesday and all visited Mr. Gunter's mother, Mrs. Frank Layton of Monahans, in the hospital in Mineral Wells on Sunday. Mrs. Layton is recuperating from surgery.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

The Texas State Department of Health is involved in mountains of work after receiving licensing and supervisory authority from the Atomic Energy Commission for by-product materials and small quantities of special nuclear and source materials.

Texas ranked fourth in the number of AEC licenses prior to the State's assumption of the program. Somewhat unique to Texas is the presence of seven research reactors, a uranium mill and the location of the principle refueling site of the nuclear powered Savannah.

Approximately 350 radioisotope licenses have been reviewed and granted out of over 500 federal licenses transferred to Texas by the AEC March 1. All those previously under the immediate supervision of the Commission must have Texas licenses.

Thus, the Division of Occupational Health and Radiation Control of the State Health Department, along with the help of many others, is in the process of contacting and checking each of these groups of individuals.

The AEC, however, retains control of those radiation installations dealing with large quantities of nuclear materials required to sustain a steady chain reaction. This amount is known as a critical mass. When there is a sub-critical mass, no chain reaction can occur.

Licensing authority for radiation users in the State was granted in January when the Governor and the AEC signed a contract culminating over eight years of preparation. After passage of permissive legislation by Congress in 1959, the Commission evolved criteria to be met for placing the regulatory authority in the hands of those states which could prove competency. In 1961 Texas legislation was enacted to permit state participation in the transfer.

Texans went to work to write suitable regulations which would be compatible with national standards and became the fifth state to meet this challenge. Under the agreement with the AEC, the Texas State Health Department is the responsible agency, acting with the cooperation of a Radiation Advisory Board appointed by the Governor. The Department's interest in radiation antedates World War II. Studies which pointed out the danger of shoe-fitting fluoroscopes were made in the State as early as 1947. Additional studies involving x-ray and radium use soon followed. Work concerning occupational and radiological health hazards has been and continues to be an important function of the Department.

Horses Fewer But Worth More

Since the days of trail drives and the walking cultivator the horse has taken on a new role in the U. S. and even in the great cattle state of Texas. According to Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M College, the number of horses in Texas and the U. S. is steadily declining and there are more and more leaving the cattle trail for the bridge trail.

In Texas, where their use for working stock is legendary, horses are becoming pleasure animals, are being placed in more shows and used more for just plain riding. Their numbers declined on Texas farms and ranches about 27 percent between 1954 and 1960, the specialist says. However, the total for the U. S. decreased some 36 percent during the same period and the Lone Star State still has more horses than any other.

But with this lessening in numbers has come an increase in the average farm value of horses. In Texas the average farm value of horses increased an amazing 187 percent between 1954 and 1960 while the U. S. average increased only 37 percent.

This makes Texas horses worth about 31 million dollars, Uvacek points out. In 1960 the state average farm value per head was $126 or about $13 higher than the U. S. average. In this year horses accounted for 3 percent of the total livestock value in Texas which was more than all the goats or all the hogs, Uvacek says.

Thus while horses are generally becoming fewer, Texas can brag that it has the most, with the largest total farm value and worth more each than the nation's average horse.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Spann, Jr., and daughters of Irving are spending this week of their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clowdis and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Spann.

"Best kind of Johnson Grass is brown Johnson Grass."

ORTHO has a low-cost chemical that does Johnson Grass up brown. And makes your oil spray a lot more effective.

There's nothing better than seeing Johnson Grass turn brown and die. And nothing worse than seeing it still on the rampage, after you've knocked yourself out trying to kill it.

Best way out of that bind is to add ORTHO C-56 Johnson Grass Control to your oil spray. You'll see these weeds "curdling like buttermilk" before you've even finished the field. Because C-56 has a special chemical that soaks away the tough waxy hide of Johnson Grass. So your kerosene and fuel oil can get into the plants and kill 'em from the inside, roots and all.

And C-56 is a powerful weed-killer in its own right. It's so effective, in fact, that you can use just one gallon for every 99 gallons of oil. So effective it can put down Johnson Grass in any stage of growth. Even when it's blooming. Even when stems are toughened by drought. Yet it won't sterilize your soil (when used as recommended).

C-56 works best, though, when the young shoots are 4 to 6 inches high. That's when they're most vulnerable. And that's why it's a good idea to talk to your ORTHO Dealer early in the growing season. He'll show you the ORTHO gravity-fed sprayers. (Spot sprayers that make weed-killing like shootin' fish in a barrel.) Best of all, he'll show you how a small investment in C-56 can result in a whole lot of perfect Johnson Grass. All of it brown, shrivelled and dead.

Even with a 15-25% infestation of Johnson Grass, the cost of 4 weekly sprout and 3 late seedling applications of C-56 plus oil is only about $11.00 an acre

"Only good fly is a dead fly!"

ORTHO has two sprays—a fog spray and an all-purpose spray—that kill flies fast and sure. Without harmful residues.

You know what a hassle fly killing can be. You want a spray that's effective. But you don't want to have to hide your animals in the next county. And you don't want a spray that's so gentle every other fly gets away.

The two fly killers made by ORTHO take care of both problems. Their main ingredient is DIBROM, a remarkable insecticide that kills flies outright—without harmful residues. DIBROM doesn't just knock flies down—it knocks them stone cold dead. Even if they're resistant to other sprays.

And because they contain DIBROM, both these fly killers are registered to spray over and around cattle. You can spray in a barn without taking the cows out, or a poultry house without removing the birds.

So if you use a fog sprayer, try new ORTHO DIBROM Fly Spray. It comes already mixed—you just pour it from the can. And it kills the flies that a lot of fog sprays miss.

If you want an all-purpose concentrate, for use through a pressure sprayer, or as a dry bait or a wet bait, use ORTHO Fly Killer D. (The D is for DIBROM.) Diluted with water, a quart of Fly Killer D makes up to 40 gallons of ready spray. And costs less than 22 cents a gallon.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out Against A Standard Work Week For The Farmers Of This Country

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses work this week, a subject he doesn't mind talking about, if you follow us.

J. A.

I was looking through a farm magazine the other night and ran across a letter a farmer with a curious problem.

He wanted to know why farmers can't have a standard work-week like city people. "Why can't we have a standard," he asked, "so when we quit work at 6 we won't feel like we're loafing?"

This question brings up so many answers I hardly know where to start attacking it.

In the first place, I've never had any trouble knowing when to stop working. I've sometimes had trouble knowing when to start, but never when to stop.

Maybe city people have to be told when they're tired, but I've never had that shortcoming.

This farmer went on to say he'd like to know what work hours other farmers put in around the U.S., on the grounds a uniform standard could be established and a man could get off his tractor at a certain time each day without feeling sheepish about it.

A man who has to watch his neighbor to know when to stop plowing is in the wrong business. On the other hand, any neighbor who watches me to learn when to start, will go broke.

But this idea of a standard work week for farmers worries me. You let somebody in Washington hear about it, and it won't be long before he'll come out with some new legislation called an Hour-Control Program, with government checks cut if you go over or under it.

A farmer's day begins when he wakes up and ends when he goes to sleep, and what he does during those hours is his own business, provided the support price is satisfactory. And any farmer who can't figure out how to spend those hours, without looking over the fence to make sure he doesn't work longer or shorter than his neighbor, ought to move to town and get a job where somebody can make these decisions for him.

I don't want anybody telling me how many or how few hours I can work a week. This is a matter I can decide for myself, even if it takes me the first five days to decide what I plan to do the last two.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

What a difference

Grandma may talk about the good old days, but a whole team of horses couldn't drag her back to an old fashioned kitchen. When you compare the two pictures, you observe an important fact. All the marvelously improved conveniences you see are made possible by electricity — every single one. Yes, electricity makes the difference, and what a difference it makes! It eliminates drudgery and creates more leisure time by performing countless tasks in the home at the flip of a switch. It turns factory wheels, lights the darkness, and does all these things effortlessly and economically. That is one of two reasons why the use of electricity is increasing here in the Center of the Southwest. The other is that more people, more businesses, more industries are coming our way. Our expansion program is keyed to this increase, for we are convinced our service area faces GROWTH UNLIMITED.

the doctor ordered but a quart might kill the cattle too, so be careful with your mixing.

Remember only you can stop screwworms.

There has been a great deal of interest in recent years in early harvesting of forage sorghums as a means of improving quality, both for green chop and silage. Several studies have been conducted to determine the influence of harvesting at various stages of maturity on yield, recovery growth and physical and chemical characteristics of the forage. Some feeding studies have been conducted to find out the relationship of stage of maturity to feeding value but these are incomplete and inconclusive. This report is limited to the evaluation of production practices.

Yield, quality and physical characteristics are influenced by the stage of maturity of the plants at the time of harvest. Forage harvested in the boot stage is higher in moisture content (78 to 88 per cent), protein and percentage of leaf than that harvested at a later stage of maturity. Forage harvested in the dough stage is lower in moisture and higher in grain than forage from earlier stages. Maximum dry matter production is reached by most varieties and hybrids by the milk to soft-dough stages. Harvesting in the preboot to boot stages reduced dry matter production as much as 40 to 50 per cent.

Harvesting in the milk to soft-dough stage is suggested from the results of these tests until feeding results are available.

Two sorghum varieties, Atlas and Tracy and two commercial hybrids, Silo King and Beef Builder were used in the tests where these results were obtained. These tests were conducted at College Station and Angleton in 1959 and 1961.

The County is in god shape right now on moisture. Even the Truscott and Gilliland area has received rain.

Cotton is squaring and blooming in lots of fields this week.

A few fields will need to be replanted because of rain. Check the part of your field that borders fence rows, shelter belts, pasture lands or similar places where the boll weevil can hibernation, enter the cotton at this point and go to work. Spraying these spots in the field may save you several spray jobs on down the line.
