Haskell Lions and Boneheads Guests of Munday Club

With some thirty members of the Lions Club and Bonehead Club of Haskell as guests the Munday Lions Club held its semi-monthly luncheon at the Munday Hotel on Thursday at noon, and the visitors, together with the local Lions brought the attendance up to near eighty.

The occasion of the visit of the Haskell clubs was primarily for the purpose of making the presentation of the living cup recently won by representatives of the Munday Lions Club in competition with the Haskell Bonehead Club in burro polo, in which, notwithstanding the fact that the Haskell Boneheads were entirely at home with the burros, the Lions Club came out victors, much to the gratification of the Haskell Lions Club.

During the luncheon an enjoyable program was rendered, which included musical reading by Master Don Oates and little Miss Jennie Sue Pate, student of Miss Edythe DeWitt's school of music at Haskell, and Miss DeWitt played the accompaniment at the piano, and their numbers brought hearty applause from the Lions and Boneheads.

Mrs. H. F. Barnes presented a group of her students, which included readings by Stearon Ammons, J. O. McMahon and Sylvia Barnes, and a playlet by Genevieve Decker and L. E. Loveliss, Jr., and each of these numbers brought enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Another pleasing number on the program was a duet, "Here Comes the Sun", by Ed Bauman and U. R. Houser, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Joe Davis.

The visitors from Haskell included Henry Alexander, R. L. Burton, E. C. Couch, F. L. Daugherty, Rev. G. R. Forrester, H. C. King, Courtney Hunt, Walter Murcherson, D. H. Pearson, J. F. Kennedy, J. A. Couch, Joe A. Jones, Emory Menzies, A. C. Pierson, C. V. Payne, T. C. Cahill, John E. Robertson, C. F. Lewis, Harry E. C. King, Joe Williams, Bettis, H. O. King, Joe Williams, Hollis Akenson, Eugene Hunter, Theron Cahill, J. W. Smith, Roy Killingsworth, Jno. L. Tubbs and Vol Bailey.

Old Fiddlers Will Hold Contest On Saturday, Nov. 22

The date for the 9th annual Old Fiddlers' Contest has been set for Saturday night, November 22, at the community auditorium, and U. R. Houser, who is in charge of arrangements, states that already entries have been received from a number of the well known fiddlers of West Texas, including Elzie Mahan of Mineral Wells, J. T. Willis of Turkey, Ab Murray of Dozier, Jack Propps of Gilliland, the Morrow brothers and their dad of Munday, Noah Tinker of Munday, and Charley Matlock has advised that he has some fiddlers coming from 'way down in East Texas that will make the natives sit up and take notice.

In addition to the fiddling contest there will be an old fashioned square dance, buck and wing dancing, cowboy songs and a varied program that will please everyone who attends.

An admission charge of 25c will be made at the door and in the spacious auditorium there will be ample seating capacity for all who attend, and if the weather is cool the auditorium will be well heated, so make your plans now to attend this annual event, the proceeds of which will go to the fire department, after liberal prizes have been awarded to the winners in the contest.

Anyone desiring to enter the fiddling contest should notify Mr. Houser at once in order that the complete list may be announced and a place assigned. Remember, this is a regular annual event staged by home folk and not a traveling organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Willis of Knox City were here Tuesday to witness the Munday-Knox City football game and visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavoy Burton of Haskell visited relatives here over the week end.

Sheriff and Mrs. C. R. Elliott of Benjamin were here Tuesday guests of friends.

THINKING OUT LOUD

BY J. A. K.

Armistice Day has again come and gone, and about all the celebration of the great historical event that was evidenced in Munday was the closing of business houses for the major portion of the day and the Mogul-Greyhound football game during the afternoon.

However, a number of the dough-bugs could be found in groups in a retrospective frame of mind, some recounting their experiences and thinking of their whereabouts twelve years ago on this date when the hostilities ceased.

One of the boys who came down thinking of those days was Earnest Chamberlain. Earnest was smoking a dinky little pipe which bore all the evidence of having been much used, and explained that he purchased the pipe at Coblenz in 1918 while with the army of occupation, and now it was about the only memento in his possession of those exciting days.

Old Glory floated in the breeze in front of practically every business concern in the city. These flags are something that Munday should feel proud of, and our hat is off to the originator and promoter of this idea in Munday.

Values of Farm Products of West Texas Immense

Stamford, November 12.—Value of agricultural production of West Texas exceeds that of either California, Missouri or Florida, according to information compiled by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce from the United States agricultural census. Comparative figures on the four states were called to the attention of the nation during the weekly WTCC radio hour over WBAF, Fort Worth, on Wednesday evening, November 12, from 11 p. m. to midnight.

West Texas farmers, according to the 1925 census of agriculture—the latest available figures—received an average of $23.73 per acre from their crops, while California farmers averaged $19.63 per acre. In 1924, the value of all the farm crops in the 132 counties in West Texas aggregated $223,574,743. This wealth was produced on 13,637,637 acres of cultivated land.

The building of the Sunset school is progressing rapidly. The laying of brick was begun on November 5, and the walls are well underway.

The contract for the plumbing was let to Mr. Vickers of Sweetwater. Mrs. Bowman had an operation at Stamford Wednesday week and is doing nicely. Supt. Bowman was with her during the first two days. Miss Olga Bowman stayed the entire week.

A party was enjoyed by a large number of the high school students at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hudson Friday night.

A short chapel program was rendered Monday morning. Two very interesting numbers were a reading given by Miss Bacon, and a duet by Cleophas and Hammond Harrison.

At the Gillespie Baptist church on November 14 a box supper will be given. The proceeds will be used in buying playground equipment. An interesting program will be rendered by the Thespian Players and expression pupils.

Every one is cordially invited. The dramatic club met Thursday afternoon and named their club, Thespian Players. The name means fun and comedy. In our former meeting two offices were left vacant and in the meeting Thursday the following officers were elected: stage director, Cleophas Harrison; reporter, Christine Cloudis.

The Thespian Players will furnish a good program for the box supper Friday night.

On Friday, November 7, Charles Hudson entertained with a party. Many young people attended and every one took part in the games. Everyone had an enjoyable time. The program presented by Miss Bacon and her high school pupils was enjoyed very much by the Juniors.

On November 10, a tragic accident occurred. Miss Myrtle Partidge sat on a small mirror, owned by the Juniors, breaking it into many small pieces. We regret this for the mirror had been used by this class for three years.

Paul Pruitt Wins Trip To Chicago In 4-H Club Work

Paul Pruitt of this city has received notification that he has been selected as one of the winners of a trip to Chicago to attend the National Encampment of the 4-H Club Boys to be held from November 28th to December 5th. In addition to the trip he is to receive a hat as an additional prize. Notification of the selection of Paul came from the Extension Service department of the A. & M. College, of which M. T. Payne is State Boys Club Agent.

The project upon which Paul won the award consisted of 35 acres of maize, which produced one and one-half tons per acre. The maize was planted on the 19th of June following the big flood and was grown to maturity without practically any rainfall. The trip was awarded on profit per acre, size of project and a history of the project which he prepared.

The seed from which the prize-winning maize was grown were selected by Paul with the assistance of the county agent from pedigreed seed that had been planted the previous year, and which were procured from the experiment station at Lubbock, and when it is considered that he has won this distinction in a state-wide contest it must be quite an accomplishment, and one upon which this excellent young man should be congratulated.

In addition to being a good farmer Paul is one of the outstanding students in the Munday High school, and is one of the most, if indeed he is not the most, important cogs in the Mogul football squad, all of which brings to mind that there is a time for work and a time for play, and Paul knows how to do both.

M. T. Chamberlain Loses Home By Fire Friday Night

Marvin Chamberlain of Goree was in town first of the week and was decked out in new clothing, new shirt, new hat, new shoes 'n' everything—even a new hair cut—and upon investigation we learned the reason for all the new raiment.

On Friday night of last week Marvin's home in Goree was destroyed by fire, and before the blaze was discovered it had gained such headway that members of the family barely had time to escape, and Marvin's hair was singed in getting out of the burning building. The blaze was discovered about one o'clock in the morning when Mr. Chamberlain was awakened by the scent of smoke. He jumped out of bed and went to investigate and when he opened a door leading into the rear room the blaze swooped down and almost enveloped him before he could escape. He hurriedly awoke other members of the family and they fled from the burning building and were enabled to save only a few minor items from the household effects.

Mrs. Chamberlain and some of the smaller children were away from home at the time, having left that morning for a visit with relatives.

The home and contents were a total loss and were only partially covered by insurance.

Mistakes are so many and so varied that it may be wise for us to profit by some "Mistakes of a Life" that we found not long ago in an old scrap book. Here they are:

It is a great mistake to set up your own standard of right and wrong and judge people accordingly.

It is a mistake to measure the enjoyment of others by your own. It is a mistake to expect conformity of opinion in the world.

It is a mistake to yield to trifles of no consequence.

It is a mistake to worry ourselves and others with that which cannot be remedied.

It is a mistake not to make allowance for the infirmities of others, to consider everything possible that we cannot perform, to believe only what our own finite minds can grasp, or to expect to be able to understand everything.—Selected.

Methodist Pastor To Sweetwater For Conference

Th Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Mayhew left Tuesday for Sweetwater, where they will attend the annual conference of the Northwest District of the Methodist church. They left a day or so early and planned to visit relatives and friends at Abilene and Merkel, and Rev. Mayhew carried with him a large number of books which he is presenting to the library of McMurry College.

Rev. Mayhew has just completed his first year's work in the Munday church, and during his brief sojourn in this city he and Mrs. Mayhew have made a large host of friends, and the year's work has been successful from many viewpoints, however, due to the depressed conditions that prevail throughout the country the report from a financial standpoint is far short of that usually carried to the conference by the local pastor, and this will in all likelihood be a general rule over West Texas.

Services Sunday At Presbyterian Church

There will be services at the Presbyterian church Sunday at eleven o'clock and at seven in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the public and a special invitation is extended to the Methodist congregation in the absence of their pastor.

The young people are urged to come to the meeting each Sunday evening. Miss Hovey will be with us both Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

Rhineland Church To Be Finished By Thanksgiving

We again have been absent, due to the fact that everyone is busy at the present and news has not been plentiful.

This is a busy week on the premises of the new church. The roofers have arrived, also the plasterers and electricians. It is prophesied that by Thanksgiving Day the church will be sufficiently completed to allow services to be held in it.

Speaking of Thanksgiving, don't forget, there will be a box supper at the Rhineland Club Hall on Thanksgiving evening at about 6:30 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend and all of you girls don't forget to bring a box.

Yes, everyone is certainly busy. The Rhineland Union gin gained 337 bales of cotton last week, which is an average of approximately 56 bales a day.

Another thing, The Eat Shop has been doing great business. They have been serving eats both night and day. We are wondering when Mr. Hendricks takes his beauty sleep.

Our school will reopen on Monday, the 17th of November, after a two months vacation. Most of the students will be eager to return to their classes after spending two months in the cotton patch.

Albert Loran of Abilene, Texas, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Loran.

Mike Dellinger of Wichita Falls, Texas, is here overseeing the work done on the new church.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Franklin of near Haskell were Sunday visitors in the home of his parents.

Leo Wilde has returned to his home here after an absence of several months, which he spent at St. Francis, Texas.

Moguls Take Armistice Game From Knox City

The Munday High School Moguls ran true to form Tuesday, Nov. 11, and trounced the Knox City boys 14 to 0 in a game that was jammed full of hard, straight, leather-popping football. One of the largest, if not the largest, crowds in history witnessed the affair which, according to gate receipts, numbered close to 700 people. All gate receipts were broken, which goes to prove the spirit that was put into the game.

It was a clean fought game and one that Mogul supporters as well as the Greyhounds should appreciate, and strive to cause just such sportsmanship to exist each year in the gridiron battle.

To pick the star of the game would be impossible but if one is judged by his sensational side stepping runs, Rex Holder would be in the spot light, for it was he that, when a 13 yard second quarter yard line, third down and needing seven yards, broke through a hole in the right side of the line opened by Phillips and Allison and side-stepped two secondary defensive men for the fifteen yards and a touchdown. Rex is just a little bit thrilled over the run and the touchdown, but who wouldn't be? I imagine if I could accomplish such "time out" for the affair.

Captain Pruitt, with his muscles jerking with excitement and anxiety to make a touchdown against the Greyhounds, demonstrated his ability as a field director and directed his mates like a father, and when called upon for a few yards his mates would deliver if possible. It was Pruitt that paved the way for the first touchdown in the first quarter with a sweeping end run that put the ball on the three yard stripe. From there three plunges at the line by Myers, Holder and Pruitt put the ball on the one foot line and on the fourth down Myers was successful in plunging the line for the needed score.

Myers and Williams shined as interference men and when called upon for short gains never failed, for instance, on the try for point after the first touchdown Myers plunged through the line on a fake kick for the extra point and almost hit the goal post. Myers was not at all in shape and played the game with an injured leg, which at times was very noticeable as he plunged the line.

Burl never makes many sensational runs but is perfect on interference, which is the foundation for yardage gained.

The line was performing wonderfully and to say that Allison and Parker were not smearing Greyhound plays would be entirely a misrepresentation. Oristie Thompson did not look bad if he did have an injured leg, but we feel like if that old leg had been in shape it would have been too bad.

Isbell, Red Rayburn and Phillips were continually throwing the Greyhounds for losses and to their credit goes the honor of pushing the Greyhounds back for a zero in first downs, Rex Thompson never says much but does lots—just as in this game, for it was he who furnished the protection to complete the Mogul plays.

For Knox City the outstanding players were McBeth at quarter, who gave the Moguls plenty to think about, and Stephens and Favore. At present the writer is not familiar with the Greyhound lineup, but we do know that their tackles gave the Moguls plenty of trouble.

One important fact that made the boys fight their hardest was that just before leaving the dressing room for the field they dedicated the game to Capt. Paul Pruitt, and swore to win it in honor of his four years outstanding service for the Moguls. Pruitt is probably the greatest football star that Munday has ever produced in high school, and promises to be outstanding for the lucky college that gets him.

Let's hope he stays in the "Lone Star State" and gives everything he has for better recognition of Southwest football.

W. S. Dickerson spent Armistice Day with other members of the West Texas Utilities family at Lake Pauline ear Quanah, on a duck hunting expedition. The company employees have a camp house on the banks of the lake and recently they have strung an electric line to it and made many conveniences of electricity available.

POULTRY FACTS

DIVERS CULLINGS IMPROVES FLOCK

A Regular System May Be Used to Secure Layers.

Cull the poultry flock a little at a time, along through the season as the hens are laying and have a better paying and less expensive flock.

This is the advice of W. F. Armstrong, poultry worker at the North Carolina state college. He says the plan is better than culling the entire flock at one time during late summer or fall and forgetting about it until next season.

"By culling at intervals of two or three weeks after spring egg production begins to drop, much feed is saved," says Mr. Armstrong. "This system is simple and does not require an expert. When out of laying, the hen shows a narrow measurement between the pubic bones and the breast bone. The vent is small and yellow and the abdomen is hard. This is enough to look for in this plan, except that the unusually fat bird may be culled at any time."

Another advantage in culling as the hens quit laying is in the better price realized for the culls. Prices for poultry are always lowest in late summer and fall. By selling the cull birds as they go out of laying a better price and market is secured, says Mr. Armstrong.

Late in the summer or early fall, the regular culling system may be used to select next year's layers and breeders. Early molting hens are always the poorest layers. Omit culling, he advises, when the flock is down to the number wanted for the next season. Do not confuse culling with selecting the breeding stock for next season. The pullets develop quickly and the quick-growing, energetic cockerels will always make the best breeding stock if the performance of their parent birds is known.

Feed Milk to Increase Size of Pullet Eggs

One of the problems connected with worms in poultry is building up health and vigor and condition after the worms have been removed by the proper drug. Prof. J. J. Halpin of the University of Wisconsin makes a recommendation in regard to the use of cod liver oil that appears sound and worth trying, to the extent of making 2 or 3 per cent of the mash cod liver oil. Professor Halpin says: "Some of our correspondents have had trouble with worms in their flocks; after they fed cod liver oil, they found the trouble from worms practically disappeared. I wouldn't recommend cod liver oil as a treatment for worms but I think cod liver oil will undoubtedly prove of benefit in any flock where resistance is lowered, due to cold, worms, or anything of the sort. Naturally the more practical thing to do is to give a good worm remedy, and then use cod liver oil to help build up the flock."

Water Is Big Source of Infection to Poultry

The quality of the water for poultry should be determined by cleanliness and freedom from possible infection. Cleanliness can be taken care of by rinsing the container daily, or more often, if necessary. The water can be kept much cleaner, if it is elevated from the floor to a point where litter cannot be scratched into it. Quality of water as a source of infection can be taken care of by giving water from a well or the water supply which is used in the home. It is dangerous to dip water from streams or stagnant pools. One can never tell where such water comes from and what diseases it carries. A bird may have died of some contagious disease and have dropped into this stream or stagnant pool, causing an infection which when carried to the poultry house may mean disaster to the flock.

Culling at Night

Birds can be removed from the perches after dark, and can be examined and handled with considerable less excitement than when they are rounded up and forced into coops during the day time. The present production characteristics are such as can be observed by touch, as well as by sight—in some cases even better—and therefore very little, if any light, will be needed for this culling. In fact, light will bother the fowls.

Cooping One Rooster

The practice of cooping one male bird in a pen of, say, twenty fowls, and letting the alternate bird run with the flock day and night about is better, perhaps than allowing the two birds to run together. It has been found, however, that the cooping of the male in the pen excites it so much that instead of resting and gaining strength, the opposite effect is noted. The "resting" bird should be cooped out of sight of the pen. It will feed better.

Helps Avoid Worms

One authority has stated that worms have very little chance of obtaining a foothold in chickens that have a gizzard well filled with suitable grit. This authority claims that all eggs and cysts of the worms are ground and damaged so much by a gizzard full of grinding material that no worm infestation results. At any rate, it wouldn't hurt to see that the young growing stock is given plenty of coarse, insoluble grit and pure, fresh water.

Danger Sign Erected for Whirlpool "Fools"

Winnipeg—"Danger—Only Fools Enter Here." This sign, in letters five feet high, surmounted with a huge skull and crossbones, marks the deep whirlpools at Seven Sisters Falls. The swift current has claimed the lives of several rugged swimmers this season, and a power company went to considerable expense to erect the signs to prevent further tragedies.

Texas Farm Policy

Miss Grace Nelson, County Home Demonstration Agent, has handed us the following article, "A Texas Farm Policy", by Dr. T. O. Walton, president of A. & M. College of Texas, with the thought that it would be of interest to the many progressive farmers of Knox county. The article follows: It is deemed a matter of importance at this time, in view of the present condition of agriculture and while it is yet early enough to consider carefully and deliberately plans for next year, to reiterate the agricultural policy and procedure for Texas farmers that the A. & M. College of Texas has been advocating for years. As many recall, this policy was emphasized last April at a special conference held in Waco, known as a land utilization conference and sponsored by the A. & M. College of Texas, the State Department of Agriculture, the Texas Technological College, regional chambers of commerce, farm, livestock, banking, newspaper and other organizations interested in and working for the agricultural development of Texas. Soil utilization and conservation were stressed at this Waco meeting as major factors in a sound agricultural program.

A re-emphasizing of these factors and the other and allied factors in the plan that the A. & M. College of Texas has advocated for years as a sound farming procedure for Texas is believed very worth while at this time. Many states have suffered this year in an agricultural way. Drouth, among other factors, has made itself felt. While Texas generally has not suffered as severely, perhaps, as some other states, conditions in some sections of Texas have been far from good. The mobilization of all agencies interested in agriculture, mobilization at this time in a campaign to stress sound farming methods, should be productive of good results when next year's harvest comes around. It is not meant in this connection to suggest the absence of good farming practices generally in Texas. But it is believed there is much room for improvement and that there is no time better than the present to attempt to bring about such improvement. Fundamental changes have taken place in agriculture since 1920 and these changes emphasize the need of an agricultural policy that will serve as a guide in making necessary adjustments. The formulation and execution of such a policy offers an opportunity for the agricultural colleges and other agricultural institutions and groups to render valuable service. In keeping with its role, the A. & M. College of Texas through its various specialists has given unremitting attention to the working out of what it conceives to be a sound agricultural policy and procedure for Texas farmers. This policy is supported by facts and experience and in the main calls for the right application and use of dependable information in the development of agriculture. To the A. & M. College of Texas it is not new, nor is it new to thousands of Texas farmers. But the importance of agriculture and the opportunity to serve agriculture justify its repetition, along with the repetition of remedies for meeting its various demands. Briefly stated, this policy emphasizes seven points: 1. Preservation of land as capital stock. 2. Use of adapted crops and livestock. 3. Balancing the farm business. 4. Employing low-cost methods. 5. Living at home. 6. Production of quality products. 7. Marketing products on quality basis. It seems worth while to elaborate to some extent the various points of this policy. Concerning preservation of the land as capital stock, it might be pointed out that the preservation of the soil and the conservation and increase of its fertility and productivity are essential to a permanent and prosperous agriculture. Land is the basic capital stock of the farmer and its waste, or depletion, represents loss to him and to agriculture in general. Its preservation by the use of terraces where needed, conservation of fertility by the use of suitable cropping systems, and good methods and practices, make for efficiency and low cost of production.

Use of adapted crops and livestock: The recognition of the regional adaptation of lands to special crops and to certain classes of livestock and the avoidance of abrupt departures from these crops in the farm plan are particularly important in periods of depression. Balancing the farm business: A well-balanced combination of adapted crops and livestock makes for a more complete utilization of all farm resources. By properly supplementing the major enterprises with minor enterprises, risk is minimized and the business placed on a more permanent and stable basis.

Employing low-cost methods: In view of the tendency of prices generally to seek lower levels, it is important that the maximum efficiency be obtained from farm labor, farm power, and improved farm machinery. Such efficiency insures the greatest net return to the farmer regardless of the selling price of his products. Living at home: The growing and conservation of food products is a partnership affair between the farmer and the housewife and this thought should prevail on the farm. The production of meat, vegetable, eggs and a variety of vegetables and fruits to supply amply the home needs, and the production of an abundance of feed crops, including pasture and grain, for the farm livestock is imperative to the prosperity of agriculture. The beautification of the home, inside and outside, is more imperative in periods of distress than in normal times. The soil must be fed. Production of quality products: The production of high-quality products usually increases the salability and oftentimes good quality can be produced at very little increased cost to the unit, or even a lower cost to the unit. Marketing products on a quality basis: Every effort should be made to market farm products on the basis of quality. This may involve cooperation effort on the part of the farmers to the end that the product may be graded and standardized while still in their possession. Such standardization of farm commodities together with information on market prices and the expenditure of the family can not be too highly stressed. The foregoing represents a general way the various points of what is considered a sound agricultural policy, not only for Texas farmers but for farmers in general. The application of this policy must be determined in various communities and sections by local conditions, of course. And as a final suggestion, the advisability of consulting the county farm and home demonstration agents and making use of their services is stressed.

Famous Santa Fe Trail Linked With Coronado

It was in 1541 that Coronado followed the future line of the Santa Fe trail, probably as far as the site of Wichita, and that date, though the suggestion as to earlier years fails to get response, deserves some sort of commemoration. The Santa Fe trail or portions of it, must have known the sweep of more than one ancient migration before Coronado's day—perhaps descending from the North, perhaps coming up out of the crowded old civilizations of the South—but its known history began with Coronado.

And what a history it was through more than 300 years! It was the first of the great beaten tracks which joined the American East and West. It never approached in populosity those later northern routes that went from the Mississippi to Oregon and California, nor was its traffic notable for the riches carried. But where the other trails went into an almost virgin territory, the Santa Fe trail linked two opposing civilizations.

West and south along its course, following the pioneers, the traders and the buffalo hunters, went that line from the Middle West which, hatched and finally supplanted and transplanted traditions and life of far-off Spain—Boston Herald.

Conventional Idea of Lightning Found Wrong

At a meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in 1853 the Scottish engineer, James Nasmyth, son of a landscape painter, stated that there is no instance among the many thunderstorms whose progress he had most attentively watched had he ever observed such forms of lightning as that usually represented in works of art; in all such the artists invariably adopt a conventional form, namely, that of a zigzag consisting of straight lines.

Nasmyth believed the error of the artists originated in the form given to the thunderbolt in the hand of Zeus as sculptured by the ancient Greeks.

Some decades after these remarks were uttered the photography of lightning began to be common, and the photographs all showed that he was right in believing that lightning is never truly zigzag. Its path generally includes many sinuous curves, and it often branches, but a sharp angle is very rarely seen in a photograph, and it is then doubtless an effect of perspective—Charles F. Talman in "Why the Weather."

Mirror Superstition

It is within the experience of almost every one to encounter bad luck within seven years, whether or not one breaks a mirror, spills salt or walks under a ladder. Such beliefs are pure superstition. Brand's Observations on Popular Antiquities says, about the matter: "Mirrors were used by magicians in their diabolical experiments, and in ancient times was practiced a kind of divination by the looking-glass; whence, it should seem, has been derived the present popular notion, according to which the breaking of a looking-glass is accounted a most unlucky accident, being ominous of the loss of his best friend by the person to whom it belongs. Gross gives it as a tokening death in the family circle, economy of the master."

Size of Canada

Canada is the largest over-seas domain, bounded by three oceans. Coastal distance (per Canada Year Book): Pacific coast line, 7,150 miles; Hudson bay coastline, 6,900 miles; Atlantic coast line, 5,900 miles—total, 19,950 miles. Canada's greatest width in the east and west direction approximately 3,500 miles; greatest distance between southerly and known northerly land extremities, approximately 2,870 miles. Canada-United States boundary, 3,867 miles long; 1,737 by land, 2,130 through water. Canada is larger in area than the United States, with Alaska, by 42,912,000 acres.

Jumping to It

Two schoolboys were discussing athletics. "How high can you jump?" asked one. "Just over four feet," exclaimed the other. "What can you do?" "Five feet," his friend replied. "How about the long jump?" "Just about ten feet," said the first. "What can you do?" "Eleven easily," was the reply. "What's your time for the half-mile?" "By now the other was a little out of breath. "Five seconds better than yours," he said.

THRIFT IN SCHOOLS

Time was when children were taught to be thrifty as a matter of necessity. They are still taught that lesson in some homes, but the practice has become so uncommon that the public schools have taken it up as an added responsibility.

School children throughout the nation have established 10,163 savings banks of their own, the treasury department announces, and through deposits of nickels, dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars, have accumulated $25,913,521.15. Nearly three million children are taking advantage of the school saving system.

This is a valuable lesson the school are teaching and they are to be commended for carrying on where the homes left off. It is high cost of education in the light scarcely fair to complain about the cost of what the schools are doing. This is only one of the cases where they have taken up the burden where the homes failed.

LONDON WOMEN SMOKE AT WILL

Practice Shows No One but is Banned Out of Royal Garden Party.

London.—Daughter, mother and grandmother in London smoke cigarettes whenever and wherever they like and no one is shocked. The city has become accustomed to the fact that the weaker sex desires a few puffs of a strong cigarette, so, as they naively put it over here, there you are them.

A few years ago a woman was not allowed to smoke in the padock at Ascot. They do now. Billboards and newspaper advertising in America depicting a lovely girl holding a cigarette of a popular brand brought protests from religious bodies.

Similar advertisements in London attract passers-by and readers. The girl brain-child of the artist is far more beautiful probably than the model who posed for it and certainly more so than the average London girl.

Affects Advertising.

Special dentifrice advertisements are directed at the woman smoker. They emphasize the necessity of a girl avoiding discolored teeth brought about by cigarettes. If she would maintain her popularity and not be shunned by those who knew her when—when her teeth were white.

Other advertisements will point out to milady that the cough which is so irritating isn't caused by London's damp, cool climate but by cigarettes and urge her to change to one immediately that will assure her a cool throat.

Most of London's theaters permit smoking. Therefore it is more unusual to see the mother-in-law there than to see the wife, husband and mother-in-law all enjoying a powerful smoke. One motion picture house sends an usher up and down aisles spraying perfume into the smoked-filled room.

Unlike most of her American sisters, Miss London carries her own cigarettes. She has, it may be said, a most fastidious taste and dislikes the thought of perhaps ruining an evening or a business engagement by using a strange brand her escort for the occasion may be carrying.

Ban at Royal Garden Party.

A royal garden party is now perhaps the only social affair at which no woman will venture to light a cigarette, although newspapers recently on inside pages reported the fact that Queen Mary occasionally indulges in her cigarette.

It was observed that recently a garden party in St. James' palace, and most of them were middle-aged.

IS HERE TO STAY

A professor in one of the large universities of our country has laid down a severe indictment of the automobile. It takes the high school and college student from the home group and makes him an enemy to society, the professor says.

Perhaps the auto is a disturbing element in society, but never forget that it takes two to make a bargain. The auto is a temptation leading to evil ways that some young people can't resist, and it becomes the duty of those who are guiding boys and girls to build up a resistance against it.

Complaining about the bad influence of the automobile does not remove it as a factor to be dealt with in the rearing of children. It is a real problem, the more so because it can't be automatically removed.

The automobile is here to stay. It can't be driven out as the open wagon was, because it has economic and social values that far outweigh the evils that are laid at its door.

Regardless of what may be said regarding the bad habits it is teaching people, young and old alike, the automobile has had a beneficial influence on many homes.

The family car, though it may have flattened the family purse, has broadened the viewpoint and increased the knowledge of countless persons. It has enabled people of small means to get a liberal education through travel. It has taken people into the fresh air, where they have found their first contact with outdoor things. It has changed the courses of many lives by cultivating outdoor habits and an appreciation of nature and all it beautees.

The automobile isn't perfect, of course, since it is only the product of man's genius, but it is not wholly disreputable, though it may be acquiring a bad reputation for leading young people into paths they should not follow.

THE NATURAL WAY

Wide awake retail business men advertise because they want the people of their trade area to know about the goods they have for sale; they want to extend an invitation to people to call and see them.

People read the advertisements because they want to know what and where they can buy to the best advantage, and these facts can be determined only after knowing what the merchants have to offer.

Oldest City in World?

It is generally supposed that Damascus, the chief city of Syria, is the oldest city in the world. Although positive evidence is lacking, there is some reason for believing that its site has been continuously occupied by a city longer than any other spot on the earth.

The Jewish historian Josephus, who probably based his assertion on a Hebrew tradition, attributed the foundation of Damascus to the great-grandson of Noah—Path-rander Magastus.

Songs Quickly Forgotten

E. C. Mills of the National Broadcasting company says the modern popular tune has a life span of 90 days. It is this situation which has given rise to such new methods of distribution as selling phonograph records at the newsstands.
