

Kracker KrumbS

Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

"I'm in trouble!" he says to us one day last week, "and I need help."

k-k

Speaking was Paul Pendleton, general chairman of the third annual Knox County Vegetable Festival, the dates of which are right upon us. It will be June 18-19, you know.

k-k

Those in charge of the barbecue feed on Saturday evening, June 19, decided they'd have to have an old-timey wagon to be converted into a chuck wagon. This would be placed on the Festival grounds and would serve as a ticket office for the sale of barbecue tickets.

k-k

Paul wanted us to mention his need in this column.

k-k

We got to studying about where we'd seen an old wagon, thinking the Earl McNeill place was where it was. We took a sashay down the highway to Earl's place, didn't find what we were looking for, but directly east—where Henry Henson used to live—we located a wagon.

k-k

We rushed back to town to tell Paul of our discovery, but he had continued his virgil after calling for our help—and he found the old "butcher knife" wagon which we have pictured elsewhere in this paper.

k-k

The wagon belongs to Nolan Phillips—and we're led to believe it will become the property of the vegetable festival for future use. It is being renovated into the chuck wagon type by Welton and Lee Roy Leflar, and will have the wagon bows and stuff just like the real McCoy.

k-k

Nolan said by next year, he would likely have a span of horses, and the old wagon can be drawn along the streets of Munday.

k-k

Anyway, the wagon brought back memories for a good many people, including the editor, who has ridden many miles in such a conveyance. Most of us recalled, too, just what a pull a team had when bringing the old narrow rimmed wagon out of the cotton patch when loaded with a bale of cotton.

k-k

And if you haven't experienced a runaway team hitched to a wagon, you've missed a rather exciting event!

k-k

After the wagon hunt was over, we were riding about town and found one wagon—the running gears, minus the bed—and remembered that we'd seen it before. We told Paul about it—and right there got an interesting story.

k-k

The wagon occupies a place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Futch, and it's not for sale, use or hire.

k-k

This is the first Wagon—and probably the first means of conveyance—which Mr. and Mrs. Futch owned just after their marriage. It is kept well painted and in good condition—almost as good as new. It is the predecessor to the butcher knife type, has the wooden wheels but its tires are about three inches wide.

k-k

It's just as much a part of the household as the furniture or kitchen stove, and Mr. and Mrs. Futch wouldn't dream of parting with it.

k-k

Festival plans are beginning to shape up nicely. Advertising boards have been erected at strategic places about town, banners for being strung across the streets were being prepared Monday.

k-k

Thursday, those who are not already doing so, had better start wearing their festival hats—and nearly everybody in and about town are becoming festival minded.

k-k

Heads of the various departments are reporting good progress, and that "bigger and better" idea seems to be prevalent almost everywhere.

k-k

What a lot of people are wondering is—what with later planting than usual—if we are going to have any vegetables for the festival.

k-k

Motorists should use extreme caution at street intersections of Munday. The rank growth of Johnson grass and weeds has caused many "blind" corners traffic hazards.

Potato Harvest Now Under Way

Harvesting of more than 700-acre Irish potato crop in the Munday area got under way on Wednesday of this week, possibly having been delayed a few days because of rains.

The first load of potatoes was processed in Munday on Wednesday morning, coming from the fields of Lonnie Offutt, north of town. He had 13-acres of the white chipping potatoes on which the field crews first started.

They are being processed at the sheds of Munday Vegetable Growers Cooperative, and machinery started operation about 9:30 a.m. Two large vans were ready to receive the first loads.

Jack Colville of Colville and Wilson, Inc., stated Wednesday he would probably get started on Thursday of this week. "Harvesting will be light this week," he said, "but we expect to get into volume harvesting next week."

YOUNGEST AND OLDEST—Cindy Maston, 7 months old, and Mrs. W. W. (Granny) Wilson, 97 years old, don their Vegetable Festival hats here at the beginning of Festival Hat Days in Munday. Cindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Maston.

County To Get F-M Road Work

The Texas Highway Commission today approved the expenditure of $39,000.00 for construction of Farm to Market Road mileage in Knox County as part of the 1965 FM Road Program, announced District Engineer V. J. McGee of Childress.

The District Engineer said 2.2 miles in this county will be involved. The work will cover the extension of F. M. Road 1292 from its end, West and South to F. M. Road 143 and will be under the supervision of Mr. George R. Wall, Senior Resident Engineer, Munday.

Work authorized for this county is part of a 911.2 mile statewide farm-to-market road-building program for 1965 as approved today by the Texas Highway Commission. The program will include 207 individual projects in 153 counties to cost an estimated $23.5 million.

The action brings the total designated FM system to 37,779 miles, of which 35,026 had been built by April 30. Another 773 miles were under construction on that date.

HERE COMES SUMMER

Summer is on its way, and it won't be long until it's here. For those interested in exactness, it will make its official appearance at 9:56 A.M., Eastern Standard Time, June 21.

It's the season of vacations and fun. Almost everyone welcomes and eagerly awaits it. But, every year, that fun is brutally, bloodily and instantly ended for great numbers of people—because of careless, thoughtless and overenthusiastic practices.

The dangers are varied—but they all can be averted. For instance:

Highway driving will be at its height, and congestion will be common. Adjust and adapt your driving habits accordingly.

Sunbathing is a happy and somnolent pleasure. But too much exposure can make your vacation a time of pain—and even put you in the hospital. Take the sun in moderate doses, particularly at the beginning.

Swimming is summer's classic exercise. Tragically, drownings run well into the thousands each season. Swimming alone, overestimation of ability and endurance, diving into unknown waters are some of the potentially lethal practices responsible.

The boating boom has reached enormous proportions. Improper boat handling, overloading, failure to have the proper safety equipment aboard, a lack of knowledge of the rules of the road—such needless hostages to fortune as these take a heavy toll of health and life.

So—have fun this summer. But know what you're doing and do it the right way. That is the safe way!

U. S. BEEF IN EUROPE

For almost a year, the American Meat Institute and the Department of Agriculture have been working together on a program designed to increase our exports of beef and other meat and livestock products to Western Europe and the United Kingdom. In this, the AMI has been representing the entire meat and livestock industry.

Now the Institute's board of directors has voted to extend the program for a year after the expiration of the current phase on June 30. The reason is that, despite the problems involved, results to date have been encouraging and the future looks bright.

The figures indicate the progress made. U. S. exports of beef and veal had increased to 57,245,000 pounds in 1964 as compared with only 27,318,000 pounds in 1963. Variety meat exports also showed a very substantial advance. The hope is that these trends can be not only continued but accelerated. In the words of an Institute spokesman, "trade between the United States and Western Europe can develop only to the extent that it is of benefit to both our country and those of Western Europe. We are extremely hopeful that obstacles such as price differentials, ocean freight rates and national restrictions can be overcome."

Among other favorable factors, growing affluence in Western Europe is expected to increase demand for beef, including the high quality beef produced in the United States. The marketing program promises major benefits to all concerned. May it have the success it deserves.

From the Albany, Oregon, Democrat-Herald: "We want the state to help cut our taxes but at the same time yell to high heaven if the state does so by curtailing state services, which it certainly must. Taxpayers must realize that the dream of getting something for nothing is just that."

REPORTS ON PESTICIDES

Several years ago, largely due to a best selling book, there was a wave of fear that the use of pesticides was poisoning our food supply and destroying wildlife.

Now the Food and Drug Administration, after a thorough investigation, has reported that pesticide residues found in foods are "insignificant from a health standpoint." Further: "Pesticide levels found in the test samples were generally less than 1 per cent of the safe legal tolerance."

A House Committee has also reported on the matter. It finds that "only 0.4 per cent of the acreage available to wildlife has been treated" with chemicals, and adds that "Deer and other wildlife are more plentiful than before the advent of modern pesticides."

Chemicals, when misused, can present serious dangers, but the manufacturers have gone to every length to instruct in their safe and proper use. It seems evident, from these reports, that the farmers are scrupulously following the right rules.

U. S. farmers would not be able to produce the bounteous crops they do if it were not for modern pesticides and chemical fertilizers. Their proper use will become constantly more important as population increases and farm acreage diminishes due to encroachment of cities, highways, airports, parks, golf courses, etc., over the tillable land.

Medicine At Work, a publication of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, says: "What is the rationale in using a system set up for retirement to provide medical assistance? What is the logic in socializing medical care when health insurance programs can function so effectively and are expanding every day; in fact, already covering most of our citizens. Why, then, remove health care from the private sector when the private sector is doing such a fine job? If private initiative disappears there may never be enough time to repair the damage that will ensue."

David Lawrence writes in the New York Herald Tribune: "As far back as the days of Adam Smith—who two centuries ago wrote The Wealth of Nations—government after government has come a cropper because faith in monetary unit has dwindled and its purchasing power has been seriously diminished. Inflation usually has ensued as prices and wages have risen. If this affected everybody in a community at the same time, the transition would not be so painful. But when prices go up faster than individual income, the net result is a cessation of demand and a 'recession' or 'depression'."

A short time ago, American drug manufacturers moved to fight a health disaster in Somalia, resulting from months of famine and drought. Fourteen drug firms donated $126,604 worth of antibiotics, sulfas and other products in response to an appeal from the American Red Cross. A previous Somali request sent to communist countries, notably Red China, reportedly yielded only scant supplies of medicines.

Last year the taxpaying investor-owned electric utilities spent approximately $3.6 billion for construction of new facilities and improvement of existing facilities. This brought U. S. generating capability to the record figure of 239.3 million kilowatts.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

There are no plants, shrubs or trees on the moon, as far as we know today.

On planet Earth, however, vegetation helps sustain life. But some plants, trees or shrubs are potential killers of man.

Some part of the ornamental plants or flowers in your yard may contain deadly poison. Many poisonous plants are so common and seemingly innocuous you don't suspect their toxic qualities.

Who would suspect that the beautiful oleander bush, grown indoors and outdoors all over the country, contains a deadly heart stimulant, similar to the drug digitalis? So powerful is this poison that a single leaf of an oleander can kill a child. Many people have died merely from eating steaks speared on oleander twigs and roasted over a fire.

The pretty mountain laurel plant was used by the Delaware Indians to make a suicide potion. The popular Christmas flower—the poinsettia—is full of an acrid, burning juice, so lethal that a child who consumes one leaf of the plant might die. The berries of mistletoe proved deadly to adults who brewed what they thought was a "medicinal tea."

It's easy to be deceived by plants. One part may be edible while another is poisonous. For example, twigs of cherry trees release cyanide when eaten. Peach tree leaves contain hydrocyanic acid, one of the most dangerous poisons known.

Even two of our most popular vegetables, the potato and tomato, come from plants related to the deadly nightshade. Although fresh tomato fruits and potato tubers are harmless, the foliage and vines of both plants contain alkaloid poisons capable of causing digestive upset and nervous disorder.

Most dangerous in your vegetable garden is rhubarb. Its stalk, commonly used in baking and cooking, is not toxic. The leaf blade, however, contains oxalic acid which crystallizes in the kidneys, causing severe damage.

Also beware of laurels, azaleas, water hemlocks and buttercups because of their poison content. Both foliage and acorns from oak trees can be deadly, as are twigs and foliage from wild and cultivated cherries.

Remember . . . just because it is a plant doesn't mean that it is safe. Treat unknown plants with respect, and teach your children to do the same.

Mrs. Jane Hebison of Cross Roads, N. M., has been staying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hill, during the past two weeks.

CARD OF THANKS
We are grateful to our Monday and Goree friends for their concern and kindnesses shown us during our recent stay in the hospital. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered and appreciated. May God bless.

L. B. Patterson Originates Idea Of Vegetable Festival; Called Its Father

June 18-19 are "Red Letter" days in this rich horticultural region. The Knox County Vegetable Festival heralds the opening of the marketing season for all kinds of fruit and vegetables for which Munday and the Knox Prairie area are famous.

No small amount of credit for the birth and development of the festival goes to an interested man who has spent 40 years in Knox County and who envisioned what a show of the products of the county could accomplish.

L. B. Patterson honored last year as the "Father of the Knox County Vegetable Festival" is a man with vision and determination to meet the growing gap between the grower and the consumer of agricultural products. Mr. Pat, as he is known to the townspeople compared a year when Knox County farmers were hard hit by the boll weevil to 1922 in Comanche County. He recalled that he and his family were forced to leave DeLeon because he was wiped out by the infestation of his cotton fields.

In a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Patterson recalled that Comanche County held its first Watermelon and Peach festival as a result of the devastating loss of a cotton crop, and that now the Festival had grown to a three day affair that has changed the whole economic face of the area.

Five years ago Knox County cotton growers lost more than one and one half million dollars to the cotton weevil, and last year more than one third of a million dollars in potatoes alone came back into the economy of the county when growers were able to ship that many potatoes out of the county.

Vegetables marketed all over the United States from Knox County include canteloupes, cucumbers, onions, and carrots, as well as blackeyed peas, potatoes and green beans. Munday has chartered a plant to be constructed known as MunTex Corp., for the storing and processing of these fresh vegetables.

Through the influence of Mr. Patterson, the members of the Chamber of Commerce, and its hard working Manager Mrs. Don Combs (Callie Ann) the two day show to be held June 18-19 brought into the town last year more than three and one half times its population.

Mr. and Mrs. Moulton Wiggins returned last Saturday from a two weeks vacation to the East Coast.

On the 25th they flew from Washington to Kennedy Air Port in New York to be there when their youngest son, Capt. Roy D. Bouldin and family landed via TWA from Frankfurt, Germany, after being in Berlin for three years service with the USAF.

A few days were spent in New York visiting the World's Fair, the United Nations Building, and one of the high-lights was the sightseeing cruise around Manhattan Island compliments of the Chase Manhattan Bank in N. Y.

After landing in New York, Capt. Bouldin purchased a new car and they all came back by car over the beautiful Blue Ridge scenic drive connecting Shenandoah National Park in Virginia with the beautiful Smokies in North Carolina and Tennessee.

What to do until an emergency happens

Emergencies have practically no sense of fair play. And almost always pick the worst possible time to happen.

People seem to prefer the day your insurance lapses to trip on your sidewalk, for example.

And the car usually waits until your bank account registers empty before demanding expensive repairs.

There's no fighting it. But you can be ready. By tucking away some reserve funds in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds, themselves, are emergency proof. You can't lose the money you invest in them, even if fire, flood, robbers or plain carelessness causes you to lose the Bonds.

And when something expensive happens, you can just take them in to any bank and get yourself solvent again.

In the meantime, Uncle Sam uses your Bond dollars to handle other urgent matters, like taking care of your freedom.

Buy Bonds where you bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Get yourself really prepared and you might even discourage a few emergencies from ever happening.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Tells Big City Mayors Not To Expect Too Much From New Secretary Of Cities

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek has some advice for big cities this week.

Dear editor:
As I understand it, the mayors of over 300 big cities in the United States are trying to get a new department set up in Washington with full cabinet standing to represent the metropolitan areas and their troubles.

It would be, I understand, a sort of Department of Cities, similar to the Secretary of Agriculture.

The mayors argue that agriculture has had cabinet recognition for years, why not cities? Well now there's nothing wrong with the argument, so long as the big city mayors understand the new department won't necessarily eliminate their problems.

What I mean is, take agriculture. Sure, we need a Department of Agriculture, don't know how we'd get along without one, but the city mayors ought to be reminded that in the 100 years we've had one the percentage of farmers has dropped from 70 per cent of the population to 10 per cent. Right now, the farmer and rancher's share of the national income is the lowest of any other group, outside maybe blacksmiths and lightning rod salesmen. And without a Department of Agriculture, no telling where we'd be today. Probably completely out of sight.

Therefore, I'd suggest to these big city mayors that they not go into this new program feeling that if they can just get a Secretary of Cities in the cabinet, their problems will end.

What I mean is, I've tried for years to get the Secretary of Agriculture to do something about the weeds on this Johnson grass farm, the run-down fences, the leaky roof, etc., but from the looks of things, we might as well not even have a Department of Agriculture. If the cities can

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Short Cut to Justice

A car, parked on a slope with the brakes off, rolls downhill and smashes into B's car. To collect damages in court, does B have to prove the law of gravity?

Of course not. If a person had to prove every single fact in his case, lawsuits would last forever and a day. As a short cut to justice, the law allows a court to "take judicial notice" of the obvious. That is, a court may take some facts for granted even if they are not proved in the usual manner.

But which facts are so obvious as not to need proof? What do we know for sure?

The range of judicial notice is enormous. It includes not only basic scientific laws like gravity but also the habits of animals (that mules will kick), the events of history (that the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941), and the essentials of geography (that Missouri is east of the Rockies).

In appropriate cases, courts also have taken judicial notice that telephones are popular, that "OK" means approval, and that women patients don't wear fur coats in the dentist's chair.

True, there are pitfalls. For one thing, what was sure yesterday may be quite opposite today.

For example, a modern court would scarcely take judicial notice—as earlier courts have—that most businessmen wear watches in their vests, that ping pong is too hard a game for children, and that beans are baked at home in almost every New England household.

Furthermore, especially in matters of science, it is hard to tell just when a theory becomes certain enough to justify notice. Thus, it is only within the past few years that courts generally have begun to take judicial notice of the principles of radar.

But by and large, the use of this time-saving device is expanding. This is partly because knowledge itself is expanding, and partly because judicial notice is so clearly based on common sense. As one judge put it: "There is no reason courts should pretend to be more ignorant than the rest of mankind." (A public service of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.)

Early Harvest And Stalk Destruction

The following recommendations concern practices which will reduce the overwintered weevil population. If all farmers in a weevil infested area follow these steps the overwintered weevil population can be greatly reduced.

1. Desiccate or defoliate the crop as soon as the cotton has reached the proper stage.
2. Add a phosphate insecticide such as Guthion or methyl parathion to the desiccant or defoliant. (Do not add phosphate insecticides to chlorate defoliant and/or desiccants.)
3. Harvest cotton as soon as possible.
4. Destroy stalks immediately after harvest to prevent regrowth.

When cotton is desiccated, the boll weevil's food supply is destroyed. The addition of an insecticide to the harvest-aid chemical provides a quick kill, preventing weevil movement from the desiccated field into other fields.

Stalk destruction immediately after harvest will prevent the cotton from regrowing and supplying food for weevils. These practices force the boll weevil into starvation before time to enter winter quarters, prevent late season buildup of weevils and bollworms, and reduce the overwintering populations.
