

Kracker Krumb's Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

Children and grownups, too, become attached to a dog.

Unless they're pure-dee homeless mongrels, dogs are of value to some people, no matter how worthless they may seem to us.

Many a child has whiled away countless hours playing with a dog with both dog and child being as happy as can be.

Occasionally we read of a dog saving a person's life, of a dog that just pines away when his master or mistress goes away, or passes away leaving the animal without human companionship.

Not long ago, we read of a dog that became attached to an old car. He almost starved to death when the old car was traded off, but was finally reunited with his auto and was a "happy pup" when his picture appeared in the papers recently.

We've read of dogs that stood vigil over the lifeless body of a child—maybe struck down by an auto—and refused to leave when help arrived.

We've read of dogs that pulled children out of water when they were drowning.

We've read of dogs that awakened the families when their home was burning in the wee hours of the night. These animals were credited with saving the lives of all the family.

We've known dogs that would at a single command from their master, go to the far corner of the pasture and bring in the horses or cows.

We've seen dogs that would attack a person if they thought that person was doing harm to a child or some person he loved.

Those who visited the fat stock show in Fort Worth recently saw a small dog pen a bunch of sheep, then move them from one pen to another on orders from his master.

Wonder what that master would have done if someone had pitched that dog some poisoned food as the animal was leaving the arena to the applause of thousands of spectators.

We've seen good dogs and mean dogs. We've seen dogs that provided us more peace of mind when dead than when alive.

Walking home at night past a home where a mean dog stays requires a lot of courage when we were a kid, and just about as much courage after we'd grown up.

But a majority of the dogs nowadays, especially those kept by families of a small town like Munday, are good dogs, harmless dogs.

Dogs are faithful creatures, trusting animals loyal to those who provide them sustenance.

You may scold them, whip them, beat them; yet will they whimper at your feet, look at you through trusting eyes that seem to tell you of loyalty at heart.

A few weeks ago we saw a dog and cat trick that we'd never seen before. "Get the fleas," the master of a tiny dog said in our presence.

Immediately the dog pounced upon the cat and began to "nibble" after the fleas, while the cat lay contentedly on the floor.

No more will that dog perform the trick. She fell victim of some heartless person. She died in thumping, jerking quivering agony. Poison had taken her life.

Several other dogs in the same section of our town met with the same fate. Several children are experiencing a sorrow akin to no other type of sorrow in the loss of their faithful dogs.

The owner of the dogs said: "They didn't give us the chance (Continued on Last Page)

Funeral For Mrs. Felix Propps Held On Sunday

A great pioneer character, a mother who was one of the oldest settlers in Knox County, was called to her reward last Saturday when Mrs. Felix H. Propps of Gilliland passed away at a Seymour hospital. Mrs. Propps was taken to the hospital only a few hours earlier for treatment for another ailment, then was stricken by a cerebral hemorrhage and passed away within a short time. Her death came as a distinct shock to many friends in Knox and Baylor counties.

Mary Burton Ford was born in Winston County, Miss., on December 24, 1868 and was 81 years 2 months and 15 days of age at the time of her death. She came to this section in 1883, being among the first settlers in Knox County. She was a member of a pioneer family who were among the organizers of Knox county.

Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Propps remained active until her sudden illness Saturday. Her husband continues to work his farm in the Gilliland community.

She was married to Felix H. Propps at Vera on May 1, 1890, and the couple had begun making plans for celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Propps joined the Methodist Church on August 23, 1946, and she often remarked that she was the oldest person to join the Vera church. Her Christian character had great influence in her community before she united with the church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Orville D. Propps of Benjamin; a daughter, Mrs. W. R. Moore of Munday; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Black of Independence, Oregon, and Mrs. Frank Glover of Benjamin; a brother, E. P. Ford of Woodward, Okla., five grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held from the family residence, east of Gilliland, at three o'clock last Sunday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. Lyles pastor of the Vera Church, who was assisted by Rev. R. L. Butler of Munday and Rev. Digby of Benjamin. Burial was in the Gilliland cemetery by the Mahan Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Arthur Horn, Eston New, Omar Cure, Charles Meek, Charles Grove, Sam Stone and Buel Gibson.

$22,282,000 Dam Is Proposed For Haskell Area

The Bureau of Reclamation has offered to construct a $22,282,000 domestic water project that would supply the needs of the 30 member communities of the Bob Baskin Dam Association for 50 years.

The association executive committee, mayors, or other representatives of most of the towns in the group met in Knox City Monday with Harry Burleigh, bureau planning engineer, and Henry Seipt, his assistant, to hear the proposal outlined.

Burleigh said the facility would be located on California Creek, approximately 13 miles southeast of Haskell, if any of the member communities favored the project. He said all or any number of the communities could be served by pipeline from the reservoir.

Cost Would Vary Cost of the project would be met by assessment for water delivered. This would vary with the distance of the community from the source. Municipalities would be responsible for installing filter or other processing plants.

If each community was served on an equal rate basis, the water would cost 29 cents per 1,000 gallons, according to estimates of the bureau, Burleigh told the group. As a comparison, Haskell users now pay 15 cents per 1,000 gallons but existing supplies there are of doubtful quantity.

Seipt told delegates the site on California Creek was selected after a three-week study made there, and elimination of four other possible locations, including the original proposal on the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos River near Rule.

Ralph Duncan, secretary of the Baskin association, said, "It is intended and assumed that the domestic water project near Haskell would be named Baskin Dam," in honor of Bob Baskin, Seymour banker and long-time advocate of West Texas water conservation, who died in 1942.

1. Completion of our portion of the Throckmorton road, giving the farmers of that area an all-weather outlet.
2. A farm-to-market road to the north and east of Munday, possibly connecting with the Hefner road.
3. A U. S. Federal building. Munday needs a new post office home.
4. More homes in Munday. We did a good job in 1949, but there's still a housing shortage.
5. A new telephone system, giving the town adequate telephone service and tapping the rural area surrounding the town.

HEAT YOUR HOME SAFELY

Alarmed by the number of deaths and injuries in fires caused by portable oil heaters, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has reissued its bulletin on the use of these devices. Inasmuch as the heaters are used during a large part of the year, aside from the coldest season, every owner of one should understand how to operate it with maximum safety.

First of all, only heaters which have been approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories should be used. It is important that they be kept level, and free of dirt. Only the specified kind of oil should be employed. Heaters should never be carried while lighted, and should always be filled outside the building.

There are five primary causes of portable heater fires. Soot accumulations may result in a flash fire resembling an explosion. Hot kerosene vapors can ignite from spillage. Curtains and upholstery can be fired by heaters being placed too close to them. Upsetting a lighted heater creates a great fire hazard. Finally, in a tightly closed room, a heater may exhaust the oxygen, and cause death by asphyxiation or by the release of deadly carbon monoxide gas. A good oxygen supply is absolutely essential to safe operation.

In recent months there has been an epidemic of heater tragedies, many accompanied by death. In practically every case, some principle of safety was not known or was carelessly disregarded. The National Board's factual advice can save life and property—and keep a handy device from turning into a lethal weapon.

Highlights from Austin

(By Senator George Moffett)

CHILLICOTHE, Texas—About two months ago New York City suffered such a severe water shortage that its residents had to go without bathing and shaving on certain days of the week to conserve the city's water supply for drinking purposes.

Texas, too, has many water problems. In El Paso where the rainfall is only eight inches per year, the water supply is so limited that further growth of the city is definitely restricted unless a new source of suitable water can be found that will take care of any increase in population.

In East Texas along the Sabine River where the rainfall is over forty-eight inches per year the problem is usually one of flood prevention. A variety of problems occur in between the areas just mentioned. Some West Texas towns have only recently discovered that they are in the same situation as El Paso which is: Unless we can provide an additional dependable water supply suitable for both household and industrial use, they can not reasonably expect any further growth in their population. At least one industrial plant that required a million gallons of soft water daily has had to locate in another state because there was no city in Texas able to furnish the required water supply in conjunction with the other requirements of this industrial plant.

The regular session of the 51st Legislature took note of the seriousness of the water problems in our state and authorized the creation of the Texas Water Code Committee, composed of twelve members (chosen equally from the two branches of the Legislature) and nine additional members who are prominent citizens of Texas.

This twenty-one member committee was instructed to hold hearings in all parts of the state in order that the variety and seriousness of this state's water problems could be carefully analyzed and suitable recommendations made as to any changes that might be needed in the state's water code. The extent dence of VD requires the full support of all the public."

The veteran of more than 13 years as State Health Officer said his department was continuing an "intensified" campaign against venereal infections through "all media of mass education — newspapers, radio, feature releases, and talks to luncheon clubs and civic organizations."

"We've even gone into television to carry our VD warning to the people," Cox asserted. He said his division of public health education had recently produced a color film and a motion picture trailer which were available for loan to television stations through local health agencies.

He said any organization desiring information pamphlets, posters, and prepared speeches on the subject of venereal diseases could get them by writing to the State Department of Health in Austin.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
 M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—The more than 2,000 cases of syphilis and 3,000 cases of gonorrhea reported throughout the State since the first of the year signifies the pressing need for continuing public education in matters of venereal disease, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox believes.

Cox appealed for state-wide participation in making "Better Health for Texans" a year long program. A "Better Health for Texans week" was officially designated by Governor Allen Shivers last December.

Cox said the response of the public, the press, radio, motion picture theatres, television and "other agencies and individuals during the campaign was excellent.

"But," he said, "the continued success in reducing the inci-of the committee's recommendations was limited to surface waters and flowing streams.

Hearings have already been held in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and the El Paso area. The Committee will come to Wichita Falls on Tuesday, March 21, and has suggested that all public officials and other interested persons in the surrounding area be invited to appear and make statements as to needed changes in our surface water laws. If you plan to appear, and will notify me at Chillicothe, Texas, I will personally take pleasure in presenting you to the committee.

Long Range Child Clinic Being Planned By Residents Of Benjamin

This West Texas town of Benjamin has turned to the development of its No. 1 recourse—Benjamin's boys and girls. Dads and mothers have voted unanimously to make permanent a local organization that has been formed to help tackle the job; the Benjamin School and Home Behavior Clinic.

The so-called clinic, a grouping of school and other leaders into an organization that can direct community efforts for child welfare programs, is unique among Texas towns, as far as is shown here. It was created, recently, because Benjamin parents and their neighbors in this surrounding Knox County farming and ranching country, are no different from all American parents; their keenest desire is that their children grow up happy and useful citizens, emotionally well adjusted. Benjamin's parents know as everybody who can read knows that sadly often it doesn't plan out that way.

They know about Texas' and the nation's rising tide of maladjusted men, women and children in hospitals and correctional institutions.

"Our kids in Benjamin are not bad—let's keep them that way," School Superintendent J. R. Steedman, one of the leaders in setting up the Benjamin plan, summarizes it in discussing the program's start.

Figures, brought out in the public meeting that launched the School and Home Behavior Clinic as a community institution, bear out the superintendent's assertion that Benjamin has had no juvenile delinquency crisis to arouse it.

Only eight juvenile delinquents are listed in Austin records of correctional institutions, from all Knox County in the past 10 years. That's what this week's audience attending the first public program of the behavior clinic here was told by S. L. Bellamy of Austin, representative of the Texas Youth Development Council.

"But," he warned, "we know that the few who were sentenced to institutions does not tell at all the whole story of youngsters' problems. We know there must have been many others during those 10 years who had troubles."

Well, how can a community get together for the task of raising children better, raising boys and girls to live lives adjusted to their own needs and the needs of society?

If that's the problem before home and society today, this town of about 750 persons felt it was about time somebody started doing something about it. And felt plenty big to lead off.

The granddaddy of the Benjamin plan was Ed Bateman, Sr., a rancher who has a keen and deep interest in children because he is a grandfather. Bateman's ranch home is 22 miles west of here, in adjoining King County, but his three grandchildren are students in the school here.

So he came to Superintendent Steedman with his idea.

Why not organize a group of interested officials and clubs into a new community set-up, an organization to take up the specific responsibility of educating Benjamin on its children's needs and promoting town programs to help girls and boys?

Steedman thought the proposal was tops.

The plan was developed further in conference with School Board President W. T. Ward, who also is a local ranchman; Mrs. Ward, president of the Benjamin P-T-A, and Mrs. Steedman, who heads the Benjamin Home Demonstration Club.

And Knox County officials including District Judge Lewis Williams, Sheriff Homer T. Melton and D. C. Elland of Munday, county health officer, lent a ready hand to help get the ball to rolling.

How to start it? A community-wide public meeting was an obvious initiating move. Bring the parents in, for a session to explain the plan and to enlist their support.

Some of Benjamin's youngsters' actual day-to-day problems needed to be discussed, and here Bateman and Steedman had a new thought. How about going all over Texas to locate men who were intimately acquainted with young folks, whose daily work made them authorities on kids' problems nowadays.

The training of boys and girls to live successfully in 1950 society needs to be far different, in many ways, from parents' guidance a decade or two ago, those in charge of the Benjamin plan realize.

"You can have a horse and buggy mind and drive one of today's rocket-fast automobiles," Superintendent Steedman puts it in.

So the public meeting, the first open meeting of the Benjamin School and Home Behavior Clinic, was scheduled. It was held in the district courtroom at the Knox County courthouse here, and its list of speakers was impressive.

Bellamy came from Austin, talked on "Early Training to Prevent Delinquency," and told about the Youth Development Council's program to help communities help their children. Also from Austin came Inspector C. G. Conner of the Department of Public Safety's traffic division to discuss "Preserving Life by Observing Law" and to urge that a modern driver education program can cut the grim toll of traffic death and crippling.

From Fort Worth came District Judge Dave McGee, veteran Tarrant County jurist, to speak on "The Responsibilities of Freedom and Citizenship."

And Knox County's health officer, Dr. D. C. Elland, was here, taking time in the midst of a "flu" epidemic to discuss with parents medical and emotional needs of their children in a talk titled "Physiology and Health in School Life."

The courtroom was crowded. The audience, estimated at over 300, came not only from Benjamin but from nearby Munday, Knox City, Haskell, and Seymour and from a dozen smaller places in a four-county area. They ranged from young folks up to elderly folks. There were parents with babies too young to leave at home. All of them were attentive and still, and listening to catch every word. All of them thinking about children.

It was at that meeting the people here voted to make the behavior clinic a permanent Benjamin institution.

It was at that meetin, too, that the first long-time project under the Benjamin plan was announced. Bateman and Mrs. Bateman disclosed, through a letter that was read to the audience by Superintendent Steedman, they are setting up as memorials to their mothers, Mrs. Winnie Terry Gill and Mrs. Mary Birch Bateman, annual wards to Benjamin boys and girls who typify the clinic's ideals. On the basis of the children's lives and behavior at home, at school, in the community and on the highways, on the basis of their social conduct and respect for others, they will be selected by the school faculty each year. The awards will consist of $150 and a silver shield to each recipient.

From that first meeting, too, came the first suggestion for a public project that might be considered for the clinic's endorsement and support. The suggestion was made, during the talk, by the county health officer.

"Time on their hands," he termed one of the major problems of school-age boys and girls, and one of the things that most needs community guidance. And the physician, who had urged that "developing in children a feeling of security" is the problem of the parent, school and town nowadays, said flatly:

"A youth recreational center is the Number One thing Knox County needs now."

If such a recreation center develops the School and Home Behavior Clinic may be the institution that accomplishes it.

Remember the Benjamin plan. It is very likely you'll hear more of it. In this western town so lately-came from the pioneer period, Benjamin is again pioneering what may become a mighty big thing indeed.—Wichita Falls Daily Times.

Sunray Tomato Is Recommended Here

The new Sunray tomato is suggested to home gardeners who want a wilt-resistant yellow variety suited to salad, juice, preserves, cooking or canning. The Sunray was developed at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Station, and a number of commercial firms are offering the seed in their catalogs this year.

Sunray has high resistance to fusarium wilt which has taken such a toll of tomatoes grown in wilt-infested soil. Otherwise it is much like the familiar Jubilee variety. It has a rich golden-orange color and gives an attractive orange-color juice. Like other yellow tomatoes Sunray is mild in flavor—a characteristic many people like and of special advantage in making tomato preserves. Sunray tomatoes have relatively few seeds, rather firm flesh, are medium in size and have the typical tomato shape—a slightly flat sphere.

Sunray can be grown in any part of the United States where tomatoes are grown.

The Department of Agriculture has no seed to sell or distribute. Sunray seed was turned over to commercial growers last year.

WHITE TOUCH SEEN IN SPRING FASHIONS

The white touch is the badge of the young in heart this spring the fashion experts report.

White pique and white organdie are used for collars, cuffs, bibs, and yokes on every type of dress, sometimes with eyelet or embroidery. Many of the youthful fashions have additional white accents with large pearl buttons and crochet lace edging.

The perennially popular white cotton shortie gloves add the finishing white touch to spring fashions.

4-H Girls Learn To Make Clothing

With one eye on spring and the other on their pocketbooks, Texas 4-H Club girls are off to a good start in the 1950 National 4-H Clothing Achievement program. Last year more than 7,900 girls throughout the state took part in the activity.

Interest in the program is always keen because every young lady—whether she's 10 or 20—likes pretty clothes. Local club leaders and Extension agents teach the girls to select attractive patterns, buy good fabrics, and plan a practical wardrobe. Hats, bags and other accessories are designed, too, at a considerable savings.

Evidence that 4H'ers do acquire a working knowledge and skill in dressmaking is the fact that in 1949 more than two million garments were made by some 591,000 club members. Another important phase of the clothing program is learning how to remodel out-of-date dresses and coats. Many daughters stretch the family budget by making over apparel for younger brothers and sisters.

In addition to these accomplishments, members have a chance to earn recognition for outstanding achievements in clothing work. The Spool Cotton Company, sponsor of the program, provides scholarship awards of $300 each to the 12 top ranking girls in the nation; an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for State champion; and gold medals for county winners.

The 1949 state award went to Dorothy Mae Kastner, of Mc. Dade. County medals were presented to 42 girls.

The program is conducted under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The reduction of acreages planted to cotton emphasizes the need for using practices and methods of production that will lead to greater per acre yields, lower production costs and wise use of the diverted acres.

More than one million four hundred thousand fruit trees of all types were planted in home orchards in Texas during 1949.

during the winter months. A major cause—home heating equipment is operating at capacity or above and careless handling of this equipment increases the chances for fire.

The highest reported wheat in yield ever made in Texas was made by John Paetzold of Deaf Smith county—92.5 bushels per acre.

- Because cultivator gangs are mounted just behind the front pedestal where it is easier to see and to dodge out-of-line plants.

MM Universal tractors and famous Quick-On—Quick-Off cultivators are a combination hard to equal for getting work done fast and efficiently. This is especially true since new Uni-Matic Power gives added smooth, positive control. The gangs of MM cultivators enter, stay, and leave the ground in level position because of the parallel link tie-up to the main tool bar. Gauge wheels assure even ground penetration by the outer gangs no matter how uneven the field.

FARM NEWS

From the County PMA Committee

BALANCING SOIL FERTILITY COUNTS

Soil fertility accounts, unlike bank accounts, don't have entries that can be easily read but farmers in many parts of the country suspect that their soil fertility accounts no longer have the comfortable balances they once had. The suspicion is borne out by figures recently compiled by scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, made more deposits in their soil fertility accounts than ever before through the application of commercial fertilizers. Therefore, says B. F. Vance, chairman of the Texas Production and Marketing Committee, if they are ever to balance their fertility accounts, they should come close to doing it now.

The figures show that in the year 1947 some states more than maintained a good balance—putting in more than they are taking out. In other states, however, the reverse is true.

For the country as a whole only about 59 percent of the nitrogen taken out of the soil account was redeposited by fertilizer applications and only 65 percent of the potash. However, 142 percent of the phosphate that was withdrawn from the soil accounts was put back in fertilizers and manures.

Here in the state of Texas about 10 percent of the withdrawals of nitrogen were redeposited—45 of the potash—and 9 of the phosphate.

These fertility accounts are made up, the chairman explains, by charging against each State the amount of nitrogen, phosphate and potash removed by 100 different crops in 1947. Then the account was credited with the amounts of the three elements applied as fertilizers and manures.

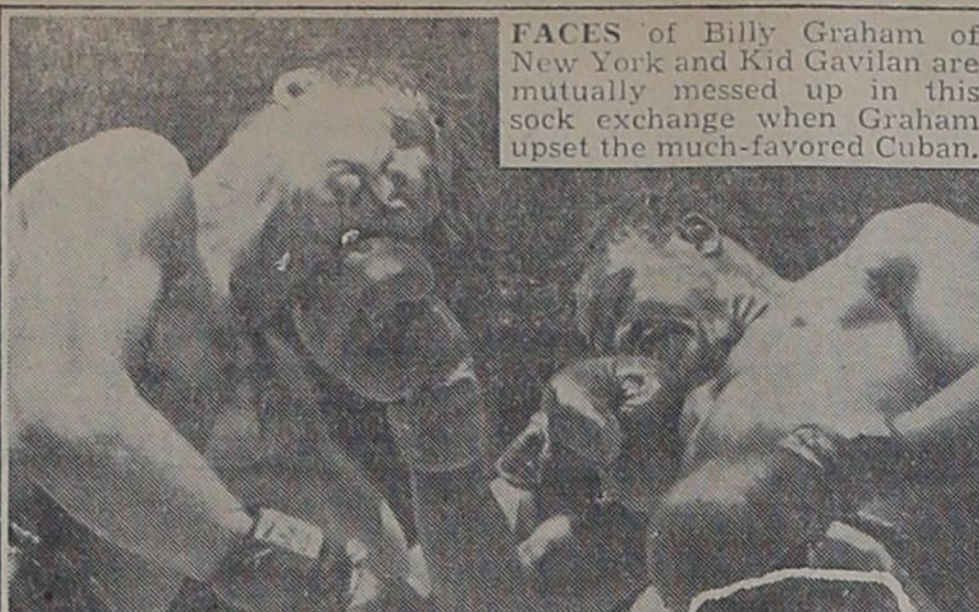

INSECT PESTS MAY CAUSE FARMERS TROUBLE IN 1950

Grasshoppers, boll weevils, and European corn borers, may cause U. S. farmers serious trouble in 1950, entomologists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today in Washington. Weather conditions prevailing through the winter have been favorable to the insects in many areas and the three named may develop into outbreak status this summer.

Huge numbers of grasshopper eggs were found in many places during surveys made last fall by entomologists of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. Just how serious grasshopper outbreaks will be in 1950 now depends primarily on weather conditions at hatching time, and the availability of green food for the tiny hoppers as they leave the egg beds.

Greatest threats of grasshoppers appear in Montana, North Dakota, and Wyoming. But farmers from Texas to Canada and west to California may be forced to fight hoppers in many places. Boll weevils went into hibernation in great numbers last fall. The mild winter enabled many of them to overwinter successfully, and probably they will enter 1950 cotton fields in record numbers. More than 470 million dollars were lost by cotton farmers to the boll weevil and other pests in 1949, according to estimates of the National Cotton Council. The pests could cost even more this summer if weather conditions remain favorable for their development and the farmers fail to put up an adequate fight against them.

More European corn borers are overwintering now in the fields of the corn belt than ever before. Last year, this insect caused crop losses estimated at 350 million dollars. The pest will do even more damage in 1950 if weather is favorable to the borers at egg-laying and hatching time.

much to think about along those lines, for Dame Fashion has cooked up a wonderful array of smart new cottons for the 1950 fashion parade.

Sure to catch the eyes of the fashion-wise femmes who like something different and distinctive is a two-piece dress of printed black and white crinkled or-gandy. It is designed by Clifford of del Mar. The tuck-in, sleeveless blouse is tucked in a chevron design across the front. The skirt is a wide billow, with the small waist drawn in by a cherry red velvet belt.

will prove ideal throughout the spring and summer is designed by Lil' Alice of California. It is made in vivid shades of cotton seersucker with a skirt that slenderizes the hips. A button-up top with a pert, flared peplum has a double yoke and is trimmed with white rickrack at the neckline and on the peplum. This frock is as easy to wash as it is to wear.

Wrinkle-resistant cottons will spring and summer, and there will be plenty of these crease-resistant fabrics around to choose from this season. A two-piece jacket dress by California Smartys is typical of the new wrinkle-proof, textured cottons. In soft summer colors of arbutus pink, birch gray and bud aqua, the fabric has extra spot and soil resistance and is as washable as ordinary cottons.

To start the spring off right, lightweight corduroy suit is just the thing, and designer Chee Armstrong has concocted the perfect young fashion for those just-before summer days. The slim, straight-as-a-reed skirt is created in sold blue corduroy while the boxy, dashing jacket is of printed check. It ties with a big pussy-cat bow of solid fabric to match the skirt.

Adaptable Suits

There is nothing so adaptable as a cotton suit for the career girl, the traveler, or the shopper. Using glen plaid cotton of mens wear type, Dorothy Cox fashions a pretty and practical suit. She makes the long jacket a turned-up collar style with two slanted patch pockets and three-quarter length sleeves. The skirt is straight and accents the classic lines of the jacket.

Denim is selected as the fabric for a chick cotton suit dress by Justin McCarty. A straight, slim-lined skirt is teamed with a short-sleeved jacket boasting a pert little wing collar and contrasting panels of darker cotton running from the shoulder to the waist line. This is another of the new cottons with a wrinkle-resistant finish.

ROTARY SHIELDS for the WD

With the new Allis-Chalmers WD Tractor and rotary shields you can cultivate faster without covering young plants. The shields keep large clods away, while the finer soil sifts through and settles around the stalks.

At the turns, the WD two-row cultivator is completely hydraulic. Handy lever located at the steering wheel raises or lowers gangs at a touch of your finger. When you want it, delayed action hydraulic lift raises the front gangs first, letting the rear bar work the middles right to the end of the rows. Low point-of-pull parallel linkage keeps shovels in the round in tough spots.

The new WD cultivator has exceptional strength and durability. Stop in and see it or ask about rotary shields on your present A-C cultivator.

Kemgas Delinted Seed Are Planted with Corn Plates at the Rate of 5 to 7 Pounds of Seed per Acre

Tractors plant more per acre as there are few steps to refill with seed and no fuzz and trash to choke planters, cause skippy rows, and delay planting operations while the boxes are being cleaned.

Washington News Letter

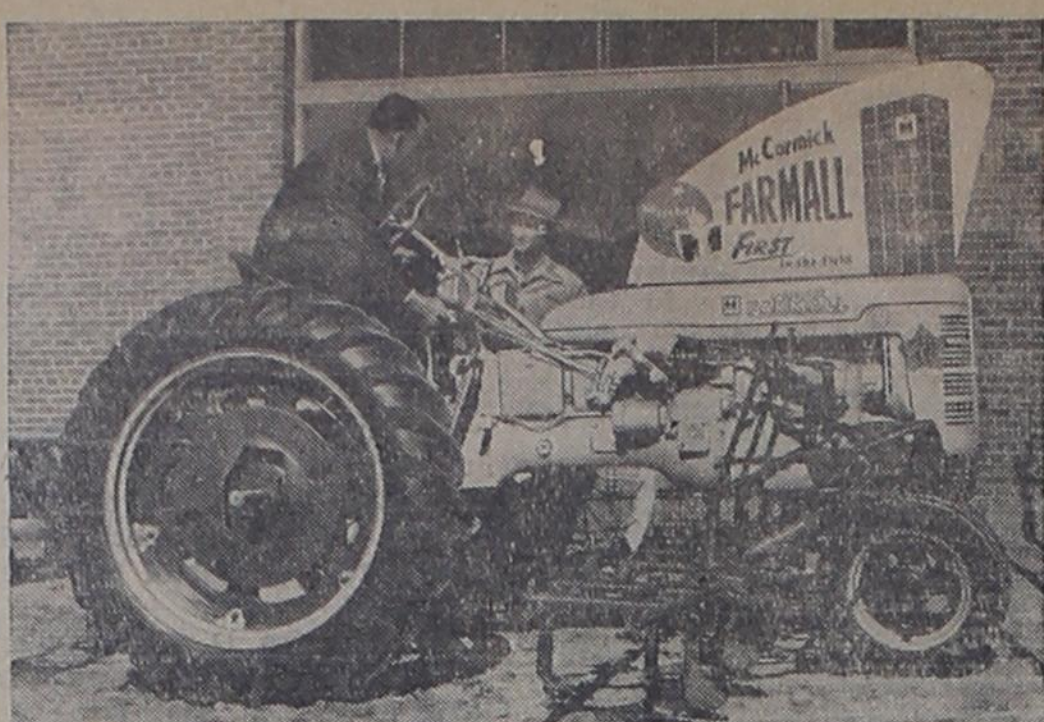

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 16—Last week the House finally passed and sent to the President a bill repealing the tax on oleomargarine. This should have been done long ago but it seems the wheels of justice grind slowly. It's certainly wrong in principle to discriminate against any wholesome food by putting a tax on it when comparable foods are not so taxed. As a matter of fact, although I have milked many a gallon of milk and churned many a pound of butter, I cannot at this time tell good oleo from good butter.

The Senate is still wrestling with the so-called DP Act. The main changes sought in the DP Act is to increase the number who are to be brought here by 139,000 and eliminate the cut-off date of the bill passed by the last Congress. Under existing law no person can qualify as a DP who came into our camps after December 22, 1945. If the cut-off date is eliminated it will make eligible for entry into this country 100,000 Russian Jews who came from behind the iron curtain and into our DP camps many months after the shooting was over. Incidentally, the notorious British spy, Dr. Karl Emil Julius Fuchs is also of Eastern European origin. When Lord Goddard, the Chief Justice of England, was passing sentence on the man who doubtless gave most of our atomic secrets to the Russians, he observed, "Dare we now to give shelter to political refugees who may be followers of this pernicious creed" — meaning communism. Most everybody in Washington knows that we have permitted numerous communists to slip into this country and that we have done and are doing little to stop their infiltration.

The British seem determined to nationalize their steel industry. This seems strange since it is the one major industry in England to show increased production per man hour, increased efficiency and a substantial profit. When taking over the railroads the British Government estimated that they would make $260,000,000 per year. On the contrary, railroad service deteriorated and the British government lost $118,000,000 on the first year's operation. When the British government took over the coal mines, they spent 170 million on mechanism, still production has fallen below the prewar level and the output per man hour has decreased and the National Coal Board lost in the first year of operation $95,000,000. Socialized medicine in England exceeded cost estimates for the first year's operation by more than $300,000,000. Their public housing program has produced only about 2/3 as many houses per year as were being built prior to the war, to say nothing of cost estimates. Furthermore, it should not be overlooked that the socialized government of England can now direct any person between the ages of 18 to 50 to take any job, anywhere, i. e., compulsory labor is legal.

For farms of up to 120 crop acres, and for second-tractor power on larger farms, the Farmall C (above) is a versatile, easy-handling 2-row, 2-plow tractor. The Farmall C is popular with general farmers, vegetable and specialty-crop growers, estate owners and part-time farmers. The Farmall C, specially painted in gleaming white with red wheels, is being featured by International Harvester dealers during the Mid-Century Farmall demonstration campaign. Shown here with forward-mounted 4-row beet and bean cultivator.

A newspaper man just called me to ask me what I thought of recommendations of the State and Justice Departments that Gubitchev be deported. Frankly, I think it may be a good idea.

It will save our government the expense of keeping him in prison for 15 years. Again, it may spare retaliation on American prisoners back of the iron curtain.

The House last week defeated by 2 votes a so-called rural library bill. Under the proposed bill the Federal government would spend up to $35,000,000 in promoting mobile rural libraries. The Texas delegation split about 50-50 on the vote. I voted against the bill on the theory that it would set up another government bureau; that said bureau would grow larger and would perpetuate itself, and finally that this was a job which the states and local communities could and should do for themselves. When bills come before the Congress proposing to create new agencies and to spend more money, it seems to me that we should ask ourselves first, do we need this service; secondly, can we afford the service, and finally, is it sound in principle? George Washington had something to say on principle during a stormy Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in 1787. When members were offered measures thought likely to meet the approval of certain groups of people, George Washington said; "It is too probable that no plan we propose will be adopted. Perhaps another dreadful conflict is to be sustained. If, to please the people, we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hand of God."

PORCH FURNITURE TO GET NEW LOOK

A face-lifting treatment for lawn swings and other porch or patio furniture is in the offing with the arrival of spring. Old lawn furniture will be given a new look with the bright stripes and solid cotton duck recover sets that will be on the market this season.

One of the attractive new lawn wing covers recently put on the market includes a canopy, seat and back covers, apron, and arm rest covers. This set comes in bright California stripes in terra-cotta and white, green and white, and blue and white.

Mrs. Erin McGraw spent last week end in Wichita Falls visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Orman Moore and daughters.

SPRING BLOSSOM!

The flowers that bloom in the spring fade into the background beside the fresh new fashions blossoming this season. A typical sample of what's ahead for spring is this fetching cotton fashion with a scoop neckline, puff sleeves, and a heart-shaped bodice. It is designed in fine cotton dot and dash stripe of soft pastel colors by Cole of California.

COTTON LEADS LIST OF ECA DEMANDS

The greatest demand for a commodity purchased with Marshall Plan funds during 1949 was for cotton, the Economic Cooperation Administration disclosed recently.

During the year cotton purchase approvals issued by ECA for Western Europe totalled $575,900,000.

Machinery and equipment was second with $493,000,000; bread grains, third, $427,300,000; and petroleum and products, fourth, $420,400,000.

The 1949 ECA figures included: $1,861,900,000 for industrial items; $1,823,400,000 for food and agricultural commodities; $276,800,000 for ocean freight; and $15,500,000 for technical services.

HOW DRY U. S. IS?

America is the "bathingest" place in the world if the nation's usage of cotton towels is any indication, the National Cotton Council reports.

In the United States, people are wearing out approximately 150,000,000 pounds of cotton towels each year—approximately a pound per person. Outside the United States, annual per capita consumption of cotton is only about six pounds for clothing and all other purposes.

Besides the cotton towels they use in their homes, U. S. consumers use 8,750,000 pounds of cotton annually in hand and roller towels in offices and public wash rooms. When Americans sing "how dry I am," they mean it!

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

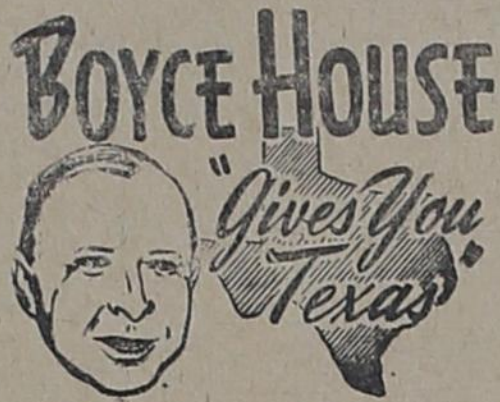

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.

West Texas Utilities Company

Of all the people who made up the colorful frontier town of Ft. Griffin, near Albany, none provoked more talk from the townsmen than Lottie Deno, some 70 years ago.

And there was none they knew less about than they did Lottie, attractive, medium-sized and red-haired mystery woman. Many of the town's toughest six-shooter toters had looked into Lottie's black sparkling eyes across a gambling table.

Lottie Deno had no friends, and she never appeared in public except to visit one of the gambling halls where she won frequently.

Because the mystery woman had the manners of a lady and dressed more fashionably than any other woman in Fort Griffin, many fantastic stories made the rounds. Some believed that she was born in wealth and was highly educated while living in the East.

Just what brought her West where she sat unperturbed amid oaths of men in desperate conflict and often witnessed blood shed following pistol duels over crooked card games, no one knew for sure.

Lottie's name frequently was linked romantically with that of Johnny Golden. But that was after Johnny was dead and Lottie had packed her belongings and left.

Johnny Golden was shot to death one day during an affray with two officers who had arrested him for a law violation and were attempting to take him to jail.

Romantic-minded old-timers often told how Lottie, the woman they believed had nerves of steel, almost fainted when she learned of Johnny Golden's death. They found letters in Johnny's possession which indicated he was a castaway son of a wealthy Eastern family.

After his death, Lottie never returned to the gambling halls and had food sent to her little shanty where people believed she lived in grief. Then one day Lottie rode out of town on an east-bound coach without bidding farewell to anyone.

The owner of the little shanty, to whom Lottie had always paid her rent a month in advance, summoned the Sheriff from the

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's, Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-pooh's" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

Proposed Dam—

50-Year Supply

The water in California Creek was found suitable for domestic use and in quantity to make the location feasible, Seipt said. He said for the 58,200 residents of the area embraced, it was figured that at least 11,250 acre-feet of water would be needed. About 60,000 acre-feet could be impounded on California Creek, which would assure a 50-year supply, Seipt said.

Representatives were asked to consider the proposal and be ready to submit a decision to the bureau within two weeks. Burleigh community that if only one community favors the project it will be launched, but only on a scale to service that community.

Burleigh said the bureau has spent approximately $100,000 in searching for an ample domestic water source in the upper reaches of the Brazos River. He added that the Bureau of Reclamation is ready to spend $23,000,000 to $25,000,000 to supply community needs in this area.

In conjunction with the domestic water discussion, Burleigh and Seipt announced that the bureau was prepared to continue development of the original Baskin site on Double Mountain Creek as an irrigation project if the association would eliminate existing difficulties.

He pointed out that the Brazos River Reclamation and Conservation District is also studying the construction of an irrigation dam on Double Mountain.

R. D. Collins, general manager of the Brazos group said his organization would be ready to present construction and irrigation water cost figures to the Baskin Association for a comparative study with the bureau's proposal.

Burleigh requested that the Baskin group poll farmer interest in the proposed irrigation district before his organization would make further study, thus eliminating double effort without any assurance of acceptance.

The meeting ended without a definite decision on whether the Brazos group or the bureau would construct the irrigation dam—or whether it will be constructed—but a long-sought solution to the domestic water problem seemed certain with only formal acceptance by the communities needed before the bureau's project is launched.

John Couch, president of the Baskin group, said he will name a committee of five to conduct the farmer poll and to present the findings to Burleigh at which time further discussions will be held.

Couch presided at the meeting. Acting as moderator was D. A. Banded general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Abilene. Mayor C. C. Hoge of Knox City was host.

At the noon hour, Mayor Hoge announced that all delegates to the meeting would be served free meals at the Knox City cafes.

TWO REASONS WHY MORE FARMERS WANT

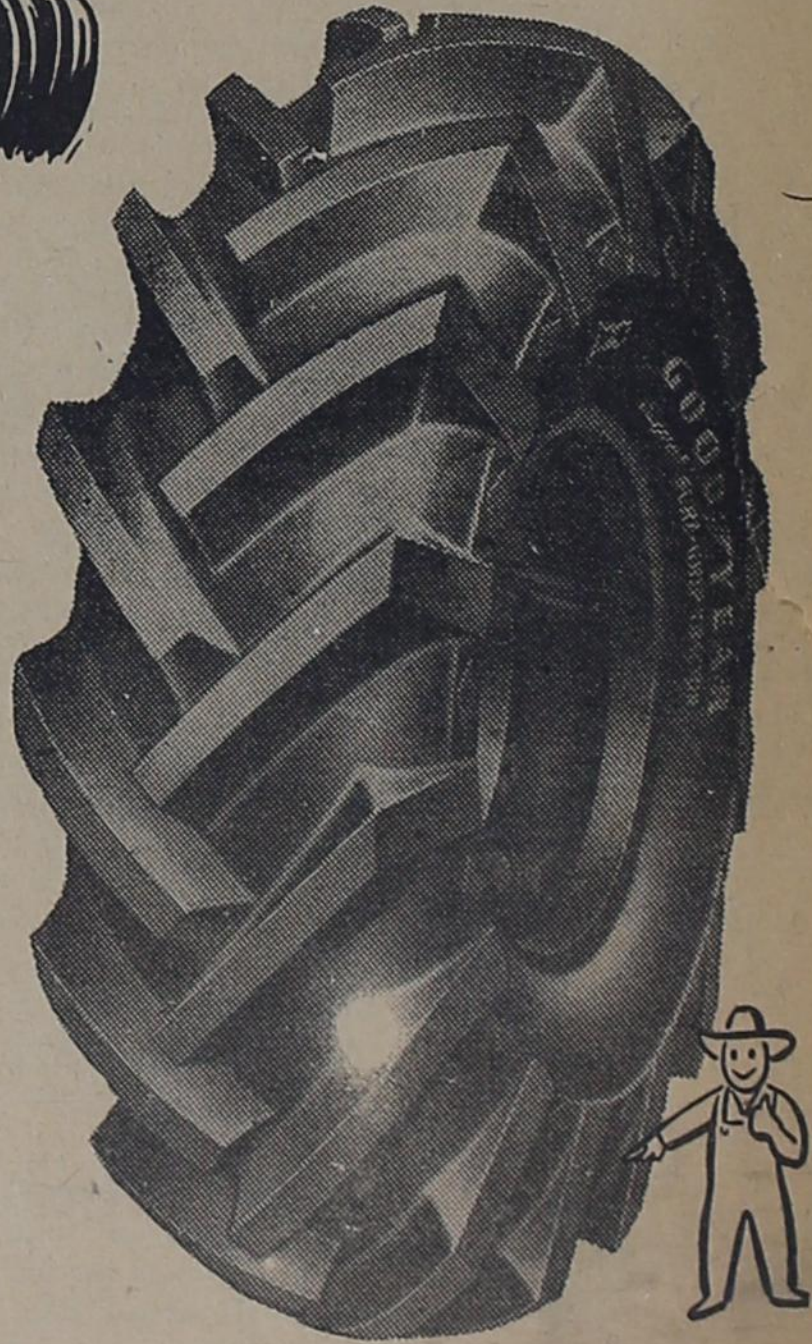

GOOD YEAR SUPER-SURE-GRIP TRACTOR TIRES

1. Deeper Soil Penetration — Greater Pull
2. Balanced Straight Lug Tread Design — Longer Wear!

Goodyear's open center tread has straight deep-biting lugs. No curves to cut traction — no hooks, knobs or elbows to blunt their bite. They cut cleanly into the soil, penetrate full depth, full length. Straight bars closer together at the shoulders wedge the soil for firmer grip—don't "plow out" soil at the sides.

Goodyear's center lugs are all straight and equal in size and spacing. That's why every lug works equally, pulls fully, wears more evenly. This means a smoother, steadier pull, less vibration and wobble — more riding stability — plus longer life. Get Goodyears for your tractor — they don't cost a penny more.
