MUNDAY MERCHANTS PREPARED FOR HEAVY FALL BUSINESS; STOCKS IN EVERY LINE ARE COMPLETE

No Town In West Texas Is Better Prepared to Care For Wants of Citizens Than Are the Merchants of Munday

With the opening of the fall season the Munday merchants are prepared to care for the wants of the people of this section in a most satisfactory manner. Ever before have the stores of this city been more heavily stocked with high grade merchandise than they are at this time. They have bought heavily anticipating a heavy business during the fall and in this we are sure they will not be disappointed, for the values here are as great or greater than can be found elsewhere, and there is no town in this section of West Texas that can offer a more varied line of merchandise than can be found in Munday.

Especially well prepared to care for their trade are the dry goods merchants of Munday. Experienced buyers have gone into the leading dry goods markets of the country and have bought stocks of merchandise that will compare favorably with those in cities many times larger than Munday, and they have priced their merchandise to the public strictly in line with the quality of the goods offered.

And the grocery merchants of Munday are none the less able to care for their patrons than are the dry goods merchants. Many of the overhead expenses of former years have been eliminated by modern merchandising methods and today the grocery merchants of Munday are offering their goods to the public in line with those establishments of the cities which claim that they have found the most ideal and economical methods of merchandising.

In every line of business you will find what you want in Munday. All the leading makes of automobiles have dealers located in this city, a majority of whom not only sell but service the cars they sell, and this offers a great advantage to the automobile buyer.

As a cotton market Munday is conceded to be one of the best in West Texas. We have large numbers of buyers here and competition is always keen, and Munday will always be found paying the top of the market for the fleecy staple. Munday also has the advantage of having a cotton oil mill, which affords an excellent market for seed, and a compress by which the cotton may be more cheaply handled by the buyer, hence is enabled to pay the top of the market.

In presenting this Fall Opening edition to our readers, and to those who are not regular readers of The Times, we ask that you look over the advertisements appearing in these columns a little more carefully than usual, for we believe that you will find it to your advantage, and when you go into the stores of Munday if you will mention the fact that you have read the advertisement of that particular firm in The Times, you will be conferring a great favor on both us and the merchant, for indeed, the merchants pay his good money to get these messages to the public and he naturally likes to know that they are read, and how shall he know unless he is told or receives direct results which he recognizes as coming from that source.

Whatever your needs may be, they can be supplied by the business concerns of Munday, so come to Munday.

Munday Will Be Represented At Lindbergh Welcome

Munday will be represented at the welcome of Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh on Monday, when this young man makes a two-hour stop, at Abilene on his tour of the United States.

The city council has chosen Miss Delphine Hendrix to be "The Spirit of Munday" at the meeting, at which representatives of almost every town in West Texas will be represented. In addition to Miss Hendrix there will be a representative of the city of Munday at the welcoming. Mayor Fred Broach will either attend or send one of the councilmen or the city secretary in his stead, while the Times will be represented by J. A. Kennedy.

Abilene is making elaborate preparations for the coming of Col. Lindbergh to that city, and hundreds of West Texas citizens have been selected to serve as a reception committee to welcome Col. Lindbergh to West Texas.

J. Milam Diggs Is New Addition To Utilities Co. Force

J. Milam Diggs, former postmaster here, and who for the past two years has been in the postal service at Amarillo and Canyon, has returned to Munday, and has accepted a position with the West Texas Utilities Company, commercial department, succeeding Carroll Hopkins, who resigned some days ago to accept a position with the Pendleton Gin Company.

Mr. Diggs will have charge of the merchandise sales for Munday, Goree, Knox City and other towns in this immediate section, and has entered into his new work with a grim determination to turn in a large volume of sales to the company, and his many friends in Munday will be pleased to know that he and his excellent family are to again become citizens of Munday.

In an unusual contest, Willa Mae Lee, an orphan working her way through school at Fort Worth, Texas, was voted the "smilingest" girl in the student body.

J. J. Mullins Under Arrest At Cooper On Bad Check Charge

Sheriff J. W. Melton left over the Wichita Valley on Monday afternoon for Austin when a negro in charge who had been found insane and was being conveyed to the insane asylum at Austin, and on his return he will go to Cooper, Texas, to bring back to Knox county J. J. Mullins, against whom charges have been filed alleging that he has issued worthless checks, and it is said that several Munday and Goree business concerns have been defrauded by him.

The arrest and return of Mullins to this county has been brought about largely through the activities of the Retail Merchants association, which organization has waged a relentless war against the passing of worthless checks, and the association has signified its intention of cooperating with the officers of the county to the fullest extent in prosecuting those guilty of this practice.

SINGING CONVENTION TO BE HELD SUNDAY AT HOOD

The Knox county singing convention will meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at Hood, and the singers of this community are urged to be present, and the public is extended a cordial invitation to attend and enjoy the good singing.

Bradford Wilson of Chicago, aged 12, won the opening event of national junior rifle match at Camp Perry, O., with a score of 287 out of a possible 300.

To prevent flying flags from wrapping around their poles, a tube has been devised which revolves with the wind, keeping the flag straight in the breeze.

A machine equipped with 18 powerful pneumatic hammers is now used for tanning, reducing the amount of explosives required.

"Getting Worried"

Board Was Cheap, Land Was Cheaper In "Good Old Days"

In rambling through our old files the other day we ran across an issue of The Times of October 12, 1906, and in looking over its columns we found many interesting items.

From it we learned that Mrs. H. T. Maples had just added six more rooms to the Cottage Hotel, and her rates at that time were $4.00 per week for regulars and $1.00 per day for transients. Folks probably complained in those days about the high cost of living.

From it we read that the Wichita Valley line is completed to within two miles of Stamford, and that train service had been inaugurated as far as Haskell, with prospects good for the completion of the line into Abilene by January 15.

Land wasn't quite so high in those days as now, but folks, or probably some of them, thought it was too high then. Mr. M. S. Ruff, who advertised himself as "The Real Estate Man," offers a farm containing 240 acres, 100 in cultivation. Nice four-room house with furniture, a $1,000 cotton crop, corn and feed crops, all farm implements, 2 mules, 2 good mares and colts, hogs, chickens and turkeys, in fact, a clean sweep, all going at the pitiful sum of $25 per acre, with prospects good for it? Looks like a bargain, doesn't it?

And here's another item in this issue. We may get nearly killed for publishing it again, but here it is: "We are indebted to J. J. Baskin for a copy of the semi-weekly Houston Post containing an article vigorously defending Joe Bailey's character. Mr. Baskin says Joe will be upheld by the people of Texas."

The First National Bank was one of the good advertisers in those days of long ago, just as it is today, and the officers and directors at that time were: W. A. Baker, president; F. G. Alexander, vice-president; W. G. Sherrod, cashier; M. H. Lee, assistant cashier. Directors: W. A. Baker, Chas. Mayes, R. V. Colbert, J. F. P'Pool, Mac Castles, P. B. Broach, F. G. Alexander and W. H. Shelby.

There was here at that time The Citizens National Bank, with the following officers and directors: J. N. Campbell, president; W. D. Carter, vice-president; J. T. Yeargin, assistant cashier. Directors: J. N. Campbell, W. D. Carter, G. A. Holland, Jno. J. Switzer, J. T. Yeargin, M. S. Bailey, J. F. Bolander, R. P. Munday and G. W. Reeves.

Ruth Holman of Fulton, Mo., has attained considerable fame as a cake baker at the age of 8. An angel food cake baked by her was awarded a prize in competition with adult contestants.

Robert Saling, Jr., one year old, of Hot Springs, Ark., wandered into the street and was knocked down by a truck, but was only slightly hurt.

Following the morning service we will hold a church conference. All members are urged to be present. Your name will be called. You will find a hearty welcome with us. Come and let's worship together.

Munday Cotton Oil Co. Building Large Feeding Pens Here

The Munday Cotton Oil Co., Inc., has leased fifteen acres of land from Fred S. Broach and have erected a permanent fence around the entire block and have built large feeding troughs in sufficient numbers to care for one thousand head of cattle, and additional troughs will be built as the necessities require, and the company plans to provide feeding pens for the cattlemen of this section who desire to feed cattle throughout the winter.

An electric line has been run to the premises for the operation of an electric motor, which will be used in pumping water, and the pens will be complete in every detail. The troughs are very large and built of heavy materials and the erection of these pens will afford a great convenience to the cattlemen of this section, as they are located on land immediately adjoining the shipping pens of the Wichita Valley and within close proximity of the oil mill, whereby the cost of transporting feeds will be reduced to a minimum.

This is just one of the many improvements that will be made by the Anderson-Layton Company, who recently acquired the oil mill properties from the Pendleton interests.

Robt. Newsom Resigns As Manager Haskell Telephone Co. Here

Robert Newsom, who for the past few years has been manager here for the Haskell Telephone Company, has tendered his resignation, which became effective on September 15th, and has gone to Austin to enter the State University, his place here having been filled by the transfer of Mr. Steinreed of Olney to this city as manager.

Robert is one of Munday's most excellent young men and his many friends will be glad to know that he is to continue his studies, and prepare himself for a greater usefulness in life, and we are glad to welcome the new manager to this city.

Haskell County Again Turns Down Road Bond Issue

The $1,500,000 road bond issue which was voted on last Saturday in Haskell county for the second time within two months was turned down by a larger majority than at the first election.

There were more than two hundred more votes polled in the election Saturday than were polled at the previous election, and the majority in practically every voting precinct. In the county against the issuance of the bonds was increased. The totals show 1,648 for the bonds and 1,113 against the bonds.

Following is a list of the voting precincts and the vote as shown in Saturday's election:

	For	Against
Haskell	590	365
Rule	465	165
Rochester	126	152
O'Brien	95	67
Jud	42	10
Cliff	15	27
Weinert	122	82
Cottonwood	17	43
Jim Hogz	10	27
Howard	7	54
McConnell	23	39
Sagerton	1	64
Joe Bailey	3	34
Post	14	32

Only three voting precincts in the county gave the bonds a majority of two-thirds as required by law, Rule, Jud and Sagerton.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION IS GREATLY IMPROVED BY ENFORCED TRAFFIC LAW

Saturday was a very busy day in Munday and hundreds of automobiles lined our streets, but the congestion that is usually prevalent on occasions like this was eliminated almost entirely Saturday by the enforcement of the city's parking ordinance, which prohibits the parking of cars in the center of the streets. The boy scouts were on the job and assisted Marshal C. R. Elliott in informing the drivers of cars as they came into town of the parking rules, and were provided with circulars which set forth the parking rules, and the public readily complied with these rules.

Mr. Elliott states that he will again enlist the aid of the boy scouts on Saturday, but after that it will be up to the motorist to observe the parking ordinances or stand the consequences, as it will be impossible to keep the boys on the job for a longer period of time, so hereafter, if you park your car in the center of the street you may be hailed into court to explain it to a pitiless judge.

Lois Delander, 16-year-old high school girl of Joliet, Ill., was chosen as "Miss America of 1927," at the annual national beauty contest in Atlantic City this month. She is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, with long light brown hair, blue eyes, and weighs 120 pounds.

Grandmother Page, 80 Years of Age, Died On Tuesday Morning

After an illness extending over a period of many months death came to relieve the suffering of Grandmother Page on Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. V. Johnson northeast of this city, and funeral services are being conducted this (Wednesday) afternoon at the Baptist church by the Rev. R. G. M. Eiland, after which interment will be made in Johnson cemetery.

Grandmother Page was born on September 1, 1847, he at the time of her death was eighty years and twenty days old, and had been practically an invalid for several months.

Oct. a few days ago we published an account of the little birthday party given to her on her eightieth birthday, at which time a number of loving friends gathered and presented her with tokens of affection with the idea of making her happy during her declining days, and now so short a time we are called upon to chronicle her passing on to that reward which she has so zealously earned by the consecrated life that she lived throughout the many years she has sojournd on this earth, and to the bereaved loved ones that are left behind to mourn her going we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

First Meeting of New School Year Held Tuesday With Much Interest Manifested

The first meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for the ensuing school year was held on Tuesday afternoon of this week at the high school building, at which time a goodly number of patrons and all members of the faculty were present, with Mrs. J. O. Bowden, retiring president of the association, presiding.

At the request of the president, Prof. Standley read the pledge adopted by the national association, after which Supt. Rhodes gave an outline of what was being undertaken by the association this year, which included a concrete walk along the east front of the high school building to the corner on the north, thence west to the grammar school building.

The committee had been appointed to get estimates on the cost of these improvements, which indicated that the cost would be approximately $500. This committee was composed of E. Duval, G. R. Eiland and Supt. J. E. Rhodes, and after hearing their report a motion was adopted that the improvements be undertaken by the association.

Officers elected for the ensuing year at this meeting were as follows: Mrs. Fred Warren, president; Mrs. H. D. Standley, vice-president; Mrs. H. P. Barnes, first vice-president; Mrs. M. Carrol, second vice-president; Mrs. Fred Broach, third vice-president; Mrs. H. P. Hill, secretary-treasurer; Miss Lane, recording secretary.

The retiring president, Mrs. J. O. Bowden, has served the association efficiently and faithfully and she was urged to accept the honor for another year, but declined by reason of the fact that she is active in several church organizations and felt that others were better prepared to give the work of the association the attention that it deserves.

It is gratifying to note that the association is starting out the year with the commendable program and the interest shown at this meeting, and we believe that every patron of the school should give the association their untended support, for indeed they have a most worthy program for the year and can accomplish so much good if they are given the cooperation that they are entitled to.

Let everyone get in behind this association and make this the banner year for the accomplishment of worth-while things for our schools, which should be the pride of every citizen.

Munday Will Enter Exhibit at Haskell County Fair Oct. 6-8

Munday will enter an exhibit in the Haskell County Fair on October 6-8 was definitely decided at a meeting of the board of directors of the Munday Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening of last week, and W. C. Bevers was appointed to assemble the materials for entry in this exhibit, and he, with the assistance of County Agent W. O. Logan, and County Home Demonstration Miss Grace Nelson, will assemble the materials that will make up the exhibit.

The exhibit will be confined to that territory embraced in Munday Independent School District, as the entry will be made in the Independent School District exhibits, to which the communities of Rule, Sagerton, Weinert, Rochester, O'Brien, Throckmorton, Woodson, Munday, Knox City and Goree are eligible to entry. Haskell Independent School District will not be permitted to compete, but will have an exhibit.

In this competition the fair association offers $75.00 as first prize, $50.00 as second prize and $25.00 for third prize, and we're expecting Munday to come under the wire winner of one of these liberal prizes.

Mr. H. D. Neff, manager of the fair, was in the city on Friday of last week and expressed much satisfaction over the fact that Munday had decided to enter into the competition, and assured us that the fair this year would be bigger and better than ever before.

Three Precincts In County Petition For Road Bond Election

At a meeting of the commissioner's court last week a petition bearing the required number of names was presented to the court asking that an election be called to determine whether or not Commissioner's Precincts No. 1, 2 and 3 will issue bonds in the sum of $650,000 for the building of good roads in these precincts, and the court set October 3 as the date upon which a hearing on the petition will take place.

The territory embraced in the proposed election is all of Knox county except precinct No. 4, which recently voted bonds in the sum of $135,000 for the building of Highway No. 30 from the Baylor county line to the Haskell county line, which is practically all of the designated highway lying within this precinct.

Sheriff Melton Has Red Headed Boy

Sheriff and Mrs. Melton are entertaining a five months old red headed boy over at their domicile on the ground floor of the county jail building, the youngster having been deserted on last Saturday night at Smoot's garage at Truscott, and was turned over to Sheriff Melton.

The little fellow was left in front of a garage at Truscott during Saturday night and Sheriff Melton has been busy trying to locate those guilty of the desertion, and has a clue in the form of laundry marks found on garments worn by the youngster.

While several parties have signified a desire to adopt the boy, their wishes have not been considered, and the youngster is still under the care of Mrs. Melton.

BAPTISMAL SERVICE SUNDAY NIGHT

The revival meeting season is over, school is open, vacations are history, the fall season is on in earnest. Now is the time to turn our attention seriously to the matter of building up our church and Sunday school attendance. I do not know of a better way to show our gratitude for the good crops and other blessings we are now enjoying than to be faithful in service to Him who is the giver of all good things. We plan to have our regular services next Sunday, with a baptismal service Sunday night. Everybody welcome.

Not Fighting Water Power, Says Haynie

R. W. Haynie of Abilene, president of the West Texas chamber, issued the following statement to be given out with the announcement of the committee, in which he expressedly stated that West Texas is not waging war on the power companies or the interests controlled by them. What West Texas stands for, he said, is an equitable and fair distribution of the waters of rivers falling in West Texas.

Haynie Statement

The statement follows: "This committee has been appointed in accordance with the resolution adopted at the meeting called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and the Texas Water Conservation Association, and recently held in Abilene. The purpose in appointing this committee is to definitely formulate some positive plan by which the flood and ordinary waters that fall and flow in and along the streams and watersheds of all Texas may be so conserved and distributed that all sections in Texas may have a fair and equal distribution of the use of said waters. No section, and no group of individuals should be permitted to monopolize the use of the waters of Texas at the expense of any other section. The appropriation of the use of such waters should not be permitted in such manner that will cause any section or community along the watersheds of the streams that head and flow in Texas to be deprived of their fair and equal distribution of the use of the same, either at the present time or in the years to come. Due consideration must be given the needs of the semi and irrigation purposes. No grant and irrigation uses, and no appropriation of waters should be allowed that will prejudice the growing needs of such districts. The use of such waters should be primarily conserved for municipal, domestic and irrigation purposes. No grant of the use of water for the purpose of developing hydro-electric power should be made when such appropriation may deprive, either now or in the future, the semi-arid sections of Texas, or any other section, from using water that is necessary or may become necessary for the growth and prosperity of such sections, and for the beneficial use of its citizenship.

Water Vital to West
"This question is one that calls for the most serious thought of the citizenship of Texas, especially among the citizens of West Texas, where water is so necessary to our growth and prosperity. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce as the guardian of the interests of West Texas, calls upon all the loyal citizens of West Texas to devote careful thought to this momentous question, and to render every possible assistance to the committee of twenty-five, to the end that some action may be immediately taken to conserve the waters that should be conserved for West Texas, and equally distributed among the different sections for use in the future. Those whose hearts and hopes are entwined with the fortunes and fate of West Texas have dreamed of the establishment of a mighty empire of prosperous cities, peaceful communities, and happy homes here in the west. The dreams of the pioneers of the west are fast being realized and the eyes of the world are now on West Texas and its marvelous growth and prosperity. The hopes of the citizens of West Texas must not be blasted by depriving them of a fair and equal use of the waters that fall in West Texas, and justly belong to them. Before vested rights have become fixed by prior appropriation, prompt steps must be taken to prevent the wholesale monopoly by private interests of waters that belongs to the people as a whole.

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce desires to expressly reiterate that its officials are not waging war on any power company, or power interests, now attempting to discourage the proper investment of capital in West Texas. We hope that the vast power interests will work hand in hand with us for the best interests of all Texas, and will aid us in conserving its resources for use where and when most needed. The great West Texas Utilities Company, a West Texas power company, has been a most important factor in the building of West Texas, and the promotion of its growth. Its competent and efficient manager, Geo. W. Fry, Abilene, Texas, is a real builder, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and has always taken an active interest in all movements for the good of West Texas, and with his efficient staff of assistants is responsible for the excellent utilities service his company is rendering for West Texas. We are not waging any fight against the Chicago interests, who are reputed to control this West Texas company, for we believe they are the friends of West Texas, and urge them to work with us for a proper solution of this water question, which means so much to the future of West Texas."

Cooperate With the School Teacher in Joint Effort For The Benefit of Your Child

This being the month in which the schools generally open after the long summer vacation, it seems an opportune occasion for directing attention to the great importance of hearty co-operation of the school-teacher and the parents of the children attending the school. The best method thus far devised for effectuating such co-operation is by means of a local Parent-Teacher organization. The Parent-Teacher Association movement, which was instituted to bring home and school into closer and more harmonious relations and to activate both to work in unison for the advancement of child welfare, is rendering commendable service to the cause and deserves recognition and support in all quarters; but, due to indifference or prejudice on the part of the parents or to lack of community consciousness, very many communities have neglected to organize a Parent-Teacher Association.

Cordial cooperation of parent with teacher and mutual exchange of confidences concerning the child are conducive to better scholarship and production of moral effects that are of inestimable consequence. The school ranks next to the home as a factor in directing the activities, forming the habits and molding the characters of the rising generation during the impressionable period of youth, and in this respect the responsibility of the teacher is second only to that of the parent. If either is neglectful of duty, or if, through being misinformed of what is transpiring with the child beyond their respective ranges of observation, their well-intended efforts are misguided, in either case the child fails to receive the right training; but if, because of mistrust or misunderstanding between them, they work at cross purposes, such conflict of authority causes in the young mind a demoralizing state of confusion akin to anarchy, the natural consequence of which is for the child to become disrespectful of authority, rebellious against discipline and intolerant of control by parent as well as by teacher.

The alarming increase in the number of youthful criminals and delinquent children in this country, together with the common explanation of difficulty on the part of parents in managing their children, are among the most sinister phases of modern life, and are largely, if not chiefly, attributable to the parents' failure to train and discipline their offspring properly, which is said to be one of the growing evils of the times. It is asserted, and probably true, that the rising wave of juvenile waywardness is in part due to the new and alluring temptations encountered by present-day youth; if so, it obligates parents to exercise greater vigilance and stricter discipline in order to cope with the situation. Despite the need of increased watchfulness as to a child's associates, whereabouts, conduct and contacts when away from home, and particularly at school, there seems to be a tendency on the part of parents to be too easy and trustful in these matters.

Teacher should keep parent informed of the child's scholarship, habits, behavior and associates as observed in and about school, and parent ought to acquaint teacher with the child's condition of health, disposition, mental and moral propensities and home influences, in order to advise and work together for the welfare of the child, in particular, and for the benefit of the school in general, should try to induce other parents to do likewise.

The schoolmaster or schoolmistress has a difficult task in conducting the classes, maintaining discipline, making the courses of instruction interesting as an incentive to study, and, above all, in inculcating high ideals and a standard of morality that will inspire the boys and girls with ambition to make the most of themselves by serious endeavor, right living and devotion to duty; for such is the consummation at which education, in the higher and broader sense, is aimed, and in order to render efficient service the schoolteacher needs and should receive all possible assistance from the parents. For this purpose organize a Parent-Teacher Association, if not already instituted in your community.

It is needless to mention the ways in which many of our schools are deficient, as the people of the communities that suffer from them are familiar with the defects and can cause them to be remedied under pressure of public opinion insistently demanding such betterment; but organized effort is requisite to rouse the people to action and to command official recognition of, and obedience to, the will of the community. For accomplishing this and the further purpose of keeping the schools up to a high state of efficiency the Parent-Teacher Association is an excellent instrumentality.

Teachers, like the rest of humanity, must be expected to have their failings, which, if not of a serious nature, should not be made the subject of criticism or ridicule but rather treated as reason for giving them sympathetic encouragement and help in order to bring out the best there is in them. Never discuss school affairs or criticize the teacher in the presence of a child, for it is an insidious way of degrading the teacher in the estimation of that child and of other children to whom your remarks are sure to be repeated, and probably in a distorted form. If you have any fault to find with the way in which the school is conducted, go to the teacher and talk it over in a friendly and helpful manner. Of course a teacher that is incompetent or otherwise unfit for the job must be dismissed, which should be done with the least possible publicity, neighborhood gossip or commotion in minimize any demoralizing effect on the scholars.—Comfort, and money have been spent.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY EVERY THURSDAY

Members of the newspaper fraternity were deeply grieved last week to learn of the death of Carson P. Harben, 24 years of age, and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sam P. Harben, the former being publisher of the Richardson Echo, and for more than twenty years secretary of the Texas Press Association. Carson was an exemplary young man, a graduate of the Terrill School at Dallas, and was making plans to enter the University of Texas when stricken, and his untimely death occasioned expressions of sorrow and condolence from members of the press throughout the entire state, as he too was well known to the newspaper fraternity, having for the past few years served efficiently as assistant secretary, and we join with other members of the fraternity in extending our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents as they walk in the shadow of their greatest sorrow.

CURBING A NUISANCE

For several years numerous individuals and firms have greatly annoyed citizens throughout the country by sending them articles of merchandise, which had not been ordered, by mail "on approval."
 Recipients of these unsolicited packages of merchandise, usually hosiery, neckties and other articles of no great value, have apparently accepted the stuff and paid for it in a large percent age of cases, thus encouraging the spread of the practice.
 Senders of these goods have attempted to secure payment from unwilling customers by means of tracers sent through regular postal channels, thus apparently making the Post Office Department a party to the scheme. This has been resented by the Department, which now proposes legislation making these annoying practices an offense against the postal laws, a measure which will doubtless meet with general approval on the part of the public.
 Until this nuisance shall be curbed by official action, intended victims might adopt measures of their own similar to that employed by a certain physician, who received a $2 package of socks which had not been ordered.
 Instead of sending the money, he wrote a letter enclosing a prescription which he assured the sender of the merchandise to be worth $2, and asked that the account be balanced accordingly. The mail order man evidently possessed a sense of humor—at any rate he accepted the prescription and let it go at that.

FARM CO-OP EXHIBIT

With a view of further stimulating the cooperative marketing of farm products, particularly cotton, the Department of Agriculture is preparing an exhibit on the subject, to be shown at state fairs in Atlanta, Memphis and Dallas during the month of October.
 According to a Department announcement, the exhibit will consist of three panels, graphically presenting the growth of cooperative marketing. In connection with the exhibit will be shown a hundred or more pictures with descriptive titles to be thrown on a screen for the benefit of spectators. These will attractively portray the development and present extent of cooperative marketing in the United States, which is now carried on by more than 12,000 separate associations handling various products.
 It is estimated that these associations now market about one-fifth of the total products sold by farmers of the country. Five or six of the largest associations do an annual business of approximately $50,000,000, while about 150 others handle an annual volume of more than a million dollars each.
 The movement for cooperative marketing of farm products has been beset with many difficulties and some serious reverses, but the idea is sound and seems likely to prevail to an ever increasing extent. It is one of the striking illustrations of the benefits to be derived from the application of sound business methods to agriculture.

OCEAN FLIGHT DEATHS

Enthusiasm for over-sea airplane flights, which reached a high pitch following the exploits of Lindbergh, Chamberlain, Byrd, and the successful flyers to Hawaii, has been given a setback by the more recent disasters.
 Since the beginning of this year more than a score of lives have been lost in attempted over-sea flights, several being killed in accidents attending the failure of planes to take off under heavy loads.
 This long list of tragedies has caused the cancellation of several offered prizes and it is even proposed to prohibit over-seas flights by legislation, except those which may be undertaken under the most favorable circumstances with some sort of official supervision.
 In this connection it may be observed that the promiscuous stunts which have been attempted have not only resulted in disaster for the participants, but have caused enormous losses in time and money by vessels sent in search of the flyers, as well as by regular vessels diverted from their courses for the same purpose.
 Search for the ill-fated Dole derby flyers in the Pacific alone engaged the efforts of 53 vessels of the Navy which steamed 45,300 miles, and airplanes covering more than 9,000 miles, all without result. Similar experiences met searchers for lost planes in the Atlantic.
 While nothing but admiration can be felt for the brave men and women who have sacrificed their lives in these futile expeditions, it seems time to call a halt on exploits planned merely for the personal fame of those concerned. The true interests of aviation are retarded rather than advanced by foolhardy stunts such as have been witnessed during the last few weeks.

moved by the death of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, that organization is faced with the necessity of choosing a successor to that energetic and politically powerful leader.

Eight or more names have been suggested, but so far no official action has been taken toward a selection. Mr. Wheeler was both general counsel and legislative agent of the League, and these offices may be separated in future, it is said. Certainly it would take two average executives to carry on the intensive labors which Mr. Wheeler performed alone. Rev. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the League, will act as legislative agent for the present and may continue as such, but a new general counsel will probably be appointed soon.

The recent declaration of Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, that the service is honeycombed with dishonesty and graft has created a stir in political circles, which may result in a sweeping investigation of enforcement methods by Congress.

To meet the conditions which have been created by this pronouncement, as well as the increasingly violent attacks of foes of the Volstead Act, the Anti-Saloon League will stand in need of its strongest leaders in the immediate future. It will be indeed fortunate if it can develop a new chief with ability and energy equal to that displayed for so many years by Wayne B. Wheeler.

BABY NOW HAS CHANCE

In the long list of accomplishments to the credit of modern medical science perhaps none has a greater significance than the success attained in the reduction of childhood deaths.

A recent writer recalls that Queen Anne of England, born in 1664, bore 17 children, only one of whom lived more than a year, and he died at the age of 11. Now large families of children of ten mature without a death.

Through medical education and the treatment of early defects the child's chance of reaching maturity has been greatly increased, especially during the last half century. The lengthened average span of human life which now prevails is largely due to the reduction of mortality among infants.

In addition to regularly employed physicians and nurses by public health units, thousands of volunteer workers are co-operating in the noble task of saving babies' lives. In Kansas City alone it is said that 3,000 of these volunteers aided in this movement last year.

For their effective efforts in this and other directions looking to the preservation of human life the medical profession and those cooperating are entitled to the highest praise.

PROTECT CHILDREN FROM DIPHTHERIA

By J. C. Anderson, M. D.

Getting John and Mary ready for school takes both time and expense, as new dresses have to be made, new shoes and suits bought, books looked after, and many other minute details attended to which only mothers know about. Then, too, there is another phase of preparation of children for school that I wish to ask parents not to forget while seeing after the child's material needs, and that, is the child's physical fitness for school duties.

How about John and Mary? You want them to do good work in school this year, and to be able to do this, you should take them to your physician, to see that they are free of physical defects. Children cannot make progress in school who have adenoids, bad eyesight, diseased tonsils, ear trouble, or other impairment of important organs of the body. Examination of school children throughout the last several years, shows that approximately 25 per cent are suffering from malnutrition, diseased tonsils or glandular defects, while 75 per cent are suffering from defective teeth.

In counties and cities having a public health nursing service, physical examination is a part of the routine procedure, but if John and Mary are not fortunate enough to be included in districts having such service, do not fail to secure this service from your physician before the opening date of school.

The diphtheria germ was discovered by Klebs in 1883, but it was not until 1891 that an antidote for diphtheria poisoning was discovered. Diphtheria is a dangerous disease, and since medical science has found in toxin-antitoxin a protection for your child, the responsibility for a child contracting this disease, is placed squarely upon the parents.

Toxin-antitoxin can be administered by your family physician, and is given in three hypodermic doses, which are usually given one week apart. Toxin-antitoxin will not harm your child—the arm may be slightly sore for a few days, but most children show not even this symptom. Through the work of health departments, school authorities, and private physicians, hundreds of thousands of children have been immunized against diphtheria throughout the country with perfect safety. There is no reason why you should hesitate in giving John and Mary this safeguard against one of the most deadly of children's diseases.

Not only did we have 265 deaths in Texas last year from diphtheria, but 1,673 cases of diphtheria were reported to the State Health Department as occurring within the state. As it is estimated that only about 23 per cent of all cases of communicable diseases are reported to this department, this would indicate that more than 7,000 cases of diphtheria occurred.

These figures are an indictment against the good sense of our citizenship as well as the fair names of our state. What are you going to do about it? Shall we conserve the life and health of Texas children, or shall we sit by and see the state's greatest asset sacrificed on the altar of apathy and indifference to sacred trust?

The lives of innocent children have been sacrificed long enough. Diphtheria can be prevented and it must be eliminated from Texas. City and county health officials, school authorities, club women, and business men are asked to cooperate in instituting county-wide campaigns for the immunization of children against diphtheria. The month of September has been designated by this department as "Diphtheria Immunization" month, and it is hoped that a hearty response will come from the public in regard to this work. Any further information regarding diphtheria immunization campaigns will be sent upon request to State Department of Health, Austin.

DO SPORES SPREAD ROOT ROT?

The fungus causing cotton root rot has been known for many years to have a spore or seed stage and it has been thought by scientists studying the disease that the function of these spores is to disseminate the fungus growth. Spores of this fungus gathered during the present season are being germinated in the Experiment Station laboratory, but to date the fungus threads emanating from these spores have all died. Doctor Taubenhaus, who is directing the studies, is proceeding with the work and hopes to discover definitely whether these spores are able to reproduce the fungus under field conditions. The spores certainly do not behave in the same manner as do the spores of other fungi in that they seem unable to grow in the element in which they germinate.

It is known that the root rot fungus can maintain itself almost indefinitely upon live roots of susceptible plants and that the fungus growth is readily transferred from affected roots to susceptible roots coming in contact with them. If this were the only means by which the infestation is spread, then eradication would simply be a matter of cleaning the land of susceptible roots; but if the spores produced by the fungus actually do grow and spread the disease when they germinate, then the disease is spread as widely as the spores are spread, where conditions are suitable for their germination and growth. These spores are light and might be easily spread by the wind or by insects or by various other agencies—and, since they form under favorable weather conditions wherever the fungus is at work, such a finding would disclose the seriousness of the sporadic spread of this fungus growth which kills cotton, legumes and, in fact, almost all of the succulent rooted crops as well as many of the trees and fruits.

Studies in the control of root rot, therefore, involve gaining a knowledge of how the fungus propagates. The broadside attack which has been launched this year by the Experiment Station, under special appropriation for the work, has already revealed a wide distribution of spore spots which have been observed to form under proper condition of moisture and high temperature. In fact, experimental work at Iowa Park, has resulted in the producing of spore spots at will through regulated irrigation of the land where the fungus is known to be at work and where the temperatures are rather high. It has also been observed that as the drought conditions have advanced during the present summer the spores have been more difficult to find and it is thought that they do not form under droughty conditions, regardless of the temperatures. It is known that the fungus works more slowly on the infected roots of plants during a drought as well as during the winter time than it does when the plants are in vigorous growing condition and no spore spots have been found where the fungus is in this semi-suspended state of activity.

Exhaustive tests are under way in the effort to produce the disease through the germination of these spores in the laboratories. Every effort is being made to provide every sort of condition which the spores might encounter in the field and which would be suitable to induce the disease; but, as yet, no results have been obtained that would throw light on how these spores grow when they germinate naturally, nor for that matter, whether they grow at all. Indeed there is no definite evidence that these spores do produce fungus growth, but until the means of spread of the disease is fully and completely understood, it will be impossible to consistently control or, with certainty, minimize the losses.

FLOODING EXPERIMENTS TO CONTROL COTTON ROOT ROT DISEASE

Acting on the suggestion of Mr. W. T. Carter, Chief of the Division of Soil Surveys of the Experiment Station, that he has noted that soils subject to frequent or more or less prolonged inundation do not show evidences of the cotton root rot disease, Doctor Taubenhaus in charge of root rot investigations has begun a series of studies at the Iowa Park Station where irrigation is available, to determine whether and to what extent flooding the land will kill out the root rot. Various degrees of flooding is being applied to the irrigated plots on this station and if it is found that any reasonable amount of flooding will kill the root rot the irrigation farmers have a means of getting rid of the disease on their irrigated plots. In connection with these experiments, Superintendent E. J. Wilson at the Iowa Park Station is trying out rice growing on these plots. Rice requires that the land be flooded during much of the growing season. Rice is a fibrous rooted plant and is not subject to root rot. It is, therefore, considered among the possibilities that irrigating farmers may, by growing a crop or so of rice, incidentally kill out the root rot in the land in connection with the flooding given to the rice.

Fastest Four in America Proves Its Claim to Title

Dodge Averages 67.35 miles per hour in Beating All Other Fours in Atlantic City A. A. Race

The Atlantic City (N.J.) Speedway Association, without Dodge Brothers' investigation or knowledge, bought a Dodge Brothers Four and entered it in a Labor Day race for four cylinder stock cars. Four cars of other makes also competed. All were strictly stock cars as required by the rules of the association.

The race was for 25 miles—to determine which was "The Fastest Four in America."

The Dodge won.

Its average speed for the entire race, from a standing start, was 67.35 miles per hour (officially timed by A. A. A.).

Generous confirmation, to say the least, of the modest claim of "Mile-a-minute Performance!"

Even more remarkable than the speed, however, is the fact that the car had been driven only 10 days and yet was able to withstand this difficult test without once stopping.

Thus the race not only offers conclusive proof of the Dodge's superiority in speed, but stands also as a glowing tribute to the rugged materials and excellent workmanship that go to make it—America's Fastest and Finest Four!

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.

I was paying a week-end visit to an old classmate. I had looked eagerly forward to this visit as I had not seen my friend since her marriage and had never seen her little five-year-old daughter.

Immediately upon my arrival, the conversation turned upon Betty.

"Oh, I am so anxious for you to see her," said the fond mother. "She is playing in the sand now. I'll call her in a few minutes. I like to keep her out-of-doors when I am working, so that she is out of my way."

I glanced out of the window and saw a little figure bending over a sand pile.

Her mother went on, "You know Betty is a queer child, not at all like other children. I have quite a time disciplining her. She doesn't eat normally, and she never seems quite happy and contented."

"Does she have anyone to play with?" I asked.

"No, the other children of the neighborhood all go to kindergarten."

"And doesn't Betty go?" I asked.

I was shocked at her reply. "No, I haven't sent her yet and I'm not going to send her next year and perhaps not the next. She is all I have and I want her for companionship."

I groaned inwardly at such self-confessed selfishness as this. "But," I remonstrated, "do you realize of what you are depriving your child? Do you know how much the companionship of children during these years will mean to her?"

The lunch was ready. Betty's mother went to the door and called. No response from the little figure bending over the sand. She called a second and a third time. Then Betty raised her head. An annoyed look crossed her face, but she came. At her mother's reproof she answered a bit resentfully, "My pie was almost finished. I was just putting the raisins in."

"Well, never mind the pie now. Lunch is ready. Wash your hands. My, how dirty you have gotten yourself. How many times must I tell you to be careful."

Betty opened her mouth to remonstrate but her mother silenced her.

The lunch was simple and appetizing. Betty had a plate and mug all covered with fluffy yellow chick and a small knife, fork and spoon lay beside them. Everything was arranged to appeal to a child's taste and yet Betty sat idly playing with her food. Her mother coaxed, scolded and finally brought a ruler to the table and threatened to whip her if she did not eat. Even then Betty ate very little.

After lunch I suggested that she take me up to her play room and show me her toys. Here was a great wonderful house, lighted with real electric light. There was a real bath room with all of the fixtures and a kitchen with a gas stove and sink. Everything was as complete as in the best modern home. Betty demonstrated the lights and showed me all the things. Then she sat back and folded her hands.

"Why don't you play with your house?" I asked.

"Oh, it isn't to play with; it's just to look at. Mother says."

"Would you like to make one that you can play with? If you bring me an old shoe box and a pair of scissors, I'll show you how to make one."

Betty ran delightedly to her mother but came back crestfallen. "Mother says she doesn't want me to cut because I get scraps around."

Then I suggested that we play house and undress the doll and put it to bed but this too,

Betty said could not be done. Mother had washed the doll's clothes and dressed it to go on a trip the next day with Betty and it must be kept clean and tidy. And so I went on from one thing to another, trying to find something that the child could really do for herself but without success. There must be nothing to make the house or the child look untidy. If she did become interested for a moment in a picture book, her mother broke the thread of her thought by calling her to wash her hands. No wonder she was unnatural, hard to govern and did not eat. The companionship of children, activity directed into natural child-like channels, and less adults interference would have done much toward making Betty a happy, contented and obedient child.

NEW TYPE OF ROAD HOG IS MAN WHO REPAIRS CAR

One form of road-hogging that is coming in for considerable condemnation at the present time is that of utilizing the highway as a repair shop when something goes wrong with the car. It is a type of selfishness which presents a very definite hazard and is one that every motorist should make an especial effort to avoid, says the American Automobile association.

"With millions of motorists on the road this Summer, it is obvious that converting the highway into a temporary repair shop in case any minor trouble develops in the car is a hazardous practice. The greater volume of traffic, together with the fact that many states have raised the speed limit for automobiles, makes this danger even greater than in the past. Many motorists, however, apparently are oblivious of this danger. When a tire goes flat, instead of pulling entirely off the road they are content to stop on the highway and make the change. In the case of a carburetor adjustment or other minor repair to the engine this is dangerous enough, but when a tire is to be changed, it is doubly hazardous because the operation requires considerable moving around and the use of several extra devices such as a jack and lug wrench. Even if the car itself is over on the edge of the road, if the punctured tire is on the left side it means for the motorist will be working out in the line of travel.

"With traffic bearing down upon him from both directions, naturally his position is dangerous to himself and to other motorists.

"Many accidents caused by this practice have been reported to the American Automobile Association, with which this club is affiliated, and these reports are responsible for the terse warning issued by the A. A. A., which reads:

"Drive the car entirely off the road before attempting to make any repairs to it."

GETTING THE MOST OUT OF LIFE

The modern Chamber of Commerce and similar civic organizations, it has been found, in this community and in about three thousand other cities and towns of the United States today, offer the broadest opportunity for service to one's neighbors and one's community.

The wonderful accomplishments of organized civic team work have been found the outstanding peculiarity of American cities. The old Board of Trade has been superseded by the modern Chamber of Commerce, which is a clearing house for the best thought of the community, and a service organization for the rendering of specific personal assistance to the various firms and citizens who may apply to it.

It is in service through your Chamber of Commerce that you can get the most out of life as a citizen. Older persons tell us as they begin to look toward the setting sun that material gains—money and success—all shrink into very small things unless the owner of these blessings has also friends and neighbors and the pride that comes with the knowledge that he has done his part as a citizen, and that he has made his town a little better for having lived in it.

The modern Chamber of Commerce offers a vehicle for increasing the business of its community, but it does far more than this. It offers the best and broadest field of co-operation for the improving of life and living conditions in the community. Its ideal is not only to help the community to make a living, but also to help its citizens to build lives worth while.

If you are not active in your Chamber of Commerce you are overlooking one of the greatest privileges of citizenship in the modern American city. Take advantage of it. "It's a grand and glorious feeling" to know you have had a part in making the community in which you and your family live a little better because of your efforts.

W. E. JAMES FOR SUPERINTENDENT CLUB ORGANIZED AT DENTON

Denton, Texas, Sept. 17.—At a meeting held last night at the Godwin Hotel some of the friends of W. E. James organized a club for the purpose of urging him to run for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

W. E. James, who now lives at Austin, was formerly a teacher in the North Texas State Teacher's College. After leaving the College, he became school supervisor with the State Department of Education. As full aid inspector, and later as state director of the Texas Council of Safety, he has made a large number of friends throughout the entire state. Mr. James holds a B. A. degree from Baylor University, an M. A. degree from the University of Texas, and has completed a large part of the work required from the Ph. D. degree. He is well known as a practical school man and a forceful public speaker.

Since Mr. James is so thoroughly qualified his many friends here feel that he is the man for State Superintendent and that he can easily win the race.

D. B. Weaver returned last Friday from the Ozarks in Arkansas, where he has been for several months for the benefit of his health, and he came home greatly improved and is loud in his praise of that country.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Grubb of Chicago, Ill., were here last week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sheedy. Mr. Grubb is a member of the firm of Grubb & Hobbs, large real estate dealers in Chicago, and while here Mr. Grubb took advantage of the occasion to look into land values on the Knox prairie with view of making investments at Munday, and he was highly pleased with the Munday country. Mrs. Grubb is a sister to Mrs. Sheedy.

J. C. Ewing will leave within a few days for Fort Worth, where he will enter the Southwestern Theological Seminary.

Lloyd Bowden will leave within the next few days for Abilene, where he will enter Simmons University.

Miss Mamie Maxwell departed on Thursday afternoon for her home at Kirkland, Texas, and after a brief visit with home folks there will go to Denton, where she will be a student in the North Texas Teachers College.

Houston McCarty of Nara Visa, New Mexico, is here this week looking after business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bauman were in Dallas the latter part of last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Farrington accompanied their son, Nolle, to Austin last Sunday, and returned on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Milam left first of the week in company with their daughter, Miss Lillian, for Belton, where the latter will enter Baylor College for the ensuing term.

Bud Pierce of Dallas was here the latter part of last week looking after interests in this city.

Mesdames W. R. Moore and C. M. Hendrix were visitors to Wichita Falls on Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. S. Grady West and little son have returned to their home at Shamrock, Texas, after a visit with her mother, Mrs. Florence Williams.

J. B. Bowden has ordered The Times sent to his son, Lloyd Bowden, who will be a student in Simmons University at Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Maberry and son, J. O. of Sayre, Oklahoma, were here first of the week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Isbell, and were enroute to Dallas, where their son will enter school.

Houston McCarty of Nara Visa, New Mexico, is here this week looking after business interests.

J. W. Davy and L. E. Loveless were Dallas visitors the latter part of last week.

The Livestock Situation

In the past the feeling has prevailed among range cattlemen that the promotion of feed lot operations was opposed to their best interests; the theory being that feed lot cattle would be placed in competition to the grass cattle, to the detriment of the range interests.

A program of livestock feeding in no way injures the range cattle business. In reality it helps, because it affords an assured outlet for stocker and feeder cattle, and as the practice of feeding becomes more general, no doubt the bulk of the range beef cattle will be sold to feeders, to be finished out, at prices as satisfactory as those now realized from turning this class of cattle to the packers.

This too, has the added advantage of absorbing seasonal movements in a more regular way without the danger of glut through excessive supplies at certain seasons going beyond the point where the demand can make proper absorption.

There is a constantly increasing demand for better beef and the west is no exception. With the bulk of western range cattle going to middle western

Mr. and Mrs. J. Horace Bass of Haskell visited friends in the city on Tuesday afternoon.

Caz Lansford has gone to Abilene and entered Draughts Business College, and will take a course in banking.

feeders and the Pacific Coast demand increasing steadily for grain finished cattle, there is no doubt but that the same condition will prevail upon the coast as does in the middle west.

Then too, with the better appreciation of the importance of maintaining soil fertility through the medium of livestock, feed lot operations will increase. The viewpoint in this connection has changed around to the tendency to handle livestock because the land needs the fertilizer, rather than viewing the matter entirely from the standpoint of a direct financial gain.

The lack of recognizing the importance of animal fertilizer in the United States has resulted in the course of fifty years in certain sections of lands becoming barren whereas in European countries with less fertile soils to commence with, after hundreds of years of production the land remains in good condition. This situation will, of course, eventually be remedied through the handling of a few head of livestock on each farm and ranch and the carrying out of the feed lot operations.

Miss Helen Smith left on Wednesday for Abilene, where she will enter Simmons University. While at Simmons Miss Helen will specialize in music and expects to continue her studies there until she has attained her degree from that institution.

Latin Club Meets

On Monday, Sept. 19, 1927 the Latin Club met for organization—or rather reorganization, for it will be a continuation of the work which was carried on last year. During the business session the following permanent officers were elected:

President Earl Newsom
Vice-president Blanche Newsom
Sec'y-treas. Naomi Freeman
Reporter Arlene Kendall
Madeline Splice

A program committee was selected and Christine Chapman was elected chairman.

It was decided that fines would be imposed for absence from program duty without reason.

The motto of our club is, "Lux et Veritas" (light and truth). Some Latin song books have been ordered and Vivian Rogers was appointed as song leader.

Most of our old members are with us this year and there are also many new ones. We hope to do some real work during this year.

With all their erudition, a group of British surgeons traveling in this country were stumped when served corn on the cob on a railway diner. GREETINGS

Another school year has rolled around and we are back on the job with the Roundhouse. Everybody seemed to be well pleased with our efforts as journalists last year and it shall be our purpose to carry on as best we can again this school year. We will welcome criticisms, constructive or otherwise, and trust that, at least, The Roundhouse will not cause Mr. Kennedy to lose any subscribers.

There are more students enrolled in Munday Public Schools than ever before. The seating capacity of the high school study hall is barely sufficient to accommodate all the pupils enrolled. And we, the members of the high school, are going to do our part to make it the best year in accomplishment and pep that Munday has ever known.

There were many improvements made during the summer which both teachers and pupils should appreciate and be proud of. Especially are we proud of the new sanitary improvements.

Classes in both buildings have been rearranged. In the high school building the room occupied last year by the third grade is being used as a class room for the high school grades in order that all science students might obtain entrance into Mr. Stanley's room without passing through the laboratory. The class room used by Mr. Bass last year is being occupied by the third grade.

The two first grades were moved from the community auditorium to the basement of the old building. The seventh grade classes will be conducted on the third floor of the old building. This arrangement is much better because all pupils will be on the campus during school hours.

There was some difficulty in arranging the schedule for the high school this year and eliminate most of the conflicts. It has been satisfactorily arranged now, however, and the teachers are in charge of the following subjects:

Mr. Rhodes: Civics and Plane Geometry.
 Mr. Standley: General Science, Biology, Chemistry and Algebra II.
 Mrs. Rhodes: English I, III and IV, and History III.
 Miss Mills: Spanish I and II, English II and History I.
 Miss Compton: Latin I and II, Math. I and Math. IV.
 Mr. Palmer, principal of the Munday Grammar School.

teaches History II. We students feel that each teacher is certainly capable of teaching the subjects which he (or she) is in charge of. If the students carry their responsibility as well as the teachers have their's thus far, the high school this year will be thoroughly successful.

ATHLETIC NOTES

After a week's work the football prospects for Munday High look some brighter than they did the first day. The squad is composed of a bunch of first year men, but they are very enthusiastic workers and will, no doubt, develop into a splendid team before the season is over.

Coaches Palmer and Elliott keep the Moguls on the job from four till six every afternoon and if an abundance of hard work means anything we are going to have one of the snappiest little teams in this part of the country.

Three games have already been scheduled. The Moguls journey to Haskell Friday, Sept. 30th for their first game. Then Friday, October 14th, we have with us on Mogul field our ancient and honorable rivals, the Knox City Greyhounds. This game will be returned in Knox City Friday, November 11th. Other games are pending and within the next week or two the entire schedule will probably be ready for announcement.

Players

Joe Aycock, who played some last year is expected to be one of the star players this year. Joe has the nerve and pep and with training will make a real player. We are counting on Joe in every way, and are sure that he will not disappoint us.

Earl Pruitt played some last year and has about the same record as Joe. Earl is a hard worker and a fast one. He will show you what there is in him before the year is out and I am sure we will be proud of him.

Paul Pruitt also played some last year. Paul has a good record as a fast man and don't worry, he will keep it. He will work just as hard as the rest and fight just as hard.

Sophomores

The Sophomore Class of '27 met Thursday and organized. A brief business session was held during which time class officers were elected as follows:

President—Arlene Kendall;
 Vice-president, Earl Newson;
 Sec'y-treasurer, J. C. Nelson;
 Class reporter, Vivian Rogers;
 The Sophs, are full of pep and enthusiasm and we hope to be successful in becoming good students and true sportsmen.

In the class this year we have twenty-six members, three of which are new. The new ones being, Freddy Hutchison, Prairie View; Sara Smith, Electric, Texas, and Lucille Price from Goree, Texas.

To these we desire to extend a most sincere welcome and we hope they will enjoy the association with the class throughout the year.

Seniors

There is enrolled in Munday High School one of the peppiest and by far the best looking bunch of seniors that Munday has ever known.

We have eleven new pupils, Theda Brewer, Sherman; Evelyn Curry, O'Donney; Ruby Myers, Gladys Crume, Elsie Offutt, Pearl Offutt, Elton, Busby, and Mac Claburn, Gillespie; Homer Laim, Lone Star; Odell Freeman, Ardmore, Okla.; and Ora Lee Parks, Fortales, New Mexico. Thirteen students from last year's Junior class have enrolled, making a splendid class of twenty-four.

The Seniors organized their class on the second day of school. Mr. J. E. Rhodes was chosen on the first ballot as sponsor of this fine class. Mr. Rhodes is of the opinion that the senior class could not have one better. Otis Burnett was elected president, and Oneita Blanton, secretary-treasurer.

When the appointment of the "Roundhouse" staff was made, you will please observe that a dignified senior was made Editor-in-Chief.

There are only six boys in our class, and this is very dangerous as there are eighteen girls. Here's hoping that nothing serious will develop. Maybe the Texas Rangers will not have to be summoned.

As a reference book for information concerning the seniors, watch this section of the "Round-house" every week.

Juniors

School has begun and with us are two new Juniors, Lucille Phillips and Loys Wilson. Sixteen old students from last year's Sophomore class have enrolled, thus making the total eighteen.

Joe Aycock was elected president of the Junior class and Mauray Smith, secretary-treasurer. Two juniors were selected for duty on the Roundhouse staff. W. A. Wyche was appointed sport editor and Joe Aycock class reporter.

We are few in number but we will be in the race when the final shot is fired. We selected as our motto, "Less Quantity, but More Quality." To the Juniors, that is "more truth than poetry."

Furthermore, you will notice that the Juniors have more candidates for the football team than the Seniors. That does not mean that we have more boys but that we have more boys with the "get up" in them to come out for the squad.

Freshmen

The Freshmen have started off with a bang! We all like high school, and think it a pleasant place to be, and we are going to do our part in keeping it that way.

On the first day of school there were fifty-two Freshmen enrolled.

Our new members are: Elmo Wilson, of McKinney, Howard Kyle, of Vernon; Dorothy Lunn, of Durant, Okla., and Ellen Griffin, who is from Phillips school. Some of our classmates left us when we were in grade school.

but are back with us this year. One is Mildred Allison, who has been going to school at Prairie View.

The Freshmen have for their officers, Elmo Wilson, president; Lillian McGlothlin, vice-president; Paul Pruitt, sec'y-treasurer and our social committee, is Rex Holder, Ilene Bowden, Lola Brock and Alfred Collins.

Our class sponsor is Mr. Palmer, Principal of Grammar school.

Truman White, is going out with a good spirit, and we expect Truman to do as good in football as he did in basketball. Truman is not going to let you hope in vain and will be a great help to the squad.

Otis Burnett is a new player but he has a willingness to learn and will do his part in every way.

Elton Busbee is a new student in High School and has been doing his best in every way. Elton will be there when the roll is called and ready to go.

Lois Wilson is also new here, he is a very hard worker and has as much pep and go as any of the boys.

Elmo Wilson is a new student in school. He did not hesitate to try for football and has been showing himself as a real prospect.

new students. He is just as eager and willing to play as the others. He will probably be heard from before the season is over.

Alfred Collins is one more to help the boys out. Alfred has not played before but intends to make up for lost time. Alfred is full of pep and has the fighting spirit.

Gilbert Myers is one of our most promising freshmen on the squad. He received a very painful injury last week but is still on the job.

Hubert Isbell is last but not least. Hubert may be starting young but he will do his best, and become valuable for the

Looking Backward--And Forward

As we look backward over the months since we have been doing business in Munday we realize that our business has shown a gradual and substantial increase all along, from which fact we derive a certain amount of satisfaction, for indeed, we realize that unless our customers had been pleased with the quality of the merchandise—the treatment accorded them—and the prices at which we have sold them groceries—there would be a different story to tell, and we're looking forward to the pleasure of serving still others in the same satisfactory manner in the future.

We want your business and appreciate your patronage, and we know that we must render service to merit it—we know that our prices must be right—that you must be pleased, so let us serve you in the same satisfactory manner that we're serving many others.

ESSEX truly follows... Racing Car Development

Thus There is Greater Power—Greater Reliability—More Economy And For The Same Reason Every Part is Engineered to Perfectly Balance Every Other Part

Twenty years ago racing cars were twice as heavy and were powered by motors four times as large as the racing car of today. Yet they were only half as fast and had nothing like the endurance of the present day car.

Engineers learned that big motors did not mean greater power. Faster and more enduring motors were found in the smaller high-compression type. And then to make full use of the motor development, the chassis throughout had to be re-designed. Every part had to be engineered in perfect balance to every other part.

Since every racing car is virtually hand made, and cost is no object, these things offer no obstacle.

But such practice is not customary in building stock automobiles. To save costs many makers use the same axle, transmission, clutch and motor.

Essex, however, follows racing car practice. Its Super-Six motor develops more than 2½ times the power its size ordinarily rates it. It converts waste heat to power and gives economy in fuel and oil that is astounding.

The distinction, however, is not limited to the motor. Its chassis is in true balance in every part. Clutch, transmission, axle and frame are especially engineered to make a perfect unit. This permits compactness and adds 15% to the length of the body without extending the body beyond the rear axle.

This unity of construction assures added advantage in every particular of performance, reliability, comfort, safety and economy.

"THE HOUSE OF QUALITY"

With Our Subscribers

Louis Homer, residing on State Street, was a caller at this office on last Saturday, having called to have his name placed on our mailing list. Mr. Homer has recently returned from the plains country and from the tone of his conversation we gathered that he came home better pleased with the Munday Times than ever. He has resided here for thirty years and states that during all those years he has never bought food but one year, when he bought 200 bushels of oats, which he could have gotten along without, and he is convinced that we have an ideal farming country for the man who will diversify.

Mr. A. J. Smith is another new subscriber to The Times, and we're hoping he likes the old rag so well he will not be without it hereafter. He and Mrs. Smith are staying at Goree with their grandchildren while their daughter, Mrs. Buck Cloud, is in Mineral Wells for the benefit of her health.

F. C. Russell came in on Friday of last week and had his name enrolled on our subscription list, for which he has our sincere thanks.

J. E. Day of route 2 handed us the news that he has his fingers crossed for another twelve months on Wednesday of this week. Mr. Day is one of the successful farmers of the Munday country, and his success is largely due to the fact that he practices diversification. He has some fine chickens on his farm and other channels by which he converts his surplus feedstuffs into cash, and notwithstanding the fact that he was making more than two hundred dollars per month prior to coming to Knox county and engaging in farming, he has no desire whatever to return to his former occupation, that of railroading.

One of the first acts of Mr. C. P. Pickens, who came here last week from Fort Worth to assume charge of the Munday Complex, was to have his name placed on our list, for which we are very thankful. Mr. Pickens has had many years experience in the business and is striving to build the business of this concern up in the confidence of the people of this section, and we are sure that he is thoroughly capable of handling the situation.

J. W. Cowan, who resides in the Grasshopper community, but who receives his mail on route two out of Goree, came in Saturday for a little quarrel, and dropped a dollar and a half into the exchanger for this moral guide another year, for which he has our sincere thanks.

Charles and Nollie Farrington will keep informed as to what's happening here at home through the columns of The Times, while they are away, both of whom are students in the University of Texas at Austin.

One of the last requests made by Chase Elland when he departed for Austin to enter the University of Texas was that made of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Elland, that they ship him The Munday Times each week, and they've complied with that request, or we should say Mrs. Elland has.

Commander Byrd's ability to navigate in a fog suggests that he should be employed to pilot a ship of state now and then.

From now on things will seem slow around Rapid City.

American Legion delegates may have said, "Lafayette, we are here again."
