Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

There just isn't enough time between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Despite the fact that they start advertising (it seems in August) to "use our Christmas lay-away plan," and stories coming out early about Santa going to visit various towns, it's just plumb hard for us to begin thinking about Christmas until the observance of Thanksgiving is over with.

Guess we're not the only one, either, because there's generally a mad rush—and perhaps starting the next day after Thanksgiving—to get the town and its people ready for the Christmas season.

It was like that in Munday! The townspeople had just about a week after Thanksgiving day to get the town all decorated and plans completed for the kiddies' Christmas parade last Saturday.

And by way of digression (if that's what we're doing) the town's decorations on the city hall lawn are a little different, unusual, and most attractive this year. Outside of Santa's sleigh and reindeer which decorate the same corner of the square, the other effects are arranged differently.

We like the lighted stars along Main Street, instead of on each side of the city hall, as before. The home-made Christmas tree, using the pole on top of which rests the bell, is different and presents a very beautiful effect at night.

After lots of calm and beautiful days which brought us a prolonged and extended Indian Summer, the weather had to turn windy and brisk for the parade last Saturday.

In spite of this, however, the parade went off as scheduled, and a large crowd of people turned out to view it.

There weren't as many entries in the parade this year as last, but the floats and individual displays revealed that Munday people still have originality in their ideas and are artistic in preparing them.

Santa Claus is about the only thing in the entire display that anything like resembled last year's event—and if you get around to changing Santa's countenance or mode of dress, pretty soon you won't have a Santa Claus.

We were included in the group that made the rounds along the Miller's Creek watershed last Friday, then on the proposed reservoir damsite, where we stood right in the basin of "the reservoir."

It's all still in the formative and "talk about" stage, but we think it would be advantageous to all concerned if arrangements can be completed for construction of an electrical power plant on the proposed lake.

Officials of the Brazos Valley Electrical Cooperative feel that the desire is urgent for the 60,000 kilowatt plant, to be placed in operation by June 1, 1966, with the likelihood of another unit being constructed some four years later. The $20,000 to $30,000 per year from sale of water would greatly aid the financial situation for the Authority.

Officials of the Authority feel, too, that possibilities of an early start on constructing the lake are better now than at any time in the past.

It was our pleasure to ride with one of the Waco men, Mr. H. A. Dalton, general manager of the Brazos Valley Electrical Cooperative. It was interesting to see that Mr. Dalton bore a striking resemblance to President Lyndon B. Johnson—so much so that, he said, he is quite often mistaken by strangers to be President Johnson, most recently in a hotel lobby someplace in Oklahoma.

Being a staunch Democrat, Dalton isn't the least insulted when reminded of this resemblance!

Parade Winners Are Announced

Heading the second annual Kiddies' Christmas Parade, Santa Claus made his first of three appearances here last Saturday afternoon, riding in a fire truck. The parade formed at the high school and proceeded around the city hall square, where Santa passed out candy to the children. He promised to return to Munday for the next two Saturdays.

A crowd estimated at between 600 and 700 people viewed the parade despite chilly high winds. Prizes totalling $100 were awarded the parade winners.

The first place float was Santa riding a rocket and was entered by Billy and Timmi Baker, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Roy Baker of O'Brien and Kerri Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker. Billy was dressed Santa Claus and rode astride the rocket on a saddle.

"Christmas at Grandma's" won second prize. On the float were grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Smith of Munday.

First place in the individual contest was won by Beth Carl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Cary, and Debbie James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy James of Abilene. They rode a "one-horse open sleigh" which was drawn by a shetland pony.

Winner of second place was Sue Hobert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hobert, who was dressed as Mr. Snowman, and a choir boy portrayed by Tim Nix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nix, was awarded third place.

Last Rites For Mrs. J. R. Burnison Held Wednesday

Mrs. J. R. Burnison, 70, resident of this area for about 63 years and member of an area pioneer family, passed away last Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmo Anderson, in Albuquerque, N. M. She had been in ill health for several months and had been hospitalized in Albuquerque.

She was born Lila Jones on May 9, 1893, in Bowie and moved to Haskell County in 1895 and to Munday in 1900. She married Jess Burnison here December 22, 1912. She was an early-day school teacher in this area.

She was the daughter of the late J. P. Jones and Mrs. Jones. Her father, a former Knox County official, was the first 33rd degree Mason in Knox County.

Mrs. Burnison was a noted amateur artist and writer and a long-time member of the Munday Study Club and the Church of Christ.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Church of Christ in Munday with Richard Pectal, Jr., minister, officiating. Burial was in Gillespie Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home.

Surviving her are her husband; four daughters, Mrs. Elmo Anderson of Albuquerque, N. M., Mrs. Jack Anderson of Clovis, N. M., Mrs. Aristol Thompson of Dallas and Mrs. Maxine Hipple of Houston; a brother, John Jones of Munday; a sister, Mrs. Kate McLennan of Stamford, and seven grandchildren.

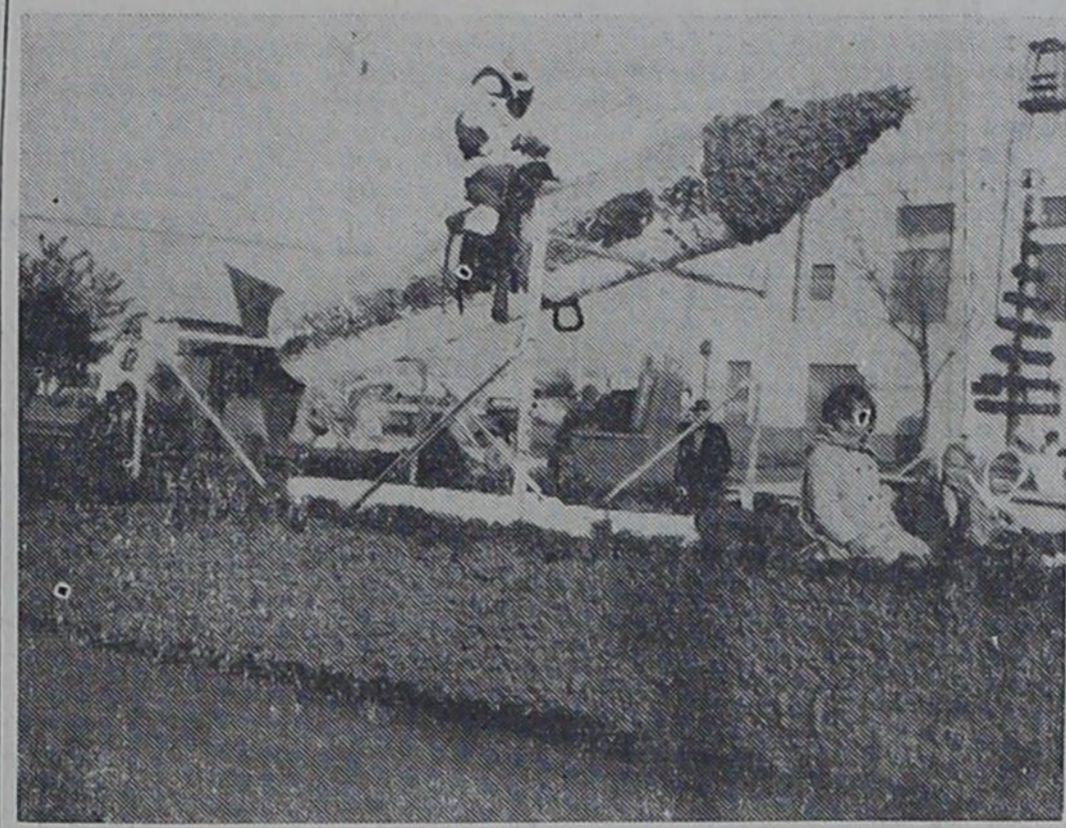

Firemen Make Two Calls This Week

Two fires were reported last week. On December 4 at 2:30 p.m. firemen answered a call to two miles north of town where Sang Cherry's car was on fire. Considerable damage was done under the hood.

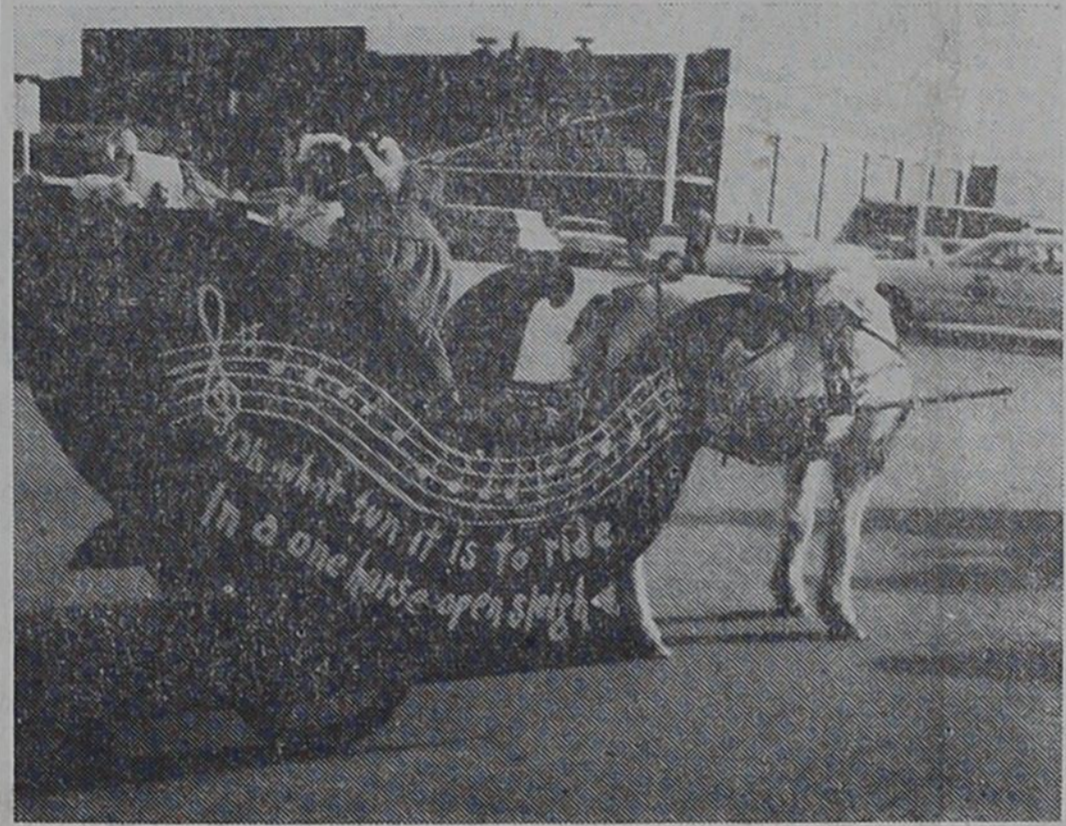

On Sunday night, December 8, at 6:15, another car one mile southeast of Rhineland caught on fire. This car was demolished.

Methodist Choir To Present Cantata

The choir of First Methodist Church in Munday will present a Christmas cantata at 6 p.m. Sunday December 15, in the sanctuary of the church. It is "Shepherds and Wise Men" by James R. Gillette.

Narrator will be Charles Hogssett, who plays the part of a shepherd named Astron. He will be dressed as a shepherd.

The cantata begins with a In-tro-itus by the choir and a prelude by the organist. Astron, the shepherd, received his name because of his unusual interest in the stars. And he relates how on one night a Great Star appeared in the heavens and lighted all the heavens. The music includes some old and some new music. Pergolesi's Glory to God in the Highest is one of the more dramatic of the numbers. Some of the music dates from the 13th and 14th centuries.

Organist for the group will be Mrs. John Holdridge and pianist, Miss Millie Moore. Mrs. Rex L. Mauldin is director. The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Last Rites For Mrs. M. A. Bumpas Held On Saturday

Mrs. M. A. Bumpas, 71, resident of this area for almost 45 years, passed away at 10:30 p.m. Thursday in the Haskell hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Bumpas was born Maggie McGregor on July 14, 1892, in Birmingham, Ala., and moved to Dallas as a young girl. She married Mr. Bumpas in 1910 in Dallas, and they moved to a farm southwest of Munday in 1919. Mr. Bumpas preceded her in death in 1954, and their only son, M. A. Jr., died in 1956.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Saturday from the First Baptist Church in Munday with the pastor, Rev. John Street, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Huron A. Polnah of Rotan and Rev. R. N. Tucker of Weinert.

Burial was in Johnson Memorial Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home. Serving as pallbearers were C. J. Williamson, Cecil Gulley, Herbert Partridge, John A. Mayfield, R. W. Raynes and Harold Partridge.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. W. A. King of Weinert and Mrs. A. L. Newberry of Littleton, Colo.; a sister, Mrs. J. C. Tillery of Dallas; a brother, W. J. McGregor of Dallas; and eight grandchildren.

Electric Generating Plant Prospect for Miller's Creek

Backers of the Miller's Creek Dam project to furnish an adequate, palatable water supply for four area communities, Haskell, Rule, Munday and Goree, welcomed a prospective partner to the undertaking this week.

Three executives of the Brazos Valley Electrical Cooperative, comprising 19 organizations with a power responsibility spread over much of the Brazos River watershed, spent most of Friday inspecting the 1,400-acre Miller's Creek dam site in company with representatives of all four communities in the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority.

The Waco-based officials reported they are seeking a new source of power in this territory, and left "tremendously interested in what we saw," H. A. Dalton, general manager of the Brazos Valley Electrical Coop, told a reporter.

Accompanying Dalton to this area were Milton Sturdivant, engineer, and W. C. (Bill) Key, the cooperative's superintendent of power production.

L. B. Patterson of Munday, president of the NCTMWA, and R. W. Herren of Haskell, member of the board, headed a delegation which met and escorted the Waco group on an inspection tour of the Miller's Creek area of the Portwood Ranch in Baylor County.

Others in the party from this area were Morris Neal, Rule banker; Walter Coffman, Goree businessman; C. P. Baker, Munday rancher and farmer; Pete Beecher, of the water authority office in Munday; Tom Craddock of Seymour, secretary-treasurer of the Brazos Valley compact of organizations; Aaron Edgar, publisher of the Munday Times; Porter Oakes, editor of the Haskell Free Press.

The desire of the trio of executives to "see for themselves" came out of a recent visit with them by Patterson and Neal in Waco during which the feasibility report prepared by Freeze and Nichols, consulting engineers of Fort Worth, was presented Herren reported.

Their interest in the Miller's Creek project, according to the visiting experts on sources of power, stems from an immediate need for additional power in the Olney-Throckmorton-Seymour area.

Dalton reported the desire is urgent for a 60 megawatt (60,000 kilowatts) recirculating water power unit "by June, 1966, and a similar one at the same place a few years later," the exact year depending on the determination of power needs.

Key, Dalton and Sturdivant individually in unsolicited declarations and as a group, agreed they were most impressed by an anticipated depth of the projected 25,000-acre-foot lake. "What we are looking for is depth and it would appear a lake here would have it," one of the visitors said at the dam site.

The normal anticipated depth at this site of the lake when full is 33 feet, with a peak of 55 feet in depth, the Waco group was advised.

This compares with the 13-foot normal depth at Lake Stamford.

Dalton told his hosts that he was returning to Waco for an immediate full conference with his organization's engineering consultant and expected to "check the geophysics, make our own surveys and confer, too, of course, with the Texas Water Commission."

Before taking leave, the two groups agreed to "meet again in January."

Herren pointed out that the water authority, should the Brazos Valley group join in the use of the lake, would realize about $30,000 a year from the purchase of 33 to 50 acre-feet of water per year. This would be a "healthy" customer by any yardstick, it was emphasized, going a long way toward securing the financial footing of the Miller's Creek venture, as the city of Stamford has found in a similar contractual alignment with West Texas Utilities in use of Lake Stamford at its Paint Creek power plant.

Water authority president Patterson, in a luncheon speech of the assembled two groups in Seymour, described the long controversy in which the water authority has been involved with the city of Haskell. He declared, "At this state we are free of litigations. The City of Haskell opposition dropped the law suit pending against the State Water Commission last week, but in a letter to the authority, the other cities and the state officials, the mayor and city council of Haskell declared their water contract null and void."

"We all know how absurd this action is... but we know there is no question as to the legality of the project which also includes the water contract with the member cities."

Summing up his remarks, Patterson concluded, "We are very confident we will have a lake and we expect to clear the last barriers and resume work in the very near future. We welcome your participation in whatever capacity that will prove profitable and feasible both you and the authority..."

Dalton summed up the feeling of his group from Waco when he said, "What we are looking for is a deep lake" and "we've got to come to some decision before long."

Close The Gap
General instruction to close the gap between plan and project was given by the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority Miller's Creek dam in a meeting here Tuesday night. Manager R. W. (Bob) Herren of Haskell said the board gave this instruction to him, to its attorney, T. W. Bullington of Munday. (Continued on Last Page)

Two Moguls On All-Area Team

Two members of the 1963 Munday Mogul team placed on the all-area Class A team, it was reported. They are Jackie Booe, center, and Pete Alcalá, back.

Lewis Flores of Munday was among the honorable mentions.

The all-area teams are selected by a vote of the coaches. The team is as follows:

Ends, Jimmy Duewall and David Schick, both of Henrietta; tackles, Billy Paul Isom and Robert Lyde, both of Henrietta; guards, Robert Tepfer, Archer City, and Phillip Wells, Henrietta; center, Jackie Booe, Munday; quarterback, James Boddy, Henrietta; backs, Eugene Franklin, Henrietta; Kenneth Smith, Chillicothe, and Pete Alcalá, Munday.

W. A. Scroggins, Retired Munday Carpenter, Dies

William Arthur Scroggins, 74, retired Munday carpenter, passed away at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Brazos Valley Rest Home in Knox City. He had been ill for about two years.

Mr. Scroggins was born August 20, 1889, in Winstonsboro and married Lucy Jacobs on June 4, 1911 in Bethel. The family moved to Knox County in 1911. Mrs. Scroggins preceded him in death on February 28, 1963.

Mr. Scroggins, a well known local carpenter, retired several years ago because of failing health.

Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday from the First Methodist Church in Munday with the pastor, Rev. Rex L. Mauldin, officiating. He was assisted by Rev. Wm. H. (Bill) Wright of Tye.

Burial was in Johnson Memorial Cemetery under the direction of McCauley Funeral Home. Serving as pallbearers were Gene R. Haynie, W. C. Nance, Art Allred, George Beatty, Conrad Baird and Joe Sidwell.

Chorus To Sing Yule Program

Preparations are under way by the Munday High School chorus to present the Christmas section of "The Messiah," an oratorio by George Frederick Handel, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, December 17, at the school auditorium. The 104-voice choir has been working on it since September.

They will present five choruses, in addition to the solos. "The Messiah" has become a tradition in many American communities, but is rarely attempted by a community the size of Munday due to its extremely difficult passages.

Perhaps the most familiar of all the great choruses from this work is "The Hallelujah Chorus," with which the group will close its program. The entire program will last about an hour.

The following are scheduled for solo work: Basses, Paul Reed, Bonner Bowden and Rex Mauldin, associate director; tenors, Travis Floyd and Kenneth Smith; also, Mrs. Rex Mauldin, director; soprano, Mrs. W. O. Ratliff and Millie Moore. Eddie Littlefield and Mrs. John Holdridge are accompanists for the group.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the program, which will not replace the regular P. T. A. program on Thursday evening, December 19.

P.T.A. Christmas Program Slated

The annual Christmas program of the P.T.A. will be held in the school gym on Thursday night, December 19th, at 7:30. This year, as in years past, there will be a choir selected from the grade school which will sing various carols. Mrs. Rex L. Mauldin will direct this group of 100 voices.

The Junior High Choir under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Bardwell will present some Christmas numbers and a brief dramatization of a well known Christmas song.

The High School Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Mauldin will sing and other music will be presented by the junior high and high school bands, under the direction of Mr. John Holdridge.

At the close of the program the entire ensemble will sing several carols together, with the band accompanying them. Scenes of the manger will be used on stage with various students taking the parts of Mary, Joseph, shepherds and wise men.

The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend this program.

EVOLUTION IN A FREE MARKET

Retailing is always in a state of evolution—and, at times, in what amounts to progressive revolution.

This has been true for generation after generation—from the days of the settlers who ventured into the West with a wagon-load of goods; to the old-time general store, stocking everything from barrels of whiskey to bolts of gingham; to the introduction of the low-cost mass-merchandising principle which the early chain systems pioneered, and to the balanced retail complex of today, in which stores of every type offer every conceivable kind of goods and services.

In sum, retailing never stands still—it can't afford to. One of the country's major chains, which has been the number 1 national retailer of many kinds of soft goods, provides an excellent late example of this truism. It is moving into the mail-order field. Its first catalog, running to more than 1,200 pages, is being distributed primarily in the Midwest. Over a period of several years a nationwide network of catalog distribution centers will be established, serving every area and region.

Why should an established and successful chain take so venturesome a new step? The answer is that its goal is to broaden its appeal to customers. And, says the company's president, "We aim to achieve this goal by building larger stores, offering more lines of merchandise, and making it more convenient to buy—whether for cash or charge, in the store or in the home, through the catalog or by phone."

That statement pretty well covers the goals of retailers everywhere and of every kind. They know the customer is king in a free market system—and they act accordingly.

THE COMING OF WINTER

"Winter, this time of snow and storm, drives all within;

So ponder now, before your fire, man's hope and then man's sin."

The words are those of an all but forgotten 16th century Scots poet, Jamie Fulerton. They bring a picture of the traditional winter that drives man and beast to shelter. They present, too, a thought and a suggestion that are of timeless value.

Those of us who live in the colder climes may look with dislike on the approach of winter. It will be with us, officially, on the 22nd of December. Soon, we know, the fuel bills will soar. Soon snow and ice will tangle traffic. Soon we will shiver inside our greatcoats as the north winds strike.

But there are compensations. The lawn, for instance, no longer needs its weekly mowing. And what is more comfortable and more rewarding than a fine fire of logs on a freezing winter's night, when the cold is locked outside and all is snug within?

Much more important, winter should be a time of contemplation, and a time of growth of mind and spirit. It is a time for the reading of books—good books, that enrich our imagination and expand the frontiers of our knowledge. And it is a time, too, for long and leisurely talks involving matters of every description that concern the lives and aspirations of peoples and powers.

And finally, severe as winter may be, we always know that spring is coming.

ARE WE DESTINED FOR THE DUST BIN OF HISTORY?

"We are in a moment of unmatched national peril. Our opponents . . . are very clearly and willingly pledged to our destruction."

This grim warning comes from a recognized authority on communism—Dr. Richard Walker, Director of the Institute of International Studies at the University of South Carolina. Speaking before a group of Oregon school board members and administrators, he added this about the communist powers: "We tend to underestimate them. We blindly preach the doctrine that Democratic forms of government are the only ones which survive. But the truth is that most of the historically influential governments through the years have been despotic.

"We must realize the American democratic system is a rare exception to world government rule. We can be pushed into the dust bin of history if we do not educate our students to understand other governments and to protect our own."

That last sentence represents the core of Dr. Walker's message. Our schools, he feels—and all the available evidence supports him—are just not doing the needed kind of job in teaching pride in the United States, and the meaning of communism and the threat it is to every freedom we know. There are many deficiencies in this country's educational complex—and that is certainly one of the worst.

WASECA, MINN., HERALD: "Now Congressmen and Senators are asking for a 55.5 per cent pay increase. Even the presidential commission on salaries favors raising the pay from $22,500 to $35,000 annually. Taxpayers will watch with interest those elected as conservatives and how they vote on this matter. As for the liberals, who control both houses of Congress, they will put it through . . . In 1789 the first members of Congress were paid $6 a day for every day they attended. The lawmakers paid their own travel expenses, meals, lodging and incidentals."

LANCASTER, N.H., DEMOCRAT: "Now we hear that Uncle Sam's Army Engineers plan to make a 16 mile lake in Campton, putting their only industry out of business and cutting the town in two and setting up an over government operated utility. That we can do without. The more we can get government out of business, the better for all of us. Private taxpaying industry is what made America great and what can keep her great."

WHITE, S.D., LEADER: "Isn't having plenty of good food for everyone a greater and more practical accomplishment than putting a man on the moon? That's one facet of the welfare of our people in which the Communist countries can't say they have us beat. We don't need to ape what the Communists are doing."

ONTARIO, CALIF., REJORT: "Who uses seat belts in cars? Smart people, that's who."

Joseph Wood Krutch writes in his book, "More Lives Than One" (Sloane): "Man had hardly built the first cities before he began to try to get away from them."

LONE STAR AGRICULTURE

The Importance Of Agricultural Abundance

Agriculture's goal has always been to provide increasing supplies of farm products at lower costs.

This policy has been so successful that it now creates some incidental problems for us by the very abundance of our supplies. But these problems are often magnified out of all proportion by professional "anti's" who ridicule the farmer and attack him as a receiver of government doles. But even those who are trying to tear down our system of agriculture are very glad to enjoy its benefits when they get to the grocery store.

Actually the farmers, by his ability to produce in abundance, has brought about a low level of farm prices that subsidize the consumer. This may be news to many people, but it is true. If the price of food at the farm had increased as much as the costs of other goods and services during the past 10 years, we would be paying $4 to $6 billion more a year for food.

As it is, the food we buy today takes a smaller percentage of the family income than it did 10 years ago. In 1953, food costs—including marketing and processing—took 23 per cent of the family income. Today, we pay only 19 per cent of our income for as compared to 11 per cent 10 years ago. The "built-in maid service" such as pre-cooking and other extras get the other 12 per cent.

Even with all these "built-in services" in our food, the percentage of your salary spent for food-stuffs is still less—and we are better fed than at any time in our history. But if your bill seems to be growing more every year, perhaps it is because your market basket is also being filled at the supermarket with non-food items such as detergents, cosmetics, dishes, magazines, tissue paper—and a hundred food. And almost two-thirds of this money goes to meet marketing costs—the price of processing, shipping, packaging and selling. The farmer's share of your food dollar has actually decreased in these 10 years. He gets only seven per cent of the dollar other inedible items.

 So do we really appreciate the job the farmer has done for us? Probably the most difficult point to make to American people today is that agriculture is not a story of surpluses—it is a record of success. Without this record of success, our economic growth and present military strength would have been impossible. Our agricultural growth was the trigger to our dynamic and sustained economic, social, military and political progress.
 For when you come right down to it, without our agricultural success, all our guns, tanks, ships, planes, military men, our big business corporations and our entire American standard of living would come to nothing!

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

AUSTIN—"Have a heart" is a familiar slang expression. But scores of people would like to do just that—have a whole unimpaired heart.

The one you were born with is the only heart you'll ever have at least until medical science crosses further frontiers and can transplant a human heart, much as is done with an eye.

True, certain types of repair work is possible today, but it is a costly, tedious process.

Rightly termed a "vital organ," your heart is a muscle-operated blood pump. It starts beating before you are born and continues an estimated 70 years — at an average of 70 to 80 beats a minute—without so much as a coffee break.

Heart diseases rank first ahead of cancer as cause of death. Cancer and cardiovascular diseases together account for over 60 percent of the deaths in Texas. About 30 per cent are attributed to heart diseases.

The term "heart disease" actually covers a broad range of heart and blood vessel diseases. They are linked together because sooner or later they impair heart functioning ability.

Most common among cardiovascular ailments is coronary heart disease, a condition precipitating heart attacks. It is a condition of the arteries, affecting mainly middle-aged men.

Another well known cardiovascular condition is high blood pressure, i. e. hypertension. Over a long period of time, increased blood pressure can cause the heart; to overwork and to lose efficiency.

Rheumatic heart disease strikes another note of familiarity in the line-up of cardiovascular ailments. The chain of events leading to rheumatic heart disease has been discovered within the last few years, and with the advent of penicillin it can be proved an important disease preventive.

Research efforts for heart restoration and rehabilitation methods continue, but definite preventive measures are already known.

Eat a moderate, balanced diet; take adequate regular exercise; try to cope realistically with daily living under as little stress as possible.

Follow these admonitions, and you know—maybe your heart will tick for 70 years or more.

Christmas Card Postage Today Is Same As In 1847

"People sending Christmas cards today at the 5 cent first class rate pay the same to mail Christmas greetings as Americans did over a century ago," Postmaster Chan Hughes noted today.

"Research shows that 1847 the Post Office Department issued its first stamps, including a nickel stamp for the basic pre-paid letter rate," Postmaster Hughes said.

"And, of course, in those days, a nickel could buy a meal where it usually can't even buy a cup of coffee today, Mr. Hughes pointed out.

"Since 1932," the postal executive observed, "while living costs for the American family have skyrocketed considerably more than 100 per cent—the cost of mailing a first-class letter has only increased by two cents or two-thirds."

The Postmaster's comments were made in connection with a recommendation to Munday residents to use the first-class 5 cent Christmas stamp on their Christmas cards. The stamp portrays the National Christmas Tree on the "Eastern Ellipse" in the Nation's Capital. The stamp is available at the local post office.

The 5 cent rate permits forwarding or return of the letter where necessary, allows the use of a handwritten message on the card—adding a personal touch—and also provides speedier handling and faster delivery, particularly for cards going out-of-town, or on our rural routes. First class postage for local post office boxes or general delivery is 4 cents.

"In recent years, people have been buying better and more expensive greeting cards — and it seems a shame, when only 4 cent third class postage is paid and the addressee has moved that we normally can not even forward the card. "It is poor economy to try to save a few pennies and lose several dollars worth of cards in the bargain."

"Reports from the greeting card industry indicate it is not uncommon for an average family to send more than 100 cards during the holiday season. "To avoid trouble and waiting in line, I suggest that two full sheets of the Christmas stamp—100 to the sheet—be picked up when at the post office, and then there is no last-minute panic about getting stamps to put on cards to send to those who have been overlooked or added to the list."

Christmas stamps, of course, are useable for postage at any time, Mr. Hughes emphasized.

March of Dimes Aid Frees Joan To Devote Self to Helping Others

For 13 years, Joan Keeler has been jousting with a formidable antagonist.

Sometimes, this attractive young woman, who lives and follows her profession of occupational therapy in Summit, N. J., makes some headway and seems to be winning. Then in a counteroffensive, her old foe will deliver a succession of cruel blows.

The old foe, the formidable antagonist, is rheumatoid arthritis. Arthritis tortures, cripples and deforms more people in the United States than any other disorder.

Emphasizing that she neither wants nor needs anyone's sympathy, Joan agreed to tell something about her encounters with this excruciating disease since her teens. She spoke during one of her monthly visits to the March of Dimes-financed Arthritis Center at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, New York City.

At the age of 17, Joan could look forward to what should be a reasonably happy life. She was an active, athletic and a good student.

Then without warning, Joan says, "the roof of my little dream house caved in."

First, there were unaccountable pains during the summer just before college, and that meant the end of athletics because pain wracked her body. Next, fever and loss of weight. Diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis, never simple to make, was even more difficult 13 years ago. Specialists shook their heads in puzzlement over which disease had robbed this young woman of perfect health.

Despite the increasing severity of the pains, Joan was determined to start college. The first, almost insurmountable problem was getting from dormitory to classroom. The next difficulty was concentration. How can a student apply herself closely to lectures and homework when she suffers incessant spasms of pain in her back, arms and hands, legs and even her toes?

"It became a fiasco," she says. "The plain fact was I couldn't keep up, I had to drop out." Then, during the following summer, Joan's old foe seemed to relent. She improved and returned to school.

But the rheumatoid arthritis returned to the attack—more

The second homecoming from college was no less discouraging than the first. But it did result in her applying to the Arthritis Clinic of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, which had been studying the problem of rheumatoid arthritis since 1928, and to which The National Foundation March of Dimes has contributed $105,106 since 1959.

After exhaustive tests, the upshot was a definite diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis. Now, at last, the enemy was identified.

The first urgent objective was to reduce Joan's pain so that she could be moved, and move herself, without unendurable suffering. This was accomplished in part through administration of cortisone (which she continues to take but in reduced dosages). A second goal was, by means of surgery, to "unclench" her hands so that she could regain the use of her fingers. A third aim was to minimize the weight-bearing pressure on her feet by designing special moccasins.

The fourth aim was to begin physical therapy as soon as cortisone had reduced the inflammation of joints and connective tissues to a point where rehabilitative exercise was possible.

"The simple truth is that the March of Dimes put me on my feet," she explains. This feeling of thankfulness set her to thinking of doing something within her capabilities which would also be helpful to others. She had had intimate experience, during her own ordeal, with many kinds of therapy. Armed with this familiarity, she began to study occupational therapy which is the teaching of arts and trades as a means of rehabilitation of patients handicapped physically or mentally.

"I was lucky to get a position as an occupational therapist at Fair Oaks Hospital in my home town," Joan relates. "I soon learned that I understood the attitudes of these patients toward life—their fears and hostilities—and that they understood my attitude, because all of us had experienced what it is to be handicapped. And I am better adjusted and happier than I was because I am helping others."

"Perhaps the old foe, the formidable antagonist, has not been altogether vanquished. But by helping others, Joan Keeler has found that at least she now keeps her enemy on the defensive, most of the time.

Guild Members Have Christmas Dinner On Monday

The fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church provided the setting for the Wesleyan Service Guild's annual Christmas dinner Monday evening. The Christmas theme was beautifully apparent in room decorations and table appointments through the effective use of reds, greens, gold and white. Candles in a variety of colors, shapes, and sizes provided soft light for the occasion. The tables were arranged in the shape of a rectangle, in the center of which was a huge tumbled tree sprayed in gold and trimmed with strings of miniature, vari-colored lights. Around this "Christmas Tree" were gifts of toys provided by Guild members to be turned over to the Fire Boys for distribution on Christmas eve.

Events pertaining to the first Christmas were effectively told in story by Mrs. Pitzer Baker and Mrs. Chester Bordon and in song by Rev. and Mrs. Rex Mauldin singing beautiful traditional carols, accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Horton at the piano.

A delicious dinner of turkey, dressing, yams, creamed asparagus, fruit salads, pickles, olives, hot rolls, Christmas cookies, ice cream, and coffee was served to members and guests, after which Mrs. R. M. Almanrode, Guild president, presented Rex and Letha Mauldin with love gifts from the Guild. The festivities closed with the singing of Silent Night followed by the Guild benediction.

The following members and guests were present for this occasion:

Louise Amerson, Janie Almanrode, Marie Baker, Ruth Baker, Irene Bardwell, Roberta Beck, Mary Blakely, Jo Bordon, Sue Bowden, Merle Dingus, Bridge Edgar, Ned Eiland, Florence Gaines, Frances Haymes, Mable Harpham, Julia Mae Hicks, Ruth King, Erin McGraw, Juanita Massey, Cordell Offutt, Olga Payne, Dorothy Spann, Bera Spann, Zada Smith, Dorothy Whiteley, Letha Mauldin and Rex Mauldin.

Program Presented To Home Ec. Dept.

"It is a good thing to observe Christmas day. The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then, by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time.—But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas day, and that is, keeping Christmas." —Henry Van Dyke.

In the spirit of keeping Christmas, the Home Economics Department of Lone Star Gas Company presented a program for the F. H. A. chapter's special Christmas meeting. The demonstration was on Christmas foods backed and uniquely decorated for Christmas gifts. Ideas for holiday decoration were also shared with the chapter.

The department wants to thank the interested mothers and friends who attended the meeting.

3. No markers will honor living persons.

4. Previously marked sites will not be remarked.

5. Markers shall be furnished by the sponsors at no cost to the Texas Highway Department, and the Department will maintain the sites in keeping with the right of way in that area.

Senator Moffett Is Man Of The Year

GEORGE MOFFETT

Birmingham, Ala.—Texas State Senator George C. Moffett, Chillicothe, Texas, has been named 1963 Man of the Year in service to Texas agriculture by The Progressive Farmer. Announcement of the recognition is made in the January issue by editors of the magazine.

An active farmer all his life, Senator Moffett has served longer in the Texas Legislature than any other man in Texas history. He was first elected a member of the House of Representatives in 1931, elected a state senator in 1939, and has served continuously ever since.

Says the senator, "My belief is that the only sound longrange solution to the cotton surplus is effective research." As a representative, he introduced a bill to expand cotton use research in 1931. Ten years later the Cotton Research Committee of Texas became a reality. The Progressive Farmer states, "Many of the sound advances in cotton grading and fiber use have sprung from the committee's work and have meant millions upon millions to Texans as well as cotton farmers everywhere."

Senator Moffett joins a list of 28 distinguished Texans who have been named Men of the Year by The Progressive Farmer during the past 22 years.

Mrs. Tom Morton, Mrs. Clayton Wren and Gaston Welborn were visitors in Wichita Falls last Tuesday.

Senate Funds Go To Kemp Project

Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee added $50,000 to the Public Works Bill under consideration for planning of the proposed reconstruction project at Lake Kemp, it was announced recently.

Sen. Ralph Yarbrough said approval of the bill would provide financing for advanced engineering study on the $8.6 million reconstruction project of the lake's dam and spillway.

Congressional approval for the project was given last year but funds must now be approved to finance the planning. Lake Kemp, largest of area impoundments, was constructed in 1923 for flood control, irrigation and water supply.

Studies of existing facilities at the lake have shown the spillway has deteriorated to the point where it is danger of collapsing if a sizeable runoff on the watershed should occur.

Glenn Amerson of Dallas spent last Sunday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Amerson.

Touch Of Winter!

The first real touch of winter came Tuesday night when that arctic cold front came into this area. Snow, sleet and freezing rain caused icy conditions during the night and made driving hazardous throughout Wednesday. Moisture in the area was generally around a half inch.

The difference between the price of steak and the price the producer gets for his cattle is known as the "marketing" or "farm-to-retail margin." Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist, points out that the price per pound for beef at retail must be more than double the live weight price just to equal the price paid to the producer for the live animal. And this is before marketing costs are considered.

30 Years Of Repeal Finds Nation Continuing Trend To Moderation

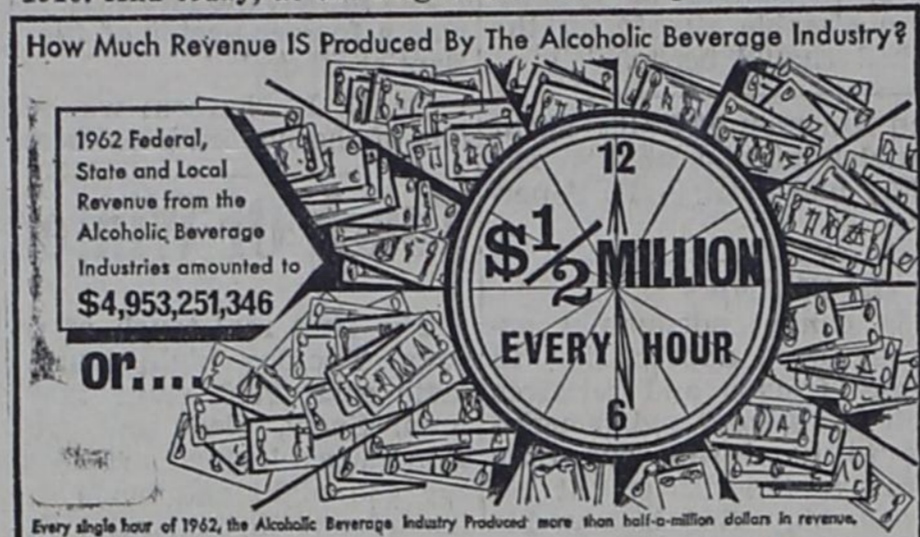

New York — Thirty years ago this month, the ill-fated "noble experiment"—Prohibition—ended with repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Only a small minority of Americans today still mourn its passing on December 5, 1933.

Shocked by the lawlessness, organized crime and disrespect for law which 13 years of Prohibition had bred, an outraged public voted overwhelmingly to return to social order and moderation.

And a look at the record will show that the public is getting what it voted for.

For example, instead of drying up the country, Prohibition actually touched off a drinking spree—and per capita consumption of distilled spirits was authoritatively estimated at 1.95 gallons for the so-called "dry era," as compared with a 1.61 gallon per capita for 1910. And today, at the height of national prosperity, the average American consumes 29.3 per cent less—or 1.37 gallons per capita during 1962—than he did in the "dry" years. For the 15-year period of 1947-1962, the per capita consumption figure is 1.25 gallons.

Even though overall consumption has risen steadily with an expanding adult population and more money to spend, the percentage share of the consumer dollar spent on distilled spirits has declined along with the per capita figure—from 4.34 per cent of the consumer dollar spent for distilled spirits during the Prohibition years, to 1.76 per cent for the 1947-1962 period.

Today, one out of every 52 working Americans is employed by this industry, which annually purchases more than $7.3 billion in materials and services from other industries. It spends approximately one-quarter of a billion dollars annually for farm produce. It pays wages and salaries of more than $5 billion a year and provides the major portion of commodity revenue for the U.S. Government.

More than one-half million dollars every hour, every day of the week—that's the amount of public revenues contributed to Federal, state and local treasuries by today's alcoholic beverage industry. Since Repeal, the industry has contributed more than $59 billion in Federal taxes—more than enough to have paid all of the Federal government's expenses for 130 years—from 1789 to 1918.

Federal taxes on distilled spirits are currently five times the cost of production, while the combined Federal, state and local taxes and fees account for an average of 58 cents out of every dollar spent by consumers for liquor.

Excessive liquor taxes have also encouraged the spread of the illegal, non-taxpaid moonshine racket. Moonshining continues as a national menace, and may even be on the upswing as a result of higher state taxes on the legal product. Last year, Federal, state and local authorities seized 18,651 illegal moonshine stills.

Total moonshine output in 1962 is estimated at 46 million gallons—or nearly one out of every six gallons of liquor produced in America—with a loss to Federal, state and local governments of $620 million tax dollars.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Has A New Banking Idea; How To Multiply Happiness Twelve Times Over and Over

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his johnson grass farm on Miller Creek comes up with a highly impractical idea this week, his letter reveals.

J. A.

Dear editor:
Whenever I see something in the paper about newer ideas in banking I always read it, but it always turns out that the new idea is in the techniques, not in the lending practices. They're still based on soundness, which is the main stumbling block for a lot of us.

At any rate, last night I read an article by the president of the American Institute of Banking saying it won't be long before a man will never see his pay check. Instead of handing it to him, the company will send it to his bank for deposit. Then instead of the man having to get a lot of bills through the mail from the stores where he trades and write checks for each one and mail them back, the stores will just notify the bank to charge his account with whatever he owes them. This is the same system the government uses to collect withholding taxes.

This would save millions of people the trouble of writing millions of checks every month, reduce the cost of mail service, check handling at the banks, etc. I have thought this system over and it sounds all right except for one flaw.

It fails to eliminate the monthly bank statement.

If you stop and think how much trouble it is for a bank to make a bank statement for every one of its customers every month, how much it burdens the mail service, etc., you can see that the American Banking Institute ought to be pushing further ahead on its newer ideas.

It seems to me it could reduce the cost of the present system twelve times by sending out statements only once a year. Just don't balance anybody's account until the last week in December, after the Christmas spending is over. This way a man would be depressed only once a year instead of every month. You reduce the sinking feeling a man gets when he gets his bank statement by that much and you've multiplied happiness twelve times over.

Or better still, balance the accounts only once a lifetime and eliminate all worrying.

I don't know how this system would work eventually or who would wind up holding the bag, but I know how bankers will look at it. They'll look at it with a cold stare.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

pressure approach.
How can you avoid such sales tactics? There is no sure way, outside of dealing with reputable, established merchants, and using common sense in reading the ads. But there are certain sucker signals that should ring the alarm bell. Here are a few:
"Buy now or lose the chance."
"You have been specially selected."
"It's only a legal form."
"You can save up to."
"Yours absolutely free."
These signals do not necessarily indicate a bad deal, but they are frequently used by shady promoters. So read carefully, think it over, compare prices, and ask for information from a merchant you know, or from a friend.
Remember, in this world of tough business competition, one seldom gets anything for nothing. Once you have signed an order, even the law may not be able to help you, no matter how improvident the deal may be for you. In fact, unless the seller is doing something illegal, the law may wind up helping him to enforce the bad deal that you made. So watch the signals and look before you leap—or sign!
(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Sucker Signals
There is no sorer person than one who has been victimized by a phony deal. Unfortunately, once the buyer has signed an order or contract, little can be done to get him off the hook. "But I didn't realize . . ." are words often heard by lawyers who are usually unable to help at that point.

Despite the complete disavowance of "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) by ethical merchants, there are still some businesses that thrive on high promotion deals. Buyers are contacted by direct mail, over the telephone, or by "come on" advertisements. These contracts all resort to fancy claims and a high

NEW CHEVELLE! BY CHEVROLET

The kind of go—6 or V8—you'd expect from one of Chevy's great highway performers. Come on down and drive it.

The kind of comfort you'd expect in a large interior. Come on down and sit in it.

New Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

The kind of fresh styling—inside and out—that makes it the year's smartest surprise. Come down and stare at it.

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses*! And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park.

With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps. And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price!

Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

FARM and RANCH Notes

JOE W. DOBY
COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

We are in the middle of quail hunting season and it won't be long until school boys will be in the fields hunting during Christmas holidays. Let's keep reminding each other to handle firearms safely. Here are a few reminders about the safe use of firearms. Be sure the bore is clean. Make a practice of looking down the barrel of your gun prior to loading. Any obstruction can cause the gun to explode.

Identify your target and know where other hunters are. Never shoot at a mere movement in the brush. Be certain your line of fire is clear of people, buildings and livestock. Never point a gun at anything you do not wish to kill. Never use a gun for a walking stick, it is a good way to lose a hand or a head.

Lay your gun on the ground or let someone hold it before crossing a fence. When swinging on game, be certain you do not follow with your gun as the game passes between you and another hunter. Unload guns before placing them in cars, on the ground or in your home. Do not throw the safety off until you are ready to shoot. Keep the muzzle pointed in a safe direction and handle a gun only by the stock.

Americans are setting new beef eating records. This year we consumed 170 pounds of red meat per person—6 pounds more than 1962. Most of this gain is in beef eating. We are using about 95 pounds of beef this year compared to 89 last year. Consumption of lamb and veal is a little lower and consumption of pork is up about 1 pound per person.

The screwworm eradication program has benefited the deer hunters this year as well as the livestock producers. Estimates of 10 to 65 per cent increase in the deer crop has been made. A record number of sterile flies were released during the week of November 24-30, nearly 150 million. At the same time the number of confirmed samples totaled 112, the lowest since September 21. During November 1963, 84 Texas counties were infestated compared with 163 in November 1962. Additional research work this past summer revealed that the adult flies can migrate nearly 200 miles. Previously it was believed they could travel under their own power only 75-100 miles. This has necessitated widening the barrier zone further into Old Mexico. Officials have received the fullest cooperation from the Mexican government on this project.

Goodfellow Fund Is Short Of Goal

Your contribution to the Goodfellow fund will help local firemen provide an enjoyable Christmas to some needy family in this area who might be facing a gloomy Christmas season. Goodfellow boxes have been placed in many of the Munday stores to receive your contributions in any amount.

Firemen reported Tuesday that contributions thus far had reached $70, which is far short of the funds needed. The cooperation of the public is urgently solicited by the firemen, who are sponsoring this worthy movement. You may make your contribution to any fireman, at the First National Bank, or place it in any of the boxes in the stores.

Gene Brown is chairman of the Goodfellow fund, and Robert Patterson is secretary.

day, and to the board chairman L. B. Patterson.

Bullington heard a resolution passed empowering him to "proceed with whatever moves necessary" to get the job done.

This was the first meeting of the board since the December 3 dismissal by the Haskell city council of the last lawsuit pending in the long fight over the start of the dam.
