Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

"April showers bring May flowers."

k-k

We don't know whether that part of the little poem we learned as a kid—and then forgot—holds true or not.

k-k

Our April showers came very early in April, and then seemed to quit. The 2.61 inches of moisture which our weather observer, H. P. Hill, put down on record and then had us print came partly in March and very early in April. Mr. Hill's records close at 7 p.m. on Tuesday of each week, and this report was completed April 2.

k-k

Then the following week, he reported .32 of an inch, and last week, none at all. Anyway, during the last few days of March and in early April, we received 2.93 inches, which was twice as much as the year before.

k-k

Yet, when we go places, we are asked if everything is as dry here as there. We've tried to point out with pride that we've received some nice moisture and are not especially hurting yet.

k-k

Then we come home, find things wilted around the house, and grab the water hose.

k-k

It seems we just jumped from winter to summer, anyway, and we heard someone else make that remark a few days ago.

k-k

It turned pretty warm rather early, causing the fruit trees to bud out and bring fear that the fruit crop would be destroyed by that Easter spell. Easter came, and we ran our air conditioner practically all of the time as we travelled the highways.

k-k

Been using it at home, too, and to our comfort. Generally, we can expect a sort of cool snap during April, sometimes early in May, but we may not have it this year. The morning weather reports are about the same stereotyped: "Warm and windy."

k-k

As we said, we grab the water hose. And it's going to mean a long hard summer, we imagine. Start watering in mid-April and continue through the sure enough summer months.

k-k

And in telling of our activities during the week end, the Mrs. sort of indicated that we ought to get organized in our watering. We have a spot we want to water, then she does, and we move each other's hose until finally neither one knows exactly what has been watered and what hasn't.

k-k

If we get our peas up this week, we're going to have an interesting experience. We usually plant on Good Friday, but we didn't this year because we were conventioning on that date. So we just set the following Friday to plant.

k-k

We've never paid too much attention to the moon, or rarely think there is such an object that the nation has never hit with a rocket or space ship, when we go to plant. If we feel like it and have the moisture, we just plant. Friday, our top moisture was about gone.

k-k

But there are people who think the moon has great influence on our doings here on earth. Roy Ross informed us Friday that we were just throwing our time and money away. "You're planting a week too early," he said. "No," we replied, "we're planting a week too late—should have planted last Friday." "I know," he said with emphasis, "but you're planting in the dark of the moon, and they won't make anything but vines!"

k-k

Since our peas had been soaking about an hour, we went ahead and planted—and now we want enough of them to come up to put that philosophy to a test.

k-k

Wally Park planted, too, even after we told him of the gloomy prospects propounded to us, so guess between the two of us we'll have enough peas to come up to settle that question for good!

Munday Man With Many Decorations In Service Receives Recent Promotion

One of the McChord NCO's being promoted to Chief Master Sergeant is SMSgt. James Leroy Henderson, a man of many experiences, and presently the man in charge of the instrument trainer section of the 325th Operations Sq.

Sgt. Henderson began his military career in November of 1942. As a combat gunner, Sgt. Henderson flew 102 combat missions during World War II and is credited with 5 enemy planes. He holds three Distinguished Flying Crosses, seven Air Medals, the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

In addition to his medals, Sgt. Henderson is the recipient of a letter from the Department of Defense complimenting him on his decorations and achievements.

In 1945, Sgt. Henderson left the service and, besides getting married, attended the Spartan School of Aeronautics in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

He rejoined just prior to the Korean conflict, and proceeded to win the Bronze Star for developing an electronic engine analyzer for the C-119.

SMSgt. Henderson arrived on McChord Base, Washington in September of 1960, coming from Chanute AFB, Ill., where he was in charge of training device maintenance at their tech school. He has been assigned to the Tactical Air Command, the Air Training Command and the Air Defense Command. Previous bases include Donaldson AFB, N. C.; McClellan AFB, Calif.; and Chanute AFB, Ill.

War days saw Sgt. Henderson active in the Solomons, the Coral Sea and flying with the first mission to bomb Wake Island.

Sgt. Henderson lives with his wife, Reba, and four of their children—Sharon, 13; Milton, 12; Doris, 10; and Shirley, 6—in Spanaway, Washington. One other daughter is married and has a 3 month old baby.

SMSgt. (soon to be CMSgt.) James L. Henderson, "one of the most decorated men in the Tactical Air Command," is now a proud member of the 325th Fighter Wing and the Air Defense Command.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Henderson of Route 1, Munday.

How Wheat Program Effects Farmers

By Jesse T. Gilpin
Knox County ASCS Office Mgr.

If the proposed 1964 wheat program goes into effect, how will it work on the individual Knox County farm?

That is a good question; for, after all, what it will mean to each wheat producer in dollars and cents, both on a short-term and a long-term basis, will determine for him whether he will vote yes or whether he'll vote no in the May 21 referendum.

Let's take a hypothetical situation: a Knox County farm with a 90-acre wheat allotment.

Computed on the basis of a 10 per cent mandatory cut, the 90-acre allotment will constitute the actual acreage to be planted in the new program. Under the old program, of course, the farmer would be allowed to plant 100 acres.

In other words, the 10 per cent cut will already have been made when the farmer receives his allotment. It won't be necessary for him to make the cut himself after it is received.

Why is it that some counties seem to be cut more and some less than the so-called mandatory 10 per cent? Nationally, the cut is 10 per cent and the same is true of the individual farm allotment.

But some counties have lost wheat "history" over a period of years, and thus have sacrificed some of their share of the national allotment.

Other counties have maintained their "history" by continuous planting, and therefore their share of the national allotment has increased.

Bear in mind, when you vote in the referendum, that you are voting only for the year 1964. You are not adopting a long-term program.

Now, here is how the program will work for a Knox County farm with a 90-acre allotment. This is what is termed a "large" farm, since it is more than 15 acres.

Say the actual yield for 1964 is the same as the "normal yield"—that is, the average yield established by the Knox ASCS County and Community Committee based on a five-year period. (Normal yields vary from farm to farm and form the basis for the issuance of certificates and diversion payments.)

If the normal and actual production (20 bushels per acre) is 1800 bushels, certificates will be issued for 80 per cent, or 1440 bushels. That will leave 360 bushels of non-certificate wheat. If the market price is the same as the loan rate of $1.30 per bushel (national average) the farmer will realize $2.00 per bushel for wheat covered by certificates, and $1.30 per bushel for non-certificate wheat.

Certificates will be issued on 80 per cent of normal production for the farm, and all production beyond the 80 per cent is non-certificate wheat.

Bardwell Funeral Held On April 13th

Burial was in Larissa Cemetery, a community cemetery near Jacksonville for which the Bardwell family donated the land many years ago.

Mrs. Bardwell was born in New Albany, Miss., and was married to J. W. Bardwell, who preceded her in death several years ago. She had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Alexander, in Jacksonville for many years.

Benefits Under Social Security For County Increased 13 Percent Last Year

Monthly old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits in Knox County now top $48,495, Erton F. Tate, District Manager of social security in Wichita Falls, said today on releasing his annual county benefit data report.

The new monthly figure represents an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

"This increase can be attributed to the changes in the law in recent years, as well as to the growth of our aged population," Mr. Tate said. "This money stimulates county business; most of it is spent for food, clothing, and shelter."

"There is no longer any doubt. Social security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending power of many residents in Knox County.

Monthly benefits first became payable in January 1940, and they have continued without interruption for 23 years, accompanied by a steady growth in the number of beneficiaries. Tate noted that as of December 31, 1962, some 876 Knox Countyans were collecting about $581,000 annually from social security.

More people in Knox County, he said, could draw social security benefits if they knew more about the law, and for that reason they are urged to visit or call the local social security office whenever they have a question concerning their benefits or responsibilities.

As of January 1963, in the nation at large, more than 18 million beneficiaries were receiving payments at the rate of $1.18 billion per month.

The average monthly old-age retirement benefit in January was $76.19 for all States, while in the State of Texas the average was $68.49, Mr. Tate said.

The following shows the number and amount of each type of monthly benefit paid in Knox County, as of December 31, 1962.

Retired Worker, 472, $31,187; Wife or Husband, 196, $6,559; Widow or Widower, 76, $4,280; Mothers and Children, 112, $4,861; Disabled workers and dependents, 27, $1,817.

EDITORIAL PAGE

"What a man does for himself dies with him—what he does for his community lives on and on."

QUESTION MARK ATTACHED

A proposed bill, introduced jointly in the Senate and the House, would give Congress the authority and duty of establishing the rates charged for fourth-class mail matter—that is, parcel post. As of now, this is the responsibility of the Postmaster General, who must obtain the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission for rate changes he considers necessary.

Thus, parcel post has been in a special position—Congress always has had the sole authority for revising the rates on first, second and third-class mailings. It has had but a very limited authority so far as the fourth-class is concerned.

The proposed bill, on its surface, may be a step in the right direction. The current procedure has proven inefficient, complex and unwieldy, and there has been too much division of responsibility. However, the proposal would prove, if enacted, to be a calamity rather than a blessing if Congress failed to use its new authority to do what needs to be done—that is, to put parcel post, which is a purely commercial service, on a self-sustaining basis. If Congress did not do this, and if it acceded to the demands of those who want an expanded tax-subsidized parcel post service, all taxpayers will be the losers.

So this bill, like so many others, comes with a question mark attached. Everything depends on the ultimate result.

ONE MORE HONOR FOR SIR WINSTON

There are times when everyone can applaud an unprecedented act.

That was the case when Congress, for the first time in our history, voted to proclaim a foreigner an honorary citizen of the United States.

The foreigner is Sir Winston Churchill. And he is, in the full sense, the first citizen of the Free World. The history which he did so much to write—in deed and in words—is his enduring monument. This was the voice, indomitable in the face of appalling defeats and disasters, which rallied peoples and nations and led, at long last, to victory.

And there is something vital that the statesmen of the present day, here and abroad, can learn from Sir Winston. There was no drift when his hand was at the helm. There was no irresolution. Risks—great risks—were taken with full knowledge of what might happen, and with full resolve to see the dangers through to the end, whatever that end might be. The western world of the present needs more, much more, of that spirit, courage and dedication.

A THREE-DOLLAR BILL?

There has been a great deal of editorial criticism of proposals to eliminate or reduce the tax deductions now allowed for donations, by individuals and enterprises to charitable, educational, and other non-profit causes and institutions.

The obvious result would be a massive reduction in the money given for good works. But charity is not going to stop, education is not going to stop, and religion is not going to stop. So, if the flood of private funds is dammed, where is the money to come from? Answer: From government.

It has been suggested that some of the proponents of this proposal may want just that, in order to advance a vast Welfare State program in which ultimately government would do everything, run everything, and be all things to all men.

Finally, what virtue is there in any alleged tax reduction plan when it is accompanied by other plans which would increase the tax burden, both directly, as in the case of the added social security levies that became effective January 1, and indirectly, as in the case of elimination of traditional deductions? If that turns out to be the situation, the nation is being sold a three-dollar bill.

NEW YORK MILLS, MINN., HERALD: "It is true, that in the face of economic depression and loss of income with which to provide for one's needs and for one's family, men will turn to almost anything that will promise some type of relief. In desperate cases, people turn to communism for this relief . . . It is in times like this that people act in haste and repent in leisure, if there would be any leisure thereafter."

CORYDON, IND., REPUBLICAN: "What the UN does, its members do. When the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization puts out a booklet (as it did a year ago) hailing the USSR as a 'brotherhood of free and equal people', we—who contribute twice as much as the Soviets to the support of the UN and give it a lavish establishment on our soil—endorse this drive before the world."

KING FERRY, N. Y., SOUTHERN CAYUGA TRIBUNE: "Years ago no doctor would pass an accident without helping the victim. Sad to tell this courtesy today is rare. But there's a lot to be said for the doctor's dilemma. He won't help because he fears a lawsuit charging neglect or malpractice. Thus the victim is neglected and the doctor maligned. Because these lawsuits have gotten out of hand, 14 states have enacted so-called 'Good Samaritan' laws to protect the doctor in such emergencies."

Robert G. Dunlop, President Sun Oil Company says, "Investment in the U. S. economy has failed for the past ten years to keep up with the expansion of population."

Goodwill Industries — a private, non-profit organization which employs and provides rehabilitation services for handicapped people—asks you not to let unused items clutter your home. Repairable discards are urgently needed. They are used to help the handicapped earn while they learn.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

GOREE, TEXAS

The First and Second Resurrection:

"And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshiped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years." (Rev. 20:4) This is not a bodily resurrection. Consider briefly the symbols which have been employed in this connection: the "wedding feast," the "white horse," the "bottomless pit," the "angel," the "chain," the "key," and the "resurrection." These are symbolic things. Death and resurrection are often applied figuratively to both the individual and to a cause. In speaking of the Jews, Paul said, "For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be but LIFE FROM THE DEAD" (Rom. 11:15). John said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, the hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live" (Jno. 5:25). This is a spiritual awakening by the voice of the Son of God—the message of divine truth. The "first resurrection" is also an awakening—people of every nation responding to gospel teaching, and coming forth in the spirit of martyrs; whereas, the "second resurrection" is of necessity a literal resurrection. John is the writer of both the book of John and the book of Revelation. In both books he follows the same order: The spiritual awakening (Jno. 5:25; Rev. 20:4-5); the physical resurrection (Jno. 5:28; Rev. 20:11-15).

It should be noted that those who have a part in the "first resurrection" are those who maintain complete freedom from papal doctrine and practice.

Verse 5 "But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This constitutes the general resurrection, and take place after the thousand years. This embraces both the good and the bad, and is entirely literal. Even those who have had a part in the first resurrection (born into the family of God) will undergo the "second resurrection," since it embraces all who have died the physical death; never-the-less, "on such the second death hath no power," because they are Christians. Of course this necessarily implies that they must be overcomers; "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt with the second death" (Rev. 2:11).

Verse 6. "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection." All such are Christians. (See explanation in verse 5).

"They shall be priest of God and of Christ." This is true of all Christians (Rev. 1:5-6).

Through this cable flows power for progress

A literal web of cables strung on highlines tie together all the communities we serve. Through these cables flow the electricity to light the darkness, to relieve housewives of home-making drudgery, to turn the wheels of industry, and to perform countless other tasks economically and continuously.

Because our service area is the center of one of the Nation's fastest growing regions, we are engaged in a long-range program of expansion. Generating and distribution facilities are being enlarged to serve more people, more businesses, more industry.

That is why our product — electricity — is not only the power FOR progress, it is a symbol OF progress here in the Center of the Southwest.

PLEDGE OF VICTORY

Much work can be done, in this battle of life,

Or else there is blackout, 'mid din, and in strife,

Oh, roses will bloom, the sun beams till the night,

Each day a new challenge, think ye wrong, or think ye right?

Look up, don't look down, Please to smile, seldom frown,

With our own Uncle Sam, let us be Victory bound!

We can fly into space meet the stars face to face,
Shall we lead this world on, with our courage—our Grace!

There is long life, in dieting, the good life, a goal,
To heal is a purpose, a Heaven for your Soul,

Find a lift in the kindness, a cure in the pill, Sweet Freedom's torch glows! And it always will!

Game Violations Are On Decrease

Game and fish violations dropped in February in comparison to those in January, according to reports released by the law enforcement branch of the Game and Fish Commission. From 434 violations in January, they plunged to only 269 the following month. This, of course, was caused primarily by the termination of most hunting seasons.

Hunting without a license violations dropped from 58 to 21, while fishing without a license jumped from 24 to 32. Headlighting at night dropped from 92 in February to 48 in January; hunting from an automobile charges dropped from 25 to 10 and hunting in a closed season in February netted just half the number in January—from 26 to 13 violations.

Altogether, in January 336 persons violated game laws in one way or another. The following month the number dropped to 192 game law violations.

Fishing law violations following the closing of the hunting season were just beginning to climb in February with 26, compared to just 7 in January. Four of the February violators were charged with using insanitary containers for oysters, and one for selling bad oysters.

Check now for the proper fishing requirements, such as licenses and bag limits. Don't gamble with the laws.

1. He owns his home and business on which he pays county, school, state and other taxes.
2. He contributes to local churches, the United Fund, community projects and community programs of interest.
3. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and is interested and active in the progress and business climate which promotes the economic welfare of our community.
4. He belongs to local service clubs that participate in many worthwhile projects boosting our community.
5. He is always willing to extend credit to his customers, and in many, many cases, extends them credit beyond his financial ability.

We call this to your attention, since we feel many of you have not considered all of these factors when products and services are purchased from non-resident door-to-door salesmen that make no contribution to local school, city, religious or civic organizations. prices at $2.00 per bushel national average for certificated wheat and $1.30 per bushel for non-certificated wheat if the referendum carries.

3. Set the national marketing quota at 1,220,000,000 bushels and the national acreage allotment for 1964 at 49,500,000 acres—the same as in 1962.

4. Determined a wheat marketing allocation for certificated wheat of 975,000,000 bushels, 80 per cent of the national marketing quota. Individual producers will receive marketing certificates for 80 per cent of the normal production on their acreage allotments.

5. Announced State acreage allotments based on the national allotment.

6. Set diversion payment rates on wheat acreage put to conserving uses.

7. Announced there will be no non-commercial wheat-producing states designated under the 1964 program.

Who may vote in the wheat referendum? First, let us consider qualifications for voting in the referendum. Any producer who has a farm acreage allotment will be eligible to vote except those with an acreage allotment of less than fifteen acres. In Texas, both the husband and wife are eligible to vote if the allotment is on community property. If the county committee has determined that both husband and wife are responsible under a verbal lease, both are eligible to vote. Both the landowner and tenant may vote if the landowner receives a share of the wheat crop in payment for use of the land. Individual members of a partnership will each have a vote. A person may vote as a representative of an organization, as an administrator, or executor of an estate, or as a trustee or guardian.

If the small farmer wishes to be eligible to vote in the referendum, for price support, and land diversion payments, he must so indicate in writing at least 7 days

KNOW YOUR INSECT ENEMY

THE COTTON FLEAHOPPER

This cotton pest is hard to see, but its damage isn't. Deformed leaves, whiplike terminal growth and reduced fruit set are characteristic of fleahopper infestation.

Winged adults and wingless young fleahoppers are extremely active. They both drain sap from tender parts of cotton plants, primarily terminal buds and small squares. Many tiny squares can be killed and fall from the plant before other damage signs become evident.

Good farming practices help prevent fleahopper problems. Every fall adults lay eggs in weeds near cottonfields. Effective field cleanup and weed control cuts down on spring hatches.

When cotton is tender, fleahoppers move in from nearby weedy areas, usually about April. Greatest damage is reported in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana. In some years, other states are hard hit too. Rainy weather favors this pest, which continues to attack cotton as long as it remains succulent.

Fleahopper populations can build fast. Entomologists recommend early control with insecticides to stop this profit-robbing insect. Cotton growers have found that a new pesticide, called Sevin, provides excellent fleahopper control even in areas where some older materials are not giving satisfactory results. This new insecticide is a carbamate, and is chemically different from phosphates, arsenicals and chlorinated hydrocarbons. It combines high toxicity to insects with less hazard to field workers who apply it as dust or spray.

Production economy is important to maintain cotton profits. Entomologists favor using a broad-range insecticide early in the season. That way, all major cotton pests can be controlled with fewer applications before they can do much damage to the crop. FNS prior to balloting. With such a choice, he must comply with the provisions of the program and his acreage allotment will be the larger of (1) the small farm base acreage reduced by approximately 10 percent or, (2) the acreage allotment determined in the same manner as the allotments on larger farms.

If the producer does not desire to participate in the program, his allotment will be the larger of (1) the small-farm base acreage or (2) the acreage allotment for the farm. More on the wheat will be given at a later time.

4-Hers from all over District 3 will be competing Saturday, April 27, at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls. There will be contests for both seniors and juniors. The 4-H members will report to their respective contests in the morning. There will not be a general assembly in the morning. At 2 p.m. all will gather in the auditorium for the announcements of the winners. Thirteen seniors and eight juniors are scheduled to go from Knox County.

Betty Herring, Rhineland, has been declared winner in the public speaking contest in Knox County. She competed against Frances Reneau, Munday, in the contest at Gilliland, but the results were not announced until the record books could be scored.

100 Texas Counties Qualify As Modified Brucellosis Free

Nearly half of the counties in Texas now qualify as modified certified brucellosis areas, and more are in the process of certification, says Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, Texas A&M College.

Counties are granted a modified certified status when the disease has been reduced to not more than one per cent of the cattle and not more than five per cent of the herds, explains Patterson. He points out that the incidence of the disease in cattle has declined more than 90 per cent since 1954, and believes the disease can be eliminated from the state with the present eradication program.

Also, cases of the human form of the disease, undulant fever, are at an all time low. Once reported by the thousands, only 500 cases were detected in the U. S. in 1962 and fewer still are expected during this year, says Patterson.

An important part of the program is market cattle testing, says Patterson. For this testing cattle are back tagged or identified with the owner's herd through sales records. Blood samples are taken at packing plants and if infected cows are discovered eradication measures are planned by the herd owner and the veterinarian. At present about 97 per cent of the cattle tested in this manner are found free of the disease, he says.

The milk ring test is the method used to screen dairy herds for brucellosis.

With the use of market testing of beef cattle and the milk ring test for dairy animals, Patterson predicts the eventual identification of all brucellosis infected herds and subsequent complete eradication of the disease.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says He'd Much Rather Have Federal Help Out In The Country Than In The City

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek seems to be kidding big cities, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
It's been so long since the big city newspapers and magazines have exercised themselves over the farm problem that I had the feeling something was afoot, and it is.

According to an article in a newspaper I found out here on this Johnson grass farm yesterday where it had blown up against a fence and which I removed at once before the whole thing blew over—I'm no engineer but I know what a few more pounds of stress can do to a fence of mine—big cities are seeking 375 million dollars in Federal grants to help them finance transportation systems for commuters.

As I understand it, so many people work in cities the streets won't hold all their cars and they have to use trains and buses, but the trains and buses are losing money and their equipment is de-lapidated so naturally the only thing to do is to turn to Washington for money to make up the difference. Cities may denounce farmers for doing this, but they know a good idea when they see it.

I can't get any big cities to agree with me, but clearly the trouble is that we've got a surplus of cities. Marginal cities, I guess you'd call them, like marginal farmers.

It looks to me like any city which is so big it can't get its people to and from the working areas every day, is simply too big. In reverse, it's like the farmer who's too small. Both are uneconomic.

Now with the farmer, the city answer has always been, let him give up unprofitable farming and move to town, but it's hard to say that if a city is too big, let it close up and move to a smaller place. You can say it, but it hardly makes sense.

What cities need actually is either wider streets, narrower cars, or fewer people, but nobody seems to be making any progress in any of these directions.

The way it looks to me, big cities don't want the Federal government helping farmers in the country, they want them to move to town and then help them there.

Personally, if it's all right with Washington, I'd rather have the help where I am and avoid all that traffic. It's easier, more comfortable, and you can do it in the shade.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Weekly Health LETTER
Issued by the State Health Department

AUSTIN — Water conservation and pollution invariably rank high on any expert list of current problems of modern life.

More than 10 million people now call Texas home. This rapid growth and the trend toward concentrated city living has resulted in a tremendous increase in the volume of waste being released into streams and lakes. Thus, water pollution has become a serious public health problem.

To meet the overall needs of the average Texas community, the municipal water plant must supply 140 gallons per person per day. Approximately 50 gallons of this daily total is used in the home. An equal amount is used by industry for washing and cooling, special processing and air conditioning.

Public needs — fire fighting, street cleaning, recreation and public fountains—account for 10 gallons of the daily supply. Commercial establishments use an additional 20 gallons for cleaning and service operations. Unhappily, ten gallons are lost through leaks and breaks in underground pipelines.

HOW THIMET® GRANULAR GROWS COTTON PLANTS THAT KILL INSECTS

Applied at planting, THIMET 10% granular insecticide protects young cotton up to six weeks longer . . . through the first critical weeks of growth. One soil application can replace three or more foliage sprays.

THIMET granules are distributed in the furrow at planting time from a granular applicator attached to the planter. Rates range from 5 to 15 lbs. per acre, depending on the length of control desired and soil type.

THIMET is available from your local pesticides supplier. For further information, contact him, or write: Pesticides Dept., address below.

Because THIMET is in every growing part of the plant, insect control is steady and continuous. It eliminates those danger periods when an insect infestation may go unnoticed until the crop has already been damaged. And, since THIMET is inside the plant, it cannot be weathered away by wind and rain.

THIMET gives outstanding control of thrips, aphids, mites, leaf-miners . . . protects the young plant against leafhoppers, white flies, black cutworms. And by killing insects such as leafhoppers, THIMET controls virus diseases carried by these insects.

THIMET is a systemic insecticide. As the young cotton plant emerges and starts to grow, the THIMET in the soil is taken up through the roots into the growing plant. Immediately it is carried in the sap stream to all growing stems and leaves (see diagram). The plant itself becomes toxic to insects that try to attack it.

THIMET 10% granular comes packed in handy 10 lb. bags for easy measuring.

Farm Accidents On The Rise

A new crop year is underway in Texas. With it comes the increased danger of crippling accidents on the farm.

It is a paradox that although the farm population is on the decrease, injuries and deaths from farm accidents are on the rise. This is partly because of the increasing average age of the people of farms, according to a recent study.

The annual mortality from farm accidents is estimated at from 60 to 70 per 100,000 farm population. It is an alarming fact that fully one-third of our farm population suffers accidents of some type each year. Some of them are of minor nature with no time losses involved, however. But lost-time injuries involved about 19 per cent of the farm population and this year about three per cent of our farm people will suffer permanent disabilities in accidents.

Rural environments are naturally more hazardous than urban life. Farms are relatively isolated with little supervision of work and not much opportunity for an injured person to obtain first aid promptly. Farm-to-market highways are often hazardous and, though there is less traffic, even on the most improved rural highways it is less controlled than an urban street.

The high rate of accidents to farm people is also related to the pattern of farm work, which is more of a family job running more nearly around the clock than the job of the wage earner in town.

Accidents take a heavy toll among our farm youth, also. For the United States more than half of the annual mortality to young people between the ages of 15 to 24 is due to accidents. The motor vehicle hazard exists for both farm and city youth but the young people in rural areas are exposed to the additional hazards of farm machinery.

The tragedy is that perhaps 80 per cent of our farm accidents resulted from carelessness or failure to deal with hazards safely. But in that tragedy is the seed of hope, for more caution would cut the rate. Many of the accidents are avoidable.

Farm accidents are at their peak in June, July and August—the most active period of crop production and harvest. At this time, the farmer works long hours, becomes tired and perhaps a little careless.

Farmers are urged to inspect their premises for hazards—especially in the home and around the outbuildings. Make repairs now. Inspect and get machinery in good running order. Above all, avoid unnecessary risks and don't try to "cut corners" in order to save time during the busy season. A minor slip can result in a major accident.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

A Tax Audit
More and more taxpayers are getting audited as a part of the government's revenue collection. If selected, you may well ask, "Why pick on me?"

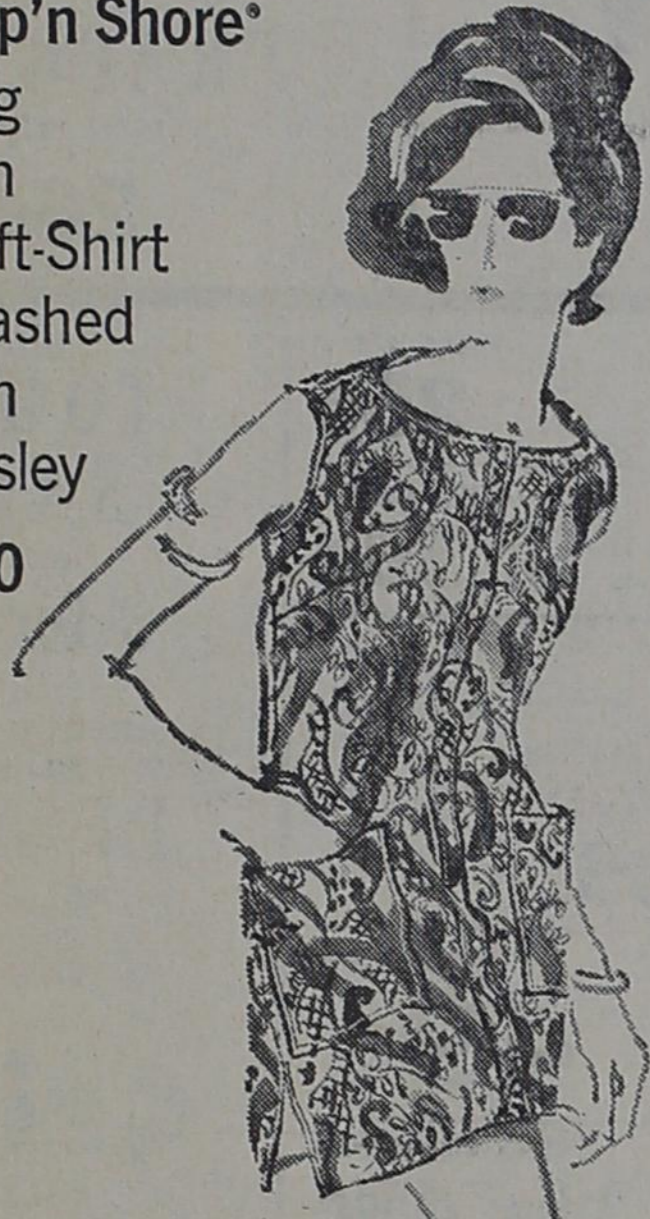

Well, you may have made an arithmetic mistake, deducted too much, claimed a large refund compared to your income, had a big income, had too small an income. Or, you may have been picked out by chance.

There are many audits. An auditor may ask you to bring in your records to talk over your return. Often one talk is enough. Again you may have several talks before the matter is closed. You may bring your lawyer along if you like or anyone who helped you make out your last return.

Payroll

When the Bonham Cotton Mill announced it would close its doors finally in early 1962, that North Texas city stood to lose a 61-year old industry with a $14,000 weekly payroll.

Bonham's vigorous enterprise in the face of crisis is another reason we say big things are happening in General Telephone towns.

Aggressive citizens of the 7357 population community arose to the emergency. Today, little more than a year later, Red River Textile Mill, Inc., is not only continuing the operation of its predecessor, but is talking plans for an eventual major expansion.

These towns are on the move. Community improvements are under way, local resources are being developed, new businesses, new industries are coming in. If your town seeks additional information about expansion perhaps we can help. Just write our Community Development Department, Box 1001, San Angelo, Texas.

When a special agent comes to see your records, it may be well to have your lawyer on hand.

As a rule most honest differences over taxes are settled without suits. But not always. Whenever taxes are challenged, interests. People have lost good defenses or claims by failing to take prompt steps to protect your act within the times set by law.

The workload of the tax offices has brought on automatic data processing. Magnetic tape and other devices may store and analyze returns on each taxpayer, say, by 1970 or sooner. Then more audits.

Wheat Program-

certificate wheat. In this example, because the farmer signed a statement that he would divert his acreage cut to conservation uses, he receives an additional $120 as a "diversionary payment."

The amount of non-certificate wheat for a farm will vary, of course, depending upon whether the farm produces more or less than his normal yield.

But regardless of the actual production on the farm in 1964, the number of certificates to be issued would remain the same, except for a reduction for those farms planting less than the 80 per cent of their allotments.

A farmer possibly can, by voluntary reduction in his allotment of up to 20 per cent, eliminate from his program any non-certificate wheat. In this case, he would receive an additional diversion payment at a higher level some two-thirds greater than for the mandatory rate.

That is because the payment for voluntary diversion is $1 per bushel, while that for mandatory diversion is 60 cents per bushel times the normal yield.

A few Knox County farms will plant less than 15 acres and will be considered a "small farm." For those farms, the program will operate much the same as for the bigger farms.

"Small farm base" will be established for them based on the average acreage planted in 1959, 1960 and 1961.

The allotment for them will be 10 per cent less than this base.

Any small farm may divert as much as the larger of the allotment, or the "small farm" base.

Small farms that did not plant wheat in those years are not eligible to grow wheat in 1964 as the old 15-acre exemption provision has been eliminated.

Gene Wood Attends Training Session At Vienna, Georgia

Gene W. Wood of Gene Wood Tractor Sales attended a three-day, intensive product and sales training session this week at Vienna, Ga., home of the Southern Training Center of Tractor and Implement Operations (U.S.), Ford Motor Company.

With 19 other Ford tractor dealers from his region, Mr. Wood arrived aboard Ford Motor Company's turbo-jet con- vair plane in the most unique "Operation Airlift" in the industry. The Ford plane picks up dealers at key points throughout the country during the year and brings them to the training center. They return in the same fashion.

The training includes both classroom and on-the-farm instruction and demonstration. The program is designed to help dealers become better acquainted with the tractors and equipment enabling them to be of greater assistance to customers, according to David Meeker, parts, service and training manager for Tractor and Implement Operations (U.S.), Birmingham, Mich.

"Classes are kept small so each dealer can get the maximum of personal instruction and actual work experience with the equipment," Mr. Meeker said.

Located in the heart of south central Georgia, the 525-acre training center offers a wide range of soil types and field conditions for training as well as a variety of competitive equipment for use in making comparative evaluations with the wide assortment of Ford units on hand.

Ford is a pioneer in the practical training of dealers and has operated the Southern Training Center for the past six years.

Week end guests in the home of Mrs. Alice Lowrance were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Malone and Janice of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Lowrance of Floydada, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lowrance, Sue and Buddy of Goree and Doyle Lowrance of Munday.

Methodist Youth To Present Program

After the program, the group will assemble in the fellowship hall for a fried chicken supper. In charge of meal arrangements are Mrs. Dwight Key and Mrs. Jeff Anderson.

Over 90 youth and parents are expected for the occasion.
