CROWELL, FOARD COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1933

8 PAGES $2.00 A YEAR

PROSPECTS ARE FAVORABLE FOR R. F. C. GYM LOAN

Without adding a cent to the cost of operating the local school system and without involving any future increase in taxation, excellent progress has been made in constructing a gymnasium on the local school grounds.

At present the construction has proceeded to the point that the basement for the 80 by 82 foot structure has been completed with heavy stone walls above the ground; rafters have been erected over all the gym with the exception of the playing court, and the entire seating capacity has been blocked.

This remarkable record has been made possible through the donation of material from various sources, the use of R. F. C. labor and the management of the proposition by N. J. Roberts and L. A. Andrews, chairman and secretary, of the local R. F. C. committee.

Involving expense to themselves and without receiving remuneration in any form, they have spent the greater part of their time in looking after this project since it was started in January.

L. I. Saunders, who is in charge of construction, drew the excellent plans for this structure and donated them for the project.

At present work is progressing slowly due to lack of material to complete the structure.

May Get R. F. C. Loan
An application several weeks ago for a loan of $3,000 to complete the building was approved by the R. F. C., however, it cannot be granted until certain legal matters are straightened out.

The R. F. C. has a special fund to loan for self-liquidating projects and the application for this loan specified that it would be paid back over a period of ten years from receipts of the gym.

The local school board, which applied for the loan, is not allowed to bind successors in office, therefore present laws prevent the school board from securing a loan on more than a one-year basis.

To remove this obstacle, so far as self-liquidating projects are concerned, George Moffett of Chillicothe, representative of this district, introduced a bill which, if passed, would allow school districts to secure loans for recreational projects that are self-liquidating in character and supported by charges other than taxation.

This bill passed the House on Monday night, as a result of Mr. Moffett's diligent work, and is due to come before the Senate this week. All that is lacking for Crowell to secure this loan is the passage of this bill. The R. F. C. has already approved the application.

The following is a brief report of how material for the gym has been secured:

1. Wrecked old county jail, after donation by county, securing dimension stone equal to 57,000 brick, which was used to build walls of basement. Sewer pipe, water pipe, structural steel and dimension lumber also secured.

2. Wrecked old power plant of West Texas Utilities Co., which was donated. Sold an old dismantled engine for $30.00 and a quantity of sheet iron was exchanged for cement. Valuable dimension lumber for frame work was secured from this donation by the W. T. U.

3. Wrecked old ball park and exhibition building, valued at $400.00. This material used for sheeting gym and for sub-floor.

4. Removed brick for six abandoned wells, securing about 10,000 brick.

5. Dug up 1,200 feet of water pipe of various sizes on abandoned water lines. Secured enough pipe for water and gas lines and sold quite a bit.

6. Wrecked an old house which was partially destroyed by fire and secured one fourth of lumber, which was several thousand feet.

7. Various other material secured from numerous other sources, such as pillars, in form of 4 inch oil well casing, which was donated by Luther Webb and H. W. Rogers, oil operators of Vernon. Hauling of these was donated by Clint White of this city.

During the time the basement of the gym was being excavated the use of 28 head of horses and mules were donated by the following: Geo. Cates, E. H. Cooner, W. A. Cordell, D. H. Todd, A. F. McMillan, M. S. Henry, West Texas Utilities Co., C. L. Gray, C. V. Ketchersid, Country Club and A. G. Bell. All the R. F. C. committee had to supply was feed. In other words the basement foundation was dug at practically no cost, since the R. F. C. furnished the

The building as it now stands has cost in actual money $438.50, the greater part of which has been for cement, sand, lime, etc.

Reductions in prices for products needed have been given in nearly all cases.

It is estimated that $2,500 will finish the project completely. The estimated value when completed is $12,000, and if completed will be secured for a sum not exceeding $3,000.00.

The brick veneer structure will have a channel drain iron roof. It

Fire Destroys Frame Structure at Thalia

The frame structure in Thalia, known as the old "Gray Building," was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Tuesday night at about 10 o'clock. The building was owned by Wm. Cameron Co. and was located just north of Sims Hotel.

Fortunately the wind was from the southeast at the time. Had it been from the north it is possible that most of the business section of the town would have been wiped out. The building was about 25 by 60 feet and was being used as a residence for a family at the time of the fire. Practically all contents of the building were destroyed.

The Crowell fire truck went to the fire but arrived too late to be of service.

Christian Church Is Conducting Revival of 2 Weeks at Margaret

A revival of two weeks at the Margaret Christian Church opened on Monday night of this week with Grant L. Slagle, pastor of the Crowell Christian Church, doing the preaching.

He will do the preaching all of this week and next week will be assisted by members of the gospel team of the local Christian Church.

Services are being held each evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend.

A question box is being conducted in connection with the revival and those in attendance have the opportunity of submitting questions for answers in regard to the Bible and religious matters.

GOLD STANDARD ABANDONED BY UNITED STATES

The United States abandoned the gold standard Tuesday night, as a result of President Roosevelt's action to raise commodity prices at home and restore languishing trade abroad.

The White House announced this would be done by maintaining a tight embargo on export of gold. Actually, it means that the American dollar is to be allowed to seek its natural level in world exchange.

Later it would be revaluated on a basis in natural relation to other currencies, according to reports from Washington.

Dr. R. L. Kincaid, local bank president, stated that this step seemed to be a good one in view of present conditions and should do more than any other force to bring the country as a whole out of the depression.

Foard Students Make Good Showing in Dist. Interscholastic Meet

Matador succeeded Crowell as the track champions in the district meet at Childress last Saturday in connection with the district Interscholastic League meet that was held on Friday and Saturday. Quitaque won second; Childress, third, and Crowell, fourth.

Dick Todd scored all of Crowell's points in track by winning first in the high hurdles and broad jump and third in the low hurdles. He was third in high points for the meet. The high point men and their points were: Wedeman of Matador, 13; Graham of Quitaque, 12.75; Todd of Crowell, 12.

Literary Events
In declamation Wanda Rose Liles of Crowell won second in the ward school junior girls division and J. C. Ross of Crowell won first for high school junior boys. R. B. Cates of Four Corners won third for rural junior boys. T. J. Taylor of Crowell won second in senior boys declamation.

The Crowell girls debating team, Jo Roark and Doris Oswald, eliminated Matador and then lost to Memphis, the team which won first place. The boys debate team of Crowell, Billy Jake and Neff Middlebrook, was eliminated by Quanah.

Edith Hutchison of Crowell won first in the ward school essay division. Margaret Cates of Four Corners won third in the rural division essay contest.

Mary Grace Shultz of Thalia defeated Quitaque in girls tennis singles, but lost in a later match. Lona Johnson and Jeff Bell won fourth places in girls and boys extemporaneous speech.

Dick Todd is eligible to participate in the State meet at Austin, which will be held in the next few weeks.

GEORGE D. SELF

George D. Self was elected president of the Crowell Rotary Club for the year, beginning July 1 at the regular weekly luncheon Wednesday. Other officers elected were: H. K. Edwards, vice-president; Mack Boswell, secretary-treasurer; W. W. Griffith and Merle Kincaid, directors. The retiring president, H. E. Fergeson, will automatically become the local commander of the Gordon J. Ford Post of the American Legion.

A nominating committee consisting of M. S. Henry, T. N. Bell and Eli Smith submitted the names of the officers, which were approved by the club.

Fred Rennels was in charge of the program, which consisted of a resume of news events by T. B. Klepper and a talk by Rev. Geo. E. Turrentine on the subject "The Victory of Peace."

In discussing war and its destruction, he stated that there were plenty of other things in life to fight for without having to kill one's fellow man. Christianity and education were mentioned as the main agencies to end war. "A reign of righteousness is the only thing that will really end war," the speaker said.

A communication regarding the 41st District Rotary Conference in San Angelo on May 1 and 2 was read by Mr. Fergeson along with other business matters.

LOCAL HEREFORDS BRING HIGHEST MARKET PRICE

Fifteen yearling Hereford calves belonging to I. M. Cates and son, George Cates, brought 5.25 cents per pound at Fort Worth last week. This was the highest price paid on the 1933 Fort Worth market up to that time.

The yearlings were from registered stock and averaged about five hundred pounds each. George Cates hauled them to Fort Worth.

Jobless Enlisting in Reforestation Service Army

Herewith is pictured the launching of the recruiting drive to enlist 250,000 unemployed for President Roosevelt's Reforestation Service plan. The enlistments are for 6 months duration for jobless between the ages of 18 and 25 years. They receive $1 per day and the applications are passed upon by relief committees in the respective territories. One provision is that those given jobs shall assign at least three-fourths of their pay to dependents. Enlistments are made at army enlistment quarters following which those accepted are sent to army camps for conditioning after which they receive assignments by the Department of Labor. Photo No. 1 shows jobless making applications. No. 2 shows meals being served recruits from rolling army kitchens and No. 3 shows recruits off for conditioning camps.

Tax Renditions Must Be Made by April 30

Those who have not made their tax renditions to the county for 1933 must do so before April 30, or suffer a twenty-five per cent penalty, according to the Texas law on this matter.

Vernon Pyle, tax assessor, is sending out notices warning those who have not made their renditions, to do so at once. "I have done my best to see everybody in person and renditions have been made by most of the tax payers, however, a number keep putting this matter off, even though they have been seen. If they wish to avoid a 25 per cent penalty it will be necessary for them to see me in my office at once," Mr. Pyle said.

Mrs. Glenn Burnett played the professional for the entrance of the class and after a song, sung by the choir, the invocation was pronounced by Rev. Newsome.

Rev. Freeman Holcomb of Seymour ably delivered the sermon, taking as his subject, "The Game of Life." Songs were sung by a special choir and one number was given by a quartet composed of Messrs. Gleason, Young, Mills and Hickman. The graduates were enjoined to play the game of life as good sports, both winners and losers, since it is results and not causes and circumstances which the world sees.

How to get to SLEEP

When you can't sleep, it's because your nerves won't let you. Don't waste time "counting sheep." Don't lose half your needed rest in reading. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin, drink a glass of water—and go to sleep.

This simple remedy is all that's needed to insure a night's rest. It's all you need to relieve a headache during the day—or to dispose of other pains. Get the genuine tablets of Bayer manufacture and you will get immediate relief.

Bayer Aspirin dissolves slowly, immediately—gets to work without delay. This desirable speed is not dangerous; it does not depress the heart. Just be sure you get the genuine tablets stamped thus:

flame wickless oil stoves, no smoke, no ashes, no wick. On exhibition at J. H. Self's.

The Crowell school closed its term of 1908 with the graduating exercises Friday night at the Methodist Church. The essays delivered by Misses Essie Thacker and Mabel Alger and Archie (Pete) Campbell, the members of the graduating class were products of thought well and carefully prepared and reflected upon the institution in which they have been trained.

Judge Cole addressed the graduating class. The Crowell orchestra played wonderfully. The sweet, clear notes of violins made by the touch of bows drawn by skillful hands, mingled with the soprano, tenor and alto issuing in perfect accord from horns, rang out with such sweetness as to make one forget that he was in Crowell and cause him to feel that he was in the presence of orchestras of world-wide renown.

When you are in town and looking for a good place to stop with kind treatment and good food for your teams at cheap prices ask where the banana man is at—you will find him at the Travelers and Farmers Home Wagon Yard, you will find him at the yard at night and on the public square in the day time with the best bananas that can be bought, come early on Saturdays or you may be too late.—Nathan Hoffman, Banana man; Jack Mule, Mgr.

William Belasky, tried at Rochester, N. Y., on a charge of larceny, became so excited over a suspended sentence that he kissed the hand of the judge.

Lost 40 Pounds On Doctor's Advice

"I'm a user of Kruschen Salts as a reducing remedy and can say they are fine. Have lost more than 40 lbs. in the past year. Am gradually reducing as my doctor advises." Miss Bertha Waldo, Haman, N. Dak. (Oct. 30, '32.)

Once a day take Kruschen Salts—one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water first thing every morning. Besides losing ugly fat SAFELY you'll gain in health and physical attractiveness—constipation, gas and acidity will cease to bother—you'll feel younger—more active—full of ambition—clear skin—sparkling eyes.

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels. That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular; keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

DEPRESSION TALK

In times like these, we find ourselves in the midst of a serious financial and industrial crisis. It just seems inconceivable that conditions can ever right themselves enough to have prosperous times in the country again.

The problem of unemployment has become general and in all large cities special committees have been organized to provide food and clothing for the poor and unemployed.

The lessening demand for wheat exported to Europe has caused American wheat to sell for less than 50 cents a bushel.

ADMIRAL W. A. MOFFETT

In the death of Rear Admiral William Adger Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, who perished in the disaster to the dirigible Akron, the nation lost one of its most distinguished and gallant Naval officers.

He was born in Charleston, S. C., October 31, 1869, and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1890. He served with Dewey at the battle of Manila in 1898, and was awarded the nation's highest military distinction, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

During his long and notable Naval career he held many commands of high importance, and was known as a forceful and brilliant officer. He would have been retired for age in October of this year if he had lived.

By "marginal lands" we assume Mr. Roosevelt means those golf course margins commonly known as the "rough."

In 1930 Mr. Babson predicted that business would improve in the Fall. We hope his prediction will come true in the Fall of 1933.

Giving unusual powers to the President by Congress may be justified on the theory that one man is likely to make fewer mistakes than 531.

One of President Roosevelt's hobbies is stamp collecting. And some Congressmen fear he is too partial to the rubber variety.

It appears that fixing depression-guilt is as difficult as fixing war-guilt.

After fighting a war to end war, Europe is now fighting a war to end war debts.

THIS YEAR—

A HEALTH VACATION . . .

Where rest and relaxation are a real pleasure—and genuine hospitality joins the best of facilities in making your vacation the most worthwhile you ever had.

CRAZY WATER HOTEL

Mineral Wells, Texas "Where America Drinks Its Way To Health"

Washington, Apr. 19 (Auto-caster) —Beer is back and the first day sales are said to have netted the Federal government and the various state and local taxing units about ten million dollars.

What is worrying the wets is that Mr. Roosevelt has not said anything about the repeal of the 18th amendment. The President's friends reply that there isn't anything for him to say.

The really important development in Washington is the invitation by the President to the heads of eleven other nations to come to Washington to see him, or to send somebody in their place.

This is not an altruistic project to save the world. The President is undertaking something for the sake of the United States first and the world at large in consequence.

The need for this reciprocity on our part is inescapable. For even if we could trade our war debt claims for a lowering of foreign tariffs on our exports, without reciprocal action on our part we would get nowhere.

Wise observers here say that the policy of "economic nationalism" has been definitely scrapped by the invitations to Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Japan, China, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico and Canada to talk over international economics at Washington.

There are heaven knows how many steamships sailing the Seven Seas, and international law requires that practically every one of them carry at least two radio operators.

Every concert hall, every stage nowadays aspires to sound amplifying equipment. Every motion picture house is a talking picture house, with machinery for somebody who knows how to run.

Every commercial transport airplane flies by radio; every major airport has its radio station. Radio communication is world-wide. Television may be just around the corner.

Radio, in a word, is today's science and industry. What a field! What a fortune! What an opportunity for the young man just starting in life!

Contrary to popular tradition, Indians never intentionally scalped a living warrior, says Dr. Melvin Gilmore, anthropologist of the University of Michigan.

The Lindbergh beacon in Chicago is twice as powerful as any other light in the world and is visible within a radius of 300 miles.

The area of Alaska is nearly equal to that of Texas, Montana, Maryland and Delaware combined.

BRUCE BARTON writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy-burdened who will find every human trial parallelled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

THE GREAT IDEA

When Gideon called for volunteers to fight the Midianites, thirty-two thousand responded. Gideon looked them over critically. He knew the conflicting motives that had brought them there—some from mere love of adventure; some because they were afraid to be taunted with cowardice; some for plunder; some to get away from their wives. He determined to weed them out at once:

Whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him go home to-night," he proclaimed. The next morning twenty-two thousand had vanished. Only ten thousand remained.

Only a handful; only three hundred. But Gideon kept them and sent the rest home. Better three hundred who could not be held back from the battle than ten thousand who were merely half-heartedly ready to go.

That higher type of leadership which calls forth men's greatest energies by the promise of obstacles rather than the picture of rewards—that was the leadership of Jesus. By it he tempered the soft metal of his disciples' nature into keen hard steel.

Get you no gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses. No wallet for your journey; neither two coats, nor shoes, nor staff.

Beware of men; for they will deliver you up to councils and in their synagogues they will scourge you; yea and before governors and kings shall ye be brought for my sake.

He that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. And he that doth not take his cross and follow after me is not worthy of me.

He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.

Watch the faces and the figures. See the shoulders straighten, the muscles of the lips grow hard. There is power in those faces that will not be withstood.

The great idea prevailed.

RADIO—THE YOUNG MAN'S OPPORTUNITY

Twelve million families in the United States have radio receiving sets. That's just twelve million more than there were fifteen years ago. Those sets must be serviced.

There are over six hundred commercial broadcasting stations, spending millions of dollars every month to bring entertainment into our homes.

There are heaven knows how many steamships sailing the Seven Seas, and international law requires that practically every one of them carry at least two radio operators.

Every concert hall, every stage nowadays aspires to sound amplifying equipment. Every motion picture house is a talking picture house, with machinery for somebody who knows how to run.

Every commercial transport airplane flies by radio; every major airport has its radio station. Radio communication is world-wide. Television may be just around the corner.

Radio, in a word, is today's science and industry. What a field! What a fortune! What an opportunity for the young man just starting in life!

Rashberry pitched the first five innings and toyed with the Indians, allowing 5 hits and no runs. Bell pitched the 6th and 7th innings and allowed only one run and one hit. Pete Bell and Ashford led the batting attack for Crowell, each connecting for three hits in four trips to the plate.

Foard County Friends Mourn Death of Frank Rush at Lawton, Okla.
 The death of Frank Rush, 68, famous friend of the Indian and cowboy naturalist, at Lawton, Oklahoma, recently is mourned by a number of Foard County people who knew him. He died April 7 in a Lawton hospital following an attack of paralysis at his mountain home in Craterville Park, in the heart of the Wichita mountains.
 Mr. Rush was in Foard County in the spring of 1928 with Chief Baldwin Parker and a group of Comanche Indians when the spot where Cynthia Ann Parker was recaptured was officially marked on the Wesley farm northwest of Margaret.
 In 1907 following several years as a cowboy and stock farmer, Mr. Rush became a guard in the Ranger force of the Wichita National forest and game preserve. After serving one year in that capacity he became supervisor of the forest, resigning that post in 1923. After his resignation he bought Craterville Park and began its development as a summer resort.
 The outstanding work of his life, however, was his sponsorship of the all-Indian agricultural fair held each year in August at Craterville Park. Here he won and held the friendship of both the Comanche and Kiowas and in his unique fair brought out the splendid qualities of the Indians of southwest Oklahoma. He is said to have the undying friendship of every member of both tribes.
 Funeral services were held at the Christian Church at Lawton. The church was filled to capacity. Prominent members of the tribes spoke in the Indian language, eulogizing the deceased and claiming him as their best friend.

Boy Born in Foard Saved from Insanity By Oklahoma Doctor
 The following article that appeared recently in the Mangum, Okla., Daily Star should prove of much interest in Foard County, especially since its principal subject, P. D. Ferguson, was born in Foard County 22 years ago and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Ferguson, former residents here:
 "One of the most interesting of the many thousands of operations performed by Dr. Fowler Border, 1833 class father, was performed last summer upon a youth who was deemed by prominent mental specialists to a life-time of insanity.
 "The youth, P. D. Ferguson, is today employed by the doctor in his greenhouse, at the Border Drug, and as an assistant at the hospital and is as "intelligent as the normal person," Dr. Border declares.
 "Last September 3, young Ferguson's mind became seriously afflicted and he was taken to mental specialists in Oklahoma and other states. His case was pronounced incurable and he was confined to the Western Oklahoma State Hospital at Supply where the specialists had recommended he spend the remainder of his life. His condition became rapidly worse and he lost his speech.
 "His heart broken mother would not give up hope. She consulted Dr. Border. The youth was removed to the local hospital and placed under observation.
 "Dr. Border suspected that a doctor might possibly be the cause of the trouble, in face of reports from leading specialists and decided upon an operation.
 "Today the youth may be seen working in the flower beds around the hospital or greenhouse, doing odd tasks around the hospital, or various jobs in the drug store. He plans to attend college and study to become a doctor.
 "The case of this youth has attracted a wide attention to Dr. Border, who has specialized in the removal of goiters. Many patients from all corners of the United States visited the doctor to consult him concerning goiter.
 "Since this operation Dr. Border has averaged better than one such case a day and many days he has done as many as seven or eight."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus Rebukes Self-Seeking

Lesson for April 23rd. Mark 9:30-50

Golden Text: Romans 13: 10

All of us crave popularity. It is human to seek recognition. But it is foolish to scramble for it. The disciples, in their quarrel as to who was the greatest, and therefore entitled to the honors of rank and precedence, form a sorry picture.

Jesus, with characteristic directness, at once plunged to the root of the whole issue. Greatness, He insisted, is not the fruit of the aggressive seizure of power, but of its renunciation. "If any one wishes to be first, he must be last of all and servant of all." This means that the humble, obscure workmen behind the scenes, an unheralded hero never in the limelight, never responding to a certain call with its ringing applause, may be, by God's standard, first in value and esteem. He it is who, when the kingdom of heaven is established, will be called from his inconspicuous position to a post of leadership.

Then the Master gave a concrete demonstration of this principle. Taking a little child, He placed him in their midst, embraced him, and then uttered those memorable words, "Whoever for my sake receives one such child as this, receives me." That

SERMONETTE

A LARGE ORDER

By Arthur B. Rhinow

"I have a favor to ask of you," the elevator man accosted me as we descended from the fourth floor of the hospital. "Pray for me. You know I have my ups and downs."

I suppressed the smile, for he was quite serious and not at all aware of his pun. Elevator men necessarily have their ups and downs, but he did not refer to that. He meant to say he had troubles. Nor did he seem to be quite appreciative of the fact that he was asking a great deal of me when he asked me to pray for him.

"Pray for me." That is a large order.

To pray at all we must, first of all, bring our souls into harmony with God, as the musicians tune their instruments before they begin to play. We must become attuned to God. Perfect harmony of soul is required, and that is not an easy task child, with its trustful eyes so full of wonder, its innocence, its beauty, its simple faith, unspoiled by the sordid selfish brutalities of our blighted world, both rebuked the grasping disciples, and gave them a needed lesson.

Was Jesus mistaken in His glorification of the child? No, indeed. Havelock Ellis maintains that the average man of genius, both in physique and temperament, is childlike. "The progress of our race," he says, "has been a progress in youthfulness."

One other saying of the Master in this lesson deserves careful study. It is the declaration, "He who is not against us is for us." How large-hearted! How generous! How we find the secret of the Master's superb tolerance and magnanimity.

Moreover, I cannot really pray for any one unless I am willing to help God answer the prayer. I must be willing to do my share. How can I become attuned to God if I am not willing to be like God; and God is love. So if I pray that God may help the elevator man, I pledge myself to help him so far as I can. Else my prayer is not genuine. Prayer involves responsibility.

Praying for somebody, then, is not a trifle. It is one of the greatest acts of the human soul, demanding sacrifice. But the sacrifice is well worth while. We link with God.

SPEED IN FALLING

If one should fall from an airplane or balloon at a height however great, his velocity could never exceed 118 miles an hour at any point before reaching the earth, according to the conclusions of the Army Air

Service as a result of experiments made with dummies.

This is contrary to the formerly held by most people a body continually increasing in speed when falling from a distance. The fact is that the increase of speed in the body similar to that of a bullet continues only until it has fallen 1,200 feet, after which it is a constant rate, due to the resistance of the air.

This discovery also supports a theory that a person falling from a great height would lose consciousness and perhaps be dead striking the ground, for it is known that aviators have their planes at speeds of 350 miles an hour on a steep course, and at much greater times when diving to make a side loop.

The knowledge that falling is limited is not of much benefit to one who falls from a great height, however, for miles an hour possible is quite sufficient to effect him out of business when he reaches the earth.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by Elinore Barry

Sixth Installment

SYNOPSIS

The bleak November day Joyce remembered was two years ago when she woke one morning to find herself in a luxurious house in California with a wedding ring on her hand, and a pleasant young man addressing her as Frills, telling her to be careful after her fall from her horse of the day before. Her husband was Neil Packard, rich and well-to-do. Confused and troubled, she tried to find out more about her husband and from letters in her desk found that she had been a heartless, cold-blooded young woman and had become involved in a serious affair with a man named Maitland. Later, when she was surprised when she tried to speak to him, but he finally left.

Before the stranger reached her, she had time to see that he was a tall, unimpressive type with reddish hair, and thin, nearly straight nose. His features were small, and his blue eyes twinkled. His plain business suit, which lacked all semblance of style, was in need of pressing and his wide commonsense shoes were dusty and scratched.

"Well, Frills, how's the beautiful feeling today? Golly, you were lucky, the way you got around and not get hurt! I'll be a man, who has to use his head, but he's been just the fellow to crack that would put him out of business completely."

Joyce smiled at him easily. This man was not in love with her, she was instinctively. He was friendly, but impersonal.

"Oh, is that so?" she retorted. "The Lord must have thought my brains more important than mine, if he protected them so much."

"Well, I haven't time for any questions on the equality of the sexes now, just dropped in to see you looked like so I can send you a wire that everything is O. K."

"Of course! This was the doctor! Well, I'm all right," she replied. "It occurred to her that she would better not be too well if she had to stand off the horde of women who were trying to draw her into their activities. "But it took me up and I'm going to cut some of the jazz for this week show. . . . You might tell people by your orders."

"You don't expect anybody to believe that you were obeying any orders of mine, do you? You have you ever taken my advice, young lady?"

"You stared at her with a sudden searching look in his blue eyes. Joyce blushed deeper than ever. Advice comes natural to a doctor. Frills, he went on. "If you are going to take advice, I wish you'd come I've given you long ago, this excessive smoking! Look at the way you fidget!"

"But I haven't smoked since day before yesterday," retorted Joyce triumphantly, "so it can't be that." "It can't? Whew! No wonder you're nervous! Don't you know you cut it out all at once? Not a day with your highly strung nervous system, who's been smoking at the terrific rate you have! Use a little common sense. Here, take this. If you want to cut out smoking, do it gradually." He handed her a cigarette with a decisive gesture which made refusal impossible.

Joyce took it, her hand shaking. Just before she had even raised it to her mouth, she was interrupted by the arrival of Roxie. "Dr. Ellison, the Gates Hospital wants to speak to you, sir."

"Doctor jumped to his feet, Roxie, just tell them I'll be there. Good-bye, Frills, I'll be in again later," and he was off with a backward glance.

Joyce drew a breath of relief. "Another one killed off! That message was sheer luck. I couldn't light my cigarette with him looking on," she murmured.

"The success of the lighting of the cigarette and puffed at it daintily. After a few moments, however, her attention was suddenly distracted by the approach of a woman. In her realization, Joyce swallowed a mouthful of smoke, which to her surprise she found herself expelling through her nostrils and mouth with an sensation of strangeness. Instantly her breathing apparatus was performing a familiar operation.

"She hurried to meet another visitor, and she to her feet and smiled greetingly to a newcomer. "Well, my dear Frills, what a foreboding you are!"

"The caller, who seated herself down waiting for an invitation, was a woman about forty years old with a delicate skin still fine in texture. She had large blue eyes, a straight nose and a thin-lipped mouth whose corners dropped with a complaining expression. "I should have shod in beautifully fitting kid walking slippers, I'll be a top of her head to her feet. Packard was immaculately groomed and well groomed. "I affected Frills one-half as she does me," she said. "Joyce, she wouldn't be on speaking terms with me now, or else I should have put the blame on Frills would have put the blame on the visitor. "Have you met the visitor. "Have you had Mr. Ellison make a thorough examination?"

"No, I haven't," replied Joyce. Her welcoming smile faded out, and sitting down again, she puffed at her cigarette, waiting in defensive silence. If this was Laurine, deliver her from any men-in-laws!

"Well, I should certainly think he would have done it. . . . I do wish you would consult him. I feel certain he would think a thorough internal examination the only safe thing to do after such an accident as yours. . . . A stitch in time saves nine."

Joyce wanted to add, "And an apple a day keeps the doctor away," but she kept quiet, wondering how much longer Laurine would stick to this particular subject.

Laurine changed the subject. "Delphine sends her love to you and hopes you're feeling quite recovered from the accident, and Paul said to tell you he'd probably run in sometime today. He's having lunch at the club with Otis Clark and a business friend from the city, and they're going to play golf all afternoon with and re-read the ones from "Sophie" with a growing longing to see the baby. Fired by this feeling, she went into the house to hunt for Sophie's address. But there was no Sophie in the little pigskin book.

She had wandered out onto the sunny sleeping porch still pondering Laurine's conversation, when she heard the rattle of a machine which sounded like a Ford driving into the grounds. She ran downstairs, out across the terrace and around to the garage. Yes, there was Sam just getting down from the machine, and in his arms was a little black and white dog. "Here you are, Mrs. Packard, the Marches were glad to get a home for Dickie," and he set the wriggling bunch down on the ground, and laughed as it strained at its leash.

"Oh, thank you, Sam, he's a darling!" exclaimed Joyce, stopping to pat the chunky little square head. Dickie whined as Sam released him from the leash and responded amiably to her patting but after a moment he looked about excitedly.

Maitland has two separate apartments in the city, not just the one where the men have their stag parties.

Art Belmain to make up a four-some."

It was nearly an hour later when Mrs. Paul Packard rose from the marble bench. She had touched on a multitude of subjects, ranging from the newest cold cream and its wonderful effects, to the details of the recent confinement of a Mrs. Wellman.

The effect of this call on Joyce was a wearily annoyed feeling that she had suffered more than the net results in the way of enlightening facts were worth.

"By the way, Delphine told me that she saw Arthur Maitland one night having dinner at the Palace with what she called a 'jazz baby' in a vermilion evening dress. And I heard somebody else, though I won't repeat the name because if there's one thing I pride myself on, it's not spreading scandal or gossip—but it's a woman who spends a lot of her time in the city, and you know her almost as well as I do—that Maitland has two separate apartments in the city, not just the one where the men have their stag parties. I think you ought to know those things because you're so careless about appearances and it's a crying shame the way you run around with a man like Arthur Maitland."

In the midst of the resentful fury that seized Joyce at the nerve of the woman for mixing into her private affairs she could not help feeling admiration for Laurine's courage. She had thought of Frills as a dynamic being who would not for a moment have tolerated the rebuke or advice of such a complacent upholder of middle-aged conventionalities. She herself was speechless, unprepared, wholly unprepared, and no match for Laurine's methods of attack. It occurred to her, however, that this information of the second apartment might be used later in her handling of Maitland, and she could not help being a little grateful to Laurine for furnishing her with any weapon.

Laurine, not waiting for the scarlet-faced Joyce to reply, went on calmly. "When your a little older, my dear, and have has as much experience as I have of the world, you'll realize it's foolish to put any trust in a man who is so lacking in principle that he can deliberately compromise a married woman. Nine times out of ten, he won't be faithful to her, and when she's been made a fool of she'll find that she was only one of a number of other silly women. Arthur Maitland is no different from the rest. Well, I must run along now. And do come over soon, my dear. Paul and I are always glad to welcome you, and no matter what happens, you must feel you have a refuge in our simple home."

Joyce was left alone again, plunged into another whirl of emotions. "I'm getting so many new things to think about, so many angles all at once to this business of being Frills Packard that it makes me dizzy trying to fit them together. Whew, but Mrs. Paul Packard is a fearful and wonderful female! I'll bet all I have that she's telling every one she knows about Arthur Maitland's other apartment. If it weren't that it helped me find out more about life here, I should have been bored to death by Laurine. . . ."

She picked up the letters again dashing away from her a few feet and barking sharply, then returning again. "What does he want, do you suppose, Sam?" asked Joyce, mystified by his behavior.

"He's looking for a stick," explained Sam. "That's what you want isn't it, Dickie?"

Sam picked up a smooth round piece of wood, showed it to Dickie who jumped frantically for it, and then threw it as far as he could. Dickie dashed after it tumultuously. Then he came romping back to Sam, who commanded, "Go take it to Mrs. Packard, Dickie, that's your lady now. Go on, give it to Mrs. Packard."

Dickie, his wide pink-lipped mouth clamped tightly over his precious stick, rolled his expressive brown eyes up at Sam in a speculative sort of way. Then he turned and trotted over to Joyce.

"There, that's enough stick for a while. You're all out of breath. Come with me, darling, and get acquainted with your new home," said Joyce finally, "thank you, Sam, I'm ever so grateful to you for getting me such a perfectly sweet dog as Dickie."

There was a look of puzzled surprise in Sam's face as he answered. "Oh, that's all right. I'm sure glad you like him, Mrs. Packard."

When Joyce sat down in a comfortable lounge chair on the terrace, Dickie came to her side and, resting his blunt chin with his queer, soft drooping lips on the edge of it, looked up at her pleadingly. She was delighted that he accepted her so promptly, and her spirits rose when she thought of having his companionship. She felt less alone in an incredible world. With Dickie she need never pretend to be Frills Packard.

When Roxie came to find her and announce that her luncheon was ready, Joyce was amused to see the distrust with which she eyed the sleeping Dickie. She did not look surprised, and Joyce knew she had probably, with Marcia, been watching the game of stick out in the garden.

Just as Joyce left the dining-room she heard the whir of a motor outside the door, and before she could decide whether to retreat through the kitchen or make a dash for the stairs, two young women entered the house and greeted her loudly.

"Hello, Frills, how are you?" "Say you don't look so bad!"

HIS FATAL MISTAKE

This is the story of a prudent man, as told by a Kansas newspaper: He brushed his teeth twice a day, wore rubbers in wet weather, did his daily dozen, slept with windows open, was careful with his diet, had a medical examination twice a year, never smoked, drank, or indulged in any kind of excesses. He was all set to live to be 100 years old.

The funeral was held last Wednesday. He is survived by 18 specialists, four health institutes, six gymnasia and numerous manufacturers of health foods and antiseptics. He had forgotten to look out for a train at a grade crossing.

tips on taxes

LEGISLATIVE NEWS SERVICE OF THE TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION, AUSTIN

Austin—The Legislature is now in the fourth month of its regular session. Under the constitution the $10 per day compensation lasts 120 days. Extension of the session beyond this period is possible, but the pay of members will be reduced by half. It is not likely that the session will be prolonged much beyond May 9 when the four-months period of high pay ends, though some members believe it will last until the latter part of May. There is strong sentiment among many leaders to bring the session to a close as early as possible, due chiefly to the fact that there seems to be an almost hopeless lack of harmony on many important subjects with little prospect of composing these differences.

Up to this time, efforts to levy new taxes have failed, with the exception of an income tax, which has House approval. But there will be a determined effort during the closing days of the session to revive the sales tax, principally on the plea that it is necessary to keep public schools open. Laws strengthening enforcement of the cigarette tax and gross production are expected to stop leaks that caused a loss of $5,000,000 last year. There is also a possibility that all of the cigarette tax will be diverted to the school fund. Many observers contend that stoppage of leaks and reasonable reorganization of the school system in the interest of economy make any new tax unnecessary.

The general economy program depends upon what is done within the last few weeks of the session. With a weary Legislature, anxious to finish its work and go home, some measures may win approval that earlier in the session would have had no chance of adoption. Those citizens who wish to obtain substantial reductions in their tax bill would do well to watch the proceedings closely and not hesitate to let their representatives know their wishes. A good start has been made in the direction of economy, but this can be quickly offset in a last-minute stampede. If this doesn't come it will not be due to lack of effort on the part of the tax consumers. They are on the job and will not quit until adjournment is taken.

The income tax bill follows many provisions of the Federal income tax. As amended it exempts $2,500 of the income of married persons and permits an exemption of $500 for each dependent. The rate graduates from one per cent on the first $1,000 of net income for individuals to seven per cent on income in excess of $11,000. The corporation rate is from two per cent on the first $1,000 to six per cent on incomes

NOSE-BLEED

A very ancient complaint, and, an annoying one, as you well know, who are subject to attacks when least expected. Folks with full vessels are liable to it; those with "catarrh," the old bogey-man of the quack. Those with high blood-pressure? Well, if you have it, the nose-bleed is likely to prove helpful at least for awhile. Let it bleed if you have increased blood-pressure—it will lower tension.

Most people do the very wrong thing for an attack of nose-bleed; they rush to a basin of warm water and try to get as much of it in the nose as possible, for what purpose they could not tell. They snort, blow the nose violently, rasp the throat, and do everything to keep up the local uproar. Everything but the right thing,—which is to try to quiet the nerves, cease snorting, poking fingers and washing out with warm water. . . . Just be still, if you can. Let it drain, at least till the doctor comes, if you were so scared that you sent for him posthaste.

Every individual has his own time of blood-coagulation. This is important to him—that is, the number of minutes it takes his blood to form a clot, which arrests the nose-bleed. A clot cannot ever form, under warm water douches, and fore-finger pokes, and snortings. Sit still—be still—apply cold if anything—snort not at all. Gentle pressure at sides of nose may slow down blood flow. Firm pressure up-and-down and maintained—each side of nose. No time wasted, no harm done if it does not help. But be quiet—deliberate: I never saw a death from nose-bleed.

The time to cure nose-bleed is to get next your good doctor WHEN THE NOSE ISN'T BLEEDING. Tell the doctor I said so.

in excess of $6,000. Passage by the Senate is regarded as doubtful.

House bill No. 243. . . .

The Senate has passed the four major appropriation bills. The House has passed three and is yet to act on the educational appropriations. The judiciary appropriation bill has passed both branches of the Legislature and has been signed by the Governor. The eleemosynary and departmental appropriations for 25 to 30 conference committees to adjust differences between House and Senate measures. The appropriation bills call for reductions from 25 to 35 per cent below figures of the past two years.

The constitutional amendments limiting total State expenditures to $22.50 per capita per biennium, already approved by the Senate, has been reported favorably in the House. This is a very important measure. If approved, it would be impossible for the Legislature to continue increasing State expenditures. The authority of the Legislature to increase appropriations is limited only by the ability to find sources of taxation. This amendment would provide an absolute limit, where there is now virtually none.

A bill is pending in the House raising the scholastic age from six to seven years. Its adoption would reduce the number of claimants on State school funds by about 155,000 and would result in savings to the schools estimated at upwards of $2,000,000, depending on the amount of State apportionment. This would be in addition to savings in local funds through the resultant decrease in school enrollment. The measure is

SENIORS LOSE 6-0 MONDAY IN FOOTBALL GAME

A 73-yard punt by Dick Todd in the first quarter paved the way for a 6 to 0 victory for the team of 1933 prospects over the Seniors in a football game here Monday afternoon, which concluded the spring training season.

The underclassmen received the initial kick-off and after a few unsuccessful thrusts at the line, they were unable to gain and an attempt to punt was blocked with the Seniors taking the ball on the 15-yard line.

The departing gridsters were the unable to pierce the line and the underclassmen again took possession of the ball on the 20-yard line when Mitchell Allee passed over the goal line.

Taking the opponents by surprise, Todd got off a quick kick at this point and when the Seniors finally downed the ball, it was on their own 7-yard line. A Senior fumble was recovered by the opposition on the 10-yard line. Paul McKown gained 2 yards. Todd added 3 more. On the next play the Seniors were off-side and the ball was placed on their own 1-yard line. Todd lost 5 yards on a lateral pass. With fourth down and two to go, Todd failed to find an offensive receiver for a pass and then went around left end for the only touchdown of the game. His pass to Sam Crews Jr. for the extra point was short and the score was 6 to 0.

The remainder of the game was played on fairly even terms, with the Seniors slightly outgaining their opponents on running plays. The half ended just as Allee completed a 11-yard run to place the ball on the opponents' 40-yard line.

Early in the second half the underclassmen again checked the Seniors' offensive campaign when Todd sent an interception to Allee's pass. Interception of passes by Bill Dunagan and Todd later in the half also aided greatly in checking the Senior rallies. Completion of Todd's pass to Jim Riley Gafford and Dunagan also aided the cause of the underclassmen. One of the interceptions was by Todd in the final portion of the game when the Seniors were making a last desperate effort to score.

Taking the ball on the Senior 21-yard line, Todd's pass to Dunagan gained 5 yards. Todd carried the ball for a first down to the 9-yard line and McKown added 3 more just as the game ended with the score 6 to 0 in favor of the group of boys that will represent the Crowell Wildcats on the gridiron next fall.

Punts were frequent throughout the game and both Todd and Allee showed up well in this department. Captain-elect Bill Dunn at tackle for the underclassmen, was the outstanding defensive player of the game.

The performance of all new material uncovered in spring training was very pleasing and despite the fact that the Wildcats lose all but three from last year's squad through graduation and ineligibility, the showing of next season's prospects in the game Monday is definite proof that Coach Grady Graves will have another strong team to represent Crowell next fall.

Although the Seniors had been doped to win, they were handicapped to some extent by the fact that they did not have the advantage of a spring training season behind their efforts.

The Senior line-up was composed of seven of last season's regulars, while the underclassmen had only three, Patton, Dunn and Todd.
