45TH ANNIVERSARY PLANS LAID MONDAY

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR N. P. FERGESON

Board County Pioneer Dies Friday Night At Age of 75

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:30 p. m., February 16, for N. P. Fergeson, 75, who had been a resident of Foard County for 50 years and a resident of Crowell for 32. Rev. Geo. E. Turrenne preached the funeral service at the Methodist Church. Interment was in the Fergeson family plot in the Crowell cemetery.

The Foard County pioneer died in his home where he was living with his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Selmer, at Crowell February 14, at 4:40 p. m. He had lived two years in the Fergeson family home at the time of his death. One of his daughters, Mrs. Mary Clay of Sherman, was unable to attend the funeral of Mr. Fergeson.

Mr. Fergeson was born February 16, 1860, in Marshall County, Tennessee, and moved to Texas in 1880. He settled in Collin County, Texas, in 1886, and moved to what is now Foard County in 1904. He moved here five years before the county was organized. This was the first time he came to this part of the state, he had been a resident of Foard County with the exception of a few years in the "nineties" when he farmed in Wilbarger county.

In 1887 Mr. Fergeson and Miss Christenberry of Weatherford were married. To this union were born ten children, four of whom are still living. Mrs. Fergeson died May 13, 1924.

Most of the pioneer's life he was engaged in farming; but his active work was as justice of the peace at Crowell.

Mr. Fergeson was a good citizen. His quiet, unassuming nature, made him hundreds of friends during his long residence in this section.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. W. H. Sellers of Crowell, Mrs. Mary Clay of Sherman, and Mrs. Bessie Graham of Meridian, a son, Jesse Fergeson of El Reno, Okla.; four brothers, S. J. J. C. R., and H. E. Fergeson of Okla.; one sister, Mrs. E. G. Bennett of Amarillo, twelve grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, six great-grandchildren. Six children, Lela, Boyd, Elouise, Ira, and an infant child are dead.

Funeral bearers were C. W. Thompson, D. R. Magee, T. B. Klempner, J. W. Beverly, J. M. Rasoy, and Gordon Cooper. Flower bearers were Mrs. Ernest Ford, Mrs. Ernest Weaver, Mrs. Johnnie Cening, Miss Marie Sellers, Miss Della Miller, and Miss Louise Cening.

Out-of-town relatives who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kilgore of Gainesville, and Mrs. Frank Byrd, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Swartwood and Thorns Fergeson of Vernon.

THIEVES TAKE $3 FROM HIGH SCHOOL SAFE

The Crowell High School building was broken into and the safe was robbed Thursday night, February 13. The burglars made away with a little more than three dollars.

The robbery was discovered early Friday morning by Pat McDaniels, who is in charge of the buildings.

Sheriff R. J. Thomas is investigating the case, but as yet no arrests have been made. The burglars placed a barrel beneath the outside window of the superintendent's office, but failed to get in through the window as it was locked. They then went inside and prized the office door open.

The safe was found in a room adjoining the superintendent's office, and the knob on the combination cylinder had been prized off. The door of the safe was damaged considerably.

Eighteen dollars had just been taken from the safe Tuesday afternoon by Grady Graves, principal. The money that was stolen had been placed in the safe just a day or two before the robbery.

The safe robbery was the third in two years for the school. On Thanksgiving Day, 1934, it was robbed of $75, and two years ago a watch belonging to I. T. Graves was stolen.

QUANAH TAKES BIG FIVE TITLE FROM FELINES

Loving Cup Presented to Indians After Hard Game

The Quanah Indian high school cagers trounced the Crowell Wildcats 24 to 18 in a heated battle Friday night in the Wildcats' own gymnasium to win the Northwest Conference title. The largest crowd of the 1936 basketball season attended the fray.

Before the crucial match Friday, the two quintets were in a deadlock for first place in the "Big Five" Conference with five victories and two defeats to their credit, and both teams were a full game ahead of their nearest opponent. The game was the last scheduled in the Conference race, so the winner automatically became the title holder. Quanah's victory over the Wildcats gave the invading basketballers the championship and slipped the local boys into a tie with the Vernon Lions for second place in the final standing.

Superintendent I. T. Graves of Crowell presented the Indian team with the 18-inch trophy immediately after the tilt. The cup was given to Crowell last year by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce for winning the Northwest Conference title last year. The cup is a three-year trophy.

Wiggins, Crowell forward, started the scoring with a field goal soon after the opening whistle. A. Edmundson, Quanah guard, was next in line with a free toss, to tighten the score. E. Edmundson rang a field goal to put the Redskins in the lead 3 to 2. Allee, who was playing Dunagan's role at guard, hit a ringer to place Crowell on the longer end of the score again 4 to 3. Dunagan, regular first string guard, missed the first six minutes of the first quarter because he failed to show up in time to get in uniform for the first of the fray.

Franz, Indian center, hit the bucket for two points to allow Quanah to take her turn in the lead 5 to 4, but the Wildcats never were ahead after that. In fact, they never obtained another point the first quarter while Quanah grabbed five more to make the score at the end of the first period 10 to 4 in favor of the visitors.

The Wildcats rallied in the next frame as Crews opened up with a couple of tallies to make the score 10 to 6. Tate, one of the leading scorers of the loop, was given a gratis pitch and he made it good to nab the only point for the visitors in the quarter. Middlebrook hit his only shot of the night just before the half to narrow the margin of the Quanah lead to three points before the whistle sounded. The score stood, Quanah 11, Crowell 8.

The Redskins ran loose in the third quarter to build up a lead that was to clinch the game and the championship. C. Edmundson, A. Edmundson and Tate hit the circle for six points soon after the third period began. Two minutes after playing began, Crowell called time to try to check the rally, but it

Former Crowell Bank President Succumbs

Funeral services for R. R. Waldrop, 54, former Crowell resident and cashier and president of the First State Bank of Crowell for 11 years, who died suddenly from a heart attack Saturday night at his home in Meridian, were held at the First Baptist Church in that city Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldrop moved to Crowell in 1908 and lived here until March 1, 1919, at which time he sold his interest in the First State Bank and moved to Clifton to again enter the banking business. The family remained in Clifton until August, 1930, when Mr. Waldrop returned to Crowell and purchased the controlling interest in the First State Bank, but remained here only a short time, going from here to Meridian where he had been president of the Farmers' State Bank until his death.

Mr. Waldrop's banking career covered a period of 32 years at Gorman, Crowell, Clifton and Terrell, Okla. He is survived by his widow and two sons, L. E. and Chester, both of Meridian.

"Farmers Must Organize," Says Day In Speech at Farmers' Meeting Friday; 250 From 4 Counties Attend Session

General Director

"In 1936 the farmers must have a plan if they intend to prosper as other industries do. The farmer can not successfully live and produce individually in a land where other industries and businesses are organized," said C. H. Day of Plainview, member of the Texas Advisory Cotton Committee, in an address to farmers of Hardeman, Cottle, Wilbarger and Foard Counties in Crowell Friday afternoon at 2:30 in the district court room of the court house.

Approximately 250 farmers heard the pleas of Mr. Day to organize, and plans were laid for community organizations to be formed in the counties represented. The visiting representatives to the meeting of the Foard County Farmers' Protective Association were sent invitations by Dave Solli, chairman. The Farmers' Protective Association is the county unit of the Texas Agricultural Association.

Mr. Day, who was representing the state organization, operates a farm near Plainview and has taken an active part in securing legislation designed to place agriculture on an equal basis with industry. It was under Mr. Day's leadership that a nation-wide movement was started early in 1935 in which 3,000 farmers from all parts of the nation joined in a march to Washington in order to thank personally President Roosevelt and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials for what had been done in the interest of agriculture. Mr. Day was also a member of the committee from Texas that went to Washington in January to attempt to secure favorable legislation for the farmer.

"We have always had commodity control," the speaker said, "but it has not been the government that exercised the control. We have always planted all we could and hoped that all the other farmers in other sections would fail because of drought, insects, or something else, and the other farmers have done the same thing."

In giving an outline of the history of the farming industry, he said that during the World War the farmers made every effort possible to produce as much of every necessary commodity as possible and to try to supply the extensive foreign market caused by the war. After the war was over, the output of the American farmers was at its greatest height; and the foreign market for products was weakened. The situation of over-production was a result of this, but it is not the fault of the farmer, the government, or any one agent, he said.

"This situation must be met. If we do not meet it by study, and

COUNTY FARM DEMONSTRATION AGENTS MEET

A farm program planning survey was discussed at a meeting of District 3 county agents held at Crowell Tuesday from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m.

Farm agents who attended the meeting were B. F. Vance of College Station who is the district agent, Fred Renneke of Wilbarger County, Frank Wendt of Hardeman County, C. C. Stinson of Cottle County, W. W. Rice of Knox County, and John Nagy of Foard County.

Home demonstration agents were Helen Burchard of Knox, Doris Legitt of Wilbarger, Margaret Lentz of Hardeman, Hattie Tacker of Cottle, Myrna Holman of Foard, and Bessie Lee Sikes, district agent from College Station.

The purpose of the survey will be to get first-hand information from the farmers themselves on the amount of basic farm commodities that should be planted in erosion controlling and fertility building crops, and if a general co-operative control plan should be instituted.

Council members will be given questionnaires to be filled out by county farmers at a series of community meetings. Farmers will be asked how much livestock, cotton, corn and wheat they would raise in a normal year without any restrictions such as the AAA, what production would be if some land were planted in erosion control and fertility building crops, and if they favor a soil conservation program.

CELEBRATION WILL BE HELD APRIL 27-28

Self, Beverly and Smith Made Managers Of Jubilee

Plans for the observance of the Forty-fifth Anniversary of Foard County which is to be officially called the "Forty-fifth Anniversary Jubilee," were launched at the banquet of the Farmers' and Business Men's Association held in the White Rose Cafe Monday night. George D. Self was elected by the organization to be the general manager of the celebration which is to be held April 27 and 28. He will be assisted by J. R. Beverly and Eli Smith.

Amos Lilly, president of the "Horse Traders Union," turned the program over to Eli Smith, who acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Mrs. Roberts Talks

Mrs. Jack Roberts, chairman of the Foard County Centennial Committee, gave a historical talk on local history. She used as the theme of her speech the Parker family, bringing their history down to the present. She offered as a suggestion that one of Quanah Parker's sons be invited to attend the celebration which is to be the greatest in the history of the county.

Mrs. Roberts had for display several pictures of Foard County's old pioneers, and suggested that a collection of such pictures be placed in the court house or in some other public place for the observance of Foard County's birthday and for the Texas Centennial.

Rev. W. B. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Crowell Baptist Church, in a talk to members of the organization, said that co-operation was the thing that was absolutely necessary to bring the farmer and the business man closer together.

It was announced that money had been appropriated for statues of Cynthia Ann Parker, a character who played a very important role in local and Texas history, and Major Robt. J. Foard, the man for whom the county was named. The Robert J. Foard monument will be placed on the court house lawn. The association of business men and farmers voted unanimously to recommend to the Centennial Committee of Foard County to place the Cynthia Ann Parker monument on the lawn also.

The Business and Professional Women's Club was appointed by President Amos Lilly to furnish the entertainment at the next banquet of the Farmers' and Business Men's Association. Hubert Brown and Claud Callaway were placed on the ticket committee, and A. Y. Beverly was made chairman of the next Trades Day program.

A unique whiskey campaign will start March 15 as an advertising boost to the anniversary celebration. Pledges will be circulated.

Wheat Dangerous Cargo

Wheat is one of the most dangerous cargoes carried by ocean freighters, because it may shift and cause a heavy list, or when wet, generate a gas that, in the heat of the hold, is an explosive as deadly as dynamite. Wheat has caused many shipwrecks.

Accidents Account For More Deaths of Children Than Illness

Among children of school age no disease takes as many lives as accidents. These accidents occur at an age when there has not yet been time for habit to gain ascendancy over conduct. Most educational authorities recognize that a child can be educated to behavior safe for himself and for others. Safety education in the elementary schools has made great strides both in development and results.

Three methods, says the Education Division of the National Safety Council, are being used most successfully in teaching of safety in the schools. "First, the teaching of safety in actual situations where the need for it is apparent. Second, the injection of the subject matter of safety into the regular subjects of the curriculum. This provides opportunity for children to follow interests which lead into the more general aspects of safety, thereby greatly adding to their fund of information. Third, the organization of extra-curricular activities such as junior safety councils, schoolboy patrols and the safety clubs. These activities present an opportunity for the child to apply his knowledge to the benefit of others, thus assuring definite civic responsibilities."

The result of this work is that since 1922 accidental deaths of children have decreased in every category except traffic accidents, while adult deaths have increased sharply. It is estimated that safety education is saving the lives of 8,500 children a year.

A movement to expend this educational program to the incorporation of good driving courses into the curriculums of the high schools has been gaining strength for several years. A number of states have already instituted such courses and a number of others, as well as counties and communities, are ready to inaugurate them.

This movement deserves unqualified backing and encouragement. If our youths can really be made responsible users of the streets and highways, then we can look forward to gradually supplanting the adult motoring population of today which is responsible for the deaths of 36,000 persons annually.

1724 Trench Silos Are Built in Texas In 1935, Says Agent

College Station—Seventeen hundred and twenty-four new trench silos were dug on Texas farms and ranches in 1935 and filled from the most bountiful feed crop the state has ever known, according to figures issued by Jack Shelton, vice director of the Extension Service and state agent of agricultural work.

There were also 1,745 other trench silos which had proved their value in 1934 filled again in 1935. "This method of storing feed is growing in popularity as it is recognized that it gives insurance for deterioration in feeding value, and from loss by storms, or fire or rats. That's four kinds of insurance and no premium to pay," Shelton said.

"The feed stored in silos is being used chiefly for dairy herds, beef cattle and for general feeding in wintering stock," Shelton stated "though some of it will not be touched this winter at all because it was put up to be kept as insurance against a feed shortage caused by future droughts. That, a fifth kind of insurance to be had by the use of trench silos."

"Other state-wide report figures of the Extension Service show 134,975 head of cattle on feed in Texas this winter and 101,562 sheep for market purposes," Shelton stated.

Information that is being gathered from county Extension agents indicates that many more are being fattened on Texas than has ever before in the case. The great feed crop detailed plans for living of the Extension Service intended to make this enormous increase.

Cowboy Reunion to Feature Centennial At Meeting in July Stamford, Texas.—Dates for the seventh annual session of the Texas Cowboy Reunion have been officially set by the directors as July 2, 3 and 4—Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Reunion this year will be part of the Texas Centennial observance, being known as the Texas Cowboy Reunion Celebration of the Texas Centennial. The Texas Cowboy Reunion, which is recognized as one of the most authentic survivals of the old West and the rapidly vanishing cattle empire, will prove instructive as well as entertaining to Centennial visitors both from within and without the state. The annual meeting in Stamford brings together the pioneer cowboys and cattlemen who replaced the buffalo with longhorns, as well as the bronzed cowboys of today who punch white-faced cattle on the comparatively few remaining large ranches of the Southwest. Texas Centennial year is expected to bring to Stamford for the Reunion crowds which will exceed the record attendance of 60,000 at the three-day celebration last year. Plans for a number of improvements on the Reunion grounds, which border SMS ranch lands one mile from the business district of the city, are being made by Reunion officials. One of the improvements will likely be an enlarged floor for the cowboy dances held each night of the Reunion at the cowboy bunkhouse. Another will likely be a building at the entrance of the rodeo arena to house ticket offices, exhibits and concessions. Plans are also being made to launch a campaign to raise funds to complete the cowboy bunkhouse, part of which was erected two years ago. Early Civic Service In 1855 examinations were instituted to test the efficiency of all candidates for subordinate posts in the government service. In 1870 it was directed that appointments in civil service should be filled by open competition, as was already the case with appointments in the Indian civil service.

45TH ANNIVERSARY

The program for the 2-day celebration of Foard County on April 27 and 28, as outlined by the committee with George Self as chairman, was unanimously adopted at the banquet of the Farmers' and Business Men's Association which was held at the White Rose Cafe Monday night.

It is a big job but Foard County folks do things in a big way and it is expected that the 45th Anniversary Jubilee will be one of the greatest and most enjoyable events that has ever been held in the history of the county.

Plans for this celebration are being printed elsewhere in this issue. Read them and begin to talk and work for a great celebration for the 45th Anniversary Jubilee and the Texas Centennial.

co-operation, we must meet it any way, and it will be better if we meet it intelligently," he stated.

He proposed that "We must form some kind of organization so that we can be recognized adequately. We must build the organization from the bottom up. It must be made so that the smallest farmer can be heard from here to Washington. It must have community, county, district and state units."

"We must produce all we need and can sell at parity prices," he said, "and avoid a surplus."

Ed Gossett, district attorney, was introduced by Dave Sollis, chairman of the Foard County farm organization, as the first speaker of the program.

"The farmer in the last decade has not had a fair advantage," Mr. Gossett said. "He must have protection. If the government can't give it to him now, I am heartily in favor of an amendment to the Constitution allowing the government to organize the farmers."

George Moffett, of Chillicothe, state representative from this district, also made a talk at the convention.

The organization as outlined by blanks given to representatives after the meeting of the convention, names as the first step a mass meeting of the farmers in the county with all communities represented. Here the community organization plans are laid; officers for the organization are chosen, and funds are raised.

The community clubs then elect delegates to be sent to the county organization. The county organization, likewise will elect a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer. One of the methods advocated for raising money for the farm co-operation plan was the selling of subscriptions to "Farmers' Banner," a farm paper published by the State Agricultural Association.

At the end of the frame Quanah led by twelve points with the score standing 22 to 10.

Again the Wildcats rallied in the final period—a rally which sliced the difference from 12 points to six before the game ended. The rally was led by Wiggins, Wildcat stalwart, who accounted for three points before Referee Roy "Red" Mints called the fourth foul on him two minutes before the final gong sounded.

Individual honors of the night went to Tate, Quanah center. His team mate, C. Edmondson, forward, was right on his heels with 18. Wiggins and Crews, Wildcat forward and center, led the at-

WILDCATS GO TO CHILDRESS FOR TOURNNEY

The Crowell High School Wildcat engers will leave early Friday morning to attend the district tournament which is being held in Childress Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22. Sixteen teams have entered for competition.

The squad that will represent Crowell in the tourney will include Garrett Middlebrook, Austin Wiggins, Sam Crews, Albert Dunagan, Lee Allen Zeibig, Merrill Allison, Bob Lilly, Goodloe Meason, Joe Eddie, and Lawrence Patterson.

"Quanah is doped to win, but we have a chance; and there have been greater upsets," said Coach Grady Graves.

Port Worth Star - Telegram sports writers have written that Quanah, Turkey, Carey and Crowell are doped as favorites.

From Childress comes the news that the trophies to be presented to the winners have arrived. On display by the Junior Chamber of Commerce is a silver loving cup over two feet tall and measuring 10 inches from handle to handle. It will be presented to the winner of the District High School basketball tourney.

Topping the silver cup is the figure of a basketball center reaching upward and touching a silver basketball with the tips of his fingers.

The trophy for the high scorer is also on display. It is a basketball player sculptured from silver, mounted on an ebony base.

The Crowell aggregation won the district championship last year. The winner of this tournament will attend a tourney in Canyon in a regional meet.

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES ANNOUNCES REVISION OF COMMERCIAL RATES

In a letter addressed to the City Council of Crowell the West Texas Utilities Company announced a revision of rates this week which will be effective with bills rendered Feb. 1. The announcement came through the local office of the company.

The letter said, "Effective with bills rendered covering the past month's service which began with meter readings in December, we are lowering and simplifying our commercial lighting rate schedule by eliminating the demand feature and changing the rate to a straight, energy basis with the steps. This change in rate structure raises no one's bill, lowers some more than others, depending on the amount of demand they had established. The average reduction will be about 10.7 per cent."

"The present earnings of the company do not justify a reduction in rates, but we believe that by simplifying the schedule our customers may take advantage of the opportunity to use more service under lower cost which will tend to bring the revenue of the gross revenue which will be lost through this rate revision, as some of our customers will save as high as 35 per cent under the new schedule."

County Meet for Class B and Junior Teams Here Feb. 29

The Foard County basketball tournament for class B high school teams and junior teams for all county schools will be held in the Crowell High School gymnasium Saturday, February 29, under the direction of Coach Grady Graves of Crowell. The play will begin at 10 o'clock a. m.

Junior teams that will take part in the contest are Crowell, Margaret, Thalia, Riverside and Foard City. Class B senior high school boys' teams who will compete are Vivian, Foard City and Riverside.

The Crowell aggregation is doped to win the junior division. The little Wildcats have not lost a game this season, and have played several games. The senior division winner favors no team. The teams are about evenly matched.

WILDKITTENS STRONG

The Junior Wildcat basketeers still have a perfect record for 1936 without a single defeat. Quanah, Vernon, Acme, Riverside, and several other teams have fallen beneath the onslaught of the powerful youngsters.

The Acme youngsters invade the Wildcats' lair next Tuesday. The Crowell engers enter the county junior tournament, which is to be held Saturday, February 29, as strong favorites to win.

in the competition. Holliday has already announced that it will have a football team, but formal application has not been made.

Four games besides the regular conference games have been arranged for by the Crowell High School officials. The season's opener will be with Floydada here on September 11. The following week the Wildcats venture to Matador for a clash. Another invasion the next week takes the Foard boys to Quanah. Regardless of whether or not Holliday enters the district race, Crowell and Holliday will meet November 6 for a tussle.

Each date there is one team that does not play a conference match. If Holliday enters competition, its squad will play the idle team.

The game between Crowell and Seymour which was originally set for October 2 has been transferred to November 13. This leaves the October date open so that Crowell fans will be able to attend the Texas A. & M. and Hardin-Simmons University game in which Dick Todd will play. It is to be played in Wichita Falls at that time.

The conference schedule:

to the best and to all we have.—Reporter.

Christian Science Service

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 23. The Golden Text is: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the holy is understanding" (Proverbs 9:10).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Great is our Lord, and of great power; his understanding is infinite" (Psalms 147:5).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There can be but one Mind, because there is but one God; and if mortals claimed no other Mind and accepted no other, sin would be unknown. We can have but one Mind, if that one is infinite" (page 469).

WATCH THE CURVES

BY RICHARD HOFFMANN

SYNOPSIS

Following his father's bitter criticism of his idle life, and the realization that he need not expect any immediate financial assistance, Hal Ireland, only son of a wealthy banker, finds himself suddenly without a cent and with a promise of a situation in San Francisco, which he must reach within a week. He takes passage on a cross-country auto on a "share expense" basis. With five others, Hal begins his journey. Four of his companions are a young attractive girl, Barry Tafford; middle-aged Giles Kerrigan; a sister-in-law, a nun; and a nondescript individual whom he instinctively dislikes, Martin Crack, a self-withdrawn annoysome. To Kerrigan he takes to at once. The driver, Miller, attempts to abandon the party and abscond with their fares and baggage. Hal kills him, but is unable to shake a feeling of uneasiness. He distrusts Crack. Hal finds his intimacy with Kerrigan ripening, though he makes little progress with Barry.

"You look as though you'd slipped on a million dollars' worth of eternal verities and found your initials stamped on all of 'em."

"Little place around the corner found on my way home from the lundies," said Hal. "Run by an ex-side-de-camp to the czar whose fo I saved at Port Arthur. Napoleon brandy from original casks a nickel a goblet. I've no secrets from you, Manhausen."

Kerrigan's eyes danced merrily under their half mustaches. "You're sure the torque hasn't taken sarge?" he said. "Wouldn't like to stop off for a cold shower somewhere down the line?"

"Stop for nothing, suh," said Hal. "I want the Mississippi, whating Lardner jokingly called the other of Waters. It is out here somewhere, isn't it?"

"Was last time I came through," said Kerrigan, the sparkle of his look laughing with and at Hal's.

Hal had a glimpse of Barry's face; her eyes, unpreoccupied, gave him brief, intimate approval, and his heart sang higher.

As each vista gave way to another level run over closely farmed country, Hal grew impatient at that coming to the rim of a long plateau which he conceived could reveal the Mississippi, flat and blue and broad, lying infinitely off toward the veils of the horizon on either hand. Then, after they had settled down to what seemed another whole country of watered farmland, Kerrigan took the dead cigarette end from his lips and leaned forward. "The old fellas," he said quietly; and he added, as if he meant it to be very casual, "Here, let me see you to your first Mississippi crossing." He reached into his trousers pocket, pinkling change.

They went out on the narrow track slowly, each slanted girder clicking a gentle echo at them, and either Hal nor Kerrigan spoke, halfway across, Mrs. Pulsipher's voice bustled suddenly into the air: "Why, this is the Mississippi river."

"It is," said John, as if he'd asked him out of guilty reverie.

"It is, Mr. Kerrigan?"

"The original, man."

Hal said to Kerrigan, "Remember Huck Finn and that nigger on the raft; the leaves of bread with mercury in 'em floating down and cannon booming over the water from the ferry boat, to raise their odies."

"Gad, sir, wasn't I just thinking of that?" said Kerrigan—half startled, half pleased, as if it were joint experience which he thought Hal might have forgotten. "I never cross the old rogue without thinking of it. I swear—just that minute—I was nowhere else at there."

"Then there's more than one kind reader along," said Hal dryly, a faint check upon his full measure.

"Meaning?" said Kerrigan.

Hal gave a brief shake of his head, aware of Crack sitting behind him, retrospectively aware that he had been there all afternoon. Hal had the curious impulse to recall what he'd thought and said in that time, as you might try to remember what you'd done in a room where you find you've been watched. Then he caught himself and shook off the quick discomfort. Crack might sit there knowingly, as pleased with private, drowsy thoughts as he liked; he had nothing to do with Hal or the Mississippi or this moment.

Then Kerrigan tossed up a slight finger to indicate the Burlington where their bridge ran over the railway. "That blongs," he said. "Four white ex-Pullman cars stood on a siding, a patiently curved carriage to their wooden wheels, broad roofs smoothed over open-end-platforms, and arches gay with marbled glass. Along their white sides, gold letters were painted. "Davenport Bros. Great World's Fair Shows." "Gosh," Barry called from the back, "wouldn't it be fun to see their show?"

"It would," said Kerrigan. "It'd be fun to see it, and stow away in those cars afterward."

"It'd be fun," said Hal, "to do almost anything." And in saying that, there was a separate sharing of this moment with both Barry and Kerrigan, a thankful comfort that could put away the uneasiness of a minute ago—almost put it quite away. The night was near now, and his coming to Barry, to the route of fear from her bravery, and to his hope of Fortune in the world.

Iowa rolled in tireless undulations, the road taped over them like the flat healed scar of a careful cut, the coming logs visible from each rise. The sun went behind a long, fagged cloud in the west, edging it with white incandescence and spreading a fan of tapered shafts below. They crossed the Skunk river, and rolled on over the dips and rises toward the sinking sun. If there had been a chance of persuading Mrs. Pulsipher to put up with the facilities of a little place called Agency, Hal and Kerrigan would have stopped there, for the taste of its name. But Ottumwa was close beyond, and they found clean tourist cabins in a grove of trees beside the Des Moines river, where the hopeful, snug squeaking of crickets in the grass made the gathering evening seem cooler.

The proprietor said that, given time, his old lady would throw together as good a feed, and better, and cheaper, than any they could get in them places. "Hal, we took Rasputin to a garage and supervised his priming for tomorrow. And when he got back, the others were half way through a meal that had even such intrepid appetites as the Pulsipher's working uphill. The full buoyancy that Hal had carried through the afternoon still refused to take account of hunger. He did the best he could, so that the proprietor's old lady shouldn't be hurt; but when Barry pushed her chair back from the long table and squeaked her lips at Doc, he abandoned the business abruptly and followed her outdoors.

Fresh eagerness exulted in his blood, tried to lift his body with a hundred different excitements, urged him to leap and shout out his joy for these hints of immortality. He stopped her walking with his hand, turned her to him and held her while he said, "Barry, we've got to go somewhere—quickly."

In the light from her cabin under the trees, he saw that her eyelids were slow, heavy, voice murmured, "My darling."

"You don't have to tell me anything," said Hal, shocked by the quiet decision that was trying to rob him of this time he had so surely looked to: "all you have to do is listen to me, to the things I must tell you. You can rest, listening to them—just up there, a little way, by the river. We'll sit against a tree, and when you want me to stop, I'll stop and you can enter on my shoulder. I promise, if you tell me to, I won't speak again—not a word, not even what keeps on running and tumbling in all my nerves, muscles, heart, tongue, everything; I love you. I love you so that—"

"Hal, don't, oh, don't, please, Hal darling." Her free hand gripped his arm hard, and he couldn't tell whether it shook to enforce what she said or whether the desperation that shivered under her voice was in her body, too.

"Barry," said Hal in a severe quiet. "You've got to listen. Why do you frighten yourself? Why do you try to frighten me—before you've let me say what I must say, before—"

Her exclamation was a whimper of fear, and she turned her frantic head toward the cabin. "Sister Anastasia!"

The door on the neat, lighted room of raw boards, with the nun's silhouette in the oblong. "Yes, sweet?" she said, her modest voice tranquil and soothing as the sound of a little wind among sleeping trees.

"Sister, I just wanted to know you were there. I'm coming now. Please wait for me." She bowed her head as if to see more clearly the joining of their hands in the dimness. "Good night, my darling," she said hurriedly. "I'm Beauty and utility in the planning of home grounds are not incompatible. They are, as a matter of fact, synonymous and one is not complete without the other. Uselessness and fitness are attributes wherever we may find them. By the proper composition of buildings, trees, shrub masses, and open lawn areas we are able to form a pleasing landscape picture. In every good landscape picture there is a main object of interest, the house, a public area in front of the house, and a private area to the rear of the house.

The public area should furnish a setting for the home and act as a connecting element between the landscape characters of the highway or other foreground features and the house itself. This area should be largely composed of lawn. Breadth and unity in the treatment of the public area will give the house character. The lawn should not be obstructed by irrelevant flower beds, specimen shrubs, or group planting. Such things produce the effect of a third element or barrier in front of the house.

To make the house really a part of the picture it must be surrounded by a foundation planting. This will have the effect of "tying" the house to the ground. In this

Spurred by the need for better health and sanitation measures during the Centennial, Texas negroes are planning an intensive drive during the annual observance of National Negro Health Week, March 29th to April 5th, toward higher standards of health in negro communities.

The Texas Tuberculosis Association, which sponsors Negro Health Week in this state, announced today that ten thousand negro leaders, members of Volunteer Health Leagues, have pledged their cooperation in a campaign to remedy the unhygienic and unsanitary conditions under which so many of their race live.

The tuberculosis association reports that a recent survey among 540 negro families showed the most prevalent diseases among them were malaria, typhoid, pneumonia, rheumatism, tuberculosis, venereal diseases, measles, colds, influenza, eczema and whooping cough, the majority of which are communicable. The survey showed that most of these families lived under crowded conditions, in houses that were inadequately screened and without proper facilities for sewage disposal. The water supply in the majority of the homes was from wells, cisterns, creeks and springs, and it was stated that in only 147 cases could the water be considered even reasonably safe.

"The extent to which the negroes of this state are able to improve their living conditions," said F. R. Barnwell, director of negro health service, Texas Tuberculosis Association, "will depend in some measure upon the help which their white friends are willing to give them. To clean up the streets and alleys around their homes and destroy the breeding places of flies, mosquitoes and rodents, negroes will need the co-operation of the city and county sanitary departments. For a safe water supply and proper sewage disposal they are likewise dependent upon city and county officials. To help these negro leaders attain their goal for higher standards of health in their own communities is sound economy; it will reduce the spread of disease not only among the negro race but among the white race as well."

Food, Drug Officers Arrest 23 for Using Illegal Preservatives

Austin, Texas.—During the past month the Food and Drug Inspectors of the State Department of Health have collected a total of 133 samples of ground meat, and of this number 48 were found to contain illegal preservative. So far, twenty-three convictions have been secured—the fine and court costs averaged about forty dollars per case. Other cases are yet to be filed.

The most common illegal preservative is sulphite of soda. This acts as a deodorant, preservative, and color restorer. Meat treated with this sulphite may look invitingly fresh even though stale, and its effect as a deodorant is such that it masks the smell of decomposition.

The Bureau of Food and Drugs has a field force of eight men whose entire time is spent in the inspection of food and drug establishments in order that articles not fit for human consumption are withdrawn from the channels of trade, and that products are properly labeled; also, that merchandise and places of business are kept clean and sanitary.

Stock Show Entries In all Divisions Must Be in by February 22

Fort Worth, Feb. 19.—Entries in all livestock divisions of the fortieth annual Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show will close Feb. 22. John B. Davis, secretary-manager, announced today.

Early entries indicate that the March 13 to 22 show will attract more exhibits than ever before and that the carload feeder cattle sale at 10 a. m., March 19, will make history in the cattle industry in the Southwest.

As the result of an advertising campaign in the Corn Belt plenty of buyers will be on hand to bid for these carlots, Davis added.

He also declared that many Texas farmers are beginning to realize that the best means of marketing their grain is on the hoof and are planning to get their stock of feeder cattle at the Fort Worth show.

Premiums have been increased and classes added in virtually every department of the show with the result that new records are expected in Hereford, Shorthorn, Aberdeen-Angus, Dairy Cattle, Sheep, Goat and Swine Departments.

Grocery Chain Man Pushed Advertising

A fine testimonial to the increasing value of newspaper advertising as a producer of business and industrial development was given in a recent public statement by L. A. Warren, president of Safeway Stores, Inc., a chain grocery system serving western America.

Citing his own company as a barometer indicative of the attitude of business in general toward advertising, Mr. Warren declared that he considered the growth of Safeway Stores and similar systems but a reflection of the power of newspapers to build and maintain public respect and public patronage. He added: "It is through advertising that people come to know and to understand the scope of any business concern's public service, and the commodities it offers for public consumption.

"It seems only natural that those concerns using newspaper advertising, uninterrupted year after year, do retain the highest confidence of the public that they serve. Their customers have found out that they can truthfully rely upon the advertised product, service and economy which so often feature the display advertising of the chain stores.

"We have repeatedly endeavored to help farmers dispose of surplus or distressed crops by conducting widespread advertising campaigns on certain products at various seasons of the year. These campaigns have been eminently successful, and their beneficial effects to agriculture are both a tribute to newspaper advertising and the advantages of chain-store distribution.

"Any kind of merchandiser, chain or independent, will doubtless reflect Mr. Warren's views. Newspaper advertising is not only the best way to get business for a good product or service—it is also the best way to hold it.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

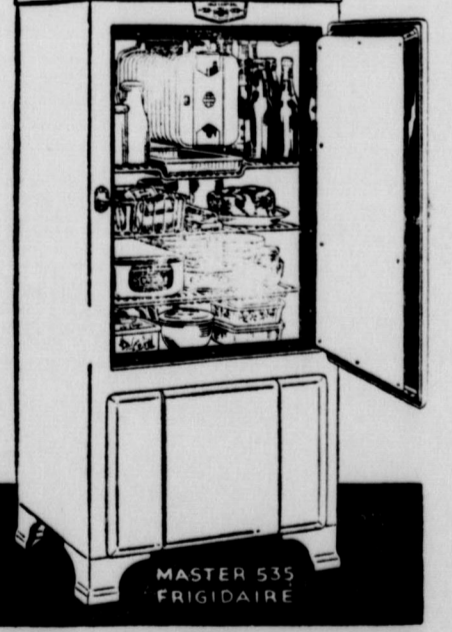

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or slowness, your money back.

LET AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR SERVE YOUR HOME THIS SUMMER

once you've enjoyed its many conveniences . . . you would never, never do without one!

The Spring and Summer months bring greater demands in refrigeration. High and excessive temperatures require a dependable source of refrigeration in order to properly preserve foods.

Electric refrigeration will meet these demands! Regardless of how hot the Spring and Summer weather, you have a constant temperature automatically maintained. Consequently, milk products, meats and other hard-to-keep foods are kept fresh and pure in your electric refrigerator.

Electric refrigeration will always keep food within the safety zone and give the added convenience of plenty of ice, frozen desserts and salads.

Plan now to enjoy the many conveniences that a modern electric refrigerator adds to the home. Once you have enjoyed them, you will never do without one.

Rev. W. B. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Baptist Church of Crowell, gave the invocation. Alva Spencer, Crowell postmaster, delivered the main address to those present in the form of a welcome. Buford McDougal of Vernon gave the response. Paul Wallace of Crowell presented the first musical number on the program with a susanophone solo. June Billington read for the group, and Mrs. Alva Spencer played a violin solo. The "Long Sisters" of Vernon were on the program with a tap dance as one of the features of the night. A surprise feature of the meeting was "A Peck of Fun" by Grady McLain of Foard City. Ebb Scales and Company presented a novelty musical number as the final number of the program. Many who were not on the original program gave talks. Sandwiches, coffee and cake were served to the mail carriers and the other post office officials who attended the meeting.

Poor Sort of Patriotism

That is a poor sort of patriotism which consists only in saying what fine and superior people we are.

Middlebrook Second In Individual Scoring In Big Five Cage Loop

Garrett Middlebrook, Crowell High School basketball forward, ended the Big Five conference schedule in second place in individual scoring with 39 field goals and 6 free tosses for a total of 84 points. Prior to the Vernon-Wichita Falls game Wednesday night, February 12, he was leading.

For the second successive year Ernest Schur, Vernon ace and captain, captured the high honors of the cage loop. His record this year shows 37 field goals and 24 free tosses to net 98 points. He led Middlebrook by 14 points. Forty-two of Schur's points came in his last two games, one with Wichita Falls Coyotes and one with Electra basketballers.

Tate, Quanah center and captain, was in the third slot with 81 points. Wiggins, Wildcat forward, was fourth in line. Middlebrook led the league with field goals with 39, two more than Schur, the leading scorer, netted.
