NOBODY'S

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin .- Behind the log-jam of a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize a sales tax, the Texas senate devoted one of the last four weeks left of its session to leisurely debate, and failed to reach a final settlement of the natter. It did mow down substitutes and amendments by Aiken and Joe Hill, respectively, one of which would have substituted taxes on natural resources for the sales tax, to finance the entire social security program, and the other submitted both the sales tax and the natural resources tax for the voters to choose from. At the week-end, Small's original amendment resolution, submitting only the sales tax to finance the security program, remained for senate action, with prospects that it get final senate action before another week is out. Meanwhile the entire house taxation program remained frozen in senate committees, and many members were openly predicting that the regular biennial appropriation bills to finance the government departments for the next two fiscal years will not be passed before Japan is buying scrap steel in this country, due to the fact that Russia, from whom she has in the past secured her iron requirements, has secured her iron requirements, has they will remain.

Special Session Talk

Close friends of the governor, in the house, were confidentially predicting this week-end that a special session will follow immediately upon the heels of the regular session. This, under the constitution, could last but 30 days, and legislators would get $10 a Friends of the governor declare he will submit first the horse race repeal measure now seems hopelessly buried on the senate calendar and then appropriation and taxation matters, probably simultane-

Highway Raid Bill Delayed

To a house highway subcommittee went the bill proposing to change the present regulation requiring motor vehicles to be registered in the county where actually owned, as Chairman R. L. Bobbitt of the highway commission voiced a warning that passage of the bill, would seriously impair the highway department's present financing setup, diverting probably a million dollars a year which now goes for road-building to the general funds of counties. The bill is expected to be killed.

Dallas Judges Greedy

Eight Dallas district judges, who less than a month ago, received a salary increase of $1,000.00 a year in the general increase for judges, assembled a powerful obby and jammed through the ey coming out of the county's juvenile fund, for which they render virtually no service, except to attend a monthly meeting of the Favorable decision by the supreme juvenile board. A separate bill, which would have given them $1,000 more from the juvenile fund was beaten in the house by ex-Speaker Coke Stevenson, of Junction. Tacking the same subject matter onto the general raise bill for appeal judges precipi-tated a bitter fight, with the opposition led by Sam Hanna, of Dallas, and it won by a single vote. The amendment may jeopardize final passage of the bill, as it would give each Dallas district judge $7,500 a year, while, with the proposed increase, supreme $8,000, and judges of the courts of appeals only $6,500.

Roosevelt Issue Good One Politically minded Austin observers are still busy studying the election returns which sent Lyndon Johnson, youthful ex-NYA director to congress as successor to the late Congressman Buchan-Their conclusion is that Franklin D. Roosevelt is still popular with an overwhelming majority of Texas voters, and that his advocacy of a change in the supreme court set-up has done litto damage his prestige with Texans. Johnson ran as the outstanding advocate of the Roosevelt program. The total vote of all candidates for Roosevelt literally swamped the two who campaigned against the court change, Polk Shelton and Houghton Brownlee, and observers here mostly agreed with Mayor Tom Miller of Austin who told a senate committee in Washington Johnson's election was a direct reflection of the sentiment of the voters of Texas on the court is-Some interest attached also to the rather poor showing made by Morton Harris, who quit Attorney General Bill McCraw's staff to make the race, and who was generally regarded as the McCraw candidate, as having a bearing on next year's gubernatorial contest. Harris made a much better race against Buchanan once previously, despite the fact that he pledged full support to Roosevelt in this latest campaign.

Claude C. Wild, who directed or-ganization work for Gov. Allred's last campaign, and won considerable prestige thereby, also directed Lyndon Johnson's campaign, and added lustre to his reputation as a political organizer. .

The mechanical clock, the ancestor of our modern clocks and watches, originated in the Middle Cone Green of Levelland, sonin-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. J.
Russell of Crowell, underwent an to word received here Wednesday.

Claude Brooks was here Sunday from McLean. He was accompanied home Sunday afternoon by his wife and small daughter, Elaine, who had been here

Brooks' sister, Mrs. W. C. McKown, and family.

Estor of our modern thocks and watches, originated in the Middle Ages; and, like everything which started in that period, its beginnings are concealed by a haze of romance and fable. Tradition says that the first clock was invented by a French monk named Gerbert, one of the most accomplished scholars of his age. About 990 A. D. he is supposed to have produced some kind of Mechanical time-telling contrivance which caused a sensation—so much so that he was promptly accused of being a sorcerer. The accusation did not "take," and Gerbert lived to enter to Vatican as Pope Sylvester II, but his experience shows that inventive genius was a risky thing to have in those days.

"Going to Putney on a Pig"

The saying "Going to Putney on a Pig" had its beginning in the playful chaff on the road to the University Boat race. In the early days of the race, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, it was usual to use all kinds of vehicles to get to Putney, including the small cart drawn by two dogs, Wright Ingle, et ux, to F.
