L. K. Johnson No. 12 Brought In Tuesday; 1,000 Barrell Well

The L. K. Johnson No. 12, located in section 36, block "L" of S. P. R. survey in the Texaco company field 20 miles south of Crowell, was brought in yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock and is capable of producing approximately 1,000 barrels of oil daily. The correct gas test is known at present but there is enough gas pressure to cause oil to flow.

The time was reached the first of last week and cementing was done. The plug was drilled out Tuesday, June 28. The well was cleaned and some oil blew through the hole was swabbed but was necessary to acidize. The acid started flowing after the acid had been in the well about three days.

There are now seven oil wells in the area and two gas wells in the area. The only dry hole encountered was the well drilled 3,000 feet west of the Foard County in Cottle County.

TAXPAYERS ARE WARNED TO PAY SCHOOL TAXES

Tax Suits To Be Filed If Delinquent Taxes Are Not Paid Soon

The taxpayers of the Crowell Independent School District are warned by the Board of Trustees that if the delinquent taxes are not paid tax suits will be filed within the next few days.

Interest and penalty increases one-half of one per cent each month. It has not been remitted and will be collected from all alike, according to a statement by the Board of Trustees. The interest and penalty rate is the same as the State and County and taxpayers can save money by paying taxes now to keep the penalty from increasing, it further stated.

The following statement has been released by the Board of Trustees: "Why wait longer about paying your delinquent school taxes? We have plead with the taxpayers as man to man to pay their taxes; have tried to appeal to them from every angle but without the results we expected. We will therefore (Continued on Last Page.)

1934 Ford Sedan Owned by M. O'Connell Stolen

A black 1934 Ford V-8 tudor sedan belonging to M. O'Connell was stolen from the alley on the side of O'Connell's Lunch Monday afternoon between 3 and 3 o'clock.

O'Connell parked the car in the door of the kitchen about 2 o'clock and when he returned it was missing. It was thought at first that his son had borrowed the car but about 3 o'clock it was found that he had not taken the car and local officials were notified. Officers in surrounding towns are searching for the stolen vehicle but it has not been located yet.

Confederate Vets Recall Days of '61

Gen. Homer Atkinson of Richmond, Va., and Gen. Harry Rem Lee of Nashville, Tenn., talk over the days of 61-65 at the annual Confederate reunion held at Jackson, Miss., recently. Many interesting characters of the South attended the reunion. It marked the forty-seventh time the boys in gray have held a reunion.

Boy Scouts Will Return First of Week from Jamboree

The National Boy Scout Jamboree which is being held in Washington, D. C., will come to a close Friday, July 3. The six Boy Scouts from Crowell who are attending the Jamboree are expected to reach home during the first part of the week.

There are 26,000 Boy Scouts in attendance with every state in the Union represented, as well as many foreign countries.

The boys have had many honors bestowed upon them during their visit in the Nation's Capital. They have been permitted to see the many wonderful historic points of Washington and at the same time have had the privilege of enjoying a delightful camp life on the banks of the Potomac River.

On the 4th of July, 5,000 of the boys attended the ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery at which time Daniel Beard, organizer of the Boy Scout movement in the United States, placed a wreath on the grave of the unknown soldier. Some time was spent at Mount Vernon, home of George Washington.

Many of those in attendance will spend one day sight-seeing in New York City before their return home.

Messages have been received from time to time from local boys who went on the trip and all indicate that they are thoroughly enjoying it.

F. F. A. BOYS WILL GO ON ENCAMPMENT

Medicine Park, Okla., Picked; To Be Held July 20-23

Plans for a summer encampment for members of the Crowell F. F. A. Chapter were made at the meeting held Tuesday night at the high school. Seventeen boys and their adviser, Walker P. Todd, were present. Arrangements for the donkey baseball team that played the business men's team Wednesday night were also made at this time.

Go to Medicine Park

According to the plans made Tuesday night, the boys will leave Crowell Tuesday morning, July 20, at 6 o'clock and go to Medicine Park, Okla., where they will stay until Friday, July 23. Ernest Spears will carry the group in a school bus. Each boy will be expected to pay his transportation and pro rata part of the expense. If a boy takes his food from home, two to five dollars should cover his expense. It was decided that each boy pay one dollar for transportation at that time. If for some reason he cannot go at the last moment, his transportation money will be refunded.

To Meet Again July 16

The chapter will meet again Friday night, July 16, at 8:15 o'clock in the V. A. class room of the high school building to decide how much food and supplies each member would need to take with him and to complete plans for the encampment. Future Farmers (Continued on Last Page.)

REVIVAL WILL START AT LOCAL CHURCH SUNDAY

Will Be Conducted at Baptist Church by Arkansas Pastor

A 15-day revival will be held at the First Baptist Church by Rev. E. A. Petroff, "The Ozark Mountain Evangelist," of Springdale, Ark. The meeting will start Sunday morning, July 11, and continue through Sunday, July 25.

The evening services will be held in the open air and will start at 8 o'clock each evening. The morning services will be held on the inside of the church beginning at 9 o'clock.

Rev. Petroff was born in Bulgaria and was reared a Catholic. Afterward he became an infidel but several years later he was converted and joined the Baptist Church. He was a singer for Evangelist T. T. Martin, after which he was called to the ministry.

He has held meetings in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Tennessee and is one of the South's outstanding preachers.

Everyone is invited to attend this meeting. The subject of the first evening service will be "Why Was Judas, Being A Devil, Made A Disciple?"

Lost at Sea

Hopes for the rescue of Amelia Earhart and Frederick J. Noonan, her navigator, were revived Wednesday when signals on the wave band assigned Miss Earhart were heard by five radio stations, although there was no positive assurance that the flashes came from the pair.

The search has been shifted from the north side of Howland Island to the south. It is now believed that they are on either a reef or a small island in that direction because of reports of an emergency radio station erected on Howland Island that the signals came on a line from south-east to northwest through the island and the waters in the northwestern direction have been searched.

The belief that the couple are above water is strengthened by the fact that their radio is operating and it would not unless they were on a reef or land. Airplanes were to be put into action Wednesday from the Colorado and as soon as the giant aircraft carrier Lexington arrives on the scene Saturday 57 more airplanes will join the search.

Miss Earhart and Mr. Noonan have been lost since Friday when they overshot Howland Island and the $80,000 globe circle plane was forced down when the fuel was exhausted.

Assistant County Agent Attends Meet in Wichita Falls

Roy L. Huckabee, assistant county agent of Foard County, attended the all-day meeting of the county agents and assistants of the seventeen counties comprising state district No. 3 held Tuesday in Wichita Falls for a discussion of the Soil Conservation Program. About fifty farm leaders were present.

Lester Young and A. C. Norwood of the State board, and J. A. Scofield, district agent, were in charge of the all-day conference. Detailed study of the forms to be filled out for participating farmers were conducted by these three leaders. Forms to be completed in county agent's offices, reflecting compliance with the program, are to be sent to College Station. Officials there will compute the cash grant then due each farmer under the program.

Mr. Scofield commended the counties of this district for promptness and efficiency in completing farmers' worksheets and forwarding them to College Station headquarters. It is the only district in the state in which all such reports have already been made, he said.

Several counties are being measured with plane tables and are just about completed. Two counties have been aerially mapped and it is probable that the remainder will be mapped during the next year.

Foard County will be measured with chains the same as last year and this work should begin in the near future.

Training School Ends at Baptist Church Wednesday

The music training school that has been in progress at the Baptist Church for two weeks under the direction of Charles A. Burgess was concluded with the Wednesday evening program.

The church choir was re-organized Tuesday evening and W. E. Tysinger was elected president and Mrs. A. L. Rucker, secretary and treasurer. The choir director, E. A. Dunagan, and assistant director, Mrs. A. F. Wright, were re-elected.

There were sixteen who entered the organization and it is hoped by those in charge that all who would like to be considered as charter members give their names to the president at once.

Thursday night of each week was designated as choir practice night beginning immediately after the close of the revival meeting.

Donkey Game AT STADIUM ENDS IN TIE

The donkey softball game between the F. F. A. team and the business men's team played at the Crowell High School stadium Wednesday night ended in a 2-2 tie.

This was the first donkey game ever to be played at night in Crowell and the first game of this type played here in several years.

The crowd was kept in an uproar throughout the six innings at the antics of the trained donkeys.

Roy Mullins, all-star catcher, scored first in the opening inning when his mound would not stop until it reached home plate. Que Meason rode the second score for the all-stars in the second inning.

Carl Connell tallied the first score for the farmers in the third inning and Joy tied the score in the fifth.

Very few riders reached first base even though the fielders were at times several minutes in getting the ball to first base. The donkeys used for the batters were buckers, balkers or stubborn ones. Several exhibitions of good riding were (Continued on Last Page.)

DEPOSITS IN CROWELL STATE BANK HAVE INCREASED OVER $71,000 DURING PAST YEAR

Deposits in the Crowell State Bank have increased $71,323.56 during the year ending June 30, 1937, according to a statement issued by the bank this week following calls for the condition of National and State banks.

Deposits in the Crowell State Bank at the close of business June 30, 1937, were $481,235.55 compared to $309,911.99 on the same date in 1936, and is the greatest amount on deposit since the bank was opened in 1931. At that time the bank had on deposit $100,000.00.

It is estimated that around $200,000.00 has been received on deposit since the wheat harvest started about five weeks ago, although a small portion of the wheat crop has been sold to date. Deposits in the local bank are expected to show further increase as the crop is sold.

FOARD FARMERS FAILING TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF FEDERAL AID IN GRASSHOPPER FIGHT

Foard County farmers are not taking advantage of the Federal aid in their fight against grasshoppers in this county, according to a statement issued from the county agent's office.

Federal aid was obtained through the efforts of the local agent's office and if it is not used here it will be taken to other counties that are needing it. The greater part of the cost of fixing poison is given free to the farmer wanting it. A large hopper hatch has developed in this county and them out series are taken to stamp out serious damage may be done to our crops, it was pointed out in the statement.

A carload of bran and eight drums of poison were received in Crowell last week and to date only a small portion of it has been used. It is thought that farmers might not understand the rules in obtaining a supply of the poison. All they have to furnish is four ounces of amyl acetate, two gallons of cane syrup, and 100 pounds of cotton seed hulls and the poison and bran can be obtained by notifying the county agent. The ingredients are mixed at the Farmer's Gin, where the supplies are stored, under the direction of a representative of the agent's office.

The government has made the hopper survey and issued the materials so it might co-operate with the farmers to control the pests. There is an abundance of bran and poison left and unless it is made use of soon it will be sent to other counties.

It is designed to bring about swift adjustment of the indebtedness of drainage, levee, sewer, road, school districts and towns and cities that are now insolvent.

The Calendar

Last week the House and Senate showed considerable activity and desire to complete their program as soon as possible and adjourn. On Monday the House passed the Farm Tenancy Bill which was debated in the Senate on Thursday and Friday and finally passed, and then sent to the White House. This measure appropriated $85,000,000 for the next three years and is the first legislation of its kind offering any substantial assistance to relieve the farm tenancy situation in the nation. Wednesday, the House extended for one year the present 3 1/2 per cent interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans and reduced the Commissioner's loans from 5 per cent to 4 per cent. Thursday, the House passed the natural gas regulatory bill, providing adequate regulation for the sale of all natural gas in interstate commerce. Friday, the House had a general debate in which Representative Cox (D) of Georgia, and Representative Hoffman (R) of Michigan, bitterly assailed the CIO and the labor strikes now occurring throughout the nation, and Representative Maverick, of Texas, spoke defending Labor's right of collective bargaining and pointed out the danger of prohibiting such a right.

The La Follette Civil Liberties Committee on Friday gave the first public showing of the Paramount News reel showing how seven men were shot in the back and killed in the Memorial Day massacre at the Republic Steel Company plant in Chicago. These pictures fully support stories of the press as to the brutality of the police in attacking, shooting, and clubbing these men as they lay on the ground. Only two appropriations bills remain to be acted upon and these will be sent to the White House early this week. The Congress is feeling better after last week's outing, and is showing signs of passing before adjournment, the larger part of the ten-point program, which I discussed last week. The new Court bill will be before the Senate until it is disposed of, followed by the departmental re-organization, maximum hour and wage laws and farm legislation.

MAIN STREET PERKS UP

(From an editorial in the Rotarian Magazine)

The plastic surgeon is a fairly recent comer to the beauty industry. His business is face-lifting. With a calm hand, a sterile scalpel, and the inspiration of a sculptor, he hoists sagging cheeks, resolves multiple chins, shoos away "crow's feet," and banishes bumps from bulging noses. All this to help women—and men, too—retrieve the youthful look.

But face-lifting is not confined to the human physiognomy. Cities—just as proud as the folks who compose them—have lately begun to make appointments with those beauty experts, the architect and the engineer, bidding them lift the face of Main Street.

A business district that looks every bit like an exhibit of the history of architecture can have little appeal, certainly, in an age that is learning to demand the functional, the streamlined, and the beautiful in toothpicks and skyscrapers and everything between. It is, moreover, just sound sense to provide pleasant, relaxing surroundings for Main Street's customers.

A certain American comedian, please indulge his pun, thinks that we have been wrinkled up with care and worry for so long that now is a good time to get our faith lifted. What better way to lift a townsman's faith in his town than to consider, and then to do something about, lifting the face of Main Street?

Man always pays for his greed and his ignorance. When the United States was settled it possessed all of the natural resources that any people might ever need. One by one the resources of the country have been commercialized and exploited. A notable example is the soil on many farms in the agricultural sections. It has been mined and the fertility exhausted by improper handling and by wind and water erosion until in many sections it will not pay expenses of operation. Before it can be properly operated the fertility must be restored. Another example equally notable has to do with the forests of the country. We have permitted them to be ruthlessly destroyed and have paid little attention to reforestation. We are paying for it now and will continue to pay for it for years to come. This country buys from Canada each year about $170,000,000. By our carelessness and thoughtless practice we have placed ourselves at the mercy of Canada in the matter of pulp paper. A radical increase in price is predicted next year and paper users in this country are helpless to prevent it. By failing to protect ourselves by reforestation and thus conserve this important resource we have placed the newspaper industry at the mercy of foreign corporations. The unfortunate feature of it is that we will learn nothing by this example but will continue on our wasteful, profligate way until forced by economic circumstances to change our ways.

Traffic deaths were 25 per cent higher for the first three months this year than they were the corresponding three months last year. So far the pleadings of the safety promoters and the publicity given in the press has had no effect when it comes to reducing the accident total. Any reduction that may have been accomplished has been offset by the fact that cars are being built for greater speed which has had its effect in producing more accidents. Two remedies suggest themselves; the permanent revocation of licenses of careless drivers, and a limitation of the speed at which cars may be made to operate by means of governors on the engines.

A Great Need Today.—If there is one commodity in which the world is short today, it is enlightened leadership. The need is written in every new day's headlines. As men and citizens are should be looking ahead to preparing enlightened leadership for tomorrow. And from whence will it come if not from the ranks of healthy, normal boys, the sons of good parents, the products of the hard-won advantages of our civilization? —Winthrop R. Howard, New York businessman, in Rotarian Magazine.

While not much is being said about it yet, we predict that some major party organizations are casting about for a leader for the next national campaign.

WHAT WE THINK

(By Frank Dixon)

My state recently adopted the sales tax. There is a lot of complaint about it, but I think it a good thing for the reason that it makes the people tax-conscious—a thing I think is needed in this country, in a city, state and national way.

I think if all of the taxes could be paid in the same way it would be a good thing. It would serve as a deterrent against the practice of voting taxes without any thought of how they are going to be paid. The ones who are doing the most squawking are the ones who always escaped paying their just share of taxes under the obsolete plan of taxing property. As a rule they have been the ones who have been always ready to vote an additional tax upon property owners.

He is quite discouraged over the fact that he has so many state and federal reports to make out—some thirty-two in all during the year. His system of bookkeeping, while adequate for his small business, won't meet the demands of the new burdens and he spends hours and hours after he closes his shop trying to get his reports in shape

Exposition Esplanade

Set amid luxuriant sub-tropical vegetation bordering a reflecting basin, over which a myriad array of colored lights will play by night, exhibit buildings at the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition will be patterned after the colorful edifices of ancient American cities. Opening June 12 for a run of 142 days, the Exposition will be the only international event in the Americas for 1937.

to meet the federal requirements. I think it is to be regretted that the human race doesn't have the principles of thrift and self-restraint to the degree, that in the producing years it can lay by for the non-productive years.

This was the way our fathers and grandfathers did and while they may not have done business on quite so grand a scale and were guilty of living within their incomes and laying by for a rainy day, there was some pleasure connected with being in business.

A lot of men who condemn the management of this institution they work for couldn't cut loose from the employ of the firm and earn half their present wage. They forget that it is the genius of their employer after all that makes their jobs, not their own.

As I have it figured out the wheat crop in my section of the country will just about pay for the combines that have been ordered to cut it. Strange isn't it that while mankind has advanced in industry, transportation, science and about everything else within the last two thousand years he is still just as selfish, and just as greedy, and just as foolish about going to war as he was when he rode a donkey and cultivated the soil with a crooked stick.

Magazine Story Tells of Texas Opportunities

Texas' tremendous industrial expansion during the past three decades, and the almost unlimited industrial opportunities afforded by its natural resources, is the subject of the article, "Texas—High, Wide, and Handsome," by Arthur Coleman, in the current issue of Holland's, "The Magazine of the South."

Pointing out the extreme diversity of the Lone Star State's industrial scene—the differing regions of East Texas, West Texas, the Gulf Coast, the High Plains, the Blackland Belt, and the Rio Grande Valley—Coleman declares that since 1900 the state has, industrially, been "going to town." In population it has less than, in agriculture more than, doubled. But meanwhile industry has reached the point where it employs more than twice as many wage earners, pays them nearly five times as much in wages, and turns out products worth more than nine times as many dollars as in 1900. From 1933 to 1935, he says, manu-

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—Cumulative evidence that the end of the depression may be written in Texas this fall has been piling up here for weeks. This time, the return of better section of the Panhandle which lacked sufficient moisture. In some West Texas sections, the harvest ran as high as 50 bushels to the acre, and on land which can be bought for substantially less than $50 an acre. The corn crop is virtually made already, accruing a successful harvest regardless of weather from now on. South Texas is gaining a bountiful cotton crop already, and the cotton is off to a fine beginning in North, Central and West Texas. Wool and mohair crops have been heavy, with the most favorable market price in years. Specialized crops, including fruits, vegetables, melons, etc., have been plentiful with fair market prices.

Oil, affecting more than half the counties of Texas, is selling at the highest price in years, with the technical position of the market excellent and evidence of further increases in the price of crude in sight, with demand heavy and storage light.

Small Towns Reviving This correspondent, during the past two weeks, has toured a large area of the state. In the smaller towns and villages, there is ample evidence of reviving business, based upon this improved outlook for the farmers. Small town merchants are stocking their stores, resuming and increasing their advertising. Trades days are being revived in towns where no such activity has been carried on in years. County newspapers are increasing their size, and many are buying equipment, to handle increased advertising volume.

More than half of Texas' population is agricultural, and when the farmers prosper, that prosperity seeps into every business and counts in house in the land. Conversely, without rural prosperity, there can be no real prosperity in Texas. It has been a long and bitter struggle—but it looks like the end is in sight.

Prosperity Threats But two menaces are visible to certain revival of business this fall in Texas. One is labor troubles, which have paralyzed some industries in the eastern cities, and which have caused some sporadic trouble in certain Texas metropolitan areas. Only two industrial developments—oil and transportation—employ sufficient industrial labor to be seriously threatened by labor trouble. The oil industry, by timely wage increases and tactful handling of its employees, has so far avoided difficulty. The big four railroad brotherhoods have demanded a 20 per cent wage increase, retroactive to May 1, on a national scale. In Texas, this means an increase of $3,200,000 annually, affecting 9,000 employees of the Texas railroads. The railroad management asserts the demand is unfair at this time, in view of the claim that rail wages are much higher than average in industry, and the fact that a 10 per cent wage cut, imposed during the worst of the depression, was restored many months ago. The rail heads further claim that to restore their lost volume, they have had to spend millions on modernization and maintenance of their equipment, including installation of streamline trains, air conditioning, etc. The brotherhoods assert they are a conservative union, and need the increase to prevent inroads by the John Lewis-C. I. O. group upon their organizations. Texans will watch with eager interest the outcome of the wage problem.

Tax Problem Acute But business generally in Texas is most fearful of what the politicians will do to it, come next September, when the 45th legislature will again meet in special session to impose increased taxes. Business, struggling upward from the depths, contends that heavy new taxes will strangle its comeback now. But the politicians

BEAUTY'S DAUGHTER

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER V—Vic is enchanted by the beauty of the girl...

...didn't tell me anything. She said, 'D'you mean as a housekeeper, or as a wife?'

CHAPTER VI

The Hardisty house on Washington street overlooked the Presidio wall...

In the beginning of her marriage she had said that she hoped to be busy...

But the blind and the orphanage had had no opportunity to experience her kindly charity...

So the first year had flown, and at the end of it Vic had awakened Quentin in the early dawn...

There was a wide lower hall in the Gannetts' house; a hall now filled with soft late-afternoon light...

Victoria had reached the landing and was about to call to Quentin, obviously and patiently awaiting his family...

Victoria said Quentin look down at her from his big height; saw the good-natured smile in his eyes...

state of exhaustion for their sakes. Quentin meanwhile was busily building up for himself the most important surgical practice in the city.

"They rarely went to dinner parties. Sometimes after their late dinner at home they would slip downtown for some music...

"We like each other," she told him on a certain Sunday morning when they had been six years man and wife...

Victoria looked enviously at the comfortable peninsula homes they were passing for by this time...

"Oh, that was Mrs. Billy McGrew. Josephine McGrew—she's a nice kid. But nutty!"

"She's affectionate, I gather?" Quentin laughed, guiltily, giving his wife a sidewise, shrewd smile.

"A little." Victoria said nothing, but her heart was lightened again. It was all so silly!

"How'd you know that?" Quentin presently asked, chuckling. "I was on the stairs when she was talking to you in the hall. I got the balcony scene."

"Caught with the goods, eh?" Quentin asked. "Red-handed," Victoria laughed in relief.

"Well, exactly. Nothing!" He laughed heartily, engineering the car through the complicated turnings of Dale City...

Victoria laughed, her fears all laid to rest. The five children were uproarious in the nursery at supper time; their long sleeps in the car coming home had refreshed them...

"Vic, you mean you're that way again?" "September, I rather hoped you'd not guess."

"Gosh! A child in arms would know. How old, in heaven's name, are the twins? Are they a year old yet?"

"A year! We've just had our second birthday celebration." "Well, honestly," Mabel Gannett said, "I think it's dreadful! Going in for a perfectly enormous family these days! With Quentin as stunning as he is, and all the women mad about him..."

"Oh, that!" Vicky said indifferently, as the other woman paused. And then, just before the Hardistys went home at five, the odd thing happened.

Victoria had led her troop upstairs for last wiping of small faces and buttoning of coats; these operations well under way, she had gathered Susan under one arm, Susan's brief legs dangling from her hip...

"Victoria had reached the landing and was about to call to Quentin, obviously and patiently awaiting his family, when another person came into the hall. She came from the direction of the dining room; a slender, graceful woman—almost a girl, though the voice was a woman's...

"Quentin, the woman said clearly, but in a low tone, 'how can you be so horribly unkind to me?'"

Victoria saw Quentin look down at her from his big height; saw the good-natured smile in his eyes. "Am I horribly unkind to you?" he asked mildly.

"You're killing me!" the woman answered passionately, with a little choke in her voice. "Oh, I wouldn't say that, Josephine," Quentin said.

"You hate me, I know that!" Josephine said. "But I can't help it. I have to see you—we're going Friday. Yes, he settled it. I didn't think he's crazy. But we're going. And I have to see you before we go! Will you lunch with me on Wednesday?"

"Operating on old Fuller in Los Angeles. I go down Tuesday night." "You know, I don't believe you, Quentin," the woman said with a shrewd look...

"I don't know what you can have to say to me, my dear," he said, in the kindly masculine look and tone and manner that Victoria— that all women loved.

When they were gone Victoria descended the remaining stairs and began her thanks and farewells. Almost immediately the other children, Betsey, the nurse were with her, and within five minutes of her having first glimpsed that tableau in the lower hall she and Quentin were on their way home.

"Oh, that was Mrs. Billy McGrew. Josephine McGrew—she's a nice kid. But nutty!" "She's affectionate, I gather?"

Quentin had shared their early breakfast, and after the usual visit to the kitchen and to the surging and shouting nursery, Victoria somewhat wearily prepared a tray, not forgetting the continental touch of a pitcher of hot milk, and adding a tiny clear green glass vase in which sprawled three stiff brilliant nasturtiums. Mrs. Herrendeen was awake when her daughter came in.

"Oh, you darling child, with all you have to do—and the newspaper, too—but I shall miss my Paris paper; these American papers never have anything in them."

"Did you sleep, Mummy?" Vic asked, with her kiss. "I slept divinely. I always sleep divinely," the other woman answered, her cheerful voice and freshened face bearing witness to it. "I meant to lie awake," she went on, beginning her breakfast, "and think what a smart child I have, and what a lovely home this is."

Quentin liked her; that was a great help. Magda had still the secret of pleasing and interesting men, whatever it was. Faded, fussy dressed, affected and artificial, yet there was something real and affectionate and clinging in her nature that all males liked. About a week after her return Quentin electrified his wife by suggesting that they make up a party for the first night of the opera. Stern had sent him a box; Stern was on the committee; it "might be rather fun," Quentin, who never wanted to go anywhere!

"Fun!" Vicky echoed, excited and interested. It would be time of all times to return the Perrys' hospitality, and for a sixth they might ask nice, old, musical Dr. Ward.

In compliance with a concurrent resolution, adopted at the special session of the Legislature which recently adjourned, the Texas Planning Board has launched a study into the types of exhibits Texas should have at the World's Fair in New York and at the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco in 1939.

San Antonio has reduced its number of deaths from diphtheria almost 50 per cent since 1935, according to the Texas Planning Board's public health committee which reports that only 13 persons succumbed from diphtheria in San Antonio in 1936 as compared to 23 persons in 1935.

Results of the Texas Planning Board's survey of the mineral resources of the state now fill 42 volumes.

Youths genuinely interested in farming who want to work on a project at one of Texas' agricultural schools this summer and attend special agricultural courses may communicate with District NYA offices at Marshall, Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Amarillo, Lubbock, or San Angelo. LIBRARY NEWS

Three years ago, Alice Duer Miller wrote a serial for the "Ladies' Home Journal" called "Gowns by Roberta." The story was so entertaining that it was transformed into a musical comedy called "Roberta" and starred Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire. This motion picture version is still playing to large audiences throughout the country.

Alice Miller's stories are full of youth, beauty, glamour, and charm, and very amusing and entertaining.

Suitable Cream Containers Must Be Used in Future

Regulation cans with sanitary seams that can be properly sterilized must be used on the farms for holding and transporting cream to market, according to a warning issued this week to farmers and cream buyers by the State Department of Health. Many containers now being used should be discarded at once, it was further stated. The department had the following to say in regard to containers that must be discarded: "Syrup pails, coffee cans, and other similar containers with open seams. Fruit and mayonnaise jars, jugs and crocks, or other similar containers which cannot be properly steamed and sterilized. Rusty containers of all kinds, and under no consideration should cream or milk be received in containers which have previously been used for handling oil or petroleum products."

Number of Lynchings for First Six Months 1937 Same as 1935-36

Four lynchings occurred in the United States during the first six months of 1937, according to the records compiled at Tuskegee Institute of Alabama in the department of records and research. This is the same number as for the first six months of 1935 and 1936, and two less than the number of 6 for the first six months of 1934.

All of the persons lynched were Negroes. The offenses charged were: murder, 3; rape, 1. The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 1; Georgia, 1; Mississippi, 2.

Two Cases Spotted Fever Reported in Southwest Texas

Austin. — Appearance of the dread Rocky Mountain Fever in Texas was evident this week when two cases of the disease reported in Southeast Texas were officially diagnosed as such by Dr. R. R. Spencer, spotted fever expert of the United States Public Health Service. Dr. Spencer, vacationing in San Antonio was pressed into service by State Health Officer Dr. Geo. W. Cox, to diagnose the two cases, one of which proved fatal. Dr. Spencer's diagnosis is the first official recognition of the presence in Texas of spotted fever, a disease transmittable to men by the bite of infected ticks. Although many wood and dog ticks are not infected with the fever, the disease in man is serious enough to warrant the practice of precautionary measures. A person with spotted fever will develop the disease within 2 to 12 days after receiving the infection.

When the ticks appear, they are careful and are seeking some animal to attach themselves to and suck blood. When the tick drops on an animal, including man, it does not start feeding at once, but usually spends some time searching for a suitable place. Experiments have shown that a previously unfed tick will attach itself to the body and feed for a few hours before transmitting the infection but it then becomes highly infectious. These measures may be used to prevent spotted fever; avoid ticks, remove ticks from the person as soon as possible, or be vaccinated. Vaccine to prevent spotted fever is not readily available so precaution should be used to avoid or eliminate ticks from the person immediately.

CHECKS KING'S SPEECH

He doesn't wear a coronet nor an ermine cloak, but Lionel Logue is one of the most important persons at the British royal court. He is oral instructor to King George VI, who since childhood has had to combat a tendency to stammer. Logue was the unsung hero behind the coronation, for his constant attendance on the monarch is credited with the flawless manner in which King George delivered his response to the ritual questions.

Five-In-One School, Destroyed By Fire, To Be Rebuilt Soon

Rebuilding of the Five-in-One school building, which was destroyed by fire last Wednesday afternoon, has been ordered. Approval of plans to proceed with construction of the building was voted by the trustees of the district Thursday night.

Voelcker and Dixon, Wichita Falls architects, were selected by the board to draft plans for the new building. This firm drew plans for the original building and the general plans of the new structure will be same as the one destroyed by fire but improvements to make it thoroughly modern will be included.

An application for Federal aid to finance a portion of the work was also ordered by the board. An expenditure of approximately $80,000 is planned. The building destroyed was constructed in 1930 at a cost of $68,000. At the time of the fire, insurance of $38,000 on the building and $8,000 on equipment, was in force.

It is believed that the Federal aid application will be filed under "emergency regulation" in efforts to speed rebuilding. The new building is expected to be ready by Jan. 1, 1938, and plans for temporary quarters for the school are being discussed.

The fire was started when an oil mixture, containing linseed oil, turpentine and a drying compound, which was being used to refinish the gymnasium floor, ignited and overturned spreading the flames beyond control. Grease beneath burners of the stove on which the mixture was being heated was discovered burning and the stove was cut off but the fumes of the heating oil ignited. Attempts to subdue the blaze with extinguishers were successful until the containers overturned and spread the burning oil over the floor. A chemical truck from Vernon was sent to the scene but the blaze had made too much headway by the time of its arrival.

The building contained eighteen rooms and a combination auditorium and gymnasium. The school had an enrollment of 331 during the 1936-37 term and was a fully affiliated and accredited high school.

given by the farmers and all stars. In several incidents it appeared as though the donkey would go to first base and he would turn and go back to home plate. A few riders were thrown out as first while they were in the outfield trying vainly to mount steeds. On several different occasions the donkeys of the fielders furnished the audience with much laughter. In the majority of the batters' cases the donkeys would be ridden and would not stop, while the others would not be ridden and would not go.

The starting line-ups are as follows: All-stars — Roy Mullins, catcher; Pat McDaniel, pitcher; Marvin McKown, first base; Bill Gafford, second base; Roy Huckabee, third base; Bob Lilly, short stop; Que Meason, left field; Leon Speers, center field; and Jim Riley Gafford, right field.

stated that he was looking out of the window of a house then located near the railroad track and saw a long piece of lumber blown through the roof of the house that stands behind the Premier Hotel. He also saw a bolt of lightning strike the chimney of the gin located west of the Crowell Gin.

Mr. Wells received the nickname of "Apples" from a group of Crowell girls when they asked him his name and instead of telling them his name, he bought apples for the group. After that he was always called "Apples" and it is still known to several Crowell people by that name.

He recalled the time that the celebration of the opening of the reservoir south of Crowell was practically broken up by a small twister. A peddler stopped at the old mule barn then located one block west of the square, and hired a team and wagon to take his wares to the lake. Mr. Wells was sent with him to show him the way. About the time the peddler had gotten his stand erected and had started selling his articles, the twister struck, scattering everything in its path.

Mr. Wells came to Crowell in March, 1910, and ate his first meal in the Hays' Hotel at its present location and worked for about 18 days cutting stone for the court house. After this job, he worked on Victor Johnson's farm. He also worked on other farms in the county and was then employed at the Crowell Hotel by John King until he moved to Quanah in October, 1911, where he spent two years.

After leaving Quanah, Mr. Wells located in St. Paul, Minn., where he entered the creamery business. On April 6, 1917, he enlisted as a Marine and was with the 5th Regiment during the war. This regiment was shot to pieces during the battle of St. Meheil. In this battle Mr. Wells was gassed and forced to remain in the hospital until he was discharged in June, 1919.

Upon leaving the service, he took a job as ink grinder in an ink factory in Chicago. After serving in this capacity for a short time, he filed application for apprenticeship and served in this position for nine years after which he was sent to Portland, Ore., where he established and operated a factory for two years. After spending two years in Memphis, Tenn., where he established and operated another factory, he was transferred to the head offices of the company in St. Louis, Mo., and worked there until 1923, at which time he went to Omaha and established an ink factory of his own.

Mr. Wells is still operating this business and while in the office Friday he related many interesting facts about special inks and their uses. He gave The News several cans of different colors of ink that he had compounded in the Omaha factory.

Foard County 4-H Club Girls Visit Carlsbad Caverns

Thirty-three club girls of Foard County and six sponsors visited the Carlsbad Caverns near Carlsbad, N. M., Monday. The trip was made in the school bus driven by Roy Fox.

The group left Crowell Sunday morning at 6 o'clock and arrived in Carlsbad at 1 (M. S. T.) and spent the night there. They were in the caverns from 9:20 a. m. until 3 p. m. Monday.

There were 900 in the party that went through the underground marvel at the same time the club girls did. Over 2,000 people went through the caverns in four different groups and of this number about 1,200 were from Texas. The Caverns were visited by 3,800 people that day and is the largest number to go through it in its history.

The group left Carlsbad to return to Crowell Monday afternoon after leaving the caverns and arrived here at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. Total expenses for most of the girls were less than $4.00, which included souvenirs. The girls reported a fine time in spite of the cramped traveling conditions.
