President Eisenhower added fuel to the already hot farm program controversy by his decision to support the program with Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Agriculture. Benson has both strong and sharp critics because of his insistence on lower prices and reduction of dependence on government. Personal and farm critics denounced him bitterly because of his insistence on lower prices and income tax cuts. Benson's program is being steadily in recent years. He contends that his program has failed and, if continued, would wreck agriculture. President Eisenhower has continued to be one of Benson's staunchest supporters. Benson went to the White House not long ago with an offer to resign, but Mr. Eisenhower talked him out of it. The decision to keep Benson means that farm and congressional groups will be divided into two hostile camps when farm legislation is taken up by Congress next year. A long bitter fight is probable. The Secretary, backed by the powerful Farm Bureau, and a minority of Farm Bloc congressmen, will seek modifications in present farm laws. The main objective will be to get legislation permitting lower price supports. Farmer cooperatives and the National Grange, backed by a majority of Farm Bloc congressmen, will seek a major overhauling of present programs, with primary emphasis on commodity programs, including two-price plans and marketing agreements. Benson will have the big advantage of the President back of him. He has reason to expect that Mr. Eisenhower would veto any program not in line with his thinking. That happened in 1956, when a high price support bill was vetoed. Mr. Eisenhower gave Secretary Benson added backing when he sent the nomination of Dr. Donald Paarlberg to the Senate to be Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. Dr. Paarlberg, a former college professor, has been chief economic advisor to Benson since early 1953. Dr. Paarlberg drew fire from critics of Benson's farm program when, in a speech, he told farmers that parity was a "dream world" they should never expect to see again. Farm income has declined by 20 per cent during four years of Benson's farm program administration. He contends that this was unavoidable because of huge surpluses built up under the previous Administration. Critics, on the other hand, charge him with following a policy of lower supports that resulted in lower prices. They say his only proposal is that Congress give him authority to put into effect still lower price supports next year. About all you can be certain of is that Benson will occupy one of the hottest spots in Washington during the next 12 months. A high velocity gun that uses steam-heated helium instead of gun powder to propel bullets is being fired at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Silver Spring, Md., to test the flight characteristics of projectiles. Letter carriers' uniforms are a 50-50 blend of the Union Blue and Confederate Gray.

The sharp break in cattle and calf prices of a week ago met with firm resistance from cattlemen who have the best water and grass conditions in a long time. The movement of cattle and calves to Fort Worth was less than half the numbers offered for sale a week earlier. Result of the hold-off was an uneven market, however, changes were all on the upside of the price schedule. Slaughter calves and stocker and feeder cattle and calves rebounded sharply with 50 cents to $1 per hundred higher prices. Cows were strong to 50 cents or more above the low close of last week. Bulls ruled steady. Fed steers and heifers were in small supply and were steady. Good and choice slaughter yearlings and heifers sold from $20 to $23, and medium and lower grades bulked at $13 to $19. Fat cows cashed at $12.50 to $14, with few heiferish kinds to $15. Canners and cutters cashed at $8 to $12.50. Bulls scored $11 to $15, a few to $15.50. Good and choice slaughter calves ranged from $18 to $21, and common and medium offerings cashed at $13 to $17.50. Culls sold from $10 to $13. Good and choice stocker steer calves cashed at $19 to $23, and stocker steer yearlings sold from $21 down. Feeder steers weighing up to 900 pounds sold from $20.50 down. A few replacement cows sold from $10 to $13.50. Estimated supply of cattle and calves here Monday was 3,800 cattle and calves compared to actual salable receipts a week earlier of 8,068. The offerings of sheep and lambs cleared very early and prices were fully steady to stronger at Fort Worth Monday. Top end of the price range got a rather poor test due to the very small numbers of high grade offerings in the run. Good and choice slaughter lambs sold from $20 to $22, and cull to medium lambs cashed at $14 to $19. Stocker and feeder lambs sold from $15 to $18. Good slaughter yearling wethers sold at $16 to $17, and strictly choice kinds were quotable above that level. Cull to medium yearlings cashed at $11 to $15. Stocker yearling ewes sold from $18 down. Slaughter ewes sold from $7 to $8. Aged wethers drew $13 down. Two-year-old wethers sold from $15 down. Aged bucks drew $5 to $5.50. Butcher hogs were steady to 25 cents higher at Fort Worth Monday. A few closely sorted meat type hogs scored $22.75, and other choice hogs sold from $22 to $22.60. Medium to good hogs sold for $18 to $21.50. Sows sold for $17.50 to $19.50.

context that suggests speed." In discussing this new move for safety, Music said, "Of course a resolution is not binding, but it is a step in the right direction and the AMA should be applauded for their interest in the public's welfare."

"In Time of Trouble..." The arrival of the hurricane season is good news to Dr. Noel Le Feur of the Florida State University Department of Meteorology. His summer occupation is to hunt such storms. Riding an air force B-50 or B-47 equipped with instruments that record wind direction, speed and barometric pressure, Dr. Le Feur flies into the centers of hurricanes to obtain valuable information for the weather bureau. The hurricane hunters say 1955 was the most destructive season in modern history. Eleven storms killed more than 1,500 people and caused property damage amounting to two billion, five hundred million dollars. While Dr. Le Feur's adventuresome spirit is admirable, most of us have enough trouble without looking for it. We have sufficient difficulty dealing with trials that come our way in the natural course of events. David, the Old Testament king, was a man of great troubles. For many months his life was sought by Saul who preceded him on the throne. David engaged in separate battles with a giant, a bear and a lion with a simple sling as his only weapon. One of David's sons sought to steal the kingdom and others disgraced his name. David was betrayed by trusted friends and cursed by his opponents. What did David do in the midst of his trouble? "In the day of my trouble I sought the Lord" (Psalm 77:2). He found God to be his "very present help" (Psalm 46:1). And David said of Him: "Thou has been my defense and refuge

Black Bass and Sunfish Abound in Blanco

Black bass and sunfish are found pretty well through the waters of the Blanco River in Blanco, Kendall and Hayes counties, according to a project report just made by biologists of the Texas Game and Fish Commission. Elgin M. C. Dietz was project leader of the study made at 27 stations along the meanderings of the river. A total of 7352 specimens was taken, representing 11 families and 35 species and one hybrid, according to the report. Thirty-two collections were made with seines and nets. Many minnows were taken, but enough bass showed up to indicate the waters of the Blanco are still good for them. Quite a few catfish also were taken. The Rio Grande perch also showed up in sizeable quantities, but not as many as are found in the San Marcos River. It is a transplanted fish, generally considered as undesirable in fishing impoundments. U. S. Chamber of Commerce reports the oil industry pays the highest average yearly salary — $5,259. After petroleum, the four highest annual average salaries listed were machine, printing and publishing, transportation equipment, and primary materials. ## Topdressing Winter Wheat Returns Good Dividends

Topdressing winter wheat with nitrogen fertilizer paid good dividends in extra yields in tests at the Southwestern Great Plains Field Station near Amarillo.

The plots which received nitrogen fertilizer also produced more wheat per inch of irrigation water than the unfertilized wheat.

Alex Pope, assistant agronomist at the station, said application of 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre in the form of ammonium nitrate (33 per cent nitrogen) gave the greatest return per fertilizer dollar. At one of the test locations where no nitrogen fertilizer was applied the yield was 25 bushels per acre, compared with 53 bushels on wheat which received 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

He said also that ammonium nitrate appeared to be a better source of nitrogen than ammonium sulfate for topdressing winter wheat in late February.

New Perennial Sweet Sudan Developed

A new and promising forage plant has been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station after 15 years of breeding and selection. This new plant, a cross between sweet sudan and Johnson grass is expected to prove a boon to Texas stockmen in cultivated pastures. The new grass is very palatable, being sweet like its sweet sudan parent. It is perennial like Johnson grass, yet the plant is unlikely to become a pest, says Joe Burkett, county agent. Scientists point out that it should be easy to eradicate because the short rootstocks do not penetrate deeply into the soil to become entrenched.

Certified seed for farmers plantings of perennial sweet sudan will be available from commercial seed companies in the summer of 1958. Foundation seed, developed by the Texas station, are now being distributed to seed growers for production of the certified seed.

For further information on this grass, a leaflet, "Perennial Sweet Sudangrass," has just been published. Requests for this leaflet may be directed to the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas, or the local county agent's office.

TRADEMARK

The trademark is almost as old as trade itself. It was known in Crete, scene of Europe's most ancient civilization. And thousands of years ago Egyptian law required that every brick be marked so that the brickyard worker and even the individual slave brickmaker could be readily identified and held responsible for the product.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

Within the next 10 years, 100,000 Texans will die of cancer if the present trend continues. That's almost enough people to populate a city the size of Corpus Christi.

Almost 54,000 of these cancer victims will be men, since the disease is now claiming almost 15 per cent more men than women. It wasn't always like that, however. Back in 1940, 7 per cent fewer men succumbed to cancer than did women.

Cancer today is second only to heart diseases as a general cause of death for the population as a whole. And when death rates are broken down according to age groups, it is tragically easy to see the wide swath the disease cuts through the cream of Texas youth and young adults.

If you are a girl between 15 and 29 years of age, cancer—chiefly leukemia—is your most relentless disease enemy, killing more of your group than anything else except accidents. Among boys of the same age, cancer—again mostly leukemia—is the third leading cause of death, claiming more lives than anything except accidents and homicides. Accidents are way out in front.

And as young people mature, the picture changes only slightly. From age 30 to 44, cancer still ranks third as a killer of males, but assumes first place as a cause of death among women. It holds this first-place spot for women through age 59, by which time the disease has crept into second place as a cause of male mortality. At age 60, cancer ranks second for both sexes, falling off into third place after age 75.

During the 15-year period from 1940 to 1955, comparative rates of cancer deaths for men and women changed considerably. In 1940 the male rate was 7 per cent less than the female rate, but by 1955 men were leading women by 15 per cent. The greatest variance is shown in the 45-49 age bracket, the male death rate exceeding the female rate by 8 per cent.

Significant disparity between men and women is noticed in mortality rates according to body sites attacked by cancer. For example, in cancer of the stomach, the death rate is almost 90 per cent higher for males than for females, and cancer of the larynx kills men 10 times more often than women. On the other hand, women suffer 30 per cent more deaths from cancer of the genitourinary organs than do men.

Cancer of the lung kills six times as many men as women. Eighteen per cent of all cancer among men is cancer of the stomach, but only five per cent of cancer in women involve the

The present trend toward increasing mortality from cancer can be lessened only by periodic check-up and proper care when cancers are discovered.

An additional 650 acres of habitat for white winged doves has been obtained in Hidalgo County, it was announced this week by E. A. Walker, director of Wildlife Restoration for the Texas Game and Fish Commission. The land was leased at $650 a year for two years from the Missionary Society, Oblate Fathers of Texas of Bexar County.

The Commission has been interested in getting additional tracts of land in the whitewing area, having previously acquired two other tracts. In this way it is hoped to maintain native whitewing nesting areas until the new citrus orchards in the valley attain sufficient size to hold the birds.

Power Lawn Mower Can Be Dangerous

The power lawn mower may save dad an aching back—but it can give him or Junior a pain in the halloo.

"Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council, doesn't explain that the halloo is the big toe, but it does point out that the halloo, the four smaller toes and other parts of the foot are most frequently injured in power mower accidents.

A recent survey by the Georgia Department of Public Health revealed that one power mower injury in seven resulted in some permanent disability. Information for the survey was obtained from about one-fourth of the doctors in Georgia.

They reported 737 accidents in which 794 persons were injured during a period of less than two years. Direct contact with mowers caused 553 of the injuries. Objects thrown by the mowers accounted for 241.

More than nine-tenths of the accidents involved rotary type mowers, as compared with less than one-tenth for the reel type. No figures are available on the number of mowers of each type, but it is believed that the accident total for rotary mowers is due in part to the large number in use.
