Favor Rigid Crop Control

Since the adjournment of the last session of Congress, 2 1/2 months ago, in order to learn the views of my constituents in my district, which carried me into almost every town within the district, where I have met and spoken to 43 different groups of farmers, totaling more than 10,000 farmers, their wives and children. At the close of each of these meetings I have asked all those who favor rigid crop control legislation to be contacted by the next Congress to stand, and the sentiment expressed by the farmers as well as all present at these meetings has been almost unanimous—as only 16 persons out of more than 10,000 folks attending these meetings have voted against rigid crop control legislation.

I find the sentiment of the farmers of my district overwhelmingly in favor of compulsory crop control. That the voluntary program on an acreage basis of the past two years because of difference in soil, cultivation and failure and refusal of the large land owners to co-operate makes impossible production control on a voluntary basis. Large scale tractor farming has added to our problem. It seems clear that the subsidy payments of the present program must be limited so that the tenant and small farmer's exemption can be increased to where those who will work can make a living on the farm.

Take cotton for example, the nation consumes about 8,000,000 bales annually. Insuring our market to the small farmers would give them an average five-bale exemption per family. Then by improving our loan and marketing provision, we could produce and market 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 additional bales and yet maintain our price structure. Then by placing a graduated bale or unit tax on all basic commodities we can control the production of all those commodities to where our farmers can receive parity price for their products. The argument of those who make money from large scale production to permit the crops to be grown and then try to market abroad or somewhere else, the surplus, just will not work. All our experience and that of other nations prove this. The ideal legislation to be desired is legislation that will control production, to give the farmer parity for his products and this will in turn permit the tenant and small farmer to buy and own their own homes. Such a program should be enacted the next session.

Vote on War

When the special session meets, another effort will be made by those of us who are sponsoring a proposal now before the House to amend the Constitution so that war could be declared—except in case of invasion—only by a majority vote of all of our citizens, to get favorable consideration thereon, which would result in the question being submitted to the forty-eight State Legislatures. When three-fourths of the States, or thirty-six, approve such a resolution, it will become a part of our Constitution. It is a part of justice to let every person register his views on such a momentous question as war. Those who suffer and perhaps die in war ought to have more to say about it than they do now. Unless the formulation of our foreign policies is kept within that range, plus or minus, a definite safeguard, we need that safeguard. Does your thermometer read

Homes Should Not Be Over-Heated Cold Winter Months

Austin.—"With colder weather on its way to Texas, it's time to think about home temperature during the winter months," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"There is evidence that thousands of homes are constantly over-heated during the winter months, many families tolerate door temperature during the winter months to which they do not strenuously object in summer. Such persons are only uneconomical with their supply, but are endangering their health as well," Dr. Cox continues.

"People living in homes with over-heated temperatures are soft, the system is weakened, and this will in turn permit a change from a too great interior heat to the penetrating cold of winter."

"Consequently colds, bronchitis and pneumonia, taking advantage of the situation, and do much unnecessary, and infrequently, fatal damage. It will agree that this is entirely a price to pay for a few extra degrees of unneeded heat. We all know families who start on their annual colds and sore throats. But does not alter their attitude. They ignore the thermometer. A thermometer within that range, plus or minus, is a definite safeguard. We need that safeguard. Does your thermometer read

000 to 800,000 bales each for the last five years. Italy has been obtaining bales each year the past five. In 1933, last, they only received 400,000 bales.

How Squirrels Store Nuts

The fox squirrel, like the stores nuts for winter in hundreds of thousands of pockets, leaves or in the ground, one nut at a time. Red squirrels do not do this. They are eaters. They take the seed of pine cones anywhere in north country. Where there are spruce or pine trees, there are red squirrels.

WE HEAR

By W. E. HURD

We Think So, Too

The following item about the grid prowess of Dick Todd, former Crowell Wildcat sensation, who is now attending Texas A. & M., was clipped from Monday's issue of The Dallas Morning News:

"Prior to Tuesday's drill, the S. M. U. Mustangs studied a screening of a film of their game last week against Texas A. & M. which they lost, 0 to 14, at College Station. It increased their respect for Dick Todd, the sensational Aggie junior halfback, and showed that he alone was the difference between an Aggie victory and tie.

"Two men had clean shots at Todd on his 74-yard punt return for a touch-down before he reached midfield. His blockers picked him up later but he made most of the distance under his own power. Also, the picture showed, Dick's own individual ability was mainly responsible for the ground he gained throughout the afternoon."

Bricks and Bats

But who are fellows like the coaches of S. M. U., backed by a moving picture, to argue with sports authority such as G. V. Bostie of Chillicothe. The following is part of a letter written by Mr. Bostie that appeared in The Dallas Journal of Nov. 9:

"Without a doubt, Todd is the most overrated player in the conference. Mentioned as all-American, he won't be able to make the all-conference team."

It will all be seen in the near future then we will know if Mr. Bostie's growls are correct.

Game of Our Own

Getting back to our own little conference, little but plenty tough, Crowell will attempt to collect a few pelts and Panther tails at Seymour this afternoon. (Just a few hours off.) As the game is being played on Armistice Day, it will be staged under the sunlight.

This will be a new experience for the Wildcats as they have never played in daytime, except to practice in the fading gray of the sunlight. W. E. thinks that perhaps the fans would like to see an old-fashioned daylight game.

Gonna Be Good

When these two old rivals line up against each other, one can expect a good game. Their rivalry dates back a good many years and teams from these towns have been scrapping longer than W. E. can remember.

We'll Win

W. E. might be sticking his neck out too far but he is going to string along with the Cats, say four touchdowns.

In The News 15 Years Ago

The items below were taken in whole or in part from the issue of The Foard County News of Nov. 10, 1922.

Pioneer Physician Passes Dr. W. H. Adams, resident of Foard County for 34 years, died suddenly Friday. He came to this county from Ellis County in 1888, before the organization of Foard County and was a practicing physician until 1918, when he was forced to retire on account of ill health.

Crowell Girls Beat Chilli The basketball girls played their first game last Friday at Chillicothe with a victory for Crowell. The score was 12 to 2. Those playing for Crowell were: Mary Billington, captain; Zeffa Campsey, Vera Camp, Winnie Thompson, Kattie Belle Smith, and Bess Lefevre.

Chilli Beats Crowell There is very little to say about the 19 to 0 defeat by Chillicothe in a football game this week except that we were outclassed owing to the fact that several of our best men were out of the lineup and the rest that were in were out of their regular places.

Wildcats Win—

(Continued from Page One) the fourth play of the game after Co-Captain Oue Meason had returned an intercepted pass from the Hawk's 48-yard line to the 1. John Lee Orr carried it over on the following play. Several minutes later, Joy juggled the pigskin over the pay line after a 32-yard drive. Meason again put the ball down with a 22-yard jaunt around left end to the 3.

Meason stopped an Iowa Park drive when he intercepted B. Blair's pass and was downed on the Crowell 25-yard marker. On two plays Joy carried the oval to the Iowa Park 21. Orr slipped through the line to the 12-yard line from which point Joy carried the ball over to pay dirt. A pass, Fitzgerald to Canup, was complete for the extra point. On the first play following the kick off, Orr intercepted Blair's pass and reeled 40 yards to the goal line to set the score at 25-0.

The fourth counter came early in the second half when the Wildcats took the ball on their own 44-yard line and put it over after a 56-yard sustained drive. Orr went over from the 1-yard marker. Fitzgerald converted from placement for the extra point.

Crowell did not score again until the last period when Joy trotted across the line after a 51-yard sustained drive without losing the ball. Later the Wildcats took the ball on their own 3-yard line, where Blair's punt had been killed, and Joy cut through right tackle behind beautiful interference to the 23-yard stripe, where he stumbled and fell as he broke into the open field. Undaunted, Joy and Orr carried the pigskin to the Hawk's 10-yard line on eight plays. Meason went over the line with a thrust at right tackle.

After the fur and feathers had cleared from the gridiron statistics revealed that the Wildcats had run up a total of 22 first downs and 423 yards gained from scrimmage as compared with the Hawk's 5 first downs and 94 yards gained from scrimmage. Crowell's passes clicked to pick up 73 yards while the Iowa Park lads failed to complete a single toss.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—There is a classic newspaper story about a young reporter who was sent to write the details of a story involving the destruction of a town by a tornado. He surveyed the wreckage, and then spent several hours trying to think up an impressive opening sentence for his story, while his editors waited impatiently. Finally he produced this masterpiece: "And that phrase might aptly be used to describe the Texas political scene, in the wake of the taxless special session." Gov. Allred apparently is undecided what he will do. He insisted this week he wouldn't call another session "until assured a tax bill will be passed." His closest advisers are telling him that he shouldn't try for a third term, but the governor seems reluctant to take any such advice. His closest political adviser told this reporter: "I don't think the Governor has any idea of running for a third term."

Within an hour, the Governor told another of his friends, who is supporting Col. Ernest Thompson for governor: "Don't count me out of the race too soon."

Thompson's Friends Active Meanwhile, Col. Thompson's friends are pushing ahead steadily with organization of his campaign, and the colonel is expected to make a formal announcement soon after January 1, and launch a vigorous personal campaign soon thereafter. Attorney General Bill Meador has been campaigning since the last election, is driving and speaking tours and publicity barrage.

Meanwhile, politicians were intensely interested in a report that one of the Federal District Judges in the Western Texas district (in which Allred's home town of Wichita Falls is located) is nearing the retirement age, and might step down soon, creating a vacancy upon which the Governor has his eye.

Ally has assiduously cultivated his already happy relationship with the White House in recent months, keeping alive the belief that a Federal Judgeship is his idea of how to get out of his present political dilemma.

Pensions To Continue The political threat to suspend old age pension payments if the Legislature failed to enact a tax bill blew out of the water this week—as predicted in this column—when the Board of Control, through John Wallace, its minority and retiring member, declared arrangements had been worked out with the Republic National Bank in Dallas to pay off the $1,000,000 of pension warrants the bank holds, on the installment plan. This, Wallace declared, assured pension payments for November, December, January and February.

A pretty little political drama was enacted behind the scenes. The Board of Control sent a letter to Harry Graves during the session, saying pensions would have to stop unless the tax bill passed. The Governor made the same declaration in his radio "freebie chat."

When the tax bill failed, Wallace, who wasn't reappointed by Allred and retires January 1, was sent to Dallas by the Board, to negotiate with the bank. So well did he do the job that at least four months' additional pension payments were worked out. That left both the Board of Control and the governor out on a limb on their threat—but the old folks won't go hungry, and Wallace gets the credit.

investigating committee looking into the employment of relatives of legislators, campaign contributions and other alleged mal-practices in state departments may contain some sensational matter developed through its questionnaires in executive sessions, but the probe so far has not developed anything exciting. Under the chairmanship of Judge Ben Cathey of Quitman, it has brought out testimony that employs in the treasury, the comptroller's office, the department of education and other state offices have contributed to the campaign funds of their bosses. But there was no evidence that these contributions were extorted. And, while everybody knows that it is a favorite trick of department heads to hire friends or relatives of legislators—therein being the chief strength of the official lobby—it is pretty difficult to get the legislators to work up much of a lather over a practice in which they are the chief beneficiaries. The committee also heard Land Commissioner Bill McDonald voice a stout defense of his policy of rejecting high cash bids for oil leases on state school lands, and awarding the leases to bidders who offer small cash sums, and large payments in oil royalty—if oil is found.

"It is, of course, a gamble either way," said McDonald. "But I get the best information I can on the prospect of striking oil on each tract, and I think the schools will profit more in the long run by accepting the larger share of royalty, particularly on the tracts which look like they are sure to be oil producers." McDonald said he wouldn't oppose a bill vesting the leasing power in a board, instead of in himself alone, but admitted he opposed a bill by Coke Stevenson with such a provision, at the regular session.

"I opposed it because there were a lot of other things in that bill I didn't like," he said.

A strange parallel between the appointment of Harry Graves, Georgetown legislator, to the Court of Criminal Appeals, and the naming of Senator Hugo Black to the supreme court exists. Many critics claim Graves is not qualified because he voted for a bill raising the pay of the judges at the regular session, he resigned to accept appointment to the court at the hands of Gov. Allred, exactly the claim was made that Black disqualified himself by increasing the emoluments of the Supreme Court, as a Senator, before he was appointed. Lawyers here are reluctant to discuss Graves' case only, but most of the best privately say he is disqualified. Whether a court test will be made of the matter remains to be seen.

Contract for the first 5-mile section of the Kennedy County road through the King Ranch to the Rio Grande Valley probably will be let by the Highway Commission Nov. 23. The road was issued in the last Governor's race with Allred promising to get started. The new road has been designated a Federal route, and opens a shorter route to the Valley.

Sulphur taxes from Oct. 1, 1937, were $2,251,936, a jump of 89.45 per cent increase, due to larger production and increase in tax rate. Liquor revenues jumped in October to $574,545, an increase of $119,041 over last year. Pensions got $462,248, and schools $141,359 of the October liquor revenue.

A Year Ahead

"Broadway Melody of 1938" is so modern that it is said to be "a year ahead." Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell, pictured above, have the romantic lead in this musical smash hit that is appearing at the Rio Theatre Sunday and Monday, but there are so many other famous names included in the cast that Taylor and Powell could scarcely be called the stars of the picture. In addition, there are Buddy (Dancing) Ebsen, Robert Benchley, Bonnie Barnes, George Murphy, Judy Garland, Sophie Tucker, Billy Gilbert and Charlie Grapewin, each doing his or her utmost to steal the show. "Broadway Melody of 1938" sets the pace for other musical pictures to follow with the hit songs and multiple cast of stellar rank. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has always tried to create something entirely new and different when producing the Broadway Melody musicals and it looks as if they really have a sensation this year.

nations growing cotton where forty years ago there were only about five.

Another reason for the huge surplus is that the people of the United States do not use as much cotton, per person, as was used several years ago, although there are more uses for cotton at the present time. There are many new uses for cotton but at the same time there is more being raised.

In comparing the total worldwide production of over twenty-five years ago and the present time, Mr. Moffett stated that then the United States' production was about 16 million bales of cotton per year and seven million in foreign countries. At the present time the United States produces about eighteen million bales and the foreign countries raise about nineteen and one-half million bales. This shows that the United States is producing nearly as much as the sixty foreign countries.

In giving one reason why the cotton prices in the United States are so low, Mr. Moffett pointed out that the cost of production in the foreign countries is very low. This is because of cheap labor, cheap land and low taxes. The only advantage the United States holds is in machinery. He stated that insects might be the only salvation for the United States.

About six years ago Mr. Moffett introduced a bill to establish an experimental laboratory for cotton research in order that new markets for cotton might be found. Last spring he introduced practically the same bill and it passed both Houses of the Legislature but was vetoed by the Governor.

Mr. Moffett stressed the point that new markets must be found in order to raise the price of cotton. The government is doing the best it can about the present cotton situation but if cotton markets were available the government cotton plans would not be needed.

"The competition of the foreign countries was not felt until last year but now it has hit hard," Mr. Moffett said. The compresses are filled to capacity due to lack of exports and markets.

There are about seven million bales of cotton used in the United States per year and there will be approximately eighteen million bales grown this year, thus leaving a surplus of about eleven million bales to be added to the surplus on hand before the 1937 crop, Mr. Moffett pointed out.

There is not much chance to get the cotton laboratory because the governor will not submit the bill to the legislature, but there is hope that something can be done, Mr. Moffett stated, because of the fact that there are many new uses that can be found for cotton. In giving a few examples, Mr. Moffett told of its use in manufacture of automobiles, making of cellophane and the construction of roads.

Giving further reasons why a cotton research laboratory should be established in Texas Mr. Moffett stated that Wisconsin, a lumber state, had established a wood laboratory to protect wood prices and the plan is working today. Nebraska has a wheat laboratory and Illinois a soy bean laboratory. An automobile manufacturer has stated that he may build an entire car body from soy beans. Mr. Moffett stated that the establishment of a cotton laboratory was a duty owed to the people of Texas, the largest cotton growing and exporting state, and should have been done twenty-five years ago, but the governor does not seem to be interested in that direction.

In concluding his cotton problem discussion, Mr. Moffett pointed out the fact that new markets must be found before next year's crop or the surplus will be increased and the price of cotton will be lowered.

In the latter part of his talk Mr. Moffett told of the activities of the special session of the legislature just past. He stated that the failure of action on the taxation bills presented was due to a deadlock among the 150 members of the lower house. He gave a jury as an example to illustrate the point. He stressed the point of the difficulty of twelve people to decide a question and then compared the same thing to 150 persons trying to decide on a bill.

According to Mr. Moffett, the session turned into an "umbrella session" in which the members of the legislature attempted to levy taxes on a group that would not include them, or "tax the other fellow." Any taxes are undesirable and a solution to the question of taxes that must be raised to take care of the new amendments accepted by the people of Texas last summer was not found at the extra session.

He stated that he was not in favor of the $15,000,000 tax bill submitted at the session but was in favor of taxes for the two new amendments and for more money for the old age pension. He revealed the fact that if the pension rolls were "screwed down" that only negroes and Mexicans would be left, and for that reason the rolls should be left as they are.

A $4,000,000 tax bill would have paid the two amendments and this bill passed the lower house but the committees from the upper and lower house could not agree and Christian Science Church Sunday School at 10 a. m. Sunday services at 11 a. m. Wednesday evening services at 8 o'clock. Sunday, Nov. 14, 1937. Subject: "Mortals and Immortals." The public is cordially invited.

Christian Science Services "Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Nov. 14.

The Golden Text is: "Because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ" (Galatians 4: 6, 7).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory" (Colossians 3: 4).

Two Minute Sermon

Why Should I Attend Church? Why should a man go to church? I have had the question directed to me a number of times when I have approached men in the matter of church attendance. There are many answers to the question, but the basic one, I think, is that man should attend church for the purpose of spiritual renewal. The essential element of the Christian religion is spiritual contact. Without it religion becomes mere mechanics rather than the communion of the individual soul with the infinite. When the battery in our radio runs down, we must connect it with a source of new power, that it may be recharged and renewed. Everything else about the radio may be in perfect order, the tubes, the aerial, the amplifier and the condenser. There may be the most beautiful music riding on the waves of the ether, the most inspiring addresses, the very things our heart and life is hungering for and that we need to carry on, but if the battery is run down we are deprived of their blessing and their needed strength and upbuilding, because we cannot make contact and cannot hear them. The body needs food to keep alive its physical functions. All plant life must receive sustenance from some outside source, or disintegration and decadence soon takes place. The same is true of man. He cannot starve his physical life and maintain a strong, robust, beautiful physical body, and he cannot starve his spiritual life and maintain a strong spiritual life. As the life of the radio battery must be renewed, so man must visit the source of spiritual strength, that his spirit may be fed and renewed. This is best done in the service of his church.

WAR'S A PIKER IN DEATH PRODUCTION

Day after day America hears the call to arms in a fight against war and its ravages. Bloody war is staggering in its toll. No one can deny the right of the thinker to question organized senseless slaughter.

Yet almost unnoticed in the company of the noisier showman, war, goes an even more dangerous killer—the motorized murderer. Only recently awakened to the threat of this by-product of progress, America is still willing to tolerate its death toll which is greater, year for year, than all this country's wars combined.

The Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the War between the States, the Spanish-American War, and the World War all amounted to 15 years of fighting with a total of 245,000 American soldiers killed.

During the last 14 years from 1925 through 1936, there have been 380,000 American men, women and children killed in automobile accidents.

It seems at once appalling and amazing that Americans, while concerned in denouncing warfare by an authorized enemy, will tolerate a civil war wherein American kill Americans in still larger totals.

The only possible solution to a problem which for this country should rank second to no other is constant and aggressive authoritative education for the public, alert and sympathetic co-operation with authority by the driving public.

Insurance on grades is the newest thing at Emory University. The enterprising young men have organized an agency which will insure students up to $100 against failing a course. They will even insure against not making an "A." The rates are computed on the basis of what grades the student generally makes, what system of grading the Prof. uses, and how difficult the exams are. All business transactions are kept secret so that the faculty will not know which of their students are insured and for what grade.—The Reville.

FFA BOYS HELP RID STUDY HALL OF BATS

Representatives of the local FFA chapter helped Pat McDaniel run bats out of the study hall last Thursday afternoon. The bats have taken to the study hall of the high school building since the old grammar grades building has been destroyed. They had gained access to the weight boxes of the windows from small crevices above and had created a terrible odor.

A two-gallon spray, belonging to the V. A. department was used to spray chemicals into the hiding places. Parts of the windows were removed and 36 bats were actually killed and about 200 driven out.

Glendon Russell, Wayne Cobb and Franklin Evans helped on the job.

V. A. CLASSES MAKE FIELD TRIP TO SEE TRENCH SILO

Both classes of the Vocational Agriculture made a field trip Thursday, Nov. 4, to see actual operation taking place in a trench silo at D. E. Todd's farm. The boys had studied the theory and reasons for putting feed up in a trench in class but had never actually seen it done. Each boy placed a few bundles in the trench, examined the quality and condition of the feed and then calculated the tonnage capacity of the trench and the number of acres of feed required to fill it.

It was found to be 6 feet wide at the bottom and 7 feet at the top, 5 feet deep and 80 feet long. Figuring about 3 cubic feet of ensilage per 100 pounds, the boys figured that it would hold about forty-three tons of feed. A patch of 11 acres was required to fill it. The feed was extra green and very little water was needed to put it in good shape for ensilage.

The actual cost of digging, cutting and hauling of the forty-three tons of feed was about thirty dollars in all. This will make feed cost about seventy cents per ton. Twenty to twenty-five pounds of ensilage per day is counted a feeding for a mature cow. At this rate it will cost less than a cent per day to feed a cow.

V. A. II CLASS WORK

The Vocational Agriculture Class has been studying the control of worms in poultry during the past week. Three specimens from different flocks were brought in Friday and the boys performed a post-mortem examination on them. The birds' general appearance was noted before death and then a careful check was made to see if it had a worm infection. All three revealed both tape and round worms.

The boys decided that most of the flocks of Foard County were wormy and needed treatment. These worms are forerunners of a good many poultry diseases and they cut down the profits from the flock.

Tracks in Snow Give Wild Animal Census

Following animal tracks in fresh snow is one of the ways to take a census of certain kinds of wild life—particularly of some of the fur-bearing animals. The Bureau of Biological Survey sometimes has definite need for a fairly accurate count of the mammals or birds in a given area, perhaps to determine bag limits, or to reveal whether a protective method is working well or needs revision.

Following the tracks in snow—backward or forward—leads the census taker to dens or burrows, but this does not reveal how many animals may be living in a den. Further study of the snow trails, however, yields such information to an experienced observer.

Each animal in a den has a distinctive footprint that varies from the others in length. When the tracks from a den diverge a train-

Warning Pink Color Added to Arsenicals

The housewife who carelessly uses lead arsenate or calcium arsenate in cooking instead of flour in the future will have no excuse except that she is color blind, for manufacturers of these insecticides have decided to color them a distinctive pink.

Many cases of accidental food poisoning occur because arsenicals are stored in pantry shelves alongside flour, soda, baking powder, and similar white powdered foods. The arsenicals are likewise white powders, and have no distinctive odor to warn the careless cook.

Calcium arsenate is used widely for spraying and dusting vegetables for pest control, and lead arsenate is used for fruits.

For years the Federal Food and Drug Administration has warned the public of this danger, but reports of food poisoning continue to appear in the papers. Only a few weeks ago several persons working in a mining camp in a western state were seriously stricken after eating flapjacks in which an insecticide was used instead of flour.

Regardless of the precautions of manufacturers, says W. G. Campbell, Chief of the Food and Drug Administration, arsenicals and other dangerous insecticides should be kept out of the reach of children. The garage or shed is the place for insecticides, not the pantry shelf.

TEXAS BUSINESS HAS STRONG UPWARD TREND

Austin.—In contrast to a current downward tendency of business in the country at large, Texas business continued during the last thirty days its strong upward trend, the gain from August to September having been almost as great as that from July to August, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. After adjustment for seasonal variation the composite index for September is 105.6, compared with 103 for August and 91.7 for September, 1936, an increase of 14 per cent over last year. The index is expressed as a percentage of the average month in 1930 which is used as a base.

"Each of the components of the index for September made sharp gains over the preceding month, except that of payrolls, for which the decline—98.9 to 98.7—was almost negligible," Dr. Buechel said. "The index of employment rose from 94.4 to 96.6; miscellaneous freight carloadings, from 81.4 to 94.1; runs of crude oil to stills from 176.3 to 182.3; department store sales from 110 to 115.3, and electric power consumption from 124 to 129."

"Compared with September last year, each component of the index made a wide gain. The index of employment increased from 88.4 to 96.6; payrolls from 80.5 to 98.7; miscellaneous freight carloadings from 79 to 84; runs of crude oil to stills, 150.6 to 182.3; department store sales 101.5 to 115.3; and electric power consumption, 106.8 to 129.2."

ed observer can quickly measure with his eye—or with a scale—the various sets of footprints, and can then jot down an accurate estimate of the number of animals in the den and their approximate age groups. For uniformity the animal census takers usually use the length of the hind foot print in recording the count.

With some animals—deer and elk in particular—spotting from an airplane has proved quick, reliable, and more economical than trying to count from the ground. Airplane counts are also helpful in estimating the number of wild fowl on water areas.

Driving Tests to Be Given in Every County in State

Austin, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Fifty specially trained examiners of the Department of Public Safety will begin holding examinations in every county of the state next Monday for drivers applying for their first license. Col. H. H. Carmichael, public safety director, has announced.

Schedules outlined by driver's license officials will permit each county seat city to be visited by two uniformed examiners one day each week. Applicants will be given physical and driving ability tests before they are issued a license. Eyesight examinations, including tests for color blindness, ability to read and understand highway signals and traffic regulations, and the operation of a vehicle under ordinary traffic conditions are the principal phases of the examinations.

Drivers who are learning to operate vehicles will be given a driving instruction permit which expires between 30 and 90 days after issuance. Chauffeurs' licenses are divided into three classes, A, B, and C, depending upon the types of vehicles the applicants propose to operate. Passenger and school bus drivers will be required to have class A or B licenses bearing a special endorsement of the department.

Not only will drivers be examined before a license is issued to them, but their vehicles must undergo tests for defective brakes, lights, horn and windshield wipers.

Daily testing schedules are arranged for 17 Texas cities in which highway patrol stations are maintained. They are: El Paso, Big Spring, Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Tyler, Houston and Beaumont.

Although these tests apply only to drivers seeking their first permits, safety experts point to these types of examinations as a definite means of reducing the high mortality and accident toll on Texas highways.

Following is the schedule for the examinations:

In the round table discussion in which everyone participated, an attempt was made to answer the following questions:

What are the effects of 4-H Club work on the girls who participate?

How many club women, sponsors, and other adults help girls to make the most of their opportunities and responsibilities as 4-H Club members?

What is the relation of the 4-H Club to the school?

What is the relation of the 4-H Club to the council and women's clubs?

Local FSA Supervisor Gets FDA Work Here

Direction of farm debt adjustment work is now in the hands of the local staff of the Farm Security Administration, in place of an itinerant supervisor who visited the county once a month, it was announced by Julian Wright, county supervisor. He will handle the work jointly with the volunteer debt adjustment committee of the county.

Farmers who need help with their debts, whether they are to borrow from the Farm Security Administration or not, are eligible for this help, the supervisor said, and should come to his office to make application for this service.

The committee will function as it has in the past, and farmers may contact these committees at any time but are particularly invited to attend the monthly meeting held every third Saturday.

A small group of FDA specialists has been retained by the regional office for advisory work, and will spend a week at a time in each district to help with acute cases, and with cases involving a great amount of technical assistance.

This service is also available to farm creditors who believe an arbitrator can help clean up delinquent indebtedness.

This group was set up by order of the President for the purpose of bringing financial advice to farm debtors and creditors, in an effort to help avoid so many foreclosures. "We are no more interested in helping the farmer who is in distress than we are the farm creditor," the supervisor explained.

"This is not a movement to help farmers avoid honest debts, but an effort to help sincere farmers and creditors work out new terms whereby the farmer will not lose his working capital and yet satisfy the creditor. This help does not cost either party anything."

Food Demonstrator Likes Work; Sums Up Results of Year

"When I took the demonstration I thought I just couldn't do even part of it, but when I got to work on it, I rather enjoyed it very much, and am proud of the results," said Mrs. W. J. Garrett, home food supply demonstrator for the Gambleville Home Demonstration Club in summing up her work for the year.

Mrs. Garrett has canned two hundred pints of fruits and vegetables for her family of two, stored a peck of onions and potatoes. Her canned vegetables include peas, beans, corn and beets.

"Tomatoes and leafy vegetables proved to be more difficult to raise than other products, so other plans were made for providing them. Mrs. Garrett has a flock of about sixty hens and sells eggs weekly. With this income and that from selling cream she provides canned tomatoes and enough leafy vegetables to supplement her canned supply.

Twenty-five cents for lime and a few hours work made the cellar a much lighter and more attractive place for storing the canned products. The cellar has concrete walls and a dirt floor. Both ceiling and walls were whitewashed and the cellar is now light enough to read the jar labels at any time during the day.

Ventilated shelves were constructed in the cellar. These were placed about eleven inches apart. There are four shelves about eight feet long, providing sufficient space for all of the products to be canned. The products were organized, those least likely to spoil being placed on the top shelf and the protein foods on the bottom. All of the shelves are attractively labeled and there is "a place for everything and everything in its place."

The final quarterly conference of the Margaret-Thalia Charge of the Methodist Church will meet at Thalia Friday night, Nov. 12.

Rev. Cal C. Wright, presiding elder of the Vernon District, will be present and have charge. Every member is invited to be present. The officials are especially urged to be there as this will be the final session of the year.

Next Sunday will be the last services of this conference year. The pastor will preach at Thalia and hopes that all members will be there. Visitors are invited to all of these services.—E. A. Irvine.
