Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the Lord hath wrought this? In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind.—Job 12:9, 10.

Within the last few months there has been, in this country, several instances in which men have committed murder and have escaped the payment of any penalty because of their ability to employ attorneys who based their defense on the fact that the murderer was insane at the time of the act.

The problem of overproduction which the federal government is trying to meet suggests that this government made a mistake in allowing so much land to be brought under cultivation. It should be held in federal reserve to be released for cultivation only as needed by a growing population.

It is generally conceded that the thing that will win the war for China is time. If the Chinese can contrive to drag the war out over a long period Japan will become exhausted in financial resources.

It appears the Mexican government, after having taken over the oil wells of the country, are unable to market the oil, and many of the wells are shut down.

Even the style in obituaries changes. Forty years ago it was customary in an obituary to eulogize and make a saint of the deceased.

It is generally conceded that even after recovery comes there will continue to be unemployment of unskilled labor.

Punishment for kidnapers will not be adequate until the law devises some means of inflicting upon kidnapers suffering and mental anguish equal in every way to that suffered by parents of kidnaped children.

HISTORY OF AGRICULTURE STORY OF GROWTH OF WEST

The history of American agriculture is in many respects a travesty. It is a story of a steady movement westward by land seeking families until the Pacific coast was reached, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

The American Revolution opened lands formerly owned by England to colonization and settlement; the Louisiana purchase in 1803 opened more to the settlers; the treaty with Mexico in 1848 gave the United States California, New Mexico, and Arizona, and resulted in annexation of Texas.

By 1890 the American farmer faced a new situation. Almost all of the desirable western lands which had seemed inexhaustible were fenced in and used for grazing or were under cultivation.

Acts of parliament, published with blue covers, is the only blue book of England.

Scientists and archeologists tell us that twenty-one civilizations have come and gone on this earth. We are not told what it was that wiped them all out, but it is not a remote possibility that war may wipe out the present civilization if present trends continue.

COUNTY VOTERS ADDRESSED BY GOSSETT HERE

Congress Candidate Tells Platform in Talk Saturday

Ed Gossett spoke in Crowell to the Foard County citizens at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. By way of introduction, Candidate Gossett pointed out that two years ago in his race for congress he carried 8 out of 15 counties in this congressional district.

For Agricultural Stability Ed Gossett discussed at length what he termed Plank No. 1 in his platform. Outlining numerous things he deemed to be necessary to promote the welfare of the farmers, Gossett stated among the farmers' troubles was T. & L. Tariff.

Gossett's program further called for tariff adjustments to lower prices on some commodities the farmer must purchase. It was pointed out that wheat sold in many foreign countries for more than $1.00 per bushel, while selling here at 60c per bushel, and that American farm tractors sold in Russia some $300 cheaper than they did in America.

He discussed other planks in his platform, including a plank on debts and taxes, in which he advocated that no further tax exempt securities be issued by the Government. It was further stated by the candidate that his concern was for the small business man; the small merchant; the small farmer and the laborer.

Whatever else he has done or may do in the campaign, O'Daniel has crippled the McCraw campaign seriously. The attorney general started out as the master showman, who capitalized for months on his hearty, half-fellow-well-met attitude, his funny stories and his wise cracks.

Making Nails by Hand Making of nails by hand for shipment abroad was one of the earliest industries, colonists of pre-Revolutionary days using ore they found here in shaping nails for shipment to the mother country.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Another Race Warms Up

Nobody is paying much attention to other State races, with interest in the gubernatorial situation intensified by the O'Daniel boom. But in the Attorney General's race Judge Ralph Yarborough made slashing attacks at Houston and elsewhere upon the record of Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul.

This column has pointed out on several occasions that voters will do well to remember, in listening to promises of all the candidates that there are three branches of the State government, and that the greatest of these is the legislature.

Turnover Is Small There may be considerable turnover in the make-up of the next House, but not as great as in some other recent years.

Austin Excited They declare the people are disgusted with the conventional politicians, and the O'Daniel boom is a spontaneous protest by the people, with characteristics similar to the uprising of the people in the Roosevelt victory in 1932.

Has Hurt McCraw Whatever else he has done or may do in the campaign, O'Daniel has crippled the McCraw campaign seriously.

What ever else he has done or may do in the campaign, O'Daniel has crippled the McCraw campaign seriously. The attorney general started out as the master showman, who capitalized for months on his hearty, half-fellow-well-met attitude, his funny stories and his wise cracks.

So the reader can take his choice—and he'll find plenty support for either viewpoint in the hotel lobbies and around the headquarters in Austin.

WHAT WE THINK (By Frank Dixon)

If one were to select the one thing that the majority of small town Chambers of Commerce, Community Clubs or Commercial Organizations bring up for discussion and over which more time and thought and study is spent than any other one thing of community interest, it is the matter of an industry for the community, something that will furnish employment and will provide a payroll.

In the majority of instances when this matter is discussed these organizations look out over the field of industry and select some project that appeals and proceed to appoint committees and organize a campaign to secure it.

Unfortunately most of these efforts are doomed to failure to land the industry, and, in a large number of instances if the industry is secured, it does not prosper in its new field.

As a result its backers are out their money, and the community experiences a disappointment. In the course of time this is forgotten and another and another effort usually commendable is made and it too, often meets with failure.

There are perhaps two reasons why this unfortunate experience of small towns has become to be almost the rule.

The first reason is that most such industries start in on too big a scale. Lacking direction training body over 65 are not going to be voted by the Legislature. It is likely reasonable grants will be provided for blind, for children, and for teachers, since the people have approved these measures.

An eligible unemployed man receive unemployment benefits his first "compensable" week following the waiting period not less than two weeks. If a claim with the Employment Service after the compensable check in from eight to ten days.

To Dream of a Wedding To dream of a wedding foretells happiness, according to a writer in Tit-Bits Magazine. It is particularly lucky to dream of being an onlooker at a wedding, but should there be anything unusual, such as eccentric behavior or strange clothing, it signifies distressing news in connection with marriage. To dream of being the bride or the bridegroom if unmarried indicates that you will soon take a prominent part at a wedding. If married it is an indication that all is not well in your own married life. The flowers carried by the bride have particular significance as they foretell the extent of married happiness to be expected by those concerned. For example, roses are a sign of long and happy marriage, ivy is a warning of a parting.

Wetter Than Water Water permeates certain substances more rapidly and thoroughly than others, and manufacturers of textiles institute tests to discover materials that are impervious to water and in what degree. But certain textiles take a considerable period to become thoroughly saturated, some cotton fibers, for instance, being proof against water for days. To accelerate such tests, says London Tit-Bits Magazine, water is made "wetter" by being mixed with a chemical agent, the chief ingredient of which is a synthetic alcohol. It is effective even when mixed with hard water, and penetrates the most resistant substances rapidly.

BULLBAITING POPULAR IN ENGLAND CENTURIES AGO

The name bulldog was applied to the breed about 1650, but as early as 1410 the forerunners of the kind were described in English literature under the names of "alaunt" and "bandog." At that time the English mastiff and the bulldog had much in common.

ADAM IS HEBREW NAME AND MEANS "MAN OF RED EARTH"

"Man of red earth" is the meaning of the Hebrew name, Adam, because the soil of Palestine, from which the first man was created, is red. Adam lived to be 930 years old and his third son, Seth, was the direct ancestor of the Hebrew nation. "Primitive" is a secondary meaning of Adam. The name is sometimes given to the first man-child in a family, notes Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ADAM DE LA HALLE, THIRTEENTH CENTURY FRENCH POET AND DRAMATIST, WROTE THE FIRST COMIC OPERA, "ROBIN AND MARION."

Adam Smith (1723-90) Scottish political economist, wrote "Wealth of Nations" in 1776, a book which ranks first among works on political economy. Adam, Lord Viscount Duncan of Camperdown, was a great British admiral in his day. Adam Clarke (d. 1832) was a British Methodist clergyman whose chief work was an edition of the Scriptures with commentary. Adam Black (1784-1874) Edinburgh publisher, published the Encyclopedia Britannica after Constable's failure in 1827 and succeeded Macaulay in parliament.

BRIDGE ARCHES DIFFERENT IN SIZE

Have you ever seen a bridge in which each arch was a different size? There is such a bridge in Bideford, North Devon, says London Answers Magazine. It spans the River Torridge. The bridge was built by public subscription, and the arches are sized according to the subs from different localities. The arch representing a generous locality would therefore be larger than that of a less open-handed neighbor. Or so local legend has it.
