Federal Income Tax

Personal Exemption

Every individual is allowed a credit against his net income which varies with his domestic status, that is, whether he is (a) a single person, (b) a married person living with husband or wife, or (c) a head of family. This credit is known as personal exemption, and is shown on line 21 of the return Form 1040. The amount of the personal exemption also varies depending upon the period during which the taxpayer occupied the particular exemption status.

The personal exemption for a single person is $500 for the year; for a married person living with husband or wife, $1,200; and for a "head of family," $1,200. (Personal exemption as head of a family has no effect on liability to file a return.) For Federal income tax purposes, widows, widowers, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent, as well as persons who have never been married, are classed as single persons.

A head of family is defined as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for those dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation." A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, may, therefore, enjoy a head of family exemption under certain conditions.

Taxpayers using a Simplified Return (which is permitted if the gross income for the year is $3,000 or less and derived solely from earnings from employment and/or from dividends, interest and annuities) obtain personal exemption based on their status as of July 1 of the year. Thus, a taxpayer married and living with

Your Horoscope

January 18, 19, 20.—You have a keen, discriminating mind, great executive ability, and a good business head. You are a convincing speaker and powerful orator. People follow your lead and have much confidence in your judgment, although they may not always agree with your opinions. You are kind and affectionate in your home, and do an immense amount of good in unsuspected ways.

January 21, 22.—You are usually good natured, and fit gracefully into any condition providing there is not too much responsibility with it, in which event you as gracefully glide out of it. You are good natured and people generally like you.

January 23, 24.—While you sometimes neglect your friends, you are generally loyal to them. You are somewhat changeable in your religious tendencies. You usually overcome the obstacles that get in your way and manage to make money in some way. Possessing an inventive mind you are able to make excuses and give good reasons for the things you do.

Married persons may, however, file joint returns, even though one has no income, and by filing a joint return a couple married during the year may obtain an exemption amounting to the exemption to which they would be entitled for the period of married status, plus the amount of their individual exemptions prior to their marriage. In the example given the total exemption in a joint return would be $1,100 ($250 for each spouse for six months plus $600 for six months married status.)

If a husband and wife living together both have income and file separate returns on Form 1040, the personal exemption applicable to a married person may be taken in the return of either or divided between them in any way as they may agree, but the total personal exemption taken in the two separate returns may not exceed $1,200.

State Law Forbids Selling Used Bedding Not Sterilized

Austin.—In an effort to prevent the spread of disease through bedding, 5,863 second-hand mattresses and other articles of bedding were sterilized during the month of November, 1942, according to a report issued this week by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Since it is estimated that the average individual spends one-third of his life in a sleeping or reclining position, each individual is certainly entitled to sanitation in any used article of bedding that he may purchase," Dr. Cox asserted.

The Texas State Sanitary Bedding Law prohibits the sale of second-hand bedding that has not been sterilized. There are 59 privately owned sterilization vaults in the state that have been approved by the State Health Department, and these sterilization vaults operate under the inspection and supervision of the State Health Department.

Before buying a second-hand mattress, pillow, featherbed, studio couch, or any other used article of bedding, Dr. Cox declared that the purchaser should demand to see the sterilization tag that is required by law to be affixed to all such articles offered for sale. This sterilization tag bears a statement that the bedding has been germicidally treated by a method approved by the State Health Department, and is the public's guarantee of health protection in the purchase of used bedding.

slowly off the land." Stalk burning robs the soil of needed humus, and burns drainage-ways, turnrows and along fences. Most harmful insects are not killed by such fires. They lay their eggs too deeply to be reached by fire. Burning pastures may bring some earlier tender grazing in the spring, but exposed to the rays of the sun, as it will be, it soon disappears and the total yield of grass will be greatly reduced. The after effect is more noxious weeds and increased erosion. Burning for five successive years will lessen the tonnage of grass by more than 50 per cent, the specialist says.

less plentiful, and it will be one of the next items to be rationed. Fruits and vegetables are the big question mark in this year's food production, Miss Gamp says, so homemakers will be smart not only to grow their own, if possible, but to waste none, learn about their food values, and overcome dislikes and whims about certain foods.

CONSERVE THE SOIL

College Station, Jan. 11.—The most important new year's resolution a farmer can make is to pledge himself to stop the rich soil of his farm from washing and blowing away. Such a resolution, says Paul G. Haines of the A. & M. College Extension staff, can be fulfilled by adopting conservation practices which will make the land more productive. He is the specialist in soil and water conservation. Overgrazing, plowing up-and-down hill, and burning of grass and stalks are open invitations to water and wind erosion. Haines points out. Gullies and ditches tend to grow deeper on pastures which are grazed too closely, resulting in the washing of much good soil before a new growth of grass appears. Hillside fields, eroded beyond profitable cropping, yet too steep to terrace, could be made productive by sodding to Bermuda or some other adapted grass during January and February. Planting trees might perform an equal service. Practice shows that there is less loss of soil and crop yields are increased when rows are run on the contour. Contouring gives the soil a chance to soak up water which will be needed later. "The water walks off the land instead of running when rows run up and down a slope," Haines explains. "The farmer should do all those things necessary to slow the speed of free water. Fast running water causes the erosion. Make it walk

FOOD PICTURE FOR 1943

College Station, Jan. 11.—What food rations civilians are assured this year will depend largely on the weather, on farmers' ability to get labor, machinery, and fertilizer, and on the complex processing and transportation industries. For that reason, many forward-looking homemakers in villages and small towns will be resolving, along with rural women, to grow as much of the family's food supply as possible. Jennie Camp, specialist in home production planning for the A. & M. College Extension Service, says some predictions about 1943 food supplies may help these homemakers with their planning. For example, the supply of cereals—flour and grain foods—will be ample. For civilians, the supply of fats and oils will be shorter, so meals in 1943 will include less fried foods, gravies, and oily dressings. Sugar supplies likely will be shorter, too, because of the transportation situation. Consumers can expect larger quantities of sweet potatoes and dried beans and peas in 1943. However, the carry-over of white potatoes is not as large as usual, Miss Camp says. The total milk supply may average about the same as last year, but war needs may mean less milk for civilians. More poultry for meat is in prospect, but eggs may be less plentiful. Meat is almost certain to be

L. A. Warren, President of Safeway Stores, and a nationally known figure in the food supply field, has presented some interesting figures for public consideration. Following the government's announced plan for rationing of canned goods, Mr. Warren said:

"Somewhere along the line a lot of canned goods have disappeared. I don't believe that food has been consumed. It is around, either in packed pantries or in warehouses of speculators, or still in the canneries. "One of the situations is the disappearance of the pea pack. The pack in the past has been between 12,000,000 and 23,000,000 cases. This year the government said it wanted 12,000,000 cases. So the pack was upped to 35,000,000 cases. Yet the supply of canned peas has disappeared in sixty days. All people must join in plans to save or distribute needed food supplies. Grocery stores are doing their best to apportion food fairly to make supplies go around, before compulsory rationing is inaugurated. All of us can cooperate and help in this necessary task. We all know what a run on a bank will do. A run on a food supply will accomplish the same result—misery for all the people.—Industrial News-Review.

True courage and courtesy go hand in hand. The bravest men are the most forgiving and the most anxious to avoid quarrels. —Thackeray.

Because the extent of our actual participation in the war has been sharply stepped up, the demand for the needs of defense is going to result in a sharp curtailing of all things available for civilian consumption. There will be fewer things to buy in all lines. There will be plenty of some kinds of food but far less variety. Many lines will disappear from merchant's shelves entirely and many stores will be forced to close during the next six months because they will be unable to secure sufficient merchandise to remain in business. The first squeeze was noted shortly after the first of year. From then on there will be a gradual tapering off for many. This isn't a rosy picture if it is true, but it is a true picture as the experts see it. It might be the smart thing to do to figure that it is a true picture and to make plans accordingly. If these predictions do not all come true well and good. If they do come true, we can be ready for them.

The drift of the times is toward socialism. Many of the New Deal reforms are socialistic in their tendencies and in their effect. The general trend of legislation is to take from the haves and give to the have nots. It is natural that in the general application of such a principle that many who have acquired savings through long years of sacrifice, self-denial, and hard work are going to see these savings dipped into by the tax gatherer and given with lavish hand to those who have never made a pretense of saving, but have spent as they went. The new order seems to attach a stigma to the haves and to glorify the have nots.

As we see it the biggest mistake the rationing authorities have made is in announcing in advance items to be rationed. Why come out six or eight weeks in advance of the effective date of the rationing with the announcement that cheese or soap is to be rationed in six weeks. The next week the newspapers and the radios state that in only five weeks cheese and soap will be rationed. The next week only four weeks remain before the effective date of the rationing. Why not say nothing about it until the effective date and then make the announcement? Under the system used consumers are badgered into hoarding scarce items. Oftimes it is the fact of the hoarding that creates the scarcity.

Some folks are complaining of the rationing program because it restricts buying of sugar, coffee, meats, fuel oil and gasoline. Did you ever stop to think that if the rationing program did not restrict buying of some things that there would be no need for it at all? All the rationing program is trying to do is to divide the available supply of items on which there is a shortage equitably among all the people so that everyone will get a fair share.

Humblety is an element of greatness because it is a sign of knowledge of greater things yet to be attained.

HISTORY

Birthday of "Stonewall" Jackson—January 21: Thomas Jonathan Jackson was born in West Virginia, January 21, 1842. He entered the United States Military Academy at West Point from which he graduated in the upper third of his class. He was sent almost immediately after his graduation to Mexico. He distinguished himself at Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo and Chapultepec and was brevetted a major within eighteen months after his graduation. Following this he was stationed at Fort Columbus and Fort Hamilton in New York Harbor from 1848 to 1851. In 1851 he accepted an appointment as professor of Military Institute at Virginia Military Institute at Lexington and resigned from the army. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was ordered to Harper's Ferry as a colonel of infantry. On June 17, 1861 he was promoted to the rank of brigadier general and participated in the battle of Bull Run. It was here because of his successful resistance of the Federal troops that he received his name "Stonewall." He was regarded as a brilliant soldier. General Lee, depended upon him to carry out many of his plans. While engaged in reconnoitering in the front of his lines on May 2, 1863, his own men mistook him for a Federal officer and fired, wounding his right hand. It became necessary to amputate the arm. Jackson died from pneumonia as a result of the operation May 10, 1863.

DO YOU KNOW THAT.....

Relief to China through American Red Cross has reached an estimated 4,245,000 persons, including 1,600,000 children.

All Red Cross Motor Corps members are trained in first aid. Sunrooms in military hospitals and recreation rooms in army camps and naval stations are furnished and decorated through Red Cross Camp and Hospital Service, not by solicitation of money, but through donations of furniture, materials, and labor. The American Red Cross has furnished relief to more than 20,000,000 war victims in the three years since the war began.

Married women may now become Red Cross First Reserve Nurses for service in the Army Nurse Corps.

Red Cross field directors at army camps are available at any time to help solve problems of servicemen.

The Army and Navy have asked the Red Cross to supply 2,500,000 pints of blood before July 1, 1943.

Representatives of Red Cross and Red Crescent societies of Great Britain, Egypt, South Africa, and Iran have co-operated to bring relief to more than 600,000 residents of Eritrea, Abyssinia, Egypt, Palestine, Lebanon, Syria, Turkey, Iran, Libya, and Cyprus.

Seven American Red Cross chapters are located outside the continental United States, two being in Japanese-occupied Philippine Islands and Guam.

Red Cross home nursing training is not designed to eliminate the service of the physician and graduate nurse, but to lighten the demands upon them by providing instruction on prevention of disease and care of minor illnesses in the home.

Only 6 of the 48 states escaped floods, tornadoes, forest fires, or other natural disasters during the year ended June 30, 1942, and the Red Cross aided 72,434 victims of these disasters.

Red Cross Home Service provides a means of assisting disabled servicemen and their dependents, and dependents of deceased servicemen present claims for pensions and other government benefits.

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

I am still of the same opinion I expressed a year ago in this column that a sales tax is not only a wise and a fair tax to help finance the war, but that it eventually is going to become necessary. By its failure to pass the sales tax over a year ago Congress has lost the country hundreds of millions of dollars of revenue that it might as well have had.

For the past year and over the workers of the nation have been receiving in wages more money than there is being produced goods for civilian use. This situation, in spite of all ceiling and spending curbs, tends to create greater competition in buying and contributes to inflation—and inflation, in my opinion, is the nation's greatest internal economic peril.

There are also a number of other valid lessons in favor of the sales tax as a war measure. Many are making more money than they have ever made before—or perhaps will ever make again. When the war ends many of these will be out of employment for a time at least and will have no money with which to pay taxes. The war will be over but a big debt will still be with us. We will find ourselves in the position of paying for an expensive dead horse.

Obviously it would be better, wiser, smarter to pay for the war while we are in it and while we are benefiting from the abnormal economic situation that war always produces, by means of a sales tax.

The other day one of our home town girls who has a position in a war industry came home for Christmas. She has a position in a defense industry and is earning five or six times as much as she earned in peace time. She is spending as she earns. Every dollar of her income goes into competitive buying on an under-supplied market and the government receives nothing in return. She pays no tax of any kind. There are hundreds of thousands like her in this country.

The sales tax, unlike any other tax that can be levied, will not lay an extra tax burden upon the money spent for war bonds, the payment of old debts or for life insurance premiums. It affects only the things of which there is a scarcity and the purchase of which will tend to create inflation.

With the sales tax in force the Victory tax should be abolished. It was never anything but an abortion of the sales tax. It was levied because at that time it was impossible to secure the enactment of a sales tax due to administration objection and opposition.

Employers will be compelled, beginning January 1, 1943, to deduct 5 per cent each week from the pay checks of all those receiving more than $12 weekly. The Victory tax, while not being as fair or as equitable as the sales tax, will add to the book work of all employers and compel many of the employers to hire more bookkeepers and accountants.

The sales tax on the other hand is easily handled, economical to collect and administer. It is easy to pay because it is paid in small amounts from day to day and requires no expensive bookkeeping on the part of the employer.

It is my belief that most people do not object to paying a sales tax for the support of the war because they feel it is a fair tax. It is easy to understand, requires a minimum of administration expense and is fair, just and equitable.

The first act of the new Congress should be to repeal the Victory tax and put in its place the sales tax.

30 YEARS AGO IN THE NEWS

The items below were taken in whole or in part from the issue of The News of Jan. 17, 1913: There are fewer lawyers in the Texas Legislature than ever before in the history of that body, according to the roster. A striking feature of the Legislature heretofore has been the large number of lawyers in both houses. This session, however, there will be scarcely enough lawyers to give the necessary legal advice in framing the statutes that will be introduced.

The sky seems to be the only limit to Texas steer prices. L. F. Wilson of Foard County, sold a few days ago 225 head of steers for spring delivery, of the yearling class, at $38. This is the highest price heard of so far, although all steer prices are very high in the state.

Judge Robert Cole was in Benjamin the first of the week on business.

L. N. Johnson, who moved to Tell a few months ago, is here this week on business.

Miss Mae Majors of Memphis has accepted a position with Alice-Henry & Co., as stenographer and bookkeeper.

Ben Hinds is this week moving to the farm, and will make a crop this year, but says that he will be a city man again before the year is out.

Dr. F. J. Craddock, Government Farm Demonstrator for this county, returned the first of the week from College Station, where he has been attending the Short Course in agriculture and stock judging by the A. & M. College.

Miss Mattie Klepper came up from Truseott Friday, and Misses Brown, Simpson and Board accompanied her, spending Saturday and Sunday here as her guests.

Rev. W. R. Magill left Sunday after spending a week here conducting a B. Y. P. U. school. A number received their certificates at 11 o'clock services Sunday, having attended the entire week.

Those who had an idea that the cotton crop in Foard County would be short this year, now see how far they missed their guess. It is yet coming in, and some of the gins are running six days in the week. It will be some weeks yet before the staple is all gathered.

You can get in the scrap over there by getting in your scrap over here.

BEHIND THE LINES

The most far-reaching speech of the past generation from the standpoint of preserving individual liberty under our American form of government, was made by United States Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Democrat, on December 8, 1942.

Without rancor or partisanship, he shows that we face a danger at home, not so much from our enemies "as from the ideology which made those enemies prepare and precipitate the war, the ideology of the authoritarian state."

We are rapidly drifting toward the totalitarian idea that the state is the master and that the individual has no rights which the state must respect. The Senator traces the growth of bureaucracy in our country up to the moment, and shows that it is but a short step from the point at which we now are to the European theory of the authoritarian state.

"If we believe, as the founders of this nation did, in a separation of the powers of government into the legislative, the executive and the judicial, and if we look for the restoration of that balance after the war, then it is imperative that we should at least make ourselves acquainted with the recent trends of government," said Senator O'Mahoney.

He then cites from the record to demonstrate how executive orders and acts of bureaus have developed a new executive legislative function. He shows how "a new manifestation of the expansion of executive power became evident, namely the tendency, by interpretation, to expand the power and authority given by statute. The recent remarkable salary limitation by the Director of Economic Stabilization is a case in point. Again the re-writing by regulation of the provisions of the recent price control amendments to encourage agricultural production, by which the intent of Congress was defeated to make effective the intent of the bureaus, is another illustration.

"To say that Congress intended to surrender its legislative function would, of course, be the sheerest nonsense. "Advocates of a new order opposed to democracy have reached their conclusions because they believe that the modern world has become so complex that people can no longer govern themselves as they did in the handicraft era, but must be governed by experts who will tell them what they ought to do and also what they must do."

Senator O'Mahoney then points out that government by executive order, and bureaucratic pronouncements which sidetrack Congress, is dangerous because a pattern can be set "whereby weak executives surrounded by tremendous concentrated power, will become the instruments of a permanent bureaucracy." — Industrial News-Review.

Chevrolet Dealers Collect 120 Million Pounds Scrap Metal

Detroit, Jan. 15.—More than 120 million pounds of scrap metals—sufficient to build Uncle Sam 20 more submarines, six destroyers and a cruiser—have been collected by the 8,000 Chevrolet dealers in America as a portion of their contribution to the war program.

An activity sponsored by the Victory Service League, patriotic alliance of American motorists supported by Chevrolet dealers, the scrap drive has been a continuing operation, under the general supervision of William E. Holler, Chevrolet general sales manager.

Cumulative totals through November show that hte dealers have collected: 98,946,833 lbs. of iron and steel; 1,099,855 lbs. lead; 197,832 lbs. copper; 171,943 lbs. brass; 104,827 lbs. aluminum, and 1,598,668 lbs. of other metals.

In addition, 7,129,923 lbs. of scrap rubber have been amassed by Chevrolet dealers to swell Uncle Sam's diminishing rubber stocks. Other items collected included 923,203 lbs. of paper, 205,978 lbs. of rags, 7,088 lbs. of burlap bags, 3,228 lbs. of rope, and 145,054 lbs. of miscellaneous scrap.

In the reporting period dealers junked 6,269 cars and sold another 6,255 cars for scrap. Batteries junked numbered 10,273.

In a letter to all Chevrolet dealers listing these scrap totals, Mr. Holler said:

"Encouraging as the result has been to date, recently inaugurated offensives of the Allied Nations accentuated the need for additional scrap for the production of more tanks, guns, planes and ammunition than ever. To accomplish this, the war production industries will need more scrap than ever. The end of the year means inventory time for most business firms—an ideal time for uncovering obsolete, broken, damaged or idle parts and machinery which could feed the scrap drive. "Scrap can help make 1943 the Victory year."

Don't bet on scraps except the one you'll win by giving your scrap metal to the Army now.

County Agent Gives Information on Cattle Grub Control

D. F. Eaton, Foard County agent, releases some timely information concerning the control of the cattle grub, which causes so much trouble to the cattle growers. He says that if this pest could be controlled or eliminated, the cattle growers could produce most, if not all, the 10 per cent increase in beef, milk and leather the nation needs without raising more cattle or feed.

The heel fly causes serious loss in weight in beef cattle, reduces milk in dairy cattle by chasing them into water holes, or other shelter during the spring months when they should be grazing.

As the grubs reach maturity they produce pus-filled cells beneath the skin on the back of the animals. This lowers the vitality of the animals and prevents normal gain in weight or milk production. It requires 15 per cent more feed to gain the same weight in a grubby animal as compared to one free from grubs.

Records at the Fort Worth stock yards show the following startling facts, that 45 per cent of all animals received are grubby; that an average of two pounds of meat is trimmed from affected parts of infected animals and that loins and ribs, after having been trimmed, have less value; that hides with five or more grub holes in them are devalued one cent per pound, that the average loss to the packer amounts to $3.00 per grubby animal slaughtered, and this, of course, means a reduction of from 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds in the price of the animal. Grubby veal calves are devalued from 1/2 to one cent per pound in price of animal.

Cattle grubs can be economically controlled by the use of 5 per cent rotenone powders (cube or derris) plus wettable sulphur used as a dip, wash, spray or dust as indicated below:

As a dust, 1 lb. cube plus 1 lb. wettable sulphur, will treat about 25 animals at a cost of about 1 1/2 cents per animal.

As a wash 3/4 lb. cube plus 1/2 lb. wettable sulphur mixed with 1 gallon of water will cost about 2 cents per animal and treat about 15 animals.

As a spray, 5 lbs. cube plus 10 lbs. wettable sulphur and 100 gallons of water is sufficient to treat around 30 animals at a cost of 1 cent per animal.

For further details, Mr. Eaton asks that cattle growers see him at the county agent's office.

SOME WILL DIE

A brief news item from a Western city reports an auto accident. The driver was burned to a crisp. In his car were found heat-sealed containers that had held gasoline. Before gas rationing these containers would not have been there; that man would not have died.

A five-gallon can of gasoline in the home, in the garage or in the back of a car can bring almost instant death to anyone in the vicinity. Gasoline does not merely burn. Its fumes in a confined space have the force of dynamite. They will explode without warning, the detonator often being an invisible spark

Mail Gets Through to Jungle Front

Sergt. Joseph H. Ritzheim of Grand Rapids, Mich., is shown as he sorted the first mail to get through from home to the jungle front of New Guinea. The sergeant's "office" is in a jungle clearing on the Sopota front near Buna, where our boys chased out the Japs.

SAFETY SLOGANS

An able body is the reward of safety.

Fire, faithful, fearful foe. Sleep at night—not on the job.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Vinegar added to dry glue will make it usable again.

Put a drop or two of oil or some soap on those squeaky door hinges.

Good way to keep the kitchen table clean while cooking and baking is to keep a shallow pan or utility tray on your work table to hold spoons, measuring cup, knives, etc.

These warnings have been issued in an endeavor to save lives and property. They are not appeals to patriotism. Good excuses by the gas hoarder might avoid the issue of patriotism. But no amount of rationalizing can avoid the prospect of death.—Industrial News-Review.

Well, Folks! Here We Are Again! 1943

We are a little late, but I hope not too late to again thank you, each and everyone who helped in any way whatsoever, by your friendship, good will and your purchases of such merchandise as we were permitted to offer you during 1942, and to express an earnest solicitation that you use us and our store in helping you to obtain and procure your needs during this difficult time (1943) in getting merchandise.

Long, long ago, I saw the difficulty in obtaining the types of good merchandise that we have been used to, and so, I made such purchases of all types of merchandise that I could get at all, and in such quantities as I could hope to pay for and this merchandise has been manufactured and shipped to me all along, and now I have one of the very best stocks of good merchandise, the kind that I have been offering you for years, but which right now it is impossible for me to buy any more (if orders are placed now). I placed some of these orders last fall, and it is all in now.

- BED ROOM SUITES: I have about seventeen nice Suites, genuine mahogany, light and dark finishes, walnuts light and dark, and hardwoods.
- LIVING ROOM SUITES: We have been fortunate in getting several nice Suites, mostly living room suites, but some studio couches and divans, odd pieces, etc.
- DINING ROOM SUITES: We have several very nice dining room suites in both walnut and mahogany, and one very beautiful 8-piece solid oak "Credensa" style Buffet, Table, 6 Chairs.
- BREAKFAST ROOM SUITES: We have several very beautiful breakfast suites, and variously decorated tables and chairs, and several nice kitchen cabinets with porcelain table tops. There is no more porcelain being made now.
- PULL-UP CHAIRS and ROCKERS: I believe I can truthfully say, that I have more pull-up chairs, rockers and platform rockers, living room suites and divans than most any wholesale house in Dallas; lots of small rockers.
- MATTRESSES: Coil Bed Springs, Iron Beds, too.
