County Attorney Issues Warning Against Solicitors

A warning to the people of Crowell and Foard County against persons who travel over the country asking contributions, presenting solicitations for fake advertising schemes, and other tricks by non-residents that enable them to cheat, swindle and defraud, was issued this week by County Attorney Foster Davis.

At a recent meeting of the Farmers and Business Men's Association, it was proposed and adopted by the business men of Crowell that all persons asking for donations would be referred to a committee created by the association and if the donation is to go to a worthy cause, the person would receive a letter of endorsement by the committee. Before giving an endorsement to any non-resident, the committee will make a thorough investigation of the person and his proposal and if it is worthy the endorsement will be given. In the future, if you are approached by any such person, ask to see his letter from the committee, and if he cannot produce it, do not make the donation. Any (Continued on Last Page)

Gov. O'Daniel Given Nomination Again in First Demo Primary

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel became the governor of Texas for the second time in a first Democratic primary when he polled over 53 per cent of the votes cast last Saturday. This year, O'Daniel's campaign was not quite as spectacular as that of two years ago when he toured the state with his musical troupe, but one unique feature of his campaign was the rendition of his own composition, "There Ain't Gonna Be No Run-Off," at all of his speakings.

Crowell and Quana FFA Boys Touring New Mexico, Colorado

A group of members of the Crowell and Quana Chapters of Future Farmers of America, the advisers, M. L. Myers and Francis Todd, and non-members left Crowell Monday morning, July 29, for a seven day tour of Colorado and northern New Mexico. They will visit the Pike's Peak region in Colorado and Cimarron, Raton and Eagle Nest in Northern New Mexico. The group is making the trip in a truck driven by Milton Connell.

Local Youth Returns From Geology Trip In Eagle Mountains

Banks Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Campbell and student in Texas A. & M. College at College Station, returned to his home in Crowell last week from a six-weeks geology field trip in the Eagle Mountains about 100 miles east of El Paso. The trip was sponsored by Texas A. & M. College and the party was composed of six members from various colleges and universities of Texas. The group was headed by Dr. J. Fred Smith of Texas A. & M.

This trip was offered to students as a part of their geology course and the six weeks were spent in studying the north end of the mountain range where different beds were worked out and identified, and ages of various formations were determined. Their work covered about 75 square miles of the range. Mr. Campbell is majoring in geology at Texas A. & M. and is now completing his second year in this work. He brought a number of fossils and samples of rock back to Crowell with him. During the time that the students stayed in the mountains, they lived in an old abandoned adobe hut which was near their work.

Child Drinks Gasoline Here Mon. Afternoon

Through childish curiosity, Bobby Jean, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Spears, drank gasoline last Monday afternoon and barely escaped pneumonia. The child had been watching her father siphon gasoline from a container and when no one was watching she put the hose into the tank, and in drawing her breath through the tube she inhaled and swallowed some of the liquid. She was rushed to a physician for medical attention and is reported to be recovering satisfactorily Thursday morning.

Dr. Hines Clark will leave Friday, August 2, for Cravens, La., to attend the annual Texas National Guard maneuvers. Weldon Cogdell left this week to join his company at Lubbock to attend the maneuvers at Cravens.

64,339 Adult Texans Taught to Read and Write in WPA Classes

San Antonio, July 22.—WPA literacy and citizenship training classes, through which 64,339 adult Texans have been taught to read and write during the past five years, have been the medium also through which 3,299 men and women have attained United States citizenship, it was reported today by Carl W. Huser, state director of the WPA adult education program.

SAFETY SLOGANS

Better wait a minute at the crossing than forever in the cemetery. Carelessness has more power than all the combined armies of the world. You may pour oil on troubled waters but never on the fire. Broken rules have a boomerang effect—they will avenge themselves. Safety means safeguarding the nation, the home and the industry. A flat wheel says: Carelessness, carelessness.

Outbreaks of Food Poisoning Serve As Warning to Texans

Austin.—"Sporadic outbreaks of food poisoning over the state in the past few weeks demonstrate the need for special care in handling and refrigerating any food that must be prepared some time in advance of serving." "Prevention of food poisoning requires clean food handled as little as possible and consumed while it is fresh. Food prepared hours before serving, and allowed to stand at warm temperatures becomes good culture media for bacteria. Cooked products of a perishable nature are readily subject to decomposition, and must be kept well refrigerated. "Most food poisoning is caused by infection by certain types of bacteria which grow rapidly under favorable conditions, such as high temperature and high humidity. The infection may come from dirty hands, utensils, flies, rodents, contaminated water, infected food materials, and in some cases, from certain types of bacteria which spread rapidly and are not necessarily associated with filthy conditions. "Picnic food is particularly susceptible to transmitting food poisoning to the members of the picnic party. Be sure you have fresh, clean food, free from stagnant odors, slime, etc. Prepare all who prepare the food for use to wash their hands thoroughly before handling it. Avoid excessive hand contacts with the food. See that clean containers are used and that special care is exercised in wrapping foods and in protecting them from contamination. "If food is prepared far in advance of its use, cook it thoroughly, and keep it refrigerated or otherwise protected at a temperature under 50 degrees F. until you are ready to use it. Avoid serving foods that are readily infecting, such as the more perishable salads and cream-filled pastries. Any foods that are not to be served immediately should be kept on ice. Milk, ice cream, and dairy products in general should be from approved sources. "Digestive upsets cannot always be blamed on the food served or eaten at an outing. Sometimes excessive heat and humidity combined with over-exertion and over-heating, as well as over-eating help to bring them about. Remember this, and don't indulge in too strenuous exercise when the days are hot and muggy. Don't indulge, either, in unwise combinations of foods," Dr. Cox further warned.

THANKS:

It isn't unmeaning words from my lips, but the sentiment of my heart that I am truly grateful for the support given me in my fatal effort to be commissioner of precinct No. 1. I hold no ill will against anyone, and I hope that they do not against me. The practice of my life in the years gone by, I have been taught to give and take and to respect old people at all times and to keep my nose out of other peoples' affairs as much as possible. Some have asked the question, why I didn't get in the run-off. They could see as good as I when the votes were counted. They say that I was running against the best man in Foard County and the next highest man was the best politician, so a "poor devil" like me didn't have a chance this time. I feel fine about the whole thing for if I am half as good now as the best man at the best politician in Foard County, in two years I will be three-fourths as good, and in four years I will be as good as I live and keep attending to my own business. That is a wonderful lot of consolation for me at this time, for there never has been a man that has ran for public office that hasn't been beaten. Thanks a lot to everybody who helped in any way, shape or form, and from the depths of my heart, may we continue to have peace instead of war, strife and grief. Sincerely yours, DICK CROSNOE Foard City, Texas (Political Advertisement)

ADVERTISING PURGES ITSELF

Down through the history of the United States, only a few advertising rogues have thrived, and those only for short periods.

There was a time, 100 years ago, when capable physicians were rare in this country. People dosed themselves, both with dreadful concoctions made from their gardens, and with patent medicines from the store. Then arose a swarm of nostrums for the "cure" of every disease. These nostrums slew their thousands. Many of them existed for no other purpose than, as has been said, "to make ailing women happily drunk at home."

But the advertising of such pain-killers and fool killers was thrown out by most newspapers and magazines at least 25 years ago, says Nation's Business. As good doctors became more common, the thirst for patent medicine abated. In their wake came some cosmeticians who preyed on women's vanity, wily scoundrels who offered perpetual youth in the form of lotions and creams.

But the success of any article sold in packages depends, of course, on repeat orders. Few if any lasting fortunes have been made by lying proprietors of cosmetics. Women buy once. When they notice no results, except perhaps a rash or eruption, they do not buy again. Most of the permanently advertised beauty preparations are made of ingredients which any dermatologist will tell you are good for the skin. And reputable department stores and drug stores, in recognition of their responsibilities to their customers, will handle no beauty preparations to which women in the mass are allergic at all.

What is true of cosmetics and other packaged goods is also true of everything you see consistently advertised. An advertisement is the worst possible place in which to try to deceive. Deception doesn't work and doesn't pay.

There are three classes of people who never seem to learn anything, the fellow who pours kerosene out of a can onto a burning fire, the jay walker and the fellow who lets a gypsy paw him over and then discovers after she is gone that his pocket has been picked.

We can't help it if we feel a little kinder and a little more friendly with the fellows who give us a share of their business than we do toward those who never throw any business our way. It is just human for one to feel that way.

The opposite to a sane driver is the driver who always insists that he is right, has the right of way and that it is up to the other fellow to look out.

The scarcity of trained workers in the airplane industry and other fields of industry brings one step nearer the time when the school systems of the country will all include a vocational training course. The schools of the future are going to send young men and young women out into the world trained to work with their hands and heads instead of sending them out with their heads crammed full of historical dates, mathematical theories, rules of grammar, and chemical equations that in no wise correlate with anything they find to do later on in the world. The slavish devotion to the three R's as the beginning and the end of education in our schools is a monument of stupidity.

If the depression lasts long enough to bring back into good repute the time honored virtue of thrift it will not have been entirely without benefit. The young man or the young woman who embarks on life without having learned the rare virtue of thrift and self denial starts with a handicap. Most of the destitution of later years and the opportunities lost because one did not have the money at the opportune time to make an advantageous investment, can be traced to the fact that as a young man or a young woman the individual never learned the simple virtue of thrift, of saving, and self denial.

The worst enemies of a true democracy are the pressure groups who sponsor legislation favorable to their own purpose regardless of its effect upon other groups.

They take their elections seriously down in Mexico. The full returns are never in until all the dead are counted.

What We Think
 (By Frank Dixon)

France is no longer a free people. It is a vassal state to Germany. However, the settlement may be closed over with high, and smooth sounding phrases, it amounts to just that.

At first, stunned by the collapse of this great nation, the world sought to explain it in various ways. The fifth column was charged with the responsibility for the debacle, a lack of preparation, poor generalship in the army, the surprise nature of the attack, the failure of England and various other alibis were offered.

Several weeks after the surrender when the aimless hysteria had died down, and the situation was submitted to calm analysis in the light of cold facts, the truth of the matter came out—the French had "gone soft."

By "going soft" is meant that they had lapsed into an easy life, a life that did not tend to build strength and ruggedness of character either individually or nationally.

They built the Maginot line, and behind its overrated shelter, feasted and made merry. The nation lost the thing that had made it great. It lost the appetite for struggle. The thing that has not only made France great but had made great every nation that has ever become great. Contrast with this lackadaisical attitude was Germany—the very antithesis of carefree, carefree, indolence. While France slept, and her strength and virility waned, Germany became strong, strong in physical strength, strong in will, strong in purpose, strong in union.

The law of life is the law of struggle. It was the law which creation's dawn first cast its warming rays on the single cell amoeba and it became two cells. It was the law of the jungle, as animal struggled against animal, to live. Whether we like it or not, it is the law today even as it was then.

I am wondering, if we, in this country, are not facing the same peril that destroyed France. We have become soft with ease and abundance, and in our unwillingness to give them up have convinced ourselves that we no longer need to struggle. We have made a Maginot line of the ocean and behind its broad barrier we loll in fancied security, and shun the things that make for virility, and sturdy character.

There never has been a time in the history of the human race when any government has concerned itself about whether its people were fed or clothed or employed, as has this government, during the past seven years. It has assured food, clothing, fuel, medical attention and abundance. Its social legislation programs have advanced so rapidly that people, unused to such security, have lost the sense of a possible need, and with it, a certain ruggedness of self reliance and sturdy character.

History leaves a record that is too plain, too clear, to mistake. The sands of time are strewn with the wrecks of great systems of government and peoples who have surrendered their ruggedness for a life of ease, and security, and abundance, and with it the thing that made them great.

It remains to be proven whether we of America are superior enough to enjoy our abundance and still continue to exist. Our danger is that we will "go soft" and suffer internal demoralization as did France.

Free Classing and Market News Services Available to Farmers

Cotton producers who have formed groups to improve the quality of cotton or who are members of one-variety cotton communities should make application at once if they want to receive the free classing and marketing news services provided under the Smith-Doxey Act, according to announcement by J. R. Kennedy, in charge of the Agricultural Marketing Service in Dallas.

Mr. Kennedy states that a large number of applications are now being received from Texas and Oklahoma, and it is expected that the number of groups making application will exceed that of last season.

Reports and comments from the 287 cotton improvement groups in Texas and the 106 groups in Oklahoma who received the free classing and market news services last year indicate that the more than 25,000 members benefited substantially from the free classing and market news service.

There are, no doubt, many growers who could qualify for these services, but have neglected to make application. These growers should form groups and request application forms from the Agricultural Marketing Service and submit their applications prior to August 1, the deadline date in all of Texas except the High Plains; and by August 15 for the High Plains and Oklahoma.

Instructions and forms for making applications may be obtained from the county agent, or by writing directly to the Agricultural Marketing Service, Box 1369, Dallas; Box 1140, Austin; or Room 509 U. S. Court House, El Paso, Texas.

3,500,000 Trees Planted in Texas Shelterbelts

Wichita Falls, July 16.—(Special)—"The Forest Service has planted approximately 3,500,000 trees in shelterbelts on farms in Northwest Texas during the past year," announced W. E. Webb, State Director of the Prairie States Forestry Project, in summarizing the tree planting for 1940. Over 2,100 farms in 32 Texas counties now have active shelterbelts planted during the past five years.

Over 290 new farm operators benefited by plantings made a few months ago. In addition, a large number of supplemental plantings were made on farms with older shelterbelts. Private nurseries in some areas also reported large scales of trees for windbreak purposes, which indicates the increased interest in tree planting generally over the area.

Wheeler led all other counties with 39 miles of shelterbelts planted this year, bringing its total to date to 379 miles.

Shelterbelt plantings in other counties this past year include Hemphill with 32 miles, Hardeman 29, Donley 25, Collingsworth 21, Dickens and Hall 12 each, Wilbarger 14, Knox 10, Childress and Gray 8 each, and a scattering of belts in 17 other counties, bringing the total number of miles of shelterbelt planted in Texas to date to 1,850 miles.

Traffic Fatalities Increase in First Six Months of 1940

Austin, July 26.—An increase of 54 traffic fatalities for the first six months of 1940 over the same period in 1939 was disclosed today by the State Highway Engineer. He stated that this increase can be attributed largely to one fatal accident—the train-truck collision in March of this year at Alao, Texas, in which 29 persons were killed and a number injured.

"Head-on" collisions for 1940 reflect a 16 per cent increase over those of 1939 and "Driving too fast for conditions," as the primary cause, shows for 1940 a 9.1 per cent increase over that of 1939. He stated that strict observance of the restricted center-line stripes on the highways would reduce "head-on" collisions considerably, and that careful, sane driving by the motorist would curtail fatal accidents.

The pedestrian problem is of the gravest importance as the increase in this type of fatal accidents is mounting each year. Pedestrians are urged to study and obey the rules and regulations set out by the authorities for them to follow while walking in traffic. "Inattentiveness to traffic" is the prime cause of most of the pedestrian fatalities.

Of the 766 traffic fatalities from January through June of 1940, 22.7 per cent were "head-on" collisions. "Angular collisions" and "vehicles with trains" had their share of the total with 10 per cent each, while the larger part of the remaining deaths were from sideswiping, overturning on tangent or curve, and pedestrian violations.

Our desire, the State Highway Engineer said, is to secure the fullest co-operation from motorists, while extending to them our co-operation in an effort to reduce traffic fatalities.

One of the reasons why it is difficult to keep alive the Panda bears in the parks in this country is that the Panda is used to the high cool air of the Himalaya mountains and sickens and dies in a warm, humid or sea level climate. The cage of Pandas in the World's Fair exhibit in New York is especially air conditioned to reproduce the temperature and air conditions of the native habitat of this animal.

Thanks To Foard Voters

Many thanks to the people of Foard County for the vote polled for me last Saturday in the first Primary.

I realize that I am not as well acquainted with the people of the county as were my opponents, and due to the fact that my employment kept me from making an extensive campaign, I was not able to personally see and talk with a large number of voters.

Taking all this into consideration, I feel proud of the vote received and again I wish to thank you for it.

I also wish to take this opportunity to solicit your support in any political campaign that I might make in the future.

Yours truly,
JIMMIE FRANKLIN

We Call It Romance

IT'S JUST a can of soup. But during a long lifetime, the man who made it found some way to advertise it. At first, just a sign over his little soup kitchen, a few newspaper ads, a few billboards. But as the advertising grew, so did the business.

Now the business employs thousands of workers, helps to support tens of thousands of retail clerks and transportation men, and gives the housewife a better, cheaper soup than she could prepare at home.

Back of every heavily advertised article is a romantic story of this kind—the kind of romance that built America.

Our Weekly Sermon

By Rev. Clarence H. Benson, Director of the Christian Education Course, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

The War Must Go On Text—No man repented him of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? They have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace.—Jeremiah 8:6, 11.

Jeremiah was not considered much of a patriot. He was persecuted and imprisoned for his pessimistic predictions. He was called a "calamity howler" because he would not pray or prophesy for the success of the Jewish army. But Jeremiah was right and Jerusalem wrong. The terrible things that befell Jerusalem were just judgment of God.

Though the Israelites were God's chosen people whom He had long defended and delivered. He gave them into the power of the heathen nations because "no man repented him of his wickedness, saying, What have I done? Search the Bible, study the pages of history, but you will find only one interpretation of war in its relation to God's people and that is—judgment.

As in Jeremiah's day, we have many crying, "Peace! Peace!" No wonder Jeremiah said, "They have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace." Peace is very much to be desired in time of war, but a false peace or a temporary peace will heal the hurt slightly.

Many centuries ago a good king of Israel, threatened by the armies of powerful adversaries, demonstrated that the road to national peace and prosperity was in Bible schools rather than in armaments. We read that when the authorized teachers of the law went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people, then "the fear of the Lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat" (II Chron. 17:7-10).

It is quite evident that "the fear of the Lord" will never fall upon any nation until it gives a larger recognition to the Bible and the place where the Bible is taught—the Bible School. One wonders how long the moral integrity of the United States can be maintained when seven out of ten of its children are growing up without religious instruction, and not more than two per cent of its greatest metropolis are enrolled

No, the war must go on, sooner or later there must come a dreadful awakening to a realization that the nations will not respect our boasted sentiments. Only the nation who God is the Lord is to be feared, and only so far as our children have the fear of God in their hearts are we invincible.

The war must go on until confess that man is at war with his fellow man because he is a sinner. Men are not sinners because they fight, but they are sinners because they are sinners. There is no remedy for war until man ceases to be a sinner. There is no remedy for sin but in Christ. He alone is the Prince of Peace. Until He is enthroned the hearts of men there can be no lasting peace.

Young Man, Young Woman, Read, Act

Our National Defense Program is getting under way and it is causing our young people to not only think about their patriotic duty but to think of self protection. The younger boys and girls will be needed in offices just as soon as they can thoroughly train. The older ones, if drafted, will, if properly trained for business, be used in the offices of the War Department and in officers headquarters of the Army and Navy. This to most young men is far more satisfactory than having to go out on the firing line to eat machine gun bullets. Many of my young men who had trained for business prior to the World War came back thankful they had attended Byrne College and qualified themselves to do secretarial and clerical work. It will require thousands of young men and women to train immediately in commercial work to help round out our National Preparedness Program, but regardless of this gigantic program, business now is demanding more of our graduates than we are able to supply. We do not have a single young man or young woman who has recently graduated on our employment files.

Under present conditions you cannot make a mistake in attending Byrne College and School of Commerce and thoroughly qualifying for a good position in business or with the government in Civil Service or in the new Defense Program.

Our College, in order to show its patriotism is offering a more extended credit plan than usual to those who are not in a position to take advantage of our cash discount plan. Our cash and credit plans are so worked out there is no boy or girl neglecting their patriotic duty or their duty to themselves in winning their future independence in business regardless of the Preparedness Program.

Write for our special plan to meet the National Preparedness Program. Give us the facts about yourself and ask for facts about our courses of study, our ability to place you, the time it will take to complete and our cash discount and time payment plan. In the meantime, come to our office, if possible, have a friendly visit and let us talk over the whole matter of your future plans. Your coming will place you under no obligations to make an enrollment. Our vocational consultations are free. You will be well repaid for your visit if in no other way than to learn just what our stream-lined, Audio Classified Unit System of teaching is and why it enables us to give the most thorough courses possible in about one-half the usual time and at less cost.

FOARD COUNTY Softball News

The Oilers made the Margaret boys as mad as hornets last week by defeating them, so the Margaret lads swooped down upon the Aces Monday night to seek revenge, which they got 3 to 4, to mark up the most outstanding victory in Foard County Softball League play this year.

Margaret launched its merciless attack in the first inning, and by the time the nine frames were completed everybody but the water boy had tried his hand at pitching and every player on the Aces' team had played at least two positions.

Andrews, Margaret left fielder, led in both hitting and scoring. He tallied five scores and blasted out 4 safe hits, two for home runs, and got a walk in six trips to the platter.

His team mates well followed the pattern set as they staged the wildest hitting spree ever seen under the local arcs. Margaret was credited with 20 hits.

Oilers Win Over Aces
Fresh from their victory over the Margaret club, the Oilers flew in to the Aces last Thursday night to ring up a 16-10 victory. Again hits, walks and errors ruined the Aces' hopes of winning, however, the fans were given a pretty fair ball game until the fourth inning when the Oilers tallied 3 runs and from that point on their lead was never threatened, however, in the eighth frame the Aces came to life long enough to push across five runs.

All but three of Texas' 254 counties now have oil or gas activity, E. L. Smith of Dallas, president of the Texas Mid-Coast Oil and Gas Association, has reported after a state-wide survey just completed by the association's statisticians.

Reflecting the readiness of the petroleum industry to meet the demands of the U. S. armed forces, a total of 158 counties out of the State's 254 now produce oil or gas, Mr. Smith said. An additional 93 have land under lease for oil and gas exploration, bringing a total of 251 out of the 254 counties with oil or gas activity. Only Mason, Llano and Rockwall counties are not included.

"Twenty-four additional Texas counties were opened for oil or gas production within the past 18 months," Mr. Smith said. "There are now over 900 separate oil and gas fields in Texas in contrast with around 20 in 1917-18 when Texas oilmen were called upon to furnish fuel for the army and navy."

"Although the number of wells then is not recorded, it certainly was fewer than the 15,450 producers first reported in 1922. Now Texas has 93,630 producing wells scattered over the state. Production of all Texas oil wells in 1917 was 30,000 barrels a day. Today the state is producing around 1,300,000 barrels a day under the most rigid restrictions and could be opened up to produce several times this amount if necessary arose."

During World War days, Texas contributed only 6 per cent of the oil produced in the United States. Last year, despite closely curtailed output, this state produced 38 per cent. In 1922, first year oil reserves were estimated, Texas was credited with only 732,000,000 barrels in known reserves. Now Texas has 9,768,000,000 (billions), or over half of all proven unproduced petroleum resources of the nation. Last year the state produced around 485,000,000 barrels, but new reserves discovered amount to 805,000,000.

"All this expansion has been effected by the Texas oilman himself at his own risk and expense," Mr. Smith said. "The widespread and costly campaign of exploration covering the entire state has resulted in opening nearly one thousand oil and gas fields in Texas and discovery of sixteen billion barrels of petroleum reserves, of which nearly ten billion are yet to be produced. And this has been done in the face of deeper and more expensive drilling, higher wages, higher costs for materials and vastly increased taxes. Texas oilmen now pay five times as high taxes as they did in 1918, yet the price of oil now is half of what it was then while the average production per well is only a small fraction of that of the old gusher days. As for refining, Texas now has 141 plants with a daily capacity of 1,386,000 barrels, or nearly one-third of the Nation's total. The Texas oil industry is ready to meet any national emergency."

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

A Man's Religion Too Must Be Practical: I am a believer in practical things. I believe this is a practical world in which we live. Things are of value as they are practical. This also applies to one's religion. I think a man's religion is of little value to himself, his family, his church or his community unless it is practical, unless it appeals to and impresses him as being practical. I have talked to many persons about their religion, what it is, and what it does for them. I have found many with no definite tangible ideas about their religion. From their youth up they have evaded the issue and refused to meet it realistically or think it through. This I think, is a mistake. I think every man and every woman should think through the matter of their religion. They should have definite, positive, clear cut convictions on it. Instead of being merely a beautiful, an idealistic philosophy and code of morals taught by a man named Christ who lived a long time ago, it should be a plan of life, the purpose of which is clear, and concerning the logic of which there is no question. It must be a part of a man's life instead of a thing apart from his life. Until a man's religion becomes this it is of little value to him. Christ has presented a perfect plan. It is man's obligation to discover for himself and make real in his own life that plan.

Cynthia Ann Parker's Great-Grandson Weds Indian Girl

Baldwin Parker Jr., great-grandson of Cynthia Ann Parker and grandson of Quanah Parker, and Marguerite Tackaw-Wickah, both of Cache, Okla., were married in Waco Friday, according to a dispatch Sunday in the daily press from that city.

Parker's father, Chief Baldwin Parker, was present and the attendants were Alton Janes and J. O. Clemons of McGregor, where Parker and his bride had been with a group of Comanche Indians in connection with a rodeo.

The wedding took place in the home city of the late Gen. Lawrence Sullivan Ross who, as a captain in the ranger service, co-operating with federal forces, rescued Cynthia Ann Parker and her child from the Comanche Indians in the fall of 1860 on Pease River near Old Margaret. She and her brother had been captured by the Comanches and Kiowas on May 19, 1836, in a raid on Fort Parker, five miles from Groesbeck, now a state park.

Toad Frog Story Used in Article on Safety Hints

The story of the toad frog that came to life after spending twenty years in a concrete slab as published in The News Jan. 11, 1934, and many daily papers over the nation, was used in a safety article in the July number of "The Safe Worker," published by the National Safety Council of Chicago. W. H. McGonagle of Hobbs, N. M., sent The News a copy of this pamphlet which, Mr. McGonagle stated, goes to all employees of every industry in the United States. Mr. McGonagle is employed by an oil company and the safety engineer sends a copy of the booklet to each employee every month.

The story as used in "The Safe Worker" is as follows: "It stood right there in the newspaper one day and maybe that's proof enough that a toad can get away with it, but a man well, could you live for 20 years in solid concrete?"

"A few weeks ago workmen on a demolition job in Texas broke up a block of concrete. Out rolled a toad, apparently dead. As the sun warmed it up the toad's eyes opened and its legs began to kick. After a few hours the toad was completely recovered.

"They found the man who 20 years before had poured the concrete and he recalled vividly that a toad had been trapped in the wet concrete.

"In the toad world there probably are no safety belts and life-lines, but this toad certainly could have used one while playing around that excavation."

SOFTBALL PLAY

In the game last Tuesday night, the Crowell Oilers had little trouble in bowling over the Aces by a 12-2 score in a game which the Oilers held the upper hand throughout the match.

Wednesday afternoon, the Margaret boys traveled to Knox City for a game in which they came out on the short end of a 14 to 3 score.

Turning back to softball during the coming week, the Oilers and Margaret will meet again tonight in a league game. The Aces will tackle the Margaret ten again next Monday night and on Tuesday night Margaret and the Oilers will do battle again.

One of the feature games of next week's play will be on next Wednesday night when the Knox City club, led by one of the state's outstanding fire-ball pitchers, will come to Crowell for a return game with Margaret. The Knox City pitcher held the heavy-hitting Margaret boys well at bay last Wednesday, and a pitcher-hitter is expected in their meeting next week.

Wood County has produced more than 5,000,000 pounds of cucumbers this year, and Joe Adrian a farmer living near Quitman planted two acres of dill on contract, and produced more than 11 tons on the plot.

To The Voters of Foard County:

I take this method of thanking the people of Foard County, Texas, for the nice vote you gave me in the primary election last Saturday and I want you to know that I am really grateful for all favors extended me.

After due consideration and advice of some of my friends, and realizing that the odds are against me, I have decided to withdraw in the coming run-off primary and concede the nomination to Mr. Lilly.

I wish to state here that I stand ready to co-operate with Mr. Lilly at all times in the enforcement of our laws and respectfully request the people of Foard County to lend him every aid possible.
