Over 3,120 Bales Ginned from '40 Crop in County

Over 3,120 bales of cotton have been ginned from the 1940 crop in the five gins in Foard County, according to reports received Wednesday afternoon.

At this time last season there had been 7,350 bales of cotton ginned. Reports from all the gins here that the half-way mark of the season's run had not yet been reached and that cotton was still being brought from the fields in a steady stream.

Foard County is experiencing a late crop this season and many farmers report that their cotton will remain in the fields longer than it should because there is a scarcity of workers this year. This was also true when the season first started, but it was thought that pickers would immigrate as they had during the past years, but for some reason there have not been very many cotton pickers come in from other counties.

Government Report
A report received Thursday morning from the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census, in Washington, D. C., showed that there had been 850 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Foard County, from the 1940 crop prior to Oct. 1, 1940, as compared with 5,152 bales ginned to Oct. 1, 1939.

Dick Todd of Crowell, who is now playing his second season with the Washington Redskins, scored one of his team's touchdowns with a 54-yard gallop in the Redskins' 28 to 21 victory over the Chicago Cardinals last Sunday in Washington.

Following the first score of the game by the Cardinals, Slingin' Sammy Baugh passed from his own 19 to Dick on the 46 and gave the 33,691 spectators a thrill with his broken field running to the goal line.

Dick came into the game for Krause at quarterback in the first period and played the remainder of the contest. He took two other passes from Slingin' Sam in the Redskins' second touchdown drive and alternated with Filechke in the Redskins' 74-yard drive for their last touchdown.

A number of Crowell people recognized Dick in a news reel picture of Washington's 21 to 7 victory over the New York Giants which showed at the Rialto Theatre this week.

Washington is the only National League undefeated team and has won four straight victories.

Our Weekly Sermon

By Max I. Reich, Director of Jewish Missions Course, The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Salt and Light

Our Lord addressed His disciples in the Sermon on the Mount as being both salt and light. "Ye are the salt of the earth," said He, and, "Ye are the light of the world."

Without the salt the world would become corrupt, and without the light the world would be in darkness.

In order to keep the world sweet, the heavenly salt must mix with it. In order to give light, the lamp must be on a lampstand, elevated above the world, separate from it. Then will the light dispel the darkness and show up the evils which the darkness hides.

Thus Christians have to maintain a two-fold character in the world: (1) as world-mixers, (2) as world-rebukers. These characteristics appear to be opposed to each other in a paradoxical way. But putting them together we get harmony. We have to embrace the world in love, and yet we have to stand apart from the world, fearing its deadly influence, as Lot found when dwelling in Sodom; he lost his testimony there.

"Ye are the salt of the earth," said our Lord. It is not what we say or do, but what we are that matters first. Personality is ever the secret of influence. Good does not exist in principle merely. It must incarnate itself in men and women in order to overcome evil.

If the world becomes more and more evil, blame not the world, but the salt which has lost its savor. If the world becomes darker and darker, do not denounce it merely. The cause is that the church's lamp is growing dim; heavenly things are not the all-commanding realities they once were; the border lines between church and world are not as clearly drawn as once. When Christians seek their pleasures in Egypt, it is because Canaan no longer satisfies them. If we would have our community or our country purified, it must be by the impact of sanctified personalities.

Let us seek for a spiritual movement that will regenerate the men and women who are the determining factors in the different spheres of social structure. And that movement, I am persuaded, will come only by the way of the cross of Christ, and its accompaniments will be repentance, conversion and surrender to God.

Crowell, Texas, October 17, 1940

The world could be completely transformed if all of the money spent for war and its preparation were spent for things that make for building up rather than tearing down and destruction. There would be plenty for all. Every community could have a fine hospital, library, parks and the finest of schools. The cultural things alone that could be secured would do much to improve the race. Once we catch the vision of these things and the value and sanity of the program that builds up instead of tears down, we are going to forget war. We are going to build a new world. We should be building a new world now, a world in which there is no place for war. We are rich, rich enough to have every good and precious thing we need and want, but we are wasting our wealth, and instead of devoting it to building, are devoting it to destruction.

We are headed into an age of militarism the world over. Once it is built up, a military machine goes out slowly. The United States has never had a military machine in the past, but the indications are that we are drifting toward that very thing. The modern mode of warfare makes a volunteer army that strikes up over night impracticable. Only well trained, well equipped men stand any chance in the way the game is played today.

The American Legion in its national convention, held recently in Boston, came out vigorously against any policy of appeasement in this country. The Legion believes in complete preparedness, the staying out of foreign wars and a firm stand for the country's full rights.

France is paying eight million dollars a day for the support of the German army of occupation. More evidence that a country can afford to spend most any amount of money to make impossible its occupation by a foreign government.

The penalty for the failure of aliens to register is a thousand dollar fine and six months imprisonment.

5,000 Deaths in Texas Last Year Caused by Cancer

Austin.—"Approximately 5,000 of the 60,000 deaths in Texas last year were attributable to cancer. Fully one-third of these fatalities likely could have been avoided had the early though unsuspected symptoms been recognized as serious by the victims. The unfortunate indifference to such symptoms is based on the fact that because of a total lack of pain, no significance is attached to them by the average person. This explains one of the reasons for cancer's great power to kill," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In the beginning cancer is never recognized to the patient as cancer. The danger signals are (1) any lump in the breast or any other part of the body; (2) any persistent sore, particularly on the face or mouth; (3) any unusual discharge or bleeding; (4) chronic indigestion. As already indicated, in the pre-cancerous stage there may be no physical discomfort or conscious physical impairment. While the above mentioned manifestations do not necessarily mean that cancer is in the offing, such an assumption never is justified. That is a question for the doctor, and only the doctor, to decide. Delay in the face of such symptoms is dangerous and may result in death.

If the present rate continues, one out of every thirteen fatalities of men from all causes, and one out of every eight deaths in women would be due to cancer. In fact, cancer is only exceeded in Texas deaths by heart disease. It is important, therefore, logically cannot be overlooked. Cancer is not contagious, is not a blood disease, is not caused by food or aluminum cooking utensils, nor does constipation have anything to do with it. Chronic irritations of certain types are precursors of cancer, but the underlying reason for the change in normal tissue cells to the wild growth characterizing cancer is yet unknown.

It follows that wisdom is involved in a properly balanced curiosity when warning symptoms appear, and that means a prompt visit to the family physician for immediate diagnosis; better still, annual visits for complete examination by a physician may result in discovery of the very earliest conditions which yield to medical care. On the other hand, an unjustified fear of cancer is foolish. In this connection it is heartening to know that three-fourths of the Drive Started to Raise Funds to Carry on Boy Scout Work

Financial mobilization of the Northwest Texas Council of the Boy Scouts of America started October 1. Over 10,000 boys in this territory between the ages of 9 and 16 have asked for the scout training, a recent survey shows. In order to afford that training a sustaining membership campaign is conducted each year. This year a quota of $20,307 is necessary to carry on the work from Oct. 1, 1940, to Oct. 1, 1941. Throughout the 14 scout districts in this territory campaigns will be conducted for three days and citizens will be asked to do their part in the continuation of the scout program.

"Liberty is not only a heritage but a fresh conquest for each generation," a quotation from a scout bulletin reads, "and the best time to train a person in the principles of democracy is when he is young. The boy scout program offers just such training.

"There is usually some question as to where the scout dollar is spent," C. H. Peden, area executive, explains. "We have an allotment for every cent; for instance, for camping and activities we spend 16.2c, for leadership training, that is training for scoutmasters and others, we have allowed 17.5c; 14.5c is set aside for the purchase of badges, awards trophies; then there is 13.8c allowed for organization of new units, National Council Service, registration of old units, annual Quota and Charter fee; and we spend 17.4c for field service, conferences and troop committee supervision; 18.6c goes for stationery, stamps, publicity, office rent, telephones and telegraph, industrial records of boys and leaders, insurance and general administration; there is 2c allowed for the retirement of employees."

Committees of business men organized throughout the territory will solicit the Sustaining Membership. Costs of memberships range from $12.00 a year up to as much as one can afford to contribute. "When you invest your money in Scout training for boyhood," Peden points out, "you are doing your part for national defense because training the minds of the next generation in democratic principles is just as essential as training the bodies of the present generation to protect these principles." The whole scout principle may be summed up in their oath: "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law. To help other people at all times. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

The High School Band will render several selections as part of the program.

Tenderfoot, second class, first class, merit badges, star, and one Eagle badge will be presented. G. T. Lanier will receive the highest ranking award presented to a Scout. Lanier has been very active in the Scout movement as scoutmaster and worker. He has worked with his boys and is doing much in training them in the principles of Scouting.

A. Y. Beverly, Scout advancement chairman, is in charge of the program and will preside at the meeting. Mr. Beverly said that a loud speaker system will be used in order that the public might hear the program. John Thomas Razor will sing, "God Bless America," and the audience will sing, "America." What We Think
(By Frank Dixon)

The Hatch law prohibits anyone holding a job, the pay of which comes in whole or in part from the federal government, from taking active part in, or contributing to, a political campaign.

While it is important that those in office do not build up a political machine to perpetuate themselves in office as they might easily do if unrestrained, I cannot imagine a political campaign put on without any funds. Some one must contribute the funds as the government makes no provision for campaign funds. Anyone who has had any experience conducting a campaign knows how difficult it is to secure money from the average voter for a campaign. The average voter feels that if he gets out to the polls and casts his vote he has rendered his full service to his party, his community and the country. He feels, and naturally so, that the expenses of the campaign should be borne by those who hold the offices and expect the profit materially and directly from the success of the party.

Everything connected with a political campaign costs money. It costs for advertising, cards, placards, newspaper advertising, radio time, halls in which to hold meetings, parades, workers, and a thousand and one incidentals that enter into the expense of a campaign.

Few candidates, especially for the larger positions, have the money to finance their own campaign and since it is next to impossible to secure money from the rank and file of the party on the rural route, the crossroads, and in the city, unless funds are forthcoming from some other source the campaign will be a pretty tame affair if the law is religiously observed.

There will be no parades, no radio talks, no newspaper or billboard advertising. No activity of any kind.

While there are some reasons for the law and some justification, I can also see a danger.

Large corporations and moneyed interests always take an active part in elections. It is to their interest that certain laws be passed or not passed. It makes a considerable difference to them that certain men are elected to office. Because of this interest big industry, big money, big business is going to continue to make liberal donations to campaign funds. They will be glad to do so if by so doing they can secure the election of their friends.

The result is going to be that in a good many instances instead of job holders putting up the money for the election, moneyed interests are going to put it up.

Big business and industry are not interested in parties so much as they are interested in the policies of parties. They do not care so much whether Smith is elected or Jones is elected as they do what policies Smith or Jones is committed to.

As it appears to me the Hatch law is just another law. It will merely transfer the burden of raising campaign funds from one interested group to another interested group.

attendance at the Court of Honor and join with them in this Americanism program.

Crowell Downs Holliday in First 9-A Game

Wildcats' Ground Power Too Much for Air Minded Eagles

The Crowell High School Wildcats drew much attention from the teams and football dopsters of District 9-A when they smothered the seasoned and favored Holliday Eagles under a 30 to 12 score here last Friday night in a conference opening game.

The Wildcats were in complete command of the game from the intercepted Olds' pass and raced 33 yards for pay dirt.

Crowell took the following kickoff on its 25 and the Wildcats marched for another touchdown with Gibson, halfback, going through left guard to cross the goal line.

The Wildcats finished their scoring early in the fourth period. They were set back to their own 10-yard line by a holding penalty and from there they drove steadily to the goal line. Olds scored from the Eagles' 8-yard marker.

At this point, the second string which had played the latter part of the first half returned to the field and the Eagles marched 82 yards for a touchdown which came from a 33-yard pass from Boney to McCullough, quarterback.

In this game, as has been shown in the past four games, the Wildcats appeared to be steadily improving. The blocking is smoother and more effective and the ball carriers are more polished.

As yet, the Wildcats have to develop an aerial attack, however, they have formed a strong pass defense against their opponents. In their past matches, the Wildcats have stayed on the ground with only a few exceptions.

Every time the Eagles never threatened Coach Grady Graves eleven. The Eagles' first touchdown came suddenly in the third period via the pass interception route, and the second came late in the game against the second string. The Eagles were never in Crowell territory during the first half.

The Wildcats pushed over touchdowns in each period and two Crowell scores were called back for holding penalties, however, touchdowns were made in each case before losing the ball.

The first Crowell score came on the thirteenth play following the opening kickoff after a drive of 57 yards when Haseloff, right end, circled left end for 3 yards.

The Wildcats started a drive late in the first period from their own 11-yard line and scored without losing the ball in the second period when Olds, quarterback, broke through center for 10 yards. A few minutes later, the Wildcats took a punt on their own 30-yard marker and started driving for the third touchdown which came when Bird, second string quarterback, went through center for 4 yards.

Boney, halfback, came through with the Eagles' first score early in the third period when he intercepted Olds' pass and raced 33 yards for pay dirt.

LIFE BLOOD SPANS ATLANTIC

Wherever its workers and supplies can get through, the Red Cross goes in. But the latest and most daring mercy effort of the American Red Cross depends mainly on neither. It depends upon human blood. On a regular schedule, its phenomenal in these days, it is sending 50 liters of priceless blood plasma solution to the British Red Cross every week. To bombing victims that means life; to overworked surgeons and nurses, renewed hope; to science a major victory over death—the greatest mass effort of its kind ever undertaken. Volunteer donors, organized in two cities of the United States, supply the blood. —Howard Stephenson, writing in the current Rotarian Magazine.

Last year 380,000 men and women were trained in Red Cross First Aid to combat the grim march of accidental death which each year claims 100,000 lives in this country. Your membership support at Roll Call this year, November 11 through 30, will enable this program to continue its battle against accidental death and serious injury.

Utilities Company Expects Better Times for West Texas

Better times for West Texas are foreseen by the West Texas Utilities, which this month is changing its advertising slogan from "Invite a friend new business

The company, according to Jack Seale, local manager, anticipates a shifting of industry and business and believes that the Southwest will capture a good-sized portion of the flow from eastern commercial centers.

"We in West Texas have many

Red Cross Will Aid Draftees From Foard

To relatives and friends of men registering yesterday for military training, George Self, chairman of the Foard County Red Cross chapter, extended assurance the Red Cross is making full preparation for expansion to deal with the problems of all men who families at home.

Pointing out that the Red Cross is the government's official agency chartered to deal with personal or family problems of men of the army and navy, Mr. Self said the public will be asked for increased membership support during the organization's annual Roll Call, November 11 to 30, that military, public health, first aid and other National Defense responsibilities of the Red Cross may be met adequately.

"Increased staffs of chapter home service workers, and field representatives at training points," Mr. Self said, "will assist the men or their dependents in matters of illness, emergencies, material relief, obtaining of information needed by military authorities for furloughs or dependency discharges, advising in business difficulties, obtaining of employment for a member of the family, and other problems.

"Army hospitals have already asked for more than 4,000 Red Cross nurses to be on duty by next July. The first groups have been called, on September 15 and another yesterday. For convalescents, Red Cross 'Gray Ladies' will write letters, read books, provide games and other amusements. Red Cross volunteers will make comfort items for hospitalized men.

"Among other preparedness measures being taken by the Red Cross, our chapter will be expected particularly to train more women and girls in home hygiene and prevention of disease as a civilian safety measure, train additional thousands of first aiders in industries affected by war materials production, increase enrollment in the Red Cross nursing corps and in nurse's aide special courses for training of assistants in civilian hospitals in time of national emergency. In addition, they must continue to produce garments and surgical dressings for use overseas and here at home.
This expansion will take into account, also, the continuing need of domestic Red Cross peacetime services."

Petroleum Industry Prepared to Meet Heavy Demands

Kilgore Texas.—The American petroleum industry is in far better shape now to meet the very heavy demands of modern mechanized warfare than it was in 1917 for the much smaller demands of the First World War, George A.
Hill Jr. of Houston declared here Wednesday night. Mr. Hill, vice president of the American Petroleum Institute in charge of its division of oil production, spoke at the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the discovery of the East Texas oil field.

"Today the condition of the petroleum industry is wholly at variance with the conditions that existed in 1917," Mr. Hill said.
"The number of producing oil wells in the United States is nearly twice that of two decades ago.
New wells can be drilled five times as fast. Proven reserves of crude oil are nearly three times as great as those of 1917. The number of petroleum refineries has been doubled, and their capacity multiplied by four. Stocks of essential products are two to of fuel and power, and superior living conditions as being among assets which would prove attractive to business once "we build up the reputation of welcoming private initiative and enterprise."

The tendency toward widespread distribution of industry, he added, gives West Texas an unusual opportunity to secure self-supporting and community-building business institutions.

The utilities company maintains an industrial department, headed by T. J. McCarty and R. M. Fielder, that devotes full time to work with business concerns either already here or seeking desirable locations. The department has just completed a detailed survey of the region's mineral resources and now has available much valuable information on the location of numerous minerals, for which there is a wartime demand, such as magnesium and iron ore.

Information also includes data on the quality and quantity of the minerals, the possibilities for processing, cheap fuel and power sources, ample water, labor, housing, and transportation facilities.

Local groups were invited to call upon them "if they can be of any help."

The slogan, "Invite a new business to West Texas—the Land of Opportunity," will be carried in the company's institutional advertisements in over 80 newspapers this fall and winter.

ten times as large as in 1917, and storage capacities are correspondingly greater. Land transportation facilities for oil are more than twice as extensive, and marine, eight times as large. All of this was done voluntarily by the American petroleum industry, without Government subsidy or favor.

"In view of these facts, it may be maintained with confidence that the oil industry is fully capable and entirely willing by voluntary, patriotic co-operation, and without the unnecessary and corroding influence of authoritarian control and compulsion to achieve the objectives of our National defense program.

"The maximum of service to the National defense and to preparedness can be rendered without resort, at this time, to experimentation and to the development and employment of new controls. There is no phase of service, to the most exact requirements of National defense and National preparedness, that cannot be supplied through the voluntary service and voluntary co-operation of the oil industry under the leadership of the President of the United States and his National Defense Advisory Commission."

Mr. Hill closed with a tribute to "Dad" C. M. Joiner, "who in the true pioneering spirit discovered this great single reservoir of national wealth."

"No chart of government pointed the way to this field," Mr. Hill said. "No managed economy underwrote his risk. No authoritarian regulation measured his prospect. No bureaucracy supplied his incentive by either mandate or bounty. The true spirit of the pioneer, the independent enterprise of a free American citizen who still believed in and cherished the opportunities that America affords, resided in the will of "Dad" Joiner. Let us pray that these United States throughout the future, as in the past, may nurture, preserve and proudly cherish the pioneer and let his courageous spirit forever remain the core of free America."

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

When the Bugle Sounds: The Arabian horses are noted for their beauty, speed, endurance and obedience. When they are a year old they are put into a corral with others and their training begins. They are trained to obey the notes of the bugle, to stop at its sound. After the period of training is considered finished the horses are put into a corral and for a considerable period water is withheld from them, until they become famished with thirst. The gate of the corral is then opened and straight and true the horses rush for the well known water hole. As soon as they are well on their way the bugle is sounded commanding them to stop. Some rush on unheeding to quench their torturing thirst, but some turn back to the corral. Only those who turn back are used to perpetuate the wonderful line of Arabian horses. So it is with men and women today. At God's commands some turn back but others rush unheeding

OUR AVERAGE HIGH SCHOOL

Wow! We think our average boy is a whiz. He is a perfect boy friend for Belle, and you "plump" little girls better invest a few dollars in the chemistry class' reducing machine. Tom's height is about 5 ft. 10 in., and he weighs 150 to the very oz. He is 15, going on 16 and his favorite subject, is naturally for a boy, all sciences and maths, though he admits that he really likes history, too. His favorite sport is football one hundred per cent. He is on the sub team and has high hopes of being a star player next season. (Just between you and me, I think he will be). Tom's ambition, like most boys his age, is very undecided and varies from day to day. One day he wants to be an aviator and fly a plane for Uncle Sam and the next day he says he wants to marry a rich woman and settle down and take it easy, so we'll give him a little more time on that. How do you like him, girls? "Ain't he wonderful? He is made up of every boy in high school. Does any one answer to his description?"

OUR CHEMISTRY CLASS

(Oh, Yeah!) (Stolen from Floydada Hesperette)

Things to be Gotten from Chemistry:

1. A continual headache.

2. Scientific attitude.

3. Various amounts of laboratory equipment, depending upon one's ability and pocket size.

Facts everyone should know:

A skeleton is a man with his outsides off and his insides out.

A vacuum is an empty space in Rome where the Pope lives.

In order to keep milk from

ASSEMBLY

Mr. Foster's chemistry class, with the aid of several high school students presented CHS with their first assembly program Tuesday, Oct. 15. It was a short stunt on Dr. I. M. Shy, M. D., WPA, PWA, ETC.—reducing specialists. He reduced alright! He reduced a dog into weiners! Those who took part in the program were: Charles Davis, Beverly Hughston, Berl Cavin, Kid Gamble, Joyzell Tysinger, Fay Griffin, Billie Stevens, Gene Fitzgerald, and Stanley Sander's little pooch.

Anyway, it was funny and we all enjoyed it and the music provided by Bobby Spears. The next assembly program will be Oct. 29 —Miss Motley, and we are all looking forward to it. The public is invited to attend these assembly programs given every two weeks.

HOLIDAY FORMATION

Friday night the Crowell spectators were quite pleasantly surprised when the Holiday pep squad gave a formation at the half. The pep squad, more than forty strong, did several formations, but the main attraction was the four prancing, baton twirling, majorettes.

LADIE-EES AND GENTS!

The vital question of today is "Who will be our next president?" And who knows? Nobody, of course! But this week several students of CHS were asked for their opinion, a thing that won't turn the tide but something that will be of interest. . . . and we're off with a flash. . . .

Bill Swanbey—Wilkie. Stanley Sanders—Mr. Roosevelt's the man for the job. Frances Haseloff—Shoot! Doesn't make me much difference. Joe Wallace Beverly—The next president will be the people's choice.

Fay Griffin—I'm not saying, but I think it'll be a close race. Leroy Gibson—I just wouldn't know at all.

J. M. Hill—Well, I'll wait until I hear Wilkie before I cast my vote.

THAT CRAZY SMITH FAMILY

Dear Reader: Have you met "The Crazy Smith Family?" If not you must do so. They appear in a three-act play Thursday night at 8 o'clock, Oct. 24, in the High School auditorium.

Never has a play been in better form than this one about a delightfully madcap family. It has everything it takes to make a smash hit. There is Dad, who roars like a lion at his family, but is as proud as punch of them; then there is level-headed Ma, who manages to keep her sanity in the midst of all of her children's crazy antics, which include a daughter who does surrealist paintings that look like glorified dishepans, a cute trick of a younger daughter who aspires to be a majorette, a kid brother who is awfully hard to be a "tough guy" and Tony, who has turned out to be a sensational football player.

It's a gay and frantic event when representatives from several of the big colleges come to see Tony, to lure him with a fat offer if he will play football for them. Tension mounts when glamorous Julie sets out to see Tony into coming to her college and Barbara, who has been his high school sweetheart, sees him slipping from her. It takes an airplane lost in a storm, a dramatic change of costume for Barbara and other amazing and unforeseen incidents before Tony is finally brought around to see the clearly, and makes a decision that brings the curtain down on a play rich in humor and wisdom.

After having given you a brief introduction to "That Crazy Smith Family," we hope you will be interested enough to come and meet them in person Thursday night at 8 o'clock on October 24, in the High School auditorium. We know you will adore them. We will be like looking through windows into your own home. . . . but, sh-sh-sh-sh-sh-sh—are talking too much!

Yours sincerely, Crowell High Speech Club

Want to Get the Razzberry?

Try telling folks the rates have been cut in half!

1 I work for the utilities and the other night I had supper over at Jim and Edith's house. It was a swell supper and I told Edith so. "Cooking," she said, "is easy. We have nearly everything electric." "There is a point," I says, excited-like. "And you're using about twice as much electricity today as you did 10 years ago for the same money." "Maybe you mean the bill is twice as high nowadays," Jim chimed in. "It may be just as high, Jim," I said. "Mine is, too. But there's a good reason for it. Look here . . ."

2 Then I took them around the house, pointing out their refrigerator, electric washer, the percolator, radio, toaster, iron, and all the other electric appliances, not to mention the better-light—better-sight lamps. I said: "Now, honestly, aren't you using a whale of a lot more electricity than you did just a few years ago?" They said that was right.

3 Then I tossed a couple nickels on the table, real dramatic-like, and said: "The average person pays only about a dime a day for electric service! Some pay less, some a little more. And the more you use, the lower the rate!"

4 "Is this a bargain or isn't it?" I asked Edith. "Never thought of it like that," she said. "I certainly do get my money's worth!"

Mrs. Fleisher, Mrs. R. L. Kincaid, Mrs. Allen Sanders, Mrs. Lewis Ballard, Mrs. John Rasor and Mrs. T. B. Klepper were chosen as delegates.

Mrs. Thomas Hughston, the program leader, gave a short history of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, in commemoration of the State Birthday which falls in this month. A donation was made which is used for the purpose of extension work. Mrs. Hughston stated that there are 132,000 P. T. A. members in Texas.

Mrs. Kincaid gave some splendid thoughts from the National Parent-Teacher magazine relative to the punishment of children in the home. "Citizenship Can Be Taught," was also discussed by her. She stressed the fact that a child's mind should be made clear as to what citizenship means, what a person, child or adult, owes his family and his community. "The teaching of democracy should begin in the home," she said.

Mrs. Vance Favors talked on "It Is A Small World." She brought out the thought that we are not far apart, except in miles. Modern modes of transportation, communication, the movies, radio and other late day discoveries, draw all people closer together.

In the room count of mothers, Miss Hill's room had the largest representation in the primary department, Miss Black's in the intermediate department, and the Senior class in High School.
