At the county convention at-tended by the delegates from the several communities, the threeman county committee and two alternate committeemen will be elected. The newly-elected com-mittees will take office January

1 and will serve for one year.
The community committeemen have specified duties to perform,
Mr. Nagy pointed out, including the following: assisting the county committee in determining acreage allotment goals, normal yields and other agricultural facts; in-forming farmers concerning the purposes and provisions of agri-cultural programs; and assisting in arranging for and conducting meetings.

Broader administrative powers are given to the county committees, the county agent said. He listed a few of the committee's duties as determining farm acreage allotments, normal yields, productivity indices and other agricultural facts; preparing budgets; supervising and directing activisupervising and directing activi-ties of community committees; reviewing and certifying various forms; conducting hearings and investigations; generally supervis-ing the work in the county of-fice; and assisting the working Ladies' and boys' bicycles, good
