U. S. Troops Survey New Post in Cairo

U. S. soldiers look over the Cairo rooftops from their new billets in the Middle East. Since this picture was taken the battle of Egypt has been raging furiously, with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel directing the Axis thrust toward Alexandria and Suez, while huge U. S. Liberator bombers struck heavily at the enemy in and behind the battle area.

Total Individual Deposits of Crowell State Bank Reach $1,000,000 Tuesday; Largest Amount on Deposit in Years

Shot from Small Pistol Takes Life of Vernon Youth

Funeral for James Earle Norwood Held Monday Afternoon

Playing with a pistol which he believed to be a toy cost the life of James Earle Norwood, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Norwood of Vernon, late Sunday when the youth was accidentally shot while visiting at the home of a neighbor.

James Earle, who was a freshman in the Vernon High School last year, picked up the small pistol while joking with some friends, placed the gun toward his head and pulled the trigger. The gun discharged, killing him instantly. Friends said he believed it to be a toy model. He is the grand son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Norwood of Vernon, former Crowell residents, and a nephew of Mrs. Hines Clark of Crowell.

The current statement of the Crowell State Bank shows a big jump in deposits over the same period of last year. On June 30, 1941, deposits in the bank were $475,010.71. On June 30, 1942, according to the bank statement on page 4 of this issue, the deposits were $931,152.74. On Tuesday, July 7, they reached $1,000,000, information furnished by the bank revealed.

The heavy deposits in the local institution reflects the continued financial improvement in Foard County, which is by far the best in many years.

A building program is underway at present which when completed will extend the bank building back north to the full length of the property. The extension will contain three office spaces and is expected to be completed within a few weeks.

Officials of the Crowell State Bank are: R. L. Kincaid, president; J. M. Hill, vice president; Merl Kincaid, vice president; Lee Black, cashier; Floy Haney, assistant cashier; Arlie Cato and Wilma Jo Lovelady, bookkeepers. All officers of the bank are active with the exception of J. M. Hill.

Truscott Farmer Died Suddenly Last Tuesday Afternoon

Funeral for Antonio Caram Held Thurs. Morning at 11:30

Funeral services for Antonio Caram, 60, prominent farmer of the Truscott community, were held in the Truscott Methodist Church Thursday morning, July 2, at 11:30 o'clock. They were in charge of Rev. C. E. English, who was assisted by Rev. D. A. Ross.

Mr. Caram, who had been in ill health for some time, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon while attending to duties in connection with the harvesting of his wheat crop. He had been a farmer in the Truscott community for about fourteen years and supervised the cultivation of 2,000 acres of land.

Burial was made in the Truscott Cemetery with the Womack Funeral Home of Crowell in charge of arrangements.

Antonio Caram was born in Nabtia, Syria, and came to Mexico in 1900, moving to the Truscott community in 1928.

Survivors include the widow and 12 children, nine of whom live at the family home, the other three are married and reside in that community. Four children preceded their father in death.

Mayor C. T. Schlagal Names Two-Man Committee for Conservation of Vital War Transportation in Foard County

At the request of the Texas Highway Department, Mayor C. T. Schlagal has appointed in Foard County a committee for the Conservation of Vital War Transportation. This committee is, at present, a two-man board with the objective of making the people of Foard County conscious of the acute shortage of rubber and the calamity the nation would suffer if the war effort should be crippled by a break-down of the country's transportation system. Dwight

Moody and George Self, members of this committee, are anxious to see that everybody in the county realizes the imminent danger to the nation in the event that such a tire shortage should occur and the workers in the war factories all over the country found themselves without a means of transportation to and from work. The result would be the same as a stoppage of the flow of raw materials to the factories.

An investigation at the headquarters of the rubber rationing board in Foard County discloses the fact that there are now 187 applications on the waiting list for tires, tubes or retreads. Possibly, all of these applicants are in essential industries, but, have they all realized the cost to their country of granting to an agricultural section all of these requests at the expense of sections which are actually turning out ammunition, tanks, ships and guns. The needless waste of rubber could be the means of causing the deaths of extra thousands of this nation's young men. Every person should question himself very closely before applying for any rationed rubber.

Neon Signs Installed in Front of Local Grocery Stores

Large, attractive Neon electric signs have recently been installed in the front of the J. T. Brooks Food Market and Lanier's Grocery. The signs are beautiful and add much to the store fronts and also to the sections of the town in which they are located.

Prospects at present are that there will be other signs of this type to be installed in the near future. One business man is very enthusiastic about the installation of Neon signs in Crowell and states he believes that the installation of these sparkling electric signs on the fronts of more stores in Crowell would be a great help in inducing more people of the county to do their shopping here. A well lighted business section, no doubt, is an attraction to prospective customers.

ROTARY CLUB

Dwight Moody, one of the directors of the Crowell Rotary Club, presided at the Wednesday noon meeting of the club held at O'Connell's Lunch Room, and also had charge of the program which consisted of an interesting talk by Judge Leslie Thomas. ## Check Never Cashed Found in Oklahoma; Issued June 7, 1919

Joe Ketchersid Buys Registered Jersey Bull

Joe Ketchersid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ketchersid of Crowell, has recently purchased a fine registered Jersey bull from W. G. Chapman of Thalia, according to a news release received from the American Jersey Cattle Club of New York City. The animal is Royal Poppy Laddie.

The whereabouts of all registered Jerseys is known and carefully watched over by the American Jersey Cattle Club, with offices in New York City. This important job is made possible through registrations and transfers made by Jersey Breeders everywhere. Tattoo identification, somewhat similar to fingerprinting, keeps individuals of this dairy breed always known.

Jerseys make up 42 per cent of all dairy cows in the United States. Because they produce the world's richest milk, and because there are more Jerseys than any other breed in America, their role in National Defense is an important one. Increased production of Jersey milk guarantees the protective food needs of here and abroad.

To the Voters of Foard County, Precinct No. 2—Greetings:

Except enough bread and meat to keep soul and body together, there is nothing in this world so important to every man, woman and child in America as winning this war. I am trying to do my part. For every man there are many cares. We must keep 'em flying, we must carry on, we must win the war. We must also take time out to elect officers in our precinct, also state and county officers. On the July ballot my name will appear as a request for your vote for Commissioner of Precinct No. 2.

I feel that I am qualified in every respect to fill the office as your commissioner. My entire life to date has been spent in Foard County. I know our roads and their needs. If you select me as your commissioner, the duties of the office will be seen to as though it was my private business, and to every detail of duty, whether roads, schools, or other business that I have to do with, if elected, will be done without prejudice or favor. Everyone, rich or poor, friends or foe, shall one and all, have the same courtesies extended them.

Let me ask you that you investigate my attitude as a citizen from those who know me best. If they advise you that Joe Johnson is O. K., then let this message be my personal appeal to you for your support in the July primary, and I will make you a commissioner if you will be proud of. Let me say in closing that, if I am your next commissioner, my endeavors will be conducted economically, consistent with good business and with honor to all.

JOE JOHNSON,

Candidate for Commissioner, Precinct No. 2, Foard County.

Control of the Fly Necessary Health Measure Everywhere

Austin.—Thousands of children and adults die every year from diseases carried by the fly. Typhoid fever, tuberculosis, summer complaint, cholera, intestinal diseases, and frequently death follow closely in the trail of the common house fly.

"The control of the fly menace comes at the top of the list of necessary public health measures which should be applied by every city and community in the state," urged Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The most effective measure for control is to prevent breeding," Doctor Cox said. "Flies breed in filth, and about eight days are required to complete a life cycle. During her life time of several months, one house fly lays from 600 to 1,000 eggs. Thus it can easily be seen that in a season which usually begins in the spring of the year, the descendants from one fly number countless thousands.

"To eliminate flies, the breeding places must be destroyed. Manure piles, garbage, and other organic filth furnish the requirements of warmth, moisture, and food necessary for the propagation of the fly. Flies should be kept from contact with food or drink or utensils in which such food and drink are prepared and served. Likewise, they should be kept from access to privy vaults where they pick up the infections, which they later spread to humans by contact with the food and drink, and by unwashed hands and utensils.

"See that your windows, doors, and porches are screened so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor will not molest your family. See that your grocer keeps meat, vegetables, and fruit screened from flies.

"Organize health measures to destroy the breeding places, control the flies' access to your home and food, and establish standards of cleanliness in your community that will eliminate the fly."

As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. Be strong and of good courage.—Joshua 1:5-6.

The whole civilized world represents the ruthlessness of the Nazis as revealed in the wholesale slaughter of men and women in revenge for the killing of the arch-criminal Reinhard Heydrich. It was brutal, criminal wanton murder. In my opinion a reader of this paper said yesterday, the Allies should adopt the policy of reprisal to be invoked after the war. For each person in the occupied countries thus put to death one person would be put to death in Germany. Instead, however, of choosing the victims for the firing squad from peasants and the common people we would begin at the top of the list. We would put Hitler before the firing squad first. Goering and Mussolini would be next, and so on down the line through the entire Gestapo crew of killers and gunmen. What is to be gained if after these nations are defeated, we permit to poison, Hitler, Goering, Goebbels, live to continue to scatter their Mussolini and the murderous Gestapo?

Japan's entrance into the war against the United States is all the more reprehensible in light of the fact that this country has always dealt kindly and generously with Japan and has never failed to go to her aid when disaster struck. Japan reminds us of the hitchhiker who shoots in the back the car driver who has kindly and generously given him a lift.

When it comes to complete and thorough appraisal in a minimum amount of time there is nothing quite so complete as the once over that one woman gives another woman's clothes. In the split second's glance not a detail is missed as to cut, style, fit, cost, hang, the manner in which the garment is worn and the extent to which it becomes the wearer. No mere man could begin to do it.

Though we marvel at it, we sometimes envy the state of mind of the fellow who thinks that every one can be paid a big pension without it's costing any one any thing.

As a rule a potluck supper, though not planned in advance, provides a pretty well balanced meal.

HISTORY

Birthday of John Quincy Adams—July 11: John Quincy Adams, the 6th president of the United States was born in Braintree, now Quincy, Mass., on July 11, 1767. He was taken by his father, John Adams, on his mission to France when he was but ten years old. During his father's mission in Europe Adams attended the leading schools and studied French and Latin and the classics. He also served for two years at the age of fourteen as secretary to Francis Dana, at St. Petersburg, Russia. Upon the appointment of his father as Minister to England, Adams returned to the United States and entered Harvard University graduating in 1787. Three years later he was admitted to the bar. At the age of 27 he was sent by President Washington as Minister to the Netherlands and later to Berlin. In 1801 he began the practice of law in Boston. In rapid succession he held the following positions: U. S. Senator from Massachusetts, the chair of rhetoric and oratory in Harvard College, Minister to St. Petersburg, Minister to England, Secretary of State. In 1824 he was one of the candidates for the presidency of the United States. On the occasion of the election Adams received 84 electoral votes. Jackson received 91 and Crawford and Clay received 41 and 37 respectively. There being no majority the election was thrown into the House of Representatives and Adams was elected. His administration was very unpopular. In the middle of his term a large hostile majority was elected in Congress for the first time in the history of the country. The following campaign was filled with bitter hostilities and resulted in the election of Jackson. The next year Adams was elected to the House of Representatives by a Massachusetts district and was re-elected every two years for the remainder of his life. He was regarded as a free lance in Congress. He supported or opposed measures according to his own convictions and regardless of their party support. He contended unsuccessfully for the right of petitions against slavery to be presented before Congress. He defended the rights of man. At the age of 79 he was stricken with paralysis. He recovered sufficiently to take his seat in Congress the following February. After responding to roll call in the House on February 21, 1848, he suffered another stroke from the effects of which he died February 23.

General William Mitchell once said: "When aviation reaches its peak, then he who holds Alaska holds the world. What the general meant was that Alaska would provide a spring board from which airplanes could reach Russia, Japan, China and all of Europe. Few realize that the distance between Alaska and Russia is but a few miles, easily spanned by airplane. Once across the narrow straits a plane could fly over land to practically all parts of the world.

The peace that comes after this war will be one thing that won't bear the mark, "Made in Japan" or "Made in Germany."

What We Think
(By Frank Dixon)

As one reviews the past history of this nation and the world there appears to be quite extended periods during which nothing much seemed to happen. The life of nations and the life of the world seemed to move along in a quiet, peaceful sort of a way. There were no upheavals, no disturbing changes, no new adjustments to make because of changes and changing conditions. At such times we become, as individuals, and as nations submerged in our own business with little thought of where we are headed for.

This is the situation with which we faced at the outbreak of the war. The present war appeared to create a lot of new problems that we did not know we had. In reality it did not. In reality the problems with which we suddenly found ourselves faced were the direct and inevitable result of our policy both national and international for the past fifty or sixty years.

Prominent among these was, I think, the spirit of isolation, the feeling that we were sufficient unto ourselves and need give no heed to the rest of the world. In the matter of sustaining ourselves and providing the things we ourselves need this, I think, largely true, but in the larger sense I do not believe that isolationism is possible or practical. There may have been a time in which this was possible but the time is no longer here for this or any other nation. It is neither safe, practical or sound.

This is true because the picture has changed. The world has become smaller. Interests are in-

The Doctor In Wartime

A short time ago, an American Medical Association official observed that doctor calls might have to be "rationed" for the duration. The reason behind this is the immense number of doctors being called for service in the military forces. According to army health officials thousands more will be needed in the future.

American medicine is rising to this emergency with its typical spirit. Retired doctors are coming back into harness, and taking over the practices of younger men who have joined the Army and Navy. Other doctors are working harder, and serving an increased number of patients. And during this difficult period, the patient himself can help keep medical practices at the high standard to which we are accustomed.

Don't waste your doctor's time. Don't ask him to make a house call when you are perfectly capable of going to his office. Don't make him visit a social occasion, and expect him to sit around and wait for an hour after he gets through treating you. If, through your thoughtlessness, the doctor is forced to dissipate time, someone who urgently needs his attention may have to go without.

American medicine can serve both the armed forces, and the civilian population with efficiency if patients will co-operate—Industrial News Review.

its wealth was created for everyone in it and the more nearly we can come to an equitable distribution of it the more stable and secure will future peace become.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Five Months Ahead of Production Schedule

Detroit, June 24. — Anti-aircraft guns which are among the hardest hitting weapons known for aerial defense—a type similar to, but more powerful than the ones which for days blasted one Japanese bomber attack after another in the epic battle of Corregidor—are in production in Fisher body plants five months ahead of schedule.

E. F. Fisher, general manager, made the announcement that a certain quantity of the large caliber guns already has been completed.

The Army, in its contract for the job, had not expected delivery of the first gun until fall. Instead, less than four months after work began, finished guns are being turned out.

Few details of the gun have been made public, but it is known to have a range in excess of 30,000 feet, or in other words it can bag a bomber flying about seven miles high. The gun is mobile, shoots an explosive shell and can be fired by remote control. A weapon somewhat similar has been unusually successful against raids over England.

Fisher attributed much of the success in reaching a finished production stage five months ahead of schedule to adaptation of several important automotive techniques. At maximum production, he disclosed, the machine weapons will be built on a progressive assembly system, which probably will be the first time that any gun so large has ever been built on such a basis, and Fisher Body will be among the nation's largest producers of this type of anti-aircraft gun.

Fisher explained that to facilitate production on such a large scale, the project was divided among several plants. Each plant was assigned a particular phase of the work it was best suited to do. Special tools were designed and assigned to the job, which requires work of extreme accuracy. For instance, a variance of one-one thousandth of an inch in a certain part of the gun will cause the projectile to miss its mark more than 60 feet at a specific range. Such a variance would, of course, cause the gun to be rejected by the Army ordnance inspectors.

One of the most important problems involved in getting such a tremendous manufacturing operation under way was the training of personnel. Training programs were instituted at all plants working on the job to instruct men in operations with which they had so far been unfamiliar. For example, each gun requires 25,000 lineal inches of folding of a specialized type with which none of the operators was familiar, even though Fisher Body in normal years was one of the nation's largest welding companies. All welders had to be retrained. To assemble this gun on a progressive basis, highly specialized machinery and fixtures had to be designed and built and all operators of this machinery had to undergo special instruction.

TROUBLE ON THE FARM The statistics show that farm income has risen substantially during the past year. What the statistics do not show is that the farmer's costs have also risen heavily—and that such problems as labor are getting steadily worse. Dairy farming is a case in point. Cows must be milked twice a day, seven days a week. Expert experienced labor is necessary. But the farmer must pay several times as much for this kind of labor as he used to, even when he can get it. In many areas, it is virtually unobtainable at any price. Workers have gone to the cities, attracted by the high wages and relatively short hours of war industries. The consumer wants cheap milk, and in many states milk is a public utility, with its price controlled by state boards. But the farmer can't sell milk at a fixed price if his labor cost steadily rises. As yet, no one seems to have any feasible solution to this problem. It simply illustrates that, contrary to the belief of many city people, everything isn't perfect down on the farm.—Industrial News Review.

A WEEK of the WAR

President Roosevelt and British Minister Churchill, in a joint statement at the results of their Washington conference, said the discussions covered "all of the major problems of the war... We have conducted our conferences with the full knowledge of the power and resourcefulness of our enemies... While exact plans, far obvious reasons, cannot be disclosed, it can be said that the coming operations... will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

"Transportation of the Fighting Forces, together with the transportation of munitions of war and supplies, still constitutes the major problem of the United Nations," the statement said. "While submarine warfare on the part of the Axis continues to take heavy toll of cargo ships... production of new tonnage is greatly increasing month by month (and) it is hoped that as a result of steps planned at this conference the respective Navies will further reduce the toll of merchant shipping."

War Production
The President reported American plants in May produced 4,000 airplanes, more than 1,500 tanks, about 2,000 artillery and anti-aircraft guns (exclusive of anti-aircraft), more than 50,000 machine guns, and 50,000 sub-machine guns. "We are well on our way toward achieving the rate of production which will bring us to our goal," the President said. "This is no time, however, for the American people to get over-confident," he said, "because there are plenty of serious production problems ahead, particularly those caused by raw materials shortages."

War Production Chairman Nelson called on Americans to observe Independence Day this year by working for their freedoms, because "we at home dare not have a July Fourth Holiday in war production." Mr. Nelson said the U. S. War Production Program will call for $22 billion worth of war goods, of which $14 billion must be bought at the average rate of $6 billion a month during this year and next, compared with the current rate of $3.8 billion a month.

for permanent gasoline rationing for the East, effective July 22, provide all passenger car owners are entitled to A books based on 2,880 miles of driving a year and containing six pages of eight coupons each—each coupon worth four gallons. Application for supplemental rations may be filed when motorists register for A books on July 9, 10, and 11. In order to qualify for supplemental B or C books, A motorists must prove occupational driving is in excess of 1,800 miles a year and that he has formed a Car-Sharing Club. S-1 and S-2 books for trucks, taxis, ambulances and Government vehicles will contain 96 and 384 coupons, respectively. Filling stations may give preference to defense workers, trucks and ambulances, after posting notices to that effect, if their supplies are insufficient to meet all demands, OPA ruled. The Office suspended deliveries to 64 filling stations in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, bringing to 78 the total suspensions for alleged violations of Rationing Regulations. The OCD asked 3,090 Defense Councils in the East to establish machinery for bringing automobile owners together in Car-Sharing Clubs. Tire and tube quotas for July were increased over June to take care of greater wear during the hot summer months.

Army and Selective Service
The House passed and sent to the Senate the $42 billion Army Supply Bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1—the largest single appropriation in U. S. history. Services of Supply Commander Somervell said the Army will reach 4,500,000 men by the middle of 1943. The Army food bill in 1943 will be $1,300 million, he said. Beginning July 1, the CAA will train 13,000 pilots for the Army Air Forces Enlisted Reserve as glider pilots, airline co-pilots, service pilots and pilot instructors. Men between 18 and 37 are eligible. The War Department said the Air Ferrying and the Air Transport operations of the Army will be co-ordinated into a new Air Transport Command, effective July 1.

Selective Service Headquarters said Local Boards should segregate registrants into four categories and call them to service in the following order: 1. Those without financial dependents; 2. Those with financial dependents other than wives or children; 3. Registrants who married prior to December 2, 1941, and who are maintaining bona fide family relationships; and 4. Registrants who have wives and children, or children only with whom they maintain bona fide family relationships. SS Headquarters said Local Boards will decide on disposition of men who were in process of being inducted at the time the categories were set up.

Navy Expansion
The Senate passed and sent to the House a Bill authorizing the Navy to increase the size of the U. S. Fleet by 1,900,000 tons at an estimated cost of $8,500 million. The program will give the Navy a total of 5,650,000 tons of combat ships, far in excess of any other Navy in the world. The President signed legislation authorizing a 25 per cent increase in pay for Naval Officers assigned to submarine duty and providing a $5-an-hour bonus for Navy divers engaged in hazardous undertakings.

The War Front
A European theater of operations for U. S. Forces was established with Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, formerly Assistant Chief of Staff in charge of the Operations Division, as Commanding General. Headquarters will be in London. Brig. Gen. Hugh Casey of the Army Engineer Corps reported the Allied Works Council and the U. S. Army Engineers in Australia have built 100 military airdromes, built or improved thousands of miles of strategic roads, and are working on 12,000 separate projects in Australia. U.

S. Airmen damaged a Japanese cruiser and sank a transport in Kiska Harbor in the Aleutians. The sinking of 17 more Allied merchant vessels by enemy submarines was announced.

Transportation and Rubber Salvage

The Office of Defense Transportation established a U. S. Truck Conservation Corps to mobilize the country's 5,000,000 trucks for more efficient war service. The Office said conversion of the trucking industry to a war time basis "reflecting a big saving of rubber and equipment, despite a sharp increase in the volume of business. Railroads in 1941 set an all-time record of ton freight carried and increased circulation of ton-miles of freight carried, and increased circulation of freight cars by 33 per cent over 1929. Passenger service of both railroads and buses is about 50 per cent greater this year than last, Mr. Eastman said. He requested discontinuance of the duration of all County and State Fairs in order to conserve transport facilities.

President Roosevelt extended until midnight, July 10, the scrap rubber collection campaign because the response was disappointing and yielded only 219,000 tons as of June 27.

Agriculture
Agriculture Secretary Wickard said the U. S. will have to rely more and more on the contribution small farmers can make toward meeting war time goals for food production. He said the Agriculture Department is doing everything it can to help such farmers purchase new equipment and stock for expanding crops. The Department estimated the 1942 pig crop at a record total of 105 million head, compared with 85 million head in 1941. Total milk production as of June 1 was more than 3 per cent greater than last year. The Department reported almost 12 million persons were employed on farms June 1—more than a million above the May 1 total and 99 per cent of the 1910-14 average. Farm wage rates on June 1 were 183 per cent of the 1910-14 average.

to supply a super abundance of the implements of war and food and clothing to guarantee that they will not be fighting half armed... ill clad... empty stomachs.

That takes money, lots of money... Effort, lots of effort. Let's all, all who remain behind the battle lines, resolve to buy Defense Stamps and Bonds with abandon... to use every ounce of our energy to produce everything needed to whip the daylights out of those who attacked us.

Granted, that it will require sacrifice, but sacrifice that falls into insignificance when we compare it to the hardships and suffering of the boys in uniform. Isn't it a small price to pay for victory?... Yes... when we contemplate what would happen if our enemies won.

"Blood and Sweat and Tears"... and money!... Such huge sums of money as to beggar the imagination of a Croesus. That is the price of victory in this war.

Blood is the greater price to pay. No one will dispute that. Those who remain in civilian life have only remote chances of sacrificing it. The boys in uniforms are the Americans who will bear the real scars of this conflict. They are the fighters, who with lead and Yankee courage, will keep Old Glory waving... will repulse the unprovoked attack of the Japs and the Nazis.

Then, to these fighting men we owe a solemn pledge... a pledge to use every ounce of our might

One has only to follow his newspaper, or tune in his radio, to know what has happened to the Poles, the Czechs, the Belgians, the Dutch, the French, the Norwegians, the Serbs, the Greeks, and whomever the the Axis has struck successfully, to know the fate of our nation if we lost this war.

Free religious worship, free speech, free thought, free action would be denied us, if our enemies were victorious. Our homes, churches, factories, farms, and the fruits of our toil would be lost. Even life, itself, would be in the hands of those who regard human life as the cheapest thing on earth. Our dreadful plight would be that of the peoples already brought under the heel of the dictators.

Isn't it about time that we put our collective shoulders to the wheel, worked harder... using every dollar and every dime that we can spare to buy Defense Bonds and Stamps to assure defeat of the ruthless dictators and to remove the possibility of the consequences of defeat? We all know the answer. Let's get busy.

For the duration, keep in mind that your retail merchants, your service institutions, and your professional men are doing their best to carry on as normally as possible, but if war has forced certain changes, bear with them, remembering that they are doing all that they can to serve you the best that they can.

The terrific reverses in Libya are a tribute to German military leadership—and a harsh criticism on British military leadership. That seems to be the collective opinion of most authorities. The British were superior in the air and on the ground. That superiority gave them a fatal confidence. And Marshal Rommel and his Afrika Korps took a long and daring chance and succeeded.

The Russian defense against vastly superior German legions has been nothing short of miraculous. Hitler is apparently throwing everything he has into the Russian front now. Christian Science Pastor "Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 12.

The Golden Text is: "Let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup" (1 Corinthians 11:28).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Say not thou, I will recompense evil; but wait on the Lord, and he shall save thee" (Proverbs 20:22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil" (page 571).

Weekly Sermon

By Dr. Max I. Reich, Director of the Jewish Missions Course, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

Romance and Realism Our Lord began His ministry at a marriage feast and concluded it at the Passover table. At the first He took water and changed it into wine. At the last He took wine and made it the symbol of His blood. Is not the gospel message in its romance and realism thus set forth?

Jesus came to enrich life. He came with a divine content. Ordinary water becomes wine at His command. He can beautify, gladden and transfigure the humblest human relations. "He manifested His glory," we are told, at the marriage feast of Cana. He still manifests His glory when we surrender our lives to Him, as the water pots for purification were held at His disposal.

The "beginning of signs" is a simple and earnest of His continual working.

But Jesus was a stern realist as well as the imparter of poetry and romance to drab earthly conditions. He saw clearly the gravity of sin, how it disturbs not only a man's relations with God, but has besides, a disintegrating influence in man's relations with men. Man, He saw, needed to be redeemed. Hence the cross of Calvary. We need the cross—not the cross without the Christ, any more than the Christ without the cross. And thus too His glory shines out; yea, His brightest glory. It outshines all His other glories. It is the glory of redemptive love reaching man through the supreme sacrifice of His death.

Is it any wonder that in the shadow of His cross, defeated, broken, and bruised men have sought and found peace and purity, healing and hope, refuge and rest? For Calvary has a deeper content than Cana.

U. S. Naval Forces Need Binoculars; Second Appeal Made

New Orleans, La., June 26.—Since the supply of binoculars is still far below the needs of the U. S. Naval forces, a second appeal was directed today to the owners of binoculars meeting service requirements to loan them to the Navy for use in the war effort. It was announced by the Eighth Naval District Public Relations Office.

Because of the lack of facilities and of highly-trained personnel necessary to the manufacture of these precision instruments, the maximum production of binoculars remains insufficient for the requirements of the rapidly expanding armed forces. As a result, the need for privately owned glasses gains week by week.

In these days of combined sea and air warfare, additional look-outs are required on all Naval vessels to maintain a constant watch. This vigil is most effectively maintained, especially at night, by personnel equipped with binoculars that have large projective openings for better light transmission and resulting binocular vision. A binocular of less than six power is of small value as is one of high power with a small objective aperture.

For these reasons, and because of the difficulty in obtaining replacement parts and trained personnel necessary to keep a variety of glasses in good repair, the Navy accepts only 6x30 and 7x50 binoculars manufactured by either Zeiss or Bausch & Lomb. Toys, loggnettes, opera glasses and small binoculars are useless for Naval purposes.

Persons who own binoculars meeting the above requirements and who desire to lend them to the Navy for the duration of the war have been requested to pack them carefully and ship them to the Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C. Because the Navy is not authorized to accept gifts or free loans, the binoculars furnished by the public and accepted by the Navy will be purchased for $1.00 each. If they are still in use at the end of hostilities, the Navy will return the instruments to the former owners and the $1.00 purchase price will constitute the rental and depreciation fees.

In the four and one-half months since February 10 when Secretary of Navy Knox first appealed for public spirited citizens to donate their binoculars, approximately 6,000 individuals have responded, furnishing our ever-expanding fleet with 1,654 binoculars of required makes and sizes.

The tabulation by states in the Eighth Naval District shows that a total of 84 binoculars have been accepted by the Navy to date. The break-down by states:

Elect Claude Callaway REPRESENTATIVE

To the People of Foard County, Truscott, Gilliland and the Readers of The Foard County News. I ask that you please accept this as a personal letter to each of you:

I realize that you could not help but wonder if Judge Callaway was not interested enough in this campaign to devote his full time to it. I will be frank with you, I had really planned to see each of you personally but after the cyclone that hit Crowell, I felt that it was my duty to forget my campaign and to work with the people here in the rehabilitation program. I am happy today that I gave six full weeks to this work, working with the American Red Cross, the Disaster Loan Corporation, the local civic groups and last, but not least, with the help that was sent in by the communities of this county and the adjoining counties. I might say that in this connection, that each family that lost a home or household furnishings, that was not able to rebuild the house nor to re-furnish their home, that I had the happy privilege of seeing the house rebuilt or the household goods replaced under this rehabilitation program. This, connected with the war restrictions on automobile tires, and the further fact that there has been no campaign rallies, has made it impossible to see each of you personally.

The extreme confidence that you have placed in me for the many years that I have been in public office, makes me feel sure that you are interested in me and all that I am, or will ever attain in this world, I feel that I owe to the people of Foard County and adjoining communities, for the confidence that you have manifested, has caused the people of the other counties to become interested in my campaign. Therefore, I assure you that if I go to the State Legislature as your representative, I will at all times remember that I went as your servant and that you sent me there to work for you and the people of the 114th Legislative District, composed of Hardeman, Knox, King and Foard Counties. To this trust that you have placed in me I will do my best to prove true.

I ask that each of you accept this as my personal solicitation of your vote and influence in the July 25th election.

conomic Highlights The last war, the American people were definitely sick and tired of militarism and all that it entailed. The war to end wars had finally fought and won, the people and their government proceeded to scrap their military power with astonishing speed. A large part of the Navy was scrapped. The Army was reduced to 130,000 men—a smaller force than was maintained by a fourth-class European power. The Air Force was reduced to the vanishing point. Appropriations for all the services were cut to the bone, despite the warnings and pleadings of such General Dyer, who was convinced that a greater war was on its way. We withdrew ourselves from foreign commitments as far as possible, and pursued a policy of 100 per cent isolation. American people seem to be in very different terms today. They, and their leaders in the main, are coming to realize the immense obligations which world leadership will impose after, as well as during the war. As the United States News after the war, "The world is in no shape to run itself. It will be the task of policing the 6,000 people of Europe, 50,000,000 people in Japan, and the last battle and the peace treaty. During this large occupational force will be needed. The size of the force involved indicates a force of 2,000,000,000 outside the United States." One regards this prospect with particular pleasure. In any particular pleasure, it is regarded as a matter of necessity, whether we win or not. And there is an unanimity of opinion as to what must be done. For both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. E. A. Tamm, who hold extremely opposite points of view on many domestic issues, see almost the same thing when it comes to America as stabilizer and policeman of the post-war world. For President Hoover is co-author of a thoughtful new book in which he argues that the American people are in a kind of in-between position which is the distinction of our national attitude during the '20s. And American industrial leaders, in all fields of enterprise, hold similar opinions. There is, of course, much disagreement as to the details of our war policy—but there is lit- tle disagreement as to the basic principle which must underlie that which will cost a great deal of money and police and to rehabilitate the world. It will require the maintenance of a gigantic Air Force and of a very large Navy. It may involve out- going gifts to stricken nations. It may mean that, in the interest of peace, we will have to forego some of our past trade advantages, and dispense with high tariffs and other barriers to commerce. But, it is argued, the cost of doing this, gigantic as it may be, is far less than the cost of fighting a terrible war every generation or two. It is also argued that due to the incredible production machine we will have at war's end, our national income will be so high that we will be able to afford expenditures which would have been impossible in the past. This, of course, is a form of imperialism. But its principal spokesman, such as Wallace, Hoover, Roosevelt, and E. A. Tamm, say that it will have little in common with the imper-

Gas Rationing Would Affect Texas School Children

Schooling of Texas children may suffer heavily if gasoline rationing is extended to Texas. That is the conclusion to be drawn from study of a school tax survey just received here. The survey, compiled from reports of independent school districts and official state records, shows that last year petroleum and its products bore 39 per cent, or virtually two-fifths of the total cost of schooling Texas boys and girls.

Or to put it another way, two out of every five Texas school children were educated last year through taxes on the Texas petroleum industry and on gasoline. A total of 600,000 Texas boys and girls out of the state's scholastic population of 1,539,000 had their entire school expenses paid by petroleum and petroleum products taxes last year.

The report, compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association statisticians from figures obtained from independent school district tax collectors and from state officials, shows $91,754,249 was spent for educating Texas school children last year. Of this amount, $23,254,172 was paid by the Texas petroleum industry in State and local taxes used for school purposes. An additional $12,384,568 was paid for schools

You Can't Do Business Nation-Wide Drive—At A Loss

Retailers cannot stock their shelves with goods that cost more at wholesale than they can legally sell them for at retail. That is certainly obvious. Yet, due to the price-freezing order, that is what retailers are now faced with in certain cases.

J. M. Lansinger, executive secretary of the Oregon Food Merchants' Association, recently pointed out that the first general OPA price order required both retailers and canners to sell their goods for prices no higher than the peak March level. Since that time, new OPA orders have exempted canners from the general price and fixed new ceilings for them. But no exemption has been given the retailer. As a result, said Mr. Lansinger, grocers estimate that 90 per cent of the items in the 1942 canned vegetable pack will have a canners' ceiling price higher than the allowable retail ceiling price for all factors in the grocery trade.

What is true of canned goods is true of many other items in both the food and non-food retail fields. And the effect of it isn't hard to forecast. Retailers simply can't and won't buy goods whose wholesale prices allow them no profit. The consuming public, as a consequence, will suffer from a lack of staple necessities. And finally, merchants will suffer from the loss of a great portion of their usual business. That, unless corrective action is taken quickly, will amount to condemning thousands of stores, most of them small, to extinction.

If retail prices are to be fixed as of some given date, all prices, and all costs, must likewise be fixed as of the same date. If exceptions are made for one group, exceptions must be made for all. Here is a question which involves the very existence of retail business. And speed in making the necessary adjustments is essential.—Industrial News Review.

Life insurance agents will be called upon to inspire and participate in health conservation activities in their communities in co-operation with public health officers and medical groups, according to plans being prepared by the National Association of Life Underwriters, representing the life insurance agents of the nation. John A. Witherspoon, National Association of Life Underwriters president, is planning to set up machinery to carry out the program locally through the creation of local committees of agents.

"With every working hour so vital to the war effort, the need for a 'Keep Well Crusade' on the home front is urgent," Halgar J. Johnson, president of the Institute of Life Insurance, stated in announcing the campaign. "Every man, woman and child can help win the war by just keeping well. This can be clearly seen when we realize that the sum total of all the individual absences among the working force of the country is the equivalent of a quarter million workers. Also, the cost of accidents and sickness amounts to a figure nearly as great, if not greater, than the total War Bond purchases by the people of the country. It is quite clear that anything that can bring even a fractional improvement in the sickness and accident rate will be immediately reflected in greater productivity by our war workers and more funds available for war bond purchases.

"Physical fitness on the home front means more planes, more tanks and more ships for our fighting forces. The men and women of the life insurance business, who have such wide public contacts, can therefore lend power to the war drive by inspiring health conservation activities in their communities and by spreading the message of the five fundamental rules of health, which follow:

1. Eat Right. Milk, butter, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans and peas, fruit, leafy green vegetables and the yellow ones, whole-grain or enriched cereals and bread—these are the key foods. Eat plenty of them. And eat 3 meals a day.

2. Get Your Rest. Regularity counts most. You can't catch up on lost sleep or missed relaxation. Try to keep on a regular schedule every day. Take it easy for a little while after lunch and dinner. Go to bed on time, get up on time.

3. See Your Doctor Once A Year. You have your car checked and serviced every thousand miles. Do as much for your body. Physicians can prevent many diseases and illnesses for both children and grown-ups nowadays. Give your doctor a chance now. Before you get sick. Go to see him.

4. Keep Clean. Plenty of baths, lots of soap. Clean hands, clothes, houses, beds. Get fresh air and shine. Drink lots of water.

5. "Play" Some. Each day, with the family, your friends, take walks, play games or do whatever you like to do for your body and mind a change from the daily grind on the job. Work and no play makes a dull boy."
