Men of Foard Who Have Become Selective Since Oct. 16 Will Register for Active Service in Crowell Tuesday

Men of Foard County, who have become selective since October 16, 1940, and will register for active service in Crowell Tuesday, July 1.

Approximately 65,000 men are expected to be registered in Texas on Tuesday, July 1, 1941, as well as American citizens who are 21 years old or over and who have not been previously registered. It is estimated that about 25 million men in the United States will be registered on Tuesday, July 1, 1941, and have not been previously registered, must appear before local boards on July 1 to be registered.

Selective Service regulations that the exemptions registration as provided by the War Relocation Authority and the Coast Guard and Reserve Act are: commissioned officers, war-time pay clerks, and members of the Regular Army, Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, and the Merchant Marine (Continued on Last Page)

Valtin Will Lecture in Vernon Tuesday at 8 P. M.

Valtin, author of "Out of the Night" will lecture in Vernon Tuesday evening, July 23, 8 p. m., under the auspices of the committee of twenty-five men informally organized to bring the famous Russian and Gestapo official to Vernon High School auditorium.

Mr. Valtin's first lecture in America was in Washington, D. C., and was titled "Hitler's Army in Russia: How it works and what it is doing." In view of the declaration of war by Germany on Russia, his lecture should be revealing. Valtin will bring with him a copy of his book which he will read to the lecture by guests in the Vernon meeting.

Reservations for the lecture are on at Huber's Drug Store in Vernon. Reserved seats are $1.00 and other good unreserved seats are 50c. Mail orders will be filled, when addressed to Huber's Drug Store.

Interest is noted in this lecture of the man who spent years in the torture chamber of Hitler's political prison. His coming has brought news from many cities where he has lectured. Valtin will lecture in Dallas on the night following his Vernon lecture. "Out of the Night" was the title of the book which he released in February, 1941. Since then it has sold 420,000 copies in the United States and Canada; it is being translated into special editions in Britain, Portugal, Sweden, and the Dutch Indies. It has been translated into Hebrew and is now appearing serially in 26 American papers. It is being read by 2,000,000 people in full form, not counting the 20,000 others who read condensations in Life Magazine and Reader's Digest. The book has been translated into German and Soviet Russia, as well as in Japan. It has put a high price on a man's head.

TALL HOLLYHOCKS

Excessive rainfall during the months of the year has caused unusual plant growth for Foard County. The latest unusual growth to be reported are hollyhocks in the yard of Mrs. Chas. Fitch, block west of the square. They are probably the tallest hollyhocks to be grown in this county as one stem of the plant grows to a height of 11 feet. Other stalks range from that height to about two feet.

County Officials Prepare Flood Damage Record To Take Advantage Of Any Tax Remission Given by State

Richard Sparks, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sparks of the Foard City community, has accepted an appointment as agricultural economist with the Soil Conservation Service and assumed his duties June 16 at Temple. At the close of the last term at A. & M. College, Richard had finished all work on his Ph. D. degree with the exception of writing a thesis.

More Power to U. S.

Two new destroyers, the U. S. S. Fitch and the U. S. S. Forrest, were launched within a few minutes of each other at Boston navy yard immediately after the launching, keels for two new ships were laid on the ways just vacated. The Fitch, shown above, was sponsored by Mrs. H. Walter Thomas of Salt Lake City, Utah, and was named in memory of her grand-uncle, commander Leroy Fitch.

County Judge Leslie Thomas and the Commissioners' Court have been actively engaged in preserving a record of the damage which Foard County has sustained this year by virtue of the heavy rainfall resulting in ruined crops and multiple damage to county roads and bridges.

It was hoped that some tax remission for Foard County could be secured at this session of the Legislature and Judge Thomas kept in close contact with Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe and Representative Grady Roberts of Munday in order that every effort might be exerted in the event opportunity presented itself, however, both representatives are of the opinion that a tax remission for any county will not be granted at this session of the Legislature.

The House and Senate, both have been bombarded with requests for tax remission, but it is doubtful that any bill will be passed unless an agreement is reached whereby all counties that are deserving of remission are let in on the program.

Judge Thomas and the Court are preserving this record so that in the event a special session of the Legislature should be held in the fall a more conclusive and more concrete statement of facts can be presented before the legislative bodies. Senator Moffett believes that there will necessarily be a special session this fall.

It is not known just exactly what procedure shall ensue hereon, but every effort will be exerted to protect the interests of landowners of Foard County until it is certain whether or not a tax remission can be received.

AT FORT SILL, OKLA.

Lorraine Carter and Leo Sanders, selectees from Foard County, who were inducted into the U. S. Army at Dallas last Thursday, have been stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., according to information received here this week.

All schools in Foard County were classified for the year 1941-1942 at a recent meeting of the County Board of School Trustees under the eight and twelve-grade plan, according to County School Superintendent Leslie Thomas.

School Classifications

Following are the classification of the schools of Foard County for the coming year:

- Riverside, 8 grades.
- Foard City, 8 grades.
- Claytonville, 8 grades.

Transfers

It is necessary that all children whose grades are not taught in their home district be transferred to the school which they will attend before August 1, 1941. This must be done in order that state aid can be received for each child. In the event a child is not transferred, state aid will not be received.

All students residing in contract districts, that is, districts which have transferred a portion of, or their entire district, into the Crowell district, and who will be in a grade above that for which their home school is classified, must make transfer to the proper receiving school district before August 1, 1941.

It is urged that all transfers be made before the above date.

MOVED TO CROWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teague moved to Crowell from the Five-in-One community last week. They are located at present at the home of Mr. Teague's mother, Mrs. L. Kamstra. Mr. Teague will be an instructor in Crowell High School next term.

The 1941 wheat harvest in Foard County entered its last stage this week and accurate reports from the elevators Wednesday afternoon showed that only 259,644 bushels of new wheat had been delivered at that date.

Over 549,750 bushels of wheat had been delivered to the elevators at this time last year. This is a decrease of 290,106 bushels in comparing the crops of 1940 and 1941. Last year an average crop was harvested and it is expected that the crop this year will be but a little more than half of last season's. A little more than 600,000 bushels of wheat were harvested in 1940.

According to figures released from the county agent's office, there were 51,000 acres of land planted in wheat this year, and two months ago wheat men were predicting an average of 20 bushels per acre which would have placed the county's yield at 1,020,000 bushels. Now there are many fields in which the grain can not be harvested.

At the time the above predictions were made wheat prospects were as good or better than ever seen in Foard County before, but army worms, wind, hail and excessive rainfall have damaged the grain until the yield is very low and the grade of wheat is also greatly lowered. Wheat, on an average, has been testing between 50 and 55 pounds per bushel.

There has been more 1941 wheat cut in the county than is shown in the above elevator figures, due to the fact that a number of farmers are storing the grain in granaries. An estimate on this amount is not obtainable.

The fact that the harvest season is fast drawing to a close is evidenced in the number of combines which have been leaving the county during the first part of the week, and the decrease in the number of grain trucks hauling the grain to elevators.

There is still some wheat in the county which will be harvested. One threshing rig is operating near Thalia at present, but reports of other threshing rigs operating have not been received.

Vernon Will Stage Fourth of July Celebration

An old-time Fourth-of-July celebration, from fire food to fireworks, is in store for folks of North Texas and Southwest Oklahoma when they gather under the shade trees of Allingham Park in Vernon on Independence Day. Several thousand fun seekers and reminiscing Old-Timers are expected to visit that city on the gala day. J. A. Ragland, general chairman of the event, has announced.

Beginning with a parade at 11 o'clock a. m., the program will run far into the night, with something popping every minute. A patriotic speech at the park will be followed at noon by a basket lunch at which every family bringing a basket full of trimmings will be given free barbecued meat for the main course. During the afternoon an old-fiddler's contest, hog-calling contest, band concert and singing convention are scheduled.

In the evening a horse show, pie-eating contest, folk dancing and mammoth fireworks display will be staged. Game concessions and refreshment stands will be operating on the grounds all day. Final event will be a dance at the Hill Crest Country Club northwest of the city. Prizes in the contests will be Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps, Mr. Ragland said.

There should be more written and published regarding the condition of the average person, the worker and the farmer in the European countries and other countries. Every such article would bring home to the people who live in this country a realization of the privileges that they are permitted to enjoy in America. The poorest family in America lives better, has more to eat and more to wear than millions in every country in Europe. Those who think it couldn't be worse would learn through articles of this kind how much worse it really could be and as a result have a new concept of their privileges in this country. Some times these privileges may fall short of all that is to be desired but even so vastly better than what they might be, and what millions of others enjoy, that they are worth making every effort and every sacrifice to preserve.

The fate of France is an example of what can happen to a once proud nation when an enemy like Hitler once gains the mastery. France has probably regretted a good many times that she listened to the pacifists and Communists and sat idly by while Hitler put together piece by piece, before the eyes of the French, the war machine that was to crush and make shambles of their country, and starving, cringing slaves of the French people.

Some one has figured it out that there is only about one person in every thousand who can successfully operate a business. According to this authority in addition to the item of adequate capital, excess of income over outgo and no unnecessary overhead, there is the personal element of self discipline. This applies to the use of time, energy, money, authority, etc. It requires considerably more self discipline to run a business successfully than it does to merely be employed in a business, for the employee is lacking in self discipline only his own affairs suffer, but if the manager of a business is lacking in self discipline the whole business is affected and every employee in it.

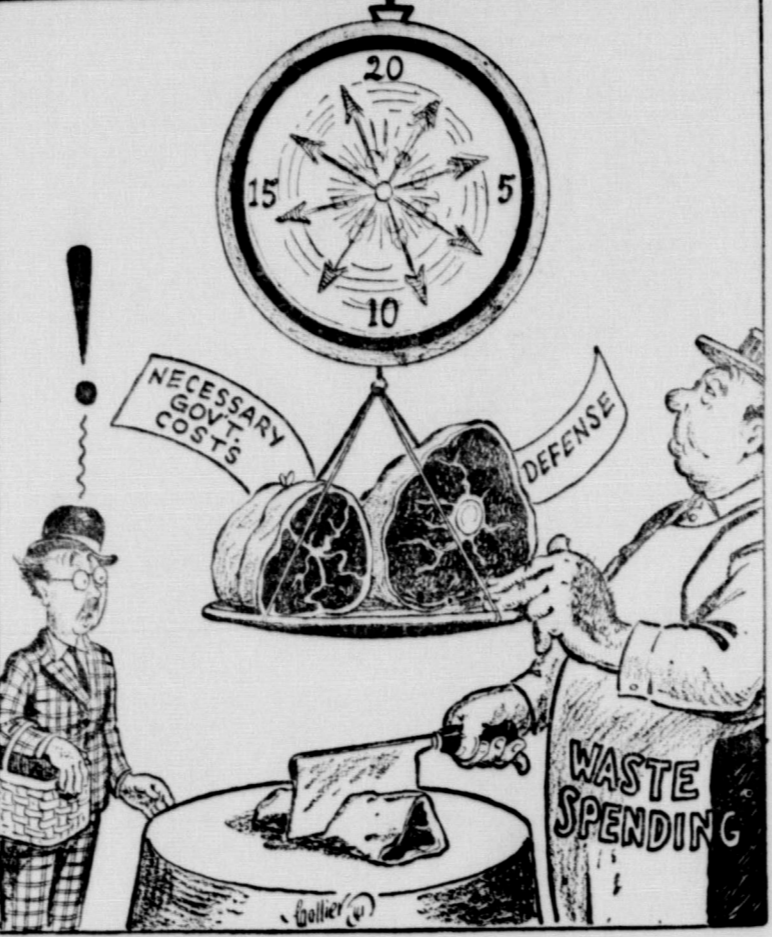

The Stuff Men Are Made Of

You've heard of the foursquare man. By that term, we hardly mean a man of four sides but rather one of unshakable firmness. That's a star to which any man might well hitch his wagon.

To our way of thinking, a four-square man has six sides to his life. First is home which means loved ones and a place of rest and abode. Second is work, which is your contribution to the ongoing of the world rather than merely a means of earning bread. Third, is religion, which is your contact with God and things eternal. Fourth is friendship, which has within it a spark of divinity. Fifth is service, by which we mean that part of your time, talent and means which you give to the community. Sixth is play, which embraces all forms of recreation.

Home, work, religion, friendship, service, play! The man who lacks any of these essentials of life is not foursquare, but lop-sided. Without home, he is a vagabond; without work, he is useless; without religion, he is in darkness; without friendship, he is alone; without service, he is empty; without play, he is a drudge. Possessing all, life is full, rounded and good. — Stamford America.

HEY! TAKE YOUR HAND OFF!

What We Think (By Frank Dixon)

In my opinion the two greatest dangers that face this country at the present moment is the lack of unity on the matter of aid to Britain and the lack of co-operation on the part of labor leaders in the defense program. These two things it seems to me, present two unfortunate and very dangerous obstacles in the battle to preserve democracy as a way of life. I am in complete agreement with the program of all aid possible to Britain. We believe that that aid should be given now and that nothing should be left undone that will serve to deliver that aid in the largest measure possible and at the earliest opportunity possible.

I am conscious of the fact that such a program may easily lead to serious implications, but under the present world conditions it is too late to shrink from full performance or to enter upon a program of aid to Britain in a half hearted way.

I believe that if Hitler defeats England that the United States, with all her resources, cannot defeat Hitler.

He will have at his command unlimited man power and raw material. He will control the seas by controlling the harbors of the world. He will control the vital and the essential raw materials for which there is no substitute and without which a major war cannot be successfully waged.

This being true, and it is obviously true, the only escape for this democracy would be that Hitler after having defeated England would call off his dogs of war in their march for world domination. This we do not believe he will do. The whole history of his mad march for power proves that he would not.

We entertain no fear that Hitler would launch an armed force upon American shores. This would not be necessary. He would take from us our foreign trade by putting commerce on a barter basis that our standard of living could not meet and endure. Deprived of our world markets our industries would be forced to restrict themselves to the needs of home consumption, resulting in greater unemployment and a lowering of our standard of living.

The natural result of unemployment and a lowered standard of living would be discontent and disunity creating a most fertile soil for the infiltration of Nazi doctrine and Nazi principles.

Once this cancer starts to feed upon the heart of a nation its real strength and life begins to drib away. Fed by lies and misrepresentation it eats its way into the heart of a people robbing them of all reason and all judgment. Other nations have not been able to escape the consequences of its poison, neither can we.

We are face to face with a situation the peril of which it is not possible to over estimate. Our greatest danger lies in the possibility that we may underestimate it. In the midst of all our wishful thinking we should remember that a single democracy cannot survive in a dictator ruled world.

England and the United States are engaged in a race against Hitler. Should England fall because our aid fails to reach her on time, because of internal disunity and non-co-operation of labor leaders we will be called upon to face Hitler alone.

Can we afford? Do we dare to take such a chance?

49.6 PER CENT TAKE WEEKLY PAPER

The 1941 Rate Directory of Country and Suburban Town Newspapers reports that nearly 16,000,000 or 46.6 per cent of all the families in the United States take a weekly, tri-weekly or semi-weekly newspaper. The average circulation of the 9,950 newspapers is 1,600 and their average rate is 31 cents per newspaper—or $3,084.16 per inch for national advertising.

IN THE NEWS... 44 YEARS AGO

Items below were taken from the issue of The Foard County News of May 21, 1907, at which time the late Robert Cole was editor and proprietor. This issue of the paper was preserved by the late Joe W. Beverly and is in our possession through the courtesy of his heirs.

Advertising in The News forty-four years ago was carried mostly by Vernon firms with the exception of the ads of M. E. Thacker, R. B. Edwards & Co., and E. F. Hart, pioneer merchants of Crowell, also C. B. Garlinghouse, blacksmith.

The weather has cleared off and appearances indicate that the continued rains are over. The wheat crop will be immense.

J. W. Beverly had some very much needed work done on the streets of Crowell this week. If the business men of the town would take hold of the matter together and get a little help from the county, the streets of Crowell could be put in good condition with a small expense.

Married—At the residence of the bride's parents at Vivian, Foard County, Texas, at 1 o'clock p. m. Sunday, May 16th by Rev. J. C. Roberts, Mr. W. H. Terrell and Miss Lela A. Patton; all of Foard County, Texas.

Mr. Terrell is a well to do young farmer and stock man, and having resided in the neighborhood for several years where Miss Lela grew up to womanhood, it is not a matter of astonishment that he had learned to admire alike the beauty and grace of her persons, and the symmetrically proportioned Christian character.

Miss Lela was one of the teachers in the public schools of Foard County, and has many warm friends and acquaintances both in Foard and surrounding counties. After the marriage ceremonies were celebrated the guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner, and noticeable among the group were seven old bachelors, all of whom declared to the writer that they felt encouraged and would in the future press their suit a little closer, and that in all probability this was only the beginning of weddings among the B. B. Be. (bachelors of single blessedness.) There were quite a lot of young folks present, also several neighboring families.

The occasion will long be remembered as one of the most enjoyable social events in the Vivian neighborhood.—J. C. R. The editor of The News esteems Mr. Terrell and his charming bride with feelings of warmest friendship, and wishes them a long, happy and successful career.—Ed.

July 1 Registrants Must Choose Place of Residence for Cards

A Selective Service registrant, who, on the registration day of July 1, has more than one place of residence may choose the one which he wants recorded on his registration card as his place of residence to determine the local board that will always have jurisdiction over him. General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, said this week.

On the first registration day, October 16, 1940, such registrants were often confused as to which place to list. General Page pointed out that this was especially true in instances where men had legal residences in one community but had a temporary dwelling place in another. As the residence listed on the registration card determines what local board has permanent jurisdiction over the registrant, some of the men later wished to change the address they had given, but were denied the privilege because Selective Service Regulations prohibit such changes.

In the second registration on July 1, General Page said, the registration cards will contain a space for the registrant to list his place of residence. In the event that he has more than one place, he may list his choice as his residence without interference or dictation from a registrar, General Page added.

In addition, the registration card will have space for recording of a mail address. This may be the same as the place of residence or it may be another address where the registrant would receive his mail more readily.

Pointing out that the new Selective Service Regulations prescribe that there will be two places for addresses on the registration card, General Page said: "This new procedure is expected to be a big improvement over that followed in the first registration when only one space was allowed on the registration card for an address because the description of the place of residence which fixes local board jurisdiction for one and for all is never changed, while the mailing address is subject to change whenever the registrant moves."

Open Range Days Will Be Re-Lived at Stamford Reunion

Stamford, June 23.—Those almost mythical days of the open range, of boots and spurs and six guns and large herds of cattle on the trail, will be re-lived here on July 3, 4 and 5, during the twelfth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion, when veteran cowhands of the Southwest will gather for their annual meeting.

Each year, old-time cow-punchers, some 800 of them, assemble here during the Reunion, elect new officers for their association, renew acquaintances, swap yarns and recall stirring events which occurred when the West was young. Membership is limited to men who were actively employed as cowboys on ranches at least 35 years ago, and the roster now includes more than 1,800. Members who have paid their annual dues are issued badges which entitle them to a chuck wagon dinner at noon each day of the Reunion, and free admission to each performance of the rodeo.

Membership in the association includes the following from Crowell: E. L. Ribble, J. H. Lanier, C. E. (Pete) Holcombe.

Consumers Should Know

(1) Why Business Must Advertise

This is the first of a series of six articles prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education of the Advertising Federation of America, in response to the increasing interest of consumers in questions affecting advertising and business.

Advertising is such a common thing here in America that it is actually a part of our lives. It influences our way of thinking and our way of living and it has a decided influence on the course of business.

There are many mediums of advertising and it is almost constantly with us. Because advertising is practiced so universally by nearly every kind of business, it is not unusual to hear someone ask: "Why is it necessary to have all this advertising? Wouldn't business get on just about the same if there were no advertising and wouldn't consumers find life less complicated and more satisfactory if they were not constantly being reminded by advertising of things to buy?"

This is certainly a fair question and you may be sure that it is not only consumers who have asked it. Many a business has asked why it should advertise. It costs money to advertise, and if there is anything a business dislikes it is to waste money.

From the standpoint of business, it appears that there must be very good reasons for going into advertising and keeping it up, for it is to be noticed that many of the most successful and best-managed companies are among the most consistent advertisers.

And from the standpoint of consumers, it appears that there must be a good deal of service value in advertising, for it is to be noticed that most consumers prefer to buy advertised brands, and to patronize those stores which make the best impression with their advertising.

Of course these are only surface indications. A satisfactory answer to the question of why business must advertise should go deeper into the actual work done by advertising from the standpoint of business, and should examine the actual results of advertising from the standpoint of consumers' interests.

While viewing the matter from these angles, it is well to bear in mind that the interests of consumers and the interests of business are really the same in the end, although in the same transaction it might appear that the one may benefit at the expense of the other. Consumers want better goods, lower prices, more efficient distribution. Business wants the benefits of more sales volume, which it can only be providing better goods, lower prices through more efficient distribution.

If both get what they want the result will be greater production, more employment, higher wages, and a more satisfactory living for all.

Now, what does advertising have to do with all this? Advertising is an important part of the work which business has to do in getting its goods sold. Strange as it may perhaps seem, goods have to be sold, and it takes a lot of effort to sell them.

If all salesmen were to stop home, and if there were no advertising and no mail-order catalogues, and if the vegetable store were to stop crying his cabbage if all selling effort were to stop today on the order of some dictator, what would happen? Surely as the sun will rise tomorrow, we would find a direct plunge into the deepest and darkest depression ever seen or imagined.

If anyone doubts this, let us reflect for a moment on our big geared industrial system and the forces that make it go. It is a far different proposition from handicraft system of long ago.

From ancient times through American Colonial era, not many goods were being made to satisfy the most elementary wants of people, and anyone who could make a useful article had no trouble finding a buyer. But in modern production era our efficient factories and farms are geared to provide for a great many more than the elementary needs.

LIGHT GETS A WORKOUT

A technician in a hospital laboratory looks through microscope, sees the image of a deadly microbe magnified five hundred, a thousand, even two thousand five hundred times. "Tuberculosis" he says.

A metallographer in an automobile factory looks through a similar microscope, notes the size of the grains in a piece of steel. "They're too big," he says. Mentally he adds, "a shaft of that steel would break after a hundred miles."

A physicist directs the light of a star through prisms and breaks it up into rainbow hues—its spectrum. "There are sodium, calcium, iron, silicon and hydrogen in that star," he says, as he looks at the telltale bands.

Thousands roar at the track as the noses of two horses cross the line at what seems to be the same instant. Which won? Nobody knows until a highspeed motion picture camera shows a few minutes later that "Silver Heels" won by half an inch.

A surveyor squints through a theodolite at a target three hundred feet away, waves his hands as a signal to move on, and makes a note. He is measuring a piece of real estate worth a thousand dollars a front foot with an accuracy beyond the tape.

A lighthouse on a rocky point flashes in the darkness every thirty seconds. "Cape Martin," says the captain to his first officer, who veers off a point or two.

How are these miracles of bacteriology, metallography, navigation, chemical analysis of distant starstuff performed? There is one answer. And the answer is precious optical glass.

All the thousands of instruments that magnify, focus or analyze light depend on optical glass. For glass bends light. Every piece of glass that is not mathematically flat bends the light that passes through it. That always happens when light passes from air to water and out again or from one medium to another. Look at a

Texas Banks Make 557,000 Loans Last Half of Year 1940

Twenty-five per cent of the banks in Texas made more than 557,000 loans totaling $809,000,000 to business firms and individuals throughout the state during the second half of 1940, according to the semi-annual survey of bank lending activity made by the Research Council of the American Bankers Association.

The A. B. A. loan survey was participated in by 207 Texas banks, or 25 per cent of the 832 banks in the state.

These 207 banks reported that they made between July 1 and December 31, 1940:

388,067 new loans	$288,382,707
167,092 renewals of loans totaling	315,012,133
2,084 new mortgage loans totaling	5,689,865
557,243	$609,084,705

The survey showed that business firms in the state used less than half of the "confirmed open lines of credit" maintained for their use on the books of banks. A total of 30 banks in the larger centers of the state reported that they carried on their books $77,540,450 in "open lines of credit offered to and kept available for regular borrowers for use as needed by them. Of this amount $34,833,420 or 45 per cent was used.

The average number of new loans made per bank during the six months period under review was 1,875 and the average size of loan was $743.

The average number of loans renewed per bank was 807 and the average renewal was for $1,885.

The average number of new mortgage loans made per bank was 10 and the average new mortgage made was for $2,730.

spoon in a glass of water: the continuous line of the handle is not straight as it passes from the water to the air.

Optical experts have learned how to control the bending of light. They can make lens, as you know, which will bend all the rays of the sun to a point so that the heat in them will set fire to paper. Or they can bring the moon within twenty-five miles of the earth. Or they can make a lighthouse send out flashing fingers of light that can be seen twenty miles.

What means very much to you and me, light can correct the defect of the eye when it is properly bent. For the lens of the eye is a light-bender too—the only light bender that can adjust itself automatically, so that we can read a book at twenty inches, or see stars by light that left them when Columbus discovered America and that has only just reached the earth. That adjusting power begins to fail in

The Gospel at the Gates of Eden
Text: "He shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel."—Genesis 3:15.

The hope of the coming Redeemer was wrapped up in the pronouncement of the judgment that would fall on the head of man's seducer. The woman's seed would bruise him to his eventual disfigurement; but He would suffer the piercing of His heel in doing so. It would be a costly victory.

We have here (1) the Redeemer's first advent in lowly form; (2) the Redeemer's sufferings as the fruit of the enmity of Satan against the virgin-born; (3) the Redeemer's second advent in power and glory when His enemies

This is the Fifth Sunday of the month. Therefore, we will have Sunday School and preaching at both Margaret and Thalia Methodist Churches. I will preach at Margaret at 10 a. m. and at Thalia at 11 a. m. and Sunday night I will speak at Margaret at 8 p. m.

There are four reasons as to why I want every member to attend these services. First, it is our duty to fulfill our pledge to publicly worship God by assembling ourselves together. Second, I have something I want to say to you. Third, we have been rained out of five of the last nine Sundays and it is time we all get together again. Fourth, Mrs. Culbertson and I are leaving Monday for a conference of ministers and other religious workers at Union Theological Seminary in New York and would like to feel while away that all is well with the churches.

In leaving I realize that there are many things yet to be done and by our churches. Ever yours,
W. B. FITZGERALD, Pastor.

Christian Science Services
"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 29.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see."

The first sinners were thus divinely clothed, and grace has and will continue so to do till the last sinner saved by grace is brought in.

This then is the first prophecy concerning the Messiah, the gospel at the gate of the Garden of Eden, which has become the germ out of which all messianic prophecy has sprung. Is it any wonder that Abel should next bring an offering which also spoke of a vicarious death as the ground of his acceptance before God? God smiled upon Abel's altar because there He saw the type of Him whose obedience unto death would one day send up its sweet savor to God on behalf of disobedient man. That blood-stained altar was a shadow of the cross of Calvary.

Alas, many prefer the way of Cain, rejecting the atoning sacrifice and the righteousness wrought out by Another, going about to establish their own righteousness, and refusing to submit to the righteousness of God. When at length we come to the end of our own self-made righteousness, we glory in that righteous Branch of David's lineage, "the Lord our Righteousness," even in Christ whom God has made righteousness to all who believe in His name.

the salvation of our God" (Isaiah 52:10).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne" (Revelation 3:21).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The understanding of Truth and Love, the Principle which works out the ends of eternal good and destroys both faith in evil and the practice of evil, leads to the discernment of the divine idea" (page 561).

The much talked-about "Youth's Caravan" will be here for the services Sunday, June 29, and will take part in the Sunday School and morning service. The evening services will be conducted by this company of young college boys and girls. You will find the detailed routine for the week given elsewhere in this issue of The Foard County News. These services through the week are adapted to the needs of the young people but anyone wishing to attend may sit in and find the programs interesting. There will be one discussion group for adult workers with youth that will be especially interesting to those with official positions in the youths division and those persons having young people in their homes. This discussion group will be guided by Miss Jewell Posey, who has had extended experience in this type of work. These meetings are not held behind closed doors, but you will understand that they have been built around the needs of young people. No attempt is made to indoctrinate but to equip for practical Christian service.

New Sunday School literature will be on hand Sunday for distribution. Begin the quarter with us on July 6th, with a prepared lesson. This quarter marks the closing out of the literature under the former Southern Methodist Church. In October the literature is much improved in attractiveness and the content more timely.

Please, those of you receiving a letter last week with a blank formula to be filled out. Won't you return them immediately? This information is much needed in correcting our membership register.

Evening services during summer, weather permitting, will be held on the lawn east of the church. You will enjoy cool evenings in service in beautiful setting.

What is advertising, anyway?

A lot has been written about advertising.

A lot of speeches have been made about it.

But the whole fact in a nutshell is—advertising is simply a time-saver.

It saves time for the man or woman who wants to buy something—and for the store or factory with something to sell.

And like most time-savers, it's a money-saver too.

Advertising—

of the people, and it is necessary to devote some effort to finding customers and persuading them to buy.

People don't automatically buy new washing machines and improved refrigerators just because they need them.

Think of the millions of men, women and children who have whiter, better teeth because advertisers persuaded them to take better care of their teeth and to visit the dentist regularly.

It is easy to see that a large part of the current volume of buying by consumers is the direct result of salesmanship and advertising.

fall off, the effect is immediately felt in the stores and factories, and at once industry is forced into a low gear.

So far as advertising by itself is concerned, we cannot think of it as anything but just a part of the whole selling effort of business.

Companies that advertise consistently do so because this gives them a quicker and more economical method of distributing goods.

This fact, that advertising is comparatively a low-cost form of selling, is an important point for consumers, and it is not always clearly understood.

Looking at it this way, we can see that advertising saves money in selling just like the purchase of an improved machine often saves money in manufacturing.

There is a new invention. Let us say, for example, that we have produced a new kind of stocking made of synthetic fiber.

Our modern business system, with its marvelous capacity to serve consumers, literally depends upon advertising as one of the forces necessary to keep it in motion.

It will cost a great deal of money to build a factory, and additional money must be spent to organize and operate a sales force.

But we can't do this unless there is a large demand for the product at the very beginning of our manufacturing operations.

This is an actual account of an existing product. It illustrates how necessary advertising is in the important work of introducing something new.

There are many other ways in which advertising has become indispensable, both to business and to consumers.

Advertising also promotes a competition that makes manufacturers and merchants strive harder than ever to anticipate consumers' wants, and to give them more for their money.

Our modern business system, with its marvelous capacity to serve consumers, literally depends upon advertising as one of the forces necessary to keep it in motion.

That is why business must advertise.

J. Edgar Kimsey Receives Discharge

A letter received from J. Edgar Kimsey of Texas states that he has received an honorable discharge from the 142nd Infantry at Camp Bowie and is now getting ready to demonstrate a mechanical invention at Stamford's Texas Cowboy Reunion July 3, 4, and 5. He is a partner in the company having the patent of this appliance and he expects to make Crowell his headquarters after the Stamford show. His territory is from the Bankhead Highway north and Crowell will be about the central point.

In his letter Mr. Kimsey says: "The mechanical device I will try to distribute will be sold through hardware stores and is already used extensively in this section. The most common use here in the sheep country is the matter of pumping water wells during still periods when windmills fail. It does away with expensive and troublesome gasoline engines that have been rather a nuisance in the past. It is also used to saw wood, mix concrete, bale hay, crush rock, and many other uses. It is being introduced in oil well pumping with electric motor, but is as yet experimental along that line. If I prove half as good as the thing I sell, I'm sure I'll get along."
