Cotton Producers Have Until Oct. 1 to Repay Loans

Foard County cotton producers with 1938, 1939 and 1940 loan cotton have until October 1, 1941, to repay loans and redeem cotton pledges, Grady Halbert, chairman of the Foard County AAA committee has announced.

All cotton not redeemed by this time will be placed in pools as provided by the loan agreement and sold by the Commodity Credit Corporation after March 1, 1942.

Unredeemed cotton from each crop will be placed in separate pools with the producers retaining title. When the cotton is sold in each pool, net proceeds will be distributed among the producers in proportion to their interests.

Mr. Halbert said. The net proceeds, if any, would be distributed after deduction of all advances and accrued costs, including storage, insurance and handling charges.

When unredeemed cotton is placed in the pool, the AAA official said, no payments will be made to producers and it cannot be sold during the time it is in the pool.

Recent reports indicate that Texas cotton growers have 77,047 bales of cotton outstanding on the 1938 crop and 350,135 bales on the 1940 crop.

Producers who are interested in selling their present equities should redeem their cotton before October 1 since it is possible it will not be sold until sometime after March 1, 1942, Mr. Halbert said.

Good potato salad tastes better when slices or wedges of ripe olives are added. By using a clean sheet of plain wrapping paper to roll pies and pastry on, a lot of cleaning up can be avoided. To remove fresh fruit stains from table linen, stretch the stained part over a bowl and pour boiling water over it.

"ASK US ANOTHER" COME ON ... try your hand at this electric quiz

Q. How much out of each dollar of living expense does the average West Texas family spend for Electric Service? A. In most homes less than two cents. This not only lights the house—it also runs the appliances. Washes and irons clothes, cleans the rugs, runs the radio and the refrigerator, toasts the bread, etc. The average family in this country spends about 21 times as much for food as for electricity; 11 times as much for housing; 8 times as much for clothing; and 5 times as much for transportation. Q. Mrs. Jones says that household electric rates have been cut about in half during the last 10-15 years. Mrs. Smith says they are about the same as they used to be. Who is right? A. Mrs. Jones is right. Your electric rate today is about half as much as it was just a few years ago. Today you get about twice as much electricity for the same money. Q. What has made reduction in electric rates possible? A. The American way of business operation of Your Electric Servant. Just as business operation of automobile factories has succeeded in giving us today a better automobile for less money than 10-15 years ago, so has business operation of this company succeeded in bringing better service to more and more people at less and less cost. Q. What do we mean by "business operation?" A. Business Operation means employment of men and women trained and experienced in rendering service free from the influence of political control. Our organization of more than 1,000 people average around 10 years of experience with this company alone. Department heads, providing leadership and guidance in all work, have been with the company from 15 to 25 years. The training of all has been centered on serving YOU better at lower cost. They are not dependent on political votes to hold their jobs. Letters from the People: ... "Today a fully equipped electric home may be enjoyed on a modest budget. Our home now uses two and a half times as much service as we used to, for which we pay considerably less money. Thanks to the West Texas Utilities for better-than-ever service and for the taxes you pay and the jobs you create." —MRS. FRED WILLIAMS, San Angelo, Texas West Texas Utilities Company

As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. Be strong and of good courage.—Joshua 1:5-6.

A reader of this paper submits the following contribution which he requests be printed. There are two groups of people in this country today. One group holds to the idea that this war is none of our business, that we have nothing at stake, should give no aid whatsoever to Great Britain and have nothing to fight for. The other group believes that we do have something at stake, that Hitler is a threat to our way of life, and because he is a threat to our way of life he should be destroyed. Twenty years from now we will know which of these groups is right, the group that believes that Hitler should be defeated or the group that thinks it makes no difference to us who is the victor. It represents a situation in which one assumes a grave responsibility in taking a stand that might influence others. There is a great deal at stake. Our whole future is wrapped up in what this country does.

This country is soon going to learn whether or not a government can control prices and keep them within reason. At the present moment every effort is being made by the government to hold prices in line. Rising prices are somewhat like rising flood waters. Once they break over the dyke, control is impossible. The secret of price control lies in preventing their ever making the first break. Even those in charge of price control except some rises. Their hope is to keep the rises that do come, in line. Legislation will probably be invoked where there is a tendency for certain prices to start ahead.

A good many laws have been passed designed to redistribute the wealth of the country and to take from the haves and give to the have nots. The law will help in some instances but regardless of the number of laws passed there will always be those who never have anything, can't keep a job, and are always on the ragged edge. There is no substitute for good management of one's personal affairs no more than there is a substitute for good management in business.

Military men do not believe that Hitler will attempt any invasion of the United States but these same authorities state that the Panama Canal could be easily bombed and destroyed by a bomber from Dakar, Africa. One well placed bomb would render the canal useless and make impractical the transfer of any part of our navy from one ocean to the other.

A town expresses above everything else its leaders. If the leadership of a town is energetic, unselfish and resourceful the town will go ahead and make a name for itself in the locality in which it is located. If it lacks leadership, or the leadership lacks energy, is inspired too much by selfish motives, the town will never distinguish itself for anything. It will merely be another spot on the map with so many filling stations, so many people, so many stores, etc. Towns are a lot like individuals that way.

The schedule for the new income tax bill which is being worked over in Congress and which is assured of passage, provides that single persons will pay income taxes next year as follows: On $1,000 net income, $15; $2,000 net income, $110; $5,000 net income, $475; $10,000 net income, $1,500. A married man with two children will be taxed as follows: On $3,000 net income, $11; $5,000 net income, $200. These amounts are approximate.

The economic warfare against Japan will be extended rapidly. The list of supplies needful that this country has furnished Japan will be sharply reduced. Japan is going to be made to feel very definitely that it is to her best interests to keep on the good side of America. She is going to be made to see that she can't flirt with Hitler and keep in good standing with this country.

The government should set up an organization for the benefit of small business. In the hurry of a big defense program little business is going to be crowded out because it cannot make itself heard. As far as possible every small business in the country that can be of any aid in the defense program should be put to work. The rush of defense will be over one of these days and there will be a need for these little plants in their several communities.

The new tax schedule now being worked over in Congress is designed to reduce to a minimum the number of millionaires created by war and defense industry. It has been discovered that it is difficult to control the amount of profit made in these industries, but comparatively easy to take it away from those who make it, by taxes.

The manner in which some folks keep up their premises suggests that they are owned by an out-of-town man who had no interest in the town. It costs nothing to keep the grass mowed and the weeds down. Even a house in need of paint is improved with a well kept lawn.

The production of automobiles will be cut down during the coming year. How much no one yet knows. The prediction is that the cut will be from 25 per cent to 70 per cent. Within a year new cars will be scarce, and the used car business will be good.

Those in the know say that the soundest advice that can be given now is for everyone to practice economy and thrift and get ready for the squeeze that is sure to come later on as the nations are drawn more and more into the defense effort.

Remember when we used to think the government was extravagant for giving away a few packages of garden seed.

The man who really thirsts after knowledge will never have his thirst fully quenched.

ISM HORN OF PLENTY

The calling of the young men to the army and to places in the defense industries has opened up a lot of jobs to young women. In some sections young women are taking over the filling station jobs formerly held by men. Station owners say that these young women pump gasoline, check the oil and the air, and clean wind shields every bit as well as the young men, and get along as well or better with the customers. There isn't any reason why young women shouldn't be so employed when necessary for the general welfare. Recently a class of twenty-five young women started in on a course of instruction in a western airplane plant with the understanding that in six weeks they would be given employment on the same basis as men. Such healthful employment is going to make of the girls who engage in it sturdy, self-reliant young people who will be able to meet most any emergency in a busy world.

An order has been issued by the OPM prohibiting the processing of any raw silk except for defense industries. The order, it is estimated, will effect 170,000 workers engaged in the manufacture of silk hosiery and silk fabrics. This is but the beginning. Similar orders are to be issued from time to time, as scarcity develops on many items now in common use. The whole resources of the nation are gradually being drawn into the defense program. From now on these cuts will be more frequent and more drastic. There isn't enough raw materials to supply peace time and defense needs, and defense needs are going to come first. Our normal way of business and life is going to be upset in many ways during the coming year.

When a man resorts to extravagant and untrue statements to present his news it's a pretty good sign he isn't sincere and doesn't believe in his representations. A worthy cause, in which one sincerely believes, doesn't require any misrepresentation to present it.

Referring to that Yoo-Hoo incident it is to be noted that it was the soldier boys who had to walk back from their buggy ride.

The greatest peril the country faces today is the contending political groups which try to out do each other in the matter of offering bigger old age and bigger relief checks. These fellows between them are going to bankrupt the taxpayers of the country and fill their souls with discouragement. What is there about a man with political ambitions that prompts him to scuttle the ship, if necessary, to enable him to climb to a place of political preferment. Such a man is not a patriot and is not inspired by patriotic motives.

With the invasion of Russia by Hitler we have the Nazis and the Communists fighting each other. This is as it should be, it seems. Let's hope that they keep it up until they are both worn out. We can think of nothing that the world needs less of today than these two isms.

It is being suggested that those who know they will have a sizable income tax to pay begin now to prepare for it by buying tax savings certificates which may be turned in later on taxes. They will bear a small rate of interest.

Military men adhere to the belief that Hitler will eventually defeat Russia, possibly in September. The campaign, it is believed, will make impossible an attempt to invade Britain this fall and winter.

Farm wages are the highest in history. Because of the increase in farm industry, the employment of more power machinery on the farm, and farms limited to what one man can handle.

Some women, like some men, always seem to know all the latest gossip. It has never been decided whether the ability to get hold of all the late gossip is natural or acquired.

Praise some folks a little and you stimulate them to still greater achievements. Praise others ever so little and you so swell them up with conceit that it destroys the good they might otherwise accomplish.

What We Think

(By Frank Dixon)

I can well remember, as no doubt many of my readers can, when life national and international, seemed comparatively simple. Things moved along in the even tenor of their way and the problems that confront the individual and the nation seemed comparatively simple of solution.

Formulas for success and the future were fairly well standardized. They had become to secure of the fact that conditions were and had been for many years more or less static and the application of a certain formula to a given set of facts would produce a given result.

Under such conditions a young graduate could look out upon his or her world of tomorrow and tell pretty well what would be its conditions and problems that would have to be met and what formula would need to be applied for their solution.

How different is this today. Within the last twenty-five years more upheavals, more turning over, more changing around and about, have taken place than took place in the two hundred years that preceded.

No one, not even the most astute students of history and human conduct can predict or hazard a guess as to what the future will be or what the world of tomorrow will be like. Only one thing is certain and that is that we are never going back again to the simple, peaceful, easy going days of even twenty-five years ago.

The change that has come in many ways is the natural change that comes in the growth of a race too energetic, too ambitious to remain static. As governments become older and territories become over-populated, and natural resources prove inadequate, and the economic order becomes complex, our problems multiply and will continue to multiply. The world, instead of becoming more simple and leisurely is going to become more complex and more hurried. It's problems and the problems of the individual are going to come more and more difficult of solution.

What of the problem of America after the war? Assuming that England is victorious and Hitler crushed our national and our international problems are not going to be solved. On the contrary we are going to be more complex than they ever have been. We are going to see isolationism relegated to the scrap heap. I am convinced that there is going to be less place in the world of tomorrow for isolationism than there is today. It's passing is the natural trend of a daily shrinking world and a social order that daily becomes more complicated.

We have our great problem to solve after the war in adjusting ourselves to the pursuits of peace and gearing the defense machine to the needs of peace time pursuits. The problem of employment and the maintenance of a standard of living entirely out of line with the rest of the world is a problem the solution of which is by no means sure or certain.

What of Europe after the war? Problems such as have never faced mankind will rise here, and whether we will it or not, we have a stake—a big stake—in their peaceful settlement, because whatever the world of tomorrow may be we all have to live and work in it. It is still our world.

STOP TWO-WHEELED ACCIDENTS. BEGS NOTED SAFETY EXPERT

Fifty per cent of the persons killed in bicycle accidents are children between the ages of 5 and 14. Paul W. Kearney, noted safety expert, points out in the current issue of The Rotarian magazine. Over 1,000 youngsters have been killed and over 51,000 injured in such accidents in the last three years, he reports.

The fault is not entirely that of the bicycle rider. The fault is largely lack of stress on what Mr. Kearney calls "The three E's"—Enforcement, Education, and Engineering. Few cities and towns, only about 150, have studied the "bike problem" at all, and these have been rewarded by an immediate drop in accidents.

The third "E," Engineering, is of necessity slow and expensive, but enforcement and education can be readily put into practice. Requiring registration of bicycles is a helpful practice, but only if it is used to enforce the laws pertaining to bicycles and used to report infractions of the law and common sense. Many towns that require tail lights or reflectors for "bikes" ignore the ordinance and permit bicycle riders to pedal after dark with no sort of light to protect themselves—or to protect the motorist who cannot easily see a dark object against a dark field.

Safety lanes in schools have disclosed that few bicycles are up to mechanical safety standard. The first day of the test lane at Steinmetz High School in Chicago, only three machines passed. Most rejections were for lack of lights or horns.

Several communities have special "bicycle traffic courts," administered by youths themselves with the co-operation of the authorities. Many of these use the police to serve summonses, but the actual trial and admonition is by youth of high school age. Penalties are usually attendance at a traffic school for riders conducted by the police or safety engineers working with the police.

SAFETY SLOGANS

The cost of safety is only thought. The best body guard is a careful habit.

Since gold and silver were discovered at Cripple Creek, Colo. in 1891, over $400,000,000 in minerals has been extracted from the mine there. Operations were stopped when water flooded the lower levels of the mines. A tunnel 1/2 miles long, 10 feet wide, and 10 feet high was recently completed at a cost of $2,000,000 to drain the water from the lower level of the mines. It is estimated that there remains over $13,000,000 in ore that can now be removed as a result of the drainage afforded by the tunnel.

As a means of relieving the oil shortage on the eastern seaboard caused by the transfer to England, Erle P. Halliburton, Okla., industrialist has suggested that semi-submerged oil barges be built of 100,000 barrel capacity with tapered ends of such simplified design that they could be built in four days. Barges of this type Mr. Halliburton believes could be towed behind tugs and by means of them the eastern seaboard oil shortage relieved. The Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J., thinks enough of the idea to give it a test.

As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee; I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. Be strong and of good courage.—Joshua 1:5-6.

A reader of this paper submits the following contribution which he requests be printed. There are two groups of people in this country today. One group holds to the idea that this war is none of our business, that we have nothing at stake, should give no aid whatsoever to Great Britain and have nothing to fight for. The other group believes that we do have something at stake, that Hitler is a threat to our way of life, and because he is a threat to our way of life he should be destroyed. Twenty years from now we will know which of these groups is right, the group that believes that Hitler should be defeated or the group that thinks it makes no difference to us who is the victor. It represents a situation in which one assumes a grave responsibility in taking a stand that might influence others. There is a great deal at stake. Our whole future is wrapped up in what this country does.

This country is soon going to learn whether or not a government can control prices and keep them within reason. At the present moment every effort is being made by the government to hold prices in line. Rising prices are somewhat like rising flood waters. Once they break over the dyke, control is impossible. The secret of price control lies in preventing their ever making the first break. Even those in charge of price control except some rises. Their hope is to keep the rises that do come, in line. Legislation will probably be invoked where there is a tendency for certain prices to spurt ahead.

A good many laws have been passed designed to redistribute the wealth of the country and to take from the haves and give to the have nots. The law will help in some instances but regardless of the number of laws passed there will always be those who never have anything, can't keep a job, and are always on the ragged edge. There is no substitute for good management of one's personal affairs no more than there is a substitute for good management in business.

Military men do not believe that Hitler will attempt any invasion of the United States but these same authorities state that the Panama Canal could be easily bombed and destroyed by a bomber from Dakar, Africa. One well placed bomb would render the canal useless and make impractical the transfer of any part of our navy from one ocean to the other.

A town expresses above everything else its leadership. If the leadership of a town is energetic, unselfish and resourceful the town will go ahead and make a name for itself in the locality in which it is located. If it lacks leadership, or the leadership lacks energy, is inspired too much by selfish motives, the town will never distinguish itself for anything. It will merely be another spot on the map with so many filling stations, so many people, so many stores, etc. Towns are a lot like individuals that way.

The schedule for the new income tax bill which is being worked over in Congress and which is assured of passage, provides that single persons will pay income taxes next year as follows: On $1,000 net income, $15; $2,000 net income, $110; $5,000 net income, $475; $10,000 net income, $1,500. A married man with two children will be taxed as follows: On $3,000 net income, $11; $5,000 net income, $200. These amounts are approximate.

The economic warfare against Japan will be extended rapidly. The list of supplies needful that this country has furnished Japan will be sharply reduced. Japan is going to be made to feel very definitely that it is her best interests to keep on the good side of America. She is going to be made to see that she can't flirt with Hitler and keep in good standing with this country.

The government should set up an organization for the benefit of small business. In the hurry of a big defense program little business is going to be crowded out because it cannot make itself heard. As far as possible every small business in the country that can be of any aid in the defense program should be put to work. The rush of defense will be over one of these days and there will be a need for these little plants in their several communities.

The new tax schedule now being worked over in Congress is designed to reduce to a minimum the number of millionaires created by war and defense industry. It has been discovered that it is difficult to control the amount of profit made in these industries, but comparatively easy to take it away from those who make it, by taxes.

The manner in which some folks keep up their premises suggests that they are owned by an out-of-town man who had no interest in the town. It costs nothing to keep the grass mowed and the weeds down. Even a house in need of paint is improved with a well kept lawn.

The production of automobiles will be cut down during the coming year. How much no one yet knows. The prediction is that the cut will be from 25 per cent to 70 per cent. Within a year new cars will be scarce, and the used car business will be good.

Those in the know say that the soundest advice that can be given now is for everyone to practice economy and thrift and get ready for the squeeze that is sure to come later on as the nations are drawn more and more into the defense effort.

Remember when we used to think the government was extravagant for giving away a few packages of garden seed.

The man who really thirsts after knowledge will never have his thirst fully quenched.

ISM HORN OF PLENTY

The calling of the young men to the army and to places in the defense industries has opened up a lot of jobs to young women. In some sections young women are taking over the filling station jobs formerly held by men. Station owners say that these young women pump gasoline, check the oil and the air, and clean wind shields every bit as well as the young men, and get along as well or better with the customers. There isn't any reason why young women shouldn't be so employed when necessary for the general welfare. Recently a class of twenty-five young women started in on a course of instruction in a western airplane plant with the understanding that in six weeks they would be given employment on the same basis as men. Such healthful employment is going to make of the girls who engage in it sturdy, self-reliant young people who will be able to meet most any emergency in a busy world.

An order has been issued by the OPM prohibiting the processing of any raw silk except for defense industries. The order, it is estimated, will effect 170,000 workers engaged in the manufacture of silk hosiery and silk fabrics. This is but the beginning. Similar orders are to be issued from time to time, as scarcity develops on many items now in common use. The whole resources of the nation are gradually being drawn into the defense program. From now on these cuts will be more frequent and more drastic. There isn't enough raw materials to supply peace time and defense needs, and defense needs are going to come first. Our normal way of business and life is going to be upset in many ways during the coming year.

When a man resorts to extravagant and untrue statements to present his news it's a pretty good sign he isn't sincere and doesn't believe in his representations. A worthy cause, in which one sincerely believes, doesn't require any misrepresentation to present it.

Referring to that Yoo-Hoo incident it is to be noted that it was the soldier boys who had to walk back from their buggy ride.

The greatest peril the country faces today is the contending political groups which try to outdo each other in the matter of offering bigger old age and bigger relief checks. These fellows between them are going to bankrupt the taxpayers of the country and fill their souls with discouragement. What is there about a man with political ambitions that prompts him to scuttle the ship, if necessary, to enable him to climb to a place of political preferment. Such a man is not a patriot and is not inspired by patriotic motives.

With the invasion of Russia by Hitler we have the Nazis and the Communists fighting each other. This is as it should be, it seems. Let's hope that they keep it up until they are both worn out. We can think of nothing that the world needs less of today than these two isms.

It is being suggested that those who know they will have a sizable income tax to pay begin now to prepare for it by buying tax savings certificates which may be turned in later on taxes. These will be handled by bankers. They will bear a small rate of interest.

Farm wages are the highest in history. Because of the increase two changes are coming in the farm industry, the employment of more power machinery on the farm, and farms limited to what one man can handle.

Some women, like some men, always seem to know all the latest gossip. It has never been decided whether the ability to get hold of all the late gossip is natural or acquired.

Praise some folks a little and you stimulate them to still greater achievements. Praise others ever so little and you so swell them up with conceit that it destroys the good they might otherwise accomplish.

What We Think

(By Frank Dixon) I can well remember, as no doubt many of my readers can, when life national and international, seemed comparatively simple. Things moved along in the even tenor of their way and the problems that confront the individual and the nation seemed comparatively simple of solution.

Formulas for success and the future were fairly well standardized. They had become to the cause of the fact that conditions were and had been for many years more or less static and the application of a certain formula to a given set of facts would produce a given result.

Under such conditions a young graduate could look out upon his or her world of tomorrow and tell pretty well what would be its conditions and problems that would have to be met and what formula would need to be applied for their solution.

How different is this today. Within the last twenty-five years more upheavals, more turning over, more changing around and about, have taken place than took place in the two hundred years that preceded.

No one, not even the most astute students of history and human conduct can predict or hazard a guess as to what the future will be or what the world of tomorrow will be like. Only one thing is certain and that is that we are never going back again to the simple, peaceful, easy going days of even twenty-five years ago.

The change that has come in many ways is the natural change that comes in the growth of a race too energetic, too ambitious to remain static. As governments become older and territories become over-populated, and natural resources prove inadequate, and the economic order becomes complex, our problems multiply and will continue to multiply. The world, instead of becoming more simple and leisurely is going to become more complex and more hurried. It's problems and the problems of the individual are going to come more and more difficult of solution.

What of the problem of America after the war? Assuming that England is victorious and Hitler crushed our national and our international problems are not going to be solved. On the contrary they are going to be more complex than they ever have been. We are going to see isolationism relegated to the scrap heap. I am convinced that there is going to be less place in the world of tomorrow for isolationism than there is today. It's passing is the natural trend of a daily shrinking world and a social order that daily becomes more complicated.

We have our great problem to solve after the war in adjusting ourselves to the pursuits of peace and gearing the defense machine to the needs of peace time pursuits. The problem of employment and the maintenance of a standard of living entirely out of line with the rest of the world is a problem the solution of which is by no means sure or certain.

What of Europe after the war? Problems such as have never faced mankind will rise here, and whether we will or not, we have a stake—a big stake—in their peaceful settlement, because whatever the world of tomorrow may be we all have to live and work in it. It is still our world.

STOP TWO-WHEELED ACCIDENTS, BEGS NOTED SAFETY EXPERT

Fifty per cent of the persons killed in bicycle accidents are children between the ages of 5 and 14, Paul W. Kearney, noted safety expert, points out in the current issue of The Rotarian magazine. Over 1,000 youngsters have been killed and over 51,000 injured in such accidents in the last three years, he reports. The fault is not entirely that of the bicycle rider. The fault is largely lack of stress on what Mr. Kearney calls "The three E's"—Enforcement, Education, and Engineering. Few cities and towns, only about 150, have studied the "bike problem" at all, and these have been rewarded by an immediate drop in accidents.

The third "E," Engineering, is of necessity slow and expensive, but enforcement and education can be readily put into practice. Requiring registration of bicycles is a helpful practice, but only if it is used to enforce the laws pertaining to bicycles and used to report infractions of the law and common sense. Many towns that require tail lights or reflectors for "bikes" ignore the ordinance and permit bicycle riders to pedal after dark with no sort of light to protect themselves—or to protect the motorist who cannot easily see a dark object against a dark field.

Safety lanes in schools have disclosed that few bicycles are up to mechanical safety standard. The first day of the test lane at Steinmetz High School in Chicago, only three machines passed. Most rejections were for lack of lights or horns.

Several communities have special "bicycle traffic courts," administered by youths themselves with the co-operation of the authorities. Many of these use the police to serve summonses, but the actual trial and admonition is by youth of high school age. Penalties are usually attendance at a traffic school for riders conducted by the police or safety engineers working with the police.

SAFETY SLOGANS

The cost of safety is only thought. The best body guard is a careful habit.

Since gold and silver were discovered at Cripple Creek, Colo., in 1891, over $400,000,000 in gold has been extracted from the mines there. Operations were stopped when water flooded the lower levels of the mines. A tunnel 10 miles long, 10 feet wide, and 10 feet high was recently completed at a cost of $2,000,000 to drain the water from the lower level of the mines. It is estimated that there remains over $13,000,000 in ore that can now be removed as a result of the drainage afforded by the tunnel.

ADVERTISING ISN'T PERFECT Some advertisements are better than others, just as some show windows are better than others. Or as some salesmen are better than others. So advertising isn't perfect, but it does a better job than anything else yet discovered. It tells you what is to be had, and where to buy it, and is the cheapest way of doing this job. As a means of relieving the oil shortage on the eastern seaboard caused by the transfer to England, Erie P. Halliburton, Okla., industrialist has suggested that semi-submerged oil barges be built of 100,000 barrel capacity with tapered ends of such simplified design that they could be built in four days. Barges of this type Mr. Halliburton believes could be towed behind tugs and by means of them the eastern seaboard oil shortage relieved. The Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J., thinks enough of the idea to give it a test.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee. They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power; To make known to the sons of men his mighty acts, and the glorious majesty of his kingdom" (Psalms 145:10-12).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is Mind, and God is infinite; hence all is Mind. On this statement rests the Science of being, and the Principle of this Science is divine, demonstrating harmony and immortality" (page 492).

The Unwithering Leaf

Text: "His leaf also shall not wither."—Psalm 138. The First Psalm imparts much spiritual counsel. We would do well to drink deeply of every verse. But we miss the greatest benefit if we fail to start the psalm with "Blessed is that man" and see in it a description of Jesus Christ.

Christ appears as a fruitful tree, which at no season proves barren. Planted by streams of water, no hot temperature can affect even its leaves. All around may be drought, but His personality is unaffected; His sufficiency is inexhaustible.

We may have seen the Son of man wearied in the heat of the day, but if so it was not due to lack of strength, but rather to higher strength of compassion for us who could not but be weary. Because man and women of earth wilt and wither in the heat of the day His condescension showed Him weary.

We may have seen the Son of hibit which could win, but to show that Satan could not win. Having no sin and being enduring, yet in His compassions enduring temptation for ever long the temptation was ever repeated. He is able to overcome them that are tempted. We may have seen Him but He ever insisted that we could wither, much less fall, that life which is His, said, "I lay down my life for myself, no man taketh it from me. Repeatedly we are tempted of his own, there could be no temptation in Him unless He condescended to the level of the man who could not but be weary. We may have seen the Son of man tempted. To be sure, no temptation could overcome Him. When Satan met Jesus Christ in the wilderness, it was not to ex-

Dallas Mercantile National Bank is erecting a 30-story office building at Main and Ervay Streets the whole town is talking about.

Sidewalk Superintendents' Club is growing daily. 17,000 persons have been excavating from the ground stand, in its first year of operation. A unit attendant presides over the register, passes out cards and answers questions about the skyscraper. Seats and a telephone convenience of the observatory language of the members might be called for by President of the bank.

Interest is more than apparent. Almost as soon as the hard blue under the building made by a titanic steam if they want to watch, it is sheltering hundreds every day.

It was a 50-foot "upper deck" with seats and a against Texas' summer deck is very much like a Gulf Coast fishing pier. It is sheltering hundreds every day.

It was found that the 50-foot wasn't sufficient, so more were added and the Superintendents' Club membership cards have been issued to more visiting foremen than you'd imagine, and by now they're being exhibited in many points throughout the United States and some foreign countries.

Mercantile Bank officials do not claim originality in the Sidewalk Superintendents' Club—but it does seem that the quarters of the Dallas Chapter are the most spacious that have been provided heretofore and a number of new features have been added.

Des Moines, Iowa, had the first one, at the site of the Bankers Life Building. New York's Rockefeller Center had a spectators' stand. So did Boston, with the famed Milk Street financial district the gathering place, when the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company erected its new building.

The lot fronts 200 feet on Ervay Street, by 120 each on Main and Commerce—24,000 square feet in all. Height of the completed building is to be 431 feet from ground-level to top cornice. It will have 30 floors and two basements. It is scheduled for completion by December, 1942.

At the present time, the Sidewalk Superintendents are engaged in watching blasting activities, and operations of the drag-line, or steam shovel. It is difficult to determine which is the more fascinating.

The modern use of dynamite in blasting can hardly be compared with former methods. The steam shovel, weighing a mere 90,000 pounds, goes into action and with a yawning bite scoops up one-and-one-quarter cubic yards of blasted rock, turns nimbly and accurately deposits its load into a waiting truck. This performance is repeated 60 times an hour.

The average depth of excavation is to be 35 feet which will require the removal of 33,000 cubic yards of rock. Thus, it requires no figuring to determine that the members of the Sidewalk Superintendents' Club have many hours of constructive watching in store for them.

Site of the new bank structure is an historic one from the local standpoint. Upon it, for 50 years, the Dallas Post Office stood. With completion of the New Federal Building and removal of the Post Office there, the old structure stood for some time, pending sale of the lot by the Government.

Several bids were submitted, but that of the Mercantile National—$607,000 according to the deed—was finally accepted. W. Bruce Luna, Postmaster up to 1938, recalls that the Government paid $11,000 for the lot back in the '80's.

And so there's prospect that the Dallas Sidewalk Superintendents' Club, an outstanding example of Southern hospitality, will be in session for some time yet to come—until, perhaps it may be necessary to provide members with telescopes with which to pick out top-most details of "A City in the Sky"—431 feet above the street level.

Texas Registrants Urged to Learn Physical Standards

Selective Service registrants in Texas this week were urged by the State Director, General J. Watt Page, to learn the fundamental physical standards of this Nation's armed forces, consult their doctors and dentists to determine whether they conform to these standards, and to have remediable defects corrected prior to examination by local board physicians.

Pointing out that such action by registrants would constitute a distinct service to their country and to the individual registrant, General Page said that the men could not, of course, be expected to learn highly technical details of the standards. However, he said, they can acquaint themselves through their local boards with the basic requirements and, upon consultation with their own physicians or dentists, determine whether they are physically qualified according to the general standards.

Although the local boards and the armed forces are the final judges of a registrant's fitness, the director stated, registrants would be able, by following the suggested course, to make some determination of their chances of induction as physically fit without waiting to be called before a local board physician. Furthermore, he emphasized, men who learn they have physical defects and have remediable ones corrected so as to qualify themselves for training will render patriotic service to their country and improve their own health.

He said:

"Learn the minimum physical requirements as laid down by the Selective Service Regulations. Consult your family doctor or dentist, one or both, if you discover or suspect that you fall

Medicines Sold by House to House Agents Dangerous

Austin.—"Beware of house to house agents who would sell you merchandise under some high sounding name and claiming that it will cure all diseases known to affect man or beast," warns Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"By patronizing such people the general public is not only wasting its money but is often purchasing an article that may be dangerous to the safety of persons or livestock."

One of the more recent frauds uncovered by field inspectors of the State Department of Health concerns so-called "radio-active cones." Agents for this company have been covering certain sections of the State zealously, and have been selling a product that is not only worthless, but if used according to directions would be very dangerous to the public health.

False claims have been made by salesmen peddling this product that it will not only cure all diseases, but if used continuously will definitely prolong life.

Laboratory analysis reveals that this product contains radon in sufficient quantities and potency to be unsafe for children and if used by adults frequently and in high dosage would be dangerous to their health.

TAKES 3-WEEKS' COURSE

Denton, Aug. 18.—Brushing up on her home economics training to fall in line with the nutrition program in the National Defense movement, Miss Virginia Sue Crowell, teacher in Mobeetie schools, has just completed a community nutrition project in a three-weeks' refresher course in home economics at Texas State College for Women.

Fifty-nine home economics teachers, homemakers, W. P. A. lunchroom supervisors, dietitians, and demonstration agents were enrolled in the course offered at the college for the first time. "The splendid attendance shows the eagerness of Texas home economists to co-operate in this important phase of defense work," said Dr. Ercel S. Eppright, director of home economics at TSCW and teacher of the refresher course.

SPEED IS SEEING

Fighters in pursuit planes rush along at over 330 miles an hour. What is the limit? Theoretically about 750 miles an hour, which is about the speed of sound; practically about 600 miles an hour.

Streamlining has its limits. Long before 700 miles an hour is reached the air piles up on back of a wing, so that it has to be pushed along like snow that piles up in front of a shovel. The plane cannot part the air rapidly enough at a speed of over 600 miles.

Overcoming resistance—that's the whole problem of speed. Increase the speed of a locomotive from twenty to forty miles an hour and you would think that just twice as much resistance must be overcome at twenty as at forty. Actually the resistance is four times as great. Every time you double your speed you quadruple your resistance. That is why so much space is taken up by fuel-oil, boilers, engines in a four-day liner and why a record-breaking automobile, like Campbell's Bluebird, is nearly all engine.

To beat the automobile record for speed is hard. In the first place the stretches of beach along Florida and Salt Lake are the only two that are straight enough in civilized countries. And a racer must drive straight. At 300 miles an hour the slightest swerve would cause the car to turn turtle. To keep himself from swerving, because of windpressure, Campbell provided his car with a tail.

What appeared to onlookers a course as smooth as a billiard table was to him about as rough as a corduroy road. His car seemed to flutter over sand ripples. Campbell kept the finish in view by gluing his eye to a telescope trained at a target. Why the telescope? Because he was travelling faster than his brain could control his hand. Prick your finger. The sensation travels to the brain at a rate of about 100 feet a second. But Campbell was covering about 500 feet a second.

Before he knew it he would have collided with the target at the finish. He literally had to foresee seconds in advance.

It is plain enough that Campbell's eyes were fully as important as streamlining, powerful engines and stout tires in making a record. And so it is with anybody's eyes, whether the task is driving a locomotive, dropping a ten-ton mass of iron from a traveling crane at just the right spot or guiding an automobile. Sight is the surest, indeed the only guide in achieving accuracy, because the shortest path from the outer world to the brain is through the eyes.

Cemetery Funds Are Exhausted, Report Says

The funds for the up-keep of the Crowell Cemetery are exhausted and it will be necessary to discharge the sexton Sept. 1, it was announced Wednesday by the president, Mrs. N. J. Roberts. He has been employed regularly since March 20th. Complete report of president follows:

"This has been a very trying year for the sexton. The heavy rains have not only caused heavy growth of weeds and grass, but there has been much dirt to be moved and, at one time, 35 loads of dirt was brought for filling in purposes.

"Our cemetery year begins with the first of June and contributions to date have been far below normal.

"Friends understand that we have both a 'building fund' and an 'up-keep' fund, and usually designate to which they desire to contribute. The building fund has grown quite satisfactorily, however, no drive has been launched locally as yet.

"The finance chairman expects to start his drive soon, and it is hoped our building committee will not be embarrassed for lack of material to build a substantial and permanent residence to house the sexton for the Crowell Cemetery."

Latest contributions to up-keep include:

- Mrs. J. B. Rasberry $1.00
- Jno. Carter, Littlefield 1.00
- A Friend 5.00

Prevalence Typhus Fever in the State Is on the Increase

Austin.—The prevalence of typhus fever in Texas during the last week was almost three hundred per cent higher than the seven year median for the disease at this time of the year, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Whereas we could normally expect thirteen cases of typhus fever during the first week in August, actually thirty-eight cases were reported and the number continues to increase.

The rat is the animal host for the insect vector which spreads typhus, and since dry, hot weather favors the increase of fleas among the rat population, the possibilities of typhus transmission are thus increased.

Old World typhus fever has a high death rate, while the type we have in Texas, sometimes called Brill's disease, has a much lower death rate. Typhus occurs most frequently among persons who work or live in rat-infested buildings. It was this fact that led to the discovery that rats are the carriers or transmitters of the disease. It appears that the rat suffers attacks of typhus fever and that the fleas harbored by the sick rats bite man, and thus human infection results.

Although typhus is not commonly fatal, it cannot be considered lightly. The intense headache, the high fever, and the great mental depression are its most commonplace features. In common with seasickness, the patient's greatest fear is that he is not going to die. The illness generally lasts about two weeks.

The control of typhus fever is primarily dependent upon the extermination of rats. Trapping and poisoning are helpful in exterminating them, but the best results are obtained by starving them. Rat proofing of buildings where food is stored is the surest method of exterminating rats by starvation. The State Department of Health and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be glad to assist communities in their programs of exterminating this pest.

NEW BOOKS IN LIBRARY

"They Came to a River," written by Allis McKay, is a great regional novel of life in the Columbia River Valley. The author not only has a rare story telling ability, but is gifted with an unusual understanding of people.

This big novel gives one a notion why there never has been, and never is likely to be, any work recognizable as "The Great American Novel." There are, in the territorial boundaries of these United States, far too many Americans for any one novelist to tackle.

This is a book as majestic and sweeping, as variable in mood and consistent in purpose as the Columbia River itself.

The library contains several new books and new members are invited to join.

Conservation and Soil-Building Work Will Be Emphasized

When final provisions of the 1942 AAA farm program are drafted, increased emphasis will be placed on conservation and soil-building work on individual farms, A. V. Sheppard, secretary of the Foard County AAA committee, said this week.

Soil-building allowance rates, which will be the basis for determining maximum payments farmers may earn, have been announced through the Department of Agriculture. The rates will be substantially the same as in 1941.

Under the 1942 program, farmers may receive two kinds of payments with the rates for compliance and special crop allotments to be announced later. The two types of payment are: (1) a payment for carrying out approved soil-building practices, and (2) a payment for planting within special crop allotments such as wheat, cotton, rice, and peanuts.

As in former years, conservation payments to be made under the 1942 farm program are contingent on the annual appropriation authorized by Congress, the AAA official said.

Instead of a total soil-depleting allotment for the farm, there may be substituted special crop allotments covering certain feed grains in surplus areas, he said, adding that the state committee has not yet decided whether this would be necessary in Texas. Feed grains include oats, barley, rye, grain sorghums and corn.

A soil-building allowance is established for each farm on the basis of such factors as the farm's cropland, non-crop pasture land, commercial orchards and vegetables, and the participating farmer may earn his farm's allowance by carrying out approved practices.

Under the 1942 program, a farmer's allowance will be computed at either 70 cents per acre of crop land not included in special crop allotments for the farm in areas where feed grain allotments are not established, or 50 cents per acre of crop land not included in special crop allotments for the farm in areas where feed grain allotments are established. In 1941, the 70-cent rate applies only to areas generally deficient in feed, while the 50-cent rate is available in surplus feed areas. The Texas AAA committee has not yet designated areas where the different rates of payment will apply.

The rates of non-crop pasture land will be the same as those under the 1941 program, Mr. Sheppard said, and will vary by areas. Fifty cents per acre will be allowed for restoration land.

A payment of $1.30 is allowed for orchards. For commercial vegetables normally grown on the farm, the 1942 payment is $1 per acre.

From a small beginning this credit agency has grown until it has 168 branch offices, 30,000 resident reporters, 50 foreign bureaus and some 60,000 subscribers, each of whom pays a minimum of $200 a year. The constantly revised reference book lists 2,385,000 commercial names. The company's listings of business failures has been the standard economic index since 1857.
